The character can see and hear a creature, who may be at any distance. The character must succeed at a scry check to do so. The difficulty of the task depends on how well the character knows the subject and what sort of physical connection (if any) the character has to that creature. Furthermore, if the subject is on another plane, the character gets a -5 penalty on the scry check.

Knowledge	DC
None*	20
Secondhand (the character has heard of the subject)	15
Firsthand (the character has met the subject)	10
Familiar (the character know the subject well)	5

*The character must have some sort of connection to a creature the character has no knowledge of.

Connection	Scry Check Bonus
Likeness or picture	+5
Possession or garment	+8
Body part, lock of hair, nail clippings, etc.	+10

This spell creates a magical sensor located near the subject. Any creature with intelligence 12 or higher can notice the sensor by making a scry check (or an intelligence check) against DC 20.

The character may cast the following spells through a scrying spell: comprehend languages, read magic, tongues, and darkvision. The following spells have a 5% chance per caster level of operating correctly: detect magic, detect chaos, detect evil, detect good, detect law, and message.

Wizard, sorcerer, or bard focus: worth at least 1,000 gp.

Cleric focus: worth at least 100 gp.

SLEET STORM

Conjuration (creation) [cold]

Level: drd 4, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: sleet spreads 40 ft., 20 Ft. High

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: reflex partial

Spell resistance: no

Driving sleet blocks all sight (even darkvision) within it and causes the ground in the area to be icy, slowing movement to one-half normal. Additionally, any creature in sleet that attempts to move must succeed at a reflex save or fall down instead. The sleet extinguishes torches and small fires.

SPIKE STONES

Transmutation

Level: drd 4, earth 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: one 20-ft. Square/level

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: reflex partial

Spell resistance: yes

Rocky ground, stone floors, and similar surfaces shapes themselves into long, sharp points that blend into the back ground. The spike stones impede progress through an area and deal damage. Any creature moving on foot into or through the spell's area takes 1d8 points of damage for each 5 feet of movement through the spiked area. In addition, ground speed through the spell's area is reduced by half.

Any creature who sustains damage from this spell must also succeed at a reflex save or suffer injuries to its feet and legs that slow its speed by one-third. This movement penalty lasts for 24 hours or until the injured creature receives a cure spell (which also restores lost hit points). Another character can remove the penalty by taking 10 minutes to dress the injuries and succeeding at a heal check against the spell's save DC.

Spike stones is a magic trap that can't be disabled with the disable device skill.

SUMMON NATURE’S ALLY IV

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: drd 4, rgr 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons a natural creature. It appears there the character designates and acts immediately, on the character’s turn. It attacks the character’s opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the creature, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 4th-level list on the summon nature’s ally table below, 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 3rd-level list, or 1d4+1 creatures of the came type from a lower level list. All the creatures on the table are neutral unless otherwise noted.

Assassin vine
Dire ape
Dire wolf
Giant eagle	[chaotic good]
Giant owl	[neutral good]
Grig (sprite)	[without pipes, neutral good]
Lion	(animal)
Phantom fungus
Tojanida, Small
Viper, Large	(animal)

ANIMAL GROWTH

Transmutation

level: drd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: up to one animal/two levels, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

A number of animals grow to twice their normal size. This doubles each animal’s height, length, and width, increasing its weight by a factor of eight. This increase in size has a number of effects:

Hit dice: the creature’s HD double, doubling the creature’s base attack bonus and increasing its saves accordingly.

Size: the creature’s size increases one step. This increase reduces its AC (according to the new size), reduces its attack bonus (according to the new size), affects its ability to grapple, and so on. The creature gains an enlargement bonus to strength and constitution scores, and its damage with natural attacks increases. This spell does not affect colossal creatures.

When the spell ends, the creature’s hit points return to normal, and all damage the creature has taken while enlarged is divided by 2.

The spell gives the character no special means of command or influence over the enlarged animals.

ATONEMENT

Abjuration

level: clr 5, drd 5

Components: V, S, M, F, DF, XP

Casting time: 1 hour

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

This spell removes the burden of evil acts or misdeeds from the subject. The creature seeking atonement must be truly repentant and desirous of setting right its misdeeds. If the atoning creature committed the evil act unwittingly or under some form of compulsion, atonement operates normally at no cost to the character. However, in the case of a creature atoning for deliberate misdeeds and acts of knowing and willful nature, the character must intercede with the character's deity at the cost of 500 experience points in order to expunge the subject's burden. Many casters first assign a subject of this sort a quest or similar penance before casting the atonement spell on its behalf.

Atonement may be cast for one of several purposes, depending on the version selected:

Reverse magical alignment change: if a creature has had its alignment magically changed, atonement returns its alignment to its original status at no cost in experience points.

Restore class: a paladin who has lost paladin class features due to unwillingly or unwittingly committing an evil act may have paladinhood restored by this spell. Note: a paladin who willingly and deliberately commits an evil act can never regain paladinhood.

Restore cleric or druid spell powers: a cleric or druid who has lost the ability to cast spells because the character incurred the anger of the character's deity may regain spell powers by seeking atonement from another cleric of the same deity or another druid. If the transgression was intentional, the casting cleric loses 500 XP for his intercession. If the transgression was unintentional, the caster does not lose xp.

Redemption or temptation: the character may cast this spell upon a creature of an opposing alignment in order to offer it a chance to change its alignment to match the character's. The prospective subject must be present for the entire casting process. Upon completion of the spell, the subject freely chooses whether it retains its original alignment or changes to the character's alignment. No duress, compulsion, or magical influence can force the subject to take advantage of the opportunity offered if it is unwilling to abandon its old alignment. This use of the spell does not work on outsiders (or any creature incapable of changing its alignment naturally).

Focus: the focus must be worth at least 500 gp.

Xp cost: when cast for the benefit of creatures whose guilt was the result of deliberate acts, the cost to the character is 500 XP per casting (see above).

AWAKEN

Transmutation

level: drd 5

Components: V, S, DF, XP

Casting time: one day

Range: touch

Target: animal or tree touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

The character awakens a tree or animal to humanlike sentience. To succeed, the character must make a will save (DC 10 + the target's HD, or the HD the tree will have once awakened).

The awakened animal or tree is friendly toward the character. The character has no special empathy or connection with a creature the character awakens, although it serves the character in specific tasks or endeavors if the character can communicate the character's desires to it.

An awakened tree has characteristics as if it were an animated object, except that its intelligence, wisdom, and charisma scores are all 3d6. Awakened plants gain the ability to move their limbs, roots, vines, creepers, etc., and have senses similar to a human's.

An awakened animal gets 3d6 intelligence, +1d3 charisma, and +2 HD.

An awakened tree or animal can speak one language that the character knows, plus one additional language that the character knows per point of intelligence bonus (if any).

Xp cost: 250 xp.

COMMUNE WITH NATURE

Divination

Level: animal 5, drd 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: instantaneous

The character gains knowledge of the surrounding territory. The character instantly gains knowledge of up to three facts from among the following subjects: the ground or terrain, plants, minerals, bodies of water, people, general animal population, presence of woodland creatures, presence of powerful unnatural creatures, or the general state of the natural setting.

In outdoor settings, the spell operates in a radius of one mile per caster level. In natural underground settings the range is limited to 100 feet per caster level. The spell does not function where nature has been replaced by construction or settlement.

CONTROL WINDS

Transmutation

Level: air 5, drd 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 40 ft./Level

Area: 40 ft./Level radius centered on the character

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: no

The character alters wind force in the area surrounding the character. The character can make the wind blow in a certain direction or manner, increase its strength, or decrease its strength. The new wind direction and strength persist until the spell ends or the character chooses to alter his or her handiwork, which requires concentration. The character may create an "eye" of calm air up to 80 feet in diameter at the center of the area if the character so desires, and the character may choose to limit the effect to any circular area less than the character's full range.

Wind direction: the character may choose one of four basic wind

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

patterns to function over the spell's area:

A downdraft blows from the center outward in equal strength in all directions.

An updraft blows from the outer edges in toward the center in equal strength from all directions, veering upward before impinging on the eye in the center.

A rotation causes the winds to circle the center in clockwise or counterclockwise fashion.

A blast simply causes the winds to blow in one direction across the entire area from one side to the other.

Wind force: for every three caster levels, the character can increase or decrease wind force by one level of strength. Each round, a creature in the wind must make a fortitude save or suffer the effect.

Strong winds (21+ mph) make sailing difficult. A severe wind (31+ mph) causes minor ship and building damage. A windstorm (51+ mph) drives most flying creatures from the skies, uproots small trees, knocks down light wooden structures, tears off roofs, and endangers ships. Hurricane force winds (75+ mph) destroy wooden buildings, sometimes uproot even large trees, and cause most ships to founder. A tornado (175+ mph) destroys all nonfortified buildings and often uproots large trees.

CURE CRITICAL WOUNDS

Conjuration (healing)

Level: brd 4, clr 4, drd 5, healing 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will half (harmless) (see text)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

When laying the character's hand upon a living creature, the character channels positive energy that cures 4d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (up to +20).

Since undead are powered by negative energy, this spell deals damage to them instead of curing their wounds. An undead creature can attempt a will save to take half damage.

DEATH WARD

Necromancy

Level: clr 4, death 4, drd 5, pal 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject is immune to all death spells and magical death effects. The spell does not protect against other sorts of attacks, such as hit point loss, poison, petrification, or other effects even if they might be lethal.

HALLOW

Evocation [good]

Level: clr 5, drd 5

Components: V, S, M, DF

Casting time: one day

Range: touch

Area: 10-ft./Level radius emanating from the touched point

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: see text

Hallow makes a particular site, building, or structure a holy site. This has four major effects.

First, all creatures in the area are warded from attacks by evil creatures, from mental control, and from summoned or conjured creatures. All recipients get a +2 deflection bonus to AC and a +2 resistance bonus on saves. Both these bonuses apply against attacks made by evil creatures. The spell blocks any attempt to possess the warded creatures or to exercise mental control over the creatures. The protection does not prevent a spell from gaining mental control over a creature, but it prevents anyone who does so from mentally commanding the protected creature. The barrier keeps out a possessing life force but does not expel one if it is in place before the spell is cast. This effect works regardless of alignment.

The spell also prevents bodily contact by summoned or conjured creatures. This causes the natural weapon attacks of such creatures to fail and the creatures to recoil if such attacks require touching the warded creature. Good elementals and outsiders are immune to this effect. The protection against contact by summoned or conjured creatures ends if the warded creature makes an attack against or tries to force the barrier against the blocked creature. Spell resistance can allow a creature to overcome this protection and touch the warded creature.

These effects are not cumulative with protection from evil.

Second, all charisma checks to turn undead gain a +4 sacred bonus and charisma checks to command undead suffer a -4 sacred penalty. Spell resistance does not apply to this effect. (Note: this provision does not apply to the druid version of the spell.)

Third, any dead body interred in a hallowed site cannot be turned into an undead creature.

Finally, the character may choose to fix a single spell effect to the hallow site. The spell effect lasts for one year and functions throughout the entire consecrated site, regardless of the normal duration and area or effect. The character may designate whether the effect applies to all creatures, creatures who share the character's faith or alignment, or creatures who adhere to another faith or alignment. At the end of the year, the chosen effect lapses, but it can be renewed or replaced simply by casting hallow again.

Spell effects that may be tied to a hallow site include aid, bane, bless, cause fear, darkness, daylight, deeper darkness, detect evil, detect magic, dimensional anchor, discern lies, dispel magic, endure elements, freedom of movement, invisibility purge, negative energy protection, protection from elements, remove fear, resist elements, silence, tongues, and zone of truth. Spell resistance might apply to these spells' effects. (See the individual spell descriptions for details.)

An area can receive only one hallow (and its associated spell effect) at a time.

Hallow counters but does not dispel unhallow.

Material components: worth at least 1,000 gp, plus 1,000 gp per level of the spell to be included in the hallowed area.

ICE STORM

Evocation [cold]

Level: drd 5, sor/wiz 4, water 5

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: cylinder (20-ft. Radius, 40 ft. High)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

Great hailstones pound down, dealing 5d6 points of damage to creatures in their path; the damage is 3d6 impact plus 2d6 cold.

INSECT PLAGUE

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: clr 5, drd 5

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: cloud of insects 180 ft in diameter

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

A horde of insects swarm in a thick cloud when the character casts this spell. The insects limit vision to 10 feet, and spellcasting within the cloud is impossible. Creatures inside the insect plague, regardless of armor class, sustain 1 point of damage at the end of each round they remain within. Invisibility is no protection. All creatures with 2 or fewer HD are driven from the cloud at their fastest possible speed in a random direction and flee until they are at least 100 feet away from the insects. Creatures with 3 to 5 HD flee as well, though a will save negates this effect. (This urge to flee is an extraordinary fear effect.)

Heavy smoke drives off insects within its bounds. Fire also drives insects away. A single torch is ineffective against this vast horde of insects. Lightning, cold, and ice are likewise ineffective, while a strong wind (21+ mph) that covers the entire plague area disperses the insects and ends the spell.

SUMMON NATURE'S ALLY V

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: drd 5

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons a natural creature. It appears there the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the creature, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 5th-level list on the summon nature's ally table below, 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 4th-level list, or 1d4+1 creatures of the same type from a lower level list. All the creatures on the table are neutral unless otherwise noted.

5th Level
Arrowhawk, Medium-size		Salamander, Medium-size	[neutral evil]
Bear, brown	(animal)	Satyr	[with pipes]
Dire boar		Shark, Large	(animal)
Dire lion		Snake, giant constrictor	(animal)
Dire wolverine		Tiger	(animal)
Elemental, Medium-size		Tojanida, Medium-size
Giant crocodile	(animal)	Viper, Huge	(animal)
Rhinoceros	(animal)	Whale, orca	(animal)

When the character uses a summoning spell to summon an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

TRANSMUTE MUD TO ROCK

Transmutation

Level: drd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: up to two 10-ft. Cubes/level (s)

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

This spell transforms normal mud or quicksand of any depth into soft stone permanently. Creatures in the mud are allowed a reflex save to escape before the area is hardened to stone.

Transmute mud to rock counters and dispels transmute rock to mud.

TRANSMUTE ROCK TO MUD

Transmutation

Level: drd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: up to two 10-ft. Cubes/level (s)

Duration: permanent (see text)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

This spell turns natural, uncut or unworked rock of any sort into an equal volume of mud. Magical or enchanted stone is not affected by the spell. The depth of the mud created cannot exceed 10 feet. Creatures unable to levitate, fly, or otherwise free themselves from the mud sink until hip- or chest-deep, reducing their speed to 5 feet and giving them -2 penalties on attack rolls and AC. Brush thrown atop the mud can support creatures able to climb on top of it. Creatures large enough to walk on the bottom can wade through the area at a speed of 5 feet.

If transmute rock to mud is cast upon the ceiling of a cavern or tunnel, the mud falls to the floor and spreads out in a pool at a depth of 5 feet. The falling mud and the ensuing cave-in deal 8d6 points of damage to anyone caught directly beneath the area, or half damage to those who succeed at reflex saves.

Castles and large stone buildings are generally immune to the effects of the spell, since transmute rock to mud can't affect worked stone and doesn't reach deep enough to undermine such buildings' foundations. However, small buildings or structures often rest upon foundations shallow enough to be damaged or even partially toppled by this spell.

The mud remains until a successful dispel magic or transmute mud to rock spell restores its substance—but not necessarily its form. Evaporation turns the mud to normal dirt over a period of days. The exact time depends on exposure to the sun, wind, and normal drainage.

TREE STRIDE

Transmutation [teleportation]

Level: drd 5, rgr 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 1 hour/level or until expended (see text)

The character gains the ability to enter trees and move from inside one tree to inside another tree. The first tree the character enters and all others the character enters must be of the same type, must all be living, and must have girth at least equal to the character's. By moving into a tree, the character instantly knows the location of all other trees of the same type within transport range (see below) and may choose whether the character wants to pass into one or simply step back out of the tree the character moved into. The character may choose to pass to any tree of the appropriate kind within the transport range shown in the following table:

Type of Tree	Range of Transport
Oak, ash, yew	3,000 feet
Elm, linden	2,000 feet
Other deciduous	1,500 feet
Any coniferous	1,000 feet
All other trees	500 feet

The character may move into a tree up to one time per level (passing from one tree to another counts only as moving into one tree). The spell lasts until the duration is expended or the character exits a tree. Each transport is a full-round action.

The character can, at the character's option, remain within a tree without transporting, though the character is forced out when the spell ends. If the tree in which the character is concealed is chopped down or burned, the character is slain if the character does not exit before the process is complete.

UNHALLOW

Evocation [evil]

Level: clr 5, drd 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: one day

Range: touch

Area: 10-ft./Level radius emanating from the touched point

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: see text

Unhallow makes a particular site, building, or structure an unholy site. This has three major effects.

First, all creatures in the area are warded from attacks by good creatures, from mental control, and from summoned or conjured creatures. All recipients get a +2 deflection bonus to AC and a +2 resistance bonus on saves. Both these bonuses apply against attacks made by good creatures. The spell blocks any attempt to possess the warded creatures or to exercise mental control over the creatures. The protection does not prevent a spell from gaining mental control over a creature, but it prevents anyone who does so from mentally commanding the protected creature. The barrier keeps out a possessing life force but does not expel one if it is in place before the spell is cast. This effect works regardless of alignment.

The spell also prevents bodily contact by summoned or conjured creatures. This causes the natural weapon attacks of such creatures to fail and the creatures to recoil if such attacks require touching the warded creature. Evil elementals and outsiders are immune to this effect. The protection against contact by summoned or conjured creatures ends if the warded creature makes an attack against or tries to force the barrier against the blocked creature. Spell resistance can allow a creature to overcome this protection and touch the warded creature.

These effects are not cumulative with protection from good.

Second, all turning checks to turn undead suffer a -4 profane penalty and turning checks to rebuke undead gain a +4 profane bonus. Spell resistance does not apply to this effect. (Note: this provision does not apply to the druid version of the spell.)

Finally, the character may choose to fix a single spell effect to the unhallow site. The spell effect lasts for one year and functions throughout the entire consecrated site, regardless of its normal duration and area or effect. The character may designate whether the effect applies to all creatures, creatures who share the character's faith or alignment, or creatures who adhere to another faith or alignment. At the end of the year, the chosen effect lapses, but it can be renewed or replaced simply by casting unhallow again.

Spell effects that may be tied to an unhallow site include aid, bane, bless, cause fear, darkness, daylight, deeper darkness, detect magic, detect good, dimensional anchor, discern lies, dispel magic, endure elements, freedom of movement, invisibility purge, negative energy protection, protection from elements, remove fear, resist elements, silence, tongues, and zone of truth. Spell resistance might apply to these spells' effects. (See the individual spell descriptions for details.)

An area can receive only one unhallow (and its associated spell effect) at a time.

Unhallow counters but does not dispel hallow.

Material components: worth at least 1,000 gp, plus 1,000 gp per level of the spell to be tied to the unhallowed area.

WALL OF FIRE

Evocation [fire]

Level: drd 5, fire 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: opaque sheet of flame up to 20 ft long/caster lvl or a ring of fire with a radius of up to 5 ft/2 caster lvls; either form 20 ft. high

Duration: concentration + 1 round/level

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes

An immobile, blazing curtain of shimmering violet fire springs into existence. One side of the wall, selected by the character, sends forth waves of heat, dealing 2d4 points of fire damage to creatures within 10 ft & 1d4 points of fire damage to those past 10 feet but within 20 feet. The wall deals this damage when it appears & each round that a creature enters or remains in the area. Also, the wall deals 2d6 points of fire damage +1 point of fire damage per caster level (maximum +20) to any creature passing through. The wall deals double damage to undead creatures.

If the character evokes the wall so that it appears where creatures

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

are, each creature takes damage as if passing through the wall. Each such creature can avoid the wall by making a successful reflex save. (If the creature ends up on the hot side of the wall, it takes 2d4 points of damage, as normal.)

If any 5-foot length of wall takes 20 points of cold damage or more in 1 round, that length goes out. (Do not divide cold damage by 4, as normal for objects.)

WALL OF THORNS

Conjuration (creation)

Level: drd 5, plant 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: wall of thorny brush, up to one

10-Ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The wall of thorns spell creates a barrier of very tough, pliable, tangled brush bearing needle-sharp thorns as long as a person's finger. Any creature forced into or attempting to move through the wall of thorns takes 25 points of damage per round of movement, minus 1 point for each point of the creature's AC. Dexterity bonuses to AC and dodge bonuses do not count for this calculation. (Creatures with an armor class of 25 or higher take no damage from contact with the wall.)

The character can make the wall as thin as 5 feet thick, which allows the character to shape the wall as a number of 10-by-10-by-5-foot blocks equal to caster level x2. This has no effect on the damage inflicted by the thorns, but any creature attempting to break through takes that much less time to force its way through the barrier.

Creatures can force their way slowly through the wall. To make any progress, a creature must succeed at a strength check (DC 20). A successful creature moves a number of feet equal to its strength check result minus 19. Of course, moving or attempting to move through the thorns incurs damage as described above. A creature trapped in the thorns can choose to remain motionless in order to avoid taking any more damage.

Any creature within the area of the spell when it is cast takes damage as if it had moved into the wall and is caught inside. In order to escape, it must attempt to push its way free, or it can wait until the spell ends. Creatures with the ability to pass through overgrown areas unhindered can pass through a wall of thorns at their normal speed without taking damage.

A wall of thorns can be carefully breached by slow work with edged weapons. Chopping away at the wall creates a safe passage 1 foot deep for every 10 minutes of work. Normal fire cannot harm the barrier, but magical fire burns away the barrier in 10 minutes.

ANTILIFE SHELL

level: animal 6, clr 6, drd 6

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: 10 ft.

Area: 10-ft.-Radius emanation, centered on the character

Duration: 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

The character brings into being a mobile, hemispherical energy field that prevents the entrance of most sorts of living creatures. The effect hedges out animals, aberrations, beasts, magical beasts, dragons, fey, giants, humanoids, monstrous humanoids, oozes, plants, shapechangers, and vermin, but not constructs, elementals, outsiders, or undead.

Note: this spell may be used only defensively, not aggressively; forcing an abjuration barrier against creatures whom the spell keeps at bay collapses the barrier.

FIND THE PATH

Divination

Level: clr 6, drd 6, knowledge 6, travel 6

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 3 rounds

Range: personal or touch

Target: the character or creature touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: none or will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: no or yes (harmless)

The recipient of this spell can find the shortest, most direct physical route to a specified destination. Note that the spell works with respect to locales, not objects or creatures within a locale. The location must be on the same plane as the character at the time of casting.

The spell enables the subject to sense the correct direction that will eventually lead the subject to the destination, indicating at the appropriate times the exact path to follow or physical actions to take. The spell frees the subject, and those with the subject, from a maze spell in a single round.

FIRE SEEDS

Conjuration (creation) [fire]

Level: drd 6, fire 6, sun 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action/seed

Range: touch

Targets: up to four touched acorns or up to eight touched holly berries

Duration: 10 minutes/level or until used

Saving throw: reflex half (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

Acorn grenades: up to four acorns turn into special grenadelike weapons that can be hurled up to 100 feet. A ranged touch attack roll is required to strike the intended target. Each acorn bursts upon striking any hard surface. Together, the acorns are capable of dealing 1d8 points of fire damage per caster level (maximum 20d8), divided up among the acorns as the character wishes. The acorns deal 1 point of splash damage per die and ignite any combustible materials within 10 feet. If a creature within the burst area makes a successful reflex saving throw, it takes only half damage; a creature struck directly always sustains full damage (no saving throw).

Holly berry bombs: the character turns up to eight holly berries into special bombs. The holly berries are usually placed by hand, being too light to make effective thrown weapons (they can be tossed only 5 feet). They burst into flame if the character is within 200 feet and speak a word of command. The berries instantly ignite, causing 1d8 points of fire damage +1 point per caster level to creatures and igniting any combustible materials within 5 feet. Creatures who successfully make reflex saving throws take half damage.

GREATER DISPELLING

Abjuration

Level: brd 5, clr 6, drd 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target or area: one spellcaster, creature, or object; or 30-ft.-

Radius burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can use greater dispelling to end ongoing spells that have been cast on a creature or object, to temporarily suppress the magical abilities of a magic item, to end ongoing spells (or at least their effects) within an area, or to counter another spellcaster's spell. A dispelled spell ends as if its duration had expired. Some spells, as detailed in their descriptions, can't be defeated by greater dispelling. Greater dispelling can dispel (but not counter) the ongoing effects of supernatural abilities as well as spells. Greater dispelling affects spell-like effects just as it affects spells. Greater dispelling has a chance to dispel any effect that remove curse can remove.

Note: the effects of spells with instantaneous duration can't be dispelled, because the magic effect is already over before the greater dispelling can take effect.

The character choose to use greater dispelling in one of three ways: a targeted dispel, an area dispel, or a counterspell:

Targeted dispel: one object, creature, or spell is the target of the spell. The character makes a dispel check against the spell or against each ongoing spell currently in effect on the object or creature. A dispel check is 1d20 +1 per caster level (maximum +20) against a DC of 11 + the spell's caster level.

If the spellcaster targets an object or creature who is the effect of an ongoing spell (such as a monster summoned by monster summoning), she makes a dispel check to end the spell that conjured the object or creature.

If the object that the character targets is a magic item, the character makes a dispel check against the item's caster level. If the character succeeds, all the item's magical properties are suppressed for 1d4 rounds, after which the item recovers on its own. A suppressed item becomes nonmagical for the duration of the effect. An interdimensional interface is temporarily closed. Remember that a magic item's physical properties are unchanged. Artifacts and creatures of demigod or higher status are unaffected by mortal magic such as this.

Area dispel: the spell affects everything within a 30-foot radius.

For each creature who is the target of one or more spells, the character makes a dispel check against the spell with the highest caster level. If that fails, the character makes dispel checks against progressively weaker spells until the character dispels one spell (which discharges the dispel so far as that target is concerned) or fail all the character's checks. The creature's magic items are not affected.

For each object that is the target of one or more spells, the character makes dispel checks as with creatures. Magic items are not affected by area dispels.

For each ongoing area or effect spell centered within the greater dispelling's area, the character makes a dispel check to dispel the spell.

For each ongoing spell whose area overlaps that of the dispel, the character makes a dispel check to end the effect, but only within the area of the greater dispelling.

If an object or creature who is the effect of an ongoing spell, such as a monster summoned by monster summoning, is in the area, the character makes a dispel check to end the spell that conjured the object or creature (returning it whence it came) in addition to attempting to dispel spells targeting the creature or object.

The character may choose to automatically succeed at dispel checks against any spell that the character cast.

Counterspell: the spell targets a spellcaster and is cast as a counterspell. Unlike a true counterspell, however, greater dispelling may not work. The character must make a dispel check to counter the other spellcaster's spell.

Wooden objects larger than 3 inches in diameter that are fixed firmly are not affected, but loose objects (barrels, siege towers, etc.) are. Objects 3 inches in diameter or smaller that are fixed in place splinter and break, and the pieces move with the wave of energy. SUMMON NATURE'S ALLY VI

Level: drd 6

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons a natural creature. It appears there the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the creature, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 6th-level list on the summon nature's ally table below, 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 5th-level list, or 1d4+1 creatures of the same type from a lower level list. All the creatures on the table are neutral unless otherwise noted.

6th Level
Dire bear
Elemental, Large
Shambling mound

When the character uses a summoning spell to summon an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

TRANSPORT VIA PLANTS

Transmutation

Level: drd 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: unlimited

Target: the character

Duration: 1 round

The character can enter any normal plant (medium-size or larger) and pass any distance to a plant of the same species in a single round, regardless of the distance separating the two. The entry plant must be alive. The destination plant need not be familiar to the character, but it also must be alive. If the character is uncertain of the location of a particular kind of destination plant, the character needs merely designate direction and distance, and the transport via plants spell moves the character as close as possible to the desired location. If a particular destination plant is desired, but the plant is not living, the spell fails and the character is ejected from the entry plant.

This spell does not function with plant creatures.

The destruction of an occupied plant slays the character.

WALL OF STONE

Conjuration (creation)

Level: clr 5, drd 6, earth 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: stone wall whose area is up to one 5-ft. Square/level (s)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

This spell creates a wall of rock that merges into adjoining rock surfaces. The wall of stone is 1 inch thick per four caster levels and composed of up to one 5-foot square per level. The character can double the wall's area by halving its thickness. The wall cannot be conjured so that it occupies the same space as a creature or another object.

The character can create a wall of stone in almost any shape the character desires. The wall created need not be vertical, nor rest upon any firm foundation; however, it must merge with and be solidly supported by existing stone. It can be used to bridge a chasm, for instance, or as a ramp. For this use, if the span is more than 20 feet, the wall must be arched and buttressed. This requirement reduces the spell's area by half. The wall can be crudely shaped to allow crenellations, battlements, and so forth by likewise reducing the area.

Each 5-foot square has 15 hit points per inch of thickness. Creatures can hit the wall automatically, but the wall is so hard that the first 8 points of damage from each blow are ignored. A section of wall whose hit points drop to 0 is breached. If a creature tries to break through the wall with a single attack, the DC for the strength check is 20 + 2 per inch of thickness.

It is possible, but difficult, to trap mobile opponents within or under a wall of stone, provided the wall is shaped so it can hold the creatures. Creatures avoid entrapment with successful reflex saves.

CHANGESTAFF

Transmutation

Level: drd 7, plant 7

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: touch

Target: the character's touched staff

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character changes a specially prepared quarterstaff into a huge treantlike creature, about 24 feet tall. When the character concludes the casting of the spell, the character's staff turns into a creature that looks and fights just like a treant. The staff-treant defends the character and obeys any spoken commands. However, it is not a true treant; it cannot converse with actual treants or control trees. If the staff-treant is reduced to 0 hit points or less, it crumbles to powder and the staff is destroyed. Otherwise, the staff can be used as the focus for another casting of the spell. The staff-treant is always at full strength when created, despite any wounds it may have suffered the last time it appeared.

Focus: the quarterstaff, which must be specially prepared. Preparing the staff takes 28 days. The character cannot adventure or engage in other strenuous activity during the preparation period.

CONTROL WEATHER

Transmutation

Level: air 7, brd 6, clr 7, drd 7, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes (see text)

Range: two miles

Area: 2-mile-radius circle, centered on the character (see text)

Duration: 4d12 hours (see text)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character changes the weather in the local area. It takes 10 minutes to cast the spell and an additional 10 minutes for the effects to manifest. The current, natural weather conditions are determined by the DM. The character can call forth weather appropriate to the climate and season of the area the character is in.

Season	Possible Weather
Spring	Tornado, thunderstorm, sleet storm, or hot weather
Summer	Torrential rain, heat wave, or hailstorm
Autumn	Hot or cold weather, fog, or sleet
Winter	Frigid cold, blizzard, or thaw

The character controls the general tendencies of the weather, such as the direction and intensity of the wind. The character cannot control specific applications of the weather. When the character selects a certain weather condition to occur, the weather assumes that condition 10 minutes later (changing gradually). The weather continues as the character left it for the duration, or until the character uses a standard action to designate a new kind of weather (which fully manifests itself 10 minutes later). Contradictory conditions are not possible simultaneously.

Control weather can do away with atmospheric phenomena (naturally occurring or otherwise) as well as create them.

Druids casting this spell double the duration and affect a circle with a three-mile radius.

CREEPING DOOM

Conjuration (summoning)

Level: animal 8, drd 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)/100 ft. (See text)

Effect: 1,000 insects that fill a 10-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character calls forth a mass of 1,000 venomous, biting and stinging spiders, scorpions, beetles, and centipedes. This carpetlike mass swarms in a square 20 feet on a side. Upon the character's command, the swarm creeps forth at 10 feet per round toward any prey within 100 feet, moving in the direction the character commands. Each vermin in the creeping doom effect automatically bites a creature for 1 point of damage and then dies. Each creature takes enough damage to kill it, destroying that number of vermin in the process. These attacks are nonmagical attacks, so creatures with damage reduction are safe.

If there aren't enough vermin to kill all the creatures in the spell's effect, damage is distributed among the survivors equally.

If creeping doom travels more than 100 feet away from the character, it loses 50 of its number for each additional 10 feet it travels. Anything that would deter or destroy normal insects is effective against these insects.

FIRE STORM

Evocation [fire]

Level: clr 8, drd 7, fire 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: two 10-ft. Cubes/level (s)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: reflex half

Spell resistance: yes

When a fire storm spell is cast, the whole area is shot through with sheets of roaring flame. The raging flames do not harm natural vegetation, ground cover, and plant creatures in the area, if the character so desires. Any other creatures (and plant creatures the character wishes to affect) within the area take 1d6 points of fire damage per caster level (maximum 20d6).

GREATER SCRYING

Divination

Level: brd 6, clr 7, drd 7, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: see text

Effect: magical sensor

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can see and hear a creature, who may be at any distance. The character must succeed at a scry check to do so. The difficulty of the task depends on how well the character knows the subject and what sort of physical connection (if any) the character has to that creature. Furthermore, if the subject is on another plane, the character gets a –5 penalty on the scry check.

Knowledge	DC
None*	20
Secondhand (the character has heard of the subject)	15
Firsthand (the character has met the subject)	10

*The character must have some sort of connection to a creature the character has no knowledge of.

Connection	Scry Check Bonus
Likeness or picture	+5
Possession or garment	+8
Body part, lock of hair, nail clippings, etc.	+10

This spell creates a magical sensor located near the subject. Any creature with intelligence 12 or higher can notice the sensor by making a scry check (or an intelligence check) against DC 20.

You may cast the following spells reliably through the sensor: comprehend languages, darkvision, detect chaos, detect evil, detect good, detect law, detect magic, message, read magic, and tongues.

HARM

Necromancy

Level: clr 6, destruction 6, drd 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

Harm damages a subject with negative energy that causes the loss of all but 1d4 hit points.

If used on an undead creature (requires a successful touch attack), harm acts like heal.

HEAL

Conjuration (healing)

Level: clr 6, drd 7, healing 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

Heal enables the character to channel positive energy into a creature to wipe away disease and injury. It completely cures all diseases, blindness, deafness, hit point damage, and all temporary ability damage. It neutralizes poisons in the subject's system, so that no additional damage or effects are suffered. It offsets a feeblemind spell. It cures those mental disorders caused by spells or injury to the brain. Only a single application of the spell is needed to simultaneously achieve all these effects.

Heal does not remove negative levels, restore permanently drained levels, or restore permanently drained ability scores.

If used against an undead creature, heal acts like harm.

SUMMON NATURE'S ALLY VII

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: drd 7

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

SUNBEAM

Evocation

Level: drd 7, sun 7

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: beam 5 feet wide and 100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level long, starting at a point right in front of the character

Duration: 1 round/level or until all beams are exhausted

Saving throw: reflex negates and half (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

For the duration of this spell, the character can use a standard action to evoke a dazzling beam of intensely hot light each round. The character can call forth one beam per three caster levels (maximum six beams at 18th level). The spell ends when its duration runs out or the character's allotment of beams is exhausted.

All creatures in the beam are blinded and take 3d6 points of damage. (A successful reflex save negates the blindness and reduces the damage by half.) In addition to the obvious effects, a blinded creature suffers a 50% miss chance in combat (all opponents have full concealment), loses any dexterity bonus to AC, grants a +2 bonus to attackers' attack rolls (they are effectively invisible), moves at half speed, and suffers a -4 penalty on most strength- and dexterity-based skills. Creatures to whom sunlight is harmful or unnatural take double damage.

Undead creatures caught within the ray are dealt 1d6 points of damage per caster level (maximum 20d6), or half damage if a reflex save is successful. In addition, the ray results in the destruction of undead creatures specifically affected by sunlight if they fail their saves.

The ultraviolet light generated by the spell deals damage to fungi, mold, oozes, slimes, jellies, puddings, and fungoid creatures just as if they were undead creatures.

TRANSMUTE METAL TO WOOD

Transmutation

Level: drd 7

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: all metal objects within a 40-ft.-Radius burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes (object; see text)

This spell enables the character to change all metal objects within its area to wood. Weapons, armor, and other metal objects carried by creatures are affected as well. Magic objects made of metal effectively have $sr\ 20 + \text{caster level}$ against this spell. Artifacts cannot be transmuted. Weapons converted from metal to wood suffer a -2 penalty to attack and damage rolls. Armor converted from metal to wood loses 2 points of AC bonus. Weapons changed by this spell splinter and break on any natural attack roll of 1 or 2, and armor changed by this spell loses an additional point of AC bonus every time it is struck by a natural attack roll of 19 or 20.

Only a limited wish, miracle, or wish or similar magic can restore a transmuted object to its metallic state.

TRUE SEEING

Divination

Level: clr 5, drd 7, knowledge 5, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The character confers on the subject the ability to see all things as they actually are. The subject sees through normal and magical darkness, notices secret doors hidden by magic, sees the exact locations of creatures or objects under blur or displacement effects, sees invisible creatures or objects normally, sees through illusions, and sees the true form of polymorphed, changed, or transmuted things. Further, the subject can focus her vision to see into the ethereal plane (but not into extradimensional spaces). The range of true seeing conferred is 120 feet.

True seeing, however, does not penetrate solid objects. It in no way confers x-ray vision or its equivalent. It does not cancel concealment, including that caused by fog and the like. True seeing does not help the viewer see through mundane disguises, spot creatures who are simply hiding, or notice secret doors hidden by mundane means. In addition, the spell effects cannot be further enhanced with known magic.

Additionally, the divine version of this spell allows the subject to see auras, noting alignments of creatures at a glance.

Material component: worth at least 250 gp.

WIND WALK

Transmutation

Level: clr 6, drd 7

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Targets: the character and one touched creature/ three levels

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: no and will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: no and yes (harmless)

The character alters the substance of the character's body to a cloudlike vapor and moves through the air, possibly at great speed. The character can take other creatures with the character, each of which acts independently.

A magical wind wafts a wind walker along at up to 600 feet per round (60 mph) or as slow as 5 feet per round (1/2 mph), as the walker wills. Wind walkers are not invisible but rather appear misty and translucent. If fully clothed in white, they are 80% likely to be mistaken for clouds, fog, vapors, etc.

A wind walker can regain his or her physical form as desired and later resume the cloud form. Each change to and from vaporous form requires 5 rounds. The character, however, may dismiss the spell, ending it immediately. The character may even dismiss it for individual wind walkers and not others. While in vaporous form, subjects gain damage reduction 20/+1, though they may sustain damage from high winds (as determined by the DM). No spellcasting is possible in vaporous form.

For the last minute of the spell, a wind walker automatically descends 60 feet per round (for a total of 600 feet), though he or she may descend faster if he or she wishes. This descent serves as a warning that the spell is about to end.

ANIMAL SHAPES

level: animal 7, drd 8

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: 1 willing creature/level, all within 30 ft. of each other

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: none (see text)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The character polymorphs up to one willing creature per level into an animal of the character's choice; the spell has no effect on unwilling creatures. Recipients remain in the animal form until the spell expires or the character dismisses the spell for all recipients. In addition, an individual subject may choose to resume the character's normal form (as a full-round action); doing so ends the spell for that character alone.

The allowed size of the animal form depends on the caster's level:

Caster Level	Allowed Sizes
Up to 16th	Small or Medium-size
17th-19th	Tiny through Large
20th	Diminutive through Huge

Upon changing, the subject regains lost hit points as if having rested for a day (though this healing does not restore temporary ability damage and provide other benefits of resting for a day; changing back does not heal the creature further).

The polymorphed creature acquires the physical and natural abilities of the creature it has been polymorphed into while retaining its own mind. Physical abilities include natural size and strength, dexterity, and constitution scores. Natural abilities include armor, attack routines and similar gross physical qualities. Natural abilities also include mundane movement capabilities, such as walking, swimming, flight, and low-light vision.

Any part of the body that is separated from the whole reverts to its original form.

The creature's new scores and faculties are average ones for the race or species into which it has been transformed.

The subject retains its intelligence, wisdom, and charisma scores, level and class, hit points (despite any change in its constitution score), alignment, base attack bonus, and base saves. (New strength, dexterity, and constitution scores may affect final attack and save bonuses.) The subject retains its own type, extraordinary abilities, spells, and spell-like abilities, but not its supernatural abilities. The subject can cast spells for which it has components. It needs a humanlike voice for verbal components and humanlike hands for somatic components. The subject does not gain the extraordinary abilities of the new creature.

When the polymorph occurs, the creature's equipment, if any, melds into the new form and becomes nonfunctional. Material components and focuses melded in this way cannot be used to cast spells.

The character can freely designate the new form's minor physical qualities (such as hair color, hair texture, and skin color) within the normal ranges for a creature of that type. The new form's significant physical qualities (such as height, weight, and gender) are also under the character's control, but must fall within the norms for the new form's species.

The subject is effectively disguised as an average member of the new form's race. If the character uses this spell to create a disguise, the character get a +10 bonus on the character's disguise check.

COMMAND PLANTS

Enchantment (charm) [mind-affecting]

Level: drd 8, plant 8

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: plants and plant creatures (see text)

Duration: 1 day/level or 1 hour/level (see text)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: see text

Plants, fungi, plant creatures, and fungus creatures do the character's bidding.

Charm: against plant creatures and fungus creatures, command plants functions as a mass charm spell. The character can command a number of plant creatures whose combined level or HD do not exceed three times the character's level (or at least one creature regardless of HD). No two affected creatures can be more than 30 feet from each other, and each is allowed a will saving throw to negate the effect. Spell resistance applies. The effect lasts 1 day per caster level. This is a charm effect.

Animate: the spell imbues trees or other large, inanimate vegetable life with mobility. The animated plants then attack whomever or whatever the character first designates. Animated plants gain humanlike senses. The plants' AC, speed, attacks, and special abilities vary with their size and form, as described for animated objects. The character can animate two trees, four shrubs, or eight vines. All plants to be affected must be within 60 feet of each other. The character can animate different types of plants if desired. Creatures who have the plants in their possession can prevent the effect with will saves or spell resistance. The effect lasts 1 hour per caster level.

Entangle: the character imbues all plants within range with semi-mobility, which allows them to entwine around creatures in the area. This duplicates the effect of an entangle spell. Spell resistance does not keep creatures from being entangled. The effect lasts 1 hour per caster level.

FINGER OF DEATH

Necromancy [death]

Level: drd 8, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude partial

Spell resistance: yes

The character can slay any one living creature within range. The subject is entitled to a fortitude saving throw to survive the attack. If the save is successful, it instead sustains 3d6 points of damage +1 point per caster level.

REPEL METAL OR STONE

Abjuration

Level: drd 8

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: path 120 ft. Wide and 10 ft. High, emanating from the character

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell creates waves of invisible and intangible energy that roll forth from the character. All metal or stone objects in the path of the spell are pushed away from the character to the limit of the range. Fixed metal or stone objects larger than 3 inches in diameter and loose objects weighing more than 500 pounds are not affected. Anything else, including animated objects, small boulders, and creatures in metal armor, moves back. Fixed objects 3 inches in diameter or smaller bend or break, and the pieces move with the wave of energy. Objects affected by the spell are repelled at the rate of 40 feet per round.

Objects such as metal armor, swords, etc. Are pushed back, dragging their bearers with them. Even magic items with metal components are repelled, although an antimagic field blocks the effects.

The waves of energy continue to sweep down the set path for the spell's duration. After casting the spell, the path is set, and the character can then do other things or go elsewhere without affecting the spell's power.

REVERSE GRAVITY

Transmutation

Level: drd 8, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: up to one 10-ft. Cube/2 levels (s)

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none (see text)

Spell resistance: no

This spell reverses gravity in the spell's area, causing all unattached objects and creatures within it to fall upward and reach the top of the area in 1 round. If some solid object is encountered in this fall, falling objects and creatures strike it in the same manner as they would during a normal downward fall. If an object or creature reaches the top of the area without striking anything, it remains there, oscillating slightly, until the spell ends. At the end of the spell duration, affected objects and creatures fall downward.

Provided there's something for them to hold onto, creatures caught in the area can attempt reflex saves to secure themselves when the spell strikes. Creatures who can fly or levitate can keep themselves from falling.

SUMMON NATURE'S ALLY VIII

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: drd 8

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons a natural creature. It appears there the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the creature, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 8th-level list on the summon nature's ally table below, 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 7th-level list, or 1d4+1 creatures of the same type from a lower level list. All the creatures on the table are neutral unless otherwise noted.

8th Level
Elemental, greater
Salamander, Large	[neutral evil]
Squid, giant	(animal)

When the character uses a summoning spell to summon an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

SUNBURST

Evocation [fire]

Level: drd 8, sor/wiz 8, sun 8

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: 10 ft./Level-radius burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: reflex partial (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

Sunburst causes a globe of searing heat and radiance to explode silently from a point the character selects. All creatures in the globe are blinded and are dealt 3d6 points of damage. (A successful reflex save negates the blindness and reduces the damage by half.). In addition to the obvious effects, a blinded creature suffers a 50% miss chance in combat (all opponents have full concealment), loses any dexterity bonus to AC, grants a +2 bonus to attackers' attack rolls (they are effectively invisible), moves at half speed, and suffers a -4 penalty on most strength- and dexterity-based skills. Creatures to whom sunlight is harmful or unnatural take double damage.

Undead creatures caught within the globe are dealt 1d6 points of damage per caster level (maximum 25d6), or half damage if a reflex save is successful. In addition, the burst results in the destruction of undead creatures specifically affected by sunlight if they fail their saves.

The ultraviolet light generated by the spell deals damage to fungi, mold, oozes, slimes, jellies, puddings, and fungoid creatures just as if they were undead creatures.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

WHIRLWIND

Evocation [air]

Level: air 8, drd 8

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: cyclone 10 ft. Wide at base,

30 Ft. Wide at top, and 30 ft. Tall

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: reflex negates (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

This spell creates a powerful cyclone of raging wind that moves through the air, along the ground, or over water at a speed of 60 feet per round. The character can concentrate on controlling the cyclone's every movement or specify a simple program. Directing the cyclone's movement or changing its programmed movement is a standard action for the character. The whirlwind always moves during the character's turn in the initiative order. If the cyclone exceeds the spell's range, it moves in a random, uncontrolled fashion for 1d3 rounds-possibly endangering the character or the character's allies-and then dissipates (the character can't regain control of the cyclone, even if comes back within range).

Any large or smaller creature that comes in contact with the whirlwind must succeed at a reflex save or take 3d6 points of damage. Medium-size or smaller creatures who fail their first save must succeed at a second one or be picked up bodily by the whirlwind and held suspended in its powerful winds, taking 1d8 points of damage each round with no save allowed. The character may direct the cyclone to eject any carried creatures whenever the character wishes, depositing the hapless souls wherever the whirlwind happens to be when they are released.

WORD OF RECALL

Transmutation [teleportation]

Level: clr 6, drd 8

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: unlimited

Target: the character and objects and willing creatures totaling up to 50 lb./Level

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none or will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: no or yes (harmless, object)

Word of recall teleports the character instantly back to the character's sanctuary when the word is uttered. The character must designate the sanctuary when the character prepares the spell, and it must be a very familiar place. The actual point of arrival is a designated area no larger than 10 feet by 10 feet. The character can be transported any distance within a plane but cannot travel between planes. The character can transport, in addition to him or herself, objects and creatures weighing up to 50 pounds per caster level. Exceeding this limit causes the spell to fail.

An unwilling creature can't be teleported by word of recall. Likewise, a creature's will save (or SR) prevents items in its possession from being teleported. Unattended, nonmagical objects receive no saving throw.

9TH-LEVEL DRUID SPELLS

Antipathy:	Object or location affected by spell repels certain creatures.
Cure Critical Wounds, Mass:	Cures 4d8 damage +1/level for many creatures.
Elemental Swarm:	Summons multiple elementals.
Foresight:	"Sixth sense" warns of impending danger.
Regenerate:	Subject's severed limbs grow back, cures 4d8 damage +1/level (max +35).
Shambler:	Summons 1d4+2 shambling mounds to fight for you.
Shapechange ^F:	Transforms you into any creature, and change forms once per round.
Storm of Vengeance:	Storm rains acid, lightning, and hail.
Summon Nature's Ally IX:	Calls creature to fight.
Sympathy ^M:	Object or location attracts certain creatures.

ANTIPATHY

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: drd 9, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 hour

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one location (up to a 10-ft. Cube/level) or one object

Duration: 2 hours/level

Saving throw: will partial

Spell resistance: yes

The character causes an object or location to emanate magical vibrations that repel either a specific order of intelligent creature or creatures of a particular alignment, as defined by the character. The particular sort of creature to be affected must be named specifically. Larger groups (types and subtypes) are not specific enough. Likewise, the specific alignment must be named. A compulsion forces creatures of the designated sort or alignment to abandon the area or item, never willingly returning to it while the spell is in effect. A creature who makes a successful saving throw can stay in the area or touch the item, but feels very uncomfortable doing so. This discomfort reduces the creature's dexterity score by 4 points.

Antipathy counters and dispels sympathy.

This spell cannot be cast upon living creatures.

EARTHQUAKE

Evocation

Level: clr 8, destruction 8, drd 9, earth 7

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: 5 ft./Level radius (s)

Duration: 1 round

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

When the character casts earthquake, an intense but highly localized tremor rips the ground. It knocks creatures down, collapses structures, opens cracks in the ground, and more. The shock lasts 1 round, during which time creatures on the ground can't move or attack. Spellcasters on the ground must make concentration checks (DC 20 + spell level) or lose any spells they try to cast. The earthquake affects all terrain, vegetation, structures, and creatures in the area. The exact effects depend on the terrain and its features:

Cave, cavern, or tunnel: the spell collapses the roof, dealing 8d6 points of damage to any creature caught under the cave-in (reflex half DC 15). An earthquake cast on the roof of a very large cavern could also endanger those outside the actual area but below the falling debris.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Cliffs: they crumble, causing a landslide that travels horizontally as far as it fell vertically. An earthquake cast at the top of a 100-foot cliff would sweep 100 feet outward from the base of the cliff. Any creature in the path sustains 8d6 points of damage (reflex half DC 15).

Open ground: all creatures standing in the area must make reflex saving throws (DC 15) or fall down. Fissures open in the ground, and every creature on the ground has a 25% chance to fall into one (reflex save DC 20 to avoid the fissure). At the end of the spell, all fissures grind shut, killing any creatures still trapped within.

Structure: most structures standing on open ground collapse, dealing 8d6 points of damage to those caught within or beneath the rubble (reflex half DC 15).

River, lake, or marsh: fissures open underneath the water, draining away the water from that area and forming muddy ground. Soggy marsh or swampland becomes quicksand for the duration of the spell, sucking down creatures and structures. Creatures must make reflex saving throws (DC 15) or sink down in the mud and quicksand. At the end of the spell, the rest of the body of water rushes in to replace the drained water, possibly drowning those caught in the mud.

ELEMENTAL SWARM

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: air 9, drd 9, earth 9, fire 9, water 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: two or more summoned creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell opens a portal to an elemental plane. A druid can choose which plane (air, earth, fire, or water); a cleric opens a portal to the plane matching his domain. The character can then summon elementals from that plane.

When the spell is complete, 2d4 large elementals appear. Ten minutes later, 1d4 huge elementals appear. Ten minutes after that, one greater elemental appears. Each elemental has at least 5 hit points per HD. Once the elementals appear, they serve the character for the duration of the spell.

The elementals obey the character explicitly and never attack the character, even if someone else manages to gain control over them. The character does not need to concentrate to maintain control over the elementals. The character can dismiss them singly or in groups at any time.

When the character uses a summoning spell to summon an air, earth, fire, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

FORESIGHT

Divination

Level: drd 9, knowledge 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal or touch

Target: see text

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: none or will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: no or yes (harmless)

This spell grants the character a powerful sixth sense in relation to his or herself or another. Once the spell is cast, the character receives instantaneous warnings of impending danger or harm to the subject of the spell. The character is never surprised or flat-footed. In addition, the spell gives the character a general idea of what action the character might take to best protect him or herself and gives the character a +2 insight bonus to AC and to reflex saves. This insight bonus is lost whenever the character would lose a dexterity bonus to AC.

When another creature is the object of the spell, the character receives warnings about that creature. The character must communicate what the character learns to the other creature for the warning to be useful, and it can be caught unprepared in the absence of such a warning. Shouting a warning, yanking a person back, and even telepathically communicating (via an appropriate spell) can all be accomplished before some danger befalls the spell subject, provided the character acts on the warning without delay. The subject, however, does not gain the insight bonus to AC and reflex saves.

MASS HEAL

Conjuration (healing)

Level: clr 8, drd 9, healing 8

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The character channels positive energy into creatures to wipe away disease and injury. It completely cures all diseases, blindness, deafness, hit point damage, and all temporary ability damage. It neutralizes poisons in the subject's system, so that no additional damage or effects are suffered. It offsets a feeblemind spell. It cures those mental disorders caused by spells or injury to the brain. Only a single application of the spell is needed to simultaneously achieve all these effects.

Heal does not remove negative levels, restore permanently drained levels, or restore permanently drained ability scores.

If used against undead creatures (requires a successful touch attack), mass heal reduces them to 1d4 hp.

SHAMBLER

Conjuration (creation)

Level: drd 9, plant 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: three or more shambling mounds, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart (see text)

Duration: seven days or seven months (d) (see text)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Shambler creates 1d4+2 shambling mounds with 11 HD each. The creatures willingly aid the character in combat or battle, perform a specific mission, or serve as bodyguards. The creatures remain with the character for seven days unless the character dismisses them. If the shamblers are created only for guard duty, however, the duration of the spell is seven months. In this case, the shamblers can only be ordered to guard a specific site or location. Shamblers summoned to guard duty cannot move outside the spell's range, which is measured from the point where each first appeared.

The shamblers have resistance to fire as normal shambling mounds do only if the terrain is rainy, marshy, or damp.

SHAPECHANGE

Transmutation

Level: animal 9, drd 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 10 minutes/level

The caster can assume the form of any single creature of less than deity status or any single object. The assumed form can be no smaller than a flea and no larger than 200 feet in its largest dimension. This spell allows incorporeal forms to be assumed.

Upon changing, the character regains lost hit points as if having rested for a day (though this healing does not restore temporary ability damage and provide other benefits of resting for a day; and changing back does not heal the caster further). If slain, the character reverts to his or her original form, though the character remains dead.

The polymorphed character acquires the physical and natural abilities of the creature he or she has been polymorphed into while retaining his or her own mind. The character gains the type of the new form. Physical abilities include natural size and strength, dexterity, and constitution scores. Natural abilities include armor, attack routines and similar gross physical qualities. Natural abilities also include mundane movement capabilities, but not magical flight and other magical forms of travel. Extremely high speeds for certain creatures are the result of magical ability, so they are not granted by this spell. Other nonmagical abilities (such as low-light vision) are considered natural abilities and are retained.

Any part of the body or piece of equipment that is separated from the whole remains polymorphed.

The character's new scores and faculties are average ones for the race or species into which he or she has been transformed.

The character retains his or her intelligence, wisdom, and charisma scores, level and class, hit points (despite any change in the character's constitution score), alignment, base attack bonus, and base saves. (New strength, dexterity, and constitution scores may affect final attack and save bonuses.) The character retains his or her extraordinary abilities, spells, and spell-like abilities, but not its supernatural abilities. The character can cast spells for which he or she has components. The character needs a humanlike voice for verbal components and humanlike hands for somatic components. The caster does not gain the spell-like abilities of the new form. The character does not gain the supernatural abilities of the new creature. The character does gain the extraordinary abilities of the new form.

When the polymorph occurs, the character's equipment, if any, transforms to match the new form. If the new form is a creature that does not use equipment, the equipment melds into the new form and becomes nonfunctional. Material components and focuses melded in this way cannot be used to cast spells. If the new form uses equipment, the caster's equipment changes to match the new form and retains its properties.

The character can freely designate the new form's minor physical qualities (such as hair color, hair texture, and skin color) within the normal ranges for a creature of that type. The new form's significant physical qualities (such as height, weight, and gender) are also under the character's control, but must fall within the norms for the new form's species. The character can be changed into a member of his or her own species or even into itself. (If changed into itself, it does not suffer the abovementioned penalties from the disorientation of a new form.)

The character is effectively disguised as an average member of the new form's race. If the character uses this spell to create a disguise, the character gets a +10 bonus on the character's disguise check.

The character can become just about anything the character is familiar with. The character can change form once each round as a free action. The change takes place either immediately before the character's regular action or immediately after it, but not during the action. The character regains hit points as if having rested for a day only from the initial transformation, however.

Focus: worth at least 1,500 gp.

SUMMON NATURE'S ALLY IX

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: drd 9

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons a natural creature. It appears there the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the creature, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 9th-level list on the summon nature's ally table below, 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 8th-level list, or 1d4+1 creatures of the same type from a lower level list. All the creatures on the table are neutral unless otherwise noted.

9th Level

When the character uses a summoning spell to summon an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

SYMPATHY

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: drd 9, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 hour

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one location (up to a 10-ft. Cube/level) or one object

Duration: 2 hours/level

Saving throw: will negates (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

The character causes an object or location to emanate magical vibrations that attract either a specific type of intelligent creature or creatures of a particular alignment, as defined by the character. The particular type of creature to be affected must be named specifically. Larger groups, such as a “type,” are not specific enough. Likewise, the specific alignment must be named.

Creatures of the type or alignment feel elated and pleased to be in the area or desire to touch or to possess the object. The compulsion to stay in the area or touch the object is overpowering. If the save is successful, the creature is released from the enchantment, but a subsequent save must be made 1d6 x 10 minutes later. If this save fails, the affected creature attempts to return to the area or object.

Sympathy counters and dispels antipathy.

Material components: worth at least 1,500 gp.

Bless counters and dispels bane.

BLESS WATER

Transmutation [good]

Level: clr 1, pal 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 minute

Range: touch

Target: flask of water touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

This transmutation imbues a flask (1 pint) of water with positive energy, turning it into holy water. Holy water is considered blessed, which means it has special effects on certain creatures.

Material component: worth at least 25 gp.

BLESS WEAPON

Transmutation

Level: pal 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: weapon touched

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

All critical rolls against evil foes are automatically successful. The weapon negates the damage reduction of evil creatures and is capable of striking evil incorporeal creatures as if it had a +1 enhancement bonus. Also, the weapon is considered blessed, which means it has special effects on certain creatures. Individual arrows or bolts can be transmuted, but affected projectile weapons (such as bows) don't confer the benefit to the projectiles they shoot.

This transmutation can't affect any weapon that already has a magical effect related to critical hits.

CREATE WATER

Conjuration (creation)

Level: clr 0, drd 0, pal 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: up to 2 gallons of water/level

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell generates wholesome, drinkable water, just like clean rain water. Water can be created in an area as small as will actually contain the liquid, or in an area three times as large (possibly creating a downpour or filling many small receptacles).

Water weighs about 8 pounds per gallon. One cubic foot of water contains roughly 8 gallons and weighs about 60 pounds.

CURE LIGHT WOUNDS

Conjuration (healing)

Level: brd 1, clr 1, drd 1, healing 1, pal 1, rgr 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will half (harmless) (see text)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

When laying the character's hand upon a living creature, the character channels positive energy that cures 1d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (up to +5).

Since undead are powered by negative energy, this spell deals damage to them instead of curing their wounds. An undead creature can attempt a will save to take half damage.

DETECT POISON

Divination

Level: clr 0, drd 0, pal 1, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target or area: one creature, one object, or a 5-ft. Cube

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can determine whether a creature, object, or area has been poisoned or is poisonous. The character can determine the exact type of poison with a successful wisdom check (DC 20). A character with the alchemy skill may try an alchemy check (DC 20) if the wisdom check fails, or may try the alchemy check prior to the wisdom check.

Note: the spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

DETECT UNDEAD

Divination

Level: clr 1, pal 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: quarter circle emanating from the character to the extreme of the range

Duration: concentration, up to 1 minute/ level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can detect the aura that surrounds undead. The amount of information revealed depends on how long the character studies a particular area or subject:

1st round: presence or absence of undead auras.

2nd round: number of undead auras in the area and the strength of the strongest undead aura present. If the character is of good alignment, the strongest undead aura's strength is "overwhelming" (see below), and the strength is at least twice the character's character level, the character is stunned for 1 round and the spell ends. While the character is stunned, the character can't act, the character loses any dexterity bonus to AC, and attackers gain +2 bonuses to attack the character.

3rd round: the strength and location of each aura. If an aura is outside the character's line of sight, then the character discerns its direction but not its exact location.

Aura strength: the strength of the undead aura is determined by the HD of the undead creature.

Strength	HD
Dim	Lingering aura
Faint	1 or less
Moderate	2–4
Strong	5–10
Overwhelming	11+

Aura Strength	Duration
Faint	1d6 minutes
Moderate	1d6 X 10 minutes
Strong	1d6 hours
Overwhelming	1d6 days

Length aura lingers: how long the aura lingers depends on its original strength:

Note: each round, the character can turn to detect things in a new area. The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

ENDURE ELEMENTS

Abjuration

Level: clr 1, drd 1, pal 1, sor/wiz 1, strength 1, sun 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 24 hours

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

This abjuration grants a creature limited protection to damage from whichever one of five energy types the character selects: acid, cold, fire, electricity, or sonic. Each round, the spell absorbs the first 5 points of damage the creature would otherwise take from the specified energy type, regardless of whether the source of damage is natural or magical. The spell protects the recipient's equipment as well.

Endure elements absorbs only damage. The character could still suffer unfortunate side effects.

Note: endure elements overlaps (and does not stack with) resist elements and protection from elements. If a character is warded by protection from elements and one or both of the other spells, the protection spell absorbs damage until it is exhausted. If a character is warded by resist elements and endure elements at the same time, the resist spell absorbs damage but the endure spell does not.

MAGIC WEAPON

Transmutation

Level: brd 1, clr 1, pal 1, sor/wiz 1, war 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: weapon touched

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

Magic weapon gives a weapon a +1 enhancement bonus to attack and damage rolls. If the character is a good cleric, the cleric of a good deity, or a paladin, the weapon is considered blessed, which means it has special effects on certain creatures.

This spell cannot be cast on a natural weapon, such as an unarmed strike.

PROTECTION FROM EVIL

Abjuration [good]

Level: brd 1, clr 1, good 1, pal 1,

Sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 minute/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: no (see text)

This spell wards a creature from attacks by evil creatures, from mental control, and from summoned or conjured creatures. It creates a magical barrier around the subject at a distance of 1 foot. The barrier moves with the subject and has three major effects:

First, the subject gets a +2 deflection bonus to AC and a +2 resistance bonus on saves. Both these bonuses apply against attacks made by evil creatures.

Second, the barrier blocks any attempt to possess the warded creature (as by a magic jar attack) or to exercise mental control over the creature (as by a vampire's supernatural domination ability, which works similar to dominate person). The protection does not prevent a vampire's domination itself, but it prevents the vampire from mentally commanding the protected creature. If the protection from evil effect ends before the domination effect does, the vampire would then be able to mentally command the controlled creature. Likewise, the barrier keeps out a possessing life force but does not expel one if it is in place before the spell is cast. This second effect works regardless of alignment.

Third, the spell prevents bodily contact by summoned or conjured creatures. This causes the natural weapon attacks of such creatures to fail and the creatures to recoil if such attacks require touching the warded creature. Good elementals and outsiders are immune to this effect. The protection against contact by summoned or conjured creatures ends if the warded creature makes an attack against or tries to force the barrier against the blocked creature. Spell resistance can allow a creature to overcome this protection and touch the warded creature.

READ MAGIC

Universal

Level: brd 0, clr 0, drd 0, pal 1, rgr 1, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 10 minutes/level

By means of read magic, the character can read magical inscriptions on objects that would otherwise be unintelligible. This deciphering does not normally invoke the magic contained in the writing, although it may do so in the case of a cursed scroll. Furthermore, once the spell is cast and the character has read the magical inscription, the character is thereafter able to read that particular writing without recourse to the use of read magic. The character can read at the rate of one page (250 words) per minute. The spell allows the character to identify a glyph of warding with a successful spellcraft check against DC 13 or a symbol with a successful spellcraft check against DC 19.

SHIELD OTHER

Abjuration

Level: clr 2, pal 2, protection 2

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

This spell wards the subject and creates a mystic connection between the character and the subject so that some of the subject's wounds are transferred to the character. The subject gains a +1 deflection bonus to AC and a +1 resistance bonus to saves. Additionally, the subject takes only half damage from all wounds and attacks (including those inflicted by special abilities) that deal it hit point damage. The amount of damage not taken by the warded creature is taken by the character. Forms of harm that do not involve hit points are not affected. If the subject suffers a reduction of hit points from a lowered constitution score, the reduction is not split with the character. When the spell ends, subsequent damage is no longer divided between the subject and the character, but damage already split is not reassigned to the subject.

If the character and the subject of the spell move out of range of each other, the spell ends.

Focus: worth at least 50 gp each.

DISPEL MAGIC

Abjuration

Level: brd 3, clr 3, drd 4, magic 3, pal 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target or area: one spellcaster, creature, or object; or 30-ft.-

Radius burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can use dispel magic to end ongoing spells that have been cast on a creature or object, to temporarily suppress the magical abilities of a magic item, to end ongoing spells (or at least their effects) within an area, or to counter another spellcaster's spell. A dispelled spell ends as if its duration had expired. Some spells, as detailed in their descriptions, can't be defeated by dispel magic. Dispel magic can dispel (but not counter) the ongoing effects of supernatural abilities as well as spells. Dispel magic affects spell-like effects just as it affects spells.

Note: the effects of spells with instantaneous duration can't be dispelled, because the magic effect is already over before the dispel magic can take effect.

The character choose to use dispel magic in one of three ways: a targeted dispel, an area dispel, or a counterspell:

Targeted dispel: one object, creature, or spell is the target of the spell. The character makes a dispel check against the spell or against each ongoing spell currently in effect on the object or creature. A dispel check is 1d20 +1 per caster level (maximum +10) against a DC of 11 + the spell's caster level.

If the spellcaster targets an object or creature who is the effect of an ongoing spell (such as a monster summoned by monster summoning), she makes a dispel check to end the spell that conjured the object or creature.

If the object that the character targets is a magic item, the character makes a dispel check against the item's caster level. If the character succeeds, all the item's magical properties are suppressed for 1d4 rounds, after which the item recovers on its own. A suppressed item becomes nonmagical for the duration of the effect. An interdimensional interface is temporarily closed. Remember that a magic item's physical properties are unchanged. Artifacts and creatures of demigod or higher status are unaffected by mortal magic such as this.

Area dispel: the spell affects everything within a 30-foot radius.

For each creature who is the target of one or more spells, the character makes a dispel check against the spell with the highest caster level. If that fails, the character makes dispel checks against progressively weaker spells until the character dispels one spell (which discharges the dispel so far as that target is concerned) or fail all the character's checks. The creature's magic items are not affected.

For each object that is the target of one or more spells, the character makes dispel checks as with creatures. Magic items are not affected by area dispels.

For each ongoing area or effect spell centered within the dispel magic's area, the character makes a dispel check to dispel the spell.

For each ongoing spell whose area overlaps that of the dispel, the character makes a dispel check to end the effect, but only within the area of the dispel magic.

If an object or creature who is the effect of an ongoing spell, such as a monster summoned by monster summoning, is in the area, the character makes a dispel check to end the spell that conjured the object or creature (returning it whence it came) in addition to attempting to dispel spells targeting the creature or object.

The character may choose to automatically succeed at dispel checks against any spell that the character cast.

Counterspell: the spell targets a spellcaster and is cast as a counterspell. Unlike a true counterspell, however, dispel magic may not work. The character must make a dispel check to counter the other spellcaster's spell.

GREATER MAGIC WEAPON

Transmutation

Level: brd 3, clr 4, pal 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one weapon or fifty projectiles (all of which must be in contact with each other at the time of casting)

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

This spell gives a weapon an enhancement bonus to attack and damage of +1 per three caster levels (maximum +5). An enhancement bonus does not stack with a masterwork weapon's +1 bonus on attacks.

Alternatively, the character can affect up to fifty arrows, bolts, or bullets. The projectiles must all be of the same type, and they have to be together in one group (such as in the same quiver). Projectiles (but not thrown weapons) lose their transmutation when used.

If the character is a good cleric, the cleric of a good deity, or a paladin, the weapon is considered blessed, which means it has special effects on certain creatures.

HEAL MOUNT

Conjuration (healing)

Level: pal 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: the character's mount touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

Heal mount enables the character to wipe away disease and injury in the character's special mount. It completely cures all diseases, blindness, or deafness of the mount, cures all points of damage taken due to wounds or injury, and repairs temporary ability damage. It cures those mental disorders caused by spells or injury to the brain.

Heal mount does not remove negative levels, restore drained levels, or restore drained ability scores.

MAGIC CIRCLE AGAINST EVIL

Abjuration [good]

Level: brd 3, clr 3, good 3, pal 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Area: emanates 10 ft. From touched creature

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Spell resistance: no (see text)

This spell wards all creatures in the area from attacks by evil creatures, from mental control, & from summoned or conjured creatures.

The subjects get a +2 deflection bonus to AC & a +2 resistance bonus on saves. Both these bonuses apply against attacks made by evil creatures.

The barrier blocks any attempt to possess the warded creature or to exercise mental control over the creature. The protection does not prevent a spell or effect that grants mental commands to be cast on the creature, but it prevents the caster of such a spell from mentally commanding the protected creature. If warding effect ends before the mental control effect does, the caster would then be able to mentally command the controlled creature. Likewise, the barrier keeps out a possessing life force but does not expel one if it is in place before the spell is cast. This effect works regardless of alignment.

The spell prevents bodily contact by summoned or conjured creatures. This causes the natural weapon attacks of such creatures to fail and the creatures to recoil if such attacks require touching the warded creature. Good elementals and outsiders are immune to this effect. The protection against contact by summoned or conjured creatures ends if the warded creature makes an attack against or tries to force the barrier against the blocked creature. Spell resistance can allow a creature to overcome this protection and touch the warded creature.

This spell has a special function that the character may choose when casting the spell. A magic circle can be focused inward rather than outward. In this case, it serves as an immobile, temporary magical prison for a summoned creature. The creature cannot cross the circle's boundaries.

The character must beat a creature's sr in order to keep it at bay, but the deflection and resistance bonuses and the protection from mental control apply regardless of enemies' sr.

If a creature too large to fit into the spell's area is the subject of the spell, the spell acts as normal for that creature only.

This spell is not cumulative with protection from evil and vice versa.

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target or targets: the character and a touched evil creature from another plane; or the character and an enchantment or evil spell on a touched creature or object

Duration: 1 round/level or until discharged, whichever comes first

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: see text

Shimmering, white, holy energy surrounds the character. This power has three effects:

1. The character gains a +4 deflection bonus to AC against attacks by evil creatures.

2. On making a successful melee touch attack against an evil creature from another plane, the character can choose to drive that creature back to its home plane. The creature negates the effects with a will save (sr applies). This use discharges and ends the spell.

3. With a touch, the character can automatically dispel any one enchantment cast by an evil creature or any one evil spell. Exception: spells that can't be dispelled by dispel magic also can't be dispelled by dispel evil. Saving throws and sr do not apply to this effect. This use discharges and ends the spell.

FREEDOM OF MOVEMENT

Abjuration

Level: clr 4, drd 4, luck 4, pal 4, rgr 4

Components: V, S, M, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal or touch

Target: the character or creature touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no or yes (harmless)

This spell enables the character or the creature the character touches to move and attack normally for the duration of the spell, even under the influence of magic that usually impedes movement.

The spell also allows a character to move and attack normally while underwater, provided that the weapon used is wielded in the hand rather than hurled. The freedom of movement spell does not, however, allow water breathing.

HOLY SWORD

Evocation

Level: pal 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: weapon touched

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell allows the character to channel holy power into a weapon the character choose. The weapon acts as a +5 magic weapon and deals double damage against evil opponents. It emits a ward that protects creatures within 10 feet. This ward protects a creature from attacks by evil creatures, from mental control, and from summoned or conjured creatures. The ward has three major effects:

First, the subjects get a +2 deflection bonus to AC and a +2 resistance bonus on saves. Both these bonuses apply against attacks made by evil creatures.

Second, the barrier blocks any attempt to possess the warded creatures or to exercise mental control over the creature. The protection does not prevent a gaining mental control over a warded character, but it prevents anyone from mentally commanding the protected creature. The barrier keeps out a possessing life force but does not expel one if it is in place before the spell is cast. This second effect works regardless of alignment.

Third, the ward prevents bodily contact by summoned or conjured creatures. This causes the natural weapon attacks of such creatures to fail and the creatures to recoil if such attacks require touching the warded creature. Good elementals and outsiders are immune to this effect. The protection against contact by summoned or conjured creatures ends if the warded creature makes an attack against or tries to force the barrier against the blocked creature.

Spell resistance can allow a creature to overcome this protection and touch the warded creature.

If the ward ends, the sword creates a new one on the character's turn as a free action. The spell is automatically canceled 1 round after the weapon leaves the character's hand for any reason. The character cannot have more than one holy sword at a time.

If this spell is cast on a magic weapon, the powers of the spell supersede any that the weapon normally has, rendering the normal enhancement bonus and powers of the weapon inoperative for the duration of the spell. This spell is not cumulative with bless weapon or any other spell that might modify the weapon in any way.

This spell does not work on artifacts.

Note: a masterwork weapon's bonus to attack does not stack with an enhancement bonus to attack.

NEUTRALIZE POISON

Conjuration (healing)

Level: brd 4, clr 4, drd 3, pal 4, rgr 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature or object of up to 1 cu. Ft./Level touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

The character detoxifies any sort of venom in the creature or object touched. A poisoned creature suffers no additional damage or effects from the poison, and any temporary effects are ended, but the spell does not reverse instantaneous effects, such as hit point damage, temporary ability damage, or effects that don't go away on their own.

This spell also neutralizes the poison in a poisonous creature or object. A poisonous creature replenishes its poison at its normal rate.

RESTORATION

Conjuration (healing)

Level: clr 4, pal 4

Components: V, S, M

This spell functions like lesser restoration, except that it also dispels negative levels and restores one experience level to a creature who has had a level drained. The drained level is restored only if the time since the creature lost the level is equal to or less than one day per caster level. A character who has a level restored by restoration has exactly the minimum number of experience points necessary to restore him or her to his or her previous level.

Restoration cures all temporary ability damage, and it restores all points permanently drained from a single ability score (your choice if more than one is drained). It also eliminates any fatigue or exhaustion suffered by the target.

Restoration does not restore levels or constitution points lost due to death.

Material component: diamond dust worth 100 gp that is sprinkled over the target.

ALARM

Abjuration

level: brd 1, rgr 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: 25-ft.-Radius emanation centered on a point in space

Duration: 2 hours/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Alarm sounds a mental or audible alarm each time a creature of tiny or larger size enters the area or touches it. A creature who speaks the password (determined by the character at the time of casting) does not set off the alarm. The character decides at the time of casting whether the alarm will be mental or audible.

Mental alarm: a mental alarm alerts the character (and only the character) so long as the character remains within a mile of the warded area. The character notes a single mental alert that awakens the character from normal sleep but does not otherwise disturb concentration. A silence spell has no effect on a mental alarm.

Audible alarm: an audible alarm produces the sound of a hand bell, and anyone within 60 feet of the warded area can hear it clearly. Reduce the distance by 10 feet for each interposing closed door and by 20 feet for each substantial interposing wall. In quiet conditions, the ringing can be heard faintly up to 180 feet away. The ringing lasts for 1 round. Creatures within a silence spell cannot hear the ringing.

Ethereal or astral creatures do not trigger the alarm unless the intruder becomes material while in the warded area.

ANIMAL FRIENDSHIP

Enchantment (charm) [mind-affecting]

Level: drd 1, rgr 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one animal

Duration: instantaneous

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

The character wins the loyalty of an animal. The spell functions only if the character actually wishes to be the animal's friend. If the character is not willing to treat the animal as a the spell fails. An animal's loyalty is natural (not magical) and lasting.

The character can teach the befriended animal three specific tricks or tasks for each point of intelligence it possesses. They cannot be complex (complex tricks require the handle animal skill).

At most, the character can have animal friends whose hit dice total no more than twice the character's caster level (though the demands of adventuring generally restrict a character to half that number).

The character may dismiss animal friends to enable the character to befriend new ones.

DELAY POISON

Conjuration (healing)

Level: brd 2, clr 2, drd 2, pal 2, rgr 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: fortitude negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject becomes temporarily immune to poison. Any poison in the subject's system, or any poison the subject is exposed to during the spell's duration, does not affect the subject until the spell has expired. Delay poison does not cure any damage that poison may have already done.

DETECT ANIMALS OR PLANTS

Divination

Level: drd 1, rgr 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: quarter circle emanating from the character to the extreme of the range

Duration: concentration, up to 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can detect a particular type of animal or plant in a quarter circle emanating out from the character in whatever direction the character faces. The character must think of a species of animal or plant when using the spell. Each round the character can change the animal or plant type. The amount of information revealed depends on how long the character searches a particular area or focus on a specific type of animal or plant:

1st round: presence or absence of the animal or plant type in that quarter.

2nd round: number of individuals of the specified type in the area, and the condition of the healthiest specimen.

3rd round: the condition and location of each individual present. If an animal or plant is outside the character's line of sight, then the character discerns its direction but not its exact location.

Conditions: for purposes of this spell, the categories of condition are as follows:

Normal: has at least 90% of original hit points, free of disease.

Fair: 30% to 90% of original hit points remaining.

Poor: up to 30% of original hit points remaining, afflicted with a disease, or suffering from a debilitating injury.

Weak: 0 or fewer hit points remaining, afflicted with a disease in the terminal stage, or crippled.

If a creature falls into more than one category, the spell indicates the weaker of the two.

Note: each round the character can turn to detect things in a new area. The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

The DM decides if a specific type of animal or plant is present.

DETECT SNARES AND PITS

Divination

Level: drd 1, rgr 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: quarter circle emanating from the character to the extreme of the range

Duration: concentration, up to 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can detect simple pits, deadfalls, snares of wilderness creatures, and primitive traps constructed of natural materials. The spell does not detect complex traps.

The spell does detect certain natural hazards-quicksand (registers as a snare), a sinkhole (pit), or unsafe walls of natural rock (deadfall). However, it does not reveal other potentially dangerous conditions. The spell does not detect magic traps (except those that operate by pit, deadfall, or snaring), nor mechanically complex ones, nor those that have been rendered safe or inactive.

The amount of information revealed depends on how long the character studies a particular area:

1st round: presence or absence of hazards.

2nd round: number of hazards and the location of each. If a hazard is outside the character's line of sight, then the character discerns its direction but not its exact location.

Each additional round: the general type and trigger for one particular hazard closely examined by the character.

Note: each round, the character can turn to detect things in a new area. The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

ENTANGLE

Transmutation

Level: drd 1, plant 1, rgr 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: plants in a 40-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: reflex (see text)

Spell resistance: no

Plants entwine about creatures in the area or those who enter the area, holding them fast. An entangled creature suffers a -2 penalty to attack rolls, suffers a -4 penalty to effective dexterity, and can't move. An entangled character who attempts to cast a spell must make a concentration check (DC 15) or lose the spell. An entangled creature can break free and move half normal speed by using a full-round action to make a strength check or an escape artist check (DC 20). A creature who succeeds at a reflex saving throw is not entangled but can still move at only half speed through the area. Each round, the plants once again attempt to entangle all creatures who have avoided or escaped entanglement.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

MAGIC FANG

Transmutation

Level: drd 1, rgr 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

Magic fang gives one natural weapon of the subject a +1 enhancement bonus to attack and damage rolls. The spell can affect a slam attack, fist, bite, or other natural weapon. (The spell does not change an unarmed strike's damage from subdual damage to normal damage.) If the character is a good druid, the natural weapon is considered blessed, which means it has special effects on certain creatures.

PASS WITHOUT TRACE

Transmutation

Level: drd 1, rgr 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Targets: one creature/level touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subjects can move through any type of terrain and leave neither footprints nor scent. Tracking the subject is impossible by non-magical means.

READ MAGIC

Universal

Level: brd 0, clr 0, drd 0, pal 1, rgr 1, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 10 minutes/level

By means of read magic, the character can read magical inscriptions on objects that would otherwise be unintelligible. This deciphering does not normally invoke the magic contained in the writing, although it may do so in the case of a cursed scroll. Furthermore, once the spell is cast and the character has read the magical inscription, the character is thereafter able to read that particular writing without recourse to the use of read magic. The character can read at the rate of one page (250 words) per minute. The spell allows the character to identify a glyph of warding with a successful spellcraft check against DC 13 or a symbol with a successful spellcraft check against DC 19.

RESIST ELEMENTS

Abjuration

Level: clr 2, drd 2, fire 3, pal 2, rgr 1, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

This abjuration grants a creature limited protection to damage from whichever one of five energy types the character selects: acid, cold, fire, electricity, or sonic. Each round, the spell absorbs the first 12 points of damage the creature would otherwise take from the specified energy type, regardless of whether the source of damage is natural or magical. The spell protects the recipient's equipment as well.

Resist elements absorbs only damage. The character could still suffer unfortunate side effects.

Note: resist elements overlaps (and does not stack with) endure elements and protection from elements. If a character is warded by protection from elements and one or both of the other spells, the protection spell absorbs damage until it is exhausted. If a character is warded by resist elements and endure elements at the same time, the resist spell absorbs damage but the endure spell does not.

SPEAK WITH ANIMALS

Divination

Level: clr 2, drd 2, rgr 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 1 minute/level

The character can comprehend and communicate with animals. The character is able to ask questions of and receive answers from animals, although the spell doesn't make animals any more friendly or cooperative than normal. Furthermore, wary and cunning animals are likely to be terse and evasive, while the more stupid ones make inane comments. If the animal is friendly, it may do some favor or service for the character (as determined by the DM).

Note: this spell does not work on beasts, magical beasts, or vermin.

SUMMON NATURE'S ALLY I

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: drd 1, rgr 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one summoned creature

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons a natural creature. It appears there the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the creature, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 1st-level list on the summon nature's ally table below. All the creatures on the table are neutral unless otherwise noted.

ANIMAL MESSENGER

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: clr 2, drd 2, rgr 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one tiny animal

Duration: 1 day/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

The character compels a tiny animal to go to a spot the character designates. The animal cannot be one tamed or trained by someone else.

Using some type of food desirable to the animal as a lure, the character calls the animal to the character. It advances and awaits the character's bidding. The character can mentally impress on the animal a certain place well known to the character or an obvious landmark. The directions must be simple, because the animal depends on the character's knowledge and can't find a destination on its own. The character can attach some small item or note to the messenger. The animal then goes to the designated location and waits there until the duration of the spell expires, whereupon it resumes its normal activities.

During this period of waiting, the messenger allows others to approach it and remove any scroll or token it carries. The intended recipient of a message gains no special ability to communicate with the animal or read any attached message.

The spell works only on animals with an intelligence score of 1 or 2.

CURE LIGHT WOUNDS

Conjuration (healing)

Level: brd 1, clr 1, drd 1, healing 1, pal 1, rgr 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will half (harmless) (see text)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

When laying the character's hand upon a living creature, the character channels positive energy that cures 1d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (up to +5).

Since undead are powered by negative energy, this spell deals damage to them instead of curing their wounds. An undead creature can attempt a will save to take half damage.

DETECT CHAOS

Divination

Level: clr 1, rgr 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: quarter circle emanating from the character to the extreme of the range

Duration: concentration, up to 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can sense the presence of chaos. The amount of information revealed depends on how long the character studies a particular area or subject:

1st round: presence or absence of chaos.

2nd round: number of chaotic auras (creatures, objects, or spells) in the area and the strength of the strongest chaotic aura present. If the character is of lawful alignment, the strongest chaotic aura's strength is "overwhelming" (see below), and the strength is at least twice the character's character level, the character is stunned for 1 round and the spell ends. While the character is stunned, the character can't act, the character loses any dexterity bonus to AC, and attackers gain +2 bonuses to attack the character.

3rd round: the strength and location of each aura. If an aura is outside the character's line of sight, then the character discerns its direction but not its exact location.

Aura strength: an aura's chaotic power and strength depend on the type of chaotic creature or object that the character is detecting and its HD, caster level, or (in the case of a cleric) class level.

Faint	1d6 minutes
Moderate	1d6 X 10 minutes
Strong	1d6 hours

HOLD ANIMAL

Enchantment (compulsion)

[Mind-affecting]

Level: animal 2, drd 2, rgr 2

Components: V, S

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one animal

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

The subject freezes in place, standing helpless. The animal is aware and breathes normally but cannot take any physical actions. The animal can, however, execute purely mental actions.

A winged creature who is held cannot flap its wings and falls. A swimmer can't swim and may drown.

Hold animal does not work on beasts, magical beasts, or vermin.

PROTECTION FROM ELEMENTS

Abjuration

Level: clr 3, drd 3, luck 3, protection 3, rgr 2, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level or until discharged

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

This abjuration grants a creature temporary invulnerability to the selected energy type (acid, cold, fire, electricity, or sonic). When the spell absorbs 12 points per caster level of elemental damage, it is discharged. The spell protects the recipient's equipment as well.

Protection from elements absorbs only damage. The character could still suffer unfortunate side effects.

Note: protection from elements overlaps (and does not stack with) resist elements and endure elements. If a character is warded by protection from elements and one or both of the other spells, the protection spell absorbs damage until it is exhausted. If a character is warded by resist elements and endure elements at the same time, the resist spell absorbs damage but the endure spell does not.

SLEEP

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 1, rgr 2, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: several living creatures within a 15-ft.-Radius burst

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

A sleep spell causes a comatose slumber to come upon one or more creatures. Roll 2d4 to determine how many total HD of creatures can be affected. Creatures with the fewest HD are affected first. Among creatures with equal HD, those who are closest to the spell's point of origin are affected first. No creature with 5 or more HD is affected, and HD that are not sufficient to affect a creature are wasted.

Creatures with fewer HD are affected first.

Sleeping creatures are helpless. Slapping or wounding awakens affected creatures, but normal noise does not. Awakenings a creature is a standard action.

Sleep does not target unconscious creatures, constructs, or undead creatures.

Note: extra hit points are irrelevant for determining how many HD a creature has.

SNARE

Transmutation

Level: rgr 2, drd 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 3 rounds

Range: touch

Target: touched nonmagical circle of vine, rope, or thong with a 2 ft. Diameter + 2 ft./Level

Duration: until triggered or broken

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell enables the character to make a snare that functions as a magic trap. The snare can be made from any supple vine, a thong, or a rope. When the character casts snare upon it, the cordlike object blends with its surroundings (DC 23 search check for a rogue [only] to locate). One end of the snare is tied in a loop that contracts around one or more of the limbs of any creature stepping inside the circle. (Note that the head of a worm or a snake could be thus ensnared.)

If a strong and supple tree is nearby, the snare can be fastened to it. The spell causes the tree to bend and then straighten when the loop is triggered, dealing 1d6 points of damage to the creature trapped and lifting it off the ground by the trapped limb or limbs. If no such tree is available, the cordlike object tightens around the creature, causing no damage but tightly binding it.

An entangled creature suffers a -2 penalty to attack rolls and suffers a -4 penalty to effective dexterity. If the snare is anchored to an immobile object, the entangled character cannot move. Otherwise, the creature can move at half speed, but can't run or charge. A character capable of spellcasting who is bound by this spell must succeed at a concentration check (DC 15) to cast a spell.

The snare is magical. To escape, the trapped creature must succeed at an escape artist check (DC 23) or a strength check (DC 23) that is a full-round action. The snare has 5 hit points and AC 7. A successful escape from the snare breaks the loop and ends the spell.

SPEAK WITH PLANTS

Divination

Level: clr 3, drd 3, rgr 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 1 minute/level

The character can comprehend and communicate with plants, including normal plants and plant creatures. The character is able to ask questions of and receive answers from plants. A regular plant's sense of its surroundings is limited, so it won't be able to give (or recognize) detailed descriptions of creatures or answer questions about events outside its immediate vicinity.

The spell doesn't make plant creatures any more friendly or cooperative than normal. Furthermore, wary and cunning plant creatures are likely to be terse and evasive, while the more stupid ones may make inane comments. If the plant creature is friendly, it may do some favor or service for the character (as determined by the DM).

SUMMON NATURE'S ALLY II

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: drd 2, rgr 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons a natural creature. It appears there the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the creature, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 2nd-level list on the summon nature's ally table below or 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 1st-level list. All the creatures on the table are neutral unless otherwise noted.

2nd Level

CONTROL PLANTS

Transmutation

Level: drd 4, plant 4, rgr 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: plants within a 25 ft. + 5 Ft/2 levels-radius spread, centered on the character

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: will negates (see text)

Spell resistance: no

The character can converse, in very rudimentary terms, with all sorts of plants and plantlike creatures (including fungi, molds, and plantlike monsters). The character automatically exercises limited control over normal plants. Plantlike creatures can negate the control effect with a will save.

The spell does not enable plants to uproot themselves and move about, but it does allow them to move their branches, stems, and leaves.

The plants can duplicate the effect of an entangle spell or free creatures trapped by that spell.

CURE MODERATE WOUNDS

Conjuration (healing)

Level: brd 2, clr 2, drd 3, healing 2, pal 3, rgr 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will half (harmless) (see text)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

When laying the character's hand upon a living creature, the character channels positive energy that cures 2d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (up to +10).

Since undead are powered by negative energy, this spell deals damage to them instead of curing their wounds. An undead creature can attempt a will save to take half damage.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

DIMINISH PLANTS

Transmutation
 Level: drd 3, rgr 3
 Components: V, S, DF
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: see text
 Target or area: see text
 Duration: instantaneous
 Saving throw: none
 Spell resistance: no
 This spell has two versions:

Prune growth: this version causes normal vegetation within long range (400 feet + 40 feet per level) to shrink to about a third of their normal size, becoming untangled and less bushy. The affected vegetation appears to have been carefully pruned and trimmed.

At the character's option, the area can be a circle with a radius of 100 feet, a semicircle with a radius of 150 feet, or a quarter circle with a radius of 200 feet. The character may also designate areas within the area that are not affected.

Stunt: this version targets normal plants within a range of one-half mile, reducing their potential productivity over the course of the following year to one-third below normal.

Diminish plants counters plant growth.

GREATER MAGIC FANG

Transmutation
 Level: drd 3, rgr 3
 Components: V, S, DF
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)
 Target: one living creature
 Duration: 1 hour/level
 Saving throw: will negates (harmless)
 Spell resistance: yes (harmless)
 Greater magic fang gives one natural weapon of the subject a +1 enhancement bonus per three caster levels (maximum +5) to attack and damage rolls. The spell can affect a slam attack, fist, bite, or other natural weapon. (The spell does not change an unarmed strike's damage from subdual damage to normal damage.) If the character is a good druid, the natural weapon is considered blessed, which means it has special effects on certain creatures.

NEUTRALIZE POISON

Conjuration (healing)
 Level: brd 4, clr 4, drd 3, pal 4, rgr 3
 Components: V, S, M/DF
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: touch
 Target: creature or object of up to 1 cu. Ft./Level touched
 Duration: instantaneous
 Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)
 Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)
 The character detoxifies any sort of venom in the creature or object touched. A poisoned creature suffers no additional damage or effects from the poison, and any temporary effects are ended, but the spell does not reverse instantaneous effects, such as hit point damage, temporary ability damage, or effects that don't go away on their own.

This spell also neutralizes the poison in a poisonous creature or object. A poisonous creature replenishes its poison at its normal rate.

PLANT GROWTH

Transmutation
 Level: drd 3, plant 3, rgr 3
 Components: V, S, DF
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: see text
 Target or area: see text
 Duration: instantaneous
 Saving throw: none
 Spell resistance: no
 Plant growth has different effects depending on the version chosen.

Overgrowth: the first effect causes normal vegetation within long range (400 feet + 40 feet per level) to become thick and overgrown. The plants entwine to form a thicket or jungle that creatures must hack or force a way through. Speed drops to 5 feet, or 10 feet for large or larger creatures. (The DM may allow faster movement for very small or very large creatures.) The area must have brush and trees in it for this spell to take effect.

At the character's option, the area can be a circle with a radius of 100 feet, a semicircle with a radius of 150 feet, or a quarter circle with a radius of 200 feet. The character may also designate areas within the area that are not affected.

Enrichment: the second effect targets plants within a range of one-half mile, raising their potential productivity over the course of the next year to one-third above normal.

REMOVE DISEASE

Conjuration (healing)
 Level: brd 3, clr 3, drd 3, rgr 3
 Components: V, S
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: touch
 Target: creature touched
 Duration: instantaneous
 Saving throw: fortitude negates (harmless)
 Spell resistance: yes (harmless)
 Remove disease cures all diseases that the subject is suffering from. The spell also kills parasites.

Note: since the spell's duration is instantaneous, it does not prevent reinfection after a new exposure to the same disease at a later date.

SUMMON NATURE'S ALLY III

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]
 Level: drd 3, rgr 3
 Components: V, S, DF
 Casting time: 1 full round
 Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)
 Effect: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart
 Duration: 1 round/level (d)
 Saving throw: none
 Spell resistance: no
 This spell summons a natural creature. It appears there the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the creature, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 3rd-level list on the summon nature's ally table below, 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 2nd-level list, or 1d4+1 creatures of the same type from the 1st-level list. All the creatures on the table are neutral unless otherwise noted.

Crocodile	(animal)	Shark, Large	(animal)
Dire badger		Snake, constrictor	(animal)
Dire bat		Thoqqua
Dire weasel		Viper, Medium-size	(animal)
Elemental, Small		Wolverine	(animal)

When the character uses a summoning spell to summon an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

TREE SHAPE

Transmutation

Level: drd 2, rgr 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

By means of this spell, the character is able to assume the form of a small, living tree or shrub or a large, dead tree trunk with a small number of limbs. The closest inspection cannot reveal that the tree in question is actually a magically concealed creature. To all normal tests the character is, in fact, a tree or shrub, although a detect magic spell reveals a faint transmutation on the tree. While in tree form, the character can observe all that transpires around the character just as if the character were in the character's normal form, and the character's hit points and saves remain unaffected. The character gains a +10 natural armor bonus to AC but has an effective dexterity score of 1. The character is immune to critical hits while in tree form. All clothing and gear carried or worn changes with the character.

The character can dismiss tree shape as a free action.

WATER WALK

Transmutation

Level: clr 3, rgr 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Targets: one touched creature/level

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The transmuted creatures can tread on any liquid as if it were firm ground. Mud, oil, snow, quicksand, running water, ice, and even lava can be traversed easily, since the subjects' feet hover an inch or two above the surface. (Creatures crossing molten lava still take damage from the heat.) The creatures can walk, run, charge, or otherwise move across the surface as if it were normal ground.

If the spell is cast underwater (or while the subjects are partially or wholly submerged in whatever liquid they are in), the subjects are borne toward the surface at 60 feet per round until they can stand on it.

4TH-LEVEL RANGER SPELLS

Animal Growth:	One animal/two levels doubles in size.
Commune with Nature:	Learn about terrain for 1 mile/level.
Cure Serious Wounds:	Cures 3d8 damage +1/level (max +15).
Freedom of Movement:	Subject moves normally despite impediments.
Nondetection^M:	Hides subject from divination, scrying.
Summon Nature's Ally IV:	Calls animal to fight for you.
Tree Stride:	Step from one tree to another far away.

CURE SERIOUS WOUNDS

Conjuration (healing)

Level: brd 3, clr 3, drd 4, pal 4, rgr 4, healing 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will half (harmless) (see text)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

When laying the character's hand upon a living creature, the character channels positive energy that cures 3d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (up to +15).

Since undead are powered by negative energy, this spell deals damage to them instead of curing their wounds. An undead creature can attempt a will save to take half damage.

FREEDOM OF MOVEMENT

Abjuration

Level: clr 4, drd 4, luck 4, pal 4, rgr 4

Components: V, S, M, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal or touch

Target: the character or creature touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no or yes (harmless)

This spell enables the character or the creature the character touches to move and attack normally for the duration of the spell, even under the influence of magic that usually impedes movement.

The spell also allows a character to move and attack normally while underwater, provided that the weapon used is wielded in the hand rather than hurled. The freedom of movement spell does not, however, allow water breathing.

NONDETECTION

Abjuration

Level: rgr 4, sor/wiz 3, trickery 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature or object touched

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

The warded creature or object becomes difficult to detect by divination. Nondetection also prevents location by such magic items as crystal balls. If a divination is attempted against the warded creature or item, the caster of the divination must succeed at a caster level check (1d20 + caster level) against a DC of 11 + the caster level of the spellcaster who cast nondetection. If the character cast nondetection on the character's self or on an item currently in the character's possession, the DC is 15 + the character's caster level.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

If cast on a creature, nondetection wards the creature's gear as well as the creature itself.

Material component: worth 50 gp.

POLYMORPH SELF

Transmutation

Level: rgr 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

The caster is changed into another form of creature. The new form can range in size from diminutive to one size larger than the caster's normal form. Upon changing, the character regains lost hit points as if having rested for a day (though this healing does not restore temporary ability damage and provide other benefits of resting for a day; and changing back does not heal the caster further). If slain, the character reverts to his or her original form, though the creature remains dead.

The polymorphed character acquires the physical and natural abilities of the creature he or she has been polymorphed into while retaining his or her own mind. Physical abilities include natural size and strength, dexterity, and constitution scores. Natural abilities include armor, natural weapons, and similar gross physical qualities. A body with extra limbs does not allow a character to make more attacks (or more advantageous two-weapon attacks) than normal. Natural abilities also include mundane movement capabilities, but not magical flight and other magical forms of travel. Extremely high speeds for certain creatures are the result of magical ability, so they are not granted by this spell. Other nonmagical abilities (such as low-light vision) are considered natural abilities and are retained.

Any part of the body or piece of equipment that is separated from the whole reverts to its original form.

The character's new scores and faculties are average ones for the race or species into which he or she has been transformed.

The character retains his or her intelligence, wisdom, and charisma scores, level and class, hit points (despite any change in the character's constitution score), alignment, base attack bonus, and base saves. (New strength, dexterity, and constitution scores may affect final attack and save bonuses.) The character retains his or her own type, extraordinary abilities, spells, and spell-like abilities, but not its supernatural abilities. The character can cast spells for which he or she has components. The character needs a humanlike voice for verbal components and humanlike hands for somatic components. The caster does not gain the spell-like abilities of the new form. The character does not gain the supernatural abilities or the extraordinary abilities of the new creature.

The new form can be disorienting. Any time the polymorphed character is in a stressful or demanding situation (such as combat), the caster must succeed at a will save (DC 19) or suffer a -2 penalty on all attack rolls, saves, skill checks, and ability checks until the situation passes. Characters who are polymorphed for a long time (years and years) grow ACcustomed to their new form and can overcome some of these drawback s (DM's discretion).

When the polymorph occurs, the character's equipment, if any, transforms to match the new form. If the new form is a creature that does not use equipment, the equipment melds into the new form and becomes nonfunctional. Material components and focus-es melded in this way cannot be used to cast spells. If the new form uses equipment, the caster's equipment changes to match the new form and retains its properties.

The character can freely designate the new form's minor physical qualities (such as hair color, hair texture, and skin color) within the normal ranges for a creature of that type. The new form's significant physical qualities (such as height, weight, and gender) are also under the character's control, but must fall within the norms for the new form's species. The character can be changed into a member of his or her own species or even into itself. (If changed into itself, it does not suffer the abovementioned penalties from the disorientation of a new form.)

The character is effectively disguised as an average member of the new form's race. If the character uses this spell to create a disguise, the character gets a +10 bonus on the character's disguise check.

Incorporeal or gaseous forms cannot be assumed, and incorporeal or gaseous creatures are immune to being polymorphed. A natural shapeshifter can take its natural form as a standard action.

The character can change form as often as desired for the duration of the spell simply by willing it so. Each change is a full-round action. The character regains hit points as if having rested for a day only from the initial transformation, however.

SUMMON NATURE'S ALLY IV

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: drd 4, rgr 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons a natural creature. It appears there the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the creature, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 4th-level list on the summon nature's ally table below, 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 3rd-level list, or 1d4+1 creatures of the came type from a lower level list. All the creatures on the table are neutral unless otherwise noted.

4th Level
Arrowhawk, Small
Assassin vine
Dire ape
Dire wolf
Giant eagle	[chaotic good]
Giant owl	[neutral good]
Grig (sprite)	[without pipes, neutral good]
Lion	(animal)
Phantom fungus
Tojanida, Small
Viper, Large	(animal)
Xorn, Small

When the character uses a summoning spell to summon an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

TREE STRIDE

Transmutation [teleportation]

Level: drd 5, rgr 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 1 hour/level or until expended (see text)

The character gains the ability to enter trees and move from inside one tree to inside another tree. The first tree the character enters and all others the character enters must be of the same type, must all be living, and must have girth at least equal to the character's. By moving into a tree, the character instantly knows the location of all other trees of the same type within transport range (see below) and may choose whether the character wants to pass into one or simply step back out of the tree the character moved into. The character may choose to pass to any tree of the appropriate kind within the transport range shown in the following table:

Type of Tree	Range of Transport
Oak, ash, yew	3,000 feet
Elm, linden	2,000 feet
Other deciduous	1,500 feet
Any coniferous	1,000 feet
All other trees	500 feet

The character may move into a tree up to one time per level (passing from one tree to another counts only as moving into one tree). The spell lasts until the duration is expended or the character exits a tree. Each transport is a full-round action.

The character can, at the character's option, remain within a tree without transporting, though the character is forced out when the spell ends. If the tree in which the character is concealed is chopped down or burned, the character is slain if the character does not exit before the process is complete.

WIND WALL

Evocation

Level: air 2, brd 3, clr 3, rgr 4, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: wall up to 10 ft./Level long and 5 ft./Level high (s)

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: none (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

An invisible vertical curtain of wind appears. It is 2 feet thick and of considerable strength. It is a roaring blast sufficient to blow away any bird smaller than an eagle or tear papers and similar materials from unsuspecting hands. (A reflex save allows a creature to maintain its grasp on an object.) Tiny and small flying creatures cannot pass through the barrier. Loose materials and cloth garments fly upward when caught in a wind wall. Arrows and bolts are deflected upward and miss, while any other normal ranged weapon passing through the wall suffers a 30% miss chance. (Massive ranged weapons are not affected.) Gases, most gaseous breath weapons, and creatures in gaseous form cannot pass through the wall (although it is no barrier to incorporeal creatures).

While the wall must be vertical, the character can shape it in any continuous path along the ground that the character likes.

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This enchantment clouds the mind of a humanoid of medium-size or smaller so that he takes no actions. Humanoids of 5 or more HD are not affected. The dazed subject is not stunned (so attackers get no special advantage against him), but can't move, cast spells, use mental abilities, etc.

EVOC

FLARE

Evocation [light]

Level: brd 0, drd 0, sor/wiz 0

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: burst of light

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

This cantrip creates a burst of bright light. If the character causes the light to burst directly in front of a single creature, that creature is dazzled. A dazzled creature suffers a -1 penalty on attack rolls. The creature recovers in 1 minute. Sightless creatures are not affected by flare.

LIGHT

Evocation [light]

Level: brd 0, clr 0, drd 0, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: object touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell causes an object to glow like a torch, shedding light in a 20-foot radius from the point the character touches. The effect is immobile, but it can be cast on a movable object. Light taken into an area of magical darkness does not function.

DANCING LIGHTS

Evocation (light)

Level: brd 0, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: up to four illusionary lights, all within a 10-ft.-Radius area

Duration: 1 minute

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

Depending on the version selected, the character creates up to four lights that resemble lanterns or torches (and cast that amount of light), or up to four glowing spheres of light (which look like will-o'-wisps), or one faintly glowing, vaguely humanoid shape. The dancing lights must stay within a 10-foot-radius area in relation to each other but otherwise move as the character desires (no concentration required): forward or back, up or down, straight or turning corners, etc. The lights can move up to 100 feet a round. A light winks out if the distance between the character and it exceeds the spell's range.

ILLUS

GHOST SOUND

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 0, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: illusory sounds

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

Ghost sound allows the character to create a volume of sound that rises, recedes, approaches, or remains at a fixed place. The character chooses what type of sound the spell creates when casting the spell and cannot thereafter change its basic character. The volume of sound created, however, depends on the character's level. The character can produce as much noise as four normal humans per caster level (maximum twenty humans). Thus, talking, singing, shouting, walking, marching, or running sounds can be created. The noise a ghost sound spell produces can be virtually any type of sound within the volume limit. A horde of rats running and squeaking is about the same volume as eight humans running and shouting. A roaring lion is equal to the noise from sixteen humans, while a roaring dire cat is equal to the noise from twenty humans.

Note that ghost sound can enhance the effectiveness of a silent

image spell.			Spell resistance: yes (object) The character can open or close (caster’s choice) a door, chest, box, window, bag, pouch, bottle, or other container. If anything resists this activity the spell fails. In addition, the spell can only open and close things that are of standard weight.
NECRO			UNIV
DISRUPT UNDEAD Necromancy Level: sor/wiz 0 Components: V, S Casting time: 1 action Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels) Effect: ray Duration: instantaneous Saving throw: none Spell resistance: yes The character directs a ray of positive energy. The character must make a ranged touch attack roll to hit, and if the ray hits an undead creature, it deals 1d6 points of damage to it.			ARCANE MARK Universal level: sor/wiz 0 Components: V, S Casting time: 1 action Range: 0 ft. Effect: one personal rune or mark, all of which must fit within 1 ft. Square Duration: permanent Saving throw: none Spell resistance: no This spell allows the character to inscribe the character’s personal rune or mark, which can be no taller than 6 inches in height and consist of no more than six characters. The writing can be visible or invisible. An arcane mark spell enables the character to etch the rune upon any substance without harm to the material upon which the mark is placed. If an invisible mark is made, a detect magic spell causes it to glow and be visible (though not necessarily understandable). See invisibility, true seeing, a gem of seeing, or a robe of eyes likewise allows their users to see an invisible arcane mark. A read magic spell reveals the words, if any. The mark cannot be dispelled, but it can be removed by the caster or by an erase spell. If cast on a living being, normal wear gradually causes the mark to fade in about a month. Arcane mark must be cast on an object prior to casting instant summons on the same object.
TRANS			DETECT MAGIC
MAGE HAND Transmutation Level: brd 0, sor/wiz 0 Components: V, S Casting time: 1 action Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels) Target: nonmagical, unattended object weighing up to 5 lb. Duration: concentration Saving throw: none Spell resistance: no The character points a finger at an object and can lift it and move it at will from a distance. As a move-equivalent action, the character can move the object up to 15 feet in any direction, though the spell ends if the distance between the character and the object ever exceeds the spell’s range.			Universal Level: brd 0, clr 0, drd 0, sor/wiz 0 Components: V, S Casting time: 1 action Range: 60 ft. Area: quarter circle emanating from the character to the extreme of the range Duration: concentration, up to 1 minute/level (d) Saving throw: none Spell resistance: no The character can detect magical auras. The amount of information revealed depends on how long the character studies a particular area or subject: 1st round: presence or absence of magical auras. 2nd round: number of different magical auras and the strength of the strongest aura. 3rd round: the strength and location of each aura. If the items or creatures bearing the auras are in line of sight, the character can make spellcraft skill checks to determine the school of magic involved in each. (Make one check per aura; DC 15 + spell level, or 15 + half caster level for a nonspell effect.) Magical areas, multiple types of magic, or strong local magical emanations may confuse or conceal weaker auras. Aura strength: an aura’s magical power and strength depend on a spell’s functioning spell level or an item’s caster level.
MENDING Transmutation Level: brd 0, clr 0, drd 0, sor/wiz 0 Components: V, S Casting time: 1 action Range: 10 ft. Target: one object of up to 1 pound Duration: instantaneous Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object) Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object) Mending repairs small breaks or tears in objects (not warps). In metallic objects, it will weld a broken ring, a chain link, a medalion, or a slender dagger, providing but one break exists. Ceramic or wooden objects with multiple breaks can be invisibly rejoined to be as strong as new. A hole in a leather sack or wineskin is completely healed over by mending. The spell can repair a magic item, but the item’s magical abilities are not restored. The spell cannot mend broken magic rods, staffs, or wands.
OPEN/CLOSE Transmutation Level: brd 0, sor/wiz 0 Components: V, S, F Casting time: 1 action Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels) Target: portal or object that can be opened or closed Duration: instantaneous Saving throw: will negates (object)

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Strength	Functioning Spell Level	Item Caster Level
Dim	0-level or lingering aura	Lingering aura
Faint	1st–3rd	1st–5th
Moderate	4th–6th	6th–11th
Strong	7th–9th	12th–20th
Overwhelming	Artifact or deity-level magic	Beyond mortal caster

If an aura falls into more than one category, detect magic indicates the stronger of the two.

Length aura lingers: how long the aura lingers depends on its original strength:

Aura Strength	Duration
Faint	1d6 minutes
Moderate	1d6 X 10 minutes
Strong	1d6 hours
Overwhelming	1d6 days

Note: each round, the character can turn to detect things in a new area. The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it. Outsiders and elementals are not magical in themselves, but if they are conjured, the conjuration spell registers.

PRESTIDIGITATION

Universal

Level: brd 0, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 10 ft.

Target, effect, or area: see text

Duration: 1 hour

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

Once cast, the prestidigitation spell enables the character to perform simple magical effects for 1 hour. The effects are minor and have severe limitations. Prestidigitations can slowly lift 1 pound of material. They can color, clean, or soil items in a 1-foot cube each round. They can chill, warm, or flavor 1 pound of nonliving material. They cannot inflict damage or affect the concentration of spellcasters. Prestidigitation can create small objects, but they look crude and artificial. The materials created by a prestidigitation spell are extremely fragile, and they cannot be used as tools, weapons, or spell components. Finally, prestidigitation lacks the power to duplicate any other spell effects. Any actual change to an object (beyond just moving, cleaning, or soiling it) persists only 1 hour.

READ MAGIC

Universal

Level: brd 0, clr 0, drd 0, pal 1, rgr 1, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 10 minutes/level

By means of read magic, the character can read magical inscriptions on objects that would otherwise be unintelligible. This deciphering does not normally invoke the magic contained in the writing, although it may do so in the case of a cursed scroll. Furthermore, once the spell is cast and the character has read the magical inscription, the character is thereafter able to read that particular writing without recourse to the use of read magic. The character can read at the rate of one page (250 words) per minute. The spell allows the character to identify a glyph of warding with a successful spellcraft check against DC 13 or a symbol with a successful spellcraft check against DC 19.

ABJUR

ALARM

Abjuration

level: brd 1, rgr 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: 25-ft.-Radius emanation centered on a point in space

Duration: 2 hours/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Alarm sounds a mental or audible alarm each time a creature of tiny or larger size enters the area or touches it. A creature who speaks the password (determined by the character at the time of casting) does not set off the alarm. The character decides at the time of casting whether the alarm will be mental or audible.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Mental alarm: a mental alarm alerts the character (and only the character) so long as the character remains within a mile of the warded area. The character notes a single mental alert that awakens the character from normal sleep but does not otherwise disturb concentration. A silence spell has no effect on a mental alarm.

Audible alarm: an audible alarm produces the sound of a hand bell, and anyone within 60 feet of the warded area can hear it clearly. Reduce the distance by 10 feet for each interposing closed door and by 20 feet for each substantial interposing wall. In quiet conditions, the ringing can be heard faintly up to 180 feet away. The ringing lasts for 1 round. Creatures within a silence spell cannot hear the ringing.

Ethereal or astral creatures do not trigger the alarm unless the intruder becomes material while in the warded area.

ENDURE ELEMENTS

Abjuration

Level: clr 1, drd 1, pal 1, sor/wiz 1, strength 1, sun 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 24 hours

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

This abjuration grants a creature limited protection to damage from whichever one of five energy types the character selects: acid, cold, fire, electricity, or sonic. Each round, the spell absorbs the first 5 points of damage the creature would otherwise take from the specified energy type, regardless of whether the source of damage is natural or magical. The spell protects the recipient's equipment as well.

Endure elements absorbs only damage. The character could still suffer unfortunate side effects.

Note: endure elements overlaps (and does not stack with) resist elements and protection from elements. If a character is warded by protection from elements and one or both of the other spells, the protection spell absorbs damage until it is exhausted. If a character is warded by resist elements and endure elements at the same time, the resist spell absorbs damage but the endure spell does not.

HOLD PORTAL

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 1

Component: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one portal, up to 20 sq. Ft./Level

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell magically bars a door, gate, window, or shutter of wood, metal, or stone. The magic holds the portal fast, just as if it were securely closed and normally locked. A knock spell or a successful dispel magic spell can negate the hold portal. For a portal affected by this spell, add 5 to the normal DC for forcing the portal.

PROTECTION FROM CHAOS

Abjuration [lawful]

Level: brd 1, clr 1, law 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 minute/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: no (see text)

This spell wards a creature from attacks by chaotic creatures, from mental control, and from summoned or conjured creatures. It creates a magical barrier around the subject at a distance of 1 foot. The barrier moves with the subject and has three major effects:

First, the subject gets a +2 deflection bonus to AC and a +2 resistance bonus on saves. Both these bonuses apply against attacks made by chaotic creatures.

Second, the barrier blocks any attempt to possess the warded creature or to exercise mental control over the creature. The protection does not prevent a spell that gains mental control, but it prevents the caster of such a spell from mentally commanding the protected creature. If the protection from chaos effect ends before the mental control effect does, the caster would then be able to mentally command the controlled creature. Likewise, the barrier keeps out a possessing life force but does not expel one if it is in place before the spell is cast. This second effect works regardless of alignment.

Third, the spell prevents bodily contact by summoned or conjured creatures. This causes the natural weapon attacks of such creatures to fail and the creatures to recoil if such attacks require touching the warded creature. Lawful elementals and outsiders are immune to this effect. The protection against contact by summoned or conjured creatures ends if the warded creature makes an attack against or tries to force the barrier against the blocked creature. Spell resistance can allow a creature to overcome this protection and touch the warded creature.

PROTECTION FROM EVIL

Abjuration [good]

Level: brd 1, clr 1, good 1, pal 1,

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 minute/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: no (see text)

This spell wards a creature from attacks by evil creatures, from mental control, and from summoned or conjured creatures. It creates a magical barrier around the subject at a distance of 1 foot. The barrier moves with the subject and has three major effects:

First, the subject gets a +2 deflection bonus to AC and a +2 resistance bonus on saves. Both these bonuses apply against attacks made by evil creatures.

Second, the barrier blocks any attempt to possess the warded creature (as by a magic jar attack) or to exercise mental control over the creature (as by a vampire's supernatural domination ability, which works similar to dominate person). The protection does not prevent a vampire's domination itself, but it prevents the vampire from mentally commanding the protected creature. If the protection from evil effect ends before the domination effect does, the vampire would then be able to mentally command the controlled creature. Likewise, the barrier keeps out a possessing life force but does not expel one if it is in place before the spell is cast. This second effect works regardless of alignment.

Third, the spell prevents bodily contact by summoned or conjured creatures. This causes the natural weapon attacks of such creatures to fail and the creatures to recoil if such attacks require touching the warded creature. Good elementals and outsiders are immune to this effect. The protection against contact by summoned or conjured creatures ends if the warded creature makes an attack against or tries to force the barrier against the blocked creature. Spell resistance can allow a creature to overcome this protection and touch the warded creature.

This spell wards a creature from attacks by lawful creatures, from mental control, and from summoned or conjured creatures. It creates a magical barrier around the subject at a distance of 1 foot. The barrier moves with the subject and has three major effects:

First, the subject gets a +2 deflection bonus to AC and a +2 resistance bonus on saves. Both these bonuses apply against attacks made by lawful creatures.

SHIELD

Abjuration [force]

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 1 minute/level (d)

Shield creates an invisible, mobile disk of force that hovers in front of the character. It negates magic missile attacks directed at the character. The disk also intercepts attacks, providing three-quarters cover (+7 AC and +3 on reflex saves against attacks that affect an area). The disk moves out of the way when the character attacks, so it does not provide cover to opponents. The disk protects the character only against magic missiles and attacks from one direction. The character designates half the battlefield as being blocked by the shield. The other half is not. The character can change the defensive direction of the shield (that is, rotate the dividing line) once as a free action on each of the character's turns.

CONJ

GREASE

Conjuration (creation)

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target or area: one object or a 10-ft. X

10-Ft. Square

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

A grease spell covers a solid surface with a layer of slippery grease. Any creature entering the area or caught in it when the spell is cast must make a successful reflex save or slip, skid, and fall. Those that successfully save can move at half speed across the surface. However, those that remain in the area must each make a new saving throw every round to avoid falling and to be able to move. The DM should adjust saving throws by circumstance.

The spell can also be used to create a greasy coating on an item. Material objects not in use are always affected by this spell, while objects wielded or employed by creatures receive a reflex saving throw to avoid the effect. If the initial saving throw fails, the creature immediately drops the item. A saving throw must be made each round the creature attempts to pick up or use the greased item.

MAGE ARMOR

Conjuration (creation) [force]

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

An invisible but tangible field of force surrounds the subject of mage armor, providing a +4 armor bonus to AC. Unlike mundane armor, mage armor entails no armor check penalty, arcane spell failure chance, or speed reduction. Since mage armor is made of force, incorporeal creatures can't bypass it the way they do normal armor.

MOUNT

Conjuration (summoning)

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one mount

Duration: 2 hours/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character summons a light horse or a pony (the character's choice) to serve the character as a mount. The steed serves willingly and well. The mount comes with a bit and bridle and a riding saddle.

OBSCURING MIST

Conjuration (creation)

Level: air 1, clr 1, drd 1, sor/wiz 1,

Water 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 30 ft.

Effect: cloud centered on the character spreads 30 ft. And is 20 ft. High

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

A misty vapor arises around the character. It is stationary once created. The vapor obscures all sight, including darkvision, beyond 5 feet. A creature 5 feet away has one-half concealment (attacks have a 20% miss chance). Creatures farther away have total concealment (50% miss chance, and the attacker cannot use sight to locate the target).

A moderate wind (11+ mph) disperses the fog in 4 rounds. A strong wind (21+ mph) disperses the fog in 1 round. A fire spell burns away the fog in the explosive or fiery spell's area.

This spell does not function underwater.

SUMMON MONSTER I

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: brd 1, clr 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one summoned creature

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons an outsider (extraplanar creature). It appears where the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the outsider, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 1st-level list on the summon monster table below. The character chooses which creature to summon, and can change that choice each time the spell is cast.

1st Level
Celestial dog (animal)	LG
Celestial badger (animal)	CG
Fiendish dire rat	LE
Fiendish hawk (animal)	CE

When the character uses a summoning spell to summon an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

UNSEEN SERVANT

Conjuration (creation)

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one invisible, mindless, shapeless servant

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The unseen servant is an invisible, mindless, shapeless force that performs simple tasks at the character's command. It can run and fetch things, open unstuck doors, and hold chairs, as well as clean and mend. The servant can perform only one activity at a time, but it repeats the same activity over and over again if told to do so. It has an effective strength score of 2 (so it can lift 20 pounds or drag 100 pounds). It can trigger traps and such, but it can exert only 20 pounds of force. Its speed is 15 feet.

The servant cannot attack in any way; it is never allowed an attack roll. It cannot be killed, but it dissipates if it takes 6 points of damage from area attacks. (It gets no saves against attacks.) If the character attempts to send it beyond the spell's range (measured from the character's current position), the servant ceases to exist.

DIV

COMPREHEND LANGUAGES

Divination

Level: clr 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 10 minutes/level

The character can understand the spoken words of creatures or read otherwise incomprehensible written messages. The character must touch the creature or the writing. Note that the ability to read does not necessarily impart insight into the material, merely its literal meaning. Note also that the spell enables the character to understand or read an unknown language, not speak or write it.

Written material can be read at the rate of one page (250 words) per minute. Magical writing cannot be read, other than to know it is magical. It does not decipher codes or reveal messages concealed in otherwise normal text.

DETECT SECRET DOORS

Divination

Level: brd 1, knowledge 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: quarter circle emanating from the character to the extreme of the range

Duration: concentration, up to 1 minute/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can detect secret doors, compartments, caches, and so forth. Only passages, doors, or openings that have been specifically constructed to escape detection are detected by this spell. The amount of information revealed depends on how long the character studies a particular area or subject:

1st round: presence or absence of secret doors.

2nd round: number of secret doors and the location of each. If an aura is outside the character's line of sight, then the character discerns its direction but not its exact location.

Each additional round: the mechanism or trigger for one particular secret portal closely examined by the character.

Note: each round, the character can turn to detect things in a new area. The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

DETECT UNDEAD

Divination

Level: clr 1, pal 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: quarter circle emanating from the character to the extreme of the range

Duration: concentration, up to 1 minute/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can detect the aura that surrounds undead. The amount of information revealed depends on how long the character studies a particular area or subject:

1st round: presence or absence of undead auras.

2nd round: number of undead auras in the area and the strength of the strongest undead aura present. If the character is of good alignment, the strongest undead aura's strength is "overwhelming" (see below), and the strength is at least twice the character's character level, the character is stunned for 1 round and the spell ends. While the character is stunned, the character can't act, the character loses any dexterity bonus to AC, and attackers gain +2 bonuses to attack the character.

3rd round: the strength and location of each aura. If an aura is outside the character's line of sight, then the character discerns its direction but not its exact location.

Aura strength: the strength of the undead aura is determined by the HD of the undead creature.

Strength	HD
Dim	Lingering aura
Faint	1 or less
Moderate	2–4
Strong	5–10
Overwhelming	11+

Aura Strength	Duration
Faint	1d6 minutes
Moderate	1d6 X 10 minutes
Strong	1d6 hours
Overwhelming	1d6 days

Length aura lingers: how long the aura lingers depends on its original strength:

Note: each round, the character can turn to detect things in a new area. The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

IDENTIFY

Divination

Level: brd 1, magic 2, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 8 hours

Range: touch

Targets: up to 1 touched object per level

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The spell determines the single most basic function of each magic item, including how to activate that function (if appropriate), and how many charges are left (if any). For a weapon, this will be the "plus" to attack and damage.

If a magic item has multiple different functions that are equally basic, identify determines the lowest-level function. If these functions are also of equal level, the DM decides randomly which is identified.

Arcane material components: worth at least 100 gp value.

Components: V, F

ENCH

CHARM PERSON

Enchantment (charm) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one person

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This charm makes a humanoid of medium-size or smaller regard the character as a trusted friend and ally. If the creature is currently being threatened or attacked by the character or the character's allies, however, he receives a +5 bonus on his saving throw.

The spell does not enable the character to control the charmed person as if the person were an automaton, but the subject perceives the character's words and actions in the most favorable way. The character can try to give the subject orders, but the character must win an opposed charisma check to convince the subject to do anything he or she wouldn't ordinarily do. (Retries not allowed.) A charmed person never obeys suicidal or obviously harmful orders. Any act by the character or the character's apparent allies that threatens the charmed person breaks the spell. Note also that the character must speak the person's language to communicate the character's commands, or else be good at pantomiming.

HYPNOTISM

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: several living creatures, no two of which may be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 2d4 rounds (d)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

The character's gestures and droning incantation cause creatures nearby to stop and stare blankly at the character, hypnotized. The character can use their rapt attention to make the character's suggestions and requests seem more plausible. Roll 2d4 to see how many total HD the character affects. Creatures with fewer HD are affected before creatures with more HD. Only creatures who can see or hear the character are affected, but they do not need to understand the character to be hypnotized.

If the character uses this spell in combat, the targets gain a +2 bonus to their saving throws. If the spell affects only a single creature not in combat at the time, the saving throw has a penalty of -2. While hypnotized, a creature's spot and listen checks suffer a -4 penalty. Any potential threat allows the creature a second saving throw. Any obvious threat automatically breaks the hypnotism, as does shaking or slapping the creature. A hypnotized creature's ally may shake it free of the spell as a standard action.

While the subject is hypnotized, the character can make a suggestion or request (provided the character can communicate with it). The suggestion must be brief and reasonable. An affected creature reacts as though it were two steps more friendly in attitude. Even once the spell ends, it retains its new attitude toward the character, but only with respect to that particular suggestion.

A creature who fails its saving throw does not remember that the character enspelled it.

SLEEP

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 1, rgr 2, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: several living creatures within a 15-ft.-Radius burst

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

A sleep spell causes a comatose slumber to come upon one or more creatures. Roll 2d4 to determine how many total HD of creatures can be affected. Creatures with the fewest HD are affected first. Among creatures with equal HD, those who are closest to the spell's point of origin are affected first. No creature with 5 or more HD is affected, and HD that are not sufficient to affect a creature are wasted.

Creatures with fewer HD are affected first.

Sleeping creatures are helpless. Slapping or wounding awakens affected creatures, but normal noise does not. Awakenings a creature is a standard action.

Sleep does not target unconscious creatures, constructs, or undead creatures.

Note: extra hit points are irrelevant for determining how many HD a creature has.

EVOC

FLOATING DISK

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: 3-ft.-Diameter disk of force

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character creates a slightly concave, circular plane of force that follows the character about and carries loads for the character. The disk is 3 feet in diameter and 1 inch deep at its center. It can hold 100 pounds of weight per caster level. (If used to transport a liquid, its capacity is 2 gallons.) The disk floats approximately 3 feet above the ground at all times and remains level. It floats along horizontally within spell range and will accompany the character at a rate of no more than the character's normal speed each round. If not otherwise directed, it maintains a constant interval of 5 feet between itself and the character. The disk winks out of existence when the spell duration expires. The disk also winks out if the character moves beyond range (by moving too fast or by such means as a teleport spell) or try to take the disk more than 3 feet away from the surface beneath it. When the disk winks out, whatever it was supporting falls to the surface beneath it.

MAGIC MISSILE

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: up to five creatures, no two of which can be more than 15 ft. Apart

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

A missile of magical energy darts forth from the character's fingertip and unerringly strikes its target. The missile deals 1d4+1 points of damage.

The missile strikes unerringly, even if the target is in melee or has anything less than total cover or concealment. Specific parts of a creature cannot be singled out. Inanimate objects cannot be damaged by the spell.

For every two levels of experience past 1st, the character gains an additional missile. The character has two at 3rd level, three at 5th level, four at 7th level, and the maximum of five missiles at 9th level or higher. If the character shoots multiple missiles, the character can have them strike a single creature or several creatures. A single missile can strike only one creature. The character must designate targets before the character rolls for sr or roll damage.

ILLUS

CHANGE SELF

Illusion (glamer)

Level: sor/wiz 1, trickery 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 10 minutes/level (d)

The character can make his or herself-including clothing, armor, weapons, and equipment-look different. The character can seem 1 foot shorter or taller, thin, fat, or in between. The character cannot change the character's body type. Otherwise, the extent of the apparent change is up to the character.

The spell does not provide the abilities or mannerisms of the chosen form. It does not alter the perceived tactile (touch) or audible (sound) properties of the character or the character's equipment.

If the character uses this spell to create a disguise, the character gets a +10 bonus on the disguise check.

Note: creatures get will saves to recognize the glamer as an illusion if they interact with it.

COLOR SPRAY

Illusion (pattern) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: cone

Duration: instantaneous (see text)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

A cone of colors springs forth from the character's hand. The closest 1d6 creatures in the cone are affected. The spell affects each subject according to its HD:

Up to 2: unconscious for 2d4 rounds, then blinded for 1d4 rounds, and then stunned for 1 round. (Only living creatures are knocked unconscious.)

3 or 4: blinded for 1d4 rounds, then stunned for 1 round.

5 or more: stunned for 1 round.

In addition to the obvious effects, a blinded creature suffers a 50% miss chance in combat (all opponents have full concealment), loses any dexterity bonus to AC, grants a +2 bonus to attackers' attack rolls (they are effectively invisible), moves at half speed, and suffers a -4 penalty on search checks and most strength- and dexterity-based skills.

A stunned creature can't act and loses any dexterity bonus to AC. Attackers gain +2 bonuses to attack it.

Sightless creatures are not affected by color spray.

MAGIC AURA

Illusion (glamer)

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: one touched object weighing up to 5 lb./Level

Duration: 1 day/level

Saving throw: none (see text)

Spell resistance: no

The character makes an item's aura register to detection spells (and similar spells) as though it were either a magic item of the type that the character specifies or the subject of a spell that the character specifies.

If the object bearing magic aura has identify cast on it or is similarly examined, the examiner recognizes that the aura is false and detects the object's actual qualities if he succeeds at a will save. Otherwise, he believes the aura and no amount of testing reveals what the true magic is.

If the targeted item's own aura is exceptionally powerful (if it is an artifact, for instance), magic aura doesn't work.

Note: a magic weapon, shield, or suit of armor must be a masterwork item, so a sword of average make, for example, looks suspicious if it has a magical aura.

SILENT IMAGE

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: visual figment that cannot extend beyond four 10-ft.

Cubes + one 10-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: concentration

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

This spell creates the visual illusion of an object, creature, or force, as visualized by the character. The illusion does not create sound, smell, texture, or temperature. The character can move the image within the limits of the size of the effect.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

UNDETECTABLE AURA

Illusion (glamer)

Level: magic 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, f

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: object touched weighing up to 5 lb./Level

Duration: 1 day/level

Saving throw: none (see text)

Spell resistance: no

This spell allows the character to mask a magic item's aura from detection. If the object bearing undetectable aura has identify cast on it or is similarly examined, the examiner recognizes that the aura is false and detects the object's actual qualities if he succeeds at a will save.

VENTRILOQUISM

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: intelligible sound, usually speech

Duration: 1 minute/level (d)

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

The character can make the character's voice (or any sound that the character can normally make vocally) seem to issue from someplace else. The character can speak in any language the character knows. With respect to such voices and sounds, anyone who hears it and rolls a successful save recognizes the sound as illusory (but still hears it).

NECRO

CAUSE FEAR

Necromancy [fear, mind-affecting]

Level: brd 1, clr 1, death 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature

Duration: 1d4 rounds

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

The affected creature becomes frightened. It suffers a -2 morale penalty on attack rolls, weapon damage rolls, and saving throws. It flees from the character as well as it can. If unable to flee, the creature may fight. Creatures with 6 or more hit dice are immune. Cause fear counters remove fear.

CHILL TOUCH

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Targets: creature or creatures touched (up to one/level)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude partial

Spell resistance: yes

A touch from the character's hand disrupts the life force of living creatures. Each touch channels negative energy that deals 1d6 points of damage and possibly also 1 point of temporary strength damage. (A successful fortitude saving throw negates the strength damage.) The character can use this melee touch attack up to one time per level.

Undead touched by the character suffer no damage or strength loss, but they must make successful will saving throws or flee as if panicked for 1d4 rounds +1 round per caster level.

RAY OF ENFEEBLEMENT

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: ray

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

A ray springs from the character's hand. The character must succeed at a ranged touch attack to strike a target. The subject suffers a -1d6 enhancement penalty to strength, with an additional -1 per two caster levels (maximum additional penalty of -5). The subject's strength score cannot drop below 1.

TRANS

ANIMATE ROPE

Transmutation

level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one ropelike object, length up to 50 ft. + 5 Ft./Level

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can animate a nonliving ropelike object. The maximum length assumes a rope with a 1-inch diameter. Reduce the total length by 50% for every additional inch of thickness, and increase the length by 50% for each reduction of the rope's width by half. The possible commands are "coil" (form a neat, coiled stack), "coil and knot," "loop," "loop and knot," "tie and knot," and the opposites of all of the above. One command can be given each round as a standard action.

The rope can enwrap only a creature or an object within 1 foot of it-it cannot move-it does not move outward-so it must be thrown near the intended target. Doing so requires a successful ranged touch attack roll. The rope has a range increment of 10 feet. A typical rope has 2 hit points, AC 10, and can be burst with a strength check (DC 23). The rope does not deal damage of any type, but it can be used to trip or to entangle a single opponent who fails a reflex saving throw. An entangled creature suffers a -2 penalty to attack rolls and a -4 penalty to effective dexterity. If the rope can anchor itself to an immobile object, the entangled creature cannot move. Otherwise, it can move at half speed but can't run or charge. A creature capable of spellcasting that is bound by this spell must make a concentration check (DC 15) to cast a spell. An entangled creature can slip free with an escape artist check (DC 20).

The rope itself, and any knots tied in it, are not magical.

This spell grants a +2 bonus to any use rope checks the character makes when using the transmuted rope.

BURNING HANDS

Transmutation [fire]
Level: fire 1, sor/wiz 1
Components: V, S
Casting time: 1 action
Range: 10 ft.

Area: semicircular burst of flames 10 ft. Long, centered on the character's hands

Duration: instantaneous
Saving throw: reflex half
Spell resistance: yes

A thin sheet of flame shoots from the character's outspread fingertips. The sheet of flame is about as thick as the character's thumbs. Any creature in the area of the flames takes 1d4 points of fire damage per the character's caster level (maximum 5d4). Flammable materials such as cloth, paper, parchment, and thin wood burn if the flames touch them.

ENLARGE

Transmutation
Level: sor/wiz 1
Components: V, S, M
Casting time: 1 action
Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)
Target: one creature, or one object of up to 10 cu. Ft. Per level in volume
Duration: 1 minute/level
Saving throw: fortitude negates
Spell resistance: yes

This spell causes instant growth of a creature or object, increasing both size and weight. The subject grows by up to 10% per caster level, increasing by this amount in height, width, and depth (to a maximum of 50%). Weight increases by approximately the cube of the size increase, as follows:

Height Increase	Weight Increase
+10% (x 1.1)	+30% (x 1.3)
+20% (x 1.2)	+70% (x 1.7)
+30% (x 1.3)	+120% (x 2.2)
+40% (x 1.4)	+170% (x 2.7)
+50% (x 1.5)	+240% (x 3.4)

All equipment worn or carried by a creature is enlarged by the spell. If insufficient room is available for the desired growth, the creature or object attains the maximum possible size, bursting weak enclosures in the process. However, it is constrained without harm by stronger materials—the spell cannot be used to crush a creature by growth.

Magical properties are not increased by this spell. Weight, mass, and strength are affected, though. A creature's hit points, armor class, and base attack bonus do not change, but strength increases along with size. For every 20% of enlargement, the creature gains a +1 enlargement bonus to strength.

Multiple magical effects that increase size do not stack.

Enlarge counters and dispels reduce.

ERASE

Transmutation
Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1
Components: V, S
Casting time: 1 action
Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)
Target: one scroll or two pages

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

Erase removes writings of either magical or mundane nature from a scroll or from up to two pages of paper, parchment, or similar surfaces. It removes explosive runes, glyphs of warding, sepia snake sigils, and arcane marks, but it does not remove illusory script or symbols. Nonmagical writings are automatically erased if the character touches them and no one else is holding them. Otherwise, the chance is 90%. Magic writings must be touched, and the character must roll 15+ on a caster level check (1d20 + caster level) to succeed. (A natural 1 or 2 is always a miss on this roll.) If the character fails to erase explosive runes, a glyph of warding, or a sepia snake sigil, the character accidentally activates the runes, glyph, or sigil instead.

EXPEDITIOUS RETREAT

Transmutation
Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1, travel 1
Components: V, S
Casting time: 1 action
Range: personal
Target: the character
Duration: 1 minute/level (d)
The character's speed and maximum jumping distances both double. These benefits count as enhancement bonuses.

FEATHER FALL

Transmutation
Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1
Components: V
Casting time: see text
Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)
Targets: any free-falling objects or creatures in a 10-ft. Radius whose weight does not total more than 300 lb./Level
Duration: until landing or 1 round/level
Saving throw: will negates (object)
Spell resistance: yes (object)
The creatures or objects affected fall. The rate of falling is instantly changed to a mere 60 feet a round, with no damage incurred upon landing while the spell is in effect. However, when the spell duration ceases, a normal rate of fall resumes.

The character can cast this quickly enough to save the character if he or she unexpectedly falls. Casting the spell is a free action, like casting a quickened spell, and it counts toward the normal limit of one quickened spell per round.

This spell has no special effect on ranged weapons unless they are falling quite a distance. If the spell is cast on a falling item the item does half normal damage based on weight with no bonus for the height of the drop.

The spell works only upon free-falling objects. It does not affect a sword blow or a charging or flying creature.

JUMP

Transmutation
Level: sor/wiz 1
Components: V, S, M
Casting time: 1 action
Range: touch
Target: creature touched
Duration: 1 minute/level (d)

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Saving throw: none
 Spell resistance: yes
 The subject gets a +30 bonus on jump checks and does not have the usual maximums for jumping distance. For leaps of maximum horizontal distance, the jump reaches its peak (one-fourth the horizontal distance) at the halfway point.

MAGIC WEAPON

Transmutation
 Level: brd 1, clr 1, pal 1, sor/wiz 1, war 1
 Components: V, S, DF
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: touch
 Target: weapon touched
 Duration: 1 minute/level
 Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)
 Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)
 Magic weapon gives a weapon a +1 enhancement bonus to attack and damage rolls. If the character is a good cleric, the cleric of a good deity, or a paladin, the weapon is considered blessed, which means it has special effects on certain creatures.

This spell cannot be cast on a natural weapon, such as an unarmed strike.

MESSAGE

Transmutation [language-dependent]
 Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1
 Components: V, S, F
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)
 Targets: one creature/level
 Duration: 10 minutes/level
 Saving throw: none
 Spell resistance: no
 The character can whisper messages and receive whispered replies with little chance of being overheard. The character points a finger at each creature to be included in the spell effect. When the character whispers, the whispered message is audible to all of the targeted creatures who are within range. Magical silence, 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal (or a thin sheet of lead), or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks the spell. The message, however, does not have to travel in a straight line. It can circumvent a barrier if there is an open path between the character and the subject, and the path's entire length lies within the spell's range. The creatures who receive the message can whisper a reply that the character hears. The spell transmits sound, not meaning. It doesn't transcend language barriers.

Note: to speak a message, the character must mouth the words and whisper, possibly allowing trained rogues the opportunity to read the character's lips.

REDUCE

Transmutation
 Level: sor/wiz 1
 Components: V, S, M
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)
 Target: one creature or object of up to 10 cu. Ft./Caster level
 Duration: 1 minute/level
 Saving throw: fortitude negates (object)
 Spell resistance: yes (object)
 This spell causes instant diminution of a creature or object, decreas-ing its size and weight. Its height shrinks by up to 10% per caster level, to a maximum reduction of 50%. The reduced weight is proportional to the cube of the new height, as follows:

Height Decrease	Weight Decrease
-10% (x 0.9)	-30% (x 0.7)
-20% (x 0.8)	-50% (x 0.5)
-30% (x 0.7)	-60% (x 0.4)
-40% (x 0.6)	-80% (x 0.2)
-50% (x 0.5)	-90% (x 0.1)

All equipment worn or carried by a creature is reduced by the spell. Magical properties are not decreased by this spell. Weight, mass, and strength are affected, though. A creature's hit points, armor class, and attack rolls do not change, but strength decreases with size. For every 10% of reduction, a creature's strength score suffers an enlargement penalty of -1, to a minimum score of 1.

A shrinking object may damage weaker materials affixed to it, but a reduced object shrinks only as long as the object itself is not damaged.

Multiple magical effects that reduce size do not stack.

Reduce counters and dispels enlarge.

SHOCKING GRASP

Transmutation [electricity]
 Level: sor/wiz 1
 Components: V, S
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: touch
 Target: creature or object touched
 Duration: permanent until discharged
 Saving throw: none
 Spell resistance: yes (object)
 The character's successful melee touch attack deals 1d8 points of electrical damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +20). When delivering the jolt, the character gains a +3 attack bonus if the opponent is wearing metal armor (or made out of metal, carrying a lot of metal, etc.).

ABJUR

ARCANE LOCK

Abjuration

level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: the door, chest, or portal touched, up to 30 sq. Ft./Level in size

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

An arcane lock spell cast upon a door, chest, or portal magically locks it. The character can freely pass the character's own lock without affecting it; otherwise, a door or object secured with arcane lock can be opened only by breaking in or by a successful dispel magic or knock spell. Add +10 to the normal DC to break open a door or portal affected by this spell. Note that a knock spell does not remove an arcane lock. It only suppresses it for 10 minutes.

OBSCURE OBJECT

Abjuration

Level: brd 2, clr 3, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: one object touched of up to 100 lb./Level

Duration: 8 hours

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

This spell hides an object from location by a spell, a crystal ball, and other forms of scrying.

PROTECTION FROM ARROWS

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level or until discharged

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The warded creature gains resistance to ranged weapons. The subject gains damage reduction 10/+1 against ranged weapons. It ignores the first 10 points of damage each time it takes damage from a ranged weapon, though a weapon with a +1 enhancement bonus or any magical attack bypasses the reduction. The damage reduction increases with the caster level to 10/+2 at 5th, 10/+3 at 10th, 10/+4 at 15th, and 10/+5 at 20th. Once the spell has prevented a total of 10 points of damage per caster level (maximum 100 points), it is discharged.

RESIST ELEMENTS

Abjuration

Level: clr 2, drd 2, fire 3, pal 2, rgr 1, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 minute/level

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Saving throw: none
 Spell resistance: yes
 This abjuration grants a creature limited protection to damage from whichever one of five energy types the character selects: acid, cold, fire, electricity, or sonic. Each round, the spell absorbs the first 12 points of damage the creature would otherwise take from the specified energy type, regardless of whether the source of damage is natural or magical. The spell protects the recipient's equipment as well.

Resist elements absorbs only damage. The character could still suffer unfortunate side effects.

Note: resist elements overlaps (and does not stack with) endure elements and protection from elements. If a character is warded by protection from elements and one or both of the other spells, the protection spell absorbs damage until it is exhausted. If a character is warded by resist elements and endure elements at the same time, the resist spell absorbs damage but the endure spell does not.

ACID ARROW

Conjuration (creation) [acid]
 Level: sor/wiz 2
 Components: V, S, M, F
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)
 Effect: one arrow of acid
 Duration: 1 round +1 round/three levels
 Saving throw: none
 Spell resistance: yes

A magical arrow of acid springs from the character's hand and speeds to its target. The character must succeed at a ranged touch attack to hit the character's target. The arrow deals 2d4 points of acid damage. There is no splash damage. For every three caster levels (maximum 18), the acid, unless somehow neutralized, lasts for another round, dealing another 2d4 points of damage for that round. At 3rd–5th level, the acid lasts for 2 rounds; at 6th–8th level, the acid lasts for 3 rounds, to a maximum of 7 rounds at 18th level.

FOG CLOUD

Conjuration (creation)
 Level: sor/wiz 2, water 2
 Components: V, S
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft. Level)
 Effect: fog that spreads in a 30-ft. Radius, 20 ft. High
 Duration: 10 minutes/level
 Saving throw: none
 Spell resistance: no

A bank of fog billows out from the point the character designates. The fog obscures all sight, including darkvision, beyond 5 feet. A creature within 5 feet has one-half concealment (attacks suffer a 20% miss chance). Creatures farther away have total concealment (50% miss chance, and the attacker can't use sight to locate the target).

A moderate wind (11+ mph) disperses the fog in 4 rounds; a strong wind (21+ mph) disperses the fog in 1 round.

The spell does not function underwater.

GLITTERDUST

Conjuration (creation)
 Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2
 Components: V, S, M
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)
 Area: creatures and objects within 10-ft. Spread
 Duration: 1 round/level
 Saving throw: will negates (blinding only)
 Spell resistance: yes
 A cloud of glittering golden particles covers everyone and everything in the area, blinding creatures and visibly outlining invisible things. Blindness lasts for the duration of the spell. All within the area are covered by the dust, which cannot be removed and continues to sparkle until it fades.

In addition to the obvious effects, a blinded creature suffers a 50% miss chance in combat (all opponents have full concealment), loses any dexterity bonus to AC, grants a +2 bonus to opponents' attack rolls (they are effectively invisible), moves at half speed, and suffers a –4 penalty on most strength- and dexterity-based skills.

SUMMON MONSTER II

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]
 Level: brd 2, clr 2, sor/wiz 2
 Components: V, S, F/DF
 Casting time: 1 full round
 Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)
 Effect: one or more summoned creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart
 Duration: 1 round/level (d)
 Saving throw: none
 Spell resistance: no

This spell summons an outsider (extraplanar creature). It appears where the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the outsider, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 2nd-level list on the summon monster table below or 1d3 outsiders of the same type from the 1st-level list. The character chooses which creature to summon, and can change that choice each time the spell is cast.

2nd Level
Celestial eagle (animal)	CG
Formian worker	LN
Lemure (devil)	LE
Fiendish squid (animal)	LE
Fiendish wolf (animal)	LE
Fiendish shark, Medium-size (animal)	NE
Fiendish viper (animal) Tiny	CE
Fiendish hyena (animal)	[treat as CE wolf (animal)]
Fiendish octopus (animal)	CE

When the character uses a summoning spell to summon an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

SUMMON SWARM

Conjuration (summoning)
Level: brd 2, drd 2, sor/wiz 2
Components: V, S, M/DF
Casting time: 1 full round
Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)
Effect: swarm of small creatures in a 5-ft. Spread
Duration: concentration + 2 rounds
Saving throw: none
Spell resistance: no
A swarm of little creatures carpets the effect's area, viciously attacking all other creatures there. (Roll on the table below to see what sort of creature is summoned.) A creature in the swarm who takes no actions other than fighting off the swarming creatures takes 1 point of damage on its turn. A creature in the swarm who takes any other action, including leaving the swarm, takes 1d4 points of damage +1 point per three caster levels. Spellcasting or concentrating on spells within the swarm is impossible.

1d20	Swarm Type*
1–8	Rats (animals)
9–14	Bats (animals)
15–16	Spiders (vermin, poisonous)
17–18	Centipedes (vermin, poisonous)
19–20	Flying beetles (vermin)

*The creature types (in parentheses) indicate what sorts of spells and effects might aid a subject against the swarm.

A swarm of poisonous creatures deals no damage to creatures who are immune to poison, though it still prevents spellcasting and concentration. The creatures' attacks are nonmagical. Damage reduction, being incorporeal, and other special abilities also make a creature immune to damage from the swarm.

The swarm cannot be fought effectively with weapons, but fire and damaging area effects can force it to disperse. The swarm disperses when it has taken a total of 2 hit points of damage per caster level from these attacks. Certain area or effect spells disperse a swarm immediately if appropriate to the swarm summoned.

The swarm is stationary once summoned. A druid caster, however, can (as a move-equivalent action) direct the swarm to move up to 30 feet per round (or 90 feet per round if the druid has summoned bats or beetles).

WEB

Conjuration (creation)
Level: sor/wiz 2
Components: V, S, M
Casting time: 1 action
Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)
Effect: webs in a 20-ft.-Radius spread
Duration: 10 minutes/level
Saving throw: reflex negates (see text)
Spell resistance: yes
Web creates a many-layered mass of strong, sticky strands. These strands trap those caught in them. The strands are similar to spider webs but far larger and tougher. These masses must be anchored to two or more solid and diametrically opposed points or else the web collapses upon itself and disappears. Creatures caught within a web or simply touching its strands become entangled among the gluey fibers.

An entangled creature suffers a -2 penalty to attack rolls, suffers a -4 penalty to effective dexterity, and can't move. An entangled character who attempts to cast a spell must make a concentration check (DC 15) or lose the spell.

Anyone in the effect's area when the spell is cast must make a reflex save. If this save succeeds, the creature is not stuck in the webs and is free to act, though moving may be a problem (see below). If the save fails, the creature is stuck. A stuck creature can break loose by spending 1 round and succeeding at a strength check (DC 20) or an escape artist check (DC 25). Once loose (either by making the initial reflex save or a later strength check or escape artist check), a creature may progress through the web very slowly. Each round devoted to moving allows the creature to make a new strength check or escape artist check. The creature moves 5 feet for each full 5 points by which the check result exceeds 10.

The web provides one-quarter cover for every 5 feet of the substance between the character and an opponent-one-half cover for 10 feet of web, three-quarters for 15 feet, and total cover for 20 feet or more.

The strands of a web spell are flammable. Any fire can set them alight and burn away 5 square feet in 1 round. All creatures within flaming webs take 2d4 points of damage from the flames.

DIV

DETECT THOUGHTS

Divination [mind-affecting]
Level: brd 2, knowledge 2, sor/wiz 2
Components: V, S, F/DF
Casting time: 1 action
Range: 60 ft.
Area: quarter circle emanating from the character to the extreme of the range
Duration: concentration, up to 1 minute/level (d)
Saving throw: will negates (see text)
Spell resistance: no
The character can detect surface thoughts. The amount of information revealed depends on how long the character studies a particular area or subject:

1st round: presence or absence of thoughts (from conscious creatures with intelligence scores of 1 or higher).

2nd round: number of thinking minds and the mental strength of each.

3rd round: surface thoughts of any mind in the area. A target's will save prevents the character from reading its thoughts, and the character must cast detect thoughts again to have another chance. Creatures of animal intelligence (int 1 or 2) have simple, instinctual thoughts that the character can pick up.

Intelligence	Mental Strength
1–2	Animal
3–5	Very low
6–9	Low
10–11	Average
12–15	High
16–17	Very high
18–21	Genius
22–25	Supra-genius
26+	Deific

Note: each round, the character can turn to detect thoughts in a new area. The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

Arcane focus: a copper piece.

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

LOCATE OBJECT

Divination

Level: brd 2, clr 3, sor/wiz 2, travel 2

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: circle, centered on the character, with a radius of 400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character senses the direction of a well-known or clearly visualized object. The spell locates such objects as apparel, jewelry, furniture, tools, weapons, and even a ladder. The character can search for general items such as a stairway, a sword, or a jewel, in which case the character locates the nearest one of its type if more than one is within range. Attempting to find a specific item, such as a particular piece of jewelry, requires a specific and accurate mental image; if the image is not close enough to the actual object, the spell fails. The character cannot specify a unique object (such as “baron vulden’s signet ring”) unless the character has observed that particular item firsthand (not through divination).

The spell is blocked by lead. Creatures cannot be found by this spell. Polymorph any object fools it.

SEE INVISIBILITY

Divination

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: cone

Duration: 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character sees any objects or beings that are invisible, as well as any that are astral or ethereal, as if they were normally visible.

The spell does not reveal the method used to obtain invisibility, though an astral traveler is easy to identify if he has a silver cord. It does not reveal illusions or enable the character to see through opaque objects. It does not reveal creatures who are simply hiding, concealed, or otherwise hard to see.

ENCH

HIDEOUS LAUGHTER

Enchantment (compulsion)

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature (see text)

Duration: 1d3 rounds

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This spell afflicts the subject with uncontrollable laughter. It collapses into gales of manic laughter, falling prone. The subject can take no actions while laughing. After the spell ends, it can act normally.

Creatures with intelligence scores of 2 or lower are not affected. A creature whose type is different from the caster’s receives a +4 bonus on its saving throw, because humor doesn’t “translate” well.

EVOC

CONTINUAL FLAME

Evocation (light)

Level: clr 3, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: illusory flame

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

A flame, equivalent in brightness to a torch, springs forth from an object that the character touches. The flame looks like a regular flame, but it creates no heat and doesn’t use oxygen. The flame can be covered and hidden but not smothered or quenched.

Material component: worth 50 gp.

DARKNESS

Evocation [darkness]

Level: brd 2, clr 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: object touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell causes an object to radiate darkness out to a 20-foot radius. Not even creatures that can normally see in the dark can see in an area shrouded in magical darkness. Normal lights do not work, nor do light spells of a lower level. Darkness and the 2nd-level spell daylight cancel each other, leaving whatever light conditions normally prevail in the overlapping areas of the spells. Higher-level light spells are not affected by darkness.

If the spell is cast on a small object that is then placed inside or under a lightproof covering, the spell’s effects are blocked until the covering is removed.

Darkness counters or dispels any light spell of equal or lower level.

DAYLIGHT

Evocation [light]

Level: brd 2, clr 3, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: object touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The object touched sheds light as bright as full daylight in a 60-foot radius. Creatures who suffer penalties in bright light suffer them while exposed to this magical light. If the spell is cast on a small object that is then placed inside or under a lightproof covering, the spell’s effects are blocked until the covering is removed.

Daylight brought into an area of magical darkness (or vice versa) is temporarily negated, so that the otherwise prevailing light conditions exist in the overlapping areas of effect.

Daylight counters or dispels any darkness spell of equal or lower level.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

FLAMING SPHERE

Evocation [fire]

Level: drd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: 3-ft.-Radius sphere

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: reflex negates (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

A burning globe of fire rolls in whichever direction the character points and burns those it strikes. It moves 30 feet per round and can leap up to 30 feet to strike a target. If it enters a space with a creature, it stops moving for the round and deals 2d6 points of fire damage to that creature. (The subject can negate this damage with a successful reflex save.) The flaming sphere rolls over barriers less than 4 feet tall. The sphere ignites flammable substances it touches and illuminates the same area as a torch.

The sphere moves as long as the character actively directs it (a move-equivalent action for the character); otherwise, it merely stays at rest and burns. It can be extinguished by any means that would put out a normal fire of its size. The surface of the sphere has a spongy, yielding consistency and so does not cause damage except by its flame. It cannot push aside unwilling creatures or batter down large obstacles. The sphere winks out if it exceeds the spell's range.

SHATTER

Evocation [sonic]

Level: brd 2, chaos 2, clr 2, destruction 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area or target: 3-ft.-Radius spread; or one solid object or one crystalline creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (object); will negates (object) or fortitude half (see text)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

Shatter creates a loud, ringing noise that shatters brittle, nonmagical objects; sunders a single solid, nonmagical object; or damages a crystalline creature.

Used as an area attack, shatter destroys nonmagical objects of crystal, glass, ceramic, or porcelain. All such objects within a 3-foot radius of the point of origin are smashed into dozens of pieces by the spell. Objects weighing more than 1 pound per the character's level are not affected, but all other objects of the appropriate composition are shattered.

Alternatively, the character can target shatter against a single solid object, regardless of composition, weighing up to 10 pounds per caster level.

Targeted against a crystalline creature (of any weight), shatter deals 1d6 points of damage per caster level (maximum 10d6), with a fortitude save for half damage.

ILLUS

BLUR

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject's outline appears blurred. This distortion grants the subject one-half concealment (20% miss chance).

A see invisibility spell does not counteract the blur effect, but a true seeing spell does.

Note: opponents who cannot see the subject ignore the spell's effect.

HYPNOTIC PATTERN

Illusion (pattern) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: (V), S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: colorful lights in a 15-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: concentration + 2 rounds

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

A pattern of shifting colors weaves through the air, fascinating creatures within it. Roll 2d4 +1 per caster level to determine the total number of HD affected (maximum +10). Creatures with the fewest HD are affected first; and, among creatures with equal HD, those who are closest to the spell's point of origin are affected first. HD that are not sufficient to affect a creature are wasted. Affected creatures gaze at the lights, heedless of all else. Sightless creatures are not affected.

A wizard or sorcerer need not utter a sound to cast this spell, but a bard must sing, play music, or recite a rhyme as a verbal component.

INVISIBILITY

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2, trickery 2

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal or touch

Target: the character or a creature or object weighing no more than 100 lb./Level

Duration: 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none or will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: no or yes (harmless, object)

The creature or object touched vanishes from sight, even from dark-vision. If the recipient is a creature carrying gear, the gear vanishes, too. If the character casts the spell on someone else, neither the character nor the character's allies can see the subject, unless the character can normally see invisible things or employ magic to do so.

Items dropped or put down by an invisible creature become visible; items picked up disappear if tucked into the clothing or pouches worn by the creature. Light, however, never becomes invisible, although a source of light can become so (thus, the effect is that of a light with no visible source). Any part of an item that the subject carries but that extends more than 10 feet from it becomes visible, such as a trailing rope.

The subject is not magically silenced, and certain other conditions can render the recipient detectable (such as stepping in a puddle). The spell ends if the subject attacks any creature. For purposes of this spell, an “attack” includes any spell targeting a foe or whose area or effect includes a foe. (Exactly who is a foe depends on the invisible character’s perceptions.) Actions directed at unattended objects do not break the spell. Causing harm indirectly is not an attack. If the subject attacks directly it immediately becomes visible along with all its gear. Note that spells such that specifically affect allies but not foes are not attacks for this purpose, even when they include foes in their area.

MAGIC MOUTH

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature or object

Duration: permanent until discharged

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

This spell imbues the chosen object or creature with an enchanted mouth that suddenly appears and speaks its message the next time a specified event occurs. The message, which must be twenty-five or fewer words long, can be in any language known by the character and can be delivered over a period of 10 minutes. The mouth cannot speak verbal components, use command words, or activate magical effects. It does, however, move according to the words articulated.

The spell functions when specific conditions are fulfilled according to the character’s command as set in the spell. Commands can be as general or as detailed as desired, although only visual and audible triggers can be used. Triggers react to what appears to be the case. Disguises and illusions can fool them. Normal darkness does not defeat a visual trigger, but magical darkness or invisibility does. Silent movement or magical silence defeats audible triggers. Audible triggers can be keyed to general types of noises or to a specific noise or spoken word. Note that actions can serve as triggers if they are visible or audible. A magic mouth cannot distinguish invisible creatures, alignments, level, HD, or class except by external garb.

The range limit of a trigger is 15 feet per caster level. Regardless of range, the mouth can respond only to visible or audible triggers and actions in line of sight or within hearing distance.

Material component: worth 10 gp.

MINOR IMAGE

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: visual figment that cannot extend beyond four 10-ft.

Cubes + one 10-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: concentration+2 rounds

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

This spell creates the visual illusion of an object, creature, or force, as visualized by the character. The spell includes some minor sounds but not understandable speech.

The illusion does not create smell, texture, or temperature. The character can move the image within the limits of the size of the effect.

MIRROR IMAGE

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal (see text)

Target: the character

Duration: 1 minute/level

Several illusory duplicates of the character pop into being, making it difficult for enemies to know which target to attack. The figments stay near the character and disappear when struck.

Mirror image creates 1d4 images plus one image per three caster levels (maximum eight images). These figments separate from the character and remain in a cluster, each within 5 feet of at least one other figment or the character. The character can move into and through a mirror image. When the character and the mirror image separate, observers can’t use vision or hearing to tell which one is the character and which the image. The figments may also move through each other. The figments mimic the character’s actions.

Enemies attempting to attack the character or cast spells at the character must select from among indistinguishable targets. Generally, roll randomly to see whether the selected target is real or a figment. Any successful attack roll against a figment destroys it. A figment’s AC is 10 + size modifier + dexterity modifier. Figments seem to react normally to area spells.

While moving, the character can merge with and split off from figments so that enemies who have learned which image is real are again confounded.

An attacker must be able to see the images to be fooled. If the character is invisible or an attacker shuts her eyes, the spell has no effect, though being unable to see carries the same penalties as being blinded: in addition to the obvious effects, a blinded creature suffers a 50% miss chance in combat (all opponents have full concealment), loses any dexterity bonus to AC, grants a +2 bonus to attackers’ attack rolls (they are effectively invisible), moves at half speed, and suffers a -4 penalty on most strength- and dexterity-based skills.

MISDIRECTION

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature or object, up to a 10-ft. Cube in size

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: no

By means of this spell, the character misdirects the information from divination spells that reveal auras. On casting the spell, the character chooses another object within range. For the duration of the spell, the subject of misdirection is detected as if it were the other object. Detection spells provide information based on the second object rather than on the actual target of the detection unless the caster of the detection succeeds at his save.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

This spell does not affect other types of divination.

TRAP

Illusion (glamer)

Level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: object touched

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell makes a lock or other small mechanism seem to be trapped to anyone who can detect traps. The character places the spell upon any small mechanism or device. Any character able to detect traps, or who uses any spell or device enabling trap detection, is 100% certain a real trap exists. The effect is illusory and nothing happens if the trap is “sprung”; its primary purpose is to frighten away thieves or make them waste precious time.

If another trap spell is active within 50 feet when the spell is cast, the casting fails.

Material component: worth at least 50 gp.

NECRO

GHOUL TOUCH

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: living humanoid touched

Duration: 1d6+2 rounds

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

Imbuing the character with negative energy, this spell allows the character to paralyze a single humanoid for 1d6+2 rounds with a successful melee touch attack. Additionally, the paralyzed subject exudes a carrion stench that causes retching and nausea in a 10-foot radius. Those in the radius (excluding the character) must make a fortitude save or suffer a -2 penalty to all attack rolls, weapon damage rolls, saving throws, skill checks, and ability checks until the spell ends.

SCARE

Necromancy [fear, mind-affecting]

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: all creatures within a 15-Ft. Radius

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

All targeted creatures of less than 6HD become frightened. They suffer a -2 morale penalty on attack rolls, weapon damage rolls, and saving throws. They flee from the character as well as they can. If unable to flee, the creatures may fight. Creatures with 6 or more hit dice are immune.

SPECTRAL HAND

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: one spectral hand

Duration: 1 minute/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

A ghostly, glowing hand shaped from the character’s life force materializes and moves as the character desires, allowing the character to deliver low-level, touch range spells at a distance. On casting the spell, the character loses 1d4 hit points that return when the spell ends (even if it is dispelled), but not if the hand is destroyed. (The hit points can be healed as normal.) For as long as the spell lasts, any touch range spell that the character casts of 4th level or lower can be delivered by the spectral hand. The spell gives the character a +2 bonus to the character’s melee touch attack roll, and attacking with the hand counts normally as an attack. The hand always strikes from the character’s direction. The hand can flank targets like a creature can. If the hand goes beyond the spell range, goes out of the character’s sight, or if the character is not directing it, the hand returns to the character and hovers.

The hand is incorporeal and thus cannot be harmed by normal weapons. It has improved evasion (one-half damage on a failed save against an area spell and no damage on a successful save), the character’s save bonuses, and an AC of at least 22. The character’s intelligence modifier applies to the hand’s AC as if it were the hand’s dexterity modifier. The hand has 1 to 4 hit points, the same number that the character lost in creating it.

TRANS

ALTER SELF

Transmutation

level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 10 minutes/level (d)

The character can alter the character’s appearance and form-including clothing and equipment-to appear taller or shorter, thin, fat, or in between. The assumed form must be corporeal. The character’s body can undergo a limited physical transmutation, including adding or subtracting one or two limbs, and the character’s weight can be changed up to one-half. If the form selected has wings, the character can fly at a speed of 30 feet with poor maneuverability. If the form has gills, the character can breathe underwater.

The character’s attack rolls, natural armor bonus, and saves do not change. The spell does not confer special abilities, attack forms, defenses, ability scores, or mannerisms of the chosen form. Once the new form is chosen, it remains for the duration of the spell. If the character is slain, the character automatically returns to the character’s normal form.

If the character uses this spell to create a disguise, the character gets a +10 bonus on the character’s disguise check.

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
BLINDNESS/DEAFNESS Transmutation Level: brd 2, clr 3, sor/wiz 2 Components: V Casting time: 1 action Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level) Target: one living creature Duration: permanent (d) Saving throw: fortitude negates Spell resistance: yes The subject becomes blinded or deafened, as the character chooses. In addition to the obvious effects, a blinded creature suffers a 50% miss chance in combat (all opponents have full concealment), loses any dexterity bonus to AC, grants a +2 bonus to attackers' attack rolls (they are effectively invisible), moves at half speed, and suffers a -4 penalty on most strength- and dexterity-based skills. A deafened character, in addition to the obvious effects, automatically fails listen checks, suffers a -4 penalty on initiative and has a 20% chance to miscast and lose any spell with a verbal (V) component that he tries to cast.			ENDURANCE Transmutation Level: clr 2, sor/wiz 2 Components: V, S, DF Casting time: 1 action Range: touch Target: creature touched Duration: 1 hour/level Saving throw: will negates (harmless) Spell resistance: yes The spell grants the subject an enhancement bonus (1d4+1 points) to constitution.
BULL'S STRENGTH Transmutation Level: brd 2, clr 2, sor/wiz 2, strength 2 Components: V, S, M/DF Casting time: 1 action Range: touch Target: creature touched Duration: 1 hour/level Saving throw: will negates (harmless) Spell resistance: yes (harmless) The spell grants an enhancement bonus to strength of 1d4+1 points.			KNOCK Transmutation Level: sor/wiz 2 Components: V Casting time: 1 action Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level) Target: one door, box, or chest with an area of up to 10 sq. Ft./Level Duration: instantaneous (see text) Saving throw: none Spell resistance: no The knock spell opens stuck, barred, locked, held, or arcane locked doors. It opens secret doors, as well as locked or trick-opening boxes or chests. It also loosens welds, shackles, or chains (provided they serve to hold closures shut). If used to open a arcane locked door, the spell does not remove the arcane lock but simply suspends its functioning for 10 minutes. In all other cases, the door does not relock itself or becomes stuck again on its own. Knock does not raise barred gates or similar impediments, nor does it affect ropes, vines, and the like. Note that the effect is limited by the area. Each spell can undo up to two means of preventing egress through a portal.
CAT'S GRACE Transmutation Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2 Components: V, S, M Casting time: 1 action Range: touch Target: creature touched Duration: 1 hour/level Saving throw: will negates (harmless) Spell resistance: yes The spell grants an enhancement bonus to dexterity of 1d4+1 points.			LEVITATE Transmutation Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2 Components: V, S, F Casting time: 1 action Range: personal or close (25 ft.+ 5 Ft./2 Levels) Target: the character or one willing creature or one object (total weight up to 100 lb./Level) Duration: 10 minutes/level (d) Saving throw: none Spell resistance: no Levitate allows the character to move him or herself, another creature, or an object up and down as the character wishes. A creature must be willing to be levitated, and an object must be unattended or possessed by a willing creature. The character can mentally direct the recipient to move up or down as much as 20 feet each round; doing so is a move-equivalent action. The character cannot move the recipient horizontally, but the recipient could clamber along the face of a cliff or push against a ceiling to move laterally (generally at half its base speed). A levitating creature who attacks with a melee or ranged weapon finds itself increasingly unstable; the first attack has an attack roll penalty of -1, the second -2, and so on, up to a maximum penalty of -5. A full round spent stabilizing allows the creature to begin again at -1.
DARKVISION Transmutation Level: sor/wiz 2 Components: V, S, M Casting time: 1 action Range: touch Target: creature touched Duration: 1 hour/level Saving throw: none Spell resistance: yes (harmless) The subject gains the ability to see 60 feet even in total darkness. Darkvision is black and white only but otherwise like normal sight. Darkvision does not grant one the ability to see in magical darkness.

PYROTECHNICS

Transmutation

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Target: one fire source, up to a 20-ft. Cube

Duration: 1d4+1 rounds or 1d4+1 rounds after creatures leave the smoke cloud (see text)

Saving throw: will negates or fortitude negates (see text)

Spell resistance: yes or no (see text)

Pyrotechnics turns a fire into either a burst of blinding fireworks or a thick cloud of choking smoke, depending on the version the character chooses.

Fireworks: the fireworks are a flashing, fiery, momentary burst of glowing, colored aerial lights. This effect blinds creatures within 120 feet of the fire source for 1d4+1 rounds (will negates). These creatures must have line of sight to the fire to be affected. Spell resistance can prevent blindness. In addition to the obvious effects, a blinded creature suffers a 50% miss chance in combat (all opponents have full concealment), loses any dexterity bonus to AC, grants a +2 bonus to attackers' attack rolls (they are effectively invisible), moves at half speed, and suffers a -4 penalty on most strength- and dexterity-based skills.

Smoke cloud: the smoke is a writhing stream of smoke billowing out from the source and forming a choking cloud. The cloud spreads 20 feet in all directions and lasts for 1 round per caster level. All sight, even darkvision, is ineffective in or through the cloud. All within the cloud suffer -4 penalties to strength and dexterity scores (fortitude negates). These effects last for 1d4+1 rounds after the cloud dissipates or after the character leaves the area of the cloud. Spell resistance does not apply.

Material component: the spell uses one fire source, which is immediately extinguished. A fire so large that it exceeds a 20-foot cube is only partly extinguished. Magical fires are not extinguished, although a fire-based creature used as a source takes 1 point of damage per caster level.

ROPE TRICK

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: one touched piece of rope from 5 to 30 ft. Long

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

When this spell is cast upon a piece of rope from 5 to 30 feet long, one end of the rope rises into the air until the whole rope hangs perpendicular to the ground as if affixed at the upper end. The upper end is, in fact, fastened to an extradimensional space that is outside the multiverse of extradimensional spaces ("planes"). Creatures in the extradimensional space are hidden, beyond the reach of spells (including divinations), unless those spells work across planes. The space holds up to eight creatures (of any size). Creatures in the space can pull the rope up into the space, making the rope "disappear." In that case the rope counts as one of the eight creatures that can fit in the space. The rope can support up to 16,000 pounds. A force greater than that can pull the rope free.

Spells cannot be cast across the interdimensional interface, nor can area effects cross it. Those in the extradimensional space can see out of it as if a 3-foot-by-5-foot window were centered on the rope. The window is present in the prime material plane, but it's invisible, and even creatures that can see it somehow can't see through it. Anything inside the extradimensional space drops out when the spell ends. The rope can be climbed by only one person at a time. The rope trick spell enables climbers to reach a normal place if they do not climb all the way to the extradimensional space.

Note: creating an extradimensional space within or taking an extradimensional space into an existing extradimensional space is hazardous.

SPIDER CLIMB

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject can climb and travel on vertical surfaces or even traverse ceilings as well as a spider does. The affected creature must have bare hands and feet to climb in this manner. The subject climbs at half its speed. A creature with a strength score of at least 20 +1 per caster level can pull the subject off a wall.

WHISPERING WIND

Transmutation

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: one mile/level

Area: 10-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: no more than 1 hour/level or until discharged (destination is reached)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character sends a message or sound on the wind to a designated spot. The whispering wind travels to a specific location within range that is familiar to the character, provided that it can find a way to the location. The whispering wind is unnoticed until it reaches the location. It then delivers its whisper-quiet message or other sound. Note that the message is delivered regardless of whether anyone is present to hear it. The wind then dissipates. The character can prepare the spell to bear a message of up to 25 words, cause the spell to deliver other sounds for 1 round, or merely have the whispering wind seem to be a faint stirring of the air. The character can likewise cause the whispering wind to move as slowly as one mile per hour or as quickly as one mile per 10 minutes. When the spell reaches its objective, it swirls and remains until the message is delivered. Whispering wind cannot speak verbal components, use command words, or activate magical effects.

ABJUR

DISPEL MAGIC

Abjuration

Level: brd 3, clr 3, drd 4, magic 3, pal 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target or area: one spellcaster, creature or object or 30-ftRad burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can use dispel magic to end ongoing spells that have been cast on a creature or object, to temporarily suppress the magical abilities of a magic item, to end ongoing spells (or at least their effects) within an area, or to counter another spellcaster's spell. A dispelled spell ends as if its duration had expired. Some spells, as detailed in their descriptions, can't be defeated by dispel magic. Dispel magic can dispel (but not counter) the ongoing effects of supernatural abilities as well as spells. Dispel magic affects spell-like effects just as it affects spells.

Note: the effects of spells with instantaneous duration can't be dispelled, because the magic effect is already over before the dispel magic can take effect.

The character choose to use dispel magic in one of three ways: a targeted dispel, an area dispel, or a counterspell:

Targeted dispel: one object, creature, or spell is the target of the spell. The character makes a dispel check against the spell or against each ongoing spell currently in effect on the object or creature. A dispel check is 1d20 +1 per caster level (maximum +10) against a DC of 11 + the spell's caster level.

If the spellcaster targets an object or creature who is the effect of an ongoing spell (such as a monster summoned by monster summoning), she makes a dispel check to end the spell that conjured the object or creature.

If the object that the character targets is a magic item, the character makes a dispel check against the item's caster level. If the character succeeds, all the item's magical properties are suppressed for 1d4 rounds, after which the item recovers on its own. A suppressed item becomes nonmagical for the duration of the effect. An interdimensional interface is temporarily closed. Remember that a magic item's physical properties are unchanged. Artifacts and creatures of demigod or higher status are unaffected by mortal magic such as this.

Area dispel: the spell affects everything within a 30-foot radius.

For each creature who is the target of one or more spells, the character makes a dispel check against the spell with the highest caster level. If that fails, the character makes dispel checks against progressively weaker spells until the character dispels one spell (which discharges the dispel so far as that target is concerned) or fail all the character's checks. The creature's magic items are not affected.

For each object that is the target of one or more spells, the character makes dispel checks as with creatures. Magic items are not affected by area dispels.

For each ongoing area or effect spell centered within the dispel magic's area, the character makes a dispel check to dispel the spell.

For each ongoing spell whose area overlaps that of the dispel, the character makes a dispel check to end the effect, but only within the area of the dispel magic.

If an object or creature who is the effect of an ongoing spell, such as a monster summoned by monster summoning, is in the area, the character makes a dispel check to end the spell that conjured the object or creature (returning it whence it came) in addition to attempting to dispel spells targeting the creature or object.

The character may choose to automatically succeed at dispel checks against any spell that the character cast.

Counterspell: the spell targets a spellcaster and is cast as a coun-

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC

terspell. Unlike a true counterspell, however, dispel magic may not work. The character must make a dispel check to counter the other spellcaster's spell.

EXPLOSIVE RUNES

Abjuration [force]

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: one touched object weighing no more than 10 lb.

Duration: permanent until discharged (d)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes

The character traces these runes upon a book, map, scroll, or similar object bearing written information. The runes detonate when read, dealing 6d6 points of damage. Anyone next to the runes (close enough to read them) takes this damage with no saving throw. Others within 10 feet of the runes take half damage if they succeed at reflex saving throws. The object in which the runes were written also takes the damage (no saving throw).

As the spellcaster, the character and any characters the character specifically instructs can read the protected writing without triggering the runes. Likewise, the character can remove the runes whenever desired. Others can remove them with a successful dispel magic or erase spell. However, attempting to dispel or erase the runes and failing to do so triggers the explosion.

MAGIC CIRCLE AGAINST CHAOS

Abjuration [lawful]

Level: brd 3, clr 3, law 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Area: emanates 10 ft. From touched creature

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Spell resistance: no (see text)

This spell wards all creatures in the area from attacks by chaotic creatures, from mental control, and from summoned or conjured creatures.

The subjects get a +2 deflection bonus to AC and a +2 resistance bonus on saves. Both these bonuses apply against attacks made by chaotic creatures.

The barrier blocks any attempt to possess the warded creature or to exercise mental control over the creature. The protection does not prevent a spell or effect that grants mental commands to be cast on the creature, but it prevents the caster of such a spell from mentally commanding the protected creature. If warding effect ends before the mental control effect does, the caster would then be able to mentally command the controlled creature. Likewise, the barrier keeps out a possessing life force but does not expel one if it is in place before the spell is cast. This effect works regardless of alignment.

The spell prevents bodily contact by summoned or conjured creatures. This causes the natural weapon attacks of such creatures to fail and the creatures to recoil if such attacks require touching the warded creature. Lawful elementals and outsiders are immune to this effect. The protection against contact by summoned or conjured creatures ends if the warded creature makes an attack against or tries to force the barrier against the blocked creature. Spell resistance can allow a creature to overcome this protection and touch the warded creature.

This spell has a special function that the character may choose when casting the spell. A magic circle can be focused inward rather than outward. In this case, it serves as an immobile, temporary magical prison for a summoned creature. The creature cannot cross the circle's boundaries.

The character must beat a creature's sr in order to keep it at bay, but the deflection and resistance bonuses and the protection from mental control apply regardless of enemies' sr.

If a creature too large to fit into the spell's area is the subject of the spell, the spell acts as normal for that creature only.

This spell is not cumulative with protection from chaos and vice versa.

MAGIC CIRCLE AGAINST EVIL

Abjuration [good]

Level: brd 3, clr 3, good 3, pal 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Area: emanates 10 ft. From touched creature

NONDETECTION

Abjuration

Level: rgr 4, sor/wiz 3, trickery 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature or object touched

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

The warded creature or object becomes difficult to detect by divination. Nondetection also prevents location by such magic items as crystal balls. If a divination is attempted against the warded creature or item, the caster of the divination must succeed at a caster level check (1d20 + caster level) against a DC of 11 + the caster level of the spellcaster who cast nondetection. If the character cast nondetection on the character's self or on an item currently in the character's possession, the DC is 15 + the character's caster level.

If cast on a creature, nondetection wards the creature's gear as well as the creature itself.

Material component: worth 50 gp.

This abjuration grants a creature temporary invulnerability to the selected energy type (acid, cold, fire, electricity, or sonic). When the spell absorbs 12 points per caster level of elemental damage, it is discharged. The spell protects the recipient's equipment as well.

Protection from elements absorbs only damage. The character could still suffer unfortunate side effects.

Note: protection from elements overlaps (and does not stack with) resist elements and endure elements. If a character is warded by protection from elements and one or both of the other spells, the protection spell absorbs damage until it is exhausted. If a character is warded by resist elements and endure elements at the same time, the resist spell absorbs damage but the endure spell does not.

Duration: 1 round/instantaneous

The character can either create flames that turn normal arrows, bolts, and stones into fiery projectiles, or the character can create fiery bolts and shoot them at enemies.

Flaming normal projectiles: when choosing this version, the character can affect up to one projectile per level. The projectiles must all be within 10 feet of the character at the time of casting. If shot before the end of the next round, these projectiles catch fire. If they hit, they deal additional fire damage equal to half the character's caster level (up to +10). The flaming projectiles can easily ignite flammable materials or structures. No saving throw is allowed for this version of the spell.

Fiery bolts: when creating a fiery bolt, the character must succeed at a ranged touch attack roll to hit. The bolt deals 4d6 points of fire damage (reflex save half). If the character creates extra bolts (at 8th level or higher), all bolts must be aimed at enemies that are all within 30 feet of each other.

PHANTOM STEED

Conjuration (creation)

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: one quasi-real, horselike creature

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character conjures a quasi-real, horselike creature. The steed can be ridden only by the character or by the one person for whom the character specifically created the mount. A phantom steed has a black head and body, gray mane and tail, and smoke-colored, insubstantial hooves that make no sound. It has what seems to be a saddle, bit, and bridle. It does not fight, but all normal animals shun it and refuse to attack it. (Dire animals and nonintelligent creatures can attack it.)

The mount has an armor class of 18 (-1 size, +4 natural armor, +5 dex) and 7 hit points +1 hit point per caster level. If it loses all its hit points, the phantom steed disappears. A phantom steed has a speed of 20 feet per caster level, to a maximum of 240 feet. It can bear its rider's weight plus up to 10 pounds per caster level.

These mounts gain certain powers according to caster level. A mount's abilities include those of mounts of lower caster levels.

8th level: the mount can ride over sandy, muddy, or even swampy ground without difficulty or decrease in speed.

10th level: the mount can ride over water as if it were firm, dry ground.

12th level: the mount can ride in the air as if it were firm land, so chasms and the like can be crossed without benefit of a bridge. The mount cannot simply take off and fly. It can only ride horizontally across the air. After 1 round in the air, the mount falls.

14th level: the mount can fly at its speed. It has a maneuverability rating of average.

SEPIA SNAKE SIGIL

Conjuration (creation) [force]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: touch

Target: one touched book or written work

Duration: permanent or until discharged; until released or 1d4 days +1 day/level (see text)

Saving throw: reflex negates

Spell resistance: no

When the character casts sepia snake sigil, a small symbol appears in the text of one written work, such as a book, scroll, or map. The text containing the symbol must be at least twenty-five words long. Then anyone reads the text containing the symbol, the sepia snake springs into being and strikes the reader, provided there is line of effect between the symbol and the reader. Simply seeing the en-spelled text is not sufficient to trigger the spell; the subject must deliberately read the text. The target is entitled to a save to evade the snake's strike. If it succeeds, the sepia snake dissipates in a flash of brown light accompanied by a puff of dun-colored smoke and a loud noise. If the target fails its save, it is engulfed in a shimmering amber field of force and immobilized until released, either at the character's command or when 1d4 days +1 day per caster level have elapsed.

While trapped in the amber field of force, the subject does not age, breathe, grow hungry, sleep, or regain spells. The subject is preserved in a state of suspended animation, unaware of his or her surroundings. The subject can be damaged by outside forces (and perhaps even killed), since the field provides the subject with no protection against physical injury. However, if the subject is reduced to -1 to -9 hit points, the subject does not lose hit points or stabilize until the spell ends.

The hidden sigil cannot be detected by normal observation, and detect magic reveals only that the entire text is magical. A dispel magic can remove the sigil. An erase spell destroys the entire page of text. Sepia snake sigil can be cast in combination with other spells that hide or garble text.

SLEET STORM

Conjuration (creation) [cold]

Level: drd 4, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: sleet spreads 40 ft., 20 Ft. High

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: reflex partial

Spell resistance: no

Driving sleet blocks all sight (even darkvision) within it and causes the ground in the area to be icy, slowing movement to one-half normal. Additionally, any creature in sleet that attempts to move must succeed at a reflex save or fall down instead. The sleet extinguishes torches and small fires.

STINKING CLOUD

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: cloud that spreads in 30-ft. Radius, 20 ft. High

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: fortitude negates (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

Stinking cloud creates a bank of fog that obscures all sight, including darkvision, beyond 5 feet. A creature within 5 feet has one-half concealment (attacks suffer a 20% miss chance). Creatures farther away have total concealment (50% miss chance, and the attacker can't use sight to locate the target). The fog's vapors are nauseating. Living creatures in the cloud are nauseated (fortitude negates), making them unable to attack, cast spells, concentrate on spells, and so on. The only action a nauseated character can take is a single move (or move-equivalent action) per turn. These effects last as long as the character is in the cloud and for 1d4+1 rounds after he or she leaves the cloud. (Roll separately for each nauseated character.) Those who succeed at their saves but remain in the cloud must continue to save each round.

A moderate wind (11+ mph) disperses the fog in 4 rounds; a strong wind (21+ mph) disperses the fog in 1 round.

The spell does not function underwater.

SUMMON MONSTER III

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: brd 3, clr 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one or more summoned creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons an outsider (extraplanar creature). It appears where the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the outsider, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 3rd-level list on the summon monster table below, 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 2nd-level list, or 1d4+1 creatures of the same type from the 1st-level list. The character chooses which creature to summon, and can change that choice each time the spell is cast.

DIV

CLAIRAUDIENCE/CLAIRVOYANCE

Divination

Level: brd 3, knowledge 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: see text

Effect: magical sensor

Duration: 1 minute/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Clairaudience/clairvoyance enables the character to concentrate upon some locale and hear or see (the character's choice) almost as if the character were there. Distance is not a factor, but the locale must be known—a place familiar to the character or an obvious one. The spell does not allow magically enhanced senses to work through it. If the chosen locale is magically dark, the character sees nothing. If it is naturally pitch black, the character can see in a 10-foot radius around the center of the spell's effect. Lead sheeting or magical protection blocks the spell, and the character senses that the spell is so blocked. The spell creates an invisible sensor that can be dispelled. The spell functions only on the plane of existence the character is currently occupying.

TONGUES

Divination

Level: brd 2, clr 4, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: none

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Spell resistance: no

This spell grants the creature touched the ability to speak and understand the language of any intelligent creature. The subject can speak only one language at a time, although he or she may be able to understand several languages. Tongues does not enable the subject to speak with creatures who don't speak. This spell does not predispose any creature addressed toward the subject in any way.

ENCH

HOLD PERSON

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 2, clr 2, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, f/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one humanoid of medium-size or smaller

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

The subject freezes in place, standing helpless. The subject is aware and breathes normally but cannot take any physical actions, even speech. The subject can, however, execute purely mental actions.

A winged creature who is held cannot flap its wings and falls. A swimmer can't swim and may drown.

SUGGESTION

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting, language-dependent]

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature

Duration: 1 hour/level or until completed

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

The character influences the actions of the enchanted creature by suggesting a course of activity (limited to a sentence or two). The suggestion must be worded in such a manner as to make the activity sound reasonable.

The suggested course of activity can continue for the entire duration. If the suggested activity can be completed in a shorter time, the spell ends when the subject finishes what he was asked to do. The character can instead specify conditions that will trigger a special activity during the duration. If the condition is not met before the spell expires, the activity is not performed.

A very reasonable suggestion causes the save to be made with a penalty (such as -1, -2, etc.) At the discretion of the DM.

FIREBALL

Evocation [fire]

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: 20-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: reflex half

Spell resistance: yes

A fireball spell is a burst of flame that detonates with a low roar and deals 1d6 points of fire damage per caster level (maximum 10d6) to all creatures within the area. Unattended objects also take this damage. The explosion creates almost no pressure.

The character determines the range (distance and height) at which the fireball is to burst. A glowing, pea-sized bead streaks from the character and, unless it impacts upon a material body or solid barrier prior to attaining the prescribed range, blossoms into the fireball at that point (an early impact results in an early detonation). If the character attempts to send the bead through a narrow passage, such as through an arrow slit, the character must "hit" the opening with a ranged touch attack, or else the bead strikes the barrier and detonates prematurely.

The fireball sets fire to combustibles and damages objects in the area. It can melt metals with a low melting point, such as lead, gold, copper, silver, or bronze. If the damage caused to an interposing barrier shatters or breaks through it, the fireball may continue beyond the barrier if the area permits; otherwise it stops at the barrier just as any other spell effect does.

GUST OF WIND

Evocation

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: gust of wind (10 ft. Wide, 10 ft. High) emanating out from the character to the extreme of the range

Duration: 1 round

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

This spell creates a strong blast of air that originates from the character and moves in the direction the character is facing. The force of this gust automatically extinguishes candles, torches, and similar unprotected flames. It causes protected flames, such as those of lanterns, to dance wildly and has a 50% chance to extinguish these lights. Creatures caught in the area may be affected. Any creature is entitled to a saving throw to ignore the gust's effects.

A gust of wind can do anything a sudden blast of wind would be expected to do.

LIGHTNING BOLT

Evocation [electricity]

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level) or 50 ft. + 5 Ft./Level

Area: 5 ft. Wide to medium range (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level); or 10 ft.

Wide to 50 ft. + 5 Ft./Level

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: reflex half

Spell resistance: yes

The character releases a powerful stroke of electrical energy that deals 1d6 points of damage per caster level (maximum 10d6) to each creature within its area. The bolt begins at the character's fingertips.

The lightning bolt sets fire to combustibles and damages objects in its path. It can melt metals with a low melting point, such as lead, gold, copper, silver, or bronze. If the damage caused to an interposing barrier shatters or breaks through it, the bolt may continue beyond the barrier if the spell's range permits; otherwise, it stops at the barrier just as any other spell effect does.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

TINY HUT

Evocation [force]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 20 ft.

Effect: 20-ft.-Radius sphere centered on the character's location

Duration: 2 hours/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character creates an unmoving, opaque sphere of force of any color the character desires around his or her self. Half of the sphere projects above the ground, and the lower hemisphere passes through the ground. Up to nine other medium-size creatures can fit into the field with the character; they can freely pass into and out of the hut without harming it. However, if the character removes him or her self from the hut, the spell ends.

The temperature inside the hut is 70° f if the exterior temperature is between 0° and 100° f. An exterior temperature below 0° or above 100° lowers or raises, respectively, the interior temperature on a 1-degree-for-1 basis (thus, if it's -20° outside, inside it'll be 50°). The hut also provides protection against the elements, such as rain, dust, and sandstorms. The hut withstands any wind of less than hurricane force, but a hurricane (75+ mph wind speed) or greater force destroys it.

The interior of the hut is a hemisphere. The character can illuminate it dimly upon command or extinguish the light as desired. Note that although the force field is opaque from the outside, it is transparent from within. Missiles, weapons, and most spell effects can pass through the hut without affecting it, although the occupants cannot be seen from outside the hut (they have total concealment).

WIND WALL

Evocation

Level: air 2, brd 3, clr 3, rgr 4, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: wall up to 10 ft./Level long and 5 ft./Level high (s)

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: none (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

An invisible vertical curtain of wind appears. It is 2 feet thick and of considerable strength. It is a roaring blast sufficient to blow away any bird smaller than an eagle or tear papers and similar materials from unsuspecting hands. (A reflex save allows a creature to maintain its grasp on an object.) Tiny and small flying creatures cannot pass through the barrier. Loose materials and cloth garments fly upward when caught in a wind wall. Arrows and bolts are deflected upward and miss, while any other normal ranged weapon passing through the wall suffers a 30% miss chance. (Massive ranged weapons are not affected.) Gases, most gaseous breath weapons, and creatures in gaseous form cannot pass through the wall (although it is no barrier to incorporeal creatures).

While the wall must be vertical, the character can shape it in any continuous path along the ground that the character likes.

ILLUS

DISPLACEMENT

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject appears to be about 2 feet away from the subject's true location. The subject benefits from a 50% miss chance as if the subject had full concealment. However, unlike actual full concealment, displacement does not prevent enemies from targeting the subject normally. True seeing reveals the subject's true location.

ILLUSORY SCRIPT

Illusion (phantasm) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 minute or longer (see text)

Range: touch

Target: one touched object weighing no more than 10 lb.

Duration: 1 day/level

Saving throw: will negates (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

The character writes instructions or other information on any suitable writing material. The illusory script appears to be some form of foreign or magic writing. Only the person (or people) designated by the character at the time of the casting are able to read the writing; it's completely unintelligible to any other character, although an illusionist recognizes it as illusory script.

Any unauthorized creature attempting to read the script triggers a potent illusory effect and must make a saving throw. A successful saving throw means the creature can look away with only a mild sense of disorientation. Failure means the creature is subject to a suggestion implanted in the script by the character at the time the illusory script spell was cast. The suggestion lasts only 30 minutes. If successfully dispelled by dispel magic, the illusory script and its secret message disappear. The hidden message can be read by a combination of the true seeing spell with the read magic or comprehend languages spell.

The casting time depends on how long a message the character wishes to write, but it is always at least 1 minute.

Material component: at least 50 gp.

INVISIBILITY SPHERE

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal or touch

Area: 10-ft. Radius sphere around the creature or object touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none or will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: no or yes (harmless, object)

All creatures within 10 feet of the recipient vanish from sight, even from darkvision. If the creatures are carrying gear, the gear vanishes, too.

Items dropped or put down by an invisible creature become visible; items picked up disappear if tucked into the clothing or pouches worn by the creature. Light, however, never becomes invisible, although a source of light can become so (thus, the effect is that of a light with no visible source). Any part of an item that the subject carries but that extends more than 10 feet from it becomes visible, such as a trailing rope.

The subjects are not magically silenced, and certain other conditions can render the recipients detectable (such as stepping in a puddle). The invisibility ends for a subject if he or she attacks any creature. For purposes of this spell, an “attack” includes any spell targeting a foe or whose area or effect includes a foe. (Exactly who is a foe depends on the invisible character’s perceptions.) Actions directed at unattended objects do not break the spell. Causing harm indirectly is not an attack. If the subject attacks directly it immediately becomes visible along with all its gear. Note that spells such that specifically affect allies but not foes are not attacks for this purpose, even when they include foes in their area.

Those affected by this spell cannot see each other but can see themselves. Any affected creature moving out of the area becomes visible, but creatures moving into the area after the spell is cast do not become invisible. Affected creatures (other than the recipient) who attack negate the invisibility only for themselves. If the spell recipient attacks, the invisibility sphere ends.

MAJOR IMAGE

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: visual figment that cannot extend beyond four 10-ft.

Cubes + one 10-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: concentration + 3 rounds

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

This spell creates the visual illusion of an object, creature, or force, as visualized by the character. Sound, smell, and thermal illusions are included in the spell effect. While concentrating, the character can move the image within the range.

The image disappears when struck by an opponent unless the character causes the illusion to react appropriately.

NECRO

GENTLE REPOSE

Necromancy

Level: clr 2, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: corpse touched

Duration: 1 day/level

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

The character preserves the remains of a dead creature so that they do not decay. Doing so extends the time limit on raising that creature from the dead. Days spent under the influence of this spell don’t count against the time limit.

The spell also works on severed body parts and the like.

HALT UNDEAD

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: up to three undead, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes

This spell renders up to three undead creatures immobile. Nonintelligent undead get no saving throw; intelligent undead do. If the spell is successful, it renders the undead immobile for the duration of the spell. The effect is broken if the halted creatures are attacked or take damage.

VAMPIRIC TOUCH

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: instantaneous/1 hour (see text)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

The character must succeed at a melee touch attack. The character’s touch deals 1d6 points of damage per two caster levels (maximum 10d6). The character gains temporary hit points equal to the damage the character inflicts. However, the character can’t gain more than the subject’s current hit points +10, which is enough to kill the subject. The temporary hit points disappear 1 hour later.

TRANS

BLINK

Transmutation

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

The blink effect rapidly cycles the character in and out of the ethereal plane. Blinking has several effects:

Physical attacks suffer a 50% miss chance, and the blind-fight feat doesn’t. If the attack is capable of striking ethereal or incorporeal creatures, the miss chance is only 20%. If the attacker can see invisible creatures, the miss chance is also only 20%. If the attacker can both see and strike ethereal creatures, the attacker suffers no penalty. Likewise, the character’s own attacks suffer a 20% miss chance.

Individually targeted spells have a 50% chance to fail against the character while blinking unless the character’s attacker can target invisible, ethereal creatures. Likewise, the character’s own spells have a 20% chance to activate just as the character goes ethereal, in which case they typically do not affect the material plane.

While blinking, the character takes only half damage from area attacks (or full damage from those that extend onto the ethereal plane). The character strikes as an invisible creature (+2 attack), denying the target any dexterity bonus to AC. The character suffers only half damage from falling.

While blinking, the character can step through (but not see through) solid objects. For each 5 feet of solid material the character walks through, there's a 50% chance that the character becomes material (see below). The character can move only at three-quarters speed.

Since the character spends about half the character's time on the ethereal plane, the character can see and even attack ethereal creatures. The character interacts with ethereal creatures roughly the same way the character interacts with material ones.

An ethereal creature who becomes material while in a material object is shunted off to the nearest open space and takes 1d6 points of damage per 5 feet so traveled.

FLY

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 3, travel 3

Components: V, S, f/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The spell's subject can fly with a speed of 90 feet (60 feet if the creature wears medium or heavy armor). The subject can fly up at half speed and descend at double speed. The flying subject's maneuverability rating is good. Using the fly spell requires as much concentration as walking, so the subject can attack or cast spells normally. The subject of a fly spell can charge but not run, and it cannot carry aloft more weight than its maximum load, plus any armor it wears.

Should the spell duration expire while the subject is still aloft, the magic fails slowly. The subject drops 60 feet per round for 1d6 rounds. If it reaches the ground in that amount of time, it lands safely. If not, it falls the rest of the distance. Since dispelling a spell effectively ends it, the subject also falls in this way if the fly spell is dispelled.

GASEOUS FORM

Transmutation

Level: air 3, brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: S, m/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: willing corporeal creature touched

Duration: 2 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The subject and all the subject's gear become insubstantial, misty, and translucent. The subject gains damage reduction 20/+1. The subject's material armor (including natural armor) becomes worthless, though the subject's size, dexterity, deflection bonuses, and armor bonuses from force armor still apply. The subject becomes immune to poison and critical hits. The subject can't attack or cast spells with verbal, somatic, material, or focus components while in gaseous form. (Note that this does not rule out certain spells that the subject may have prepared using the metamagic feats silent spell and still spell.) The subject loses supernatural abilities while in gaseous form. If the subject has a touch spell ready to use, it is discharged harmlessly when the spell takes effect.

The gaseous creature can't run but can fly (speed 10, maneuverability perfect). The subject can pass through small holes or narrow openings, even mere cracks, with all the subject was wearing or holding, as long as the spell persists. The gaseous creature is subject to wind. The subject can't enter water or other liquid.

GREATER MAGIC WEAPON

Transmutation

Level: brd 3, clr 4, pal 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one weapon or fifty projectiles (all of which must be in contact with each other at the time of casting)

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

This spell gives a weapon an enhancement bonus to attack and damage of +1 per three caster levels (maximum +5). An enhancement bonus does not stack with a masterwork weapon's +1 bonus on attacks.

Alternatively, the character can affect up to fifty arrows, bolts, or bullets. The projectiles must all be of the same type, and they have to be together in one group (such as in the same quiver). Projectiles (but not thrown weapons) lose their transmutation when used.

If the character is a good cleric, the cleric of a good deity, or a paladin, the weapon is considered blessed, which means it has special effects on certain creatures.

HASTE

Transmutation

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: fortitude negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The transmuted creature moves and acts more quickly than normal. This extra speed has several effects.

On its turn, the subject may take an extra partial action, either before or after its regular action.

The subject gains a +4 haste bonus to AC. The subject loses this bonus whenever it would lose a dodge bonus.

The subject can jump one and a half times as far as normal. This increase counts as an enhancement bonus.

Haste dispels and counters slow.

KEEN EDGE

Transmutation

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

deal telling blows. This transmutation doubles the threat range of the weapon. A normal threat range becomes 19-20. A threat range of 19-20 becomes 17-20. A threat range of 18-20 becomes 15-20. The spell can be cast only on piercing or slashing weapons (and it does not stack with itself). If cast on arrows or crossbow bolts, the keen edge on a particular projectile ends after one use, whether or not the missile strikes its intended target.

SECRET PAGE

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: touch

Target: page touched, up to 3 sq. Ft. In size

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Secret page alters the actual contents of a page so that they appear to be something entirely different. Explosive runes or sepia snake sigil can be cast upon the secret page.

A comprehend languages spell alone cannot reveal the secret page's contents. The character is able to reveal the original contents by speaking a special word. You can then peruse the actual page, and return it to its secret page form. The character can also remove the spell by double repetition of the special word. A detect magic spell reveals dim magic on the page in question but does not reveal its true contents. True seeing reveals the presence of the hidden material but does not reveal the contents unless cast in combination with comprehend languages. Secret page can be dispelled, and the hidden writings can be destroyed by means of an erase spell.

SHRINK ITEM

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: one touched object of up to 2 cu. Ft./Level

Duration: 1 day/level (see text)

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

The character is able to shrink one nonmagical item (if it is within the size limit) to one-twelfth of its normal size in each dimension (to about 1/2,000th the original volume and mass). Optionally, the character can also change its now-shrunken composition to a cloth-like one. Objects changed by a shrink item spell can be returned to normal composition and size merely by tossing them onto any solid surface or by a word of command from the original caster. Restoring the shrunken object to its normal size and composition ends the spell.

If shrink item is made permanent (see the permanency spell), the affected object can be shrunk and expanded an indefinite number of times, but only by the original caster.

SLOW

Transmutation

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

Affected creatures move and attack at a drastically slowed rate. Slowed creatures can take only a partial action each turn. Additionally, they suffer -2 penalties to AC, melee attack rolls, melee damage rolls, and reflex saves. Slowed creatures jump half as far as normal.

Slow counters and dispels haste but does not otherwise affect magically speeded or slowed creatures.

WATER BREATHING

Transmutation

Level: clr 3, drd 3, sor/wiz 3, water 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: living creatures touched

Duration: 2 hours/level (see text)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The transmuted creatures can breathe water freely. Divide the duration evenly among all the creatures the character touches.

The spell does not make creatures unable to breathe air.

ABJUR

DIMENSIONAL ANCHOR

Abjuration

Level: clr 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: ray

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes (object)

The character must make a ranged touch attack to hit the target. Any creature or object struck is covered with a field that completely blocks bodily extradimensional travel. Forms of movement barred by the dimensional anchor include astral projection, blink, dimension door, ethereal jaunt, etherealness, gate, maze, plane shift, shadow walk, teleport, and similar spell-like or psionic abilities. It prevents the use of a gate or teleportation circle for the duration of the spell.

The dimensional anchor does not interfere with the movement of creatures already in ethereal or astral form when the spell is cast, nor does it block extradimensional perception or attack forms. Also, it does not prevent summoned creatures from disappearing at the end of a summoning spell.

FIRE TRAP

Abjuration [fire]

Level: drd 2, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: touch

Target: object touched

Duration: permanent until discharged

Saving throw: reflex half (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

Fire trap creates a fiery explosion when an intruder opens the item that the trap wards. The fire trap can ward any closeable item. When casting fire trap, the character selects a point on the item as the spell's center. When someone other than the character opens the item, a fiery explosion fills the area within a 5-foot radius around the spell's center. The flames deal 1d4 points of fire damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +20). The item protected by the trap is not harmed by this explosion.

The fire trapped item cannot have a second closure or warding spell placed on it.

A knock spell does not affect a fire trap in any way, because knock only opens things and the fire trap in no way prevents one from opening the trapped item. An unsuccessful dispel magic spell does not detonate the spell.

Underwater, this ward deals half damage and creates a large cloud of steam.

As the caster, the character can use the trapped object without discharging it, as can any individual to whom the spell was specifically attuned when cast. "Attuning" to an individual usually involves a password that the character can share with friends.

MINOR GLOBE OF INVULNERABILITY

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 10 ft.

Area: 10-ft.-Radius spherical emanation, centered on the character

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

An immobile, faintly shimmering magical sphere surrounds the character and excludes all spell effects of up to 3rd level. The area or effect of any such spells does not include the area of the minor globe of invulnerability. Such spells fail to affect any target located within the globe. This includes spell-like abilities and spells or spell-like effects from devices. However, any type of spell can be cast through or out of the magical globe. Spells of 4th level and higher are not affected by the globe. The globe can be brought down by a targeted dispel magic spell, but not by an area dispel magic. The character can leave and return to the globe without penalty.

Note that spell effects are not disrupted unless their effects enter the globe, and even then they are merely suppressed, not dispelled.

If a given spell has more than one level depending on which character class is casting it, use the level appropriate to the caster to determine whether minor globe of invulnerability stops it.

REMOVE CURSE

Abjuration

Level: brd 3, clr 3, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature or item touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

Remove curse instantaneously removes all curses on an object or a person. Remove curse does not remove the curse from a cursed shield, weapon, or suit of armor, although the spell typically enables the person afflicted with any such cursed item to remove and get rid of it. Certain special curses may not be countered by this spell or may be countered only by a caster of a certain level or higher.

Remove curse counters and dispels bestow curse.

STONESKIN

Abjuration

Level: earth 6, sor/wiz 4, strength 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level or until discharged

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject gains damage reduction 10/+5. (It ignores the first 10 points of damage each time it takes damage, though a weapon with a +5 enhancement bonus or any magical attack bypasses the reduction.) Once the spell has prevented a total of 10 points of damage per caster level (maximum 150 points), it is discharged.

Material components: worth at least 250 gp.

CONJ

BLACK TENTACLES

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: 1d4 tentacles + one tentacle/level, all within 15 ft. of a central point

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell conjures many rubbery black tentacles. These waving members seem to spring forth from the earth, floor, or whatever surface is underfoot-including water. There are 1d4 such tentacles, plus one per caster level, appearing randomly scattered about the area. Each tentacle is 10 feet long (large) and saves as the character does. It has AC 16, 1 hit point/per caster level, an attack bonus of +1/per caster level, and a strength score of 19 (+4 bonus). It is immune to spells that don't cause damage (other than disintegrate).

Each round that a tentacle is not already grappling someone or something, starting the round after it appears, it makes a grapple attack at a random creature or object within 10 feet of it. These attacks take place on the character's turn. The tentacles do not attack each other, nor do they attack objects that are smaller than a medium-size creature. The attacks are like regular grappling attacks, except that they don't provoke attacks of opportunity from opponents. Also, they cause 1d6 points of normal damage (+4 for strength), not subdual damage. A tentacle maintains its grapple even after its subject is dying or dead.

MINOR CREATION

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 minute

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: unattended, nonmagical object of nonliving plant matter, up to 1 cu. ft./ Level

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character creates a nonmagical, unattended object of nonliving, vegetable matter. The volume of the item created cannot exceed 1 cubic foot per caster level. The character must succeed at an appropriate skill check to make a complex item.

Attempting to use any created object as a material component causes the spell to fail.

SECURE SHELTER

Conjuration (creation)

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M, F (see text)

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: 20-ft.-Square structure

Duration: 2 hours/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character conjures a sturdy cottage or lodge made of material that is common in the area where the spell is cast. The floor is level, clean, and dry. In all respects the lodging resembles a normal cottage, with a sturdy door, two shuttered windows, and a small fireplace.

The shelter has no heating or cooling source (other than natural insulation qualities). Therefore, it must be heated as a normal dwelling, and extreme heat adversely affects it and its occupants. The dwelling does, however, provide considerable security otherwise-it is as strong as a normal stone building, regardless of its material composition. The dwelling resists flames and fire as if it were stone. It is impervious to normal missiles (but not the sort cast by siege machinery or giants).

The door, shutters, and even chimney are secure against intrusion, the former two being arcane locked and the latter secured by an iron grate at the top and a narrow flue. In addition, these three areas are protected by an alarm spell. Finally, an unseen servant is conjured to provide service to the character for the duration of the shelter.

The secure shelter contains rude furnishings—eight bunks, a trestle table, eight stools, and a writing desk.

SOLID FOG

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft. Level)

Effect: fog that spreads in a 30-ft. Radius, 20 ft. High

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

A bank of fog billows out from the point the character designates. The fog obscures all sight, including darkvision, beyond 5 feet. A creature within 5 feet has one-half concealment (attacks suffer a 20% miss chance). Creatures farther away have total concealment (50% miss chance, and the attacker can't use sight to locate the target).

The solid fog is so thick that any creature attempting to move through it progresses at one-tenth normal speed, and all melee attack and melee damage rolls suffer a -2 penalty. The vapors prevent effective ranged weapon attacks (except for magic rays and the like). A creature or object that falls into solid fog is slowed, so that each 10 feet of vapor that the creature or objects passes through reduces falling damage by 1d6.

Only a severe wind (31+ mph) disperses these vapors, and it does so in 1 round.

The spell does not function underwater.

SUMMON MONSTER IV

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: brd 4, clr 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one or more summoned creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons an outsider (extraplanar creature). It appears where the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the outsider, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 4th-level list on the summon monster table below, 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 3rd-level list, or 1d4+1 creatures of the same type from a lower-level list. The character chooses which creature to summon, and can change that choice each time the spell is cast.

4th Level
Lantern archon (celestial)	LG
Giant owl	NG
Giant eagle	CG
Celestial lion (animal)	CG
Tojanida, Small	N
Xorn, Small	N
Arrowhawk, Small	N
Magmin	CN
Imp (devil)	LE
Fiendish dire ape	LE
Fiendish dire wolf	LE
Hell hound	LE
Varguouille	NE
Fiendish viper, Medium-size	CE
snake (animal) Howler	CE

When the character uses a summoning spell to summon an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

DIV

ARCANE EYE

Divination

level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: unlimited

Effect: magical sensor

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character creates an invisible magical sensor that sends the character visual information. The arcane eye travels at 30 feet per round (300 feet per minute) if viewing an area ahead as a human would (primarily looking at the floor) or 10 feet per round (100 feet per minute) if examining the ceiling and walls as well as the floor ahead. The arcane eye sees exactly as the character would see if the character were there. The arcane eye can travel in any direction as long as the spell lasts. Solid barriers prevent the passage of an arcane eye, although it can pass through a space no smaller than a small mouse hole (1 inch in diameter).

The character must concentrate to use the eye. If the character does not concentrate, the eye is inert until the character again concentrates. The powers of the eye cannot be enhanced by other spells or items (though the character can use magic to improve the character's own eyesight). The character is subject to any gaze attack met by the eye. A successful dispel magic cast on the character or the eye ends the spell. With respect to blindness, magical darkness, and other phenomena that affect vision, the arcane eye is considered an independent sensory organ of the character's.

Any creature with intelligence 12 or higher can sense the arcane eye by making a scry check or an intelligence check (DC 20). Spells such as detect scrying can also detect the eye.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

DETECT SCRYING

Divination

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 120 ft.

Area: 120-ft.-Radius emanation centered on the character

Duration: 24 hours

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character immediately becomes aware of any attempt to observe the character by means of clairaudience/clairvoyance or scrying. The spell's effect radiates from the character and moves as the character moves. The spell also reveals the use of crystal balls or other magic scrying devices. The character knows the location of every magical sensor within the spell's area.

If the scrying attempt originates within the area, the character also knows its location. If the attempt originates outside this range, the character and the scrier immediately make opposed scry skill checks (a creature without the scry skill can make an intelligence check). If the character at least matches the scrier's result, the character gets a visual image of the scrier and a sense of the scrier's direction and distance from the character (ACcurate to within one-tenth the distance).

LOCATE CREATURE

Divination

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Duration: 10 minutes/level

The character senses the direction of a known or familiar creature

The character slowly turns and senses when facing in the direction of the creature to be located, provided the creature is within range. The character also knows in which direction the creature is moving, if any.

The spell can locate a creature of a specific type (such as human or unicorn) or a specific creature known to the character. It cannot find a creature of a general type (such as humanoid or beast). To find a type of creature, the character must have seen such a creature up close (within 30 feet) at least once. The character locates the nearest one of its type if more than one creature of the appropriate type is within range. Attempting to find a specific creature requires a specific and ACcurate mental image; if the image is not close enough to the actual creature, the spell fails. The character cannot specify a unique character unless the character has observed that particular character firsthand (not through divination).

Running water blocks the spell. It cannot detect objects. It can be fooled by mislead, nondetection, and polymorph spells.

SCRYING

Divination

Level: brd 3, clr 5, drd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M/DF, F

Casting time: 1 hour

Range: see text

Effect: magical sensor

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can see and hear a creature, who may be at any distance. The character must succeed at a scry check to do so. The difficulty of the task depends on how well the character knows the subject and what sort of physical connection (if any) the character has to that creature. Furthermore, if the subject is on another plane, the character gets a -5 penalty on the scry check.

Knowledge	DC
None*	20
Secondhand (the character has heard of the subject)	15
Firsthand (the character has met the subject)	10
Familiar (the character know the subject well)	5

*The character must have some sort of connection to a creature the character has no knowledge of.

Connection	Scry Check Bonus
Likeness or picture	+5
Possession or garment	+8
Body part, lock of hair, nail clippings, etc.	+10

This spell creates a magical sensor located near the subject. Any creature with intelligence 12 or higher can notice the sensor by making a scry check (or an intelligence check) against DC 20.

The character may cast the following spells through a scrying spell: comprehend languages, read magic, tongues, and darkvision. The following spells have a 5% chance per caster level of operating correctly: detect magic, detect chaos, detect evil, detect good, detect law, and message.

Wizard, sorcerer, or bard focus: worth at least 1,000 gp.

Cleric focus: worth at least 100 gp.

ENCH

CHARM MONSTER

Enchantment (charm) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature

Duration: 1 day/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This charm makes a creature regard the character as a trusted friend and ally. If the creature is currently being threatened or attacked by the character or the character's allies, however, he receives a +5 bonus on his saving throw.

The spell does not enable the character to control the charmed creature as if the creature were an automaton, but the subject perceives the character's words and actions in the most favorable way. The character can try to give the subject orders, but the character must win an opposed charisma check to convince the subject to do anything he or she wouldn't ordinarily do. (Retries not allowed.) A charmed creature never obeys suicidal or obviously harmful orders. Any act by the character or the character's apparent allies that threatens the charmed creature breaks the spell. Note also that the character must speak the creature's language to communicate the character's commands, or else be good at pantomiming.

CONFUSION

Enchantment (compulsion)

[Mind-affecting]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 4, trickery 4

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: all creatures in a 15-ft. Radius

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

Creatures affected by this spell behave randomly, as indicated on the following table:

1d10	Behavior
1	Wander away for 1 minute (unless prevented)
2–6	Do nothing for 1 round
7–9	Attack nearest creature for 1 round
10	Act normally for 1 round

Except on a result of 1, roll again each round to see what the subject does that round. Wandering creatures leave the scene as if disinterested. Attackers are not at any special advantage when attacking them. Behavior is checked at the beginning of each creature's turn. Any confused creature who is attacked automatically attacks its attackers on its next turn.

EMOTION

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: all living creatures within a 15-ft. Radius

Duration: concentration

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This spell arouses a single emotion of the character's choice in the subjects. The character can choose any one of the following versions:

Despair: the enchanted creatures suffer a -2 morale penalty to saving throws, attack rolls, ability checks, skill checks, and weapon damage rolls. Emotion (despair) dispels emotion (hope).

Fear: the enchanted creatures flee from the character whenever they are in sight of the character. Emotion (fear) dispels emotion (rage).

Friendship: the enchanted creatures react more positively toward others. Their attitude shifts to the next more favorable reaction (hostile to unfriendly, unfriendly to indifferent, indifferent to friendly, or friendly to helpful). Creatures involved in combat, however, continue to fight back normally. Emotion (friendship) dispels emotion (hate).

Hate: the enchanted creatures react more negatively toward others. Their attitude shifts to the next less favorable reaction (helpful to friendly, friendly to indifferent, indifferent to unfriendly, or unfriendly to hostile). Emotion (hate) dispels emotion (friendship).

Hope: the enchanted creatures gain a +2 morale bonus to saving throws, attack rolls, ability checks, skill checks, and weapon damage rolls. Emotion (hope) dispels emotion (despair).

Rage: the enchanted creatures gain a +2 morale bonus to strength and constitution scores, a +1 morale bonus on will saves, and a -1 penalty to AC. They are compelled to fight heedless of danger. Emotion (rage) does not stack with barbarian rage or with itself. Emotion (rage) dispels emotion (fear).

LESSER GEAS

Enchantment (compulsion) [language-dependent, mind-affecting]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 4

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature of up to 7 HD

Duration: 1 day/level or until discharged (d)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

A lesser geas places a magical command on a creature to carry out some service or to refrain from some action or course of activity, as desired by the character. The creature must have 7 or fewer HD and be able to understand the character. While a geas cannot compel a creature to kill itself or perform acts that would result in certain death, it can cause almost any other course of activity. The geased creature must follow the given instructions until the geas is completed, no matter how long it takes. If the instructions involve some open-ended task that the recipient cannot complete through his own actions (such as "wait here" or "defend this area against attack"), the spell remains in effect for a maximum of 1 day/caster level. Note that a clever recipient can subvert some instructions. For example, if the character orders the recipient to protect the character from all harm, it might place the character in a nice, safe dungeon for the duration of the spell.

If the subject is prevented from obeying the lesser geas for a whole day, he suffers a -2 penalty on each ability score. Each day, another -2 penalty accumulates, up to a total of -8. Abilities are not reduced below 1. The ability penalties end 1 day after the character resumes obeying the lesser geas.

A lesser geas (and all ability penalties) can be ended by break enchantment, limited wish, remove curse, miracle, or wish. Dispel magic does not affect a lesser geas.

EVOC

FIRE SHIELD

Evocation [fire or cold]

Level: fire 5, sor/wiz 4, sun 4

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

This spell wreathes the character in flame and causes damage to each creature who attacks the character in melee. The flames also protect the character from either cold-based or fire-based attacks (the character's choice).

Any creature striking the character with its body or handheld weapons deals normal damage, but at the same time the attacker takes 1d6 points of damage +1 point per caster level. This damage is either cold damage (if the shield protects against fire-based attacks) or fire damage (if the shield protects against cold-based attacks). If a creature has spell resistance, it applies to this damage. Note that weapons with exceptional reach do not endanger their users in this way.

When casting this spell, the character appears to be immolated, but the flames are thin and wispy, shedding no heat and giving light equal to only half the illumination of a normal torch (10 feet). The color of the flames is determined randomly (50% chance of either color)-blue or green if the chill shield is cast, violet or blue if the warm shield is employed. The special powers of each version are as follows.

Warm shield: the flames are warm to the touch. The character takes only half damage from cold-based attacks. If that attack allows a reflex save for half damage, the character takes no damage on a successful save.

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC

RESILIENT SPHERE

Evocation [force]
 Level: sor/wiz 4
 Components: V, S, M
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)
 Effect: 1-ft.-Diameter/level sphere, centered around a creature
 Duration: 1 minute /level
 Saving throw: reflex negates
 Spell resistance: yes
 A globe of force encloses a creature, provided it is small enough to fit within the diameter of the sphere. The sphere contains its subject for the spell's duration. The sphere is not subject to damage of any sort except from a rod of cancellation, a wand of negation, disintegrate, or a targeted dispel magic spell. These destroy the sphere without harm to the subject. Nothing can pass through the sphere, inside or out, though the subject can breathe normally. The subject may struggle, but the only effect that act produces is to move the sphere slightly. The globe can be physically moved either by people outside it or by the struggles of those within.

SHOUT

Evocation [sonic]
 Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4
 Components: V
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)
 Area: cone
 Duration: instantaneous
 Saving throw: fortitude partial (see text) (object)
 Spell resistance: yes (object)
 The character emits an ear-splitting yell that deafens and damages creatures in its path. Any creature within the area is deafened for 2d6 rounds and takes 2d6 points of damage. A successful save negates the deafness and reduces the damage by half. Any exposed brittle or crystalline object or crystalline creature takes 1d6 points of damage/caster level (maximum 15d6). Crystalline creatures are allowed fortitude saves to reduce the damage by half, and creatures holding fragile objects can negate damage to them with successful reflex saves.

A deaf character, in addition to the obvious effects, suffers a -4 penalty on initiative, automatically fails listen checks, and has a 20% chance to miscast and lose any spell with a verbal (v) component that the character tries to cast.

The shout spell cannot penetrate the spell silence.

WALL OF FIRE

Evocation [fire]
 Level: drd 5, fire 4, sor/wiz 4
 Components: V, S, M/DF
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)
 Effect: opaque sheet of flame up to 20 ft. long/caster lvl or a ring of fire with a radius of up to 5 ft./2 caster lvls; either form 20 ft. High
 Duration: concentration + 1 round/level
 Saving throw: see text
 Spell resistance: yes
 An immobile, blazing curtain of shimmering violet fire springs into existence. One side of the wall, selected by the character, sends forth waves of heat, dealing 2d4 points of fire damage to creatures within 10 feet and 1d4 points of fire damage to those past 10 feet but within 20 feet. The wall deals this damage when it appears and each round that a creature enters or remains in the area. In addition, the wall deals 2d6 points of fire damage +1 point of fire damage per caster level (maximum +20) to any creature passing through it. The wall deals double damage to undead creatures.

If the character evokes the wall so that it appears where creatures are, each creature takes damage as if passing through the wall. Each such creature can avoid the wall by making a successful reflex save. (If the creature ends up on the hot side of the wall, it takes 2d4 points of damage, as normal.)

If any 5-foot length of wall takes 20 points of cold damage or more in 1 round, that length goes out. (Do not divide cold damage by 4, as normal for objects.)

WALL OF ICE

Evocation [cold]
 Level: sor/wiz 4
 Components: V, S, M
 Casting time: 1 action
 Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)
 Effect: anchored plane of ice, up to one 10-ft. Square/level, or hemisphere of ice with a radius of up to 3 ft. +1 Ft./Level
 Duration: 1 minute/level
 Saving throw: see text
 Spell resistance: yes
 This spell creates an anchored plane of ice or a hemisphere of ice, depending on the version selected. A wall of ice cannot form in an area occupied by physical objects or creatures. Its surface must be smooth and unbroken when created. Fire can melt a wall of ice. It deals full damage to the wall (instead of the normal half damage suffered by objects). Suddenly melting the wall of ice creates a great cloud of steamy fog that lasts for 10 minutes.

Ice plane: a sheet of strong, hard ice appears. The wall is 1 inch thick per caster level. It covers up to a 10-foot-square area per caster level (so a 10th-level wizard can create a wall of ice 100 feet long and 10 feet high, a wall 50 feet long and 20 feet high, etc.). The plane can be oriented in any fashion as long as it is anchored. A vertical wall need only be anchored on the floor, while a horizontal or slanting wall must be anchored on two opposite sides.

Each 10-foot square of wall has 3 hit points per inch of thickness. Creatures can hit the wall automatically. A section of wall whose hit points drop to 0 is breached. If a creature tries to break through the wall with a single attack, the DC for the strength check is 15 + caster level.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Even when the ice has been broken through, a sheet of frigid air remains. Any creature stepping through it (including the one who broke through the wall) takes 1d6 points of cold damage +1 point per caster level.

Hemisphere: the wall takes the form of a hemisphere whose maximum radius is 3 feet +1 foot per caster level. It is as hard to break through as the ice plane form, but it does not deal damage to those who go through a breach.

The character can create the hemisphere so that it traps one or more creatures, though these creatures can avoid being trapped by the hemisphere by making successful reflex saves.

ILLUS

HALLUCINATORY TERRAIN

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: one 30-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: 2 hours/level

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

The character makes natural terrain look, sound, and smell like some other sort of natural terrain. Structures, equipment, and creatures within the area are not hidden or changed in appearance.

ILLUSORY WALL

Illusion (figment)

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: image 1 ft. X 10 ft. X 10 ft.

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

This spell creates the illusion of a wall, floor, ceiling, or similar surface. It appears absolutely real when viewed, but physical objects can pass through it without difficulty. When the spell is used to hide pits, traps, or normal doors, any detection abilities that do not require sight work normally. Touch or probing searches reveal the true nature of the surface, though they do not cause the illusion to disappear.

IMPROVED INVISIBILITY

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal or touch

Target: the character or creature touched

Duration: 1 minute/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: no or yes (harmless, object)

The creature or object touched vanishes from sight, even from dark-vision. If the recipient is a creature carrying gear, the gear vanishes, too. If the character casts the spell on someone else, neither the character nor the character's allies can see the subject, unless the character can normally see invisible things or employ magic to do so.

Items dropped or put down by an invisible creature become visible; items picked up disappear if tucked into the clothing or pouches worn by the creature. Light, however, never becomes invisible, although a source of light can become so (thus, the effect is that of a light with no visible source). Any part of an item that the subject carries but that extends more than 10 feet from it becomes visible.

The subject is not magically silenced, and certain other conditions can render the recipient detectable (such as stepping in a puddle).

PHANTASMAL KILLER

Illusion (phantasm)

[Fear, mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one living creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with), then fortitude partial

Spell resistance: yes

Only the spell's subject can see the phantasmal killer. The character sees only a shadowy shape. The subject first gets a will save to recognize the image as unreal. If the subject fails, the phantasm touches the subject, and the subject must succeed at a fortitude save or die from fear. Even if the fortitude save is successful, the subject takes 3d6 points of damage.

If the subject of a phantasmal killer attack succeeds in disbelieving and is wearing a helm of telepathy, the beast can be turned upon the character. The character must then disbelieve it or suffer its deadly fear attack.

RAINBOW PATTERN

Illusion (pattern) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: (V), S, M, F (see text)

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: colorful lights with a 15-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: concentration+1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

A glowing, rainbow-hued pattern of interweaving colors captivates those within it. Rainbow pattern captivates a maximum of 24 HD of creatures. Creatures with the fewest HD are affected first. Among creatures with equal HD, those who are closest to the spell's point of origin are affected first. Affected creatures that fail their saves are captivated by the pattern. Captivated creatures cannot move away from the pattern, nor can they take actions other than to defend themselves. An attack on a captivated creature frees it from the spell immediately.

With a simple gesture (a free action), the character can make the rainbow pattern move up to 30 feet per round (moving its effective point of origin). All captivated creatures follow the moving rainbow of light, trying to get or remain within the effect. Captivated creatures that are restrained and removed from the pattern still try to follow it. If the pattern leads its subjects into a dangerous area, each captivated creature gets a second save. If the view of the lights is completely blocked, creatures who can't see them are no longer

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

affected.

The spell does not affect sightless creatures.

Verbal component: a wizard or sorcerer need not utter a sound to cast this spell, but a bard must sing, play music, or recite a rhyme as a verbal component.

SHADOW CONJURATION

Illusion (shadow)

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: see text

Effect: see text

Duration: see text

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with); varies (see text)

Spell resistance: no (see text)

The character uses material from the plane of shadow to shape quasi-real illusions of one or more creatures, objects, or forces. Shadow conjuration can mimic any sorcerer or wizard conjuration spell of 3rd level or lower. Shadow conjurations are actually 1/5 (20%) as strong as the real things, though creatures who believe the shadow conjurations to be real are affected by them at full strength.

All those that interact with the conjured object, force, or creature can make will saves to recognize its shadowy nature. Those who succeed do so.

Attack spells have normal effects unless those affected succeed at will saves. Each disbelieving creature takes only 1/5 damage from the attack. If the disbelieved attack has a special effect other than damage, that effect is 1/5 as strong (if applicable) or only 20% likely to occur. Mimicked spells allow the normal saves and sr.

Shadow objects or substances have normal effects except against those who disbelieve them. Against disbelievers, they are 1/5 strength or 20% likely to work.

Shadow creatures have 1/5 the normal hit points (regardless of whether they're recognized as shadowy). They deal normal damage and have all normal abilities and weaknesses. Against a creature who recognizes them as shadowy, however, such a creature's damage is 1/5 normal, and all special abilities that do not produce normal damage (in hit points) are only 20% likely to work. (Roll for each use and each affected character separately.) Furthermore, the shadow creature's AC bonuses are 1/5 as large.

Those who succeed at their saves see the shadow conjurations as transparent images superimposed on vague, shadowy forms.

NECRO

CONTAGION

Necromancy

Level: clr 3, destruction 3, drd 3, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

ENERVATION

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: ray of negative energy

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

The character must make a ranged touch attack to hit. If the attack succeeds, the subject gains 1d4 negative levels.

If the ray strikes an undead creature, it gives that creature 5 temporary hit points per two caster levels (maximum 25 temporary hit points) for 1 hour.

FEAR

Necromancy [fear, mind-affecting]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: cone

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

An invisible cone of terror causes living creatures to become panicked. They suffer a -2 morale penalty on saving throws, and they flee from the character. A panicked creature has a 50% chance to drop what it's holding, chooses its path randomly (as long as it is getting away from immediate danger), and flees any other dangers that confront it. If cornered, a panicked creature cowers.

TRANS

BESTOW CURSE

Transmutation

Level: brd 3, clr 3, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

The character places a curse on the creature touched. The character chooses one of the three following effects:

-6 Effective decrease to an ability score (minimum 1).

-4 Enhancement penalty on attack rolls, saving throws, ability checks, and skill checks.

Each turn, the target has a 50% chance to act normally; otherwise, the target takes no action.

The character may also invent the a new curse, but it should be no more powerful than those listed above, and the DM has final say on the curse's effect.

The curse cannot be dispelled, but it can be removed with a break enchantment, limited wish, miracle, remove curse, or wish spell.

Bestow curse counters remove curse.

DIMENSION DOOR

Transmutation [teleportation]

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4, travel 4

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Target: the character and touched objects or other touched willing creatures weighing up to 50 lb./Level

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none and will negates (object)

Spell resistance: no and yes (object)

The character instantly transfers from the character's current location to any other spot within range. The character always arrives at exactly the spot desired—whether by simply visualizing the area or by stating direction. After using this spell, the character can't take any other actions until the character's next turn.

If the character arrives in a place that is already occupied by a solid body, the character become trapped in the astral plane. Each round that the character is trapped in the astral plane in this way, the character may make a will save (DC 25) to return to the material plane at a random open space on a suitable surface within 100 feet of the intended location. If there is no free space within 100 feet, make a will save (DC 25) each minute to appear in a free space within 1,000 feet. If there's no free space within 1,000 feet, the character is stuck on the astral plane until rescued.

MNEMONIC ENHANCER

Transmutation

Level: wiz 4

Components: V, S, M, f

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: instantaneous

The character prepares or retains additional spells. In either event, the spell or spells prepared or retained fade after 24 hours (if not cast).

Pick one of these two versions:

Prepare: the character prepares up to three additional levels of spells. A cantrip counts as one-half level for these purposes. The character prepares and casts these spells normally.

Retain: the character retains any spell up to 3rd level that the character had cast up to 1 round before the character started casting the mnemonic enhancer. This restores the previously cast spell to the character's mind.

Focus: worth at least 50 gp.

POLYMORPH

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: willing living creature touched

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell functions like alter self, except that you change the willing subject into another form of living creature. The new form may be of the same type as the subject or any of the following types: aberration, animal, dragon, fey, giant, humanoid, magical beast, monstrous humanoid, ooze, plant, or vermin. The assumed form can't have more hit dice than your caster level (or the subject's HD, whichever is lower), to a maximum of 15 HD at 15th level. You can't cause a subject to assume a form smaller than fine, nor can you cause a subject to assume an incorporeal or gaseous form. The subject's creature type and subtype (if any) change to match the new form.

Upon changing, the subject regains lost hit points as if it had rested for a night (though this healing does not restore temporary ability damage and provide other benefits of resting; and changing back does not heal the subject further). If slain, the subject reverts to its original form, though it remains dead.

The subject gains the strength, dexterity, and constitution scores of the new form but retains its own intelligence, wisdom, and charisma scores. It also gains all extraordinary special attacks possessed by the form but does not gain the extraordinary special qualities possessed by the new form or any supernatural or spell-like abilities.

Incorporeal or gaseous creatures are immune to being polymorphed, and a creature with the shapechanger subtype can revert to its natural form as a standard action.

Material component: an empty cocoon.

REDUCE PERSON, MASS

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 4

Target: one humanoid creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

This spell functions like reduce person, except that it affects multiple creatures.

STONE SHAPE

Transmutation [earth]

Level: clr 3, drd 3, earth 3, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: stone or stone object touched, up to 10 cu. Ft. + 1 Cu. Ft./Level

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You can form an existing piece of stone into any shape that suits your purpose. While it's possible to make crude coffers, doors, and so forth with stone shape, fine detail isn't possible. There is a 30% chance that any shape including moving parts simply doesn't work.

Arcane material component: soft clay, which must be worked into roughly the desired shape of the stone object and then touched to the stone while the verbal component is uttered.

ABJUR

DISMISSAL

Abjuration

Level: brd 4, clr 4, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one extraplanar creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This spell forces an extraplanar creature back to its proper plane. Add the creature's HD to its saving throw and subtract the character's level as well. If the spell is successful, the creature is instantly whisked away, but there is a 20% chance of actually sending the subject to a plane other than its own.

Arcane focus: any item that is distasteful to the subject.

CONJ

CLOUDKILL

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: cloud spreads 30 ft. Wide and 20 ft. High

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes

A bank of yellowish green poisonous fog billows out from the point the character designates. The fog obscures all sight, including dark-vision, beyond 5 feet. A creature within 5 feet has one-half concealment (attacks suffer a 20% miss chance). Creatures farther away have total concealment (50% miss chance, and the attacker can't use sight to locate the target). The fog's vapors kill any living creature with 3 or fewer HD (no save) and cause creatures with 4 to 6 HD to make fortitude saving throws or die. Living creatures above 6 HD, and creatures of 4 to 6 HD who make their saving throws, take 1d10 points of poison damage each round while in the cloud. Holding one's breath doesn't help.

The cloudkill moves away from the character at 10 feet per round, rolling along the surface of the ground. (Figure out the cloud's new spread each round based on its new point of origin, 10 feet farther away from the point of origin where the character cast the spell.) Because the vapors are heavier than air, they sink to the lowest level of the land, even pouring down openings. It cannot penetrate liquids, nor can it be cast underwater.

A moderate wind (11+ mph) disperses the fog in 4 rounds; a strong wind (21+ mph) disperses the fog in 1 round.

FAITHFUL HOUND

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: phantom watchDog

Duration: 1 hour/caster level or until discharged, then 1 round/caster level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

The character conjures up a phantom watchDog that is invisible to everyone but the character. It then guards the area where it was conjured. The phantom watchdog immediately starts barking loudly if any small or larger creature approaches within 30 feet of it. (Those already within 30 feet of the hound when it is conjured may move about in the area, but if they leave and return, they activate the barking.) The hound sees invisible and ethereal creatures. It does not react to figments, but it does react to shadow illusions. It is stationary.

If an intruder approaches to within 5 feet of the watchDog, the dog stops barking and delivers a vicious bite (+10 attack bonus, 2d6+3 points of damage) once per round. The dog also gets the bonuses appropriate to an invisible creature. (For most defenders, the invisible creature gets a +2 attack bonus and the defender loses any dexterity bonus to AC.) The dog is considered ready to bite intruders, so it delivers its first bite on the intruder's turn. Its bite is the equivalent of a +3 weapon for purposes of damage reduction. The hound cannot be attacked, but it can be dispelled.

The spell lasts for 1 hour per caster level, but once the hound begins barking, it lasts only 1 round per caster level. If the character is ever more than 100 feet distant from the watchdog, the spell ends.

LESSER PLANAR BINDING

Conjuration (calling) [see text]

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels) (see text)

Target: one elemental or outsider of up to 8 HD

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

Casting this spell attempts a dangerous act: to lure a creature from another plane to a specifically prepared trap, which must lie within the spell's range. The called creature is held in the trap until it agrees to perform one service in return for its freedom.

To create the trap, the character must use a magic circle spell, focused inward. The type of creature to be bound must be known and stated. If it has a specific, proper, or given name, this must be used in casting the spell.

The target creature must attempt a will saving throw. If the saving throw succeeds, the creature resists the spell. If the saving throw fails, the creature is immediately drawn to the trap (spell resistance does not keep the creature from being called). The creature can escape from the trap with a successful sr roll, dimensional travel, or a successful charisma check (DC 15 + 1/2 the caster's level + the caster's charisma modifier). It can try each method once per day. If it breaks loose, it can flee or attack the character. A dimensional anchor cast on the creature prevents its escape via dimensional travel. The character can also employ a calling diagram to make the trap more secure.

If the creature does not break free of the trap, the character can keep it bound for as long as the character dares. The character can attempt to compel the creature to perform a service by describing the service and perhaps offering some sort of reward. The character makes a charisma check opposed by the creature's charisma check. The DM then assigns a bonus based on the service and reward, from 0 to +6. This bonus applies to the character's charisma check. If the creature wins the opposed check, it refuses service. New offers, bribes, and the like can be made or the old ones reoffered every 24 hours. This can be repeated until the creature promises to serve, until it breaks free, or until the character decides to get rid of it by means of some other spell. Impossible demands or unreasonable commands are never agreed to. If the character rolls a 1 on the charisma check, the creature breaks free of the binding and can escape or attack the character.

Once the requested service is completed, the creature need only so inform the character to be instantly sent back whence it came. The creature might later seek revenge. If the character assigns some open-ended task that the creature cannot complete though its own actions (such as "wait here" or "defend this area against attack"), the spell remains in effect for a maximum of 1 day per caster level, and the creature gains an immediate chance to break free. Note that a clever recipient can subvert some instructions.

When the character uses a calling spell to call an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

MAJOR CREATION

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: unattended, nonmagical object of nonliving plant or mineral matter, up to 1 cu. Ft./ Level

Duration: see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character creates a nonmagical, unattended object. The volume of the item created cannot exceed 1 cubic foot per caster level. The character must succeed at an appropriate skill check to make a complex item.

Attempting to use any created object as a material component causes the spell to fail.

The duration of the created item varies with its relative hardness and rarity:

Hardness and Rarity Examples	Duration
Vegetable matter	2 hours/level
Stone, crystal, base metals	1 hour/level
Precious metals	20 minutes/level
Gems	10 minutes/level
Mithral	2 rounds/level

Effect: one or more summoned creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons an outsider (extraplanar creature). It appears where the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the outsider, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 5th-level list on the summon monster table below, 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 4th-level list, or 1d4+1 creatures of the same type from a lower-level list. The character chooses which creature to summon, and can change that choice each time the spell is cast.

When the character uses a summoning spell to summon an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

SECRET CHEST

Conjuration (summoning)

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: see text

Target: one chest and up to 1 cu. Ft. Of goods/caster level

Duration: 60 days or until discharged

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character hides a chest on the ethereal plane for up to 60 days and can retrieve it at will. The chest can contain up to 1 cubic foot of material per caster level (regardless of the chest's actual size, which is about 3 feet by 2 feet by 2 feet). If any living creatures are in the chest, there is a 75% chance that the spell simply fails. Once the chest is hidden, the character can retrieve it by concentrating (a standard action), and it appears next to the character.

The chest must be exceptionally well crafted and expensive, constructed for the character by master crafters. The cost of such a chest is never less than 5,000 gp. Once it is constructed, the character must make a tiny replica (of the same materials and perfect in every detail), so that the miniature of the chest appears to be a perfect copy. (The replica costs 50 gp.) The character can have but one pair of these chests at any given time—even wishes do not allow exceptions. The chests themselves are nonmagical and can be fitted with locks, wards, and so on, just as any normal chest can be.

To hide the chest, the character casts the spell while touching both the chest and the replica. The chest vanishes into the ethereal plane. The character needs the replica to recall the chest. After 60 days, there is a cumulative chance of 5% per day that the chest is irretrievably lost. If the miniature of the chest is lost or destroyed, there is no way, not even with a wish spell, that the large chest can be summoned back, although it could be found by going to the ethereal plane.

Living things in the chest eat, sleep, and age normally; and they die if they run out of food, air, water, or whatever they need to survive.

Focus: the chest and its replica.

WALL OF IRON

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: iron wall whose area is up to one 5-ft. sq/level (see text)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

The character causes a flat, vertical iron wall to spring into being. The wall inserts itself into any surrounding nonliving material if its area is sufficient to do so. The wall cannot be conjured so that it occupies the same space as a creature or another object. It must always be a flat plane, though the character can shape its edges to fit the available space.

The wall of iron is 1 inch thick per four caster levels. The character can double the wall's area by halving its thickness. Each 5-foot square of the wall has 30 hit points per inch of thickness. Creatures can hit the wall automatically, but it is so hard that the first 10 points of damage from each blow are ignored. A section of wall whose hit points drop to 0 is breached. If a creature tries to break through the wall with a single attack, the DC for the strength check is 25 + 2 per inch of thickness.

If the character desires, the wall can be created vertically resting on a flat surface but not attached to the surface so that it can be tipped over to fall on and crush creatures beneath it. The wall is 50% likely to tip in either direction if left unpushed. Creatures can push the wall in one direction rather than letting it fall randomly. A creature must succeed at a strength check (DC 40) to push the wall over. Creatures with room to flee the falling wall may do so by making successful reflex saves. Large and smaller creatures who fail take 10d6 points of damage. The wall cannot crush huge and larger creatures.

Like any iron wall, this wall is subject to rust, perforation, and other natural phenomena.

Material component: worth at least 50 gp.

WALL OF STONE

Conjuration (creation)

Level: clr 5, drd 6, earth 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: stone wall whose area is up to one 5-ft. Square/level (s)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

This spell creates a wall of rock that merges into adjoining rock surfaces. The wall of stone is 1 inch thick per four caster levels and composed of up to one 5-foot square per level. The character can double the wall's area by halving its thickness. The wall cannot be conjured so that it occupies the same space as a creature or another object.

The character can create a wall of stone in almost any shape the character desires. The wall created need not be vertical, nor rest upon any firm foundation; however, it must merge with and be solidly supported by existing stone. It can be used to bridge a chasm, for instance, or as a ramp. For this use, if the span is more than 20 feet, the wall must be arched and buttressed. This requirement reduces the spell's area by half. The wall can be crudely shaped to allow crenellations, battlements, and so forth by likewise reducing the area.

Each 5-foot square has 15 hit points per inch of thickness. Creatures can hit the wall automatically, but the wall is so hard that the first 8 points of damage from each blow are ignored. A section of wall whose hit points drop to 0 is breached. If a creature tries to break through the wall with a single attack, the DC for the strength check is 20 + 2 per inch of thickness.

It is possible, but difficult, to trap mobile opponents within or under a wall of stone, provided the wall is shaped so it can hold the creatures. Creatures avoid entrapment with successful reflex saves.

DIV

CONTACT OTHER PLANE

Divination

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: concentration

The character sends his or her mind to another plane of existence in order to receive advice and information from powers there. (See the accompanying table for possible consequences and results of the attempt.)

Plane Contacted	Avoid Effective Int/Cha Decrease	True Answer	Don't Know	Lie	Random Answer
Elemental Plane (appropriate)	DC 7/1 week (DC 7/1 week)	01–34 (01–68)	35–62 (69–75)	63–83 (76–98)	84–100 (99–100)
Positive/Negative Energy Plane	DC 8/1 week	01–39	40–65	66–86	87–100
Astral Plane	DC 9/1 week	01–44	45–67	68–88	89–100
Outer Plane, demideity	DC 10/2 weeks	01–49	50–70	71–91	92–100
Outer Plane, lesser deity	DC 12/3 weeks	01–60	61–75	76–95	96–100
Outer Plane, intermediate deity	DC 14/4 weeks	01–73	74–81	82–98	99–100
Outer Plane, greater deity	DC 16/5 weeks	01–88	89–90	91–99	100

Avoid effective intelligence/charisma decrease: the character must succeed at an intelligence check against this DC in order to avoid effective intelligence and charisma decrease. If the check fails, the character's intelligence and charisma scores fall to 8 for the stated duration, and the character becomes unable to cast arcane spells. If the character loses intelligence and charisma, the effect strikes as soon as the first question is asked, and no answer is received. (The entries in parentheses are for questions that pertain to the appropriate elemental plane.)

Results of a successful contact: the DM rolls d% for the result shown on the table:

True answer: the character gets a true, one-word answer. Questions not capable of being answered in this way are answered randomly.

Don't know: the entity tells the character that it doesn't know.

Lie: the entity intentionally lies to the character.

Random answer: the entity tries to lie but doesn't know the answer, so it makes one up.

The powers reply in a language the character understands, but they resent such contact and give only brief answers to the character's questions. (The DM answers all questions with "yes," "no," "maybe," "never," "irrelevant," or some other one-word answer.) The character must concentrate on maintaining the spell (a standard action) in order to ask questions at the rate of one per round. A question is answered by the power during the same round. For every two caster levels, the character may ask one question.

The character can contact an elemental plane or some plane farther removed. Contact with minds far removed from the character's home plane increases the probability of suffering an effective decrease to intelligence and charisma, but the chance of the power knowing the answer, as well as the probability of the being telling the correct answer, are likewise increased by moving to distant planes. Once the outer planes are reached, the power of the deity contacted determines the effects.

On rare occasions, this divination may be blocked by an act of certain deities or forces.

PRYING EYES

Divination

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 minute

Range: one mile

Effect: creates 1d4 levitating eyes +1 eye/level

Duration: 1 hour/level (see text)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character creates ten or more semitangible, visible magical orbs (called "eyes") that move out, scout around, and return as the character directs them when casting the spell. When an eye returns, it relays what it has seen to the character and then disappears. Each eye is about the size of a small apple and can see 120 feet (normal vision only) in all directions.

The spell conjures 1d4 eyes plus one eye per caster level. While the individual eyes are quite fragile, they're small and difficult to spot. Each eye is a fine construct that has 1 hit point, has AC 18 (+8 bonus for its size), flies at a speed of 30 feet with perfect maneuverability, and a +16 skill modifier on hide checks. The eyes are subject to illusions, darkness, fog, and any other factors that would affect the character's ability to receive visual information about the character's surroundings. An eye traveling through darkness must find its way by touch.

When the character creates the eyes, the character specifies instructions the character wants the eyes to follow in a command of up to twenty-five words. Any knowledge the character possesses is known by the eyes as well.

In order to report their findings, the eyes must return to the character's hand. Each replays in the character's mind everything it has seen during its existence. It takes an eye only 1 round to replay 1 hour of recorded images.

If an eye ever gets more than one mile distant from the character, it instantly ceases to exist. However, the character's link with the eye is such that the character won't know if the eye was destroyed because it wandered out of range or because of some other event.

The eyes exist for up to 1 hour per caster level or until they return to the character. After relaying its findings, an eye disappears. Dispel magic can destroy eyes. Roll separately for each eye caught in an area dispel. Of course, if the eye is sent into darkness, then it's very possible that it could hit a wall or similar obstacle and destroy itself.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

TELEPATHIC BOND

Divination

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one creature/three levels, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character forges a telepathic bond among creatures, each of which must have an intelligence score of 6 or higher. Each creature included in the link is linked to all the others. The bond can be established only among willing subjects, which therefore receive no saving throw or SR. The creatures can communicate telepathically through the bond regardless of language. No special power or influence is established as a result of the bond. Once the bond is formed, it works over any distance (although not from one plane to another).

A wish spell can make a telepathic bond permanent, but it can bond only two people per wish.

ENCH

DOMINATE PERSON

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one humanoid of medium-size or smaller

Duration: 1 day/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

The character can control the actions of any humanoid that is medium-size or smaller. The character establishes a telepathic link with the subject's mind. If a common language is shared, the character can generally force the subject to perform as the character desires, within the limits of his abilities. If no common language is shared, the character can communicate only basic commands, such as "come here," "go there," "fight," and "stand still." The character knows what the subject is experiencing, but the character does not receive direct sensory input from him.

Subjects resist this control, and those forced to take actions against their nature receive a new saving throw with a bonus of +1 to +4, depending on the type of action required. Obviously self-destructive orders are not carried out. Once control is established, the range at which it can be exercised is unlimited, as long as the character and the subject are on the same plane. The character need not see the subject to control it.

Protection from evil or a similar spell can prevent the character from exercising control or using the telepathic link while the subject is so warded, but it does not prevent the establishment of domination or dispel it.

FEEBLEMIND

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

The subject's intelligence score drops to 1. Still, the creature knows who its friends are and can follow them and even protect them. The creature remains in this state until a heal, limited wish, miracle, or wish spell is used to cancel the effects. Creatures who can cast arcane spells or use arcane spell-like effects suffer a -4 penalty on their saving throws.

HOLD MONSTER

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 4, law 6, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one living creature

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

The subject freezes in place, standing helpless. The subject is aware and breathes normally but cannot take any physical actions, even speech. The subject can, however, execute purely mental actions.

A winged creature who is held cannot flap its wings and falls. A swimmer can't swim and may drown.

MIND FOG

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: fog that spreads to fill a 20-ft. Cube

Duration: 30 minutes/+2d6 rounds (see text)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

Mind fog produces a bank of fog that weakens the mental resistance of those caught in it. Creatures in the mind fog suffer a -10 competence penalty to all wisdom checks and will saves. (A creature who successfully saves against the fog is not affected and need not make further saves even if it remains in the fog.) Affected creatures suffer the penalty as long as they remain in the fog and for 2d6 rounds thereafter. The fog itself is stationary and lasts for 30 minutes (or until dispersed by wind).

The fog is thin and does not significantly hamper vision.

EVOC

CONE OF COLD

Evocation [cold]

Level: sor/wiz 5, water 6

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: cone

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Duration: instantaneous
 Saving throw: reflex half
 Spell resistance: yes

Cone of cold creates an area of extreme cold, originating at the character's hand and extending outward in a cone. It causes 1d6 points of cold damage per caster level (maximum 15d6).

INTERPOSING HAND

Evocation

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: 10-ft. Hand

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

Interposing hand creates a large magic hand that appears between the character and one opponent. This floating, disembodied hand then moves to remain between the two, regardless of where the character moves or how the opponent tries to get around it, providing nine-tenths cover (+10 AC) for the character against that opponent. Nothing can fool the hand—it sticks with the selected opponent in spite of darkness, invisibility, polymorphing, or any other attempt to hide or disguise himself. The hand does not pursue an opponent, however.

A hand is 10 feet long and about that wide with its fingers outstretched. It has as many hit points as the character when undamaged, and its AC is 20 (-1 size, +11 natural). It takes damage as a normal creature, but most magical effects that don't cause damage do not affect it. The hand cannot push through a wall of force or enter an antimagic field. It suffers the full effects of a prismatic wall or prismatic sphere. The hand makes saving throws as its caster. Disintegrate or a successful dispel magic destroys the hand.

Any creature weighing less than 2,000 pounds trying to push past the hand is slowed to half its normal speed. If the opponent weighs more than 2,000 pounds, the hand cannot reduce its speed but still affects the opponent's attacks.

By concentrating (as a standard action), the character can designate a new opponent for the hand.

SENDING

Evocation

Level: clr 4, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: see text

Target: one creature

Duration: 1 round (see text)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character contacts a particular creature with whom the character is familiar and sends a short message of twenty-five words or less to the subject. The subject recognizes the character if it knows the character. It can answer in like manner immediately. Creatures with intelligence scores as low as 1 can understand the sending, though the subject's ability to react is limited normally by its intelligence. Even if the sending is received, the subject is not obligated to act upon it in any manner.

If the creature in question is not on the same plane of existence as the character is, there is a 5% chance that the sending does not arrive. (Local conditions on other planes may worsen this chance considerably, at the option of the DM.)

WALL OF FORCE

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: wall whose area is up to one 10-ft. Square/level or a sphere or hemisphere with a radius of up to 1 ft./Level

Duration: 1 minute/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

A wall of force spell creates an invisible wall of force. The wall of force cannot move, it is immune to damage of all kinds, and it is totally unaffected by most spells, including dispel magic. However, disintegrate immediately destroys it, as does a rod of cancellation, a sphere of annihilation, and disjunction. Spells and breath weapons cannot pass through the wall in either direction, although transportation spells and effects can bypass the barrier. It blocks ethereal creatures as well as material creatures (though ethereal creatures can usually get around the wall by floating under or over it through material floors and ceilings). Gaze attacks can operate through the wall of force.

The caster can form the wall into a flat, vertical plane whose area is up to one 10-foot square per level, or into a sphere or hemisphere with a radius of up to 1 foot per level.

The wall of force must be continuous and unbroken when formed. If its surface is broken by any object or creature, the spell fails.

ILLUS

DREAM

Illusion (phantasm) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 minute

Range: unlimited

Target: one living creature touched

Duration: see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

The character, or a messenger touched by the character, sends a phantasmal message to others in the form of a dream. At the beginning of the spell, the character must name the recipient or identify him or her by some title that leaves no doubt as to his or her identity. The messenger then enters a trance, appears in the intended recipient's dream, and delivers the message. The message can be of any length, and the recipient remembers it perfectly upon waking.

The communication is one-way. The recipient cannot ask questions or offer information, nor can the messenger gain any information by observing the dreams of the recipient. Once the message is delivered, the messenger's mind returns instantly to his or her body. The duration of the spell is the time required for the messenger to enter the recipient's dream and deliver the message.

If the recipient is awake when the spell begins, the messenger can choose to wake up (ending the spell) or remain in the trance. The messenger can remain in the trance until the recipient goes to sleep, then enter the recipient's dream and deliver the message as normal. If the messenger is disturbed during the trance, the messenger awakens, and the spell ends.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Creatures who don't sleep or dream cannot be contacted by this spell.

The messenger is unaware of his or her own surroundings or the activities around him or her while in the trance. The messenger is defenseless, both physically and mentally (always fails any saving throw, for example) while in the trance.

FALSE VISION

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5, trickery 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: 25 ft. + 5 Ft/2 levels-radius emanation, centered on the point where the character was when the character cast the spell

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character and all the character desires within the area of the spell become undetectable to scrying (whether by spell or magic device). Furthermore, if the character is aware of an attempt to scry, the character can create whatever image the character desires, including sight and sound, according to the medium of the scrying method. To do this, the character must concentrate on the figment the character is creating. Once concentration is broken, no further images can be created, although the area remains undetectable for the duration of the spell.

Arcane material component: worth at least 250 gp.

GREATER SHADOW CONJURATION

Illusion (shadow)

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: see text

Effect: see text

Duration: see text

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with); varies (see text)

Spell resistance: no (see text)

The character uses material from the plane of shadow to shape quasi-real illusions of one or more creatures, objects, or forces. Shadow conjuration can mimic any sorcerer or wizard conjuration spell of 4rd level or lower. Shadow conjurations are actually two-fifths (40%) as strong as the real things, though creatures who believe the shadow conjurations to be real are affected by them at full strength.

All those that interact with the conjured object, force, or creature can make will saves to recognize its shadowy nature. Those who succeed do so.

Attack spells have normal effects unless those affected succeed at will saves. Each disbelieving creature takes only 1/5 damage from the attack. If the disbelieved attack has a special effect other than damage, that effect is two-fifths as strong (if applicable) or only 40% likely to occur. Mimicked spells allow the normal saves and sr.

Shadow objects or substances have normal effects except against those who disbelieve them. Against disbelievers, they are two-fifths strength or 40% likely to work.

Shadow creatures have two-fifths the normal hit points (regardless of whether they're recognized as shadowy). They deal normal damage and have all normal abilities and weaknesses. Against a creature who recognizes them as shadowy, however, such a creature's damage is two-fifths normal, and all special abilities that do not produce normal damage (in hit points) are only 40% likely to work. (Roll for each use and each affected character separately.) Furthermore, the shadow creature's AC bonuses are two-fifths normal.

Those who succeed at their saves see the shadow conjurations as transparent images superimposed on vague, shadowy forms.

MIRAGE ARCANA

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: one 20-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: concentration+1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

The character makes any area appear to be something other than it is. The illusion includes audible, visual, tactile, and olfactory elements. The spell can alter the appearance of structures (or add them where none are present). It can't disguise, conceal, or add creatures (though creatures within the area might hide themselves within the illusion just as they can hide themselves within a real location).

NIGHTMARE

Illusion (phantasm) [mind-affecting, evil]

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: unlimited

Target: one living creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

The character sends a hideous and unsettling phantasmal vision to a specific creature whom the character names or otherwise specifically designates. The nightmare prevents restful sleep and causes 1d10 points of damage. The nightmare leaves the subject tired out and unable to regain arcane spells for the next 24 hours.

Dispel evil cast on the subject while the character is casting the spell dispels the nightmare and stuns the character for 10 minutes per caster level of the dispel evil. While the character is stunned, the character can't act, the character loses any dexterity bonus to AC, and attackers get a +2 bonus against the character.

If the recipient is awake when the spell begins, the character can choose to cease casting (ending the spell) or enter a trance until the recipient goes to sleep, whereupon the character becomes alert again and completes the casting. If the character is disturbed during the trance, the spell ends.

If the character chooses to enter a trance, the character is not aware of the character's surroundings or the activities around the character while in the trance. The character is defenseless, both physically and mentally, while in the trance.

Creatures who don't sleep or dream are immune to this spell.

PERSISTENT IMAGE

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: visual figment that cannot extend beyond four 10-ft.

Cubes + one 10-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: 1 minute/level (d)

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

This spell creates the visual illusion of an object, creature, or force, as visualized by the character. The figment includes visual, auditory, olfactory, and thermal components, and the figment follows a script determined by the character. The figment follows that script without the character's having to concentrate on it. The illusion can include intelligible speech if the character wishes.

SEEMING

Illusion (glamer)

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one person/two levels, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 12 hours

Saving throw: will negates or will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: yes or no

The character can make the targets-including clothing, armor, weapons, and equipment-look different. The targets can seem 1 foot shorter or taller, thin, fat, or in between. The character cannot change the targets' body type. Otherwise, the extent of the apparent change is up to the character.

The spell does not provide the abilities or mannerisms of the chosen form. It does not alter the perceived tactile (touch) or audible (sound) properties of the character or the character's equipment.

If the character uses this spell to create a disguise, the subject gets a +10 bonus on the disguise check.

Note: creatures get will saves to recognize the glamer as an illusion if they interact with it.

Affected creatures resume their normal appearances if slain.

Unwilling targets can negate the spell's effect on them by making will saves or with SR.

SHADOW EVOCATION

Illusion (shadow)

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: see text

Effect: see text

Duration: see text

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: yes

The character taps energy from the plane of shadow to cast a quasi-real, illusory version of a wizard or sorcerer evocation of 4th level or lower. (For a spell with more than one level, use the best one applicable to the character.) If recognized as a shadow evocation, a damaging spell deals only 1/5 normal damage. Regardless of the result of the save to disbelieve, affected creatures are also allowed any save the spell being simulated allows, but set the save DC according to shadow magic's level (5th) rather than the spell's normal level. Nondamaging effects have no effect when the shadow magic is recognized as mostly illusory.

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell turns the bones or bodies of dead creatures into undead skeletons or zombies that follow the character's spoken commands. The skeletons or zombies can follow the character, or can remain in an area and attack any creature (or just a specific type of creature) entering the place. The undead remain animated until they are destroyed. (A destroyed skeleton or zombie can't be animated again.)

Regardless of the type of undead, the character can't create more HD of undead than the character has caster levels with a single casting of animate dead.

The undead the character creates remain under the character's control indefinitely. No matter how many times the character uses this spell, however, the character can control only 2 HD worth of undead creatures per caster level. If the character exceeds this number, all the newly created creatures fall under the character's control, and any excess undead from previous castings become uncontrolled (the character chooses which creatures are released). If the character is a cleric, any undead the character might command by virtue of the character's power to command or rebuke undead do not count toward the limit.

Skeletons: a skeleton can be created only from a mostly intact corpse or skeleton. The corpse must have bones. If a skeleton is made from a corpse, the flesh falls off the bones. The statistics for a skeleton depend on its size; they do not depend on what abilities the creature may have had while alive.

Zombies: a zombie can be created only from a mostly intact corpse. The creature must have a true anatomy. The statistics for a zombie depend on its size, not on what abilities the creature may have had while alive.

Material component: the material component must be worth at least 50 gp.

MAGIC JAR

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft.+10 Ft./Level)

Target: one creature

Duration: 1 hour/level or until the character returns to the character's body

Saving throw: will negates (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

By casting magic jar, the character places the character's own soul in a gem or large crystal (known as the magic jar), leaving the character's body lifeless. Then the character can attempt to take control of a nearby body, forcing its soul into the magic jar. The character may move back to the jar (returning the trapped soul to its body) and attempt to possess another body. The spell ends when the character sends the character's soul back to the character's own body (leaving the receptacle empty).

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

To cast the spell, the magic jar must be within spell range and the character must know where it is, though the character does not need line of sight or effect to it. When the character transfers the character's soul upon casting, the character's body is, as near as anyone can tell, dead.

While in the magic jar, the character can sense and attack any life force within 10 feet per caster level (on the same plane). The character does need line of effect from the jar to the creatures. The character, however, cannot determine the exact creature types or positions of these creatures. In a group of life forces, the character can sense a difference of four or more HD and can determine whether a life force is positive or negative energy. (Undead creatures are powered by negative energy. Only sentient undead creatures have, or are, souls.)

Attempting to possess a body is a full-round action. It is blocked by protection from evil or a similar ward. The character possesses the body and forces the creature's soul into the magic jar unless the subject succeeds at a will save. Failure to take over the host leaves the character's life force in the magic jar, and the target automatically succeeds at further saving throws if the character attempts to possess its body again.

If successful, the character's life force occupies the host body, and the host's life force is imprisoned in the magic jar. The character keeps his or her intelligence, wisdom, charisma, level, class, base attack bonus, base save bonuses, alignment, and mental abilities. The body retains its strength, dexterity, constitution, hit points, natural abilities, and mental abilities, such as water breathing or regeneration. A body with extra limbs does not allow the character to make more attacks (or more advantageous two-weapon attacks) than normal. The character can't choose to activate the body's extraordinary or supernatural abilities. The creature's spells and spell-like abilities do not stay with the body.

As a standard action, the character can shift freely from a host to the magic jar if within range, sending the trapped soul back to its body. The spell ends when the character shifts from the jar to the character's own body.

If the host body is slain, the character returns to the magic jar, if within range, and the life force of the host departs (that is, it is dead). If the host body is slain beyond the range of the spell, both the character and the host die. Any life force with nowhere to go is treated as slain.

If the spell ends while the character is in the magic jar, the character returns to the character's body (or dies if the character's body is out of range or destroyed). If the spell ends while the character is in a host, the character returns to the character's body (or dies, if it is out of range of the character's current position), and the soul in the magic jar returns to its body (or dies if it is out of range). Destroying the receptacle ends the spell, and the spell can be dispelled at either the magic jar or the host.

Incorporeal creatures with the magic jar ability can use a handy, nearby object (not just a gem or crystal) as the magic jar.

Focus: worth at least 100 gp.

TRANS

ANIMAL GROWTH

Transmutation

Level: drd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: up to one animal/two levels, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

A number of animals grow to twice their normal size. This doubles each animal's height, length, and width, increasing its weight by a factor of eight. This increase in size has a number of effects:

Hit dice: the creature's HD double, doubling the creature's base attack bonus and increasing its saves accordingly.

Size: the creature's size increases one step. This increase reduces its AC (according to the new size), reduces its attack bonus (according to the new size), affects its ability to grapple, and so on. The creature gains an enlargement bonus to strength and constitution scores, and its damage with natural attacks increases. This spell does not affect colossal creatures.

When the spell ends, the creature's hit points return to normal, and all damage the creature has taken while enlarged is divided by 2.

The spell gives the character no special means of command or influence over the enlarged animals.

FABRICATE

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: see text

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: up to 10 cu. Ft./Level (see text)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character converts material of one sort into a product that is of the same material. Creatures or magic items cannot be created or transmuted by the fabricate spell. The quality of items made by this spell is commensurate with the quality of material used as the basis for the new fabrication. If the character works with a mineral, the target is reduced to 1 cubic foot per level instead of 10 cubic feet.

The character must make an appropriate craft check to fabricate articles requiring a high degree of craftsmanship (jewelry, swords, glass, crystal, etc.).

Casting requires 1 full round per 10 cubic feet (or 1 cubic foot) of material to be affected by the spell.

PASSWALL

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: 5 ft. X 8 ft. Opening, 1 ft./Level deep

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character creates a passage through wooden, plaster, or stone walls, but not through metal or other harder materials. If the wall's thickness is more than 1 foot per caster level, then a single passwall simply makes a niche or short tunnel. Several passwall spells can then form a continuing passage to breach very thick walls. When passwall ends, creatures within the passage are ejected out the nearest exit. If someone dispels the passwall or the character dismisses it, creatures in the passage are ejected out the far exit if there is one or out the sole exit if there is only one.

TELEKINESIS

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Target or targets: see text

Duration: concentration (up to 1 round/level) or instantaneous (see text)

Saving throw: will negates (object)(see text)

Spell resistance: yes (object) (see text)

The character moves objects or creatures by concentrating on them. Depending on the version selected, the spell can provide either a gentle, sustained force or a single short, violent thrust.

Sustained force: a sustained force moves a creature or object weighing up to 25 pounds per caster level up to 20 feet per round. A creature can negate the effect against itself or against an object it possesses with a successful will save or with sr.

This version of the spell lasts up to 1 round per caster level, but it ends if the character ceases concentration. The weight can be moved vertically, horizontally, or both. An object cannot be moved beyond the character's range. The spell ends if the object is forced beyond the range. If the character ceases concentration for any reason, the object falls or stops.

An object can be telekinetically manipulated as if with one hand. The character might even be able to untie simple knots, though delicate activities such as these require intelligence checks against a DC set by the DM.

Violent thrust: alternatively, the spell energy can be expended in a single round. The character can hurl one or more objects or creatures who are within range and all within 10 feet of each other toward any target within 10 feet/level of all the objects. The character can hurl up to a total weight of 25 pounds per caster level.

The character must succeed at attack rolls (one per creature or object thrown) to hit the target with the items, using the character's base attack bonus + the character's intelligence modifier. Weapons cause standard damage (with no strength bonus). Other objects cause damage ranging from 1 point/25 pounds to 1d6 points of damage per 25 pounds.

Creatures who fall within the weight capacity of the spell can be hurled, but they are allowed will saves to negate the effect, as are those whose held possessions are targeted by the spell. If a telekinetic creature is hurled against a solid surface, it takes damage as if it had fallen 10 feet (1d6 points).

TELEPORT

Transmutation [teleportation]

Level: sor/wiz 5, travel 5

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal and touch

Target: the character and touched objects or other touched willing creatures weighing up to 50 lb./Level

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none and will negates (object)

Spell resistance: no and yes (object)

This spell instantly transports the character to a designated destination. Distance is not a factor, but interplanar travel is not possible. The character can bring along objects and willing creatures totaling up to 50 pounds per caster level. As with all spells where the range is personal and the target is the character, the character need not make a saving throw, nor is sr applicable to the character. Only objects held or in use (attended) by another person receive saving throws and sr.

The character must have some clear idea of the location and layout of the destination. The clearer the character's mental image, the more likely the teleportation works. Areas of strong physical or magical energies may make teleportation more hazardous or even impossible.

Note: teleportation is instantaneous travel through the astral plane. Anything that blocks astral travel also blocks teleportation.

To see how well the teleportation works, roll d% and consult the teleport table.

Familiarity	On Target	Off Target	Similar Area	Mishap
Very familiar	01–97	98–99	100	—
Studied carefully	01–94	95–97	98–99	100
Seen casually	01–88	89–94	95–98	99–100
Viewed once	01–76	77–88	89–96	97–100
Description	01–52	53–76	77–92	93–100
False destination	(1d20+80)	— —	81–92	93–100

Refer to the following information for definitions of the terms on the table.

Familiarity: “very familiar” is a place where the character has been very often and where the character feels at home. “Studied carefully” is a place the character knows well, either because the character has been there often or the character has used other means to study the place. “Seen casually” is a place that the character has seen more than once but with which the character is not very familiar. “Viewed once” is a place that the character has seen once, possibly using magic. “Description” is a place whose location and appearance the character knows through someone else's description, perhaps even from a precise map.

“False destination” is a place that doesn't exist. When traveling to a false destination, roll 1d20+80 to obtain results on the table, rather than rolling d%, since there is no real destination for the character to hope to arrive at or even be off target from.

On target: the character appears where the character wants to be.

Off target: the character appears safely a random distance away from the destination in a random direction. Distance off target is 1d10 x 1d10% of the distance that was to be traveled. The DM determines the direction off target randomly.

Similar area: the character winds up in an area that's visually or thematically similar to the target area. Generally, the character appears in the closest similar place, but since the spell has no range limit, the character could conceivably wind up somewhere else across the globe.

Mishap: the character and anyone else teleporting with the character have gotten “scrambled.” The travellers each take 1d10 points of damage, and the character rerolls on the chart to see where the travellers wind up. For these rerolls, roll 1d20+80. Each time “mishap” comes up, the characters take more damage and must reroll.

TRANSMUTE MUD TO ROCK

Transmutation

Level: drd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: up to two 10-ft. Cubes/level (s)

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

This spell transforms normal mud or quicksand of any depth into soft stone permanently. Creatures in the mud are allowed a reflex save to escape before the area is hardened to stone.

Transmute mud to rock counters and dispels transmute rock to mud.

TRANSMUTE ROCK TO MUD

Transmutation

Level: drd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: up to two 10-ft. Cubes/level (s)

Duration: permanent (see text)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

This spell turns natural, uncut or unworked rock of any sort into an equal volume of mud. Magical or enchanted stone is not affected by the spell. The depth of the mud created cannot exceed 10 feet. Creatures unable to levitate, fly, or otherwise free themselves from the mud sink until hip- or chest-deep, reducing their speed to 5 feet and giving them -2 penalties on attack rolls and AC. Brush thrown atop the mud can support creatures able to climb on top of it. Creatures large enough to walk on the bottom can wade through the area at a speed of 5 feet.

If transmute rock to mud is cast upon the ceiling of a cavern or tunnel, the mud falls to the floor and spreads out in a pool at a depth of 5 feet. The falling mud and the ensuing cave-in deal 8d6 points of damage to anyone caught directly beneath the area, or half damage to those who succeed at reflex saves.

Castles and large stone buildings are generally immune to the effects of the spell, since transmute rock to mud can't affect worked stone and doesn't reach deep enough to undermine such buildings' foundations. However, small buildings or structures often rest upon foundations shallow enough to be damaged or even partially toppled by this spell.

The mud remains until a successful dispel magic or transmute mud to rock spell restores its substance—but not necessarily its form. Evaporation turns the mud to normal dirt over a period of days. The exact time depends on exposure to the sun, wind, and normal drainage.

PERMANENCY

Universal

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, XP

Casting time: 2 rounds

Range: see text

Target, effect, or area: see text

Duration: permanent (see text)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell makes certain other spells permanent. Depending on the spell, the character must be at least a minimum level and must expend a number of XP.

The character can make these spells permanent in regard to his or her self:

Minimum Spell	Level	XP Cost
Comprehend languages	9th	500 XP
Darkvision	10th	1,000 XP
Detect magic	9th	500 XP
Protection from arrows	11th	1,500 XP
Read magic	9th	500 XP
See invisibility	10th	1,000 XP
Tongues	11th	1,500 XP

The character casts the desired spell and then follows it with the permanency spell. The character cannot cast these spells on other creatures. This application of permanency can be dispelled only by a caster of greater level than the character was when the character cast the spell.

In addition to personal use, permanency can be used to make the following spells permanent on him or herself, another creature, or an object (as appropriate):

Minimum Spell	Level	XP Cost
Enlarge	9th	500 XP
Magic Fang	9th	500 XP
Resistance	9th	250 XP

Additionally, the following spells can be cast upon objects or areas only and rendered permanent:

Minimum Spell	Level	XP Cost
Alarm	9th	500 XP
Dancing lights	9th	500 XP
Ghost sound	9th	500 XP
Gust of wind	11th	1,500 XP
Invisibility	10th	1,000 XP
Magic mouth	10th	1,000 XP
Phase door	15th	3,500 XP
Prismatic sphere	17th	4,500 XP
Shrink item	11th	1,500 XP
Solid fog	12th	2,000 XP
Stinking cloud	11th	1,500 XP
Symbol	16th	4,000 XP
Teleportation circle	17th	4,500 XP
Wall of fire	12th	2,000 XP
Wall of force	13th	2,500 XP
Web	10th	1,000 XP

Spells cast on other creatures, objects, or locations (not on the character) are vulnerable to dispel magic as normal.

The DM may allow other selected spells to be made permanent. Researching this possible application of a spell costs as much time and money as independently researching the selected spell. If the DM has already determined that the application is not possible, the research automatically fails. Note that the character never learns what is possible except by the success or failure of the character's research.

ABJUR

ANTIMAGIC FIELD

Abjuration

level: clr 8, magic 6, protection 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 10 ft.

Area: 10-ft.-Radius emanation, centered on the character

Duration: 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: see text

An invisible barrier surrounds the character and moves with the character. The space within this barrier is impervious to most magical effects, including spells, spell-like abilities, and supernatural abilities. Likewise, it prevents the functioning of any magic items or spells within its confines.

An antimagic field suppresses any spell or magical effect used within, brought into, or cast into the area, but does not dispel it. Time spent within an antimagic field counts against the suppressed spell's duration.

Golems and other magical constructs, elementals, outsiders, and corporeal undead, still function in an antimagic area (though the antimagic area suppresses their supernatural, spell-like, and spell abilities normally). If such creatures are summoned or conjured, however, see below.

Summoned or conjured creatures of any type and incorporeal undead wink out if they enter an antimagic field. They reappear in the same spot once the field goes away. Time spent winked out counts normally against the duration of the conjuration that's maintaining the creature. If the character casts antimagic field in an area occupied by a conjured creature who has spell resistance, the character must make a caster level check (1d20 + caster level) against the creature's sr to make it wink out.

Normal creatures can enter the area, as can normal missiles. The spell has no effect on constructs that are imbued with magic during their creation process and are thereafter self-supporting (unless they have been summoned, in which case they are treated like any other summoned creatures). Undead and outsiders are likewise unaffected unless summoned. These creatures' spell-like or supernatural abilities, however, may be temporarily nullified by the field.

Dispel magic does not remove the field. Two or more antimagic fields sharing any of the same space have no effect on each other. Certain spells remain unaffected by antimagic field (see the individual spell descriptions). Artifacts and creatures of demigod or higher status are unaffected.

Note: should the character be larger than the area enclosed by the barrier, any part of the character's person that lies outside the barrier is unaffected by the field.

GLOBE OF INVULNERABILITY

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 10 ft.

Area: 10-ft.-Radius spherical emanation, centered on the character

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

An immobile, faintly shimmering magical sphere surrounds the character and excludes all spells effects of up to 4rd level. The area or effect of any such spells does not include the area of the minor globe of invulnerability. Such spells fail to affect any target located within the globe. This includes spell-like abilities and spells or spell-like effects from devices. However, any type of spell can be cast through or out of the magical globe. Spells of 5th level and higher are not affected by the globe. The globe can be brought down by a targeted dispel magic spell, but not by an area dispel magic. The character can leave and return to the globe without penalty.

Note that spell effects are not disrupted unless their effects enter the globe, and even then they are merely suppressed, not dispelled.

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC

If a given spell has more than one level depending on which character class is casting it, use the level appropriate to the caster to determine whether minor globe of invulnerability stops it.

GREATER DISPELLING

Abjuration

Level: brd 5, clr 6, drd 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target or area: one spellcaster, creature, or object; or 30-ft.-

Radius burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can use greater dispelling to end ongoing spells that have been cast on a creature or object, to temporarily suppress the magical abilities of a magic item, to end ongoing spells (or at least their effects) within an area, or to counter another spellcaster's spell. A dispelled spell ends as if its duration had expired. Some spells, as detailed in their descriptions, can't be defeated by greater dispelling. Greater dispelling can dispel (but not counter) the ongoing effects of supernatural abilities as well as spells. Greater dispelling affects spell-like effects just as it affects spells. Greater dispelling has a chance to dispel any effect that remove curse can remove.

Note: the effects of spells with instantaneous duration can't be dispelled, because the magic effect is already over before the greater dispelling can take effect.

The character choose to use greater dispelling in one of three ways: a targeted dispel, an area dispel, or a counterspell:

Targeted dispel: one object, creature, or spell is the target of the spell. The character makes a dispel check against the spell or against each ongoing spell currently in effect on the object or creature. A dispel check is 1d20 +1 per caster level (maximum +20) against a DC of 11 + the spell's caster level.

If the spellcaster targets an object or creature who is the effect of an ongoing spell (such as a monster summoned by monster summoning), she makes a dispel check to end the spell that conjured the object or creature.

If the object that the character targets is a magic item, the character makes a dispel check against the item's caster level. If the character succeeds, all the item's magical properties are suppressed for 1d4 rounds, after which the item recovers on its own. A suppressed item becomes nonmagical for the duration of the effect. An interdimensional interface is temporarily closed. Remember that a magic item's physical properties are unchanged. Artifacts and creatures of demigod or higher status are unaffected by mortal magic such as this.

The character automatically succeeds at the dispel check against any spell that the character cast.

Area dispel: the spell affects everything within a 30-foot radius.

For each creature who is the target of one or more spells, the character makes a dispel check against the spell with the highest caster level. If that fails, the character makes dispel checks against progressively weaker spells until the character dispels one spell (which discharges the dispel so far as that target is concerned) or fail all the character's checks. The creature's magic items are not affected.

For each object that is the target of one or more spells, the character makes dispel checks as with creatures. Magic items are not affected by area dispels.

For each ongoing area or effect spell centered within the greater dispelling's area, the character makes a dispel check to dispel the spell.

For each ongoing spell whose area overlaps that of the dispel, the character makes a dispel check to end the effect, but only within the area of the greater dispelling.

If an object or creature who is the effect of an ongoing spell, such as a monster summoned by monster summoning, is in the area, the character makes a dispel check to end the spell that conjured the object or creature (returning it whence it came) in addition to attempting to dispel spells targeting the creature or object.

The character may choose to automatically succeed at dispel checks against any spell that the character cast.

Counterspell: the spell targets a spellcaster and is cast as a counterspell. Unlike a true counterspell, however, greater dispelling may not work. The character must make a dispel check to counter the other spellcaster's spell.

GUARDS AND WARDS

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M, F

Casting time: 30 minutes (d)

Range: anywhere within the area to be warded

Area: up to 200 sq. Ft./Level (s)

Duration: 2 hours/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: see text

This powerful spell is primarily used to defend the character's stronghold. The ward protects 200 square feet per caster level. The warded area can be up to 20 feet high, and shaped as the character desires. The character can ward several stories of a stronghold by dividing the area among them; the character must be somewhere within the area to be warded to cast the spell. The spell creates the following magical effects within the warded area:

Fog: fog fills all corridors, obscuring all sight, including darkvision, beyond 5 feet. A creature within 5 feet has one-half concealment (attacks suffer a 20% miss chance). Creatures farther away have full concealment (50% miss chance; the attacker cannot use sight to locate the target). Spell resistance: no.

Arcane locks: all doors in the warded area are arcane locked. Spell resistance: no.

Webs: webs fill all stairs from top to bottom. These strands are identical with those created by the web spell, except that they regrow in 10 minutes if they are burned or torn away while the guards and wards spell lasts. Spell resistance: yes.

Confusion: where there are choices in direction—such as a corridor intersection or side passage—a minor confusion-type spell functions so as to make it 50% probable that intruders believe they are going in the exact opposite direction from the one they actually chose. This is an enchantment (mind-affecting) effect. Spell resistance: yes.

Lost doors: one door per caster level is covered by a glamor to appear as if it were a plain wall. Spell resistance: no.

In addition, the character can place the character's choice of one of the following five magical effects:

Dancing lights in four corridors. The character can designate a simple program that causes the lights to repeat as long as the guards and wards spell lasts. Spell resistance: no.

A magic mouth in two places. Spell resistance: no.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

A stinking cloud in two places. The vapors appear in the places the character designate; they return within 10 minutes if dispersed by wind while the guards and wards spell lasts. Spell resistance: yes.

A gust of wind in one corridor or room. Spell resistance: yes.

A suggestion in one place. The character selects an area up to 5 feet square, and any creature who enters or passes through the area receives the suggestion mentally. Spell resistance: yes.

The whole warded area radiates strong magic of the abjuration school. A dispel magic cast on a specific effect, if successful, removes only that effect. A successful disjunction destroys the entire guards and wards effect.

REPULSION

Abjuration

Level: brd 6, clr 7, protection 7, sor/

Wiz 6

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: up to 10 ft./Level

Area: up to 10-ft.-Radius/level emanation centered on the character

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

An invisible, mobile field surrounds the character and prevents creatures from approaching the character. The character decides how big the field is at the time of casting (up to the limit the character's level allows). Creatures within or entering the field must attempt saves. If they fail, they become unable to move toward the character for the duration of the spell. Repelled creatures' actions are not otherwise restricted. If the character moves closer to an affected creature, nothing happens. (The creature is not forced back.) The creature is free to make melee attacks against the character if the character comes within reach. If a repelled creature moves away from the character and then tries to turn back toward the character, it cannot move any closer if it is still within the spell's area.

CONJ

ACID FOG

Conjuration (creation) [acid]

Level: sor/wiz 6, water 7

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: fog spreads 30 ft., 20 Ft. High

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

A bank of fog billows out from the point the character designates. The fog obscures all sight, including darkvision, beyond 5 feet. A creature within 5 feet has one-half concealment (attacks suffer a 20% miss chance). Creatures farther away have total concealment (50% miss chance, and the attacker can't use sight to locate the target). The fog is so thick that any creature attempting to move through it progresses at one-tenth normal speed, and all melee attack and melee damage rolls suffer a -2 penalty. The vapors prevent effective ranged weapon attacks (except for magic rays and the like). A creature or object that falls into the fog is slowed, so that each 10 feet of vapor that the creature or objects passes through reduces falling damage by 1d6.

Each round, starting when the character casts the spell, the fog deals 2d6 points of acid damage to creatures and objects within it.

Only a severe wind (31+ mph) disperses these vapors, and it does so in 1 round.

PLANAR BINDING

Conjuration (calling) [see text]

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels) (see text)

Targets: up to 16 HD worth of elementals and outsiders, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart when they appear

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

Casting this spell attempts a dangerous act: to lure a creature or creatures from another plane to a specifically prepared trap, which must lie within the spell's range. The character may call a single creature of up to 16 HD or a number of creatures of the same type whose HD total no more than 16. The called creature is held in the trap until it agrees to perform one service in return for its freedom.

To create the trap, the character must use a magic circle spell, focused inward. The type of creature to be bound must be known and stated. If it has a specific, proper, or given name, this must be used in casting the spell.

The target creature must attempt a will saving throw. If the saving throw succeeds, the creature resists the spell. If the saving throw fails, the creature is immediately drawn to the trap (spell resistance does not keep the creature from being called). The creature can escape from the trap with a successful sr roll, dimensional travel, or a successful charisma check (DC 16 + 1/2 the caster's level + the caster's charisma modifier). It can try each method once per day. If it breaks loose, it can flee or attack the character. A dimensional anchor cast on the creature prevents its escape via dimensional travel. The character can also employ a calling diagram to make the trap more secure.

If the creature does not break free of the trap, the character can keep it bound for as long as the character dares. The character can attempt to compel the creature to perform a service by describing the service and perhaps offering some sort of reward. The character makes a charisma check opposed by the creature's charisma check. The DM then assigns a bonus based on the service and reward, from 0 to +6. This bonus applies to the character's charisma check. If the creature wins the opposed check, it refuses service.

If multiple creatures are called each creature gets a save, makes an independent attempt to escape, and must be individually persuaded to aid the character.

New offers, bribes, and the like can be made or the old ones reoffered every 24 hours. This can be repeated until the creature promises to serve, until it breaks free, or until the character decides to get rid of it by means of some other spell. Impossible demands or unreasonable commands are never agreed to. If the character rolls a 1 on the charisma check, the creature breaks free of the binding and can escape or attack the character.

Once the requested service is completed, the creature need only so inform the character to be instantly sent back whence it came. The creature might later seek revenge. If the character assigns some open-ended task that the creature cannot complete though its own actions (such as "wait here" or "defend this area against attack"), the spell remains in effect for a maximum of 1 day per caster level, and the creature gains an immediate chance to break free. Note that a clever recipient can subvert some instructions.

When the character uses a calling spell to call an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

SUMMON MONSTER VI

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: brd 6, clr 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one or more summoned creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons an outsider (extraplanar creature). It appears where the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the outsider, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 6th-level list on the summon monster table below, 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 5th-level list, or 1d4+1 creatures of the same type from a lower-level list. The character chooses which creature to summon, and can change that choice each time the spell is cast.

When the character uses a summoning spell to summon an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

DIV

ANALYZE DWEOMER

Divination

level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 8 hours

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one object or creature

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

The character discerns spells and magical properties present in a creature or object. One property, spell, or power is revealed each round, from lowest level (or weakest power) to highest (or strongest). For each spell or power, the character makes a caster level check (1d20 + caster level). If the result is equal to or higher than the spell's or power's caster level, the character identifies it. Otherwise, the character fails to identify that spell or power, and the character can check for the next one next round.

Analyze dweomer does not function when used on an artifact.

After the character analyzes one object or creature, the spell ends, even if its duration has not expired yet. The character must make a fortitude save (DC 21) when the spell ends or be exhausted and unable to do anything but rest for the next 1d8 hours.

Focus: the focus must be worth at least 1,500 gp.

LEGEND LORE

Divination

Level: brd 4, knowledge 7, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M, F

Casting time: see text

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: see text

Legend lore brings to the character's mind legends about an important person, place, or thing. If the person or thing is at hand, or if the character is in the place in question, the casting time is only 1d4 x 10 minutes. If the character has only detailed information on the person, place, or thing, casting time is 1d10 days, and the resulting lore is less complete and specific (though it often provides enough information to help the character find the person, place, or thing, thus allowing a better legend lore next time). If the character knows only rumors, casting time is 2d6 weeks, and the resulting lore is vague and incomplete (though it often directs the character to more detailed information, thus allowing a better legend lore).

During the casting, the character cannot engage in other than routine activities. When completed, the divination brings legends (if any) about the person, place, or things to the character's mind. These may be legends that are still current, legends that have been forgotten, or even information that has never been generally known. If the person, place, or thing is not of legendary importance, the character gains no information. As a rule of thumb, characters 11th level and higher are "legendary," as are the sorts of creatures they contend with, the major magic items they wield, and the places where they perform their key deeds.

Material component: worth at least 250 gp.

Focus: worth 50 gp each.

TRUE SEEING

Divination

Level: clr 5, drd 7, knowledge 5, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The character confers on the subject the ability to see all things as they actually are. The subject sees through normal and magical darkness, notices secret doors hidden by magic, sees the exact locations of creatures or objects under blur or displacement effects, sees invisible creatures or objects normally, sees through illusions, and sees the true form of polymorphed, changed, or transmuted things. Further, the subject can focus her vision to see into the ethereal plane (but not into extradimensional spaces). The range of true seeing conferred is 120 feet.

True seeing, however, does not penetrate solid objects. It in no way confers x-ray vision or its equivalent. It does not cancel concealment, including that caused by fog and the like. True seeing does not help the viewer see through mundane disguises, spot creatures who are simply hiding, or notice secret doors hidden by mundane means. In addition, the spell effects cannot be further enhanced with known magic.

Additionally, the divine version of this spell allows the subject to see auras, noting alignments of creatures at a glance.

Material component: worth at least 250 gp.

ENCH

GEAS/QUEST

Enchantment (compulsion) [language-dependent, mind-affecting]

Level: brd 6, clr 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature

Duration: 1 day/level or until discharged (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

A geas places a magical command on a creature to carry out some service or to refrain from some action or course of activity, as desired by the character. The creature must be able to understand the character. While a geas cannot compel a creature to kill itself or perform acts that would result in certain death, it can cause almost any other course of activity. The geased creature must follow the given instructions until the geas is completed, no matter how long it takes. If the instructions involve some open-ended task that the recipient cannot complete through his own actions, the spell remains in effect for a maximum of 1 day per caster level. Note that a clever recipient can subvert some instructions.

If the subject is prevented from obeying the geas for a whole day, the subject takes 3d6 points of damage each day he does not attempt to follow the geas/quest. Additionally, each day he must make a fortitude saving throw or sicken. A sickened creature moves at half his normal speed and suffers -4 penalties on both strength and dexterity. He heals damage at one-tenth his normal rate and cannot benefit from any magical healing effects. A sickened creature must make a fortitude save each day or become crippled. Once crippled, the subject is effectively disabled (as if he had 0 hit points) and can't choose to take strenuous actions. These effects end 1 day after the creature attempts to resume the geas/quest.

A geas (and all penalties) can be ended by limited wish, remove curse (only if the remove curse's caster level is at least two higher than the character's caster level), miracle, or wish. Dispel magic does not affect a geas.

Wizard and bards usually refer to this spell as geas, while clerics call the same spell quest.

MASS SUGGESTION

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting, language-dependent]

Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 hour/level or until completed

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

As suggestion, except that it can affect more creatures. The same suggestion applies to all these creatures.

The character influences the actions of the enchanted creatures by suggesting a course of activity (limited to a sentence or two). The suggestion must be worded in such a manner as to make the activity sound reasonable. The same suggestion applies to all targeted creatures.

The suggested course of activity can continue for the entire duration. If the suggested activity can be completed in a shorter time, the spell ends when the subjects finish what they were asked to do. The character can instead specify conditions that will trigger a special activity during the duration. If the condition is not met before the spell expires, the activity is not performed.

A very reasonable suggestion causes the save to be made with a penalty (such as -1, -2, etc.) At the discretion of the DM.

EVOC

CHAIN LIGHTNING

Evocation [electricity]

Level: air 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Targets: one primary target plus one secondary target/level (each must be within 30 ft. Of the primary target)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: reflex half

Spell resistance: yes

This spell creates an electrical discharge from the character's fingertips. Chain lightning strikes one object or creature initially, then arcs to other targets.

The bolt deals 1d6 points of electricity damage per caster level (maximum 20d6) on the primary target. After the bolt strikes, lightning can arc to as many secondary targets as the character has levels. The secondary bolts each strike one target and deal half as many dice of damage as the primary (rounded down). All subjects can attempt reflex saving throws for half damage. The character chooses secondary targets as the character likes, but they must all be within 30 feet of the primary target, and no target can be struck more than once. The character can choose to affect fewer secondary targets than the maximum.

FORCEFUL HAND

Evocation

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: 10-ft. Hand

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

Creates a large magic hand that appears between the character and one opponent. This hand pursues and pushes away the opponent that the character designates. Treat this as a bull rush with a +14 bonus on the strength check (+8 for strength 27, +4 for being large, and +2 for charging bonus, which it always gets). The hand always moves with the opponent to push him back the full distance allowed, and it has no speed limit.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

A very strong creature could not push the hand out of its way, but it could push the hand up against the character by successfully bull rushing the hand.

The hand moves to remain between the character and the designated opponent, regardless of where the character moves or how the opponent tries to get around it, providing nine-tenths cover (+10 AC) for the character against that opponent. Nothing can fool the hand—it sticks with the selected opponent in spite of darkness, invisibility, polymorphing, or any other attempt to hide or disguise himself.

A hand is 10 feet long and about that wide with its fingers outstretched. It has as many hit points as the character when undamaged, and its AC is 20 (-1 size, +11 natural). It takes damage as a normal creature, but most magical effects that don't cause damage do not affect it. The hand cannot push through a wall of force or enter an antimagic field. It suffers the full effects of a prismatic wall or prismatic sphere. The hand makes saving throws as its caster. Disintegrate or a successful dispel magic destroys the hand.

By concentrating (as a standard action), the character can designate a new opponent for the hand.

FREEZING SPHERE

Evocation [cold]

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: see text

Target, effect, or area: see text

Duration: see text

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes

Freezing sphere is a multipurpose spell. The character can cast any one of the following three versions:

Frigid sphere: a tiny sphere of freezing matter steaks from the character's fingertips to up to long range (400 feet + 40 feet/level) to strike a body of water or a liquid that is principally water. When it strikes such a target, it freezes the liquid to a depth of 6 inches over an area equal to 100 square feet (a 10-foot square) per caster level. This ice lasts for 1 round per caster level. The sphere has no effect if it strikes a creature, even a water-based creature, but creatures swimming on the surface of frozen water become trapped in the ice. Attempting to break free is a full-round action. A trapped creature must succeed at a strength check (DC 25) to do so.

Cold ray: a ray of cold springs from the character's hand to close range (25 feet + 5 feet/2 levels). The character must succeed at a ranged touch attack to hit the character's target. The ray instantaneously deals 1d6 points of cold damage per caster level (maximum 20d6).

Globe of cold: the character creates a small globe about the size of a sling stone, cool to the touch but not harmful. This globe is a grenadelike weapon and can be hurled either as a thrown weapon (range increment 20 feet) or in a sling. The globe bursts on impact, dealing 6d6 points of cold damage instantaneously to all targets within a 10-foot radius. Affected creatures can attempt reflex saves for half damage. If the character does not hurl the globe, it bursts on its own after 1 round per caster level. The character can command the globe to burst sooner if the character wishes, but the time cannot be changed once set (though it still bursts on impact after being hurled).

ILLUS

GREATER SHADOW EVOCATION

Illusion (shadow)

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: see text

Effect: see text

Duration: see text

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: yes

The character taps energy from the plane of shadow to cast a quasi-real, illusory version of a wizard or sorcerer evocation of 5th level or lower. (For a spell with more than one level, use the best one applicable to the character.) If recognized as a shadow evocation, a damaging spell deals only two-fifths (40%) of normal damage, with a minimum of 2 points per die of damage.. Regardless of the result of the save to disbelieve, affected creatures are also allowed any save the spell being simulated allows, but set the save DC according to shadow magic's level (6th) rather than the spell's normal level. Nondamaging effects are only 40% likely to work when the greater shadow evocation is recognized as mostly illusory (roll separately for each effect and each creature who recognizes the evocation as shadowy).

MISLEAD

Illusion (figment, glamer)

Level: brd 5, luck 6, sor/wiz 6, trickery 6

Components: S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target/effect: the character/one illusory double

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none/will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

An illusory double of the character (a figment) appears, and at the same time, the character becomes invisible. The character vanishes from sight, even from darkvision. If the character is carrying gear, the gear vanishes, too. Items dropped or put down by the invisible character become visible; items picked up disappear if tucked into the clothing or pouches worn by the character. Light, however, never becomes invisible, although a source of light can become so (thus, the effect is that of a light with no visible source). Any part of an item that the character carries but that extends more than 10 feet from it becomes visible.

The character is not magically silenced, and certain other conditions can render the character detectable (such as stepping in a puddle).

The character is then free to go elsewhere while the character's double moves away. The double appears within range but thereafter moves according to the character's intent at the time of casting. The character can make the figment appear superimposed perfectly over the character's own body so that observers don't notice an image appearing and the character turning invisible. The character and the figment can then move in different directions. The double moves at the character's speed, can talk and gesture as if it were real, and even smells and feels real. The double cannot attack or cast spells, but it can pretend to do so.

PERMANENT IMAGE

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: figment that cannot extend beyond a 20-ft. Cube + one 10-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: permanent (d)

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

This spell creates the visual illusion of an object, creature, or force, as visualized by the character. The figment includes visual, auditory, olfactory, and thermal elements, and the spell is permanent. By concentrating, the character can move the image within the limits of the range, but it is static while the character is not concentrating.

Material component: worth 100 gp.

PROGRAMMED IMAGE

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: visual figment that cannot extend beyond a 20-ft. Cube + one 10-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: permanent until triggered, then 1 round/level

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

This spell creates the visual illusion of an object, creature, or force, as visualized by the character. The illusion includes visual, auditory, olfactory, and thermal elements, including intelligible speech. The figment activates when a specific condition occurs.

The character sets the triggering condition (which may be a special word) when casting the spell. The event that triggers the illusion can be as general or as specific and detailed as desired but must be based on an audible, tactile, olfactory, or visual trigger. The trigger cannot be based on some quality not normally obvious to the senses.

Material component: worth 25 gp.

PROJECT IMAGE

Illusion (shadow)

Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: one shadow duplicate

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

The character creates a shadow duplicate of him or herself; it looks, sounds, and smells like the character but is intangible. The shadow mimics the character's actions (including speech) unless the character concentrate on making it act differently. The character can see through its eyes and hear through its ears as if the character were standing where it is, and during the character's turn in a round the character can switch from seeing through its eyes to seeing normally, or back again. If the character desires, any spell the character casts whose range is touch or greater can originate from the shadow instead of from the character. (The shadow is quasi-real, just real enough to cast spells that the character originates.) The shadow can cast spells on itself only if those spells affect shadows.

The character must maintain line of effect to the shadow at all times. If the character's line of effect is obstructed, the spell ends. If the character uses a spell that breaks the character's line of effect, even momentarily, the spell ends.

SHADES

Illusion (shadow)

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: see text

Effect: see text

Duration: see text

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with); varies (see text)

Spell resistance: no (see text)

The character uses material from the plane of shadow to shape quasi-real illusions of one or more creatures, objects, or forces. Shadow conjuration can mimic any sorcerer or wizard conjuration spell of 5rd level or lower. Shadow conjurations are actually three-fifths (60%) as strong as the real things, though creatures who believe the shadow conjurations to be real are affected by them at full strength.

All those that interact with the conjured object, force, or creature can make will saves to recognize its shadowy nature. Those who succeed do so.

Attack spells have normal effects unless those affected succeed at will saves. Each disbelieving creature takes only three-fifths damage from the attack. If the disbelieved attack has a special effect other than damage, that effect is three-fifths as strong (if applicable) or only 60% likely to occur. Mimicked spells allow the normal saves and sr.

Shadow objects or substances have normal effects except against those who disbelieve them. Against disbelievers, they are three-fifths strength or 60% likely to work.

Shadow creatures have three-fifths the normal hit points (regardless of whether they're recognized as shadowy). They deal normal damage and have all normal abilities and weaknesses. Against a creature who recognizes them as shadowy, however, such a creature's damage is three-fifths normal, and all special abilities that do not produce normal damage (in hit points) are only 60% likely to work. (Roll for each use and each affected character separately.) Furthermore, the shadow creature's AC bonuses are three-fifths as large.

Those who succeed at their saves see the shadow conjurations as transparent images superimposed on vague, shadowy forms.

VEIL

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Targets: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: concentration + 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (see text)

Spell resistance: yes (see text)

The character instantly changes the appearance of the subjects and then maintain that appearance for the spell's duration. The character can make the subjects appear to be anything the character wishes. The subjects look, feel, and smell just like the creatures the spell makes them resemble. Affected creatures resume their normal appearances if slain. The character must succeed at a disguise check to duplicate the appearance of a specific individual. This spell gives the character a +10 bonus on the check.

Unwilling targets can negate the spell's effect on them by making will saves or with sr. Those who interact with the subjects can attempt will disbelief saves to see through the glamor, but sr doesn't help.

NECRO

CIRCLE OF DEATH

Necromancy [death]

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: several living creatures within a 50-ft.-Radius burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

The spell slays 1d4 HD worth of living creatures per caster level (maximum 20d4). Creatures with the fewest HD are affected first; among creatures with equal HD, those who are closest to the point of origin of the burst are affected first. No creature with 9 or more HD is affected, and HD that are not sufficient to affect a creature are wasted.

Material component: minimum value of 500 gp.

TRANS

CONTROL WATER

Transmutation

Level: brd 5, clr 4, sor/wiz 6, water 4

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: water in a volume of 10 ft./Level x 10 ft./Level x 2 ft./Level (s)

Duration: 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Depending on the version the character chose, the control water spell raises or lowers water.

Lower water: this causes water (or similar liquid) to sink away to a minimum depth of 1 inch. The depth can be lowered by up to 2 feet per caster level. The water is lowered within a squarish depression whose sides are up to 10 feet long per caster level. In extremely large and deep bodies of water the spell creates a whirlpool that sweeps ships downward, putting them at risk and rendering them unable to leave by normal movement for the duration of the spell. When cast on water elementals and other water-based creatures, this spell acts as a slow spell. The spell has no effect on other creatures.

Raise water: this causes water (or similar liquid) to rise in height, just as the lower water version causes it to lower. Boats raised in this way slide down the sides of the hump that the spell creates. If the area affected by the spell includes land near the raised water, the water can spill over onto dry land.

For either version, the character may reduce one horizontal dimension by half and double the other horizontal dimension.

CONTROL WEATHER

Transmutation

Level: air 7, brd 6, clr 7, drd 7, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes (see text)

Range: two miles

Area: two-mile-radius circle, centered on the character (see text)

Duration: 4d12 hours (see text)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character changes the weather in the local area. It takes 10 minutes to cast the spell and an additional 10 minutes for the effects to manifest. The current, natural weather conditions are determined by the DM. The character can call forth weather appropriate to the climate and season of the area the character is in.

Season	Possible Weather
Spring	Tornado, thunderstorm, sleet storm, or hot weather
Summer	Torrential rain, heat wave, or hailstorm
Autumn	Hot or cold weather, fog, or sleet
Winter	Frigid cold, blizzard, or thaw

The character controls the general tendencies of the weather, such as the direction and intensity of the wind. The character cannot control specific applications of the weather. When the character selects a certain weather condition to occur, the weather assumes that condition 10 minutes later (changing gradually). The weather continues as the character left it for the duration, or until the character uses a standard action to designate a new kind of weather (which fully manifests itself 10 minutes later). Contradictory conditions are not possible simultaneously.

Control weather can do away with atmospheric phenomena (naturally occurring or otherwise) as well as create them.

Druids casting this spell double the duration and affect a circle with a three-mile radius.

DISINTEGRATE

Transmutation

Level: destruction 7, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: ray

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude partial

Spell resistance: yes

A thin, green ray springs from the character's pointing finger, causing the creature or object it strikes to glow and vanish, leaving behind only a trace of fine dust. The character must make a successful ranged touch attack to hit. Up to a 10-foot cube of nonliving matter is affected, so the spell disintegrates only part of any very large object or structure targeted. The ray affects even magical matter or energy of a magical nature but not a globe of invulnerability or an antimagic field. A creature or object that makes a successful fortitude save is only partially affected. It takes 5d6 points of damage instead of disintegrating. Only the first creature or object struck can be affected (that is, the ray affects only one target per casting).

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
EYEBITE Transmutation [see text] Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 6 Components: V, S Casting time: 1 action Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels) Target: the character Duration: 1 round/three levels (see text) Saving throw: see text Spell resistance: yes The character can meet the gaze of a creature and speak a single word to affect it with one of four magical effects: charm, fear, sicken, or sleep. The character selects one of these four possible gaze attacks when casting the spell. The character retains the gaze power for 1 round for every three caster levels and can use the gaze attack as a free action each round. These effects do not affect undead creatures or extend beyond the plane the character currently occupies. The character is subject to the effects of a reflected gaze and is allowed any applicable saving throw. In the case of a reflected charm gaze, the character is held (as a hold monster spell). The four versions of the spell are as follows: Charm: the subject regards the character as a trusted friend and ally. If the creature is currently being threatened or attacked by the character or the character's allies, however, he receives a +5 bonus on his saving throw. The spell does not enable the character to control the charmed creature as if the creature were an automaton, but the subject perceives the character's words and actions in the most favorable way. The character can try to give the subject orders, but the character must win an opposed charisma check to convince the subject to do anything he or she wouldn't ordinarily do. (Retries not allowed.) A charmed creature never obeys suicidal or obviously harmful orders. Any act by the character or the character's apparent allies that threatens the charmed creature breaks the spell. Note also that the character must speak the creature's language to communicate the character's commands, or else be good at pantomiming. Fear: the subject flees in blind terror for 1d4 rounds. Once it stops fleeing, the creature refuses to face the character for 10 minutes per the character's caster level. If subsequently confronted by the character, it either cowers or bolts for the nearest cover (50% chance of either). This is an enchantment, compulsion, mind-affecting effect; it can be negated by a will save (sr applies). Sicken: sudden pain and fever sweeps over the subject's body. An affected creature's speed is reduced by half, it loses any dexterity bonus to armor class, and it suffers a -2 penalty to attack rolls. The creature remains stricken for 10 minutes per the character's caster level. The effects cannot be negated by a cure disease or heal spell, but a remove curse or successful dispel magic spell is effective. This is a necromancy effect; it can be negated by a fortitude save (sr applies). Sleep: the subject falls asleep. The creature sleeps for the character's caster level x 10 minutes but can be slapped awake. This is an enchantment, compulsion, mind-affecting effect; it can be negated by a will save (sr applies). Note: each round, a gaze attack automatically works against one creature within range that is looking at (attacking or interacting with) the gazing creature.			FLESH TO STONE Transmutation Level: sor/wiz 6 Components: V, S, M Casting time: 1 action Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level) Target: one creature Duration: instantaneous Saving throw: fortitude negates Spell resistance: yes The subject and all possessions it carries turn into a mindless, inert statue. If the statue resulting from this spell is broken or damaged, the being (if ever returned to its original state) has similar damage or deformities. The creature is not dead (its soul doesn't pass on), but it does not seem to be alive either (when viewed with spells that detect life). Only creatures made of flesh are affected by this spell.
			LUCUBRATION Transmutation Level: wiz 6 Components: V, S Casting time: 1 action Range: personal Target: the character Duration: instantaneous The character instantly recalls any one spell of up to 5th level that the character has used during the past 24 hours. The spell must have been actually cast during that time period. The recalled spell is stored in the character's mind as though prepared in the normal fashion. If the recalled spell requires material components, the character must provide these. The recovered spell is not usable until the material components are available.
			MASS HASTE Transmutation Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 6 Components: V, S, M Casting time: 1 action Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels) Targets: one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart Duration: 1 round/level Saving throw: fortitude negates (harmless) Spell resistance: yes (harmless) The transmuted creatures move and act more quickly than normal. This extra speed has several effects. On their turn, the subjects may take an extra partial action, either before or after their regular action. The subjects gain a +4 haste bonus to AC. The subjects lose this bonus whenever they would lose a dodge bonus. The subjects can jump one and a half times as far as normal. This increase counts as an enhancement bonus.
			MOVE EARTH Transmutation Level: sor/wiz 6 Components: V, S, M Casting time: see text Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level) Area: dirt in an area up to 750 ft. square & up to 10 ft. Deep (s) Duration: instantaneous

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Move earth moves dirt, possibly collapsing embankments, moving hillocks, shifting dunes, etc. However, in no event can rock formations be collapsed or moved. The area to be affected determines the casting time. For every 150-foot square (up to 10 feet deep), casting takes 10 minutes. The maximum area, 750 feet by 750 feet, takes 4 hours and 10 minutes to move.

This spell does not violently break the surface of the ground. Instead, it creates wavelike crests and troughs, with the earth reacting with glACierlike fluidity until the desired result is achieved. Trees, structures, rock formations, and such are mostly unaffected except for changes in elevation and relative topography.

The spell cannot be used for tunneling and is generally too slow to trap or bury creatures. Its primary use is for digging or filling moats or for adjusting terrain contours before a battle.

STONE TO FLESH

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one petrified creature or a cylinder of stone from 1 ft. To 3 ft. In diameter and up to 10 ft. Long

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude negates (object) (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

This spell restores a petrified creature to its normal state, restoring life and goods. The creature must succeed at a fortitude save (DC 15) to survive the process. Any petrified creature, regardless of size, can be restored.

The spell also can convert a mass of stone into a fleshy substance. Such flesh is inert and lacking a vital life force unless a life force or magical energy is available. The character can affect an object that fits within a cylinder from 1 foot to 3 feet in diameter and up to 10 feet long or a cylinder of up to those dimensions in a larger mass of stone.

TRANSFORMATION

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 1 round/level

The character gains 1d6 temporary hit points per caster level, a +4 natural armor bonus to AC, a +2d4 strength enhancement bonus, a +2d4 dexterity enhancement bonus, a +1 base attack bonus per two caster levels (which may give the character an extra attack), a +5 competence bonus on fortitude saves, and proficiency with all simple and martial weapons. The character attacks opponents with melee or ranged weapons if the character can, even resorting to unarmed attacks if that's all the character can do.

The character can't cast spells, even from magic items.

Material component: a potion of strength, which the character drinks (and whose effects are subsumed by the spell effects).

ABJUR

BANISHMENT

Abjuration

Level: clr 6, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one or more extraplanar creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

Banishment enables the character to force extraplanar creatures out of the character's home plane. Up to 2 HD of creatures per caster level can be banished. To target a creature, the character must present at least one object or substance that it hates, fears, or otherwise opposes. For each such object or substance, the character gains +1 on the character's caster level check to overcome the target's sr (if any) and +2 on the saving throw DC.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

At the DM's option, certain rare items might work twice as well.

SEQUESTER

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: one creature or object (up to a 2-ft. Cube/level) touched

Duration: 1 day/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

When cast, this spell not only prevents divination spells from working to detect or locate the creature or object affected by sequester, it also renders the affected creature or object invisible to any form of sight or seeing. The spell does not prevent the subject from being discovered through tactile means or through the use of magic devices. Living creatures (and even undead creatures) affected by sequester become comatose and are effectively in a state of suspended animation until the spell wears off or is dispelled.

Note: the will save prevents a character from being sequestered. There is no save to see the sequestered creature or object or to detect it with a divination spell.

SPELL TURNING

Abjuration

Level: luck 7, magic 7, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: until expended or 10 minutes/ level

Spells (and spell-like effects) targeted against the character rebound on the original caster. The abjuration turns only spells that have the character as a target. Effect and area spells are not affected. Spell turning also fails to affect touch range spells.

From seven to ten (1d4+6) spell levels are affected by the turning. The DM secretly rolls the exact number. Each spell turned subtracts its level from the amount of spell turning left.

A spell might be only partially turned. Subtract the 1d4+6 result from the spell level of the incoming spell. Divide the remaining levels of the incoming spell by the spell level of the incoming spell to see what fraction of the effect gets through. For damaging spells, the character and the caster each take a fraction of the damage. For nondamaging spells, each of opponents has a proportional chance to be affected.

If the character and a spellcasting attacker are both warded by spell turning effects in operation, a resonating field is created. Roll randomly to determine the result:

d%	Effect
01–70	Spell drains away without effect.
71–80	Spell affects both of the characters equally at full effect.
81–97	Both turning effects are rendered nonfunctional for 1d4 minutes.
98–100	Both of the characters go through a rift into another plane.

CONJ

INSTANT SUMMONS

Conjuration (summoning)

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: see text

Target: one object weighing up to 10 lb. Whose longest dimension is 6 ft. Or less

Duration: permanent until discharged

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character calls some nonliving item from virtually any location directly to the character's hand.

First, the character places his or her arcane mark on the item. Then the character casts this spell, which magically and invisibly inscribes the name of the item on a gem worth at least 1,000 gp. Thereafter, the character can summon the item by speaking a special word (set by the character when the spell is cast) and crushing the gem. The item appears instantly in the character's hand. Only the character can use the gem in this way.

If the item is in the possession of another creature, the spell does not work, but the character knows who the possessor is and roughly where he, she, or it is located when the summons is cast.

The inscription on the gem is invisible. It is also unreadable, except by means of a read magic spell, to anyone but the character.

The item can be summoned from another plane, but only if no other creature has claimed ownership of it.

MAGNIFICENT MANSION

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: extradimensional mansion, up to 3 10-ft. Cubes/level (s)

Duration: 2 hours/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character conjures up an extradimensional dwelling that has a single entrance on the plane from which the spell was cast. The entry point looks like a faint shimmering in the air that is 4 feet wide and 8 feet high. Only those the character designates may enter the mansion, and the portal is shut and made invisible behind the character when the character enters. The character may open it again from the character's own side at will. Once observers have passed beyond the entrance, they are in a magnificent foyer with numerous chambers beyond. The atmosphere is clean, fresh, and warm.

The character can create any floor plan the character desires to the limit of the spell's effect. The place is furnished and contains sufficient foodstuffs to serve a nine-course banquet to a dozen people per caster level. There is a staff of near-transparent servants, liveried and obedient, to wait upon all who enter. The servants function as unseen servant spells except that they are visible and can go anywhere in the mansion. There are two such servants for each caster level.

Since the place can be entered only through its special portal, outside conditions do not affect the mansion, nor do conditions inside it pass to the plane beyond. Rest and relaxation within the place occurs as normal.

PHASE DOOR

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 7, travel 8

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Effect: ethereal 5 ft. X 8 ft. Opening, 1 ft./Level deep

Duration: one usage/two levels

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell creates an ethereal passage through wooden, plaster, or stone walls, but not other materials. The phase door is invisible and inaccessible to all creatures except the character, and only the character can use the passage. The character disappears when the character enters the phase door and appears when the character exits. If the character desires, the character can take one other creature (medium-size or smaller) through the door. This counts as two uses of the door. The door does not allow light, sound, or spell effects through it, nor can the character see through it without using it. Gems of true seeing and similar magic reveal the presence of a phase door but do not allow its use.

A phase door is subject to dispel magic. If anyone is within the passage when it is dispelled, he is harmlessly ejected.

A phase door can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

The character can allow other creatures to use the phase door by setting some triggering condition for the door. Such conditions can be as simple or elaborate as the character desires. They can be based on a creature's name, identity, or alignment, but otherwise must be based on observable actions or qualities. Intangibles such as level, class, HD, and hit points don't qualify.

POWER WORD, STUN

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 7, war 7

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature with up to 150 hit points

Duration: see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

One creature of the character's choice is stunned, whether the creature can hear the word or not. A creature with 50 or fewer hit points remains stunned for 4d4 rounds, one with 51 to 100 hit points is stunned for 2d4 rounds, one with 101 to 150 hit points is stunned for 1d4 rounds, and a creature with 151 hit points or more is not affected.

A stunned creature can't act and loses any dexterity bonus to AC. Attackers gain +2 bonuses to attack it.

SUMMON MONSTER VII

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: clr 7, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one or more summoned creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons an outsider (extraplanar creature). It appears where the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the outsider, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 7th-level list on the summon monster table below, 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 6th-level list, or 1d4+1 creatures of the same type from a lower-level list. The character chooses which creature to summon, and can change that choice each time the spell is cast.

7th Level
Celestial elephant (animal)	NG
Avoral guardinal (celestial)	NG

Tojanida, Large	N
Slaad, blue	CN
Hamatula (devil)	LE
Osyluth (devil)	LE
Fiendish dire tiger	CE

When the character uses a summoning spell to summon an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

DIV

GREATER SCRYING

Divination

Level: brd 6, clr 7, drd 7, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: see text

Effect: magical sensor

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character can see and hear a creature, who may be at any distance. The character must succeed at a scry check to do so. The difficulty of the task depends on how well the character knows the subject and what sort of physical connection (if any) the character has to that creature. Furthermore, if the subject is on another plane, the character gets a -5 penalty on the scry check.

Knowledge	DC
None*	20
Secondhand (the character has heard of the subject)	15
Firsthand (the character has met the subject)	10
Familiar (the character know the subject well)	5
*The character must have some sort of connection to a creature the character has no knowledge of.

Connection	Scry Check Bonus
Likeness or picture	+5
Possession or garment	+8
Body part, lock of hair, nail clippings, etc.	+10

This spell creates a magical sensor located near the subject. Any creature with intelligence 12 or higher can notice the sensor by making a scry check (or an intelligence check) against DC 20.

You may cast the following spells reliably through the sensor:

comprehend languages, darkvision, detect chaos, detect evil, detect good, detect law, detect magic, message, read magic, and tongues.

VISION

Divination

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M, XP

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: see text

Vision quickly brings to the character's mind legends about an important person, place, or thing, but produces some strain on the character. The character poses a question about some person, place, or object, then casts the spell. If the person or object is at hand or if the character is in the place in question, the character receives a vision about it with a successful scry check (DC 10). If only detailed information on the person, place, or object is known, the DC is 15, and the information gained is incomplete (though it often provides enough information to help the character find the person, place, or thing, thus allowing a better vision next time). If only rumors are known, the DC is 20, and the information gained is vague (though it often directs the character to more detailed information, thus allowing a better vision).

When completed, the divination brings legends (if any) about the person, place, or things to the character's mind. These may be legends that are still current, legends that have been forgotten, or even information that has never been generally known. If the person, place, or thing is not of legendary importance, the character gains no information. As a rule of thumb, characters 11th level and higher are "legendary," as are the sorts of creatures they contend with, the major magic items they wield, and the places where they perform their key deeds.

XP cost: 100 xp.

ENCH

INSANITY

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one living creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

Creatures affected by this spell behave randomly, as indicated on the following table:

1d10	Behavior
1	Wander away for 1 minute (unless prevented)
2–6	Do nothing for 1 round
7–9	Attack nearest creature for 1 round
10	Act normally for 1 round

Except on a result of 1, roll again each round to see what the subject does that round. Wandering creatures leave the scene as if disinterested. Attackers are not at any special advantage when attacking them. Behavior is checked at the beginning of each creature's turn. Any creature who is attacked automatically attacks its attackers on its next turn.

Remove curse does not remove insanity. Greater restoration, limited wish, miracle, and wish can restore the creature.

EVOC

DELAYED BLAST FIREBALL

Evocation [fire]

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: 20-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: up to 5 rounds (see text)

Saving throw: reflex half

Spell resistance: yes

This spell creates a burst of flame that delivers 1d6 points of fire damage per caster level (maximum 20d6) to all creatures within the area. Unattended objects also take this damage. The explosion creates almost no pressure. The spell can detonate up to 5 rounds after being cast.

The character determines the range (distance and height) at which the fireball is to burst. A glowing, pea-sized bead travels the distance from the character and can detonate immediately (the same round as the spell was cast) if the character desires, or the character can choose to delay the burst for up to 5 rounds. The character chooses the amount of delay upon completing the spell, and the delay cannot change once it has been set (unless someone touches the bead; see below). If the bead impacts upon a material body or solid barrier prior to attaining the prescribed range, bursts into the fireball at that point (an early impact results in an early detonation).

If the character chooses a delay, the glowing bead sits at its destination until it detonates. A creature can pick up and hurl the bead as a thrown weapon (range increment 10 feet). If a creature handles and moves the bead within 1 round of its detonation, there is a 25% chance that the bead detonates while the creature is handling it.

If the character attempts to send the bead through a narrow passage the character must "hit" the opening with a ranged touch attack, or else the bead strikes the barrier and detonates prematurely.

The fireball sets fire to combustibles and damages objects in the area. It can melt metals with a low melting point, such as lead, gold, copper, silver, or bronze. If the damage caused to an interposing barrier shatters or breaks through it, the fireball may continue beyond the barrier if the area permits; otherwise it stops at the barrier.

GRASPING HAND

Evocation

Level: sor/wiz 7, strength 7

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: 10-ft. Hand

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

Creates a large magic hand that appears between the character and one opponent. This floating, disembodied hand then moves to remain between the two, regardless of where the character moves or how the opponent tries to get around it.

The hand can grapple one opponent that the character selects. The grasping hand gets one grappling attack per round. Its attack bonus to make contact is the character's level + the character's intelligence, wisdom, or charisma modifier (for wizards, clerics, and sorcerers, respectively), +10 for the hand's strength score (31), -1 for being large. Its grapple check is this same figure, except with +4 for being large instead of -1. It holds but does not harm creatures it grapples.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

The hand can also bull rush an opponent. The hand pursues and pushes away the opponent that the character designates. Treat this as a bull rush with a +16 bonus on the strength check (+10 for strength 31, +4 for being large, and +2 for charging bonus, which it always gets). The hand always moves with the opponent to push him back the full distance allowed, and it has no speed limit.

A very strong creature could not push the hand out of its way, but it could push the hand up against the character by successfully bull rushing the hand.

The hand can interpose itself between the caster and the opponent. Interposing provides nine-tenths cover (+10 AC) for the character against that opponent. Nothing can fool the hand—it sticks with the selected opponent in spite of darkness, invisibility, polymorphing, or any other attempt to hide or disguise himself. The hand does not pursue an opponent, however.

The hand is 10 feet long and about that wide with its fingers outstretched. It has as many hit points as the character when undamaged, and its AC is 20 (-1 size, +11 natural). It takes damage as a normal creature, but most magical effects that don't cause damage do not affect it. The hand cannot push through a wall of force or enter an antimagic field. It suffers the full effects of a prismatic wall or prismatic sphere. The hand makes saving throws as its caster. Disintegrate or a successful dispel magic destroys the hand.

FORCECAGE

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M (see text)

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: barred cage (20-ft. Cube) or Windowless cell (10-ft. Cube)

Duration: 2 hours/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This powerful spell brings into being an immobile cubical prison with bars or solid walls of force (the character's choice).

Creatures within the area are caught and contained unless they are too big to fit inside or can pass through the slits in the barred cage. All spells and breath weapons can pass through the gaps in the bars. Teleportation and other forms of astral travel provide a means of escape, but the force walls or bars extend into the ethereal plane, blocking ethereal travel.

The forcecage resists dispel magic, but it is vulnerable to a disintegrate spell, and it can be destroyed by a sphere of annihilation or a rod of cancellation.

Barred cage: the barred cage is a 20-foot cube with bands of force for bars. The bands are a half-inch wide, with half-inch gaps between the bars.

Windowless cell: the cell is a 10-foot cube with no way in and no way out. Solid walls of force form its six sides.

Material component: worth 1,500 gp, consumed when the spell is prepared.

PRISMATIC SPRAY

Evocation

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: cone

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes

This spell causes seven shimmering, intertwined, multicolored beams of light to spray from the character's hand. Each beam has a different power. Creatures in the area of the spell with 8 HD or less are automatically blinded (see blindness/deafness) for 2d4 rounds. All creatures in the area are randomly struck by one or more beams, which have additional effects.

1d8	Color of Beam	Effect
1	Red	20 points fire damage (Reflex half)
2	Orange	40 points acid damage (Reflex half)
3	Yellow	80 points electricity damage (Reflex half)
4	Green	Poison (Kills; Fortitude partial, take 20 points of damage instead)
5	Blue	Turned to stone (Fortitude negates)
6	Indigo	Insane, as insanity spell (Will negates)
7	Violet	Sent to another plane (Will negates)
8	Struck by two rays; roll again twice, ignoring any "8" results.

SWORD

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one sword

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

The character brings into being a shimmering, swordlike plane of force. The sword strikes at any opponent within its range, as the character desires, starting the round that the character cast the spell. The sword attacks its designated target once each round. Its attack bonus is the character's level + the character's intelligence bonus or the character's charisma bonus (for wizards and sorcerers, respectively) with a +3 enhancement bonus. As a force effect, it can strike ethereal and incorporeal creatures. It deals 4d6+3 points of damage, with a threat range of 19-20 and a crit of x2.

The sword always strikes from the character's direction. It does not get a flanking bonus or help a combatant get one. If the sword goes beyond the spell range from the character, if it goes out of the character's sight, or if the character is not directing it, the sword returns to the character and hovers.

Each round after the first, the character can use a standard action to switch the sword to a new target. If the character does not, the sword continues to attack the previous round's target. The sword cannot be attacked or harmed by physical attacks, but dispel magic, disintegrate, a sphere of annihilation, or a rod of cancellation affects it. The sword's AC against touch attacks is 13.

If an attacked creature has sr, the resistance is checked the first time the sword strikes it. If the sword is successfully resisted, the spell is dispelled. If not, the sword has its normal full effect on that creature for the duration of the spell.

Focus: worth at least 250 gp.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

ILLUS

MASS INVISIBILITY

Illusion (glamer)

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Targets: any number of creatures, no two of which can be more than 180 ft. Apart

Duration: 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none or will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: no or yes (harmless, object)

The group of creatures targeted vanish from sight, even from dark-vision. If the recipients are carrying gear, the gear vanishes, too. Individuals in the group cannot see each other, unless they can normally see invisible things or employ magic to do so.

Items dropped or put down by an invisible creature become visible; items picked up disappear if tucked into the clothing or pouches worn by the creature. Light, however, never becomes invisible, although a source of light can become so (thus, the effect is that of a light with no visible source). Any part of an item that the subject carries but that extends more than 10 feet from it becomes visible, such as a trailing rope.

The subjects are not magically silenced, and certain other conditions can render the recipients detectable (such as stepping in a puddle). The spell ends if anyone in the group attacks any creature. For purposes of this spell, an “attack” includes any spell targeting a foe or whose area or effect includes a foe. (Exactly who is a foe depends on the invisible character’s perceptions.) Actions directed at unattended objects do not break the spell. Causing harm indirectly is not an attack. If the subject attacks directly it immediately becomes visible along with all its gear. Note that spells such that specifically affect allies but not foes are not attacks for this purpose, even when they include foes in their area.

The spell is broken for any individual who moves more than 180 feet from the nearest member of the group. (If only two individuals are affected, the one moving away from the other one loses its invisibility. If both are moving away from each other, they both become visible when the distance between them exceeds 80 feet.)

SHADOW WALK

Illusion (shadow)

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Targets: up to one touched creature/level

Duration: 1 hour/Level (d)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

To use the shadow walk spell, the character must be in an area of heavy shadows. The character and any creature the character touches are then transported along a coiling path of shadowstuff to the edge of the material plane where it borders the plane of shadow. The effect is largely illusory, but the path is quasi-real. The character can take more than one creature along with the character (subject to the character’s level limit), but all must be touching each other.

In the region of shadow, the character can move at a rate of up to seven miles every 10 minutes, moving normally on the borders of the plane of shadow but much more rapidly relative to the material plane. Thus, a character can use this spell to travel rapidly by stepping onto the plane of shadow, moving the desired distance, and then stepping back onto the material plane. The character knows where the character will come out on the material plane.

Shadow walk can also be used to travel to other planes that border on the plane of shadow, but this requires the potentially perilous transit of the plane of shadow to arrive at a border with another plane of reality. The transit of the plane of shadow requires 1d4 hours.

Any creatures touched by the character when shadow walk is cast also make the transition to the borders of the plane of shadow. They may opt to follow the character, wander off through the plane, or stumble back into the material plane (50% chance for either of the latter results if they are lost or abandoned by the character). Creatures unwilling to accompany the character into the plane of shadow receive a will saving throw, negating the effect if successful.

SIMULACRUM

Illusion (shadow)

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M, XP

Casting time: 12 hours

Range: touch

Effect: one duplicate creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

SimulACrum creates an illusory duplicate of any creature. The duplicate creature is partially real and formed from ice or snow. The duplicate appears to be exactly the same as the original, but there are differences: the simulacrum has only 51% to 60% (50+1d10) of the hit points, knowledge (including level, skills, and speech), and personality of the real creature. Creatures familiar with the original might detect the ruse with a successful spot check. The character must make a disguise check when the character casts the spell to determine how good the likeness is.

At all times the simulacrum remains under the character’s absolute command. No special telepathic link exists, so command must be exercised in some other manner. The simulacrum has no ability to become more powerful. It cannot increase its level or abilities. If destroyed, it reverts to snow and melts instantly into nothingness. A complex process requiring at least 1 day, 100 gp per hit point, and a fully equipped magical laboratory can repair damage to the simulacrum.

Material component: worth at least 100 gp.

XP cost: 1,000 xp.

NECRO

CONTROL UNDEAD

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: up to 2 HD of undead creatures/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 minute/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This spell enables the character to command undead creatures for a short period of time. The character commands the creatures by voice. Telepathic communication is not possible, but the creatures understand the character no matter what language the character speaks. Even if vocal communication is impossible the controlled undead do not attack the character. At the end of the spell, the controlled undead revert to their normal behavior. Intelligent undead remember that the character controlled them.

FINGER OF DEATH

Necromancy [death]

Level: drd 8, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude partial

Spell resistance: yes

The character can slay any one living creature within range. The subject is entitled to a fortitude saving throw to survive the attack. If the save is successful, it instead sustains 3d6 points of damage +1 point per caster level.

TRANS

ETHEREAL JAUNT

Transmutation

Level: clr 5, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

The character becomes ethereal, along with the character's equipment. The character enters a place called the ethereal plane, which overlaps the normal, physical, material plane.

When the spell expires, the character returns to material existence.

If the character ends the spell and become material while inside a material object (such as a solid wall), the character is shunted off to the nearest open space and takes 1d6 points of damage per 5 feet that the character traveled.

PLANE SHIFT

Transmutation

Level: brd 6, clr 5, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched, or up to eight willing creatures joining hands

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

The character moves him or herself or some other creature to another plane of existence or alternate dimension. If several willing persons link hands in a circle, up to eight can be affected by the plane shift at the same time. Pinpoint ACCurACy as to a particular arrival location on the intended plane is nigh impossible. From the material plane, the character can reach any other plane, though the character appears 5 to 500 miles (5d%) from the character's intended destination.

Note: plane shift transports the creatures instantaneously and then ends. The creatures need to find other means if they are to travel back.

REVERSE GRAVITY

Transmutation

Level: drd 8, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: up to one 10-ft. Cube/2 levels (s)

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none (see text)

Spell resistance: no

This spell reverses gravity in the spell's area, causing all unattached objects and creatures within it to fall upward and reach the top of the area in 1 round. If some solid object is encountered in this fall, falling objects and creatures strike it in the same manner as they would during a normal downward fall. If an object or creature reaches the top of the area without striking anything, it remains there, oscillating slightly, until the spell ends. At the end of the spell duration, affected objects and creatures fall downward.

Provided there's something for them to hold onto, creatures caught in the area can attempt reflex saves to secure themselves when the spell strikes. Creatures who can fly or levitate can keep themselves from falling.

STATUE

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

A statue spell turns the subject to solid stone, along with any garments and equipment worn or carried. The initial transformation from flesh to stone requires 1 full round after the spell is cast. In statue form, the subject gains hardness 8. The subject retains its own hit points.

The subject can see, hear, and smell normally, but does not need to eat or breathe. Feeling is limited to those sensations that can affect the granite-hard substance of the individual's body. Chipping is equal to a mere scratch, but breaking off one of the statue's arms is serious damage.

The individual under the magic of a statue spell can return to his normal state, act, and then return instantly to the statue state (a free action) if he so desires, as long as the spell duration is in effect.

TELEPORT WITHOUT ERROR

Transmutation [teleportation]

Level: sor/wiz 7, travel 7

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal and touch

Target: the character and touched objects or other touched willing creatures weighing up to 50 lb./Level

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none and will negates (object)

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Spell resistance: no and yes (object)

This spell instantly transports the character to a designated destination. Distance is not a factor, but interplanar travel is not possible. The character can bring along objects and willing creatures totaling up to 50 lbs/caster level. As with all spells where the range is personal and the target is the character, the character need not make a saving throw, nor is sr applicable to the character. Only objects held or in use (attended) by another person receive saving throws and sr.

The character must have a reliable description of the place to which the character is teleporting. If the character attempts to teleport with insufficient information (or with misleading information), the character disappears and simply reappears in the character's original location. Areas of strong physical or magical energies may make teleportation more hazardous or even impossible.

Note: teleportation is instantaneous travel through the astral plane. Anything that blocks astral travel also blocks teleportation.

VANISH

Transmutation [teleportation]

Level: sor/wiz 7

Range: touch

Target: one touched object of up to 50 Lb./Level and 3 cu. Ft./Level

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

This spell instantly transports an object to a designated destination. Creatures and magical forces cannot be made to vanish. There is a 1% chance that a vanished item is disintegrated instead.

Distance is not a factor, but interplanar travel is not possible. The character must have some clear idea of the location and layout of the destination. The clearer the character's mental image, the more likely the teleportation works. Areas of strong physical or magical energies may make teleportation more hazardous or even impossible.

Note: teleportation is instantaneous travel through the astral plane. Anything that blocks astral travel also blocks teleportation.

To see how well the teleportation works, roll d% and consult the teleport table.

Familiarity	On Target	Off Target	Similar Area	Mishap
Very familiar	01–97	98–99	100	—
Studied carefully	01–94	95–97	98–99	100
Seen casually	01–88	89–94	95–98	99–100
Viewed once	01–76	77–88	89–96	97–100
Description	01–52	53–76	77–92	93–100
False destination	(1d20 +80)	—	81–92	93–100

Refer to the following information for definitions of the terms on the table.

Familiarity: “very familiar” is a place where the character has been very often and where the character feels at home. “Studied carefully” is a place the character knows well, either because the character has been there often or the character has used other means to study the place. “Seen casually” is a place that the character has seen more than once but with which the character is not very familiar. “Viewed once” is a place that the character has seen once, possibly using magic. “Description” is a place whose location and appearance the character knows through someone else's description, perhaps even from a precise map.

“False destination” is a place that doesn't exist. When traveling to a false destination, roll 1d20+80 to obtain results on the table, rather than rolling d%, since there is no real destination for the character to hope to arrive at or even be off target from.

On target: the object appears where the character wants it to be.

Off target: the object appears safely a random distance away from the destination in a random direction. Distance off target is 1d10 x 1d10% of the distance that was to be traveled. The DM determines the direction off target randomly.

Similar area: the object winds up in an area that's visually or thematically similar to the target area. Generally, the object appears in the closest similar place, but since the spell has no range limit, the object could conceivably wind up somewhere else across the globe.

Mishap: the object takes 1d10 points of damage, and the character rerolls on the chart to see where the object winds up. For these rerolls, roll 1d20+80. Each time “mishap” comes up, the object takes more damage and the character must reroll.

If desired, a vanished object can be sent to a distant location on the ethereal plane. In this case, the point from which the object vanished remains faintly magical until the item is retrieved. A successful targeted dispel magic spell cast on that point brings the vanished item back from the ethereal plane.

UNIV

LIMITED WISH

Universal

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, XP

Casting time: 1 action

Range: see text

Target, effect, or area: see text

Duration: see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

A limited wish lets the character create nearly any type of effect. A limited wish can do any of the following:

Duplicate any sorcerer/wizard spell of 6th level or lower, provided the spell is not from a school prohibited to the character.

- Duplicate any other spell of 5th level or lower, provided the spell is not from a school prohibited to the character.
- Duplicate any wizard/sorcerer spell of 5th level or lower even if it's from a prohibited school.
- Duplicate any other spell of 4th level or lower even if it's from a prohibited school.
- Undo the harmful effects of many other spells.
- Have any other effect whose power level is in line with the above effects.

A duplicated spell allows saving throws and spell resistance as normal (but the save DC is for a 7th-level spell). When a limited wish duplicates a spell that has an XP cost, the character must pay that cost or 300 XP, whichever is more. When a limited wish spell duplicates a spell with a material component that costs more than 1,000 gp, the character must provide that component.

XP cost: 300 XP or more (see above).

ABJUR

MIND BLANK

Abjuration

Level: protection 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature

Duration: 1 day

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject is protected from all devices and spells that detect, influence, or read emotions or thoughts. This spell protects against all mind-affecting spells and effects as well as information gathering by divination spells or effects. Mind blank even foils limited wish, miracle, and wish when they are used in such a way as to affect the subject's mind or to gain information about him. In the case of scrying that scans an area that the creature is in the spell works but the creature simply isn't detected. Scrying attempts that are targeted specifically at the subject do not work at all.

PRISMATIC WALL

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: wall 4 ft./Level wide x 2 ft./

Level high

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: see text

Prismatic wall creates a vertical, opaque wall—a shimmering, multicolored plane of light that protects the character from all forms of attack. The wall flashes with seven colors, each of which has a distinct power and purpose. The wall is immobile, and the character can pass through and remain near the wall without harm. However, any other creature with fewer than 8 HD that is within 20 feet of the wall is blinded (see blindness/deafness) for 2d4 rounds by the colors if it looks at the wall.

The wall's maximum proportions are 4 feet wide per caster level and 2 feet high per caster level. A prismatic wall spell cast to materialize in a space occupied by a creature is disrupted, and the spell is wasted.

Each color in the wall has a special effect. The accompanying table shows the seven colors of the wall, the order in which they appear, their effects on creatures trying to attack the character or pass through the wall, and the magic needed to negate each color.

The wall can be destroyed, color by color, in consecutive order, by various magical effects; however, the first must be brought down before the second can be affected, and so on. A rod of cancellation or a disjunction spell destroys a prismatic wall, but an antimagic field fails to penetrate it. Dispel magic and greater dispelling cannot dispel the wall or anything beyond it. Spell resistance is effective against a prismatic wall, but the caster level check must be repeated for each color present.

Color	Order	Effect of Color	Negated By
Red	1st	Stops nonmagical ranged weapons Deals 20 points of fire damage (Reflex half)	Cone of Cold
Orange	2nd	Stops magical ranged weapons Deals 40 points of acid damage (Reflex half)	Gust of Wind
Yellow	3rd	Stops poisons, gasses, and petrification Deals 80 points of electricity damage (Reflex half)	Disintegrate
Green	4th	Stops breath weapons Poison (Kills; Fortitude partial to take 20 points of damage instead)	Passwall
Blue	5th	Stops divination and mental attacks Turned to stone (Fortitude negates)	Magic Missile
Indigo	6th	Stops all spells Will save or become insane (as insanity spell)	Daylight
Violet	7th	Energy field destroys all objects and Creatures are sent to another plane (Will negates)	Dispel Magic effects

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC

The violet effect makes the special effects of the other six colors redundant, but they are included here because certain magic items can create prismatic effects one color at a time, and sr might render some colors ineffective (see above).

PROTECTION FROM SPELLS

Abjuration

Level: magic 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Targets: up to one creature/four levels touched

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

Subjects gain a +8 resistance bonus on saving throws against spells and spell-like abilities (but not against supernatural and extraordinary abilities).

Material component: worth at least 500 gp value.

Focus: one 1,000 gp gem per creature granted the protection. Each recipient must carry one such gem for the duration of the spell. If a recipient loses the gem, the spell ceases to affect him or her.

CONJ

GREATER PLANAR BINDING

Conjuration (calling) [see text]

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels) (see text)

Targets: up to 24 HD worth of elementals and outsiders, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart when they appear

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

Casting this spell attempts a dangerous act: to lure a creature or creatures from another plane to a specifically prepared trap, which must lie within the spell's range. The character may call a single creature of up to 24 HD or a number of creatures of the same type whose HD total no more than 24. The called creature is held in the trap until it agrees to perform one service in return for its freedom. To create the trap, the character must use a magic circle spell, focused inward. The type of creature to be bound must be known and stated. If it has a specific, proper, or given name, this must be used in casting the spell.

The target creature must attempt a will saving throw. If more than one creature is called, each creature makes a saving throw. If the saving throw succeeds, the creature resists the spell. If the saving throw fails, the creature is immediately drawn to the trap (spell resistance does not keep the creature from being called). The creature can escape from the trap with a successful sr roll, dimensional travel, or a successful charisma check (DC 18 + 1/2 the caster's level + the caster's charisma modifier). It can try each method once per day. Multiple creatures make individual escape attempts. If it breaks loose, it can flee or attack the character. A dimensional anchor cast on the creature prevents its escape via dimensional travel. The character can also employ a calling diagram to make the trap more secure.

If the creature does not break free of the trap, the character can keep it bound for as long as the character dares. The character can attempt to compel the creature to perform a service by describing the service and perhaps offering some sort of reward. The character makes a charisma check opposed by the creature's charisma check. The DM then assigns a bonus based on the service and reward, from 0 to +6. This bonus applies to the character's charisma check. If the creature wins the opposed check, it refuses service. New offers, bribes, and the like can be made or the old ones reoffered every 24 hours. This can be repeated until the creature promises to serve, until it breaks free, or until the character decides to get rid of it by means of some other spell. If multiple creatures have been called, the caster must negotiate with each individually. Impossible demands or unreasonable commands are never agreed to. If the character rolls a 1 on the charisma check, the creature breaks free of the binding and can escape or attack the character.

Once the requested service is completed, the creature need only so inform the character to be instantly sent back whence it came. The creature might later seek revenge. If the character assigns some open-ended task that the creature cannot complete though its own actions, the spell remains in effect for a maximum of 1 day/caster level, and the creature gains an immediate chance to break free. Note that a clever recipient can subvert some instructions.

When the character uses a calling spell to call an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

INCENDIARY CLOUD

Conjuration (creation) [fire]

Level: fire 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: cloud spreads 30 ft. Wide and 20 ft. High

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: reflex half (see text)

Spell resistance: yes (see text)

An incendiary cloud spell creates a cloud of roiling smoke shot through with white-hot embers. The smoke obscures all sight, including darkvision, beyond 5 feet. A creature within 5 feet has one-half concealment (attacks suffer a 20% miss chance). Creatures farther away have total concealment (50% miss chance, and the attacker can't use sight to locate the target). In addition, the white-hot embers within the cloud deal 4d6 points of fire damage to everything within it each round (half damage on a successful reflex save).

The smoke moves away from the character at 10 feet per round. Figure out the smoke's new spread each round based on its new point of origin, 10 feet farther away from where the character was when the character cast the spell. By concentrating, the character can make the cloud (actually its point of origin) move up to 60 feet each round. Any portion of the cloud that would extend beyond the character's maximum range dissipates harmlessly, reducing the remainder's spread thereafter.

A moderate wind (11+ mph) disperses the smoke in 4 rounds; a strong wind (21+ mph) disperses the smoke in 1 round.

The spell does not function underwater.

MAZE

Conjuration (creation) [force]

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature

Duration: see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character conjures up an extradimensional labyrinth of force planes, and the subject vanishes into it. If the subject attempts to escape, the time it takes to find the way out depends on its intelligence score:

Intelligence Score of Mazed Creature	Time Trapped in Maze
Under 3	2d4 minutes
3	1d6 minutes
4–5	1d4 minutes
6–8	5d4 rounds
9–12	4d4 rounds
13–15	3d4 rounds
16–17	2d4 rounds
18+	1d4 rounds

If the subject doesn't attempt to escape, the maze disappears after 10 minutes, forcing the subject to leave.

On leaving the maze, the subject reappears in the spot it had been in when the maze spell was cast. If this spot is filled with a solid object, the subject appears nearby.

Spells and abilities that move a creature within a plane do not help a creature escape a maze spell, although the character can escape by using spells to the plane.

Minotaurs are not affected by this spell.

POWER WORD, BLIND

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 8, war 8

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: creatures with up to 200 total hit points within a 15-ft.-

Radius sphere

Duration: see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

This spell blinds one or more creatures. It affects the creatures with the lowest hit point totals first, selecting subjects one at a time until the next target would put it over the limit of 200. (Creatures with negative hit points count as having 0 hit points.)

The duration of the spell depends on the total hit points of the affected creatures:

Hit Points	Duration
Up to 50	Permanent
51 to 100	1d4+1 minutes
101 to 200	1d4+1 rounds

SUMMON MONSTER VIII

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: clr 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: 1 or more summoned creatures, no 2 of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons an outsider (extraplanar creature). It appears where the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the outsider, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 8th-level list on the summon monster table below, 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 7th-level list, or 1d4+1 creatures of the same type from a lower-level list. The character chooses which creature to summon, and can change that choice each time the spell is cast.

8th Level
Lillend	CG
Formian taskmaster [alone]	LN
Janni (genie)	N
Elemental, greater	N
Barghest, Medium-size	LE
Cornugon (devil)	E
Fiendish squid, giant (animal)	LE
Salamander, Large	NE
Succubus (demon)	CE

When the character uses a summoning spell to summon an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

TRAP THE SOUL

Conjuration (summoning)

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M, (F)

Casting time: 1 action or see text

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature

Duration: permanent (see text)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes (see text)

Trap the soul forces a creature's life force (and its material body) into a gem.

The gem holds the trapped entity indefinitely or until the gem is broken and the life force is released, which allows the material body to reform. If the trapped creature is a powerful creature from another plane (which could mean a character trapped by an inhabitant of another plane when the character is not on the material plane), it can be required to perform a service immediately upon being freed. Otherwise, the creature can go free once the gem imprisoning it is broken.

Depending on the version selected, the spell can be triggered in one of two ways.

Spell completion: first, the spell can be completed by speaking its final word as a standard action as if the character were casting a regular spell at the subject. This allows sr (if any) and a will save to avoid the effect. If the creature's name is spoken as well, any sr is ignored and the save DC increases by 2. If the save or sr is successful, the gem shatters.

Trigger object: the second method tricks the subject into accepting a trigger object inscribed with the final spell word, automatically plACing the creature's soul in the trap. To use this method, both the creature's name and the trigger word must be inscribed on the trigger object when the gem is enchanted. A sympathy spell can also be placed on the trigger object. As soon as the subject picks up or ACcepts the trigger object, its life force is automatically transferred to the gem without the benefit of sr or a save.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Material component: at least 1,000 gp value for every hit die possessed by the creature to be trapped.

DIV

DISCERN LOCATION

Divination

Level: clr 8, knowledge 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: unlimited

Target: one creature or object

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Nothing short of the direct intervention of a deity keeps the character from learning the exact location of a single individual or object. Discern location circumvents normal means of protection from scrying or location. The spell reveals the name of the location, community, county, country, continent, and plane where the subject lies.

To find a creature with the spell, the character must have seen the creature or have some item that once belonged to it. To find an object, the character must have touched the object at least once.

ENCH

ANTIPATHY

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: drd 9, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 hour

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one location (up to a 10-ft. Cube/level) or one object

Duration: 2 hours/level

Saving throw: will partial

Spell resistance: yes

The character causes an object or location to emanate magical vibrations that repel either a specific order of intelligent creature or creatures of a particular alignment, as defined by the character. The particular sort of creature to be affected must be named specifically. Larger groups (types and subtypes) are not specific enough. Likewise, the specific alignment must be named. A compulsion forces creatures of the designated sort or alignment to abandon the area or item, never willingly returning to it while the spell is in effect. A creature who makes a successful saving throw can stay in the area or touch the item, but feels very uncomfortable doing so. This discomfort reduces the creature's dexterity score by 4 points.

Antipathy counters and dispels sympathy.

This spell cannot be cast upon living creatures.

BINDING

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: one minute

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature

Duration: see text (d)

Saving throw: will negates (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

A binding spell creates a magical restraint to hold a creature. The target only gets an initial saving throw if its HD is equal to at least half the character's caster level.

The character may have up to six assistants help the character with the spell. For each assistant who casts suggestion, the character's caster level for this casting of the spell increases by +1. For each assistant who casts dominate animal, dominate person, or dominate monster, the character's effective level increases by a number equal to one-third that assistant's level (provided the target is appropriate for the spell). All the assistants must join in chanting the spell (see the details on the spell's verbal component, below). The character's caster level determines whether the target gets an initial will saving throw and how long the binding lasts. All binding durations are dismissible.

The binding spell has six versions. Choose one of the following versions when the character casts the spell.

Chaining: the subject is confined by restraints that generate an antipathy spell affecting all creatures who approach the subject, except the character. Duration is one year per caster level. The subject of this form of binding is confined to the spot it occupied when it received the spell.

Slumber: brings a comatose sleep upon the subject for up to one year per caster level. The subject does not need to eat or drink while slumbering, nor does it age. Reduce the spell's save DC by 1.

Bound slumber: a combination of chaining and slumber that lasts for up to one month per caster level. Reduce save DC by 2.

Hedged prison: the subject is transported to or otherwise brought within a confined area from which it cannot wander by any means. The spell is permanent. Reduce save DC by 3.

Metamorphosis: the subject assumes gaseous form, except for its head or face. It is held harmless in a jar or other container, which may be transparent (the character's choice). The creature remains aware of its surroundings and can speak, but cannot leave the container, attack, or use any of its powers or abilities. The binding is permanent. The subject does not need to breathe, eat, or drink while metamorphosed, nor does it age. Reduce save DC by 4.

Minimus containment: the subject is shrunk to a height of 1 inch or less and held within some gem or similar object or jar. The binding is permanent. The subject does not need to breathe, eat, or drink while contained, nor does it age. Reduce save DC by 4.

Regardless of the version of binding the character cast, the character can specify triggering conditions that end the spell and release the creature whenever they occur. These can be as simple or elaborate as the character desires (but the DM must agree that the condition is reasonable and has a likelihood of coming to pass). The conditions can be based on a creature's name, identity, or alignment but otherwise must be based on observable actions or qualities. Intangibles such as level, class, HD, or hit points don't qualify. Once the spell is cast, its triggering conditions cannot be changed. Setting a release condition increases the save DC (assuming a saving throw is allowed) by +2.

In the case of the first three versions of binding (those with limited durations), the character may cast additional binding spells to prolong the effect (the durations overlap). If the character does so, the target gets a saving throw at the end of the first spell's duration (even if the character's caster level was high enough to disallow an initial saving throw). If the creature succeeds at this save, all the binding spells it has received are broken.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Components: Specially made props suited to the specific type of binding (cost 500 gp), plus the spell requires gems worth at least 500 gp for each HD of the target.

DEMAND

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: see text

Target: one creature

Duration: 1 round (see text)

Saving throw: will partial

Spell resistance: yes

The character contacts a particular creature with whom the character is familiar and sends a short message of twenty-five words or less to the subject. The subject recognizes the character if it knows the character. It can answer in like manner immediately. Creatures with intelligence scores as low as 1 can understand the sending, though the subject's ability to react is limited normally by its intelligence. The message can also contain a suggestion, which the subject does its best to carry out. A suggestion recommends a course of activity (limited to a sentence or two). The suggestion must be worded in such a manner as to make the activity sound reasonable. The suggested course of activity can continue for 1 hour/level of the caster. If the suggested activity can be completed in a shorter time, the spell ends when the subject finishes what it was asked to do. The character can instead specify conditions that will trigger a special activity during the duration. If the condition is not met before the spell expires, the activity is not performed.

A successful will save negates the suggestion effect but not the contact itself. The demand, if received, is understood even if the creature's intelligence score is as low as 1. If the message is impossible or meaningless according to the circumstances that exist for the subject at the time the demand comes, the message is understood but the suggestion is ineffective.

The demand's message to the creature must be twenty-five words or less. The creature can also give a short reply immediately.

If the creature in question is not on the same plane of existence as the character is, there is a 5% chance that the sending does not arrive. (Local conditions on other planes may worsen this chance considerably, at the option of the DM.)

MASS CHARM

Enchantment (charm) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

Duration: 1 day/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This charm affects a number of creatures whose combined HD do not exceed twice the character's level (or at least one creature regardless of HD). If there are more potential targets than the character can affect, the character chooses them one at a time until the character chooses a creature with too many HD.

The targets regard the character as a trusted friend and ally. If the creatures are currently being threatened or attacked by the character or the character's allies, however, they receive a +5 bonus on their saving throw.

The spell does not enable the character to control the charmed creatures as if they were automatons, but the subjects perceives the character's words and actions in the most favorable way. The character can try to give the subjects orders, but the character must win an opposed charisma check to convince the subjects to do anything they wouldn't ordinarily do. (Retries not allowed.) A charmed creature never obeys suicidal or obviously harmful orders. Any act by the character or the character's apparent allies that threatens the charmed creatures breaks the spell. Note also that the character must speak the creatures' language to communicate the character's commands, or else be good at pantomiming.

IRRESISTIBLE DANCE

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: 1d4+1 rounds

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

The subject feels an undeniable urge to dance and begins doing so. The dance makes it impossible for the subject to do anything other than caper and prance, worsens the armor class of the creature by -4, makes reflex saves impossible except on a roll of 20, and makes it impossible to use a shield.

SYMPATHY

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: drd 9, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 hour

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one location (up to a 10-ft. Cube/level) or one object

Duration: 2 hours/level

Saving throw: will negates (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

The character causes an object or location to emanate magical vibrations that attract either a specific type of intelligent creature or creatures of a particular alignment, as defined by the character. The particular type of creature to be affected must be named specifically. Larger groups, such as a "type," are not specific enough. Likewise, the specific alignment must be named.

Creatures of the type or alignment feel elated and pleased to be in the area or desire to touch or to possess the object. The compulsion to stay in the area or touch the object is overpowering. If the save is successful, the creature is released from the enchantment, but a subsequent save must be made 1d6 x 10 minutes later. If this save fails, the affected creature attempts to return to the area or object.

Sympathy counters and dispels antipathy.

Material components: worth at least 1,500 gp.

EVOC

CLENCHED FIST

Evocation

Level: sor/wiz 8, strength 8

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: 10-ft. Hand

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

This spell creates a large magic hand. This floating, disembodied hand moves and attacks as directed by the character. (The character directs it as a free action.) The floating hand can move up to 60 feet and can attack in the same round. Since the hand is directed by the character, its ability to notice or attack invisible or concealed creatures is no better than the character's. The hand attacks once per round, and its attack bonus equals the character's level + the character's intelligence, wisdom, or charisma modifier (for a wizard, cleric, or sorcerer, respectively), +11 for the hand's strength score (33), -1 for being large. The hand's damage is 1d8+12, and any creature struck must make a fortitude save (against this spell's save DC) or be stunned for 1 round. A stunned creature can't act and loses any dexterity bonus to AC. Attackers gain +2 bonuses to attack it.

The hand is 10 feet long and about that wide with its fingers outstretched. It has as many hit points as the character when undamaged, and its AC is 20 (-1 size, +11 natural). It takes damage as a normal creature, but most magical effects that don't cause damage do not affect it. The hand cannot push through a wall of force or enter an antimagic field. It suffers the full effects of a prismatic wall or prismatic sphere. The hand makes saving throws as its caster. Disintegrate or a successful dispel magic destroys the hand.

TELEKINETIC SPHERE

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: 1-ft.-Diameter/level sphere, centered around creatures or objects

Duration: 1 minute/level (d)

Saving throw: reflex negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

A globe of force encloses a creature, provided it is small enough to fit within the diameter of the sphere. The sphere contains its subject for the spell's duration. The sphere is not subject to damage of any sort except from a rod of cancellation, a wand of negation, disintegrate, or a targeted dispel magic spell. These destroy the sphere without harm to the subject. Nothing can pass through the sphere, inside or out, though the subject can breathe normally. The subject may struggle, but the only effect that act produces is to move the sphere slightly. The globe can be physically moved either by people outside it or by the struggles of those within.

The creatures or objects inside the globe are nearly weightless. Anything contained within an telekinetic sphere weighs only one-sixteenth of its normal weight. The character can telekinetically lift anything in the sphere that normally weighs up to 5,000 pounds. The range of the telekinetic control extends to a maximum distance of medium range from the character (100 feet + 10 feet per caster level) after the sphere has succeeded in encapsulating its contents.

The character moves objects or creatures in the sphere that weigh up to a total of 5,000 pounds by concentrating on the sphere. The character can begin moving a sphere the round after casting the spell. A round's concentration (a standard action) moves the sphere up to 30 feet. If the character ceases concentrating, the sphere does not move that round (if on a level surface) or descends at its falling rate (if aloft) until it reaches a level surface, the spell's duration ends, or the character begins concentrating again. If the character ceases concentrating (voluntarily or due to failing a concentration check), the character can resume concentrating on the character's next turn or any later turn during the spell's duration.

Note that even if more than 5,000 pounds of weight is englobed, the perceived weight is only one-sixteenth of the actual weight, so the orb can be rolled without exceptional effort. The sphere falls at a rate of only 60 feet per round, which is not fast enough to cause damage to the contents of the sphere.

The character can move the sphere telekinetically even if the character is in it.

SUNBURST

Evocation [fire]

Level: drd 8, sor/wiz 8, sun 8

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: 10 ft./Level-radius burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: reflex partial (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

Sunburst causes a globe of searing heat and radiance to explode silently from a point the character selects. All creatures in the globe are blinded and are dealt 3d6 points of damage. (A successful reflex save negates the blindness and reduces the damage by half.). In addition to the obvious effects, a blinded creature suffers a 50% miss chance in combat (all opponents have full concealment), loses any dexterity bonus to AC, grants a +2 bonus to attackers' attack rolls (they are effectively invisible), moves at half speed, and suffers a -4 penalty on most strength- and dexterity-based skills. Creatures to whom sunlight is harmful or unnatural take double damage.

Undead creatures caught within the globe are dealt 1d6 points of damage per caster level (maximum 25d6), or half damage if a reflex save is successful. In addition, the burst results in the destruction of undead creatures specifically affected by sunlight if they fail their saves.

The ultraviolet light generated by the spell deals damage to fungi, mold, oozes, slimes, jellies, puddings, and fungoid creatures just as if they were undead creatures.

ILLUS

SCREEN

Illusion (glamer)

Level: sor/wiz 8, trickery 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: 30-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: 1 day

Saving throw: none or will disbelief (if interacted with)(see text)

Spell resistance: no

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

When the spell is cast, the character dictates what will and will not be observed in the spell's area. The illusion created must be stated in general terms. Once the conditions are set, they cannot be changed.

Attempts to scry the area automatically detect the image stated by the character with no save allowed.

Direct observation may allow a save (as per a normal illusion), if there is cause to disbelieve what is seen. Even entering the area does not cancel the illusion or necessarily allow a save, assuming that hidden beings take care to stay out of the way of those affected by the illusion.

NECRO

CLONE

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M, F

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: one clone

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell makes an inert duplicate of a creature. If the original individual has been slain, the original's soul transfers to the clone, creating a replacement (provided the soul is free and willing to return). The original's physical remains, should they still exist, become inert matter and cannot thereafter be restored to life. If the original has reached the end of its natural life span, any cloning attempt fails.

To create the duplicate, the character must have a piece of flesh taken from the original's living body, with a volume of at least 1 cubic inch. The piece of flesh need not be fresh, but it must be kept from rotting. Once the spell is cast, the duplicate must be grown in a laboratory for 2d4 months.

When the clone is completed, if the original is dead, the original's soul enters the clone. The clone has the personality, memories, skills, and levels the original had at the time the piece of flesh was taken. However, the replacement must be at least one level lower than the original was at the time of death. If the original was 1st level, the clone's constitution score drops by 1; if this would give the clone a constitution score of 0, the spell fails. If the original creature has lost levels since the flesh sample was taken and died at a lower level than the clone would otherwise be, the clone is at the level at which the original died.

The spell duplicates only the original's body and mind, not its equipment.

A duplicate can be grown while the original still lives, or when the original soul is unavailable, but the resulting creature is merely a soulless bit of inert flesh, which rots if not somehow preserved.

Arcane material components: the piece of flesh & 1,000 gp.

Focus: cost 500 gp.

HORRID WILTING

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 8, water 8

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Targets: living creatures, no two of whom can be more than 60 ft. apart

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude half

Spell resistance: yes

This spell evaporates moisture from the bodies of all the subject living creatures, dealing 1d8 points of damage per caster level (maximum 25d8). This spell is especially devastating to water elementals and plant creatures, who receive a penalty of -2 to their saving throws.

TRANS

ETHEREALNESS

Transmutation

Level: clr 6, sor/wiz 8

Range: touch (see text)

Targets: the character and one other touched creature/three levels

Duration: 1 minute/level (d)

Spell resistance: yes

The character and other creatures joined by linked hands (along with their equipment) become ethereal. Besides the character, the character can bring one creature per three caster levels to the ethereal plane. Once ethereal, the creatures need not stay together.

When the spell expires, all affected creatures in the ethereal plane return to material existence. If a character becomes material while inside a material object (such as a solid wall), the character is shunted off to the nearest open space and takes 1d6 points of damage per 5 feet that the character traveled.

IRON BODY

Transmutation

Level: earth 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 1 minute/level (d)

This spell transforms the character's body into living iron, which grants the character several powerful resistances and abilities.

The character gains damage reduction 50/+3. The character is immune to blindness, critical hits, ability score damage, deafness, disease, drowning, electricity, poison, stunning, and all spells or attacks that affect the character's physiology or respiration, because the character has no physiology or respiration while this spell is in effect. The character takes only half damage from acid and fire of all kinds. However, the character also becomes vulnerable to all special attacks that affect iron golems.

The character gains a +6 enhancement bonus to the character's strength score, but the character suffers a -6 dexterity penalty as well (to a minimum dexterity score of 1), and the character's speed is reduced to half normal. The character has an arcane spell failure chance of 50% and a -8 armor check penalty. The character cannot drink (and thus can't use potions) or play wind instruments.

The character's unarmed attacks deal 1d6 points of regular damage, and the character is considered "armed" when making unarmed attacks (a small caster deals 1d4 points of damage, not 1d6).

The character's weight increases by a factor of ten, causing the character to sink in water. However, the character could survive the crushing pressure and lack of air at the bottom of the ocean.

POLYMORPH ANY OBJECT

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 8, trickery 8

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature or object

Duration: see text

Saving throw: will negates (object) (see text)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

This spell changes one object or creature into another. The new form can range in size from diminutive to one size larger than the subject's normal form. Upon changing, the subject regains lost hit points as if having rested for a day (though this healing does not restore temporary ability damage and provide other benefits of resting for a day; and changing back does not heal the creature further). If slain, the polymorphed creature or object reverts to its original form, though it remains dead.

The target acquires the physical and natural abilities of the creature or object it has been polymorphed into while retaining its own mind. Physical abilities include natural size and strength, dexterity, and constitution scores. The subject also takes the intelligence score of the creature or object it has been polymorphed into. Natural abilities include armor, natural weapons, and similar gross physical qualities. A body with extra limbs does not allow a character to make more attacks (or more advantageous two-weapon attacks) than normal. Natural abilities also include mundane movement capabilities, but not magical flight and other magical forms of travel. Extremely high speeds for certain creatures are the result of magical ability, so they are not granted by this spell. Other nonmagical abilities (such as low-light vision) are considered natural abilities and are retained.

Any part of the body or piece of equipment that is separated from the whole reverts to its original form.

The creature's new scores and faculties are average ones for the race or species into which it has been transformed.

The subject retains its wisdom, and charisma scores, level and class, hit points (despite any change in its constitution score), alignment, base attack bonus, and base saves. (New strength, dexterity, and constitution scores may affect final attack and save bonuses.) If the original form didn't have a wisdom or charisma score, it gains those scores of the new form.

The subject retains its own type, extraordinary abilities, spells, and spell-like abilities, but not its supernatural abilities. The subject can cast spells for which it has components. It needs a human-like voice for verbal components and humanlike hands for somatic components. The subject does not gain the spell-like abilities of its new form. The subject does not gain the supernatural abilities or the extraordinary abilities of the new creature.

The new form can be disorienting. Any time the polymorphed creature is in a stressful or demanding situation (such as combat), the creature must succeed at a will save (DC 19) or suffer a -2 penalty on all attack rolls, saves, skill checks, and ability checks until the situation passes. Creatures who are polymorphed for a long time (years and years) grow accustomed to their new form and can overcome some of these drawbacks (DM's discretion).

When the polymorph occurs, the creature's equipment, if any, transforms to match the new form. If the new form is a creature that does not use equipment, the equipment melds into the new form and becomes nonfunctional. Material components and focuses melded in this way cannot be used to cast spells. If the new form uses equipment, the subject's equipment changes to match the new form and retains its properties.

The character can freely designate the new form's minor physical qualities (such as hair color, hair texture, and skin color) within the normal ranges for a creature of that type. The new form's significant physical qualities (such as height, weight, and gender) are also under the character's control, but must fall within the norms for the new form's species. The subject can be changed into a member of its own species or even into itself. (If changed into itself, it does not suffer the above-mentioned penalties from the disorientation of a new form.)

The subject is effectively disguised as an average member of the new form's race. If the character uses this spell to create a disguise, the character get a +10 bonus on the character's disguise check.

Incorporeal or gaseous forms cannot be assumed, and incorporeal or gaseous creatures are immune to being polymorphed. A natural shapeshifter can take its natural form as a standard action.

The duration of the spell depends on how radical a change is made from the original state to its enchanted state. The DM determines the duration by using the following guidelines:

Changed Subject Is:	Increase to Duration Factor*
Same kingdom (animal, vegetable, mineral)	+5
Same class (mammals, fungi, metals, etc.)	+2
Same size	+2
Related (twig is to tree, wolf fur is to wolf, etc.)	+2
Same or lower Intelligence	+2
*Add all that apply. Look up the total on the next table.

Duration Factor	Example	Duration
0	Pebble to human	20 minutes
2	Marionette to human	1 hour
4	Human to marionette	3 hours
5	Lizard to mantichore	12 hours
6	Sheep to wool coat	2 days
7	Shrew to mantichore	1 week
9+	Mantichore to shrew	Permanent

This spell cannot create material of great intrinsic value.

This spell can also be used to duplicate the effects of polymorph other, flesh to stone, stone to flesh, transmute mud to rock, transmute water to dust, or transmute rock to mud.

UNIV

SYMBOL

Universal [see text]

Level: clr 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M/DF (or V, S, M for carefully engraved)

Casting time: 1 action or 10 minutes

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: one symbol

Duration: see text

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes

This spell allows the character to scribe any of the potent runes described below. A symbol can be quickly scribed in the air or on some surface. Alternatively, the character can carefully inscribe it on a surface. The symbol harms those who trigger it.

A quickly scribed symbol has a casting time of 1 action. The resulting rune becomes active immediately. It lasts 10 minutes per caster level and glows faintly while it lasts. Symbols of fear, hopelessness, pain, or persuasion can be used in this manner. Symbols of death, discord, insanity, pain, sleep, and stunning cannot.

A carefully engraved symbol has a casting time of 10 minutes. The symbol is inactive when finished and remains so until triggered. Once triggered, it becomes active and glows, usually lasting 10 minutes per caster level. Some symbols can last indefinitely once triggered.

To be effective, a symbol must always be placed in plain sight and in a prominent location. Covering or hiding the rune renders the symbol ineffective.

As a default, a symbol is triggered whenever a creature does one or more of the following, as the character selects: reads, touches, or passes over the rune, looks at the rune, or passes through a portal bearing the rune.

In this case, “reading” the rune means any attempt to study it, identify it, or fathom its meaning. Throwing a cover over a symbol to render it inoperative triggers it if it reacts to touch. To trigger a symbol, a creature must be within 60 feet of the rune.

The character can set special triggering conditions of the character’s own. These can be as simple or elaborate as the character desires. Special conditions for triggering a symbol can be based on a creature’s name, identity, or alignment, but otherwise must be based on observable actions or qualities. Intangibles such as level, class, HD, and hit points don’t qualify.

A symbol’s triggering conditions must always be defensive in nature. A touch-triggered symbol remains untriggered if an item bearing the symbol is used to touch a creature. Likewise, a symbol cannot be placed on a weapon and set to activate when the weapon strikes a foe.

Once the spell is cast, a symbol’s triggering conditions cannot be changed.

The character ignore the effects of the character’s own symbols and cannot inadvertently trigger them. When scribing a symbol quickly, the character can instantly attune any number of creatures to the symbol, rendering them immune to its effects, provided the creatures are within 60 feet of the rune when it is created and that the character is aware of their presence.

When creating a carefully inscribed symbol, the character can specify a password or phrase that prevents a creature using it from triggering the symbol. The character also can attune any number of creatures to the symbol, but doing this can extend the casting time. Attuning one or two creatures takes negligible time, and attuning a small group (up to ten creatures) takes 1 hour. Attuning a large group (up to twenty-five creatures) takes 1 day. Attuning larger groups takes proportionately longer, as the DM sees fit.

When triggered, a symbol affects all creatures within a 60-foot radius except for the character and any individuals attuned to it. If a symbol has a password, anyone using the password remains immune to that particular rune’s effects so long as the character remains within 60 feet of the rune. If the character leaves the radius and returns later, the character must use the password again. Once triggered, a symbol remains active until its duration expires. Creatures who subsequently meet an active symbol’s triggering conditions suffer its effects.

A successful dispel magic removes the effects of a symbol from a creature unless the symbol’s effect is instantaneous or the description specifies another remedy. The rune itself can be removed by a successful dispel magic targeted solely on the rune. An erase spell has no effect on a symbol. Destruction of the surface where a symbol rests destroys the symbol but also triggers its effects.

Read magic allows the character to identify a symbol with a successful spellcraft check (DC 19). Identifying the symbol does not discharge it and allows the character to know the version of the symbol.

A symbol can be rendered permanent with the permanency spell, provided it is carefully engraved upon a permanent, nonportable surface such as a wall or door. A permanency spell extends a symbol’s basic duration of 10 minutes per caster level indefinitely. When triggered, a permanent symbol usually glows and is active for about 10 minutes, but there is no limit to how many times it can be triggered. If the symbol can affect only a limited number of hit points worth of creatures, the limit applies each 10 minutes.

Known symbols include:

Death: one or more creatures within the radius, whose combined total hit points do not exceed 150, must succeed at fortitude saves or die. The symbol affects the closest creatures first, skipping creatures with too many hit points to affect. This symbol must be carefully engraved on a surface. Once triggered, the symbol lasts until it has affected 150 hit points worth of creatures.

Discord: all creatures with an intelligence score of 3 or higher within 60 feet who fail a will save immediately fall into loud bickering and arguing. Meaningful communication is impossible. If the affected creatures have different alignments, there is a 50% chance that they attack each other. Bickering lasts 5d4 rounds. Fighting begins 1d4 rounds into the bickering and lasts 2d4 rounds. This symbol must be carefully engraved on a surface. Once triggered, the symbol lasts 10 minutes per caster level. This version is a mind-affecting spell.

Fear: this symbol can be scribed quickly or carefully engraved on a surface. Living creatures within the radius become panicked. They suffer a -2 morale penalty on saving throws, and they flee from the area. A panicked creature has a 50% chance to drop what it’s holding, chooses its path randomly (as long as it is getting away from immediate danger), and flees any other dangers that confront it. If cornered, a panicked creature cowers.

If scribed in the air, this symbol requires a will save to resist. If the rune is carefully inscribed, the save DC increases by 4. Once triggered, the symbol lasts 10 minutes per caster level. This version is a mind-affecting spell.

Hopelessness: all creatures within the radius must attempt will saves. If the rune is carefully engraved on a surface, the save DC increases by 4. If the save fails, the creature suffers from hopelessness for 3d4x10 minutes and submits to simple demands from foes, such as to surrender or get out. If no foes are present to make demands, there is a 25% chance that a hopeless creature proves unable to take any action except hold its ground. If the creature remains free to act, there is a 25% chance it retreats from the rune at normal speed. In either case, the creature can defend normally if attacked. Once triggered, the symbol lasts 10 minutes per caster level. This version is a mind-affecting spell.

Insanity: one or more creatures within the radius, whose combined total hit points do not exceed 150, become insane (will negates)

Creatures affected behave randomly, as indicated on the following table:

1d10	Behavior
1	Wander away for 1 minute (unless prevented)
2–6	Do nothing for 1 round
7–9	Attack nearest creature for 1 round
10	Act normally for 1 round

Except on a result of 1, roll again each round to see what the subject does that round. Wandering creatures leave the scene as if disinterested. Attackers are not at any special advantage when attacking them. Behavior is checked at the beginning of each creature's turn. Any creature who is attacked automatically attacks its attackers on its next turn.

Remove curse does not remove insanity. Greater restoration, limited wish, miracle, and wish can restore the creature.

The symbol affects the closest creatures first, skipping creatures with too many hit points to affect. This symbol must be carefully engraved on a surface. Once triggered, the symbol lasts until it has affected 150 hit points worth of creatures. This version is a mind-affecting spell.

Pain: creatures within the radius suffer wrACKing pains that reduce dexterity scores by 2 and impose a –4 penalty on attack rolls, skill checks, and ability checks (fortitude negates). Both effects last 2d10x10 minutes. This symbol can be scribed quickly or carefully engraved on a surface. If carefully inscribed, the save DC increases by 4. Once triggered, the symbol lasts 10 minutes per caster level.

Persuasion: this symbol can be scribed quickly or carefully engraved on a surface. All creatures within the radius must succeed at will saves to resist. If the symbol is carefully inscribed, the save DC increases by 4. If the save fails, the creature becomes the same alignment as the character for 1d20 x 10 minutes. During this time, affected creatures become friendly to the character.

The spell does not enable the character to control the creatures as if they were automatons, but the creatures perceive the character's words and actions in the most favorable way. The character can try to give the creatures orders, but the character must win an opposed charisma check to convince the creatures to do anything they wouldn't ordinarily do. (Retries not allowed.) The creatures never obey suicidal or obviously harmful orders. Any act by the character or the character's apparent allies that threatens the creatures breaks the spell. Note also that the character must speak the creatures' language to communicate the character's commands, or else be good at pantomiming.

This version is a mind-affecting spell.

Sleep: creatures within the radius fall into a catatonic slumber if they have 8 or fewer HD (will negates). Sleeping creatures cannot be awakened for 3d6x10 minutes. This symbol must be carefully engraved on a surface. Once triggered, the symbol lasts 10 minutes per caster level. This version is a mind-affecting spell.

Stunning: one or more creatures within the radius whose total hit points do not exceed 250 become stunned (fortitude negates). The symbol affects the closest creatures first, skipping creatures with too many hit points to affect. A stunned creature can't act and loses any dexterity bonus to AC. Attackers gain +2 bonuses to attack it. In addition, the stunned creatures drop what they are holding. This symbol must be carefully engraved on a surface.

Material component (carefully scribed version): worth at least 5,000 gp each.

ABJUR

DISJUNCTION

Abjuration

Level: magic 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: all magical effects and magic items within a 30-ft.-Radius burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: no

All magical effects and magic items within the radius of the spell, except for those that the character carries or touches, are disjoined. That is, spells and spell-like effects are separated into their individual components (ending the effect as a dispel magic spell does), and permanent magic items must make successful will saves or be turned into normal items. An item in a creature's possession uses its own will save bonus or its possessor's will save bonus, whichever is higher.

The character also has a 1% chance per caster level of destroying an antimagic field. If the antimagic field survives the disjunction, no items within it are disjoined.

Even artifacts are subject to disjunction, though there is only a 1% chance per caster level of actually affecting such powerful items. Additionally, if an artifact is destroyed, the character must succeed at a will save (DC 25) or permanently lose all spellcasting abilities. (These abilities cannot be recovered by mortal magic, not even miracle or wish.)

Note: destroying artifacts is a dangerous business, and it is 95% likely to attract the attention of some powerful being who has an interest in or connection with the device.

FREEDOM

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: see text

Target: one creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

The subject is freed from spells and effects that restrict his movement. To free someone from the imprisonment spell, the character must know that person's name and back ground, and the character must cast this spell at the spot where that person was entombed.

IMPRISONMENT

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

When the character casts imprisonment and touches an opponent, the target is entombed in a state of suspended animation in a small sphere far beneath the surface of the earth. For the creature, time ceases to flow and its condition becomes fixed. The creature does not grow older. Its body functions virtually cease, and no force or effect can harm it. The subject remains there unless a freedom spell is cast at the locale where the imprisonment took place. Magical search by most divinations do not reveal the fact that a creature is imprisoned, but discern location does. A wish or miracle spell will not free the recipient but will reveal where it is entombed. The imprisonment spell functions only if the target's name and some facts about its life are known.

PRISMATIC SPHERE

Abjuration

Level: protection 9, sor/wiz 9, sun 9

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: 10 ft.

Effect: 10-ft.-Radius sphere centered on the character

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: see text

The character conjures up an immobile, opaque globe of shimmering, multicolored light that surrounds the character and protects the character from all forms of attack. The sphere flashes in all colors of the visible spectrum. The sphere flashes with seven colors, each of which has a distinct power and purpose. The sphere is immobile, and the character can pass through and remain near the sphere without harm.

When the character is inside the sphere, the sphere blocks any attempt to project something through the sphere (including spells).

Other creatures who attempt to attack the character or pass through suffer the effects of each color, one at a time.

Typically, only the upper hemisphere of the globe will exist, since the character is at the center of the sphere, so the lower half is usually excluded by the floor surface the character is standing on.

Any creature with fewer than 8 HD that is within 20 feet of the sphere is blinded for 2d4 x 10 minutes by the colors if it looks at the wall.

Each color in the sphere has a special effect. The accompanying table shows the seven colors of the sphere, the order in which they appear, their effects on creatures trying to attack the character or pass through the sphere, and the magic needed to negate each color.

The sphere can be destroyed, color by color, in consecutive order, by various magical effects; however, the first must be brought down before the second can be affected, and so on. A rod of cancellation or a disjunction spell destroys a prismatic sphere, but an antimagic field fails to penetrate it. Dispel magic and greater dispelling cannot dispel the sphere or anything within it. Spell resistance is effective against a prismatic sphere, but the caster level check must be repeated for each color present.

Color	Order	Effect of Color	Negated By
Red	1st	Stops nonmagical ranged weapons Deals 20 points of fire damage (Reflex half)	Cone of Cold
Orange	2nd	Stops magical ranged weapons Deals 40 points of acid damage (Reflex half)	Gust of Wind
Yellow	3rd	Stops poisons, gasses, and petrification Deals 80 points of electricity damage (Reflex half)	Disintegrate
Green	4th	Stops breath weapons Poison (Kills; Fortitude partial to take 20 points of damage instead)	Passwall
Blue	5th	Stops divination and mental attacks Turned to stone (Fortitude negates)	Magic Missile
Indigo	6th	Stops all spells Will save or become insane (as insanity spell)	Daylight
Violet	7th	Energy field destroys all objects and Creatures are sent to another plane (Will negates)	Dispel Magic effects

The violet effect makes the special effects of the other six colors redundant, but they are included here because certain magic items can create prismatic effects one color at a time, and sr might render some colors ineffective (see above).

CONJ

GATE

Conjuration (creation, calling)

Level: clr 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: see text

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Casting a gate spell has two effects. First, it creates an interdimensional connection between the character's plane of existence and the plane desired, allowing travel between the planes in either direction. Second, the character may then call a particular individual or type of being through the gate. The gate itself is a circular hoop or disk from 5 to 20 feet in diameter (caster's choice), oriented in the direction the character desires when it comes into existence. It is a two-dimensional window into the plane the character named, and anyone or anything that moves through is shunted instantly to the other side. The gate has a front and a back. Creatures moving through the gate from the front are transported to another plane; creatures moving through it from the back are not.

Planar travel: the gate opens precisely at the point on the destination plane that the character desires (a creation effect). Note that deities and other beings who rule a planar realm can prevent a gate from opening in their presence or personal demesnes if they so desire. Anyone who chooses to step through the portal is transported. A gate cannot be opened to another point on the same plane; the spell works only for interplanar travel.

The character may hold the gate open only for a brief time (no more than 1 round per caster level) and must concentrate on doing so or sever the interplanar connection.

Calling creatures: the second effect of the gate spell is to call an extraplanar creature to the character's aid (a calling effect). By naming a particular being or type of being as the character casts the spell, the character may cause the gate to open in the immediate vicinity of the desired creature and pull the subject through, willing or unwilling. Deities and unique beings are under no compulsion to come through the gate, although they may choose to do so of their own accord. This use of the spell creates a gate that remains open just long enough to transport the called creatures.

If the character chooses to call a type of being instead of a known individual the character may call either a single creature (of any HD) or several creatures. If several creatures, the character can call and control them as long as their HD total does not exceed the character's caster level. In the case of a single creature, the character can control it if its HD does not exceed twice the character's caster level. A single creature with more than twice the character's caster level in HD can't be controlled. Deities and unique beings cannot be controlled in any event. An uncontrolled being acts as it pleases, making the calling of such creatures rather dangerous. An uncontrolled being may return to its home plane at any time.

A controlled creature can be commanded to perform a service for the character. These fall into two categories: immediate tasks and contractual service. Fighting for the character in a single battle or taking any other actions that can be accomplished within 1 round per caster level counts as an immediate task; the character need not make any agreement or pay any reward for the creature's help. The creature departs at the end of the spell.

If the character chooses to exact a longer or more involved form of service from the called creature, the character must offer some fair trade in return for that service. The service exacted must be reasonable with respect to the promised favor or reward. In general, a gift of 100 gp per HD of the called creature per day of service is reasonable. (Some creatures want their payment in things other than coin, which may involve complications.) Immediately upon completion of the service, the being is transported to the character's vicinity, and the character must then and there turn over the promised reward. After this is done, the creature is instantly freed to return to its own plane.

Failure to fulfill the promise to the letter results in the character's being subjected to service by the creature or by its liege and master, at the very least. At worst, the creature or its kin may attack the character.

Note: when the character uses a calling spell such as gate to call an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it becomes a spell of that type.

POWER WORD, KILL

Conjuration (creation) [death]

Level: sor/wiz 9, war 9

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target or area: one living creature or one or more creatures within a 15-ft.-Radius sphere

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

The character can either target a single creature or let the spell affect a group.

If power word, kill is targeted at a single creature, that creature dies if it has 100 or fewer hit points.

If power word, kill is cast as an area spell, it kills creatures in a 15-foot-radius sphere. It kills only creatures that have 20 or fewer hit points, and only up to a total of 200 hit points of such creatures. The spell affects creatures with the lowest hit point totals first until the next creature would put the total over the limit of 200. (Creatures with negative hit points count as having 0 hit points.)

SUMMON MONSTER IX

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: chaos 9, clr 9, evil 9, good 9,

Law 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 full round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one or more summoned creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons an outsider (extraplanar creature). It appears where the character designates and acts immediately, on the character's turn. It attacks the character's opponents to the best of its ability. If the character can communicate with the outsider, the character can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions. Summoned creatures act normally on the last round of the spell and disappear at the end of their turn.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 9th-level list on the summon monster table below, 1d3 creatures of the same type from the 8th-level list, or 1d4+1 creatures of the same type from a lower-level list. The character chooses which creature to summon, and can change that choice each time the spell is cast.

DIV

FORESIGHT

Divination

Level: drd 9, knowledge 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal or touch

Target: see text

Duration: 10 minutes/level

Saving throw: none or will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: no or yes (harmless)

This spell grants the character a powerful sixth sense in relation to his or herself or another. Once the spell is cast, the character receives instantaneous warnings of impending danger or harm to the subject of the spell. The character is never surprised or flat-footed. In addition, the spell gives the character a general idea of what action the character might take to best protect him or herself and gives the character a +2 insight bonus to AC and to reflex saves. This insight bonus is lost whenever the character would lose a dexterity bonus to AC.

When another creature is the object of the spell, the character receives warnings about that creature. The character must communicate what the character learns to the other creature for the warning to be useful, and it can be caught unprepared in the absence of such a warning. Shouting a warning, yanking a person back, and even telepathically communicating (via an appropriate spell) can all be accomplished before some danger befalls the spell subject, provided the character acts on the warning without delay. The subject, however, does not gain the insight bonus to AC and reflex saves.

ENCH

DOMINATE MONSTER

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one creature

Duration: 1 day/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

The character can control the actions of any creature. The character establishes a telepathic link with the subject's mind. If a common language is shared, the character can generally force the subject to perform as the character desires, within the limits of his abilities. If no common language is shared, the character can communicate only basic commands. The character knows what the subject is experiencing, but the character does not receive direct sensory input from him.

Subjects resist this control, and those forced to take actions against their nature receive a new saving throw with a bonus of +1 to +4, depending on the type of action required. Obviously self-destructive orders are not carried out. Once control is established, the range at which it can be exercised is unlimited, as long as the character and the subject are on the same plane. The character need not see the subject to control it.

Protection from evil or a similar spell can prevent the character from exercising control or using the telepathic link while the subject is so warded, but it does not prevent the establishment of domination or dispel it.

EVOC

CRUSHING HAND

Evocation

Level: sor/wiz 9, strength 9

Components: V, S, M, F/DF

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: 10-ft. Hand

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

Creates a large magic hand that appears between the character and one opponent.

The hand can interpose itself, push, or crush one opponent that the character selects.

When interposing the floating, disembodied hand moves to remain between the character and the opponent, regardless of where the character moves or how the opponent tries to get around it, providing nine-tenths cover (+10 AC) for the character against that opponent. Nothing can fool the hand—it sticks with the selected opponent in spite of darkness, invisibility, polymorphing, or any other attempt to hide or disguise himself. The hand does not pursue an opponent, however.

When pushing, the hand pursues and pushes away the opponent that the character designates. Treat this as a bull rush with a +18 bonus on the strength check (+12 for strength 35, +4 for being large, and +2 for charging bonus, which it always gets). The hand always moves with the opponent to push him back the full distance allowed, and it has no speed limit. A very strong creature could not push the hand out of its way, but it could push the hand up against the character by successfully bull rushing the hand.

When grappling the hand can grapple one opponent that the character selects. The hand gets one grappling attack per round. Its attack bonus to make contact is the character's level + the character's intelligence, wisdom, or charisma modifier (for wizards, clerics, and sorcerers, respectively), +12 for the hand's strength score (35), -1 for being large. Its grapple check is this same figure, except with +4 for being large instead of -1. The hand deals 2d6+12 points of grapple damage (normal, not subdual).

The hand is 10 feet long and about that wide with its fingers outstretched. It has as many hit points as the character when undamaged, and its AC is 20 (-1 size, +11 natural). It takes damage as a normal creature, but most magical effects that don't cause damage do not affect it. The hand cannot push through a wall of force or enter an antimagic field. It suffers the full effects of a prismatic wall or prismatic sphere. The hand makes saving throws as its caster. Disintegrate or a successful dispel magic destroys the hand.

METEOR SWARM

Evocation [fire]

Level: sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: pattern of fireball-like spreads (see text)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none or reflex half (see text)

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Spell resistance: yes

When the character casts this spell, either four large spheres (2-foot-diameter) or eight small spheres (1-foot-diameter) spring from the character's outstretched hand and streak in a straight line to the spot the character selects.

Any creature in the straight-line path of these spheres is struck by each one and takes 24d6 points of fire damage (no save).

If the spheres reach their destination, each bursts in a spread.

Each large sphere deals 6d6 points of fire damage. The four spheres explode with their points of origin forming a diamond or box pattern around the spell's central point of origin, which the character designates upon casting. Each large sphere has a 15-foot-radius spread, and each blast is 20 feet apart along the sides of the pattern, creating overlapping areas of the spell's effect and exposing the center to all four blasts.

The smaller spheres each have a 7 1/2-foot-radius spread, and each deals 3d6 points of fire damage. They explode with their points of origin forming a pattern around the spell's central point of origin (which the character designated upon casting) of a box within a diamond or vice versa, with each of the outer sides measuring 20 feet long. The center has four areas of overlapping effect, and numerous peripheral areas have two or three overlapping areas of the spell's effect.

Creatures caught in a blast can attempt reflex saves for half damage. Creatures struck by multiple blasts save against each blast separately.

ILLUS

WEIRD

Illusion (phantasm) [fear, mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: any number of creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with), then fortitude partial

Spell resistance: yes

Only the spell's subjects can see the phantasmal creatures attacking them. The character sees only shadowy shapes. The subjects first get a will save to recognize the image as unreal. If a subject fails, the phantasm touches the subject, and the subject must succeed at a fortitude save or die from fear. Even if the fortitude save is successful, the subject takes 3d6 points of damage and is stunned for 1 round. The subject's strength score also drops 1d4 points for 10 minutes. A stunned creature can't act and loses any dexterity bonus to AC. Attackers gain +2 bonuses to attack it.

If a subject of a weird attack succeeds in disbelieving and is wearing a helm of telepathy, the beast can be turned upon the character. The character must then disbelieve it or suffer its deadly fear attack.

NECRO

ASTRAL PROJECTION

Necromancy

level: clr 9, sor/wiz 9, travel 9

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 30 minutes

Range: touch

Targets: the character plus one additional creature touched per two levels

Duration: see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

Freeing the character's spirit from the character's physical body, this spell allows the character to project an astral body into another plane. The character can bring the astral forms of other creatures with the character, provided the creatures are linked in a circle with the character at the time of the casting. These fellow travelers are dependent upon the character and must accompany the character at all times. If something happens to the character during the journey, the companions are stranded wherever the character left them.

The character projects the character's astral self into the astral plane, leaving the character's physical body behind on the material plane in a state of suspended animation. The spell projects an astral copy of the character and all the character wears or carries onto the astral plane. Since the astral plane touches upon other planes, the character can travel astrally to any of these other planes as the character wishes. The character then leaves the astral plane, forming a new physical body (and equipment) on the plane of existence the character has chosen to enter.

When on the astral plane or another plane, the character's astral body is connected at all times to the character's material body by a silvery cord. If the cord is broken, the character is killed, astrally and materially. Very few things can destroy a silver cord. When a second body is formed on a different plane, the incorporeal silvery cord remains invisibly attached to the new body. If the second body or the astral form is slain, the cord simply returns to the character's body where it rests on the material plane, reviving it from its state of suspended animation. Although astral projections are able to function on the astral plane, their actions affect only creatures existing on the astral plane; a physical body must be materialized on other planes.

The character and the character's companions may travel through the astral plane indefinitely. The character's bodies simply wait behind in a state of suspended animation until the character chooses to return to the physical body. The spell lasts until the character desires to end it, or until it is terminated by some outside means, such as dispel magic cast upon either the physical body or the astral form, or the destruction of the character's body back on the material plane (which kills the character).

Material components: the components must be worth at least 1,000 gp, plus a 5 gp worth of silver for each person to be affected.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

ENERGY DRAIN

Necromancy

Level: clr 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: ray of negative energy

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude negates (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

The character must make a ranged touch attack to hit. If the attack succeeds, the subject gains 2d4 negative levels.

If the ray strikes an undead creature, that creature gains 2d4 x5 temporary hit points for 1 hour.

SOUL BIND

Necromancy

Level: clr 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: corpse

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: no

The character draws the soul from a newly dead body and imprisons it in a gem. The subject must have been dead no more than 1 round per caster level. The soul, once trapped in the gem, cannot be returned through clone, raise dead, reincarnation, resurrection, true resurrection, or even a miracle or a wish. Only by destroying the gem or dispelling the spell on the gem can one free the soul (which is then still dead).

Focus: at least 1,000 gp value for every hit die possessed by the creature whose soul is to be bound.

WAIL OF THE BANSHEE

Necromancy [death, sonic]

Level: death 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: one living creature/level within a 30-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

The character emits a terrible scream that kills creatures that hear it (except for the character). The spell affects up to one creature per caster level. Creatures closest to the point of origin are affected first.

TRANS

REFUGE

Transmutation [teleportation]

Level: clr 7, sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: object touched

Duration: permanent until discharged

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The character creates powerful magic in some specially prepared object. This object contains the power to instantaneously transport its possessor across any distance within the same plane to the character's abode. Once the item is transmuted, the character must give it willingly to an individual and at the same time inform him or her of a command word to be spoken when the item is to be used. To make use of the item, the subject speaks the command word at the same time that the subject rends or breaks the item (a standard action). When this is done, the individual and all that he or she is wearing and carrying (up to a maximum of 50 lb./level) are instantaneously transported to the character's abode. No other creatures are affected (aside from a familiar that is touching the subject).

The character can alter the spell when casting it so that it transports the character to within 10 feet of the possessor of the item when it is broken and the command word spoken. The character will have a general idea of the location and situation of the item possessor at the time the refuge spell is discharged, but once deciding to alter the spell in this fashion the character has no choice whether or not to be transported.

Material component: worth 1,500 gp.

SHAPECHANGE

Transmutation

Level: animal 9, drd 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 10 minutes/level

The caster can assume the form of any single creature of less than deity status or any single object. The assumed form can be no smaller than a flea and no larger than 200 feet in its largest dimension. This spell allows incorporeal forms to be assumed.

Upon changing, the character regains lost hit points as if having rested for a day (though this healing does not restore temporary ability damage and provide other benefits of resting for a day; and changing back does not heal the caster further). If slain, the character reverts to his or her original form, though the character remains dead.

The polymorphed character acquires the physical and natural abilities of the creature he or she has been polymorphed into while retaining his or her own mind. The character gains the type of the new form. Physical abilities include natural size and strength, dexterity, and constitution scores. Natural abilities include armor, attack routines and similar gross physical qualities. Natural abilities also include mundane movement capabilities, but not magical flight and other magical forms of travel. Extremely high speeds for certain creatures are the result of magical ability, so they are not granted by this spell. Other nonmagical abilities (such as low-light vision) are considered natural abilities and are retained.

Any part of the body or piece of equipment that is separated from the whole remains polymorphed.

The character's new scores and faculties are average ones for the race or species into which he or she has been transformed.

The character retains his or her intelligence, wisdom, and charisma scores, level and class, hit points (despite any change in the character's constitution score), alignment, base attack bonus, and base saves. (New strength, dexterity, and constitution scores may affect final attack and save bonuses.) The character retains his or her extraordinary abilities, spells, and spell-like abilities, but not

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

its supernatural abilities. The character can cast spells for which he or she has components. The character needs a humanlike voice for verbal components and humanlike hands for somatic components. The caster does not gain the spell-like abilities of the new form. The character does not gain the supernatural abilities of the new creature. The character does gain the extraordinary abilities of the new form.

When the polymorph occurs, the character's equipment, if any, transforms to match the new form. If the new form is a creature that does not use equipment, the equipment melds into the new form and becomes nonfunctional. Material components and focuses melded in this way cannot be used to cast spells. If the new form uses equipment, the caster's equipment changes to match the new form and retains its properties.

The character can freely designate the new form's minor physical qualities (such as hair color, hair texture, and skin color) within the normal ranges for a creature of that type. The new form's significant physical qualities (such as height, weight, and gender) are also under the character's control, but must fall within the norms for the new form's species. The character can be changed into a member of his or her own species or even into itself. (If changed into itself, it does not suffer the abovementioned penalties from the disorientation of a new form.)

The character is effectively disguised as an average member of the new form's race. If the character uses this spell to create a disguise, the character gets a +10 bonus on the character's disguise check.

The character can become just about anything the character is familiar with. The character can change form once each round as a free action. The change takes place either immediately before the character's regular action or immediately after it, but not during the action. The character regains hit points as if having rested for a day only from the initial transformation, however.

Focus: worth at least 1,500 gp.

TELEPORTATION CIRCLE

Transmutation [teleportation]

Level: sor/wiz 9

Components: V, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: circle up to 5 ft. in radius that teleports those who activate it

Duration: 10 minutes/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

The character creates a circle on the floor or other horizontal surface that teleports any creature who stands on it to a designated spot. Once the character designates the destination for the circle, the character can't change it. The spell fails if the character attempts to set the circle to teleport creatures into a solid object, to a place with which the character is not familiar and has no clear description, or to another plane.

The circle itself is subtle and nearly impossible to notice. If the character intends to keep creatures from activating it accidentally, the character needs to mark the circle in some way.

Note: teleportation is instantaneous travel through the astral plane. Anything that blocks astral travel also blocks teleportation.

Material component: worth at least 1,000 gp.

TEMPORAL STASIS

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

The character must succeed at a melee touch attack. The character places the subject into a state of suspended animation. For the creature, time ceases to flow and its condition becomes fixed. The creature does not grow older. Its body functions virtually cease, and no force or effect can harm it. This state persists until the magic is removed by a successful dispel magic spell.

Material component: worth at least 5,000 gp.

TIME STOP

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 9, trickery 9

Components: V

Casting time: 1 action

Range: personal

Target: the character

Duration: 1d4+1 rounds (apparent time)

This spell seems to make time cease to flow for everyone but the character. In fact, the character speeds up so greatly that all other creatures seem frozen, though they are actually still moving at their normal speeds. The character is free to act for 1d4+1 rounds of apparent time. Energy and effects present can still harm the character. While the time stop is in effect, other creatures are invulnerable to the character's attacks and spells; however, the character can create spell effects and leave them to take effect when the time stop spell ends. (The spells' durations do not begin until the time stop is over.)

The character cannot move or harm items held, carried, or worn by a creature stuck in normal time, but the character can affect any item that is not in another creature's possession.

The character is undetectable while time stop lasts. The character cannot enter an area protected by an antimagic field, or by protection from chaos/evil/good/law, or by a magic circle spell, while under the effects of time stop.

UNIV

WISH

Universal

Level: sor/wiz 9

Components: V, XP

Casting time: 1 action

Range: see text

Target, effect, or area: see text

Duration: see text

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes

By simply speaking aloud, the character can alter reality to better suit the character. Even wish, however, has its limits.

A wish can do any one of the following:

- Duplicate any wizard or sorcerer spell of 8th level or lower, provided the spell is not from a school prohibited to the character.

- Duplicate any other spell of 6th level or lower, provided the spell is not from a school prohibited to the character.
- Duplicate any wizard or sorcerer spell of 7th level or lower even if it's from a prohibited school.
- Duplicate any other spell of 5th level or lower even if it's from a prohibited school.
- Undo the harmful effects of many other spells.
- Create a valuable item, even a magic item, of up to 15,000 gp in value.
- Grant a creature a +1 inherent bonus to an ability score. Two to five wish spells cast in immediate succession can grant a creature a +2 to +5 inherent bonus to an ability score (two wishes for a +2 inherent bonus, three for a +3 inherent bonus, and so on). Inherent bonuses are instantaneous, so they cannot be dispelled. Note: an inherent bonus may not exceed +5 for a single ability score, and inherent bonuses to a particular ability score do not stack, so only the best one applies.
- Remove injuries and afflictions. A single wish can aid one creature per caster level, and all subjects must be cured of the same type of affliction. A wish can never restore the experience point loss from casting a spell or the level or constitution loss from being raised from the dead.
- Revive the dead. A wish can bring a dead creature back to life by duplicating a resurrection spell. A wish can revive a dead creature whose body has been destroyed, but the feat takes two wishes, one to recreate the body and another to infuse the body with life again. A wish cannot prevent a character who was brought back to life from losing an experience level.
- Transport travelers. A wish can lift one creature per caster level from anywhere on any plane and place these creatures anywhere else on any plane regardless of local conditions. An unwilling target gets a will save to negate and sr.
- Undo misfortune. A wish can undo a single recent event. The wish forces a reroll of any roll made within the last round (including the character's last turn). Reality reshapes itself to Accommodate the new result. The reroll, however, may be as bad as or worse than the original roll. An unwilling target gets a will save to negate and sr.
- The character may wish for greater effects than these, but doing so is dangerous. Such a wish gives the opportunity to fulfill the character's request without fulfilling it completely. (The wish may pervert the character's intent into a literal but undesirable fulfillment or only a partial fulfillment.)

Duplicated spells allow saves and sr as normal (but save DCs are for 9th-level spells). When a wish duplicates a spell that has an XP cost, the character must pay 5,000 XP or that cost, whichever is more. When a wish duplicates a spell with a material component that costs more than 10,000 gp, the character must provide that component.

XP cost: 5,000 XP or more (see above).

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)
Effect: one arrow of acid
Duration: 1 round + 1 round per three levels
Saving throw: none
Spell resistance: no
 A magical arrow of acid springs from your hand and speeds to its target. You must succeed on a ranged touch attack to hit your target. The arrow deals 2d4 points of acid damage with no splash damage. For every three caster levels (to a maximum of 18th), the acid, unless somehow neutralized, lasts for another round, dealing another 2d4 points of damage in that round.
Material component: powdered rhubarb leaf and an adder's stomACH.
Focus: a dart.

ACID FOG

Conjuration (creation) [acid]
Level: sor/wiz 6, water 7

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)
Effect: fog spreads in 20-ft. Radius, 20 ft. High
Duration: 1 round/level
Saving throw: none
Spell resistance: no
Acid fog creates a billowing mass of misty vapors similar to that produced by a solid fog spell. In addition to slowing creatures down and obscuring sight, this spell's vapors are highly acidic. Each round on your turn, starting when you cast the spell, the fog deals 2d6 points of acid damage to each creature and object within it.

Arcane material component: a pinch of dried, powdered peas combined with powdered animal hoof.

ACID SPLASH

Conjuration (creation) [acid]

Level: sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one missile of acid

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You fire a small orb of acid at the target. You must succeed on a ranged touch attack to hit your target. The orb deals 1d3 points of acid damage.

AID

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: clr 2, good 2, luck 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

Aid grants the target a +1 morale bonus on attack rolls and saves against fear effects, plus temporary hit points equal to 1d8 + caster level (to a maximum of 1d8+10 temporary hit points at caster level 10th).

AIR WALK

Transmutation [air]

Level: air 4, clr 4, drd 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature (gargantuan or smaller) touched

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject can tread on air as if walking on solid ground. Moving upward is similar to walking up a hill. The maximum upward or downward angle possible is 45 degrees, at a rate equal to one-half the air walker's normal speed.

A strong wind (21+ mph) can push the subject along or hold it back. At the end of its turn each round, the wind blows the air walker 5 feet for each 5 miles per hour of wind speed. The creature may be subject to additional penalties in exceptionally strong or turbulent winds, such as loss of control over movement or physical damage from being buffeted about.

Should the spell duration expire while the subject is still aloft, the magic fails slowly. The subject floats downward 60 feet per round for 1d6 rounds. If it reaches the ground in that amount of time, it lands safely. If not, it falls the rest of the distance, taking 1d6 points of damage per 10 feet of fall. Since dispelling a spell effectively ends it, the subject also descends in this way if the air walk spell is dispelled, but not if it is negated by an antimagic field.

You can cast air walk on a specially trained mount so it can be ridden through the air. You can train a mount to move with the aid of air walk (counts as a trick; see handle animal skill) with one week of work and a DC 25 handle animal check.

ALARM

Abjuration

Level: brd 1, rgr 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: 20-ft.-Radius emanation centered on a point in space

Duration: 2 hours/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Alarm sounds a mental or audible alarm each time a creature of tiny or larger size enters the warded area or touches it. A creature that speaks the password (determined by you at the time of casting) does not set off the alarm. You decide at the time of casting whether the alarm will be mental or audible.

Mental alarm: a mental alarm alerts you (and only you) so long as you remain within 1 mile of the warded area. You note a single mental "ping" that awakens you from normal sleep but does not otherwise disturb concentration. A silence spell has no effect on a mental alarm.

Audible alarm: an audible alarm produces the sound of a hand bell, and anyone within 60 feet of the warded area can hear it clearly. Reduce the distance by 10 feet for each interposing closed door and by 20 feet for each substantial interposing wall.

In quiet conditions, the ringing can be heard faintly as far as 180 feet away. The sound lasts for 1 round. Creatures within a silence spell cannot hear the ringing.

Ethereal or astral creatures do not trigger the alarm.

Alarm can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

Arcane focus: a tiny bell and a piece of very fine silver wire

ALIGN WEAPON

Transmutation [see text]

Level: clr 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: weapon touched or fifty projectiles (all of which must be in contact with each other at the time of casting)

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

Align weapon makes a weapon good, evil, lawful, or chaotic, as you choose. A weapon that is aligned can bypass the damage reduction of certain creatures. This spell has no effect on a weapon that already has an alignment.

You can't cast this spell on a natural weapon, such as an unarmed strike.

When you make a weapon good, evil, lawful, or chaotic, align weapon is a good, evil, lawful, or chaotic spell, respectively.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

ALTER SELF

Transmutation

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

You assume the form of a creature of the same type as your normal form. The new form must be within one size category of your normal size. The maximum HD of an assumed form is equal to your caster level, to a maximum of 5 HD at 5th level. You can change into a member of your own kind or even into yourself.

You retain your own ability scores. Your class and level, hit points, alignment, base attack bonus, and base save bonuses all remain the same. You retain all supernatural and spell-like special attacks and qualities of your normal form, except for those requiring a body part that the new form does not have (such as a mouth for a breath weapon or eyes for a gaze attack).

You keep all extraordinary special attacks and qualities derived from class levels, but you lose any from your normal form that are not derived from class levels.

If the new form is capable of speech, you can communicate normally. You retain any spellcasting ability you had in your original form, but the new form must be able to speak intelligibly (that is, speak a language) to use verbal components and must have limbs capable of fine manipulation to use somatic or material components.

You ACquire the physical qualities of the new form while retaining your own mind. Physical qualities include natural size, mundane movement capabilities (such as burrowing, climbing, walking, swimming, and flight with wings, to a maximum speed of 120 feet for flying or 60 feet for nonflying movement), natural armor bonus, natural weapons (such as claws, bite, and so on), racial skill bonuses, racial bonus feats, and any gross physical qualities (presence or absence of wings, number of extremities, and so forth). A body with extra limbs does not allow you to make more attacks (or more advantageous two-weapon attacks) than normal.

You do not gain any extraordinary special attacks or special qualities not noted above under physical qualities, such as darkvision, low-light vision, blindsense, blindsight, fast healing, regeneration, scent, and so forth.

You do not gain any supernatural special attacks, special qualities, or spell-like abilities of the new form. Your creature type and subtype (if any) remain the same regardless of your new form. You cannot take the form of any creature with a template, even if that template doesn't change the creature type or subtype.

You can freely designate the new form's minor physical qualities (such as hair color, hair texture, and skin color) within the normal ranges for a creature of that kind. The new form's significant physical qualities (such as height, weight, and gender) are also under your control, but they must fall within the norms for the new form's kind. You are effectively disguised as an average member of the new form's race. If you use this spell to create a disguise, you get a +10 bonus on your disguise check.

When the change occurs, your equipment, if any, either remains worn or held by the new form (if it is capable of wearing or holding the item), or melds into the new form and becomes nonfunctional. When you revert to your true form, any objects previously melded into the new form reappear in the same location on your body they previously occupied and are once again functional. Any new items you wore in the assumed form and can't wear in your normal form fall off and land at your feet; any that you could wear in either form or carry in a body part common to both forms at the time of reversion are still held in the same way. Any part of the body or piece of equipment that is separated from the whole reverts to its true form.

ANALYZE DWEOMER

Divination

Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one object or creature per caster level

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none or will negates; see text

Spell resistance: no

You discern all spells and magical properties present in a number of creatures or objects. Each round, you may examine a single creature or object that you can see as a free action. In the case of a magic item, you learn its functions, how to activate its functions (if appropriate), and how many charges are left (if it uses charges). In the case of an object or creature with active spells cast upon it, you learn each spell, its effect, and its caster level.

An attended object may attempt a will save to resist this effect if its holder so desires. If the save succeeds, you learn nothing about the object except what you can discern by looking at it. An object that makes its save cannot be affected by any other analyze dweomer spells for 24 hours.

Analyze dweomer does not function when used on an artifact.

Focus: a tiny lens of ruby or sapphire set in a small golden loop. The gemstone must be worth at least 1,500 gp.

ANIMAL GROWTH

Transmutation

Level: drd 5, rgr 4, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: up to one animal (gargantuan or smaller) per two levels, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

A number of animals grow to twice their normal size and eight times their normal weight. This alteration changes each animal's size category to the next largest, grants it a +8 size bonus to strength and a +4 size bonus to constitution (and thus an extra 2 hit points per HD), and imposes a -2 size penalty to dexterity. The creature's existing natural armor bonus increases by 2. The size change also affects the animal's modifier to AC and attack rolls and its base damage. The animal's space and reach change as appropriate to the new size, but its speed does not change.

The spell also grants each subject damage reduction 10/magic and a +4 resistance bonus on saving throws. If insufficient room is available for the desired growth, the creature attains the maximum possible size and may make a strength check (using its increased strength) to burst any enclosures in the process. If it fails, it is constrained without harm by the materials enclosing it- the spell cannot be used to crush a creature by increasing its size.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

All equipment worn or carried by an animal is similarly enlarged by the spell, though this change has no effect on the magical properties of any such equipment.

Any enlarged item that leaves the enlarged creature's possession instantly returns to its normal size.

The spell gives no means of command or influence over the enlarged animals.

Multiple magical effects that increase size do not stack.

ANIMAL MESSENGER

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 2, drd 2, rgr 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one tiny animal

Duration: one day/level

Saving throw: none; see text

Spell resistance: yes

You compel a tiny animal to go to a spot you designate. The most common use for this spell is to get an animal to carry a message to your allies. The animal cannot be one tamed or trained by someone else, including such creatures as familiars and animal companions.

Using some type of food desirable to the animal as a lure, you call the animal to you. It advances and awaits your bidding. You can mentally impress on the animal a certain place well known to you or an obvious landmark. The directions must be simple, because the animal depends on your knowledge and can't find a destination on its own. You can attach some small item or note to the messenger. The animal then goes to the designated location and waits there until the duration of the spell expires, whereupon it resumes its normal activities.

During this period of waiting, the messenger allows others to approach it and remove any scroll or token it carries. The intended recipient gains no special ability to communicate with the animal or read any attached message (if it's written in a language he or she doesn't know, for example).

Material component: a morsel of food the animal likes.

ANIMAL SHAPES

Transmutation

Level: animal 7, drd 8

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: up to one willing creature per level, all within 30 ft. of each other

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: none; see text

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

As polymorph, except you polymorph up to one willing creature per caster level into an animal of your choice; the spell has no effect on unwilling creatures. All creatures must take the same kind of animal form. Recipients remain in the animal form until the spell expires or until you dismiss it for all recipients. In addition, an individual subject may choose to resume its normal form as a full-round action; doing so ends the spell for that subject alone. The maximum HD of an assumed form is equal to the subject's HD or your caster level, whichever is lower, to a maximum of 20 HD at 20th level.

ANIMAL TRANCE

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting, sonic]

Level: brd 2, drd 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: animals or magical beasts with intelligence 1 or 2

Duration: concentration

Saving throw: will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

Your swaying motions and music (or singing, or chanting) compel animals and magical beasts to do nothing but watch you. Only a creature with an intelligence score of 1 or 2 can be fascinated by this spell. Roll 2d6 to determine the total number of HD worth of creatures that you fascinate. The closest targets are selected first until no more targets within range can be affected.

A magical beast, a dire animal, or an animal trained to attack or guard is allowed a saving throw; an animal not trained to attack or guard is not.

ANIMATE DEAD

Necromancy [evil]

Level: clr 3, death 3, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Targets: one or more corpses touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell turns the bones or bodies of dead creatures into undead skeletons or zombies that follow your spoken commands.

The undead can follow you, or they can remain in an area and attack any creature (or just a specific kind of creature) entering the place. They remain animated until they are destroyed. (A destroyed skeleton or zombie can't be animated again.)

Regardless of the type of undead you create with this spell, you can't create more HD of undead than twice your caster level with a single casting of animate dead. (The desecrate spell doubles this limit)

The undead you create remain under your control indefinitely. No matter how many times you use this spell, however, you can control only 4 HD worth of undead creatures per caster level. If you exceed this number, all the newly created creatures fall under your control, and any excess undead from previous castings become uncontrolled. (You choose which creatures are released.) If you are a cleric, any undead you might command by virtue of your power to command or rebuke undead do not count toward the limit.

Skeletons: a skeleton can be created only from a mostly intact corpse or skeleton. The corpse must have bones. If a skeleton is made from a corpse, the flesh falls off the bones.

Zombies: a zombie can be created only from a mostly intact corpse. The corpse must be that of a creature with a true anatomy.

Material component: you must place a black onyx gem worth at least 25 gp per hit die of the undead into the mouth or eye socket of each corpse you intend to animate. The magic of the spell turns these gems into worthless, burned-out shells.

ANIMATE OBJECTS Transmutation Level: brd 6, chaos 6, clr 6 Components: V, S Casting time: 1 standard action Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level) Targets: one small object per caster level; see text Duration: 1 round/level Saving throw: none Spell resistance: no You imbue inanimate objects with mobility and a semblance of life. Each such animated object then immediately attacks whomever or whatever you initially designate. An animated object can be of any nonmagical material. You may animate one small or smaller object or an equivalent number of larger objects per caster level. A medium object counts as two small or smaller objects, a large object as four, a huge object as eight, a gargantuan object as sixteen, and a colossal object as thirty-two. You can change the designated target or targets as a move action, as if directing an active spell. This spell cannot animate objects carried or worn by a creature. Animate objects can be made permanent with a permanency spell.			Duration: 1 round/level Saving throw: none Spell resistance: no You can animate a nonliving ropelike object. The maximum length assumes a rope with a 1-inch diameter. Reduce the maximum length by 50% for every additional inch of thickness, and increase it by 50% for each reduction of the rope's diameter by half. The possible commands are "coil" (form a neat, coiled stack), "coil and knot," "loop," "loop and knot," "tie and knot," and the opposites of all of the above ("uncoil," and so forth). You can give one command each round as a move action, as if directing an active spell. The rope can enwrap only a creature or an object within 1 foot of it—it does not snake outward—so it must be thrown near the intended target. Doing so requires a successful ranged touch attack roll (range increment 10 feet). A typical 1-inch-diameter hempen rope has 2 hit points, AC 10, and requires a DC 23 strength check to burst it. The rope does not deal damage, but it can be used as a trip line or to cause a single opponent that fails a reflex saving throw to become entangled. A creature capable of spellcasting that is bound by this spell must make a DC 15 concentration check to cast a spell. An entangled creature can slip free with a DC 20 escape artist check. The rope itself and any knots tied in it are not magical. This spell grants a +2 bonus on any use rope checks you make when using the transmuted rope. The spell cannot animate objects carried or worn by a creature.
ANIMATE PLANTS Transmutation Level: drd 7, plant 7 Components: V Casting time: 1 standard action Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels) Targets: one large plant per three caster levels or all plants within range; see text Duration: 1 round/level or 1 hour/level; see text Saving throw: none Spell resistance: no You imbue inanimate plants with mobility and a semblance of life. Each animated plant then immediately attacks whomever or whatever you initially designate as though it were an animated object of the appropriate size category. You may animate one large or smaller plant, or an equivalent number of larger plants, per three caster levels. A huge plant counts as two large or smaller plants, a gargantuan plant as four, and a colossal plant as eight. You can change the designated target or targets as a move action, as if directing an active spell. Use the statistics for animated objects, except that plants smaller than large usually don't have hardness. Animate plants cannot affect plant creatures, nor does it affect nonliving vegetable material. Entangle : alternatively, you may imbue all plants within range with a degree of mobility, which allows them to entwine around creatures in the area. This usage of the spell duplicates the effect of an entangle spell. Spell resistance does not keep creatures from being entangled. This effect lasts 1 hour per caster level.			ANTILIFE SHELL Abjuration Level: animal 6, clr 6, drd 6 Components: V, S, DF Casting time: 1 round Range: 10 ft. Area: 10-ft.-Radius emanation, centered on you Duration: 10 min./Level (d) Saving throw: none Spell resistance: yes You bring into being a mobile, hemispherical energy field that prevents the entrance of most types of living creatures. The effect hedges out animals, aberrations, dragons, fey, giants, humanoids, magical beasts, monstrous humanoids, oozes, plants, and vermin, but not constructs, elementals, outsiders, or undead. This spell may be used only defensively, not aggressively. Forcing an abjuration barrier against creatures that the spell keeps at bay collapses the barrier.
ANIMATE ROPE Transmutation Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1 Components: V, S Casting time: 1 standard action Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level) Target: one ropelike object, length up to 50 ft + 5 Ft./Lvl; see text			ANTIMAGIC FIELD Abjuration Level: clr 8, magic 6, protection 6, sor/wiz 6 Components: V, S, M/DF Casting time: 1 standard action Range: 10 ft. Area: 10-ft.-Radius emanation, centered on you Duration: 10 min./Level (d) Saving throw: none Spell resistance: see text An invisible barrier surrounds you and moves with you. The space within this barrier is impervious to most magical effects, including spells, spell-like abilities, and supernatural abilities. Likewise,

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

it prevents the functioning of any magic items or spells within its confines.

An antimagic field suppresses any spell or magical effect used within, brought into, or cast into the area, but does not dispel it. Time spent within an antimagic field counts against the suppressed spell's duration.

Summoned creatures of any type and incorporeal undead wink out if they enter an antimagic field. They reappear in the same spot once the field goes away. Time spent winked out counts normally against the duration of the conjuration that is maintaining the creature. If you cast antimagic field in an area occupied by a summoned creature that has spell resistance, you must make a caster level check (1d20 + caster level) against the creature's spell resistance to make it wink out. (The effects of instantaneous conjurations are not affected by an antimagic field because the conjuration itself is no longer in effect, only its result.)

A normal creature can enter the area, as can normal missiles. Furthermore, while a magic sword does not function magically within the area, it is still a sword (and a masterwork sword at that). The spell has no effect on golems and other constructs that are imbued with magic during their creation process and are thereafter self-supporting (unless they have been summoned, in which case they are treated like any other summoned creatures). Elementals, corporeal undead, and outsiders are likewise unaffected unless summoned. These creatures' spell-like or supernatural abilities, however, may be temporarily nullified by the field. Dispel magic does not remove the field.

Two or more antimagic fields sharing any of the same space have no effect on each other. Certain spells, such as wall of force, prismatic sphere, and prismatic wall, remain unaffected by antimagic field (see the individual spell descriptions). Artifacts and deities are unaffected by mortal magic such as this.

Should a creature be larger than the area enclosed by the barrier, any part of it that lies outside the barrier is unaffected by the field.

Arcane material component: a pinch of powdered iron or iron filings.

ANTIPATHY

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: drd 9, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 hour

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one location (up to a 10-ft. Cube/level) or one object

Duration: 2 hours/level (d)

Saving throw: will partial

Spell resistance: yes

You cause an object or location to emanate magical vibrations that repel either a specific kind of intelligent creature or creatures of a particular alignment, as defined by you. The kind of creature to be affected must be named specifically. A creature subtype is not specific enough. Likewise, the specific alignment to be repelled must be named.

Creatures of the designated kind or alignment feel an overpowering urge to leave the area or to avoid the affected item.

A compulsion forces them to abandon the area or item, shunning it and never willingly returning to it while the spell is in effect. A creature that makes a successful saving throw can stay in the area or touch the item but feels uncomfortable doing so. This distracting discomfort reduces the creature's dexterity score by 4 points.

Antipathy counters and dispels sympathy.

Arcane material component: a lump of alum soaked in vinegar.

ANTIPLANT SHELL

Abjuration

Level: drd 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 10 ft.

Area: 10-ft.-Radius emanation, centered on you

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

The antiplant shell spell creates an invisible, mobile barrier that keeps all creatures within the shell protected from attacks by plant creatures or animated plants. As with many abjuration spells, forcing the barrier against creatures that the spell keeps at bay strains and collapses the field.

ARCANE EYE

Divination (scrying)

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: unlimited

Effect: magical sensor

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You create an invisible magical sensor that sends you visual information. You can create the arcane eye at any point you can see, but it can then travel outside your line of sight without hindrance. An arcane eye travels at 30 feet per round (300 feet per minute) if viewing an area ahead as a human would (primarily looking at the floor) or 10 feet per round (100 feet per minute) if examining the ceiling and walls as well as the floor ahead. It sees exactly as you would see if you were there.

The eye can travel in any direction as long as the spell lasts. Solid barriers block its passage, but it can pass through a hole or space as small as 1 inch in diameter. The eye can't enter another plane of existence, even through a gate or similar magical portal.

You must concentrate to use an arcane eye. If you do not concentrate, the eye is inert until you again concentrate.

Material component: a bit of bat fur.

ARCANE LOCK

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: the door, chest, or portal touched, up to 30 sq. ft./level in size

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

An arcane lock spell cast upon a door, chest, or portal magically locks it. You can freely pass your own arcane lock without affecting it; otherwise, a door or object secured with this spell can be opened only by breaking in or with a successful dispel magic or knock spell. Add 10 to the normal DC to break open a door or portal affected by this spell. (A knock spell does not remove an arcane lock; it only suppresses the effect for 10 minutes.)

Material component: gold dust worth 25 gp.

ARCANE MARK

Universal

Level: sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: one personal rune or mark, all of which must fit within 1 sq. Ft.

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell allows you to inscribe your personal rune or mark, which can consist of no more than six characters. The writing can be visible or invisible. An arcane mark spell enables you to etch the rune upon any substance without harm to the material upon which it is placed. If an invisible mark is made, a detect magic spell causes it to glow and be visible, though not necessarily understandable.

See invisibility, true seeing, a gem of seeing, or a robe of eyes likewise allows the user to see an invisible arcane mark. A read magic spell reveals the words, if any. The mark cannot be dispelled, but it can be removed by the caster or by an erase spell.

If an arcane mark is placed on a living being, normal wear gradually causes the effect to fade in about a month.

Arcane mark must be cast on an object prior to casting instant summons on the same object (see that spell description for details).

ARCANE SIGHT

Divination

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

This spell makes your eyes glow blue and allows you to see magical auras within 120 feet of you. The effect is similar to that of a detect magic spell, but arcane sight does not require concentration and discerns aura location and power more quickly.

You know the location and power of all magical auras within your sight. An aura's power depends on a spell's functioning level or an item's caster level, as noted in the description of the detect magic spell. If the items or creatures bearing the auras are in line of sight, you can make spellcraft skill checks to determine the school of magic involved in each. (Make one check per aura; DC 15 + spell level, or 15 + one-half caster level for a nonspell effect.)

If you concentrate on a specific creature within 120 feet of you as a standard action, you can determine whether it has any spell-casting or spell-like abilities, whether these are arcane or divine (spell-like abilities register as arcane), and the strength of the most powerful spell or spell-like ability the creature currently has available for use.

Arcane sight can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

ARCANE SIGHT, GREATER

Divination

Level: sor/wiz 7

This spell functions like arcane sight, except that you automatically know which spells or magical effects are active upon any individual or object you see.

Greater arcane sight doesn't let you identify magic items.

Unlike arcane sight, this spell cannot be made permanent with a permanency spell.

ASTRAL PROJECTION

Necromancy

Level: clr 9, sor/wiz 9, travel 9

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 30 minutes

Range: touch

Targets: you plus one additional willing creature touched per two caster levels

Duration: see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

By freeing your spirit from your physical body, this spell allows you to project an astral body onto another plane altogether.

You can bring the astral forms of other willing creatures with you, provided that these subjects are linked in a circle with you at the time of the casting. These fellow travelers are dependent upon you and must accompany you at all times. If something happens to you during the journey, your companions are stranded wherever you left them.

You project your astral self onto the astral plane, leaving your physical body behind on the material plane in a state of suspended animation. The spell projects an astral copy of you and all you wear or carry onto the astral plane. Since the astral plane touches upon other planes, you can travel astrally to any of these other planes as you will. To enter one, you leave the astral plane, forming a new physical body (and equipment) on the plane of existence you have chosen to enter.

While you are on the astral plane, your astral body is connected at all times to your physical body by a silvery cord. If the cord is broken, you are killed, astrally and physically. Luckily, very few things can destroy a silver cord. When a second body is formed on a different plane, the incorporeal silvery cord remains invisibly attached to the new body. If the second body or the astral form is slain, the cord simply returns to your body where it rests on the material plane, thereby reviving it from its state of suspended animation. Although astral projections are able to function on the astral plane, their actions affect only creatures existing on the astral plane; a physical body must be materialized on other planes.

You and your companions may travel through the astral plane indefinitely. Your bodies simply wait behind in a state of suspended animation until you choose to return your spirits to them. The spell lasts until you desire to end it, or until it is terminated by some outside means, such as dispel magic cast upon either the physical body or the astral form, the breaking of the silver cord, or the destruction of your body back on the material plane (which kills you).

Material component: a jacinth worth at least 1,000 gp, plus a silver bar worth 5 gp for each person to be affected.

ATONEMENT

Abjuration

Level: clr 5, drd 5

Components: V, S, M, F, DF, XP

Casting time: 1 hour

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

This spell removes the burden of evil acts or misdeeds from the subject. The creature seeking atonement must be truly repentant and desirous of setting right its misdeeds. If the atoning creature committed the evil act unwittingly or under some form of compulsion, atonement operates normally at no cost to you. However, in the case of a creature atoning for deliberate misdeeds and acts of a knowing and willful nature, you must intercede with your deity (requiring you to expend 500 XP) in order to expunge the subject's burden. Many casters first assign a subject of this sort a quest (see geas/quest) or similar penance to determine whether the creature is truly contrite before casting the atonement spell on its behalf.

Atonement may be cast for one of several purposes, depending on the version selected.

Reverse magical alignment change: if a creature has had its alignment magically changed, atonement returns its alignment to its original status at no cost in experience points.

Restore class: a paladin who has lost her class features due to committing an evil act may have her paladinhood restored to her by this spell.

Restore cleric or druid spell powers: a cleric or druid who has lost the ability to cast spells by incurring the anger of his or her deity may regain that ability by seeking atonement from another cleric of the same deity or another druid. If the transgression was intentional, the casting cleric loses 500 XP for his intercession. If the transgression was unintentional, he does not lose xp.

Redemption or temptation: you may cast this spell upon a creature of an opposing alignment in order to offer it a chance to change its alignment to match yours. The prospective subject must be present for the entire casting process. Upon completion of the spell, the subject freely chooses whether it retains its original alignment or ACquiesces to your offer and changes to your alignment. No duress, compulsion, or magical influence can force the subject to take advantage of the opportunity offered if it is unwilling to abandon its old alignment. This use of the spell does not work on outsiders or any creature incapable of changing its alignment naturally.

Though the spell description refers to evil acts, atonement can also be used on any creature that has performed acts against its alignment, whether those acts are evil, good, chaotic, or lawful.

Note: normally, changing alignment is up to the player. This use of atonement simply offers a believable way for a character to change his or her alignment drastically, suddenly, and definitively.

Material component: burning incense.

Focus: in addition to your holy symbol or normal divine focus, you need a set of prayer beads (or other prayer device, such as a prayer wheel or prayer book) worth at least 500 gp.

XP cost: when cast for the benefit of a creature whose guilt was the result of deliberate acts, the cost to you is 500 XP per casting (see above).

AUGURY

Divination

Level: clr 2

Components: V, S, M, F

Casting time: 1 minute

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: instantaneous

An augury can tell you whether a particular action will bring good or bad results for you in the immediate future.

The base chance for receiving a meaningful reply is 70% + 1% per caster level, to a maximum of 90%; this roll is made secretly. A question may be so straightforward that a successful result is automatic, or so vague as to have no chance of success. If the augury succeeds, you get one of four results:

- Weal (if the action will probably bring good results).
- Woe (for bad results).
- Weal and woe (for both).
- Nothing (for actions that don't have especially good or bad results).

If the spell fails, you get the "nothing" result. A cleric who gets the "nothing" result has no way to tell whether it was the consequence of a failed or successful augury.

The augury can see into the future only about half an hour, so anything that might happen after that does not affect the result. Thus, the result might not take into ACcount the long-term consequences of a contemplated action. All auguries cast by the same person about the same topic use the same dice result as the first casting.

Material component: incense worth at least 25 gp.

Focus: a set of marked sticks, bones, or similar tokens of at least 25 gp value.

AWAKEN

Transmutation

Level: drd 5

Components: V, S, DF, XP

Casting time: 24 hours

Range: touch

Target: animal or tree touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

You awaken a tree or animal to humanlike sentience. To succeed, you must make a will save (DC 10 + the animal's current HD, or the HD the tree will have once awakened).

The awakened animal or tree is friendly toward you. You have no special empathy or connection with a creature you awaken, although it serves you in specific tasks or endeavors if you communicate your desires to it.

An awakened tree has characteristics as if it were an animated object, except that it gains the plant type and its intelligence, wisdom, and charisma scores are each 3d6. An awakened plant gains the ability to move its limbs, roots, vines, creepers, and so forth, and it has senses similar to a human's.

An awakened animal gets 3d6 intelligence, +1d3 charisma, and +2 HD. Its type becomes magical beast (augmented animal). An awakened animal can't serve as an animal companion, familiar, or special mount.

An awakened tree or animal can speak one language that you know, plus one additional language that you know per point of intelligence bonus (if any).

XP cost: 250 xp.

Level: drd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: fortitude negates, will partial; see text

Spell resistance: yes

As polymorph, except that you change the subject into a small or smaller animal of no more than 1 HD. If the new form would prove fatal to the creature the subject gets a +4 bonus on the save.

If the spell succeeds, the subject must also make a will save. If this second save fails, the creature loses its extraordinary, supernatural, and spell-like abilities, loses its ability to cast spells (if it had the ability), and gains the alignment, special abilities, and intelligence, wisdom, and charisma scores of its new form in place of its own. It still retains its class and level (or HD), as well as all benefits deriving therefrom (such as base attack bonus, base save bonuses, and hit points). It retains any class features (other than spellcasting) that aren't extraordinary, supernatural, or spell-like abilities.

Incorporeal or gaseous creatures are immune to being polymorphed, and a creature with the shapechanger subtype can revert to its natural form as a standard action.

BANE

Enchantment (compulsion) [fear, mind-affecting]

Level: clr 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 50 ft.

Area: all enemies within 50 ft.

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

Bane fills your enemies with fear and doubt. Each affected creature takes a -1 penalty on attack rolls and a -1 penalty on saving throws against fear effects.

Bane counters and dispels bless.

BANISHMENT

Abjuration

Level: clr 6, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one or more extraplanar creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

A banishment spell is a more powerful version of the dismissal spell. It enables you to force extraplanar creatures out of your home plane. As many as 2 hit dice of creatures per caster level can be banished.

You can improve the spell's chance of success by presenting at least one object or substance that the target hates, fears, or otherwise opposes. For each such object or substance, you gain a +1 bonus on your caster level check to overcome the target's spell resistance (if any), the saving throw DC increases by 2.

Certain rare items might work twice as well as a normal item for the purpose of the bonuses (each providing a +2 bonus on the caster level check against spell resistance and increasing the save DC by 4).

Arcane focus: any item that is distasteful to the subject (optional, see above).

BARKSKIN

Transmutation

Level: drd 2, rgr 2, plant 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

Barkskin toughens a creature's skin. The effect grants a +2 enhancement bonus to the creature's existing natural armor bonus. This enhancement bonus increases by 1 for every three caster levels above 3rd, to a maximum of +5 at caster level 12th.

The enhancement bonus provided by barkskin stacks with the target's natural armor bonus, but not with other enhancement bonuses to natural armor. A creature without natural armor has an effective natural armor bonus of +0.

BESTOW CURSE

Necromancy

Level: clr 3, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

You place a curse on the subject. Choose one of the following three effects.

-6 Decrease to an ability score (minimum 1).

-4 Penalty on attack rolls, saves, ability checks, and skill checks.

Each turn, the target has a 50% chance to act normally; otherwise, it takes no action.

You may also invent your own curse, but it should be no more powerful than those described above.

The curse bestowed by this spell cannot be dispelled, but it can be removed with a break enchantment, limited wish, miracle, remove curse, or wish spell.

Bestow curse counters remove curse.

BINDING

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: one minute

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature

Duration: see text (d)

Saving throw: will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

A binding spell creates a magical restraint to hold a creature. The target gets an initial saving throw only if its hit dice equal at least one-half your caster level.

You may have as many as six assistants help you with the spell. For each assistant who casts suggestion, your caster level for this casting of binding increases by 1. For each assistant who casts dominate animal, dominate person, or dominate monster, your caster level for this casting of binding increases by a number equal to one-third of that assistant's level, provided that the spell's target is appropriate for a binding spell. Since the assistants' spells are cast simply to improve your caster level for the purpose of the binding spell, saving throws and spell resistance against the assistants' spells are irrelevant. Your caster level determines whether the target gets an initial will saving throw and how long the binding lasts. All binding spells are dismissible.

Regardless of the version of binding you cast, you can specify triggering conditions that end the spell and release the creature whenever they occur. These triggers can be as simple or elaborate as you desire, but the condition must be reasonable and have a likelihood of coming to pass. The conditions can be based on a creature's name, identity, or alignment but otherwise must be based on observable actions or qualities. Intangibles such as level, class, hit dice, or hit points don't qualify. Once the spell is cast, its triggering conditions cannot be changed. Setting a release condition increases the save DC (assuming a saving throw is allowed) by 2.

If you are casting any of the first three versions of binding (those with limited durations), you may cast additional binding spells to prolong the effect, since the durations overlap. If you do so, the target gets a saving throw at the end of the first spell's duration, even if your caster level was high enough to disallow an initial saving throw. If the creature succeeds on this save, all the binding spells it has received are broken.

The binding spell has six versions. Choose one of the following versions when you cast the spell.

Chaining: the subject is confined by restraints that generate an antipathy spell affecting all creatures who approach the subject, except you. The duration is one year per caster level. The subject of this form of binding is confined to the spot it occupied when it received the spell.

Slumber: this version causes the subject to become comatose for as long as one year per caster level. The subject does not need to eat or drink while slumbering, nor does it age. This form of binding is more difficult to cast than chaining, making it slightly easier to resist. Reduce the spell's save DC by 1.

Bound slumber: this combination of chaining and slumber lasts for as long as one month per caster level. Reduce the save DC by 2.

Hedged prison: the subject is transported to or otherwise brought within a confined area from which it cannot wander by any means. The effect is permanent. Reduce the save DC by 3.

Metamorphosis: the subject assumes gaseous form, except for its head or face. It is held harmless in a jar or other container, which may be transparent if you so choose. The creature remains aware of its surroundings and can speak, but it cannot leave the container, attack, or use any of its powers or abilities. The binding is permanent. The subject does not need to breathe, eat, or drink while metamorphosed, nor does it age. Reduce the save DC by 4.

Minimus containment: the subject is shrunk to a height of 1 inch or even less and held within some gem, jar, or similar object. The binding is permanent. The subject does not need to breathe, eat, or drink while contained, nor does it age. Reduce the save DC by 4.

You can't dispel a binding spell with dispel magic or a similar effect, though an antimagic field or mage's disjunction affects it normally. A bound extraplanar creature cannot be sent back to its home plane due to dismissal, banishment, or a similar effect.

Components: the components for a binding spell vary according to the version of the spell, but they always include a continuous chanting utterance read from the scroll or spellbook page containing the spell, somatic gestures, and materials appropriate to the form of binding used. These components can include such items as miniature chains of special metals, soporific herbs of the rarest sort (for slumber bindings), a bell jar of the finest crystal, and the like.

In addition to the specially made props suited to the specific type of binding (cost 500 gp), the spell requires opals worth at least 500

gp for each HD of the target and a vellum depiction or carved statuette of the subject to be captured.

BLACK TENTACLES

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: 20-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell conjures a field of rubbery black tentacles, each 10 feet long. These waving members seem to spring forth from the earth, floor, or whatever surface is underfoot-including water. They grasp and entwine around creatures that enter the area, holding them fast and crushing them with great strength.

Every creature within the area of the spell must make a grapple check, opposed by the grapple check of the tentacles. Treat the tentacles attacking a particular target as a large creature with a base attack bonus equal to your caster level and a strength score of 19. Thus, its grapple check modifier is equal to your caster level +8. The tentacles are immune to all types of damage.

Once the tentacles grapple an opponent, they may make a grapple check each round on your turn to deal 1d6+4 points of bludgeoning damage. The tentacles continue to crush the opponent until the spell ends or the opponent escapes.

Any creature that enters the area of the spell is immediately attacked by the tentacles. Even creatures who aren't grappling with the tentacles may move through the area at only half normal speed.

Material component: a piece of tentacle from a giant octopus or a giant squid.

BLADE BARRIER

Evocation [force]

Level: clr 6, good 6, war 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: wall of whirling blades up to 20 ft. Long/ level, or a ringed wall of whirling blades with a radius of up to 5 ft. Per two levels; either form 20 ft. High

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: reflex half or reflex negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

An immobile, vertical curtain of whirling blades shaped of pure force springs into existence. Any creature passing through the wall takes 1d6 points of damage per caster level (maximum 15d6), with a reflex save for half damage.

If you evoke the barrier so that it appears where creatures are, each creature takes damage as if passing through the wall. Each such creature can avoid the wall (ending up on the side of its choice) and thus take no damage by making a successful reflex save.

A blade barrier provides cover (+4 bonus to AC, +2 bonus on reflex saves) against attacks made through it.

BLASPHEMY

Evocation [evil, sonic]

Level: clr 7, evil 7

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 30 ft.

Area: non-evil creatures in a 40-ft-radius spread centered on you

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none or will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

Any nonevil creature within the area of a blasphemy spell suffers the following ill effects.

HD	Effect
Equal to caster level	Dazed
Up to caster level –1	Weakened, dazed
Up to caster level –5	Paralyzed, weakened, dazed
Up to caster level –10	Killed, paralyzed, weakened, dazed

The effects are cumulative and concurrent.

No saving throw is allowed against these effects.

Dazed: the creature can take no actions for 1 round, though it defends itself normally.

Weakened: the creature's strength score decreases by 2d6 points for 2d4 rounds.

Paralyzed: the creature is paralyzed and helpless for 1d10 minutes.

Killed: living creatures die. Undead creatures are destroyed.

Furthermore, if you are on your home plane when you cast this spell, nonevil extraplanar creatures within the area are instantly banished back to their home planes. Creatures so banished cannot return for at least 24 hours. This effect takes place regardless of whether the creatures hear the blasphemy. The banishment effect allows a will save (at a –4 penalty) to negate.

Creatures whose hit dice exceed your caster level are unaffected by blasphemy.

BLESS

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: clr 1, pal 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 50 ft.

Area: the caster and all allies within a 50-ft. Burst, centered on the caster

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

Bless fills your allies with courage. Each ally gains a +1 morale bonus on attack rolls and on saving throws against fear effects.

Bless counters and dispels bane.

BLESS WATER

Transmutation [good]

Level: clr 1, pal 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 minute

Range: touch

Target: flask of water touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

This transmutation imbues a flask (1 pint) of water with positive

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

energy, turning it into holy water.

Material component: 5 pounds of powdered silver (worth 25 gp).

BLESS WEAPON

Transmutation

Level: pal 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: weapon touched

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This transmutation makes a weapon strike true against evil foes. The weapon is treated as having a +1 enhancement bonus for the purpose of bypassing the damage reduction of evil creatures or striking evil incorporeal creatures (though the spell doesn't grant an actual enhancement bonus). The weapon also becomes good, which means it can bypass the damage reduction of certain creatures. (This effect overrides and suppresses any other alignment the weapon might have.) Individual arrows or bolts can be transmuted, but affected projectile weapons (such as bows) don't confer the benefit to the projectiles they shoot.

In addition, all critical hit rolls against evil foes are automatically successful, so every threat is a critical hit. This last effect does not apply to any weapon that already has a magical effect related to critical hits, such as a keen weapon or a vorpal sword.

BLIGHT

Necromancy

Level: drd 4, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude half; see text

Spell resistance: yes

This spell withers a single plant of any size. An affected plant creature takes 1d6 points of damage per level (maximum 15d6) and may attempt a fortitude saving throw for half damage. A plant that isn't a creature doesn't receive a save and immediately withers and dies.

This spell has no effect on the soil or surrounding plant life.

BLINDNESS/DEAFNESS

Necromancy

Level: brd 2, clr 3, sor/wiz 2

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one living creature

Duration: permanent (d)

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

You call upon the powers of unlife to render the subject blinded or deafened, as you choose.

BLINK

Transmutation

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

You "blink" back and forth between the material plane and the ethereal plane. You look as though you're winking in and out of reality very quickly and at random.

Blinking has several effects, as follows.

Physical attacks against you have a 50% miss chance, and the blind-fight feat doesn't help opponents, since you're ethereal and not merely invisible. If the attack is capable of striking ethereal creatures, the miss chance is only 20% (for concealment).

If the attacker can see invisible creatures, the miss chance is also only 20%. (For an attacker who can both see and strike ethereal creatures, there is no miss chance.) Likewise, your own attacks have a 20% miss chance, since you sometimes go ethereal just as you are about to strike.

Any individually targeted spell has a 50% chance to fail against you while you're blinking unless your attacker can target invisible, ethereal creatures. Your own spells have a 20% chance to activate just as you go ethereal, in which case they typically do not affect the material plane.

While blinking, you take only half damage from area attacks (but full damage from those that extend onto the ethereal plane). You strike as an invisible creature (with a +2 bonus on attack rolls), denying your target any dexterity bonus to AC.

You take only half damage from falling, since you fall only while you are material.

While blinking, you can step through (but not see through) solid objects. For each 5 feet of solid material you walk through, there is a 50% chance that you become material. If this occurs, you are shunted off to the nearest open space and take 1d6 points of damage per 5 feet so traveled. You can move at only three-quarters speed (because movement on the ethereal plane is at half speed, and you spend about half your time there and half your time material.)

Since you spend about half your time on the ethereal plane, you can see and even attack ethereal creatures. You interact with ethereal creatures roughly the same way you interact with material ones.

An ethereal creature is invisible, incorporeal, and capable of moving in any direction, even up or down. As an incorporeal creature, you can move through solid objects, including living creatures.

An ethereal creature can see and hear the material plane, but everything looks gray and insubstantial. Sight and hearing on the material plane are limited to 60 feet.

Force effects and abjurations affect you normally. Their effects extend onto the ethereal plane from the material plane, but not vice versa. An ethereal creature can't attack material creatures, and spells you cast while ethereal affect only other ethereal things. Certain material creatures or objects have attacks or effects that work on the ethereal plane. Treat other ethereal creatures and objects as material.

BLUR

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject's outline appears blurred, shifting and wavering. This distortion grants the subject concealment (20% miss chance).

A see invisibility spell does not counteract the blur effect, but a true seeing spell does.

Opponents that cannot see the subject ignore the spell's effect (though fighting an unseen opponent carries penalties of its own).

BREAK ENCHANTMENT

Abjuration

Level: brd 4, clr 5, luck 5, pal 4, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 minute

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: up to one creature per level, all within 30 ft. of each other

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

This spell frees victims from enchantments, transmutations, and curses. Break enchantment can reverse even an instantaneous effect. For each such effect, you make a caster level check (1d20 + caster level, maximum +15) against a DC of 11 + caster level of the effect. Success means that the creature is free of the spell, curse, or effect. For a cursed magic item, the DC is 25.

If the spell is one that cannot be dispelled by dispel magic, break enchantment works only if that spell is 5th level or lower.

If the effect comes from some permanent magic item break enchantment does not remove the curse from the item, but it does frees the victim from the item's effects.

BULL'S STRENGTH

Transmutation

Level: clr 2, drd 2, pal 2, sor/wiz 2, strength 2

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject becomes stronger. The spell grants a +4 enhancement bonus to strength, adding the usual benefits to melee attack rolls, melee damage rolls, and other uses of the strength modifier.

Arcane material component: a few hairs, or a pinch of dung, from a bull.

BULL'S STRENGTH, MASS

Transmutation

Level: clr 6, drd 6, sor/wiz 6

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: 1 creature/level, no 2 of which can be more than 30 ft

apart

This spell functions like bull's strength, except that it affects multiple creatures.

BURNING HANDS

Evocation [fire]

Level: fire 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 15 ft.

Area: cone-shaped burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: reflex half

Spell resistance: yes

A cone of searing flame shoots from your fingertips. Any creature in the area of the flames takes 1d4 points of fire damage per caster level (maximum 5d4). Flammable materials burn if the flames touch them. A character can extinguish burning items as a full-round action.

CALL LIGHTNING

Evocation [electricity]

Level: drd 3Components: V, SCasting time: 1 roundRange: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)Effect: one or more 30-ft.-Long vertical lines of lightningDuration: 1 min./LevelSaving throw: reflex halfSpell resistance: yes

Immediately upon completion of the spell, and once per round thereafter, you may call down a 5-foot-wide, 30-foot-long, vertical bolt of lightning that deals 3d6 points of electricity damage. The bolt of lightning flashes down in a vertical stroke at whatever target point you choose within the spell's range (measured from your position at the time). Any creature in the target square or in the path of the bolt is affected.

You need not call a bolt of lightning immediately; other actions, even spellcasting, can be performed. However, each round after the first you may use a standard action (concentrating on the spell) to call a bolt. You may call a total number of bolts equal to your caster level (maximum 10 bolts).

If you are outdoors and in a stormy area—a rain shower, clouds and wind, hot and cloudy conditions, or even a tornado (including a whirlwind formed by a djinni or an air elemental of at least large size)—each bolt deals 3d10 points of electricity damage instead of 3d6.

This spell functions indoors or underground but not underwater.

CALL LIGHTNING STORM

Evocation [electricity]

Level: drd 5Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

This spell functions like call lightning, except that each bolt deals 5d6 points of electricity damage (or 5d10 if created outdoors in a stormy area), and you may call a maximum of 15 bolts.

CALM ANIMALS

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: animal 1, drd 1, rgr 1Components: V, SCasting time: 1 standard actionRange: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)Targets: animals within 30 ft. Of each otherDuration: 1 min./LevelSaving throw: will negates; see textSpell resistance: yes

This spell soothes and quiets animals, rendering them docile and harmless. Only ordinary animals (those with intelligence scores of 1 or 2) can be affected by this spell. All the subjects must be of the same kind, and no two may be more than 30 feet apart. The maximum number of hit dice of animals you can affect is equal to 2d4

+ caster level. A dire animal or an animal trained to attack or guard is allowed a saving throw; other animals are not.

The affected creatures remain where they are and do not attack or flee. They are not helpless and defend themselves normally if attacked. Any threat breaks the spell on the threatened creatures.

CALM EMOTIONS

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 2, clr 2, law 2Components: V, S, DFCasting time: 1 standard actionRange: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)Area: creatures in a 20-ft.-Radius spreadDuration: concentration, up to 1 round/level (d)Saving throw: will negatesSpell resistance: yes

This spell calms agitated creatures. You have no control over the affected creatures, but calm emotions can stop raging creatures from fighting or joyous ones from reveling. Creatures so affected cannot take violent actions (although they can defend themselves) or do anything destructive. Any aggressive action against or damage dealt to a calmed creature immediately breaks the spell on all calmed creatures.

This spell automatically suppresses (but does not dispel) any morale bonuses granted by spells such as bless, good hope, and rage, as well as negating a bard's ability to inspire courage or a barbarian's rage ability. It also suppresses any fear effects and removes the confused condition from all targets. While the spell lasts, a suppressed spell or effect has no effect. When the calm emotions spell ends, the original spell or effect takes hold of the creature again, provided that its duration has not expired in the meantime.

CAT'S GRACE

Transmutation

Level: brd 2, drd 2, rgr 2, sor/wiz 2Components: V, S, MCasting time: 1 standard actionRange: touchTarget: creature touchedDuration: 1 min./LevelSaving throw: will negates (harmless)Spell resistance: yes

The transmuted creature becomes more graceful, agile, and coordinated. The spell grants a +4 enhancement bonus to dexterity, adding the usual benefits to AC, reflex saves, and other uses of the dexterity modifier.

Material component: a pinch of cat fur.

CAT'S GRACE, MASS

Transmutation

Level: brd 6, drd 6, sor/wiz 6Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)Targets: one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

This spell functions like cat's grace, except that it affects multiple creatures.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

CAUSE FEAR

Necromancy [fear, mind-affecting]

Level: brd 1, clr 1, death 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature with 5 or fewer HD

Duration: 1d4 rounds or 1 round; see text

Saving throw: will partial

Spell resistance: yes

The affected creature becomes frightened. If the subject succeeds on a will save, it is shaken for 1 round. Creatures with 6 or more hit dice are immune to this effect.

Cause fear counters and dispels remove fear.

CHAIN LIGHTNING

Evocation [electricity]

Level: air 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Targets: one primary target, plus one secondary target/level (each of which must be within 30 ft. Of the primary target)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: reflex half

Spell resistance: yes

This spell creates an electrical discharge that begins as a single stroke commencing from your fingertips. Unlike lightning bolt, chain lightning strikes one object or creature initially, then arcs to other targets.

The bolt deals 1d6 points of electricity damage per caster level (maximum 20d6) to the primary target. After it strikes, lightning can arc to a number of secondary targets equal to your caster level (maximum 20). The secondary bolts each strike one target and deal half as much damage as the primary one did (rounded down).

Each target can attempt a reflex saving throw for half damage. You choose secondary targets as you like, but they must all be within 30 feet of the primary target, and no target can be struck more than once. You can choose to affect fewer secondary targets than the maximum.

Focus: a bit of fur; a piece of amber, glass, or a crystal rod; plus one silver pin for each of your caster levels.

CHANGESTAFF

Transmutation

Level: drd 7

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 round

Range: touch

Target: your touched staff

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You change a specially prepared quarterstaff into a huge treantlike creature, about 24 feet tall. When you plant the end of the staff in the ground and speak a special command to conclude the casting of the spell, your staff turns into a creature that looks and fights just like a treant. The staff-treant defends you and obeys any spoken commands. However, it is by no means a true treant; it cannot converse with actual treants or control trees. If the staff-treant is reduced to 0 or fewer hit points, it crumbles to powder and the staff is destroyed. Otherwise, the staff returns to its normal form when the spell duration expires (or when the spell is dismissed), and it can be used as the focus for another casting of the spell. The staff-treant is always at full strength when created, despite any wounds it may have incurred the last time it appeared.

Focus: the quarterstaff, which must be specially prepared. The staff must be a sound limb cut from an ash, oak, or yew, then cured, shaped, carved, and polished (a process requiring twenty-eight days).

You cannot adventure or engage in other strenuous activity during the shaping and carving of the staff.

CHAOS HAMMER

Evocation [chaotic]

Level: chaos 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: 20-ft.-Radius burst

Duration: instantaneous (1d6 rounds); see text

Saving throw: will partial; see text

Spell resistance: yes

You unleash chaotic power to smite your enemies. The power takes the form of a multicolored explosion of leaping, ricocheting energy. Only lawful and neutral (not chaotic) creatures are harmed by the spell.

The spell deals 1d8 points of damage per two caster levels (maximum 5d8) to lawful creatures (or 1d6 points of damage per caster level, maximum 10d6, to lawful outsiders) and slows them for 1d6 rounds.

A slowed creature can take only a single standard action or move action on each of its turns, plus free actions as normal. In addition, it takes a -2 penalty to AC, attack rolls, damage rolls, and reflex saves. A successful will save reduces the damage by half and negates the slow effect.

The spell deals only half damage against creatures who are neither lawful nor chaotic, and they are not slowed. Such a creature can reduce the damage by half again (down to one-quarter) with a successful will save.

CHARM ANIMAL

Enchantment (charm) [mind-affecting]

Level: drd 1, rgr 1

Target: one animal

This spell functions like charm person, except that it affects a creature of the animal type.

CHARM MONSTER

Enchantment (charm) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 4

Target: one living creature

Duration: one day/level

This spell functions like charm person, except that the effect is not restricted by creature type or size.

CHARM MONSTER, MASS

Enchantment (charm) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 8

Components: V

Targets: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: one day/level

This spell functions like charm monster, except that mass charm monster affects a number of creatures whose combined HD do not exceed twice your level, or at least one creature regardless of HD. If there are more potential targets than you can affect, you choose them one at a time until you choose a creature with too many HD.

CHARM PERSON

Enchantment (charm) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one humanoid creature

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This charm makes a humanoid creature regard you as its trusted friend and ally (treat the target's attitude as friendly). If the creature is currently being threatened or attacked by you or your allies, however, it receives a +5 bonus on its saving throw.

The spell does not enable you to control the charmed person as if it were an automaton, but it perceives your words and actions in the most favorable way. You can try to give the subject orders, but you must win an opposed charisma check to convince it to do anything it wouldn't ordinarily do. (Retries are not allowed.) An affected creature never obeys suicidal or obviously harmful orders, but it might be convinced that something very dangerous is worth doing. Any act by you or your apparent allies that threatens the charmed person breaks the spell. You must speak the person's language to communicate your commands, or else be good at pantomiming.

CHILL METAL

Transmutation [cold]

Level: drd 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: metal equipment of one creature/two levels, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart; or 25 lb. of metal/level, none of which can be more than 30 ft. away from any of the rest

Duration: 7 rounds

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

Chill metal makes metal extremely cold. Unattended, nonmagical metal gets no saving throw. Magical metal is allowed a saving throw against the spell. An item in a creature's possession uses the creature's saving throw bonus unless its own is higher.

A creature takes cold damage if its equipment is chilled. It takes full damage if its armor is affected or if it is holding, touching, wearing, or carrying metal weighing 1/5 of its weight. The creature takes minimum damage (1 point or 2 points; see the table) if it's not wearing metal armor and the metal that it's carrying weighs less than 1/5 of its weight.

On the first round of the spell, the metal becomes chilly and uncomfortable to touch but deals no damage. The same effect also occurs on the last round of the spell's duration. During the second (and also the next-to-last) round, icy coldness causes pain and damage. In the third, fourth, and fifth rounds, the metal is freezing cold, causing more damage, as shown on the table below.

Round	Metal Temperature	Damage
1	Cold	None
2	Icy	1d4 points
3–5	Freezing	2d4 points
6	Icy	1d4 points
7	Cold	None

Any heat intense enough to damage the creature negates cold damage from the spell (and vice versa) on a point-for-point basis. Underwater, chill metal deals no damage, but ice immediately forms around the affected metal, making it more buoyant.

Chill metal counters and dispels heat metal.

CHILL TOUCH

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Targets: creature or creatures touched (up to one/level)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude partial or will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

A touch from your hand, which glows with blue energy, disrupts the life force of living creatures. Each touch channels negative energy that deals 1d6 points of damage. The touched creature also takes 1 point of strength damage unless it makes a successful fortitude saving throw. You can use this melee touch attack up to one time per level.

An undead creature you touch takes no damage of either sort, but it must make a successful will saving throw or flee as if panicked for 1d4 rounds +1 round per caster level.

CIRCLE OF DEATH

Necromancy [death]

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: several living creatures within a 40-ft.-radius burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

A circle of death snuffs out the life force of living creatures, killing them instantly.

The spell slays 1d4 HD worth of living creatures per caster level (maximum 20d4). Creatures with the fewest HD are affected first; among creatures with equal HD, those who are closest to the burst's point of origin are affected first. No creature of 9 or more HD can be affected, and hit dice that are not sufficient to affect a creature are wasted.

Material component: the powder of a crushed black pearl with a minimum value of 500 gp.

CLAIRAUDIENCE/CLAIRVOYANCE

Divination (scrying)

Level: brd 3, knowledge 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: magical sensor

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Spell resistance: no

Clairaudience/clairvoyance creates an invisible magical sensor at a specific location that enables you to hear or see (your choice) almost as if you were there. You don't need line of sight or line of effect, but the locale must be known—a place familiar to you or an obvious one. Once you have selected the locale, the sensor doesn't move, but you can rotate it in all directions to view the area as desired. Unlike other scrying spells, this spell does not allow magically or supernaturally enhanced senses to work through it. If the chosen locale is magically dark, you see nothing. If it is naturally pitch black, you can see in a 10-foot radius around the center of the spell's effect. Clairaudience/clairvoyance functions only on the plane of existence you are currently occupying.

Arcane focus: a small horn (for hearing) or a glass eye (for seeing).

CLENCHED FIST

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 8, strength 8

Components: V, S, F/DF

This spell functions like interposing hand, except that the hand can interpose itself, push, or strike one opponent that you select. The floating hand can move as far as 60 feet and can attack in the same round. Since this hand is directed by you, its ability to notice or attack invisible or concealed creatures is no better than yours.

The hand attacks once per round, and its attack bonus equals your caster level + your intelligence, wisdom, or charisma modifier (for a wizard, cleric, or sorcerer, respectively), +11 for the hand's strength score (33), -1 for being large. The hand deals 1d8+11 points of damage on each attack, and any creature struck must make a fortitude save (against this spell's save DC) or be stunned for 1 round. Directing the spell to a new target is a move action.

The clenched fist can also interpose itself as interposing hand does, or it can bull rush an opponent as forceful hand does, but at a +15 bonus on the strength check.

Clerics who cast this spell name it for their deities.

Arcane focus: a leather glove.

CLOAK OF CHAOS

Abjuration [chaotic]

Level: chaos 8, clr 8

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 20 ft.

Targets: one creature/level in a 20-ft.-radius burst centered on you

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

A random pattern of color surrounds the subjects, protecting them from attacks, granting them resistance to spells cast by lawful creatures, and causing lawful creatures that strike the subjects to become confused. This abjuration has four effects.

First, each warded creature gains a +4 deflection bonus to AC and a +4 resistance bonus on saves. Unlike protection from law, the benefit of this spell applies against all attacks, not just against attacks by lawful creatures.

Second, each warded creature gains spell resistance 25 against lawful spells and spells cast by lawful creatures.

Third, the abjuration blocks possession and mental influence, just as protection from law does.

Finally, if a lawful creature succeeds on a melee attack against a warded creature, the offending attacker is confused for 1 round (will save negates, as with the confusion spell, but against the save DC of cloak of chaos).

Focus: a tiny reliquary containing some sacred relic, such as a scrap of parchment from a chaotic text. The reliquary costs at least 500 gp.

CLONE

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M, F

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: one clone

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell makes an inert duplicate of a creature. If the original individual has been slain, its soul immediately transfers to the clone, creating a replacement (provided that the soul is free and willing to return). The original's physical remains, should they still exist, become inert and cannot thereafter be restored to life. If the original creature has reached the end of its natural life span (that is, it has died of natural causes), any cloning attempt fails.

To create the duplicate, you must have a piece of flesh (not hair, nails, scales, or the like) with a volume of at least 1 cubic inch that was taken from the original creature's living body. The piece of flesh need not be fresh, but it must be kept from rotting. Once the spell is cast, the duplicate must be grown in a laboratory for 2d4 months.

When the clone is completed, the original's soul enters it immediately, if that creature is already dead. The clone is physically identical with the original and possesses the same personality and memories as the original. In other respects, treat the clone as if it were the original character raised from the dead, including the loss of one level or 2 points of constitution (if the original was a 1st-level character). If this constitution adjustment would give the clone a constitution score of 0, the spell fails. If the original creature has lost levels since the flesh sample was taken and died at a lower level than the clone would otherwise be, the clone is one level below the level at which the original died.

The spell duplicates only the original's body and mind, not its equipment.

A duplicate can be grown while the original still lives, or when the original soul is unavailable, but the resulting body is merely a soulless bit of inert flesh, which rots if not preserved.

Material component: the piece of flesh and various laboratory supplies (cost 1,000 gp).

Focus: special laboratory equipment (cost 500 gp).

CLOUDKILL

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: cloud spreads in 20-ft. Radius, 20 ft. High

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: fortitude partial; see text

Spell resistance: no

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

This spell generates a bank of fog, similar to a fog cloud, except that its vapors are yellowish green and poisonous. These vapors automatically kill any living creature with 3 or fewer HD (no save). A living creature with 4 to 6 HD is slain unless it succeeds on a fortitude save (in which case it takes 1d4 points of constitution damage on your turn each round while in the cloud).

A living creature with 6 or more HD takes 1d4 points of constitution damage on your turn each round while in the cloud (a successful fortitude save halves this damage). Holding one's breath doesn't help, but creatures immune to poison are unaffected by the spell.

Unlike a fog cloud, the cloudkill moves away from you at 10 feet per round, rolling along the surface of the ground.

Figure out the cloud's new spread each round based on its new point of origin, which is 10 feet farther away from the point of origin where you cast the spell.

Because the vapors are heavier than air, they sink to the lowest level of the land, even pouring down den or sinkhole openings. It cannot penetrate liquids, nor can it be cast underwater.

COLOR SPRAY

Illusion (pattern) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 15 ft.

Area: cone-shaped burst

Duration: instantaneous; see text

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

A vivid cone of clashing colors springs forth from your hand, causing creatures to become stunned, perhaps also blinded, and possibly knocking them unconscious.

Each creature within the cone is affected according to its hit dice.

2 HD or less: the creature is unconscious, blinded, and stunned for 2d4 rounds, then blinded and stunned for 1d4 rounds, and then stunned for 1 round. (Only living creatures are knocked unconscious.)

3 or 4 HD: the creature is blinded and stunned for 1d4 rounds, then stunned for 1 round.

5 or more HD: the creature is stunned for 1 round.

Sightless creatures are not affected by color spray.

Material component: a pinch each of powder or sand that is colored red, yellow, and blue.

COMMAND

Enchantment (compulsion) [language-dependent, mind-affecting]

Level: clr 1

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature

Duration: 1 round

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

You give the subject a single command, which it obeys to the best of its ability at its earliest opportunity. You may select from the following options.

Approach: on its turn, the subject moves toward you as quickly and directly as possible for 1 round. The creature may do nothing but move during its turn, and it provokes attacks of opportunity for this movement as normal.

Drop: on its turn, the subject drops whatever it is holding. It can't pick up any dropped item until its next turn.

Fall: on its turn, the subject falls to the ground and remains prone for 1 round. It may act normally while prone but takes any appropriate penalties.

Flee: on its turn, the subject moves away from you as quickly as possible for 1 round. It may do nothing but move during its turn, and it provokes attacks of opportunity for this movement as normal.

Halt: the subject stands in place for 1 round. It may not take any actions but is not considered helpless.

If the subject can't carry out your command on its next turn, the spell automatically fails.

COMMAND, GREATER

Enchantment (compulsion) [language-dependent, mind-affecting]

Level: clr 5

Targets: one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level

This spell functions like command, except that up to one creature per level may be affected, and the activities continue beyond 1 round. At the start of each commanded creature's action after the first, it gets another will save to attempt to break free from the spell. Each creature must receive the same command.

COMMAND PLANTS

Transmutation

Level: drd 4, plant 4, rgr 3

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: up to 2 HD/level of plant creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

Duration: one day/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This spell allows you some degree of control over one or more plant creatures. Affected plant creatures can understand you, and they perceive your words and actions in the most favorable way (treat their attitude as friendly). They will not attack you while the spell lasts. You can try to give a subject orders, but you must win an opposed charisma check to convince it to do anything it wouldn't ordinarily do. (Retries are not allowed.) A commanded plant never obeys suicidal or obviously harmful orders, but it might be convinced that something very dangerous is worth doing.

You can affect a number of plant creatures whose combined level or HD do not exceed twice your level.

COMMAND UNDEAD

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one undead creature

Duration: one day/level

Saving throw: will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

This spell allows you some degree of control over an undead creature. Assuming the subject is intelligent, it perceives your words and actions in the most favorable way (treat its attitude as friendly). It will not attack you while the spell lasts. You can try to give the subject orders, but you must win an opposed charisma check to convince it to do anything it wouldn't ordinarily do. (Retries are not allowed.) An intelligent commanded undead never obeys suicidal or obviously harmful orders, but it might be convinced that something very dangerous is worth doing.

A nonintelligent undead creature gets no saving throw against this spell. When you control a mindless being, you can communicate only basic commands, such as "come here," "go there," "fight," "stand still," and so on. Nonintelligent undead won't resist suicidal or obviously harmful orders.

Any act by you or your apparent allies that threatens the commanded undead (regardless of its intelligence) breaks the spell.

Your commands are not telepathic. The undead creature must be able to hear you.

Material component: a shred of raw meat and a splinter of bone.

COMMUNE

Divination

Level: clr 5

Components: V, S, M, DF, XP

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 round/level

You contact your deity-or agents thereof-and ask questions that can be answered by a simple yes or no. (A cleric of no particular deity contacts a philosophically allied deity.) You are allowed one such question per caster level. The answers given are correct within the limits of the entity's knowledge. "Unclear" is a legitimate answer, because powerful beings of the outer planes are not necessarily omniscient. In cases where a one-word answer would be misleading or contrary to the deity's interests, a short phrase (five words or less) may be given as an answer instead.

The spell, at best, provides information to aid character decisions. The entities contacted structure their answers to further their own purposes. If you lag, discuss the answers, or go off to do anything else, the spell ends.

Material component: holy (or unholy) water and incense.

XP cost: 100 XP.

COMMUNE WITH NATURE

Divination

Level: animal 5, drd 5, rgr 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: instantaneous

You become one with nature, attaining knowledge of the surrounding territory. You instantly gain knowledge of as many as three facts from among the following subjects: the ground or terrain, plants, minerals, bodies of water, people, general animal population, presence of woodland creatures, presence of powerful unnatural creatures, or even the general state of the natural setting.

In outdoor settings, the spell operates in a radius of 1 mile per caster level. In natural underground settings-caves, caverns, and the like-the radius is limited to 100 feet per caster level. The spell does not function where nature has been replaced by construction or settlement, such as in dungeons and towns.

COMPREHEND LANGUAGES

Divination

Level: brd 1, clr 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 10 min./Level

You can understand the spoken words of creatures or read otherwise incomprehensible written messages. In either case, you must touch the creature or the writing. The ability to read does not necessarily impart insight into the material, merely its literal meaning. The spell enables you to understand or read an unknown language, not speak or write it.

Written material can be read at the rate of one page (250 words) per minute. Magical writing cannot be read, though the spell reveals that it is magical. This spell can be foiled by certain warding magic (such as the secret page and illusory script spells). It does not decipher codes or reveal messages concealed in otherwise normal text.

Comprehend languages can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

Arcane material component: a pinch of soot and a few grains of salt.

CONE OF COLD

Evocation [cold]

Level: sor/wiz 5, water 6

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: cone-shaped burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: reflex half

Spell resistance: yes

Cone of cold creates an area of extreme cold, originating at your hand and extending outward in a cone. It drains heat, dealing 1d6 points of cold damage per caster level (maximum 15d6).

Arcane material component: a very small crystal or glass cone.

CONFUSION

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 4, tricky 4

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: all creatures in a 15-ft. Radius burst

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This spell causes the targets to become confused, making them unable to independently determine what they will do.

Roll on the following table at the beginning of each subject's turn each round to see what the subject does in that round.

d%	Behavior
01–10	Attack caster with melee or ranged weapons (or close with caster if attack is not possible).
11–20	Act normally.
21–50	Do nothing but babble incoherently.
51–70	Flee away from caster at top possible speed.

71–100	Attack nearest creature (for this purpose, a familiar counts as part of the subject’s self).
--------	--

A confused character who can’t carry out the indicated action does nothing but babble incoherently. Attackers are not at any special advantage when attacking a confused character. Any confused character who is attacked automatically attacks its attackers on its next turn, as long as it is still confused when its turn comes. Note that a confused character will not make attacks of opportunity against any creature that it is not already devoted to attacking (either because of its most recent action or because it has just been attacked).

Arcane material component: a set of three nut shells.

CONFUSION, LESSER

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]
Level: brd 1
Components: V, S, DF
Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)
Target: one living creature
Duration: 1 round

This spell causes a single creature to become confused for 1 round. See the confusion spell, above, to determine the exact effect on the subject.

CONSECRATE

Evocation [good]
Level: clr 2
Components: V, S, M, DF
Casting time: 1 standard action
Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)
Area: 20-ft.-Radius emanation
Duration: 2 hours/level
Saving throw: none
Spell resistance: no

This spell blesses an area with positive energy. Each charisma check made to turn undead within this area gains a +3 sacred bonus. Every undead creature entering a consecrated area suffers minor disruption, giving it a -1 penalty on attack rolls, damage rolls, and saves. Undead cannot be created within or summoned into a consecrated area.

If the consecrated area contains an altar, shrine, or other permanent fixture dedicated to your deity, pantheon, or aligned higher power, the modifiers given above are doubled (+6 sacred bonus on turning checks, -2 penalties for undead in the area). You cannot consecrate an area with a similar fixture of a deity other than your own patron.

If the area does contain an altar, shrine, or other permanent fixture of a deity, pantheon, or higher power other than your patron, the consecrate spell instead curses the area, cutting off its connection with the associated deity or power. This secondary function, if used, does not also grant the bonuses and penalties relating to undead, as given above.

Consecrate counters and dispels desecrate.
Material component: a vial of holy water and 25 gp worth (5 pounds) of silver dust, all of which must be sprinkled around the area.

CONTACT OTHER PLANE

Divination
Level: sor/wiz 5
Components: V
Casting time: 10 minutes
Range: personal
Target: you
Duration: concentration

You send your mind to another plane of existence (an elemental plane or some plane farther removed) in order to receive advice and information from powers there. (See the accompanying table for possible consequences and results of the attempt.) The powers reply in a language you understand, but they resent such contact and give only brief answers to your questions. (All questions are answered with “yes,” “no,” “maybe,” “never,” “irrelevant,” or some other one-word answer.)

You must concentrate on maintaining the spell (a standard action) in order to ask questions at the rate of one per round. A question is answered by the power during the same round. For every two caster levels, you may ask one question.

Contact with minds far removed from your home plane increases the probability that you will incur a decrease to intelligence and charisma, but the chance of the power knowing the answer, as well as the probability of the entity answering correctly, are likewise increased by moving to distant planes.

Once the outer planes are reached, the power of the deity contacted determines the effects. (Random results obtained from the table are subject to the personalities of individual deities.)

On rare occasions, this divination may be blocked by an act of certain deities or forces.

Plane Contacted	Avoid Int/Cha Decrease	True Answer	Don't Know	Lie	Random Answer
Elemental Plane	DC 7/1 week	01–34	35–62	63–83	84–100
(appropriate)	(DC 7/1 week)	(01–68)	(69–75)	(76–98)	(99–100)
Positive/Negative Energy Plane	DC 8/1 week	01–39	40–65	66–86	87–100
Astral Plane	DC 9/1 week	01–44	45–67	68–88	89–100
Outer Plane, demideity	DC 10/2 weeks	01–49	50–70	71–91	92–100
Outer Plane, lesser deity	DC 12/3 weeks	01–60	61–75	76–95	96–100
Outer Plane, intermediate deity	DC 14/4 weeks	01–73	74–81	82–98	99–100
Outer Plane, greater deity	DC 16/5 weeks	01–88	89–90	91–99	100

Avoid int/cha decrease: you must succeed on an intelligence check against this DC to avoid a decrease in intelligence and charisma. If the check fails, your intelligence and charisma scores each fall to 8 for the stated duration, and you become unable to cast arcane spells. If you lose intelligence and charisma, the effect strikes as soon as the first question is asked, and no answer is received. (The entries in parentheses are for questions that pertain to the appropriate elemental plane.)

Results of a successful contact: d% is rolled for the result shown on the table:

True answer: you get a true, one-word answer. Questions that cannot be answered in this way are answered randomly.

Don't know: the entity tells you that it doesn't know.

Lie: the entity intentionally lies to you.

Random answer: the entity tries to lie but doesn't know the answer, so it makes one up.

CONTAGION

Necromancy [evil]
Level: clr 3, destruction 3, drd 3, sor/wiz 4
Components: V, S
Casting time: 1 standard action
Range: touch
Target: living creature touched
Duration: instantaneous
Saving throw: fortitude negates
Spell resistance: yes

The subject contracts a disease selected from the table below, which strikes immediately (no incubation period). The DC noted is for the subsequent saves (use contagion's normal save DC for the initial saving throw).

Disease	DC	Damage
Blinding sickness	16	1d4 Str ¹
CACkle fever	16	1d6 Wis
Filth fever	12	1d3 Dex and 1d3 Con
MinDFire	12	1d4 Int
Red AChe	15	1d6 Str
Shakes	13	1d8 Dex
Slimy doom	14	1d4 Con

¹ Each time a victim takes 2 or more points of Strength damage from blinding sickness, he or she must make another Fortitude save (using the disease's save DC) or be permanently blinded.

CONTINGENCY

Evocation
Level: sor/wiz 6
Components: V, S, M, F
Casting time: at least 10 minutes; see text
Range: personal
Target: you
Duration: one day/level (d) or until discharged
You can place another spell upon your person so that it comes into effect under some condition you dictate when casting contingency. The contingency spell and the companion spell are cast at the same time. The 10-minute casting time is the minimum total for both castings; if the companion spell has a casting time longer than 10 minutes, use that instead.
The spell to be brought into effect by the contingency must be one that affects your person and be of a spell level no higher than one-third your caster level (rounded down, maximum 6th level).
The conditions needed to bring the spell into effect must be clear, although they can be general. In all cases, the contingency immediately brings into effect the companion spell, the latter being "cast" instantaneously when the prescribed circumstances occur. If complicated or convoluted conditions are prescribed, the whole spell combination (contingency and the companion magic) may fail when called on. The companion spell occurs based solely on the stated conditions, regardless of whether you want it to.
You can use only one contingency spell at a time; if a second is cast, the first one (if still active) is dispelled.
Material component: that of the companion spell, plus quicksilver and an eyelash of an ogre mage, rakshasa, or similar spell-using creature.
Focus: a statuette of you carved from elephant ivory and decorated with gems (worth at least 1,500 gp). You must carry the focus for the contingency to work.

CONTINUAL FLAME

Evocation [light]
Level: clr 3, sor/wiz 2
Components: V, S, M
Casting time: 1 standard action
Range: touch
Target: object touched
Effect: magical, heatless flame
Duration: permanent
Saving throw: none
Spell resistance: no
A flame, equivalent in brightness to a torch, springs forth from an object that you touch. The effect looks like a regular flame, but it creates no heat and doesn't use oxygen. A continual flame can be covered and hidden but not smothered or quenched.
Light spells counter and dispel darkness spells of an equal or lower level.
Material component: you sprinkle ruby dust (worth 50 gp) on the item that is to carry the flame.

CONTROL PLANTS

Transmutation
Level: drd 8, plant 8
Components: V, S, DF
Casting time: 1 standard action
Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)
Targets: up to 2 HD/level of plant creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart
Duration: 1 min./Level
Saving throw: will negates
Spell resistance: no
This spell enables you to control the actions of one or more plant creatures for a short period of time. You command the creatures by voice and they understand you, no matter what language you speak. Even if vocal communication is impossible the controlled plants do not attack you. At the end of the spell, the subjects revert to their normal behavior.
Suicidal or self-destructive commands are simply ignored.

CONTROL UNDEAD

Necromancy
Level: sor/wiz 7
Components: V, S, M
Casting time: 1 standard action
Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)
Targets: up to 2 HD/level of undead creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart
Duration: 1 min./Level
Saving throw: will negates
Spell resistance: yes
This spell enables you to command undead creatures for a short period of time. You command them by voice and they understand you, no matter what language you speak. Even if vocal communication is impossible the controlled undead do not attack you. At the end of the spell, the subjects revert to their normal behavior.
Intelligent undead creatures remember that you controlled them.
Material component: a small piece of bone and a small piece of raw meat.

CONTROL WATER

Transmutation [water]

Level: clr 4, drd 4, sor/wiz 6, water 4

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: water in a volume of 10 ft./Level by 10 ft./Level by 2 ft./Level (s)

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none; see text

Spell resistance: no

Depending on the version you choose, the control water spell raises or lowers water.

Lower water: this causes water or similar liquid to reduce its depth by as much as 2 feet per caster level (to a minimum depth of 1 inch). The water is lowered within a squarish depression whose sides are up to caster level x 10 feet long. In extremely large and deep bodies of water, such as a deep ocean, the spell creates a whirlpool that sweeps ships and similar craft downward, putting them at risk and rendering them unable to leave by normal movement for the duration of the spell. When cast on water elementals and other water-based creatures, this spell acts as a slow spell (will negates). The spell has no effect on other creatures.

Raise water: this causes water or similar liquid to rise in height, just as the lower water version causes it to lower. Boats raised in this way slide down the sides of the hump that the spell creates. If the area affected by the spell includes riverbanks, a beach, or other land nearby, the water can spill over onto dry land.

With either version, you may reduce one horizontal dimension by half and double the other horizontal dimension.

Arcane material component: a drop of water (for raise water) or a pinch of dust (for lower water).

CONTROL WEATHER

Transmutation

Level: air 7, clr 7, drd 7, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes; see text

Range: 2 miles

Area: 2-mile-radius circle, centered on you; see text

Duration: 4d12 hours; see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You change the weather in the local area. It takes 10 minutes to cast the spell and an additional 10 minutes for the effects to manifest. You can call forth weather appropriate to the climate and season of the area you are in.

Season	Possible Weather
Spring	Tornado, thunderstorm, sleet storm, or hot weather
Summer	Torrential rain, heat wave, or hailstorm
Autumn	Hot or cold weather, fog, or sleet
Winter	Frigid cold, blizzard, or thaw
Late winter	Hurricane-force winds or early spring (coastal area)

You control the general tendencies of the weather, such as the direction and intensity of the wind. You cannot control specific applications of the weather—where lightning strikes, for example, or the exact path of a tornado. When you select a certain weather condition to occur, the weather assumes that condition 10 minutes later (changing gradually, not abruptly). The weather continues as you left it for the duration, or until you use a standard action to designate a new kind of weather (which fully manifests itself 10 minutes later). Contradictory conditions are not possible simultaneously.

Control weather can do away with atmospheric phenomena (naturally occurring or otherwise) as well as create them.

A druid casting this spell doubles the duration and affects a circle with a 3-mile radius.

CONTROL WINDS

Transmutation [air]

Level: air 5, drd 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 40 ft./Level

Area: 40 ft./Level radius cylinder 40 ft. High

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: no

You alter wind force in the area surrounding you. You can make the wind blow in a certain direction or manner, increase its strength, or decrease its strength. The new wind direction and strength persist until the spell ends or until you choose to alter your handiwork, which requires concentration. You may create an “eye” of calm air up to 80 feet in diameter at the center of the area if you so desire, and you may choose to limit the area to any cylindrical area less than your full limit.

Wind direction: you may choose one of four basic wind patterns to function over the spell’s area.

- A downdraft blows from the center outward in equal strength in all directions.
- An updraft blows from the outer edges in toward the center in equal strength from all directions, veering upward before impinging on the eye in the center.
- A rotation causes the winds to circle the center in clockwise or counterclockwise fashion.
- A blast simply causes the winds to blow in one direction across the entire area from one side to the other.

Wind strength: for every three caster levels, you can increase or decrease wind strength by one level. Each round on your turn, a creature in the wind must make a fortitude save or suffer the effect of being in the windy area.

Strong winds (21+ mph) make sailing difficult.

A severe wind (31+ mph) causes minor ship and building damage.

A windstorm (51+ mph) drives most flying creatures from the skies, uproots small trees, knocks down light wooden structures, tears off roofs, and endangers ships.

Hurricane force winds (75+ mph) destroy wooden buildings, sometimes uproot even large trees, and cause most ships to founder.

A tornado (175+ mph) destroys all nonfortified buildings and often uproots large trees.

CREATE FOOD AND WATER

Conjuration (creation)

Level: clr 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: food and water to sustain three humans or one horse/level for 24 hours

Duration: 24 hours; see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The food that this spell creates is simple fare of your choice—highly nourishing, if rather bland. Food so created decays and becomes inedible within 24 hours, although it can be kept fresh for another 24 hours by casting a purify food and water spell on it. The water created by this spell is just like clean rain water, and it doesn't go bad as the food does.

CREATE GREATER UNDEAD

Necromancy [evil]

Level: clr 8, death 8, sor/wiz 8

This spell functions like create undead, except that you can create more powerful and intelligent sorts of undead: shadows, wraiths, spectres, and devourers. The type or types of undead you can create is based on your caster level, as shown on the table below.

Caster Level	Undead Created
15th or lower	Shadow
16th–17th	Wraith
18th–19th	Spectre
20th or higher	Devourer

CREATE UNDEAD

Necromancy [evil]

Level: clr 6, death 6, evil 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 hour

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one corpse

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

A much more potent spell than animate dead, this evil spell allows you to create more powerful sorts of undead: ghouls, ghouls, mummies, and mohrgs. The type or types of undead you can create is based on your caster level, as shown on the table below.

Caster Level	Undead Created
11th or lower	Ghoul
12th–14th	Ghast
15th–17th	Mummy
18th or higher	Mohrg

You may create less powerful undead than your level would allow if you choose. Created undead are not automatically under the control of their animator. If you are capable of commanding undead, you may attempt to command the undead creature as it forms.

This spell must be cast at night.

Material component: a clay pot filled with grave dirt and another filled with brackish water. The spell must be cast on a dead body. You must place a black onyx gem worth at least 50 gp per HD of the undead to be created into the mouth or eye socket of each corpse. The magic of the spell turns these gems into worthless shells.

CREATE WATER

Conjuration (creation) [water]

Level: clr 0, drd 0, pal 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: up to 2 gallons of water/level

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell generates wholesome, drinkable water, just like clean rain water. Water can be created in an area as small as will actually contain the liquid, or in an area three times as large—possibly creating a downpour or filling many small receptacles.

Note: conjuration spells can't create substances or objects within a creature. Water weighs about 8 pounds per gallon. One cubic foot of water contains roughly 8 gallons and weighs about 60 pounds.

CREEPING DOOM

Conjuration (summoning)

Level: drd 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)/ 100 ft.; See text

Effect: one swarm of centipedes per two levels

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

When you utter the spell of creeping doom, you call forth a mass of centipede swarms (one per two caster levels, to a maximum of ten swarms at 20th level), which need not appear adjacent to one another.

You may summon the centipede swarms so that they share the area of other creatures. The swarms remain stationary, attacking any creatures in their area, unless you command the creeping doom to move (a standard action). As a standard action, you can command any number of the swarms to move toward any prey within 100 feet of you. You cannot command any swarm to move more than 100 feet away from you, and if you move more than 100 feet from any swarm, that swarm remains stationary, attacking any creatures in its area (but it can be commanded again if you move within 100 feet).

CRUSHING DESPAIR

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 30 ft.

Area: cone-shaped burst

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

An invisible cone of despair causes great sadness in the subjects. Each affected creature takes a -2 penalty on attack rolls, saving throws, ability checks, skill checks, and weapon damage rolls.

Crushing despair counters and dispels good hope.

Material component: a vial of tears.

CRUSHING HAND

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 9, strength 9

Components: V, S, M, F/DF

This spell functions like interposing hand, except that the hand can interpose itself, push, or crush one opponent that you select.

The crushing hand can grapple an opponent like grasping hand does. Its grapple bonus equals your caster level + your intelligence, wisdom, or charisma modifier (for a wizard, cleric, or sorcerer, respectively), +12 for the hand's strength score (35), +4 for being large. The hand deals 2d6+12 points of damage (lethal, not nonlethal) on each successful grapple check against an opponent.

The crushing hand can also interpose itself as interposing hand

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

does, or it can bull rush an opponent as forceful hand does, but at a +18 bonus.

Directing the spell to a new target is a move action.

Clerics who cast this spell name it for their deities.

Arcane material component: the shell of an egg.

Arcane focus: a glove of snakeskin.

CURE CRITICAL WOUNDS

Conjuration (healing)

Level: brd 4, clr 4, drd 5, healing 4

This spell functions like cure light wounds, except that it cures 4d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +20).

CURE CRITICAL WOUNDS, MASS

Conjuration (healing)

Level: clr 8, drd 9, healing 8

This spell functions like mass cure light wounds, except that it cures 4d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +40).

CURE LIGHT WOUNDS

Conjuration (healing)

Level: brd 1, clr 1, drd 1, healing 1, pal 1, rgr 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will half (harmless); see text

Spell resistance: yes (harmless); see text

When laying your hand upon a living creature, you channel positive energy that cures 1d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +5).

Since undead are powered by negative energy, this spell deals damage to them instead of curing their wounds. An undead creature can apply spell resistance, and can attempt a will save to take half damage.

CURE LIGHT WOUNDS, MASS

Conjuration (healing)

Level: brd 5, clr 5, drd 6, healing 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will half (harmless) or will half; see text

Spell resistance: yes (harmless) or yes; see text

You channel positive energy to cure 1d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +25) in each selected creature.

Like other cure spells, mass cure light wounds deals damage to undead in its area rather than curing them. Each affected undead may attempt a will save for half damage.

CURE MINOR WOUNDS

Conjuration (healing)

Level: clr 0, drd 0

This spell functions like cure light wounds, except that it cures only 1 point of damage.

CURE MODERATE WOUNDS

Conjuration (healing)

Level: brd 3, clr 3, drd 4, pal 4, rgr 4, healing 3

This spell functions like cure light wounds, except that it cures 3d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +15).

CURE SERIOUS WOUNDS, MASS

Conjuration (healing)

Level: clr 7, drd 8

This spell functions like mass cure light wounds, except that it cures 3d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +35).

CURSE WATER

Necromancy [evil]

Level: clr 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 minute

Range: touch

Target: flask of water touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

This spell imbues a flask (1 pint) of water with negative energy, turning it into unholy water. Unholy water damages good outsiders the way holy water damages undead and evil outsiders.

DANCING LIGHTS

Evocation [light]

Level: brd 0, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: up to four lights, all within a 10- ft.-radius area

Duration: 1 minute (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Depending on the version selected, you create up to four lights that resemble lanterns or torches (and cast that amount of light), or up to four glowing spheres of light (which look like will-o'-wisps), or one faintly glowing, vaguely humanoid shape. The dancing lights must stay within a 10-foot-radius area in relation to each other but otherwise move as you desire (no concentration required): forward or back, up or down, straight or turning corners, or the like. The lights can move up to 100 feet per round. A light winks out if the distance between you and it exceeds the spell's range.

Dancing lights can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

DARKNESS

Evocation [darkness]

Level: brd 2, clr 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: object touched

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell causes an object to radiate shadowy illumination out to a 20-foot radius. All creatures in the area gain concealment (20% miss chance). Even creatures that can normally see in such conditions (such as with darkvision or low-light vision) have the miss chance in an area shrouded in magical darkness.

Normal lights (torches, candles, lanterns, and so forth) are incapable of brightening the area, as are light spells of lower level. Higher level light spells are not affected by darkness.

If darkness is cast on a small object that is then placed inside or under a lightproof covering, the spell's effect is blocked until the covering is removed.

Darkness counters or dispels any light spell of equal or lower spell level.

Arcane material component: a bit of bat fur and either a drop of pitch or a piece of coal.

DARKVISION

Transmutation

Level: rgr 3, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject gains the ability to see 60 feet even in total darkness. Darkvision is black and white only but otherwise like normal sight. Darkvision does not grant one the ability to see in magical darkness.

Darkvision can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

Material component: either a pinch of dried carrot or an agate.

DAYLIGHT

Evocation [light]

Level: brd 3, clr 3, drd 3, pal 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: object touched

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The object touched sheds light as bright as full daylight in a 60-foot radius, and dim light for an additional 60 feet beyond that. Creatures that take penalties in bright light also take them while within the radius of this magical light. Despite its name, this spell is not the equivalent of daylight for the purposes of creatures that are damaged or destroyed by bright light.

If daylight is cast on a small object that is then placed inside or under a light-proof covering, the spell's effects are blocked until the covering is removed.

Daylight brought into an area of magical darkness (or vice versa) is temporarily negated, so that the otherwise prevailing light conditions exist in the overlapping areas of effect.

Daylight counters or dispels any darkness spell of equal or lower level, such as darkness.

DAZE

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 0, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one humanoid creature of 4 HD or less

Duration: 1 round

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This enchantment clouds the mind of a humanoid creature with 4 or fewer hit dice so that it takes no actions. Humanoids of 5 or more

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

HD are not affected. A dazed subject is not stunned, so attackers get no special advantage against it.

Material component: a pinch of wool or similar substance.

DAZE MONSTER

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one living creature of 6 HD or less

This spell functions like daze, but daze monster can affect any one living creature of any type. Creatures of 7 or more HD are not affected.

DEATH KNELL

Necromancy [death, evil]

Level: clr 2, death 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: instantaneous/10 minutes per HD of subject; see text

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

You draw forth the ebbing life force of a creature and use it to fuel your own power. Upon casting this spell, you touch a living creature that has -1 or fewer hit points. If the subject fails its saving throw, it dies, and you gain 1d8 temporary hit points and a +2 bonus to strength. Additionally, your effective caster level goes up by +1, improving spell effects dependent on caster level. (This increase in effective caster level does not grant you access to more spells.) These effects last for 10 minutes per HD of the subject creature.

DEATH WARD

Necromancy

Level: clr 4, death 4, drd 5, pal 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject is immune to all death spells, magical death effects, energy drain, and any negative energy effects.

This spell doesn't remove negative levels that the subject has already gained, nor does it affect the saving throw necessary 24 hours after gaining a negative level.

Death ward does not protect against other sorts of attacks even if those attacks might be lethal.

DEATHWATCH

Necromancy [evil]

Level: clr 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 30 ft.

Area: cone-shaped emanation

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Using the foul sight granted by the powers of unlife, you can determine the condition of creatures near death within the spell's range.

You instantly know whether each creature within the area is dead, fragile (alive and wounded, with 3 or fewer hit points left), fighting off death (alive with 4 or more hit points), undead, or neither alive nor dead (such as a construct).

Deathwatch sees through any spell or ability that allows creatures to feign death.

DEEP SLUMBER

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

This spell functions like sleep, except that it affects 10 HD of creatures.

DEEPER DARKNESS

Evocation [darkness]

Level: clr 3

Duration: one day/level (d)

This spell functions like darkness, except that the object radiates shadowy illumination in a 60-foot radius and the darkness lasts longer.

Daylight brought into an area of deeper darkness (or vice versa) is temporarily negated, so that the otherwise prevailing light conditions exist in the overlapping areas of effect.

Deeper darkness counters and dispels any light spell of equal or lower level, including daylight and light.

DELAY POISON

Conjuration (healing)

Level: brd 2, clr 2, drd 2, pal 2, rgr 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: fortitude negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject becomes temporarily immune to poison. Any poison in its system or any poison to which it is exposed during the spell's duration does not affect the subject until the spell's duration has expired. Delay poison does not cure any damage that poison may have already done.

DELAYED BLAST FIREBALL

Evocation [fire]

Level: sor/wiz 7

Duration: 5 rounds or less; see text

This spell functions like fireball, except that it is more powerful and can detonate up to 5 rounds after the spell is cast. The burst of flame deals 1d6 points of fire damage per caster level (maximum 20d6).

The glowing bead created by delayed blast fireball can detonate immediately if you desire, or you can choose to delay the burst for as many as 5 rounds. You select the amount of delay upon completing the spell, and that time cannot change once it has been set unless someone touches the bead (see below). If you choose a delay, the glowing bead sits at its destination until it detonates. A creature can pick up and hurl the bead as a thrown weapon (range increment 10 feet). If a creature handles and moves the bead within 1 round of its detonation, there is a 25% chance that the bead detonates while being handled.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

DEMAND

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 8

Saving throw: will partial

Spell resistance: yes

This spell functions like sending, but the message can also contain a suggestion (see the suggestion spell), which the subject does its best to carry out. A successful will save negates the suggestion effect but not the contact itself. The demand, if received, is understood even if the subject's intelligence score is as low as 1. If the message is impossible or meaningless according to the circumstances that exist for the subject at the time the demand is issued, the message is understood but the suggestion is ineffective.

The demand's message to the creature must be twenty-five words or less, including the suggestion. The creature can also give a short reply immediately.

Material component: a short piece of copper wire and some small part of the subject—a hair, a bit of nail, or the like.

DESECRATE

Evocation [evil]

Level: clr 2, evil 2

Components: V, S, M, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: 20-ft.-Radius emanation

Duration: 2 hours/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

This spell imbues an area with negative energy. Each charisma check made to turn undead within this area takes a -3 profane penalty, and every undead creature entering a desecrated area gains a +1 profane bonus on attack rolls, damage rolls, and saving throws. An undead creature created within or summoned into such an area gains +1 hit points per HD.

If the desecrated area contains an altar, shrine, or other permanent fixture dedicated to your deity or aligned higher power, the modifiers given above are doubled (-6 profane penalty on turning checks, +2 profane bonus and +2 hit points per HD for undead in the area).

Furthermore, anyone who casts animate dead within this area may create as many as double the normal amount of undead (that is, 4 HD per caster level rather than 2 HD per caster level).

If the area contains an altar, shrine, or other permanent fixture of a deity, pantheon, or higher power other than your patron, the desecrate spell instead curses the area, cutting off its connection with the associated deity or power. This secondary function, if used, does not also grant the bonuses and penalties relating to undead, as given above.

Desecrate counters and dispels consecrate.

Material component: a vial of unholy water and 25 gp worth (5 pounds) of silver dust, all of which must be sprinkled around the area.

DESTRUCTION

Necromancy [death]

Level: clr 7, death 7

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude partial

Spell resistance: yes

This spell instantly slays the subject and consumes its remains (but not its equipment and possessions) utterly. If the target's fortitude saving throw succeeds, it instead takes 10d6 points of damage. The only way to restore life to a character who has failed to save against this spell is to use true resurrection, a carefully worded wish spell followed by resurrection, or miracle.

Focus: a special holy (or unholy) symbol of silver marked with verses of anathema (cost 500 gp).

DETECT ANIMALS OR PLANTS

Divination

Level: drd 1, rgr 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: cone-shaped emanation

Duration: concentration, up to 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You can detect a particular kind of animal or plant in a cone emanating out from you in whatever direction you face. You must think of a kind of animal or plant when using the spell, but you can change the animal or plant kind each round. The amount of information revealed depends on how long you search a particular area or focus on a specific kind of animal or plant.

1st round: presence or absence of that kind of animal or plant in the area.

2nd round: number of individuals of the specified kind in the area, and the condition of the healthiest specimen.

3rd round: the condition (see below) and location of each individual present. If an animal or plant is outside your line of sight, then you discern its direction but not its exact location.

Conditions: for purposes of this spell, the categories of condition are as follows:

Normal: has at least 90% of full normal hit points, free of disease.

Fair: 30% to 90% of full normal hit points remaining.

Poor: less than 30% of full normal hit points remaining, afflicted with a disease, or suffering from a debilitating injury.

Weak: 0 or fewer hit points remaining, afflicted with a disease in the terminal stage, or crippled.

If a creature falls into more than one category, the spell indicates the weaker of the two.

Each round you can turn to detect a kind of animal or plant in a new area. The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

DETECT CHAOS

Divination

Level: clr 1

This spell functions like detect evil, except that it detects the auras of chaotic creatures, clerics of chaotic deities, chaotic spells, and chaotic magic items, and you are vulnerable to an overwhelming chaotic aura if you are lawful.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

DETECT EVIL

Divination

Level: clr 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: cone-shaped emanation

Duration: concentration, up to 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You can sense the presence of evil. The amount of information revealed depends on how long you study a particular area or subject.

1st round: presence or absence of evil.

2nd round: number of evil auras (creatures, objects, or spells) in the area and the power of the most potent evil aura present.

If you are of good alignment, and the strongest evil aura's power is overwhelming (see below), and the HD or level of the aura's source is at least twice your character level, you are stunned for 1 round and the spell ends.

3rd round: the power and location of each aura. If an aura is outside your line of sight, then you discern its direction but not its exact location.

Aura power: an evil aura's power depends on the type of evil creature or object that you're detecting and its HD, caster level, or (in the case of a cleric) class level; see the accompanying table. If an aura falls into more than one strength category, the spell indicates the stronger of the two.

Creature/Object	Aura Power
	Faint	Moderate	Strong	Overwhelming
Evil creature ¹ (HD)	10 or lower	11–25	26–50	51 or higher
Undead (HD)	2 or lower	3–8	9–20	21 or higher
Evil outsider (HD)	1 or lower	2–4	5–10	11 or higher
Cleric of an evil deity ² (class levels)	1	2–4	5–10	11 or higher
Evil magic item or spell (caster level)	2nd or lower	3rd–8th	9th–20th	21st or higher

1 Except for undead and outsiders, which have their own entries on the table.

2 Some characters who are not clerics may radiate an aura of equivalent power. The class description will indicate whether this applies.

Lingering aura: an evil aura lingers after its original source dissipates (in the case of a spell) or is destroyed (in the case of a creature or magic item). If detect evil is cast and directed at such a location, the spell indicates an aura strength of dim (even weaker than a faint aura). How long the aura lingers at this dim level depends on its original power:

Original Strength	Duration of Lingering Aura
Faint	1d6 rounds
Moderate	1d6 minutes
Strong	1d6x10 minutes
Overwhelming	1d6 days

Animals, traps, poisons, and other potential perils are not evil, and as such this spell does not detect them.

Each round, you can turn to detect evil in a new area. The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

DETECT GOOD

Divination

Level: clr 1

This spell functions like detect evil, except that it detects the auras of good creatures, clerics or paladins of good deities, good spells, and good magic items, and you are vulnerable to an overwhelming good aura if you are evil. Healing potions, antidotes, and similar beneficial items are not good.

DETECT LAW

Divination

Level: clr 1

This spell functions like detect evil, except that it detects the auras of lawful creatures, clerics of lawful deities, lawful spells, and lawful magic items, and you are vulnerable to an overwhelming lawful aura if you are chaotic.

DETECT MAGIC

Divination

Level: brd 0, clr 0, drd 0, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: cone-shaped emanation

Duration: concentration, up to 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You detect magical auras. The amount of information revealed depends on how long you study a particular area or subject.

1st round: presence or absence of magical auras.

2nd round: number of different magical auras and the power of the most potent aura.

3rd round: the strength and location of each aura. If the items or creatures bearing the auras are in line of sight, you can make spellcraft skill checks to determine the school of magic involved in each. (Make one check per aura; DC 15 + spell level, or 15 + half caster level for a nonspell effect.)

Magical areas, multiple types of magic, or strong local magical emanations may distort or conceal weaker auras.

Aura strength: an aura's power depends on a spell's functioning spell level or an item's caster level. If an aura falls into more than one category, detect magic indicates the stronger of the two.

Spell or Object	Aura Power
	Faint	Moderate	Strong	Overwhelming
Functioning spell (spell level)	3rd or lower	4th–6th	7th–9th	10th+ (deity-level)
Magic item (caster level)	5th or lower	6th–11th	12th–20th	21st+ (artifact)

Lingering aura: a magical aura lingers after its original source dissipates (in the case of a spell) or is destroyed (in the case of a magic item). If detect magic is cast and directed at such a location, the spell indicates an aura strength of dim (even weaker than a faint aura). How long the aura lingers at this dim level depends on its original power:

Original Strength	Duration of Lingering Aura
Faint	1d6 rounds
Moderate	1d6 minutes
Strong	1d6x10 minutes
Overwhelming	1d6 days

Outsiders and elementals are not magical in themselves, but if they are summoned, the conjuration spell registers.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Each round, you can turn to detect magic in a new area. The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

Detect magic can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

DETECT POISON

Divination

Level: clr 0, drd 0, pal 1, rgr 1, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target or area: one creature, one object, or a 5-ft. cube

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You determine whether a creature, object, or area has been poisoned or is poisonous. You can determine the exact type of poison with a DC 20 wisdom check. A character with the craft (alchemy) skill may try a DC 20 craft (alchemy) check if the wisdom check fails, or may try the craft (alchemy) check prior to the wisdom check.

The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

DETECT SCRYING

Divination

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 40 ft.

Area: 40-ft.-Radius emanation centered on you

Duration: 24 hours

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You immediately become aware of any attempt to observe you by means of a divination (scrying) spell or effect. The spell's area radiates from you and moves as you move. You know the location of every magical sensor within the spell's area.

If the scrying attempt originates within the area, you also know its location; otherwise, you and the scrier immediately make opposed caster level checks (1d20 + caster level). If you at least match the scrier's result, you get a visual image of the scrier and an ACcurate sense of his or her direction and distance from you.

Material component: a small piece of mirror and a miniature brass hearing trumpet.

DETECT SECRET DOORS

Divination

Level: brd 1, knowledge 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: cone-shaped emanation

Duration: concentration, up to 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You can detect secret doors, compartments, caches, and so forth. Only passages, doors, or openings that have been specifically constructed to escape detection are detected by this spell. The amount of information revealed depends on how long you study a particular area or subject.

1st round: presence or absence of secret doors.

2nd round: number of secret doors and the location of each. If an aura is outside your line of sight, then you discern its direction but not its exact location.

Each additional round: the mechanism or trigger for one particular secret portal closely examined by you. Each round, you can turn to detect secret doors in a new area. The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

DETECT SNARES AND PITS

Divination

Level: drd 1, rgr 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: cone-shaped emanation

Duration: concentration, up to 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You can detect simple pits, deadfalls, and snares as well as mechanical traps constructed of natural materials. The spell does not detect complex traps, including trapdoor traps.

Detect snares and pits does detect certain natural hazards—quicksand (a snare), a sinkhole (a pit), or unsafe walls of natural rock (a deadfall). However, it does not reveal other potentially dangerous conditions. The spell does not detect magic traps (except those that operate by pit, deadfall, or snaring; see the spell snare), nor mechanically complex ones, nor those that have been rendered safe or inactive.

The amount of information revealed depends on how long you study a particular area.

1st round: presence or absence of hazards.

2nd round: number of hazards and the location of each. If a hazard is outside your line of sight, then you discern its direction but not its exact location.

Each additional round: the general type and trigger for one particular hazard closely examined by you.

Each round, you can turn to detect snares and pits in a new area. The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

DETECT THOUGHTS

Divination [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 2, knowledge 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: cone-shaped emanation

Duration: concentration, up to 1 min./level (d)

Saving throw: will negates; see text

Spell resistance: no

You detect surface thoughts. The amount of information revealed depends on how long you study a particular area or subject.

1st round: presence or absence of thoughts (from conscious creatures with intelligence scores of 1 or higher).

2nd round: number of thinking minds and the intelligence score of each. If the highest intelligence is 26 or higher (and at least 10 points higher than your own intelligence score), you are stunned for 1 round and the spell ends. This spell does not let you determine the location of the thinking minds if you can't see the creatures whose thoughts you are detecting.

3rd round: surface thoughts of any mind in the area. A target's will save prevents you from reading its thoughts, and you must cast detect thoughts again to have another chance. Creatures of animal intelligence (int 1 or 2) have simple, instinctual thoughts that you can pick up.

Each round, you can turn to detect thoughts in a new area. The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

Arcane focus: a copper piece.

DETECT UNDEAD

Divination

Level: clr 1, pal 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: cone-shaped emanation

Duration: concentration, up to 1 minute/ level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You can detect the aura that surrounds undead creatures. The amount of information revealed depends on how long you study a particular area.

1st round: presence or absence of undead auras.

2nd round: number of undead auras in the area and the strength of the strongest undead aura present. If you are of good alignment, and the strongest undead aura's strength is overwhelming (see below), and the creature has HD of at least twice your character level, you are stunned for 1 round and the spell ends.

3rd round: the strength and location of each undead aura. If an aura is outside your line of sight, then you discern its direction but not its exact location.

Aura strength: the strength of an undead aura is determined by the HD of the undead creature, as given on the following table:

HD	Strength
1 or lower	Faint
2–4	Moderate
5–10	Strong
11 or higher	Overwhelming

Lingering aura: an undead aura lingers after its original source is destroyed. If detect undead is cast and directed at such a location, the spell indicates an aura strength of dim (even weaker than a faint aura). How long the aura lingers at this dim level depends on its original power:

Original Strength	Duration of Lingering Aura
Faint	1d6 rounds
Moderate	1d6 minutes
Strong	1d6x10 minutes
Overwhelming	1d6 days

Each round, you can turn to detect undead in a new area. The spell can penetrate barriers, but 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, a thin sheet of lead, or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks it.

Arcane material component: a bit of earth from a grave.

DICTUM

Evocation [lawful, sonic]

Level: clr 7, law 7

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 40 ft.

Area: nonlawful creatures in a 40-ft.-radius spread centered on you

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none or will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

Any nonlawful creature within the area of a dictum spell suffers the following ill effects.

HD	Effect
Equal to caster level	Deafened
Up to caster level –1	Slowed , deafened
Up to caster level –5	Paralyzed, slowed , deafened
Up to caster level –10	Killed, paralyzed, slowed , deafened

The effects are cumulative and concurrent. No saving throw is allowed against these effects.

Deafened: the creature is deafened for 1d4 rounds.

Slowed: the creature is slowed, as by the slow spell, for 2d4 rounds.

Paralyzed: the creature is paralyzed and helpless for 1d10 minutes.

Killed: living creatures die. Undead creatures are destroyed.

Furthermore, if you are on your home plane when you cast this spell, nonlawful extraplanar creatures within the area are instantly banished back to their home planes. Creatures so banished cannot return for at least 24 hours. This effect takes place regardless of whether the creatures hear the dictum. The banishment effect allows a will save (at a –4 penalty) to negate.

Creatures whose HD exceed your caster level are unaffected by dictum.

DIMENSION DOOR

Conjuration (teleportation)

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4, travel 4

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Target: you and touched objects or other touched willing creatures

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none and will negates (object)

Spell resistance: no and yes (object)

You instantly transfer yourself from your current location to any other spot within range. You always arrive at exactly the spot desired—whether by simply visualizing the area or by stating direction. After using this spell, you can't take any other actions until your next turn. You can bring along objects as long as their weight doesn't exceed your maximum load. You may also bring one additional willing medium or smaller creature (carrying gear or objects up to its maximum load) or its equivalent per three caster levels. A large creature counts as two medium creatures, a huge creature counts as two large creatures, and so forth. All creatures to be transported must be in contact with one another, and at least one of those creatures must be in contact with you.

If you arrive in a place that is already occupied by a solid body, you and each creature traveling with you take 1d6 points of damage and are shunted to a random open space on a suitable surface within 100 feet of the intended location.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

If there is no free space within 100 feet, you and each creature traveling with you take an additional 2d6 points of damage and are shunted to a free space within 1,000 feet. If there is no free space within 1,000 feet, you and each creature travelling with you take an additional 4d6 points of damage and the spell simply fails.

DIMENSIONAL ANCHOR

Abjuration

Level: clr 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: ray

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes (object)

A green ray springs from your outstretched hand. You must make a ranged touch attack to hit the target. Any creature or object struck by the ray is covered with a shimmering emerald field that completely blocks extradimensional travel. Forms of movement barred by a dimensional anchor include astral projection, blink, dimension door, ethereal jaunt, etherealness, gate, maze, plane shift, shadow walk, teleport, and similar spell-like or psionic abilities. The spell also prevents the use of a gate or teleportation circle for the duration of the spell.

A dimensional anchor does not interfere with the movement of creatures already in ethereal or astral form when the spell is cast, nor does it block extradimensional perception or attack forms. Also, dimensional anchor does not prevent summoned creatures from disappearing at the end of a summoning spell.

DIMENSIONAL LOCK

Abjuration

Level: clr 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: 20-ft.-Radius emanation centered on a point in space

Duration: one day/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

You create a shimmering emerald barrier that completely blocks extradimensional travel. Forms of movement barred include astral projection, blink, dimension door, ethereal jaunt, etherealness, gate, maze, plane shift, shadow walk, teleport, and similar spell-like or psionic abilities. Once dimensional lock is in place, extradimensional travel into or out of the area is not possible.

A dimensional lock does not interfere with the movement of creatures already in ethereal or astral form when the spell is cast, nor does it block extradimensional perception or attack forms. Also, the spell does not prevent summoned creatures from disappearing at the end of a summoning spell.

DIMINISH PLANTS

Transmutation

Level: drd 3, rgr 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: see text

Target or area: see text

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell has two versions.

Prune growth: this version causes normal vegetation within long range (400 feet + 40 feet per level) to shrink to about one-third of their normal size, becoming untangled and less bushy. The affected vegetation appears to have been carefully pruned and trimmed.

At your option, the area can be a 100-foot-radius circle, a 150-foot-radius semicircle, or a 200-foot-radius quarter-circle.

You may also designate portions of the area that are not affected.

Stunt growth: this version targets normal plants within a range of 1/2 mile, reducing their potential productivity over the course of the following year to one third below normal.

Diminish plants counters plant growth.

This spell has no effect on plant creatures.

DISCERN LIES

Divination

Level: clr 4, pal 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: concentration, up to 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: no

Each round, you concentrate on one subject, who must be within range. You know if the subject deliberately and knowingly speaks a lie by discerning disturbances in its aura caused by lying. The spell does not reveal the truth, uncover unintentional inaccuracies, or necessarily reveal evasions.

Each round, you may concentrate on a different subject.

DISCERN LOCATION

Divination

Level: clr 8, knowledge 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: unlimited

Target: one creature or object

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

A discern location spell is among the most powerful means of locating creatures or objects. Nothing short of a mind blank spell or the direct intervention of a deity keeps you from learning the exact location of a single individual or object. Discern location circumvents normal means of protection from scrying or location. The spell reveals the name of the creature or object's location (place, name, business name, building name, or the like), community, county (or similar political division), country, continent, and the plane of existence where the target lies.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

To find a creature with the spell, you must have seen the creature or have some item that once belonged to it. To find an object, you must have touched it at least once.

DISGUISE SELF

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1, trickery 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

You make yourself-including clothing, armor, weapons, and equipment-look different. You can seem 1 foot shorter or taller, thin, fat, or in between. You cannot change your body type. Otherwise, the extent of the apparent change is up to you. You could add or obscure a minor feature or look like an entirely different person.

The spell does not provide the abilities or mannerisms of the chosen form, nor does it alter the perceived tactile (touch) or audible (sound) properties of you or your equipment.

If you use this spell to create a disguise, you get a +10 bonus on the disguise check.

A creature that interacts with the glamer gets a will save to recognize it as an illusion.

DISINTEGRATE

Transmutation

Level: destruction 7, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./level)

Effect: ray

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude partial (object)

Spell resistance: yes

A thin, green ray springs from your pointing finger. You must make a successful ranged touch attack to hit. Any creature struck by the ray takes 2d6 points of damage per caster level (to a maximum of 40d6). Any creature reduced to 0 or fewer hit points by this spell is entirely disintegrated, leaving behind only a trace of fine dust. A disintegrated creature's equipment is unaffected.

When used against an object, the ray simply disintegrates as much as one 10-foot cube of nonliving matter. Thus, the spell disintegrates only part of any very large object or structure targeted. The ray affects even objects constructed entirely of force, such as forceful hand or a wall of force, but not magical effects such as a globe of invulnerability or an antimagic field.

A creature or object that makes a successful fortitude save is partially affected, taking only 5d6 points of damage. If this damage reduces the creature or object to 0 or fewer hit points, it is entirely disintegrated.

Only the first creature or object struck can be affected; that is, the ray affects only one target per casting.

Arcane material component: a lodestone and a pinch of dust.

DISMISSAL

Abjuration

Level: clr 4, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one extraplanar creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

This spell forces an extraplanar creature back to its proper plane if it fails a special will save (DC = spell's save DC - creature's HD + your caster level). If the spell is successful, the creature is instantly whisked away, but there is a 20% chance of actually sending the subject to a plane other than its own.

DISPEL CHAOS

Abjuration [lawful]

Level: clr 5, law 5, pal 4

This spell functions like dispel evil, except that you are surrounded by constant, blue, lawful energy, and the spell affects chaotic creatures and spells rather than evil ones.

DISPEL EVIL

Abjuration [good]

Level: clr 5, good 5, pal 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target or targets: you and a touched evil creature from another plane; or you and an enchantment or evil spell on a touched creature or object

Duration: 1 round/level or until discharged, whichever comes first

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: see text

Shimmering, white, holy energy surrounds you. This power has three effects.

First, you gain a +4 deflection bonus to AC against attacks by evil creatures.

Second, on making a successful melee touch attack against an evil creature from another plane, you can choose to drive that creature back to its home plane. The creature can negate the effects with a successful will save (spell resistance applies). This use discharges and ends the spell.

Third, with a touch you can automatically dispel any one enchantment spell cast by an evil creature or any one evil spell. Exception: spells that can't be dispelled by dispel magic also can't be dispelled by dispel evil. Saving throws and spell resistance do not apply to this effect. This use discharges and ends the spell.

DISPEL GOOD

Abjuration [evil]

Level: clr 5, evil 5

This spell functions like dispel evil, except that you are surrounded by dark, wavering, unholy energy, and the spell affects good creatures and spells rather than evil ones.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

DISPEL LAW

Abjuration [chaotic]

Level: chaos 5, clr 5

This spell functions like dispel evil, except that you are surrounded by flickering, yellow, chaotic energy, and the spell affects lawful creatures and spells rather than evil ones.

DISPEL MAGIC

Abjuration

Level: brd 3, clr 3, drd 4, magic 3, pal 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target or area: one spellcaster, creature, or object; or 20-ft.-Radius burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You can use dispel magic to end ongoing spells that have been cast on a creature or object, to temporarily suppress the magical abilities of a magic item, to end ongoing spells (or at least their effects) within an area, or to counter another spellcaster's spell. A dispelled spell ends as if its duration had expired. Some spells, as detailed in their descriptions, can't be defeated by dispel magic. Dispel magic can dispel (but not counter) spell-like effects just as it does spells.

Note: the effect of a spell with an instantaneous duration can't be dispelled, because the magical effect is already over before the dispel magic can take effect.

You choose to use dispel magic in one of three ways: a targeted dispel, an area dispel, or a counterspell:

Targeted dispel: one object, creature, or spell is the target of the dispel magic spell. You make a dispel check (1d20 + your caster level, maximum +10) against the spell or against each ongoing spell currently in effect on the object or creature. The DC for this dispel check is 11 + the spell's caster level. If you succeed on a particular check, that spell is dispelled; if you fail, that spell remains in effect.

If you target an object or creature that is the effect of an ongoing spell (such as a monster summoned by monster summoning), you make a dispel check to end the spell that conjured the object or creature.

If the object that you target is a magic item, you make a dispel check against the item's caster level. If you succeed, all the item's magical properties are suppressed for 1d4 rounds, after which the item recovers on its own. A suppressed item becomes nonmagical for the duration of the effect. An interdimensional interface (such as a bag of holding) is temporarily closed. A magic item's physical properties are unchanged: a suppressed magic sword is still a sword (a masterwork sword, in fact). Artifacts and deities are unaffected by mortal magic such as this.

You automatically succeed on your dispel check against any spell that you cast yourself.

Area dispel: when dispel magic is used in this way, the spell affects everything within a 30-foot radius.

For each creature within the area that is the subject of one or more spells, you make a dispel check against the spell with the highest caster level. If that check fails, you make dispel checks against progressively weaker spells until you dispel one spell (which discharges the dispel magic spell so far as that target is concerned) or until you fail all your checks. The creature's magic items are not affected.

For each object within the area that is the target of one or more spells, you make dispel checks as with creatures. Magic items are not affected by an area dispel.

For each ongoing area or effect spell whose point of origin is within the area of the dispel magic spell, you can make a dispel check to dispel the spell.

For each ongoing spell whose area overlaps that of the dispel magic spell, you can make a dispel check to end the effect, but only within the overlapping area.

If an object or creature that is the effect of an ongoing spell (such as a monster summoned by monster summoning) is in the area, you can make a dispel check to end the spell that conjured that object or creature (returning it whence it came) in addition to attempting to dispel spells targeting the creature or object.

You may choose to automatically succeed on dispel checks against any spell that you have cast.

Counterspell: when dispel magic is used in this way, the spell targets a spellcaster and is cast as a counterspell. Unlike a true counterspell, however, dispel magic may not work; you must make a dispel check to counter the other spellcaster's spell.

DISPEL MAGIC, GREATER

Abjuration

Level: brd 5, clr 6, drd 6, sor/wiz 6

This spell functions like dispel magic, except that the maximum caster level on your dispel check is +20 instead of +10.

Additionally, greater dispel magic has a chance to dispel any effect that remove curse can remove, even if dispel magic can't dispel that effect.

DISPLACEMENT

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject of this spell appears to be about 2 feet away from its true location. The creature benefits from a 50% miss chance as if it had total concealment. However, unlike actual total concealment, displacement does not prevent enemies from targeting the creature normally. True seeing reveals its true location.

Material component: a small strip of leather twisted into a loop.

DISRUPT UNDEAD

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: ray

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

You direct a ray of positive energy. You must make a ranged touch attack to hit, and if the ray hits an undead creature, it deals 1d6 points of damage to it.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

DISRUPTING WEAPON

Transmutation

Level: clr 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Targets: one melee weapon

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object); see text

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

This spell makes a melee weapon deadly to undead. Any undead creature with HD equal to or less than your caster level must succeed on a will save or be destroyed utterly if struck in combat with this weapon. Spell resistance does not apply against the destruction effect.

DIVINATION

Divination

Level: clr 4, knowledge 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: instantaneous

Similar to augury but more powerful, a divination spell can provide you with a useful piece of advice in reply to a question concerning a specific goal, event, or activity that is to occur within one week. The advice can be as simple as a short phrase, or it might take the form of a cryptic rhyme or omen. If your party doesn't act on the information, the conditions may change so that the information is no longer useful. The base chance for a correct divination is 70% + 1% per caster level, to a maximum of 90%. If the dice roll fails, you know the spell failed, unless specific magic yielding false information is at work.

As with augury, multiple divinations about the same topic by the same caster use the same dice result as the first divination spell and yield the same answer each time.

Material component: incense and a sacrificial offering appropriate to your religion, together worth at least 25 gp.

DIVINE FAVOR

Evocation

Level: clr 1, pal 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 minute

Calling upon the strength and wisdom of a deity, you gain a +1 luck bonus on attack and weapon damage rolls for every three caster levels you have (at least +1, maximum +6). The bonus doesn't apply to spell damage.

DIVINE POWER

Evocation

Level: clr 4, war 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 round/level

Calling upon the divine power of your patron, you imbue yourself with strength and skill in combat. Your base attack bonus becomes equal to your character level (which may give you additional attacks), you gain a +6 enhancement bonus to strength, and you gain 1 temporary hit point per caster level.

DOMINATE ANIMAL

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: animal 3, drd 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one animal

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

You can enchant an animal and direct it with simple commands such as "attack," "run," and "fetch." Suicidal or self-destructive commands (including an order to attack a creature two or more size categories larger than the dominated animal) are simply ignored.

Dominate animal establishes a mental link between you and the subject creature. The animal can be directed by silent mental command as long as it remains in range. You need not see the creature to control it. You do not receive direct sensory input from the creature, but you know what it is experiencing. Because you are directing the animal with your own intelligence, it may be able to undertake actions normally beyond its own comprehension. You need not concentrate exclusively on controlling the creature unless you are trying to direct it to do something it normally couldn't do. Changing your instructions or giving a dominated creature a new command is the equivalent of redirecting a spell, so it is a move action.

DOMINATE MONSTER

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 9

Target: one creature

This spell functions like dominate person, except that the spell is not restricted by creature type.

DOMINATE PERSON

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one humanoid

Duration: one day/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

You can control the actions of any humanoid creature through a telepathic link that you establish with the subject's mind.

If you and the subject have a common language, you can generally force the subject to perform as you desire, within the limits of its abilities. If no common language exists, you can communicate only basic commands, such as "come here," "go there," "fight," and "stand still." You know what the subject is experiencing, but you do not receive direct sensory input from it, nor can it communicate with you telepathically.

Once you have given a dominated creature a command, it continues to attempt to carry out that command to the exclusion of all other activities except those necessary for day-to-day survival (such as sleeping, eating, and so forth). Because of this limited range of activity, a sense motive check against DC 15 (rather than DC 25) can determine that the subject’s behavior is being influenced by an enchantment effect (see the sense motive skill description).

Changing your instructions or giving a dominated creature a new command is the equivalent of redirecting a spell, so it is a move action.

By concentrating fully on the spell (a standard action), you can receive full sensory input as interpreted by the mind of the subject, though it still can’t communicate with you. You can’t actually see through the subject’s eyes, so it’s not as good as being there yourself, but you still get a good idea of what’s going on.

Subjects resist this control, and any subject forced to take actions against its nature receives a new saving throw with a +2 bonus. Obviously self-destructive orders are not carried out. Once control is established, the range at which it can be exercised is unlimited, as long as you and the subject are on the same plane. You need not see the subject to control it.

If you don’t spend at least 1 round concentrating on the spell each day, the subject receives a new saving throw to throw off the domination.

Protection from evil or a similar spell can prevent you from exercising control or using the telepathic link while the subject is so warded, but such an effect neither prevents the establishment of domination nor dispels it.

DOOM

Necromancy [fear, mind-affecting]

Level: clr 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one living creature

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This spell fills a single subject with a feeling of horrible dread that causes it to become shaken.

DREAM

Illusion (phantasm) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 minute

Range: unlimited

Target: one living creature touched

Duration: see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

You, or a messenger touched by you, sends a phantasmal message to others in the form of a dream. At the beginning of the spell, you must name the recipient or identify him or her by some title that leaves no doubt as to identity. The messenger then enters a trance, appears in the intended recipient’s dream, and delivers the message. The message can be of any length, and the recipient remembers it perfectly upon waking. The communication is one-way. The recipient cannot ask questions or offer information, nor can the messenger gain any information by observing the dreams of the recipient.

Once the message is delivered, the messenger’s mind returns instantly to its body. The duration of the spell is the time required for the messenger to enter the recipient’s dream and deliver the message.

If the recipient is awake when the spell begins, the messenger can choose to wake up (ending the spell) or remain in the trance. The messenger can remain in the trance until the recipient goes to sleep, then enter the recipient’s dream and deliver the message as normal. A messenger that is disturbed during the trance comes awake, ending the spell.

Creatures who don’t sleep (such as elves, but not half-elves) or don’t dream cannot be contacted by this spell.

The messenger is unaware of its own surroundings or of the activities around it while in the trance. It is defenseless both physically and mentally (always fails any saving throw) while in the trance.

EAGLE’S SPLENDOR

Transmutation

Level: brd 2, clr 2, pal 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes

The transmuted creature becomes more poised, articulate, and personally forceful. The spell grants a +4 enhancement bonus to charisma, adding the usual benefits to charisma-based skill checks and other uses of the charisma modifier. Sorcerers and bards (and other spellcasters who rely on charisma) affected by this spell do not gain any additional bonus spells for the increased charisma, but the save DCs for spells they cast while under this spell’s effect do increase.

Arcane material component: a few feathers or a pinch of droppings from an eagle.

EAGLE’S SPLENDOR, MASS

Transmutation

Level: brd 6, clr 6, sor/wiz 6

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

This spell functions like eagle’s splendor, except that it affects multiple creatures.

EARTHQUAKE

Evocation [earth]

Level: clr 8, destruction 8, drd 8, earth 7

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./level)

Area: 80-ft.-Radius spread (s)

Duration: 1 round

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

When you cast earthquake, an intense but highly localized tremor rips the ground. The shock knocks creatures down, collapses structures, opens cracks in the ground, and more. The effect lasts for 1 round, during which time creatures on the ground can't move or attack. A spellcaster on the ground must make a concentration check (DC 20 + spell level) or lose any spell he or she tries to cast. The earthquake affects all terrain, vegetation, structures, and creatures in the area. The specific effect of an earthquake spell depends on the nature of the terrain where it is cast.

Cave, cavern, or tunnel: the spell collapses the roof, dealing 8d6 points of bludgeoning damage to any creature caught under the cave-in (reflex DC 15 half) and pinning that creature beneath the rubble (see below). An earthquake cast on the roof of a very large cavern could also endanger those outside the actual area but below the falling debris.

Cliffs: earthquake causes a cliff to crumble, creating a landslide that travels horizontally as far as it fell vertically. Any creature in the path takes 8d6 points of bludgeoning damage (reflex DC 15 half) and is pinned beneath the rubble (see below).

Open ground: each creature standing in the area must make a DC 15 reflex save or fall down. Fissures open in the earth, and every creature on the ground has a 25% chance to fall into one (reflex DC 20 to avoid a fissure). At the end of the spell, all fissures grind shut, killing any creatures still trapped within.

Structure: any structure standing on open ground takes 100 points of damage, enough to collapse a typical wooden or masonry building, but not a structure built of stone or reinforced masonry. Hardness does not reduce this damage, nor is it halved as damage dealt to objects normally is. Any creature caught inside a collapsing structure takes 8d6 points of bludgeoning damage (reflex DC 15 half) and is pinned beneath the rubble (see below).

River, lake, or marsh: fissures open underneath the water, draining away the water from that area and forming muddy ground. Soggy marsh or swampland becomes quicksand for the duration of the spell, sucking down creatures and structures. Each creature in the area must make a DC 15 reflex save or sink down in the mud and quicksand. At the end of the spell, the rest of the body of water rushes in to replace the drained water, possibly drowning those caught in the mud.

Pinned beneath rubble: any creature pinned beneath rubble takes 1d6 points of nonlethal damage per minute while pinned. If a pinned character falls unconscious, he or she must make a DC 15 constitution check or take 1d6 points of lethal damage each minute thereafter until freed or dead.

ELEMENTAL SWARM

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: air 9, drd 9, earth 9, fire 9, water 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 ft./level)

Effect: two or more summoned creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell opens a portal to an elemental plane and summons elementals from it. A druid can choose the plane (air, earth, fire, or water); a cleric opens a portal to the plane matching his domain.

When the spell is complete, 2d4 large elementals appear. Ten minutes later, 1d4 huge elementals appear. Ten minutes after that, one greater elemental appears. Each elemental has maximum hit points per HD. Once these creatures appear, they serve you for the duration of the spell.

The elementals obey you explicitly and never attack you, even if someone else manages to gain control over them. You do not need to concentrate to maintain control over the elementals. You can dismiss them singly or in groups at any time.

When you use a summoning spell to summon an air, earth, fire, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

ENDURE ELEMENTS

Abjuration

Level: clr 1, drd 1, pal 1, rgr 1, sor/wiz 1, sun 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 24 hours

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

A creature protected by endure elements suffers no harm from being in a hot or cold environment. It can exist comfortably in conditions between -50 and 140 degrees fahrenheit without having to make fortitude saves). The creature's equipment is likewise protected.

Endure elements doesn't provide any protection from fire or cold damage, nor does it protect against other environmental hazards such as smoke, lack of air, and so forth.

ENERGY DRAIN

Necromancy

Level: clr 9, sor/wiz 9

Saving throw: fortitude partial; see text for enervation

This spell functions like enervation, except that the creature struck gains 2d4 negative levels, and the negative levels last longer.

There is no saving throw to avoid gaining the negative levels, but 24 hours after gaining them, the subject must make a fortitude saving throw (DC = energy drain spell's save DC) for each negative level. If the save succeeds, that negative level is removed. If it fails, the negative level also goes away, but one of the subject's character levels is permanently drained.

An undead creature struck by the ray gains 2d4x5 temporary hit points for 1 hour.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

ENERVATION

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 ft./2 levels)

Effect: ray of negative energy

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

You point your finger and utter the incantation, releasing a black ray of crackling negative energy that suppresses the life force of any living creature it strikes. You must make a ranged touch attack to hit. If the attack succeeds, the subject gains 1d4 negative levels.

If the subject has at least as many negative levels as HD, it dies. Each negative level gives a creature a -1 penalty on attack rolls, saving throws, skill checks, ability checks, and effective level (for determining the power, duration, DC, and other details of spells or special abilities).

Additionally, a spellcaster loses one spell or spell slot from his or her highest available level. Negative levels stack.

Assuming the subject survives, it regains lost levels after a number of hours equal to your caster level (maximum 15 hours). Usually, negative levels have a chance of permanently draining the victim's levels, but the negative levels from enervation don't last long enough to do so.

An undead creature struck by the ray gains 1d4x5 temporary hit points for 1 hour.

ENLARGE PERSON

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 1, strength 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one humanoid creature

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

This spell causes instant growth of a humanoid creature, doubling its height and multiplying its weight by 8. This increase changes the creature's size category to the next larger one. The target gains a +2 size bonus to strength, a -2 size penalty to dexterity (to a minimum of 1), and a -1 penalty on attack rolls and AC due to its increased size.

A humanoid creature whose size increases to large has a space of 10 feet and a natural reach of 10 feet. This spell does not change the target's speed.

If insufficient room is available for the desired growth, the creature attains the maximum possible size and may make a strength check (using its increased strength) to burst any enclosures in the process. If it fails, it is constrained without harm by the materials enclosing it-the spell cannot be used to crush a creature by increasing its size.

All equipment worn or carried by a creature is similarly enlarged by the spell. Melee and projectile weapons affected by this spell deal more damage. Other magical properties are not affected by this spell. Any enlarged item that leaves an enlarged creature's possession (including a projectile or thrown weapon) instantly returns to its normal size. This means that thrown weapons deal their normal damage, and projectiles deal damage based on the size of the weapon that fired them. Magical properties of enlarged items are not increased by this spell.

Multiple magical effects that increase size do not stack,.

Enlarge person counters and dispels reduce person.

Enlarge person can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

Material component: a pinch of powdered iron.

ENLARGE PERSON, MASS

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 4

Target: one humanoid creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

This spell functions like enlarge person, except that it affects multiple creatures.

ENTANGLE

Transmutation

Level: drd 1, plant 1, rgr 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 ft./level)

Area: plants in a 40-ft.-radius spread

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: reflex partial; see text

Spell resistance: no

Grasses, weeds, bushes, and even trees wrap, twist, and entwine about creatures in the area or those that enter the area, holding them fast and causing them to become entangled. The creature can break free and move half its normal speed by using a full-round action to make a DC 20 strength check or a DC 20 escape artist check. A creature that succeeds on a reflex save is not entangled but can still move at only half speed through the area. Each round on your turn, the plants once again attempt to entangle all creatures that have avoided or escaped entanglement.

Note: the effects of the spell may be altered somewhat, based on the nature of the entangling plants.

ENTHRALL

Enchantment (charm) [language dependent, mind-affecting, sonic]

Level: brd 2, clr 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 round

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: any number of creatures

Duration: 1 hour or less

Saving throw: will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

If you have the attention of a group of creatures, you can use this spell to hold them spellbound. To cast the spell, you must speak or sing without interruption for 1 full round. Thereafter, those affected give you their undivided attention, ignoring their surroundings. They are considered to have an attitude of friendly while under the effect of the spell. Any potentially affected creature of a race or religion unfriendly to yours gets a +4 bonus on the saving throw.

A creature with 4 or more HD or with a wisdom score of 16 or higher remains aware of its surroundings and has an attitude of indifferent. It gains a new saving throw if it witnesses actions that it opposes.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

The effect lasts as long as you speak or sing, to a maximum of 1 hour. Those enthralled by your words take no action while you speak or sing and for 1d3 rounds thereafter while they discuss the topic or performance. Those entering the area during the performance must also successfully save or become enthralled. The speech ends (but the 1d3-round delay still applies) if you lose concentration or do anything other than speak or sing.

If those not enthralled have unfriendly or hostile attitudes toward you, they can collectively make a charisma check to try to end the spell by jeering and heckling. For this check, use the charisma bonus of the creature with the highest charisma in the group; others may make charisma checks to assist. The heckling ends the spell if this check result beats your charisma check result. Only one such challenge is allowed per use of the spell.

If any member of the audience is attacked or subjected to some other overtly hostile act, the spell ends and the previously enthralled members become immediately unfriendly toward you. Each creature with 4 or more HD or with a wisdom score of 16 or higher becomes hostile.

ENTROPIC SHIELD

Abjuration

Level: clr 1, luck 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

A magical field appears around you, glowing with a chaotic blast of multicolored hues. This field deflects incoming arrows, rays, and other ranged attacks. Each ranged attack directed at you for which the attacker must make an attack roll has a 20% miss chance (similar to the effects of concealment). Other attacks that simply work at a distance are not affected.

ERASE

Transmutation

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one scroll or two pages

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

Erase removes writings of either magical or mundane nature from a scroll or from one or two pages of paper, parchment, or similar surfaces. With this spell, you can remove explosive runes, a glyph of warding, a sepia snake sigil, or an arcane mark, but not illusory script or a symbol spell. Nonmagical writing is automatically erased if you touch it and no one else is holding it. Otherwise, the chance of erasing nonmagical writing is 90%.

Magic writing must be touched to be erased, and you also must succeed on a caster level check (1d20 + caster level) against DC 15. (A natural 1 or 2 is always a failure on this check.) If you fail to erase explosive runes, a glyph of warding, or a sepia snake sigil, you accidentally activate that writing instead.

ETHEREAL JAUNT

Transmutation

Level: clr 7, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

You become ethereal, along with your equipment. For the duration of the spell, you are in a place called the ethereal plane, which overlaps the normal, physical, material plane. When the spell expires, you return to material existence.

An ethereal creature is invisible, insubstantial, and capable of moving in any direction, even up or down, albeit at half normal speed. As an insubstantial creature, you can move through solid objects, including living creatures. An ethereal creature can see and hear on the material plane, but everything looks gray and ephemeral. Sight and hearing onto the material plane are limited to 60 feet.

Force effects and abjurations affect an ethereal creature normally. Their effects extend onto the ethereal plane from the material plane, but not vice versa. An ethereal creature can't attack material creatures, and spells you cast while ethereal affect only other ethereal things. Certain material creatures or objects have attacks or effects that work on the ethereal plane.

Treat other ethereal creatures and ethereal objects as if they were material.

If you end the spell and become material while inside a material object (such as a solid wall), you are shunted off to the nearest open space and take 1d6 points of damage per 5 feet that you so travel.

ETHEREALNESS

Transmutation

Level: clr 9, sor/wiz 9

Range: touch; see text

Targets: you and one other touched creature per three levels

Duration: 1 min./level (d)

Spell resistance: yes

This spell functions like ethereal jaunt, except that you and other willing creatures joined by linked hands (along with their equipment) become ethereal. Besides yourself, you can bring one creature per three caster levels to the ethereal plane. Once ethereal, the subjects need not stay together.

When the spell expires, all affected creatures on the ethereal plane return to material existence.

EXPEDITIOUS RETREAT

Transmutation

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

This spell increases your base land speed by 30 feet. (This adjustment is treated as an enhancement bonus.) There is no effect on other modes of movement, such as burrow, climb, fly, or swim. As with any effect that increases your speed, this spell affects your jumping distance (see the jump skill).

EXPLOSIVE RUNES

Abjuration [force]
Level: sor/wiz 3
Components: V, S
Casting time: 1 standard action
Range: touch
Target: one touched object weighing no more than 10 lb.
Duration: permanent until discharged (d)
Saving throw: see text
Spell resistance: yes
You trace these mystic runes upon a book, map, scroll, or similar object bearing written information. The runes detonate when read, dealing 6d6 points of force damage. Anyone next to the runes (close enough to read them) takes the full damage with no saving throw; any other creature within 10 feet of the runes is entitled to a reflex save for half damage. The object on which the runes were written also takes full damage (no saving throw).

You and any characters you specifically instruct can read the protected writing without triggering the runes. Likewise, you can remove the runes whenever desired. Another creature can remove them with a successful dispel magic or erase spell, but attempting to dispel or erase the runes and failing to do so triggers the explosion.
Note: magic traps such as explosive runes are hard to detect and disable. A rogue (only) can use the search skill to find the runes and disable device to thwart them. The DC in each case is 25 + spell level, or 28 for explosive runes.

EYEBITE

Necromancy [evil]
Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 6
Components: V, S
Casting time: 1 standard action
Range: close (25 ft. + 5 ft./2 levels)
Target: one living creature
Duration: 1 round per three levels; see text
Saving throw: fortitude negates
Spell resistance: yes
Each round, you may target a single living creature, striking it with waves of evil power. Depending on the target’s HD, this attack has as many as three effects.

HD	Effect
10 or more	Sickened
5–9	Panicked, sickened
4 or less	Comatose, panicked, sickened

The effects are cumulative and concurrent.
Sickened: sudden pain and fever sweeps over the subject’s body. A sickened creature takes a -2 penalty on attack rolls, weapon damage rolls, saving throws, skill checks, and ability checks. A creature affected by this spell remains sickened for 10 minutes per caster level. The effects cannot be negated by a remove disease or heal spell, but a remove curse is effective.
Panicked: the subject becomes panicked for 1d4 rounds. Even after the panic ends, the creature remains shaken for 10 minutes per caster level, and it automatically becomes panicked again if it comes within sight of you during that time. This is a fear effect.
Comatose: the subject falls into a catatonic coma for 10 minutes per caster level. During this time, it cannot be awakened by any means short of dispelling the effect. This is not a sleep effect, and thus elves are not immune to it.
The spell lasts for 1 round per three caster levels. You must spend a move action each round after the first to target a foe.

You convert material of one sort into a product that is of the same material. Creatures or magic items cannot be created or transmuted by the fabricate spell. The quality of items made by this spell is commensurate with the quality of material used as the basis for the new fabrication. If you work with a mineral, the target is reduced to 1 cubic foot per level instead of 10 cubic feet.
You must make an appropriate craft check to fabricate articles requiring a high degree of craftsmanship.
Casting requires 1 round per 10 cubic feet (or 1 cubic foot) of material to be affected by the spell.
Material component: the original material, which costs the same amount as the raw materials required to craft the item to be created.
FAERIE FIRE
Evocation [light]

A pale glow surrounds and outlines the subjects. Outlined subjects shed light as candles. Outlined creatures do not benefit from the concealment normally provided by darkness (though a 2nd-level or higher magical darkness effect functions normally), blur, displacement, invisibility, or similar effects. The light is too dim to have any special effect on undead or dark-dwelling creatures vulnerable to light. The faerie fire can be blue, green, or violet, according to your choice at the time of casting. The faerie fire does not cause any harm to the objects or creatures thus outlined.

FALSE LIFE

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 hour/level or until discharged; see text

You harness the power of unlife to grant yourself a limited ability to avoid death. While this spell is in effect, you gain temporary hit points equal to 1d10 +1 per caster level (maximum +10).

Material component: a small amount of alcohol or distilled spirits, which you use to trace certain sigils on your body during casting. These sigils cannot be seen once the alcohol or spirits evaporate.

FALSE VISION

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5, trickery 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Area: 40-ft.-Radius emanation

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Any divination (scrying) spell used to view anything within the area of this spell instead receives a false image (as the major image spell), as defined by you at the time of casting. As long as the duration lasts, you can concentrate to change the image as desired. While you aren't concentrating, the image remains static.

Arcane material component: the ground dust of a piece of jade worth at least 250 gp, which is sprinkled into the air when the spell is cast.

FEAR

Necromancy [fear, mind-affecting]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 30 ft.

Area: cone-shaped burst

Duration: 1 round/level or 1 round; see text

Saving throw: will partial

Spell resistance: yes

An invisible cone of terror causes each living creature in the area to become panicked unless it succeeds on a will save. If cornered, a panicked creature begins cowering. If the will save succeeds, the creature is shaken for 1 round.

Material component: either the heart of a hen or a white feather.

FEATHER FALL

Transmutation

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V

Casting time: 1 free action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one medium or smaller freefalling object or creature/level, no two of which may be more than 20 ft. Apart

Duration: until landing or 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless) or will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

The affected creatures or objects fall slowly. Feather fall instantly changes the rate at which the targets fall to a mere 60 feet per round (equivalent to the end of a fall from a few feet), and the subjects take no damage upon landing while the spell is in effect. However, when the spell duration expires, a normal rate of falling resumes.

The spell affects one or more medium or smaller creatures (including gear and carried objects up to each creature's maximum load) or objects, or the equivalent in larger creatures: a large creature or object counts as two medium creatures or objects, a huge creature or object counts as two large creatures or objects, and so forth.

You can cast this spell with an instant utterance, quickly enough to save yourself if you unexpectedly fall. Casting the spell is a free action, like casting a quickened spell, and it counts toward the normal limit of one quickened spell per round. You may even cast this spell when it isn't your turn.

This spell has no special effect on ranged weapons unless they are falling quite a distance. If the spell is cast on a falling item the object does half normal damage based on its weight, with no bonus for the height of the drop.

Feather fall works only upon free-falling objects. It does not affect a sword blow or a charging or flying creature.

FEEBLEMIND

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

If the target creature fails a will saving throw, its intelligence and charisma scores each drop to 1. The affected creature is unable to use intelligence- or charisma-based skills, cast spells, understand language, or communicate coherently. Still, it knows who its friends are and can follow them and even protect them. The subject remains in this state until a heal, limited wish, miracle, or wish spell is used to cancel the effect of the feblemind. A creature that can cast arcane spells, such as a sorcerer or a wizard, takes a -4 penalty on its saving throw.

Material component: a handful of clay, crystal, glass, or mineral spheres.

FIND THE PATH

Divination

Level: brd 6, clr 6, drd 6, knowledge 6, travel 6

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 3 rounds

Range: personal or touch

Target: you or creature touched

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: none or will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: no or yes (harmless)

The recipient of this spell can find the shortest, most direct physical route to a specified destination, be it the way into or out of a locale. The locale can be outdoors, underground, or even inside a maze spell. Find the path works with respect to locations, not objects or creatures at a locale. The location must be on the same plane as you are at the time of casting.

The spell enables the subject to sense the correct direction that will eventually lead it to its destination, indicating at appropriate times the exact path to follow or physical actions to take. For example, the spell enables the subject to sense trip wires or the proper word to bypass a glyph of warding. The spell ends when the destination is reached or the duration expires, whichever comes first. Find the path can be used to remove the subject and its companions from the effect of a maze spell in a single round.

This divination is keyed to the recipient, not its companions, and its effect does not predict or allow for the actions of creatures (including guardians).

Focus: a set of divination counters of the sort you favor.

FIND TRAPS

Divination

Level: clr 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 min./Level

You gain intuitive insight into the workings of traps. You can use the search skill to detect traps just as a rogue can. In addition, you gain an insight bonus equal to one-half your caster level (maximum +10) on search checks made to find traps while the spell is in effect.

Note that find traps grants no ability to disable the traps that you may find.

FINGER OF DEATH

Necromancy [death]

Level: drd 8, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude partial

Spell resistance: yes

You can slay any one living creature within range. The target is entitled to a fortitude saving throw to survive the attack. If the save is successful, the creature instead takes 3d6 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +25).

The subject might die from damage even if it succeeds on its saving throw.

FIRE SEEDS

Conjuration (creation) [fire]

Level: drd 6, fire 6, sun 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Targets: up to four touched acorns or up to eight touched holly berries

Duration: 10 min./Level or until used

Saving throw: none or reflex half; see text

Spell resistance: no

Depending on the version of fire seeds you choose, you turn acorns into splash weapons that you or another character can throw, or you turn holly berries into bombs that you can detonate on command.

Acorn grenades: as many as four acorns turn into special splash weapons that can be hurled as far as 100 feet. A ranged touch attack roll is required to strike the intended target. Together, the acorns are capable of dealing 1d6 points of fire damage per caster level (maximum 20d6), divided up among the acorns as you wish.

Each acorn explodes upon striking any hard surface. In addition to its regular fire damage, it deals 1 point of splash damage per die, and it ignites any combustible materials within 10 feet. A creature within this area that makes a successful reflex saving throw takes only half damage; a creature struck directly is not allowed a saving throw.

Holly berry bombs: you turn as many as eight holly berries into special bombs. The holly berries are usually placed by hand, since they are too light to make effective thrown weapons (they can be tossed only 5 feet). If you are within 200 feet and speak a word of command, each berry instantly bursts into flame, causing 1d8 points of fire damage +1 point per caster level to every creature in a 5-foot radius burst and igniting any combustible materials within 5 feet. A creature in the area that makes a successful reflex saving throw takes only half damage.

Material component: the acorns or holly berries.

FIRE SHIELD

Evocation [fire or cold]

Level: fire 5, sor/wiz 4, sun 4

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

This spell wreathes you in flame and causes damage to each creature that attacks you in melee. The flames also protect you from either cold-based or fire-based attacks (your choice).

Any creature striking you with its body or a handheld weapon deals normal damage, but at the same time the attacker takes 1d6 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +15). This damage is either cold damage (if the shield protects against fire-based attacks) or fire damage (if the shield protects against cold-based attacks). If the attacker has spell resistance, it applies to this effect. Creatures wielding weapons with exceptional reach are not subject to this damage if they attack you.

When casting this spell, you appear to immolate yourself, but the flames are thin and wispy, giving off light equal to only half the illumination of a normal torch (10 feet). The color of the flames is determined randomly (50% chance of either color)-blue or green if the chill shield is cast, violet or blue if the warm shield is employed.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

The special powers of each version are as follows.

Warm shield: the flames are warm to the touch. You take only half damage from cold-based attacks. If such an attack allows a reflex save for half damage, you take no damage on a successful save.

Chill shield: the flames are cool to the touch. You take only half damage from fire-based attacks. If such an attack allows a reflex save for half damage, you take no damage on a successful save.

Arcane material component: a bit of phosphorus for the warm shield; a live firefly or glowworm or the tail portions of four dead ones for the chill shield.

FIRE STORM

Evocation [fire]

Level: clr 8, drd 7, fire 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 round

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: two 10-ft. Cubes per level (s)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: reflex half

Spell resistance: yes

When a fire storm spell is cast, the whole area is shot through with sheets of roaring flame. The raging flames do not harm natural vegetation, ground cover, and any plant creatures in the area that you wish to exclude from damage. Any other creature within the area takes 1d6 points of fire damage per caster level (maximum 20d6).

FIRE TRAP

Abjuration [fire]

Level: drd 2, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: touch

Target: object touched

Duration: permanent until discharged (d)

Saving throw: reflex half; see text

Spell resistance: yes

Fire trap creates a fiery explosion when an intruder opens the item that the trap protects. A fire trap can ward any object that can be opened and closed.

When casting fire trap, you select a point on the object as the spell's center. When someone other than you opens the object, a fiery explosion fills the area within a 5-foot radius around the spell's center. The flames deal 1d4 points of fire damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +20). The item protected by the trap is not harmed by this explosion.

A fire trapped item cannot have a second closure or warding spell placed on it.

A knock spell does not bypass a fire trap. An unsuccessful dispel magic spell does not detonate the spell.

Underwater, this ward deals half damage and creates a large cloud of steam.

You can use the fire trapped object without discharging it, as can any individual to whom the object was specifically attuned when cast. Attuning a fire trapped object to an individual usually involves setting a password that you can share with friends.

Note: magic traps such as fire trap are hard to detect and disable. A rogue (only) can use the search skill to find a fire trap and disable device to thwart it. The DC in each case is 25 + spell level (DC 27 for a druid's fire trap or DC 29 for the arcane version).

Material component: a half-pound of gold dust (cost 25 gp) sprinkled on the warded object.

FIREBALL

Evocation [fire]

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: 20-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: reflex half

Spell resistance: yes

A fireball spell is an explosion of flame that detonates with a low roar and deals 1d6 points of fire damage per caster level (maximum 10d6) to every creature within the area. Unattended objects also take this damage. The explosion creates almost no pressure.

You point your finger and determine the range (distance and height) at which the fireball is to burst. A glowing, pea-sized bead streaks from the pointing digit and, unless it impacts upon a material body or solid barrier prior to attaining the prescribed range, blossoms into the fireball at that point. (An early impact results in an early detonation.) If you attempt to send the bead through a narrow passage, such as through an arrow slit, you must "hit" the opening with a ranged touch attack, or else the bead strikes the barrier and detonates prematurely.

The fireball sets fire to combustibles and damages objects in the area. It can melt metals with low melting points, such as lead, gold, copper, silver, and bronze. If the damage caused to an interposing barrier shatters or breaks through it, the fireball may continue beyond the barrier if the area permits; otherwise it stops at the barrier just as any other spell effect does.

Material component: a tiny ball of bat guano and sulfur.

FLAME ARROW

Transmutation [fire]

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: fifty projectiles, all of which must be in contact with each other at the time of casting

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You turn ammunition (such as arrows, bolts, shuriken, and stones) into fiery projectiles. Each piece of ammunition deals an extra 1d6 points of fire damage to any target it hits. A flaming projectile can easily ignite a flammable object or structure, but it won't ignite a creature it strikes.

Material component: a drop of oil and a small piece of flint.

FLAME BLADE

Evocation [fire]

Level: drd 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: sword-like beam

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

A 3-foot-long, blazing beam of red-hot fire springs forth from your hand. You wield this bladelike beam as if it were a scimitar. Attacks with the flame blade are melee touch attacks. The blade deals 1d8 points of fire damage +1 point per two caster levels (maximum +10). Since the blade is immaterial, your strength modifier does not apply to the damage. A flame blade can ignite combustible materials such as parchment, straw, dry sticks, and cloth.

The spell does not function underwater.

FLAME STRIKE

Evocation [fire]

Level: clr 5, drd 4, sun 5, war 5

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: cylinder (10-ft. Radius, 40 ft. High)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: reflex half

Spell resistance: yes

A flame strike produces a vertical column of divine fire roaring downward. The spell deals 1d6 points of damage per caster level (maximum 15d6). Half the damage is fire damage, but the other half results directly from divine power and is therefore not subject to being reduced by resistance to fire-based attacks.

FLAMING SPHERE

Evocation [fire]

Level: drd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: 5-ft.-Diameter sphere

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: reflex negates

Spell resistance: yes

A burning globe of fire rolls in whichever direction you point and burns those it strikes. It moves 30 feet per round. As part of this movement, it can ascend or jump up to 30 feet to strike a target. If it enters a space with a creature, it stops moving for the round and deals 2d6 points of fire damage to that creature, though a successful reflex save negates that damage. A flaming sphere rolls over barriers less than 4 feet tall. It ignites flammable substances it touches and illuminates the same area as a torch would.

The sphere moves as long as you actively direct it (a move action for you); otherwise, it merely stays at rest and burns. It can be extinguished by any means that would put out a normal fire of its size. The surface of the sphere has a spongy, yielding consistency and so does not cause damage except by its flame. It cannot push aside unwilling creatures or batter down large obstacles. A flaming sphere winks out if it exceeds the spell's range.

Arcane material component: a bit of tallow, a pinch of brimstone, and a dusting of powdered iron.

FLARE

Evocation [light]

Level: brd 0, drd 0, sor/wiz 0

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: burst of light

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

This cantrip creates a burst of light. If you cause the light to burst directly in front of a single creature, that creature is dazzled for 1 minute unless it makes a successful fortitude save. Sightless creatures, as well as creatures already dazzled, are not affected by flare.

FLESH TO STONE

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

The subject, along with all its carried gear, turns into a mindless, inert statue. If the statue resulting from this spell is broken or damaged, the subject (if ever returned to its original state) has similar damage or deformities. The creature is not dead, but it does not seem to be alive either when viewed with spells such as deathwatch.

Only creatures made of flesh are affected by this spell.

Material component: lime, water, and earth.

FLY

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 3, travel 3

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject can fly at a speed of 60 feet (or 40 feet if it wears medium or heavy armor, or if it carries a medium or heavy load). It can ascend at half speed and descend at double speed, and its maneuverability is good. Using a fly spell requires only as much concentration as walking, so the subject can attack or cast spells normally. The subject of a fly spell can charge but not run, and it cannot carry aloft more weight than its maximum load, plus any armor it wears.

Should the spell duration expire while the subject is still aloft, the magic fails slowly. The subject floats downward 60 feet per round for 1d6 rounds. If it reaches the ground in that amount of time, it lands safely. If not, it falls the rest of the distance, taking 1d6 points of damage per 10 feet of fall. Since dispelling a spell effectively ends it, the subject also descends in this way if the fly spell is dispelled, but not if it is negated by an antimagic field.

Arcane focus: a wing feather from any bird.

FLOATING DISK

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: 3-ft.-Diameter disk of force

Duration: 1 hour/level

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You create a slightly concave, circular plane of force that follows you about and carries loads for you. The disk is 3 feet in diameter and 1 inch deep at its center. It can hold 100 pounds of weight per caster level. (If used to transport a liquid, its capacity is 2 gallons.) The disk floats approximately 3 feet above the ground at all times and remains level. It floats along horizontally within spell range and will accompany you at a rate of no more than your normal speed each round. If not otherwise directed, it maintains a constant interval of 5 feet between itself and you. The disk winks out of existence when the spell duration expires. The disk also winks out if you move beyond range or try to take the disk more than 3 feet away from the surface beneath it. When the disk winks out, whatever it was supporting falls to the surface beneath it.

Material component: a drop of mercury.

FOG CLOUD

Conjuration (creation)

Level: drd 2, sor/wiz 2, water 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft. Level)

Effect: fog spreads in 20-ft. Radius, 20 ft. High

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

A bank of fog billows out from the point you designate. The fog obscures all sight, including darkvision, beyond 5 feet. A creature within 5 feet has concealment (attacks have a 20% miss chance). Creatures farther away have total concealment (50% miss chance, and the attacker can't use sight to locate the target).

A moderate wind (11+ mph) disperses the fog in 4 rounds; a strong wind (21+ mph) disperses the fog in 1 round.

The spell does not function underwater.

FORBIDDANCE

Abjuration

Level: clr 6

Components: V, S, M, DF

Casting time: 6 rounds

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: 60-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes

Forbiddance seals an area against all planar travel into or within it. This includes all teleportation spells (such as dimension door and teleport), plane shifting, astral travel, ethereal travel, and all summoning spells. Such effects simply fail automatically.

In addition, it damages entering creatures whose alignments are different from yours. The effect on those attempting to enter the warded area is based on their alignment relative to yours (see below). A creature inside the area when the spell is cast takes no damage unless it exits the area and attempts to reenter, at which time it is affected as normal.

Alignments identical: no effect. The creature may enter the area freely (although not by planar travel).

Alignments different with respect to either law/chaos or good/evil: the creature takes 6d6 points of damage. A successful will save halves the damage, and spell resistance applies.

Alignments different with respect to both law/chaos and good/evil: the creature takes 12d6 points of damage. A successful will save halves the damage, and spell resistance applies.

At your option, the abjuration can include a password, in which case creatures of alignments different from yours can avoid the damage by speaking the password as they enter the area. You must select this option (and the password) at the time of casting.

Dispel magic does not dispel a forbiddance effect unless the dispeller's level is at least as high as your caster level.

You can't have multiple overlapping forbiddance effects. In such a case, the more recent effect stops at the boundary of the older effect.

Material component: a sprinkling of holy water and rare incenses worth at least 1,500 gp, plus 1,500 gp per 60-foot cube. If a password is desired, this requires the burning of additional rare incenses worth at least 1,000 gp, plus 1,000 gp per 60-foot cube.

FORCECAGE

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: barred cage (20-ft. cube) or windowless cell (10-ft. cube)

Duration: 2 hours/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This powerful spell brings into being an immobile, invisible cubical prison composed of either bars of force or solid walls of force (your choice).

Creatures within the area are caught and contained unless they are too big to fit inside, in which case the spell automatically fails. Teleportation and other forms of astral travel provide a means of escape, but the force walls or bars extend into the ethereal plane, blocking ethereal travel.

Like a wall of force spell, a forcecage resists dispel magic, but it is vulnerable to a disintegrate spell, and it can be destroyed by a sphere of annihilation or a rod of cancellation.

Barred cage: this version of the spell produces a 20-foot cube made of bands of force (similar to a wall of force spell) for bars. The bands are a half-inch wide, with half-inch gaps between them. Any creature capable of passing through such a small space can escape; others are confined. You can't attack a creature in a barred cage with a weapon unless the weapon can fit between the gaps. Even against such weapons (including arrows and similar ranged attacks), a creature in the barred cage has cover. All spells and breath weapons can pass through the gaps in the bars.

Windowless cell: this version of the spell produces a 10-foot cube with no way in and no way out. Solid walls of force form its six sides.

Material component: ruby dust worth 1,500 gp, which is tossed into the air and disappears when you cast the spell.

FORCEFUL HAND

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, F

This spell functions like interposing hand, except that the forceful hand pursues and pushes away the opponent that you designate. Treat this attack as a bull rush with a +14 bonus on the strength check (+8 for strength 27, +4 for being large, and a +2 bonus for charging, which it always gets). The hand always moves with the opponent to push that target back the full distance allowed, and it has no speed limit. Directing the spell to a new target is a move action.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

A very strong creature could not push the hand out of its way because the latter would instantly reposition itself between the creature and you, but an opponent could push the hand up against you by successfully bull rushing it.

Focus: a sturdy glove made of leather or heavy cloth.

FORESIGHT

Divination

Level: drd 9, knowledge 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal or touch

Target: see text

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: none or will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: no or yes (harmless)

This spell grants you a powerful sixth sense in relation to yourself or another. Once foresight is cast, you receive instantaneous warnings of impending danger or harm to the subject of the spell. You are never surprised or flat-footed. In addition, the spell gives you a general idea of what action you might take to best protect yourself and gives you a +2 insight bonus to AC and reflex saves. This insight bonus is lost whenever you would lose a dexterity bonus to AC.

When another creature is the subject of the spell, you receive warnings about that creature. You must communicate what you learn to the other creature for the warning to be useful, and the creature can be caught unprepared in the absence of such a warning. Shouting a warning, yanking a person back, and even telepathically communicating (via an appropriate spell) can all be accomplished before some danger befalls the subject, provided you act on the warning without delay. The subject, however, does not gain the insight bonus to AC and reflex saves.

Arcane material component: a hummingbird's feather.

FOX'S CUNNING

Transmutation

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes

The transmuted creature becomes smarter. The spell grants a +4 enhancement bonus to intelligence, adding the usual benefits to intelligence-based skill checks and other uses of the intelligence modifier. Wizards (and other spellcasters who rely on intelligence) affected by this spell do not gain any additional bonus spells for the increased intelligence, but the save DCs for spells they cast while under this spell's effect do increase. This spell doesn't grant extra skill points.

Arcane material component: a few hairs, or a pinch of dung, from a fox.

FOX'S CUNNING, MASS

Transmutation

Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 6

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

This spell functions like fox's cunning, except that it affects multiple creatures.

FREEDOM

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels) or see text

Target: one creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes

The subject is freed from spells and effects that restrict its movement, including binding, entangle, grappling, imprisonment, maze, paralysis, petrification, pinning, sleep, slow, stunning, temporal stasis, and web. To free a creature from imprisonment or maze, you must know its name and back ground, and you must cast this spell at the spot where it was entombed or banished into the maze.

FREEDOM OF MOVEMENT

Abjuration

Level: brd 4, clr 4, drd 4, luck 4, rgr 4

Components: V, S, M, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal or touch

Target: you or creature touched

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

This spell enables you or a creature you touch to move and attack normally for the duration of the spell, even under the influence of magic that usually impedes movement, such as paralysis, solid fog, slow, and web. The subject automatically succeeds on any grapple check made to resist a grapple attempt, as well as on grapple checks or escape artist checks made to escape a grapple or a pin.

The spell also allows the subject to move and attack normally while underwater, even with slashing weapons such as axes and swords or with bludgeoning weapons such as flails, hammers, and maces, provided that the weapon is wielded in the hand rather than hurled. The freedom of movement spell does not, however, allow water breathing.

Material component: a leather thong, bound around the arm or a similar appendage.

FREEZING SPHERE

Evocation [cold]

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Target, effect, or area: see text

Duration: instantaneous or 1 round/level; see text

Saving throw: reflex half; see text

Spell resistance: yes

Freezing sphere creates a frigid globe of cold energy that streaks from your fingertips to the location you select, where it explodes in a 10-foot-radius burst, dealing 1d6 points of cold damage per caster level (maximum 15d6) to each creature in the area. An elemental (water) creature instead takes 1d8 points of cold damage per caster level (maximum 15d8).

If the freezing sphere strikes a body of water or a liquid that is principally water (not including water-based creatures), it freezes the liquid to a depth of 6 inches over an area equal to 100 square feet (a 10-foot square) per caster level (maximum 1,500 square feet). This ice lasts for 1 round per caster level. Creatures that were swimming on the surface of frozen water become trapped in the ice. Attempting to break free is a full-round action. A trapped creature must make a DC 25 strength check or a DC 25 escape artist check to do so.

You can refrain from firing the globe after completing the spell, if you wish. Treat this as a touch spell for which you are holding the charge. You can hold the charge for as long as 1 round per level, at the end of which time the freezing sphere bursts centered on you (and you receive no saving throw to resist its effect). Firing the globe in a later round is a standard action.

Focus: a small crystal sphere.

GASEOUS FORM

Transmutation

Level: air 3, brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: willing corporeal creature touched

Duration: 2 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The subject and all its gear become insubstantial, misty, and translucent. Its material armor (including natural armor) becomes worthless, though its size, dexterity, deflection bonuses, and armor bonuses from force effects still apply. The subject gains damage reduction 10/magic and becomes immune to poison and critical hits. It can't attack or cast spells with verbal, somatic, material, or focus components while in gaseous form. (This does not rule out the use of certain spells that the subject may have prepared using the feats silent spell, still spell, and eschew materials.) The subject also loses supernatural abilities while in gaseous form. If it has a touch spell ready to use, that spell is discharged harmlessly when the gaseous form spell takes effect.

A gaseous creature can't run, but it can fly at a speed of 10 feet (maneuverability perfect). It can pass through small holes or narrow openings, even mere cracks, with all it was wearing or holding in its hands, as long as the spell persists. The creature is subject to the effects of wind, and it can't enter water or other liquid. It also can't manipulate objects or activate items, even those carried along with its gaseous form. Continuously active items remain active, though in some cases their effects may be moot.

Arcane material component: a bit of gauze and a wisp of smoke.

GATE

Conjuration (creation or calling)

Level: clr 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S, XP; see text

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: see text

Duration: instantaneous or concentration (up to 1 round/level); see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Casting a gate spell has two effects. First, it creates an interdimensional connection between your plane of existence and a plane you specify, allowing travel between those two planes in either direction.

Second, you may then call a particular individual or kind of being through the gate.

The gate itself is a circular hoop or disk from 5 to 20 feet in diameter (caster's choice), oriented in the direction you desire when it comes into existence (typically vertical and facing you). It is a two-dimensional window looking into the plane you specified when casting the spell, and anyone or anything that moves through is shunted instantly to the other side.

A gate has a front and a back. Creatures moving through the gate from the front are transported to the other plane; creatures moving through it from the back are not.

Planar travel: as a mode of planar travel, a gate spell functions much like a plane shift spell, except that the gate opens precisely at the point you desire (a creation effect). Deities and other beings who rule a planar realm can prevent a gate from opening in their presence or personal demesnes if they so desire. Travelers need not join hands with you—anyone who chooses to step through the portal is transported. A gate cannot be opened to another point on the same plane; the spell works only for interplanar travel.

You may hold the gate open only for a brief time (no more than 1 round per caster level), and you must concentrate on doing so, or else the interplanar connection is severed.

Calling creatures: the second effect of the gate spell is to call an extraplanar creature to your aid (a calling effect). By naming a particular being or kind of being as you cast the spell, you cause the gate to open in the immediate vicinity of the desired creature and pull the subject through, willing or unwilling. Deities and unique beings are under no compulsion to come through the gate, although they may choose to do so of their own accord. This use of the spell creates a gate that remains open just long enough to transport the called creatures. This use of the spell has an XP cost (see below).

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

If you choose to call a kind of creature instead of a known individual you may call either a single creature (of any HD) or several creatures. You can call and control several creatures as long as their HD total does not exceed your caster level. In the case of a single creature, you can control it if its HD do not exceed twice your caster level. A single creature with more HD than twice your caster level can't be controlled. Deities and unique beings cannot be controlled in any event. An uncontrolled being acts as it pleases, making the calling of such creatures rather dangerous. An uncontrolled being may return to its home plane at any time.

A controlled creature can be commanded to perform a service for you. Such services fall into two categories: immediate tasks and contractual service. Fighting for you in a single battle or taking any other actions that can be accomplished within 1 round per caster level counts as an immediate task; you need not make any agreement or pay any reward for the creature's help. The creature departs at the end of the spell.

If you choose to exact a longer or more involved form of service from a called creature, you must offer some fair trade in return for that service. The service exacted must be reasonable with respect to the promised favor or reward; see the lesser planar ally spell for appropriate rewards. (Some creatures may want their payment in "livestock" rather than in coin, which could involve complications.) Immediately upon completion of the service, the being is transported to your vicinity, and you must then and there turn over the promised reward. After this is done, the creature is instantly freed to return to its own plane.

Failure to fulfill the promise to the letter results in your being subjected to service by the creature or by its liege and master, at the very least. At worst, the creature or its kin may attack you.

Note: when you use a calling spell such as gate to call an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it becomes a spell of that type.

XP cost: 1,000 XP (only for the calling creatures function).

GEAS/QUEST

Enchantment (compulsion) [language-dependent, mind-affecting]

Level: brd 6, clr 6, sor/wiz 6

Casting time: 10 minutes

Target: one living creature

Saving throw: none

This spell functions similarly to lesser geas, except that it affects a creature of any HD and allows no saving throw.

Instead of taking penalties to ability scores (as with lesser geas), the subject takes 3d6 points of damage each day it does not attempt to follow the geas/quest. Additionally, each day it must make a fortitude saving throw or become sickened. These effects end 24 hours after the creature attempts to resume the geas/quest.

A remove curse spell ends a geas/quest spell only if its caster level is at least two higher than your caster level. Break enchantment does not end a geas/quest, but limited wish, miracle, and wish do.

Bards, sorcerers, and wizards usually refer to this spell as geas, while clerics call the same spell quest.

GEAS, LESSER

Enchantment (compulsion) [language-dependent, mind-affecting]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 4

Components: V

Casting time: 1 round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature with 7 HD or less

Duration: one day/level or until discharged (d)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

A lesser geas places a magical command on a creature to carry out some service or to refrain from some action or course of activity, as desired by you. The creature must have 7 or fewer hit dice and be able to understand you. While a geas cannot compel a creature to kill itself or perform acts that would result in certain death, it can cause almost any other course of activity.

The geased creature must follow the given instructions until the geas is completed, no matter how long it takes.

If the instructions involve some open-ended task that the recipient cannot complete through his own actions the spell remains in effect for a maximum of one day per caster level. A clever recipient can subvert some instructions:

If the subject is prevented from obeying the lesser geas for 24 hours, it takes a -2 penalty to each of its ability scores. Each day, another -2 penalty accumulates, up to a total of -8. No ability score can be reduced to less than 1 by this effect. The ability score penalties are removed 24 hours after the subject resumes obeying the lesser geas.

A lesser geas (and all ability score penalties) can be ended by break enchantment, limited wish, remove curse, miracle, or wish. Dispel magic does not affect a lesser geas.

GENTLE REPOSE

Necromancy

Level: clr 2, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: corpse touched

Duration: one day/level

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

You preserve the remains of a dead creature so that they do not decay. Doing so effectively extends the time limit on raising that creature from the dead (see raise dead). Days spent under the influence of this spell don't count against the time limit. Additionally, this spell makes transporting a fallen comrade more pleasant.

The spell also works on severed body parts and the like.

Arcane material component: a pinch of salt, and a copper piece for each eye the corpse has (or had).

GHOST SOUND

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 0, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: illusory sounds

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

Ghost sound allows you to create a volume of sound that rises, recedes, approaches, or remains at a fixed place. You choose what type of sound ghost sound creates when casting it and cannot thereafter change the sound's basic character.

The volume of sound created depends on your level. You can produce as much noise as four normal humans per caster level (maximum twenty humans). Thus, talking, singing, shouting, walking, marching, or running sounds can be created. The noise a ghost sound spell produces can be virtually any type of sound within the volume limit. A horde of rats running and squeaking is about the same volume as eight humans running and shouting. A roaring lion is equal to the noise from sixteen humans, while a roaring dire tiger is equal to the noise from twenty humans.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Ghost sound can enhance the effectiveness of a silent image spell.

Ghost sound can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

Material component: a bit of wool or a small lump of wax.

GHOU TOUCH

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: living humanoid touched

Duration: 1d6+2 rounds

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

Imbuing you with negative energy, this spell allows you to paralyze a single living humanoid for the duration of the spell with a successful melee touch attack.

Additionally, the paralyzed subject exudes a carrion stench that causes all living creatures (except you) in a 10-foot-radius spread to become sickened (fortitude negates). A neutralize poison spell removes the effect from a sickened creature, and creatures immune to poison are unaffected by the stench.

Material component: a small scrap of cloth taken from clothing worn by a ghoul, or a pinch of earth from a ghoul's lair.

GIANT VERMIN

Transmutation

Level: clr 4, drd 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: up to three vermin, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

You turn three normal-sized centipedes, two normal-sized spiders, or a single normal-sized scorpion into larger forms. Only one type of vermin can be transmuted (so a single casting cannot affect both a centipede and a spider), and all must be grown to the same size. The size to which the vermin can be grown depends on your level; see the table below.

Any giant vermin created by this spell do not attempt to harm you, but your control of such creatures is limited to simple commands ("attack," "defend," "stop," and so forth). Orders to attack a certain creature when it appears or guard against a particular occurrence are too complex for the vermin to understand. Unless commanded to do otherwise, the giant vermin attack whoever or whatever is near them.

Caster Level	Vermin Size
9th or lower	Medium
10th–13th	Large
14th–17th	Huge
18th–19th	Gargantuan
20th or higher	Colossal

GLIBNESS

Transmutation

Level: brd 3

Components: S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Your speech becomes fluent and more believable. You gain a +30 bonus on bluff checks made to convince another of the truth of your words. (This bonus doesn't apply to other uses of the bluff skill, such as feinting in combat, creating a diversion to hide, or communicating a hidden message via innuendo.)

If a divination is attempted against you that would detect your lies or force you to speak the truth the caster of the divination must succeed on a caster level check (1d20 + caster level) against a DC of 15 + your caster level to succeed. Failure means the divination does not detect your lies or force you to speak only the truth.

GLITTERDUST

Conjuration (creation)

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: creatures and objects within 10-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates (blinding only)

Spell resistance: no

A cloud of golden particles covers everyone and everything in the area, causing creatures to become blinded and visibly outlining invisible things for the duration of the spell. All within the area are covered by the dust, which cannot be removed and continues to sparkle until it fades.

Any creature covered by the dust takes a -40 penalty on hide checks.

Material component: ground mica.

GLOBE OF INVULNERABILITY

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 6

This spell functions like lesser globe of invulnerability, except that it also excludes 4th-level spells and spell-like effects.

GLOBE OF INVULNERABILITY, LESSER

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 10 ft.

Area: 10-ft.-Radius spherical emanation, centered on you

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

An immobile, faintly shimmering magical sphere surrounds you and excludes all spell effects of 3rd level or lower. The area or effect of any such spells does not include the area of the lesser globe of invulnerability. Such spells fail to affect any target located within the globe. Excluded effects include spell-like abilities and spells or spell-like effects from items. However, any type of spell can be cast through or out of the magical globe. Spells of 4th level and higher are not affected by the globe, nor are spells already in effect when the globe is cast. The globe can be brought down by a targeted dispel magic spell, but not by an area dispel magic. You can leave and return to the globe without penalty.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Note that spell effects are not disrupted unless their effects enter the globe, and even then they are merely suppressed, not dispelled.

If a given spell has more than one level depending on which character class is casting it, use the level appropriate to the caster to determine whether lesser globe of invulnerability stops it.

Material component: a glass or crystal bead that shatters at the expiration of the spell.

GLYPH OF WARDING

Abjuration

Level: clr 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: touch

Target or area: object touched or up to 5 sq. Ft./Level

Duration: permanent until discharged (d)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no (object) and yes; see text

This powerful inscription harms those who enter, pass, or open the warded area or object. A glyph of warding can guard a bridge or passage, ward a portal, trap a chest or box, and so on.

You set the conditions of the ward. Typically, any creature entering the warded area or opening the warded object without speaking a password (which you set when casting the spell) is subject to the magic it stores. Alternatively or in addition to a password trigger, glyphs can be set according to physical characteristics (such as height or weight) or creature type, subtype, or kind. Glyphs can also be set with respect to good, evil, law, or chaos, or to pass those of your religion. They cannot be set according to class, hit dice, or level. Glyphs respond to invisible creatures normally but are not triggered by those who travel past them ethereally. Multiple glyphs cannot be cast on the same area. However, if a cabinet has three drawers, each can be separately warded.

When casting the spell, you weave a tracery of faintly glowing lines around the warding sigil. A glyph can be placed to conform to any shape up to the limitations of your total square footage. When the spell is completed, the glyph and tracery become nearly invisible.

Glyphs cannot be affected or bypassed by such means as physical or magical probing, though they can be dispelled. Mislead, polymorph, and nondetection (and similar magical effects) can fool a glyph, though nonmagical disguises and the like can't. Read magic allows you to identify a glyph of warding with a DC 13 spellcraft check. Identifying the glyph does not discharge it and allows you to know the basic nature of the glyph (version, type of damage caused, what spell is stored).

Note: magic traps such as glyph of warding are hard to detect and disable. A rogue (only) can use the search skill to find the glyph and disable device to thwart it. The DC in each case is 25 + spell level, or 28 for glyph of warding.

Depending on the version selected, a glyph either blasts the intruder or activates a spell.

Blast glyph: a blast glyph deals 1d8 points of damage per two caster levels (maximum 5d8) to the intruder and to all within 5 feet of him or her. This damage is acid, cold, fire, electricity, or sonic (caster's choice, made at time of casting). Each creature affected can attempt a reflex save to take half damage. Spell resistance applies against this effect.

Spell glyph: you can store any harmful spell of 3rd level or lower that you know. All level-dependent features of the spell are based on your caster level at the time of casting the glyph. If the spell has a target, it targets the intruder. If the spell has an area or an amorphous effect the area or effect is centered on the intruder. If the spell summons creatures, they appear as close as possible to the intruder and attack. Saving throws and spell resistance operate as normal, except that the DC is based on the level of the spell stored in the glyph.

Material component: you trace the glyph with incense, which must first be sprinkled with powdered diamond worth at least 200 gp.

GLYPH OF WARDING, GREATER

Abjuration

Level: clr 6

This spell functions like glyph of warding, except that a greater blast glyph deals up to 10d8 points of damage, and a greater spell glyph can store a spell of 6th level or lower.

Material component: you trace the glyph with incense, which must first be sprinkled with powdered diamond worth at least 400 gp.

GOODBERRY

Transmutation

Level: drd 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Targets: 2d4 fresh berries touched

Duration: one day/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

Casting goodberry upon a handful of freshly picked berries makes 2d4 of them magical. You (as well as any other druid of 3rd or higher level) can immediately discern which berries are affected. Each transmuted berry provides nourishment as if it were a normal meal for a medium creature. The berry also cures 1 point of damage when eaten, subject to a maximum of 8 points of such curing in any 24-hour period.

GOOD HOPE

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: one living creature/level, no two of which may be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

This spell instills powerful hope in the subjects. Each affected creature gains a +2 morale bonus on saving throws, attack rolls, ability checks, skill checks, and weapon damage rolls.

Good hope counters and dispels crushing despair.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

GRASPING HAND

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 7, strength 7

Components: V, S, F/DF

This spell functions like interposing hand, except the hand can also grapple one opponent that you select. The grasping hand gets one grapple attack per round.

Its attack bonus to make contact equals your caster level + your intelligence, wisdom, or charisma modifier (for wizards, clerics, and sorcerers, respectively), +10 for the hand's strength score (31), -1 for being large. Its grapple bonus is this same figure, except with a +4 modifier for being large instead of -1. The hand holds but does not harm creatures it grapples.

Directing the spell to a new target is a move action.

The grasping hand can also bull rush an opponent as forceful hand does, but at a +16 bonus on the strength check (+10 for strength 35, +4 for being large, and a +2 bonus for charging, which it always gets), or interpose itself as interposing hand does.

Clerics who cast this spell name it for their deities.

Arcane focus: a leather glove.

GREASE

Conjuration (creation)

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target or area: one object or a 10-ft. Square

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

A grease spell covers a solid surface with a layer of slippery grease. Any creature in the area when the spell is cast must make a successful reflex save or fall. This save is repeated on your turn each round that the creature remains within the area. A creature can walk within or through the area of grease at half normal speed with a DC 10 balance check. Failure means it can't move that round (and must then make a reflex save or fall), while failure by 5 or more means it falls (see the balance skill for details).

The spell can also be used to create a greasy coating on an item. Material objects not in use are always affected by this spell, while an object wielded or employed by a creature receives a reflex saving throw to avoid the effect. If the initial saving throw fails, the creature immediately drops the item. A saving throw must be made in each round that the creature attempts to pick up or use the greased item. A creature wearing greased armor or clothing gains a +10 circumstance bonus on escape artist checks and on grapple checks made to resist or escape a grapple or to escape a pin.

Material component: a bit of pork rind or butter.

GREATER (SPELL NAME)

Any spell whose name begins with greater is alphabetized in this chapter according to the second word of the spell name. Thus, the description of a greater spell appears near the description of the spell on which it is based. Spell chains that have greater spells in them include those based on the spells arcane sight, command, dispel magic, glyph of warding, invisibility, magic fang, magic weapon, planar ally, planar binding, prying eyes, restoration, scrying, shadow conjuration, shadow evocation, shout, and teleport.

GUARDS AND WARDS

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M, F

Casting time: 30 minutes

Range: anywhere within the area to be warded

Area: up to 200 sq. Ft./Level (s)

Duration: 2 hours/level (d)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: see text

This powerful spell is primarily used to defend your stronghold. The ward protects 200 square feet per caster level. The warded area can be as much as 20 feet high, and shaped as you desire. You can ward several stories of a stronghold by dividing the area among them; you must be somewhere within the area to be warded to cast the spell. The spell creates the following magical effects within the warded area.

Fog: fog fills all corridors, obscuring all sight, including darkvision, beyond 5 feet. A creature within 5 feet has concealment (attacks have a 20% miss chance). Creatures farther away have total concealment (50% miss chance, and the attacker cannot use sight to locate the target). Saving throw: none. Spell resistance: no.

Arcane locks: all doors in the warded area are arcane locked. Saving throw: none. Spell resistance: no.

Webs: webs fill all stairs from top to bottom. These strands are identical with those created by the web spell, except that they regrow in 10 minutes if they are burned or torn away while the guards and wards spell lasts. Saving throw: reflex negates; see text for web. Spell resistance: no.

Confusion: where there are choices in direction—such as a corridor intersection or side passage—a minor confusion-type effect functions so as to make it 50% probable that intruders believe they are going in the opposite direction from the one they actually chose. This is an enchantment, mind-affecting effect. Saving throw: none. Spell resistance: yes.

Lost doors: one door per caster level is covered by a silent image to appear as if it were a plain wall. Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with). Spell resistance: no.

In addition, you can place your choice of one of the following five magical effects.

1. Dancing lights in four corridors. You can designate a simple program that causes the lights to repeat as long as the guards and wards spell lasts. Saving throw: none. Spell resistance: no.

2. A magic mouth in two places. Saving throw: none. Spell resistance: no.

3. A stinking cloud in two places. The vapors appear in the places you designate; they return within 10 minutes if dispersed by wind while the guards and wards spell lasts. Saving throw: fortitude negates; see text for stinking cloud. Spell resistance: no.

4. A gust of wind in one corridor or room. Saving throw: fortitude negates. Spell resistance: yes.

5. A suggestion in one place. You select an area of up to 5 feet square, and any creature who enters or passes through the area receives the suggestion mentally. Saving throw: will negates. Spell resistance: yes.

The whole warded area radiates strong magic of the abjuration school. A dispel magic cast on a specific effect, if successful, removes only that effect. A successful mage's disjunction destroys the entire guards and wards effect.

Material component: burning incense, a small measure of brimstone and oil, a knotted string, and a small amount of blood.

Focus: a small silver rod.

GUIDANCE

Divination
Level: clr 0, drd 0
Components: V, S
Casting time: 1 standard action
Range: touch
Target: creature touched
Duration: 1 minute or until discharged
Saving throw: will negates (harmless)
Spell resistance: yes
 This spell imbues the subject with a touch of divine guidance. The creature gets a +1 competence bonus on a single attack roll, saving throw, or skill check. It must choose to use the bonus before making the roll to which it applies.

GUST OF WIND

Evocation [air]
Level: drd 2, sor/wiz 2
Components: V, S
Casting time: 1 standard action
Range: 60 ft.
Effect: line-shaped gust of severe wind emanating out from you to the extreme of the range
Duration: 1 round
Saving throw: fortitude negates
Spell resistance: yes
 This spell creates a severe blast of air (approximately 50 mph) that originates from you, affecting all creatures in its path.
 A tiny or smaller creature on the ground is knocked down and rolled 1d4x10 feet, taking 1d4 points of nonlethal damage per 10 feet. If flying, a tiny or smaller creature is blown back 2d6x10 feet and takes 2d6 points of nonlethal damage due to battering and buffeting.
 Small creatures are knocked prone by the force of the wind, or if flying are blown back 1d6x10 feet.
 Medium creatures are unable to move forward against the force of the wind, or if flying are blown back 1d6x5 feet.
 Large or larger creatures may move normally within a gust of wind effect.
 A gust of wind can't move a creature beyond the limit of its range.
 Any creature, regardless of size, takes a -4 penalty on ranged attacks and listen checks in the area of a gust of wind.
 The force of the gust automatically extinguishes candles, torches, and similar unprotected flames. It causes protected flames, such as those of lanterns, to dance wildly and has a 50% chance to extinguish those lights.
 In addition to the effects noted, a gust of wind can do anything that a sudden blast of wind would be expected to do. It can create a stinging spray of sand or dust, fan a large fire, overturn delicate awnings or hangings, heel over a small boat, and blow gases or vapors to the edge of its range.
Gust of wind can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

HALLOW

Evocation [good]
Level: clr 5, drd 5
Components: V, S, M, DF
Casting time: 24 hours
Range: touch
Area: 40-ft. Radius emanating from the touched point
Duration: instantaneous
Saving throw: see text
Spell resistance: see text
Hallow makes a particular site, building, or structure a holy site. This has four major effects.
 First, the site or structure is guarded by a magic circle against evil effect.
 Second, all charisma checks made to turn undead gain a +4 sacred bonus, and charisma checks to command undead take a -4 penalty. Spell resistance does not apply to this effect. (This provision does not apply to the druid version of the spell.)
 Third, any dead body interred in a hallowed site cannot be turned into an undead creature.
 Finally, you may choose to fix a single spell effect to the hallowed site. The spell effect lasts for one year and functions throughout the entire site, regardless of the normal duration and area or effect. You may designate whether the effect applies to all creatures, creatures who share your faith or alignment, or creatures who adhere to another faith or alignment. At the end of the year, the chosen effect lapses, but it can be renewed or replaced simply by casting hallow again.
 Spell effects that may be tied to a hallowed site include aid, bane, bless, cause fear, darkness, daylight, death ward, deeper darkness, detect evil, detect magic, dimensional anchor, discern lies, dispel magic, endure elements, freedom of movement, invisibility purge, protection from energy, remove fear, resist energy, silence, tongues, and zone of truth. Saving throws and spell resistance might apply to these spells' effects. (See the individual spell descriptions for details.)

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

An area can receive only one hallow spell (and its associated spell effect) at a time. Hallow counters but does not dispel unhallow.

Material component: herbs, oils, and incense worth at least 1,000 gp, plus 1,000 gp per level of the spell to be included in the hallowed area.

HALLUCINATORY TERRAIN

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: one 30-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: 2 hours/level (d)

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

You make natural terrain look, sound, and smell like some other sort of natural terrain. Structures, equipment, and creatures within the area are not hidden or changed in appearance.

Material component: a stone, a twig, and a bit of green plant.

HALT UNDEAD

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: up to three undead creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates (see text)

Spell resistance: yes

This spell renders as many as three undead creatures immobile. A nonintelligent undead creature gets no saving throw; an intelligent undead creature does. If the spell is successful, it renders the undead creature immobile for the duration of the spell (similar to the effect of hold person on a living creature). The effect is broken if the halted creatures are attacked or take damage.

Material component: a pinch of sulfur and powdered garlic.

HARM

Necromancy

Level: clr 6, destruction 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will half; see text

Spell resistance: yes

Harm charges a subject with negative energy that deals 10 points of damage per caster level (to a maximum of 150 points at 15th level). If the creature successfully saves, harm deals half this amount, but it cannot reduce the target's hit points to less than 1.

If used on an undead creature, harm acts like heal.

HASTE

Transmutation

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: fortitude negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The transmuted creatures move and act more quickly than normal. This extra speed has several effects.

When making a full attack action, a hasted creature may make one extra attack with any weapon he is holding. The attack is made using the creature's full base attack bonus, plus any modifiers appropriate to the situation. (This effect is not cumulative with similar effects, such as that provided by a weapon of speed, nor does it actually grant an extra action, so you can't use it to cast a second spell or otherwise take an extra action in the round.)

A hasted creature gains a +1 bonus on attack rolls and a +1 dodge bonus to AC and reflex saves. Any condition that makes you lose your dexterity bonus to armor class (if any) also makes you lose dodge bonuses.

All of the hasted creature's modes of movement (including land movement, burrow, climb, fly, and swim) increase by 30 feet, to a maximum of twice the subject's normal speed using that form of movement. This increase counts as an enhancement bonus, and it affects the creature's jumping distance as normal for increased speed.

Multiple haste effects don't stack. Haste dispels and counters slow.

Material component: a shaving of licorice root.

HEAL

Conjuration (healing)

Level: clr 6, drd 7, healing 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

Heal enables you to channel positive energy into a creature to wipe away injury and afflictions. It immediately ends any and all of the following adverse conditions affecting the target: ability damage, blinded, confused, dazed, dazzled, deafened, diseased, exhausted, fatigued, feble-minded, insanity, nauseated, sickened, stunned, and poisoned. It also cures 10 hit points of damage per level of the caster, to a maximum of 150 points at 15th level.

Heal does not remove negative levels, restore permanently drained levels, or restore permanently drained ability score points.

If used against an undead creature, heal instead acts like harm.

HEAL, MASS

Conjuration (healing)

Level: clr 9, healing 9

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

This spell functions like heal, except as noted above. The maximum number of hit points restored to each creature is 250.

HEAL MOUNT

Conjuration (healing)

Level: pal 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: your mount touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

This spell functions like heal, but it affects only the paladin's special mount (typically a warhorse).

HEAT METAL

Transmutation [fire]

Level: drd 2, sun 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: metal equipment of one creature/two levels, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart; or 25 lb. of metal/level, all of which must be within a 30-ft. circle

Duration: 7 rounds

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

Heat metal makes metal extremely warm. Unattended, nonmagical metal gets no saving throw. Magical metal is allowed a saving throw against the spell. An item in a creature's possession uses the creature's saving throw bonus unless its own is higher.

A creature takes fire damage if its equipment is heated. It takes full damage if its armor is affected or if it is holding, touching, wearing, or carrying metal weighing 1/5 of its weight. The creature takes minimum damage (1 point or 2 points; see the table) if it's not wearing metal armor and the metal that it's carrying weighs less than 1/5 of its weight.

On the first round of the spell, the metal becomes warm and uncomfortable to touch but deals no damage. The same effect also occurs on the last round of the spell's duration. During the second (and also the next-to-last) round, intense heat causes pain and damage. In the third, fourth, and fifth rounds, the metal is searing hot, causing more damage, as shown on the table below.

Round	Metal Temperature	Damage
1	Warm	None
2	Hot	1d4 points
3–5	Searing	2d4 points
6	Hot	1d4 points
7	Warm	None

Any cold intense enough to damage the creature negates fire damage from the spell (and vice versa) on a point-for-point basis. If cast underwater, heat metal deals half damage and boils the surrounding water.

Heat metal counters and dispels chill metal.

HELPING HAND

Evocation

Level: clr 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 5 miles

Effect: ghostly hand

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You create the ghostly image of a hand, which you can send to find a creature within 5 miles. The hand then beckons to that creature and leads it to you if the creature is willing to follow.

When the spell is cast, the hand appears in front of you. You then specify a person (or any creature) by physical description, which can include race, gender, and appearance but not ambiguous factors such as level, alignment, or class. When the description is complete, the hand streaks off in search of a subject that fits the description. The amount of time it takes to find the subject depends on how far away she is.

Distance	Time to Locate
100 ft. or less	1 round
1,000 ft.	1 minute
1 mile	10 minutes
2 miles	1 hour
3 miles	2 hours
4 miles	3 hours
5 miles	4 hours

Once the hand locates the subject, it beckons the creature to follow it. If the subject does so, the hand points in your direction, indicating the most direct feasible route. The hand hovers 10 feet in front of the subject, moving before it at a speed of as much as 240 feet per round. Once the hand leads the subject back to you, it disappears.

The subject is not compelled to follow the hand or act in any particular way toward you. If the subject chooses not to follow, the hand continues to beckon for the duration of the spell, then disappears. If the spell expires while the subject is en route to you, the hand disappears; the subject must then rely on her own devices to locate you.

If more than one subject in a 5-mile radius meets the description, the hand locates the closest creature. If that creature refuses to follow the hand, the hand does not seek out a second subject.

If, at the end of 4 hours of searching, the hand has found no subject that matches the description within 5 miles, it returns to you, displays an outstretched palm (indicating that no such creature was found), and disappears.

The ghostly hand has no physical form. It is invisible to anyone except you and a potential subject. It cannot engage in combat or execute any other task aside from locating a subject and leading it back to you. The hand can't pass through solid objects but can ooze through small cracks and slits. The hand cannot travel more than 5 miles from the spot it appeared when you cast the spell.

HEROES' FEAST

Conjuration [creation]

Level: brd 6, clr 6

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: feast for one creature/level

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Duration: 1 hour plus 12 hours; see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You bring forth a great feast, including a magnificent table, chairs, service, and food and drink. The feast takes 1 hour to consume, and the beneficial effects do not set in until this hour is over. Every creature partaking of the feast is cured of all diseases, sickness, and nausea; becomes immune to poison for 12 hours; and gains 1d8 temporary hit points +1 point per two caster levels (maximum +10) after imbibing the nectar-like beverage that is part of the feast. The ambrosial food that is consumed grants each creature that partakes a +1 morale bonus on attack rolls and will saves and immunity to fear effects for 12 hours.

If the feast is interrupted for any reason, the spell is ruined and all effects of the spell are negated.

HEROISM

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

This spell imbues a single creature with great bravery and morale in battle. The target gains a +2 morale bonus on attack rolls, saves, and skill checks.

HEROISM, GREATER

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 6

Duration: 1 min./Level

This spell functions like heroism, except the creature gains a +4 morale bonus on attack rolls, saves, and skill checks, immunity to fear effects, and temporary hit points equal to your caster level (maximum 20).

HIDE FROM ANIMALS

Abjuration

Level: drd 1, rgr 1

Components: S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Targets: one creature touched/level

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes

Animals cannot see, hear, or smell the warded creatures. Even extraordinary or supernatural sensory capabilities, such as blindsense, blindsight, scent, and tremorsense, cannot detect or locate warded creatures. Animals simply act as though the warded creatures are not there. If a warded character touches an animal or attacks any creature, even with a spell, the spell ends for all recipients.

HIDE FROM UNDEAD

Abjuration

Level: clr 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Targets: one touched creature/level

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless); see text

Spell resistance: yes

Undead cannot see, hear, or smell the warded creatures. Even extraordinary or supernatural sensory capabilities, such as blindsense, blindsight, scent, and tremorsense, cannot detect or locate warded creatures. Nonintelligent undead creatures are automatically affected and act as though the warded creatures are not there. An intelligent undead creature gets a single will saving throw. If it fails, the subject can't see any of the warded creatures. However, if it has reason to believe unseen opponents are present, it can attempt to find or strike them. If a warded creature attempts to turn or command undead, touches an undead creature, or attacks any creature (even with a spell), the spell ends for all recipients.

HIDEOUS LAUGHTER

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature; see text

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This spell afflicts the subject with uncontrollable laughter. It collapses into gales of manic laughter, falling prone. The subject can take no actions while laughing, but is not considered helpless. After the spell ends, it can act normally.

A creature with an intelligence score of 2 or lower is not affected. A creature whose type is different from the caster's receives a +4 bonus on its saving throw, because humor doesn't "translate" well.

Material component: tiny tarts that are thrown at the target and a feather that is waved in the air.

HOLD ANIMAL

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: animal 2, drd 2, rgr 2

Components: V, S

Target: one animal

This spell functions like hold person, except that it affects an animal instead of a humanoid.

HOLD MONSTER

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 4, law 6, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M/DF

Target: one living creature

This spell functions like hold person, except that it affects any living creature that fails its will save.

Arcane material component: one hard metal bar or rod, which can be as small as a three-penny nail.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

HOLD MONSTER, MASS

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 9

Targets: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

This spell functions like hold person, except that it affects multiple creatures and holds any living creature that fails its will save.

HOLD PERSON

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 2, clr 2, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one humanoid creature

Duration: 1 round/level (d); see text

Saving throw: will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

The subject becomes paralyzed and freezes in place. It is aware and breathes normally but cannot take any actions, even speech. Each round on its turn, the subject may attempt a new saving throw to end the effect. (This is a full-round action that does not provoke attacks of opportunity.)

A winged creature who is paralyzed cannot flap its wings and falls. A swimmer can't swim and may drown.

Arcane focus: a small, straight piece of iron.

HOLD PERSON, MASS

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 7

Targets: one or more humanoid creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

This spell functions like hold person, except as noted above.

HOLD PORTAL

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 1

Component: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one portal, up to 20 sq. Ft./Level

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell magically holds shut a door, gate, window, or shutter of wood, metal, or stone. The magic affects the portal just as if it were securely closed and normally locked. A knock spell or a successful dispel magic spell can negate a hold portal spell.

For a portal affected by this spell, add 5 to the normal DC for forcing open the portal.

HOLY AURA

Abjuration [good]

Level: clr 8, good 8

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 20 ft.

Targets: one creature/level in a 20-ft.-radius burst centered on you

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

A brilliant divine radiance surrounds the subjects, protecting them from attacks, granting them resistance to spells cast by evil creatures, and causing evil creatures to become blinded when they strike the subjects. This abjuration has four effects.

First, each warded creature gains a +4 deflection bonus to AC and a +4 resistance bonus on saves. Unlike protection from evil, this benefit applies against all attacks, not just against attacks by evil creatures.

Second, each warded creature gains spell resistance 25 against evil spells and spells cast by evil creatures.

Third, the abjuration blocks possession and mental influence, just as protection from evil does.

Finally, if an evil creature succeeds on a melee attack against a warded creature, the offending attacker is blinded (fortitude save negates, as blindness/deafness, but against holy aura's save DC).

Focus: a tiny reliquary containing some sacred relic. The reliquary costs at least 500 gp.

HOLY SMITE

Evocation [good]

Level: good 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: 20-ft.-Radius burst

Duration: instantaneous (1 round); see text

Saving throw: will partial; see text

Spell resistance: yes

You draw down holy power to smite your enemies. Only evil and neutral creatures are harmed by the spell; good creatures are unaffected.

The spell deals 1d8 points of damage per two caster levels (maximum 5d8) to each evil creature in the area (or 1d6 points of damage per caster level, maximum 10d6, to an evil outsider) and causes it to become blinded for 1 round. A successful will saving throw reduces damage to half and negates the blinded effect.

The spell deals only half damage to creatures who are neither good nor evil, and they are not blinded. Such a creature can reduce that damage by half (down to one-quarter of the roll) with a successful will save.

HOLY SWORD

Evocation [good]

Level: pal 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: melee weapon touched

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell allows you to channel holy power into your sword, or any other melee weapon you choose. The weapon acts as a +5 holy weapon (+5 enhancement bonus on attack and damage rolls, extra 2d6 damage against evil opponents). It also emits a magic circle against evil effect (as the spell). If the magic circle ends, the sword creates a new one on your turn as a free action. The spell is automatically canceled 1 round after the weapon leaves your hand. You cannot have more than one holy sword at a time.

If this spell is cast on a magic weapon, the powers of the spell supersede any that the weapon normally has, rendering the normal enhancement bonus and powers of the weapon inoperative for the duration of the spell. This spell is not cumulative with bless weapon or any other spell that might modify the weapon in any way.

This spell does not work on artifacts.

Note: a masterwork weapon's bonus to attack does not stack with an enhancement bonus to attack.

HOLY WORD

Evocation [good, sonic]

Level: clr 7, good 7

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 40 ft.

Area: non-good creatures in a 40-ft-radius spread centered on you

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none or will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

Any nongood creature within the area that hears the holy word suffers the following ill effects.

HD	Effect
Equal to caster level	Deafened
Up to caster level	-1 Blinded, deafened
Up to caster level	-5 Paralyzed, blinded, deafened
Up to caster level	-10 Killed, paralyzed, blinded, deafened

The effects are cumulative and concurrent. No saving throw is allowed against these effects.

Deafened: the creature is deafened for 1d4 rounds.

Blinded: the creature is blinded for 2d4 rounds.

Paralyzed: the creature is paralyzed and helpless for 1d10 minutes.

Killed: living creatures die. Undead creatures are destroyed.

Furthermore, if you are on your home plane when you cast this spell, nongood extraplanar creatures within the area are instantly banished back to their home planes. Creatures so banished cannot return for at least 24 hours. This effect takes place regardless of whether the creatures hear the holy word. The banishment effect allows a will save (at a -4 penalty) to negate.

Creatures whose HD exceed your caster level are unaffected by holy word.

HORRID WILTING

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 8, water 8

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Targets: living creatures, no two of which can be more than 60 ft. apart

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude half

Spell resistance: yes

This spell evaporates moisture from the body of each subject living creature, dealing 1d6 points of damage per caster level (maximum 20d6). This spell is especially devastating to water elementals and plant creatures, which instead take 1d8 points of damage per caster level (maximum 20d8).

Arcane material component: a bit of sponge.

HYPNOTIC PATTERN

Illusion (pattern) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V (brd only), S, M; see text

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: colorful lights in a 10-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: concentration + 2 rounds

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

A twisting pattern of subtle, shifting colors weaves through the air, fascinating creatures within it. Roll 2d4 and add your caster level (maximum 10) to determine the total number of hit dice of creatures affected. Creatures with the fewest HD are affected first; and, among creatures with equal HD, those who are closest to the spell's point of origin are affected first. Hit dice that are not sufficient to affect a creature are wasted. Affected creatures become fascinated by the pattern of colors. Sightless creatures are not affected.

A wizard or sorcerer need not utter a sound to cast this spell, but a bard must sing, play music, or recite a rhyme as a verbal component.

Material component: a glowing stick of incense or a crystal rod filled with phosphorescent material.

HYPNOTISM

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: several living creatures, no two of which may be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 2d4 rounds (d)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

Your gestures and droning incantation fascinate nearby creatures, causing them to stop and stare blankly at you. In addition, you can use their rapt attention to make your suggestions and requests seem more plausible. Roll 2d4 to see how many total hit dice of creatures you affect. Creatures with fewer HD are affected before creatures with more HD. Only creatures that can see or hear you are affected, but they do not need to understand you to be fascinated.

If you use this spell in combat, each target gains a +2 bonus on its saving throw. If the spell affects only a single creature not in combat at the time, the saving throw has a penalty of -2.

While the subject is fascinated by this spell, it reacts as though it were two steps more friendly in attitude. This allows you to make a single request of the affected creature (provided you can communicate with it). The request must be brief and reasonable. Even after the spell ends, the creature retains its new attitude toward you, but only with respect to that particular request.

A creature that fails its saving throw does not remember that you enspelled it.

ICE STORM

Evocation [cold]

Level: drd 4, sor/wiz 4, water 5Components: V, S, M/DFCasting time: 1 standard actionRange: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)Area: cylinder (20-ft. Radius, 40 ft. High)Duration: 1 full roundSaving throw: noneSpell resistance: yes

Great magical hailstones pound down for 1 full round, dealing 3d6 points of bludgeoning damage and 2d6 points of cold damage to every creature in the area. A -4 penalty applies to each listen check made within the ice storm's effect, and all land movement within its area is at half speed. At the end of the duration, the hail disappears, leaving no aftereffects (other than the damage dealt).

Arcane material component: a pinch of dust and a few drops of water.

IDENTIFY

Divination

Level: brd 1, magic 2, sor/wiz 1Components: V, S, M/DFCasting time: 1 hourRange: touchTargets: one touched objectDuration: instantaneousSaving throw: noneSpell resistance: no

The spell determines all magic properties of a single magic item, including how to activate those functions (if appropriate), and how many charges are left (if any).

Identify does not function when used on an artifact.

Arcane material component: a pearl of at least 100 gp value, crushed and stirred into wine with an owl feather; the infusion must be drunk prior to spellcasting.

ILLUSORY SCRIPT

Illusion (phantasm) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3Components: V, S, MCasting time: 1 minute or longer; see textRange: touchTarget: one touched object weighing no more than 10 lb.Duration: one day/level (d)Saving throw: will negates; see textSpell resistance: yes

You write instructions or other information on parchment, paper, or any suitable writing material. The illusory script appears to be some form of foreign or magical writing. Only the person (or people) designated by you at the time of the casting are able to read the writing; it's unintelligible to any other character, although an illusionist recognizes it as illusory script.

Any unauthorized creature attempting to read the script triggers a potent illusory effect and must make a saving throw. A successful saving throw means the creature can look away with only a mild sense of disorientation. Failure means the creature is subject to a suggestion implanted in the script by you at the time the illusory script spell was cast. The suggestion lasts only 30 minutes. Typical suggestions include "close the book and leave," "forget the existence of the book," and so forth. If successfully dispelled by dispel magic, the illusory script and its secret message disappear. The hidden message can be read by a combination of the true seeing spell with the read magic or comprehend languages spell.

The casting time depends on how long a message you wish to write, but it is always at least 1 minute.

Material component: a lead-based ink (cost of not less than 50 gp).

ILLUSORY WALL

Illusion (figment)

Level: sor/wiz 4Components: V, SCasting time: 1 standard actionRange: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)Effect: image 1 ft. By 10 ft. By 10 ft.Duration: permanentSaving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)Spell resistance: no

This spell creates the illusion of a wall, floor, ceiling, or similar surface. It appears absolutely real when viewed, but physical objects can pass through it without difficulty. When the spell is used to hide pits, traps, or normal doors, any detection abilities that do not require sight work normally. Touch or a probing search reveals the true nature of the surface, though such measures do not cause the illusion to disappear.

IMBUE WITH SPELL ABILITY

Evocation

Level: clr 4, magic 4Components: V, S, DFCasting time: 10 minutesRange: touchTarget: creature touched; see textDuration: permanent until discharged (d)Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

You transfer some of your currently prepared spells, and the ability to cast them, to another creature. Only a creature with an intelligence score of at least 5 and a wisdom score of at least 9 can receive this bestowal. Only cleric spells from the schools of abjuration, divination, and conjuration (healing) can be transferred. The number and level of spells that the subject can be granted depends on its hit dice; even multiple castings of imbue with spell ability can't exceed this limit.

HD of Recipient	Spells Imbued
2 or lower	One 1st-level spell
3–4	One or two 1st-level spells
5 or higher	One or two 1st-level spells and one 2nd-level spell

The transferred spell's variable characteristics (range, duration, area, and the like) function according to your level, not the level of the recipient.

Once you cast imbue with spell ability, you cannot prepare a new 4th-level spell to replace it until the recipient uses the imbued spells or is slain, or until you dismiss the imbue with spell ability spell. In the meantime, you remain responsible to your deity or your principles for the use to which the spell is put. If the number of 4th-level spells you can cast decreases, and that number drops below your current number of active imbue with spell ability spells, the more recently cast imbued spells are dispelled.

To cast a spell with a verbal component, the subject must be able to speak. To cast a spell with a somatic component, it must have humanlike hands. To cast a spell with a material component or focus, it must have the materials or focus.

IMPLOSION

Evocation

Level: clr 9, destruction 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one corporeal creature/round

Duration: concentration (up to 4 rounds)

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

You create a destructive resonance in a corporeal creature's body. For each round you concentrate, you cause one creature to collapse in on itself, killing it. (This effect, being instantaneous, cannot be dispelled.)

You can target a particular creature only once with each casting of the spell.

Implosion has no effect on creatures in gaseous form or on incorporeal creatures.

IMPRISONMENT

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

When you cast imprisonment and touch a creature, it is entombed in a state of suspended animation (see the temporal stasis spell) in a small sphere far beneath the surface of the earth. The subject remains there unless a freedom spell is cast at the locale where the imprisonment took place. Magical search by a crystal ball, a locate object spell, or some other similar divination does not reveal the fact that a creature is imprisoned, but discern location does. A wish or miracle spell will not free the recipient, but will reveal where it is entombed. If you know the target's name and some facts about its life, the target takes a -4 penalty on its save.

INCENDIARY CLOUD

Conjuration (creation) [fire]

Level: fire 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: cloud spreads in 20-ft. Radius, 20 ft. High

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: reflex half; see text

Spell resistance: no

An incendiary cloud spell creates a cloud of roiling smoke shot through with white-hot embers. The smoke obscures all sight as a fog cloud does. In addition, the white-hot embers within the cloud deal 4d6 points of fire damage to everything within the cloud on your turn each round. All targets can make reflex saves each round to take half damage.

As with a cloudkill spell, the smoke moves away from you at 10 feet per round. Figure out the smoke's new spread each round based on its new point of origin, which is 10 feet farther away from where you were when you cast the spell. By concentrating, you can make the cloud (actually its point of origin) move as much as 60 feet each round. Any portion of the cloud that would extend beyond your maximum range dissipates harmlessly, reducing the remainder's spread thereafter.

As with fog cloud, wind disperses the smoke, and the spell can't be cast underwater.

INFLECT CRITICAL WOUNDS

Necromancy

Level: clr 4, destruction 4

This spell functions like inflict light wounds, except that you deal 4d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +20).

INFLECT CRITICAL WOUNDS, MASS

Necromancy

Level: clr 8

This spell functions like mass inflict light wounds, except that it deals 4d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +40).

INFLECT LIGHT WOUNDS

Necromancy

Level: clr 1, destruction 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will half

Spell resistance: yes

When laying your hand upon a creature, you channel negative energy that deals 1d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +5).

Since undead are powered by negative energy, this spell cures such a creature of a like amount of damage, rather than harming it.

INFLECT LIGHT WOUNDS, MASS

Necromancy

Level: clr 5, destruction 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. apart

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will half

Spell resistance: yes

Negative energy spreads out in all directions from the point of origin, dealing 1d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +25) to nearby living enemies.

Like other inflict spells, mass inflict light wounds cures undead in its area rather than damaging them. A cleric capable of spontaneously casting inflict spells can also spontaneously cast mass inflict spells.

INFLECT MINOR WOUNDS

Necromancy

Level: clr 0

Saving throw: will negates

This spell functions like inflict light wounds, except that you deal 1 point of damage and a will save negates the damage instead of halving it.

INFLECT MODERATE WOUNDS

Necromancy

Level: clr 2

This spell functions like inflict light wounds, except that you deal 2d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +10).

INFLECT MODERATE WOUNDS, MASS

This spell functions like mass inflict light wounds, except that it deals 2d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +30).

INFLECT SERIOUS WOUNDS

Level: clr 3

This spell functions like inflict light wounds, except that you deal 3d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +15).

INFLECT SERIOUS WOUNDS, MASS

Necromancy

Level: clr 7

This spell functions like mass inflict light wounds, except that it deals 3d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +35).

INSANITY

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one living creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

The affected creature suffers from a continuous confusion effect, as the spell.

Remove curse does not remove insanity. Greater restoration, heal, limited wish, miracle, or wish can restore the creature.

INSECT PLAGUE

Conjuration (summoning)

Level: clr 5, drd 5

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 round

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: one swarm of locusts per three levels, each of which must be adjacent to at least one other swarm

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You summon a number of swarms of locusts (one per three levels, to a maximum of six swarms at 18th level). The swarms must be summoned so that each one is adjacent to at least one other swarm (that is, the swarms must fill one contiguous area). You may summon the locust swarms so that they share the area of other creatures. Each swarm attacks any creatures occupying its area. The swarms are stationary after being summoned, and won't pursue creatures that flee.

INSTANT SUMMONS

Conjuration (summoning)

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: see text

Target: one object weighing 10 lb. Or less whose longest dimension is 6 ft. Or less

Duration: permanent until discharged

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You call some nonliving item from virtually any location directly to your hand.

First, you must place your arcane mark on the item. Then you cast this spell, which magically and invisibly inscribes the name of the item on a sapphire worth at least 1,000 gp. Thereafter, you can summon the item by speaking a special word (set by you when the spell is cast) and crushing the gem. The item appears instantly in your hand. Only you can use the gem in this way.

If the item is in the possession of another creature, the spell does not work, but you know who the possessor is and roughly where that creature is located when the summons occurs.

The inscription on the gem is invisible. It is also unreadable, except by means of a read magic spell, to anyone but you.

The item can be summoned from another plane, but only if no other creature has claimed ownership of it.

Material component: a sapphire worth at least 1,000 gp.

INTERPOSING HAND

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: 10-ft. Hand

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

Interposing hand creates a large magic hand that appears between you and one opponent. This floating, disembodied hand then moves to remain between the two of you, regardless of where you move or how the opponent tries to get around it, providing cover (+4 AC) for you against that opponent. Nothing can fool the hand—it sticks with the selected opponent in spite of darkness, invisibility, polymorphing, or any other attempt at hiding or disguise. The hand does not pursue an opponent, however.

An interposing hand is 10 feet long and about that wide with its fingers outstretched. It has as many hit points as you do when you're undamaged, and its AC is 20 (-1 size, +11 natural). It takes damage as a normal creature, but most magical effects that don't cause damage do not affect it.

The hand never provokes attacks of opportunity from opponents. It cannot push through a wall of force or enter an antimagic field, but it suffers the full effect of a prismatic wall or prismatic sphere. The hand makes saving throws as its caster.

Disintegrate or a successful dispel magic destroys it.

Any creature weighing 2,000 pounds or less that tries to push past the hand is slowed to half its normal speed. The hand cannot reduce the speed of a creature weighing more than 2,000 pounds, but it still affects the creature's attacks.

Directing the spell to a new target is a move action.

Focus: a soft glove.

INVISIBILITY

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2, trickery 2

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal or touch

Target: you or a creature or object weighing no more than 100 lb./Level

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless) or will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless) or yes (harmless, object)

The creature or object touched becomes invisible, vanishing from sight, even from darkvision. If the recipient is a creature carrying gear, that vanishes, too. If you cast the spell on someone else, neither you nor your allies can see the subject, unless you can normally see invisible things or you employ magic to do so.

Items dropped or put down by an invisible creature become visible; items picked up disappear if tucked into the clothing or pouches worn by the creature. Light, however, never becomes invisible, although a source of light can become so (thus, the effect is that of a light with no visible source). Any part of an item that the subject carries but that extends more than 10 feet from it becomes visible.

Of course, the subject is not magically silenced, and certain other conditions can render the recipient detectable (such as stepping in a puddle). The spell ends if the subject attacks any creature. For purposes of this spell, an attack includes any spell targeting a foe or whose area or effect includes a foe. (Exactly who is a foe depends on the invisible character's perceptions.) Actions directed at unattended objects do not break the spell. Causing harm indirectly is not an attack. Thus, an invisible being can open doors, talk, eat, climb stairs, summon monsters and have them attack, cut the ropes holding a rope bridge while enemies are on the bridge, remotely trigger traps, open a portcullis to release attack dogs, and so forth. If the subject attacks directly, however, it immediately becomes visible along with all its gear. Spells such as bless that specifically affect allies but not foes are not attacks for this purpose, even when they include foes in their area.

Invisibility can be made permanent (on objects only) with a permanency spell.

Arcane material component: an eyelash encased in a bit of gum arabic.

INVISIBILITY, GREATER

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Target: you or creature touched

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

This spell functions like invisibility, except that it doesn't end if the subject attacks.

INVISIBILITY, MASS

Illusion (glamer)

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Targets: any number of creatures, no two of which can be more than 180 ft. Apart

This spell functions like invisibility, except that the effect is mobile with the group and is broken when anyone in the group attacks. Individuals in the group cannot see each other. The spell is broken for any individual who moves more than 180 feet from the nearest member of the group. (If only two individuals are affected, the one moving away from the other one loses its invisibility. If both are moving away from each other, they both become visible when the distance between them exceeds 180 feet.)

Material component: an eyelash encased in a bit of gum arabic.

INVISIBILITY PURGE

Evocation

Level: clr 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

You surround yourself with a sphere of power with a radius of 5 feet per caster level that negates all forms of invisibility.

Anything invisible becomes visible while in the area.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

INVISIBILITY SPHERE

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Area: 10-ft.-Radius emanation around the creature or object touched

This spell functions like invisibility, except that this spell confers invisibility upon all creatures within 10 feet of the recipient. The center of the effect is mobile with the recipient.

Those affected by this spell can see each other and themselves as if unaffected by the spell. Any affected creature moving out of the area becomes visible, but creatures moving into the area after the spell is cast do not become invisible. Affected creatures (other than the recipient) who attack negate the invisibility only for themselves. If the spell recipient attacks, the invisibility sphere ends.

IRON BODY

Transmutation

Level: earth 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

This spell transforms your body into living iron, which grants you several powerful resistances and abilities.

You gain damage reduction 15/adamantine. You are immune to blindness, critical hits, ability score damage, deafness, disease, drowning, electricity, poison, stunning, and all spells or attacks that affect your physiology or respiration, because you have no physiology or respiration while this spell is in effect. You take only half damage from acid and fire of all kinds. However, you also become vulnerable to all special attacks that affect iron golems.

You gain a +6 enhancement bonus to your strength score, but you take a -6 penalty to dexterity as well (to a minimum dexterity score of 1), and your speed is reduced to half normal. You have an arcane spell failure chance of 50% and a -8 armor check penalty, just as if you were clad in full plate armor. You cannot drink (and thus can't use potions) or play wind instruments.

Your unarmed attacks deal damage equal to a club sized for you (1d4 for small characters or 1d6 for medium characters), and you are considered armed when making unarmed attacks.

Your weight increases by a factor of ten, causing you to sink in water like a stone. However, you could survive the crushing pressure and lack of air at the bottom of the ocean—at least until the spell duration expires.

Arcane material component: a small piece of iron that was once part of either an iron golem, a hero's armor, or a war machine.

IRONWOOD

Transmutation

Level: drd 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 minute/lb. Created

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: an ironwood object weighing up to 5 lb./Level

Duration: one day/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Ironwood is a magical substance created by druids from normal

wood. While remaining natural wood in almost every way, ironwood is as strong, heavy, and resistant to fire as steel. Spells that affect metal or iron do not function on ironwood. Spells that affect wood do affect ironwood, although ironwood does not burn. Using this spell with wood shape or a wood-related craft check, you can fashion wooden items that function as steel items. Thus, wooden plate armor and wooden swords can be created that are as durable as their normal steel counterparts. These items are freely usable by druids.

Further, if you make only half as much ironwood as the spell would normally allow, any weapon, shield, or suit of armor so created is treated as a magic item with a +1 enhancement bonus.

Material component: wood shaped into the form of the intended ironwood object.

IRRESISTIBLE DANCE

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 8

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: 1d4+1 rounds

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

The subject feels an undeniable urge to dance and begins doing so, complete with foot shuffling and tapping. The spell effect makes it impossible for the subject to do anything other than caper and prance in place. The effect imposes a -4 penalty to armor class and a -10 penalty on reflex saves, and it negates any AC bonus granted by a shield the target holds. The dancing subject provokes attacks of opportunity each round on its turn.

JUMP

Transmutation

Level: drd 1, rgr 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes

The subject gets a +10 enhancement bonus on jump checks. The enhancement bonus increases to +20 at caster level 5th, and to +30 (the maximum) at caster level 9th.

Material component: a grasshopper's hind leg, which you break when the spell is cast.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

KEEN EDGE

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one weapon or fifty projectiles, all of which must be in contact with each other at the time of casting

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

This spell makes a weapon magically keen, improving its ability to deal telling blows. This transmutation doubles the threat range of the weapon. A threat range of 20 becomes 19-20, a threat range of 19-20 becomes 17-20, and a threat range of 18-20 becomes 15-20. The spell can be cast only on piercing or slashing weapons. If cast on arrows or crossbow bolts, the keen edge on a particular projectile ends after one use, whether or not the missile strikes its intended target. (Treat shuriken as arrows, rather than as thrown weapons, for the purpose of this spell.)

Multiple effects that increase a weapon’s threat range (such as the keen edge spell and the improved critical feat) don’t stack. You can’t cast this spell on a natural weapon, such as a claw.

KNOCK

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: 1 door, box, or chest with an area of up to 10 sq ft/level

Duration: instantaneous; see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The knock spell opens stuck, barred, locked, held, or arcane locked doors. It opens secret doors, as well as locked or trick-opening boxes or chests. It also loosens welds, shackles, or chains (provided they serve to hold closures shut). If used to open a arcane locked door, the spell does not remove the arcane lock but simply suspends its functioning for 10 minutes. In all other cases, the door does not relock itself or become stuck again on its own. Knock does not raise barred gates or similar impediments (such as a portcullis), nor does it affect ropes, vines, and the like. The effect is limited by the area. Each spell can undo as many as two means of preventing egress.

KNOW DIRECTION

Divination

Level: brd 0, drd 0

Your knowledge of north is correct at the moment of casting, but you can get lost again within moments if you don’t find some external reference point to help you keep trACk of direction.

LEGEND LORE

Divination

Level: brd 4, knowledge 7, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M, F

Casting time: see text

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: see text

Legend lore brings to your mind legends about an important person, place, or thing. If the person or thing is at hand, or if you are in the place in question, the casting time is only 1d4x10 minutes. If you have only detailed information on the person, place, or thing, the casting time is 1d10 days, and the resulting lore is less complete and specific (though it often provides enough information to help you find the person, place, or thing, thus allowing a better legend lore result next time). If you know only rumors, the casting time is 2d6 weeks, and the resulting lore is vague and incomplete (though it often directs you to more detailed information, thus allowing a better legend lore result next time).

During the casting, you cannot engage in other than routine activities: eating, sleeping, and so forth. When completed, the divination brings legends (if any) about the person, place, or things to your mind. These may be legends that are still current, legends that have been forgotten, or even information that has never been generally known. If the person, place, or thing is not of legendary importance, you gain no information. As a rule of thumb, characters who are 11th level and higher are “legendary,” as are the sorts of creatures they contend with, the major magic items they wield, and the places where they perform their key deeds.

Material component: incense worth at least 250 gp.

Focus: four strips of ivory (worth 50 gp each) formed into a rectangle.

LESSER (SPELL NAME)

Any spell whose name begins with lesser is alphabetized in this chapter according to the second word of the spell name. Thus, the description of a lesser spell appears near the description of the spell on which it is based. Spell chains that have lesser spells in them include those based on the spells confusion, geas, globe of invulnerability, planar ally, planar binding, and restoration.

The tree on which the spell is cast must be within 10 feet of your dwelling place, within a place sacred to you, or within 300 feet of something that you wish to guard or protect. Liveoak must be cast on a healthy, huge oak. A triggering phrase of up to one word per caster level is placed on the targeted oak. The liveoak spell triggers the tree into animating as a treant. If liveoak is dispelled, the tree takes root immediately, wherever it happens to be. If released by you, the tree tries to return to its original location before taking root.

LOCATE CREATURE

Divination

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Duration: 10 min./Level

This spell functions like locate object, except this spell locates a known or familiar creature.

You slowly turn and sense when you are facing in the direction of the creature to be located, provided it is within range. You also know in which direction the creature is moving, if any.

The spell can locate a creature of a specific kind or a specific creature known to you. It cannot find a creature of a certain type. To find a kind of creature, you must have seen such a creature up close (within 30 feet) at least once.

Running water blocks the spell. It cannot detect objects. It can be fooled by mislead, nondetection, and polymorph spells.

Material component: a bit of fur from a bloodhound.

LOCATE OBJECT

Divination

Level: brd 2, clr 3, sor/wiz 2, travel 2

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: circle, centered on you, with a radius of 400 ft. + 40 Ft./

Level

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You sense the direction of a well-known or clearly visualized object. You can search for general items, in which case you locate the nearest one of its kind if more than one is within range. Attempting to find a certain item requires a specific and accurate mental image; if the image is not close enough to the actual object, the spell fails. You cannot specify a unique item unless you have observed that particular item firsthand (not through divination).

The spell is blocked by even a thin sheet of lead. Creatures cannot be found by this spell. Polymorph any object fools it.

Arcane focus: a forked twig.

LONGSTRIDER

Transmutation

Level: drd 1, rgr 1, travel 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

This spell increases your base land speed by 10 feet. (This adjustment counts as an enhancement bonus.) It has no effect on other modes of movement, such as burrow, climb, fly, or swim.

Material component: a pinch of dirt.

LULLABY

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: living creatures within a 10-ft.-Radius burst

Duration: concentration + 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

Any creature within the area that fails a will save becomes drowsy and inattentive, taking a -5 penalty on listen and spot checks and a -2 penalty on will saves against sleep effects while the lullaby is in effect. Lullaby lasts for as long as the caster concentrates, plus up to 1 round per caster level thereafter.

MAGE ARMOR

Conjuration (creation) [force]

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: no

An invisible but tangible field of force surrounds the subject of a mage armor spell, providing a +4 armor bonus to AC.

Unlike mundane armor, mage armor entails no armor check penalty, arcane spell failure chance, or speed reduction. Since mage armor is made of force, incorporeal creatures can't bypass it the way they do normal armor.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Focus: a piece of cured leather.

MAGE HAND

Transmutation

Level: brd 0, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one nonmagical, unattended object weighing up to 5 lb.

Duration: concentration

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You point your finger at an object and can lift it and move it at will from a distance. As a move action, you can propel the object as far as 15 feet in any direction, though the spell ends if the distance between you and the object ever exceeds the spell's range.

MAGE'S DISJUNCTION

Abjuration

Level: magic 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: all magical effects and magic items within a 40-ft.-Radius burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: no

All magical effects and magic items within the radius of the spell, except for those that you carry or touch, are disjoined. That is, spells and spell-like effects are separated into their individual components (ending the effect as a dispel magic spell does), and each permanent magic item must make a successful will save or be turned into a normal item. An item in a creature's possession uses its own will save bonus or its possessor's will save bonus, whichever is higher.

You also have a 1% chance per caster level of destroying an anti-magic field. If the anti-magic field survives the disjunction, no items within it are disjoined.

Even artifacts are subject to disjunction, though there is only a 1% chance per caster level of actually affecting such powerful items. Additionally, if an artifact is destroyed, you must make a DC 25 will save or permanently lose all spellcasting abilities. (These abilities cannot be recovered by mortal magic, not even miracle or wish.)

Note: destroying artifacts is a dangerous business, and it is 95% likely to attract the attention of some powerful being who has an interest in or connection with the device.

MAGE'S FAITHFUL HOUND

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: phantom watchDog

Duration: 1 hour/caster level or until discharged, then 1 round/caster level; see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You conjure up a phantom watchdog that is invisible to everyone but yourself. It then guards the area where it was conjured (it does not move). The hound immediately starts barking loudly if any small or larger creature approaches within 30 feet of it. (Those within 30 feet of the hound when it is conjured may move about in the area, but if they leave and return, they activate the barking.) The hound sees invisible and ethereal creatures. It does not react to figments, but it does react to shadow illusions.

If an intruder approaches to within 5 feet of the hound, the dog stops barking and delivers a vicious bite (+10 attack bonus, 2d6+3 points of piercing damage) once per round. The dog also gets the bonuses appropriate to an invisible creature.

The dog is considered ready to bite intruders, so it delivers its first bite on the intruder's turn. Its bite is the equivalent of a magic weapon for the purpose of damage reduction. The hound cannot be attacked, but it can be dispelled.

The spell lasts for 1 hour per caster level, but once the hound begins barking, it lasts only 1 round per caster level. If you are ever more than 100 feet distant from the hound, the spell ends.

Material component: a tiny silver whistle, a piece of bone, and a thread.

MAGE'S LUCUBRATION

Transmutation

Level: wiz 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: instantaneous

You instantly recall any one spell of 5th level or lower that you have used during the past 24 hours. The spell must have been actually cast during that period. The recalled spell is stored in your mind as through prepared in the normal fashion.

If the recalled spell requires material components, you must provide them. The recovered spell is not usable until the material components are available.

MAGE'S MAGNIFICENT MANSION

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: extradimensional mansion, up to 3 10-ft. cubes/level (s)

Duration: 2 hours/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You conjure up an extradimensional dwelling that has a single entrance on the plane from which the spell was cast. The entry point looks like a faint shimmering in the air that is 4 feet wide and 8 feet high. Only those you designate may enter the mansion, and the portal is shut and made invisible behind you when you enter. You may open it again from your own side at will. Once observers have passed beyond the entrance, they are in a magnificent foyer with numerous chambers beyond. The atmosphere is clean, fresh, and warm.

You can create any floor plan you desire to the limit of the spell's effect. The place is furnished and contains sufficient foodstuffs to serve a nine-course banquet to a dozen people per caster level. A staff of near-transparent servants (as many as two per caster level), liveried and obedient, wait upon all who enter. The servants function as unseen servant spells except that they are visible and can go anywhere in the mansion.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Since the place can be entered only through its special portal, outside conditions do not affect the mansion, nor do conditions inside it pass to the plane beyond.

Focus: a miniature portal carved from ivory, a small piece of polished marble, and a tiny silver spoon (each item worth 5 gp).

MAGE'S PRIVATE SANCTUM

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: 30-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: 24 hours (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell ensures privacy. Anyone looking into the area from outside sees only a dark, foggy mass. Darkvision cannot penetrate it. No sounds, no matter how loud, can escape the area, so nobody can eavesdrop from outside. Those inside can see out normally.

Divination (scrying) spells cannot perceive anything within the area, and those within are immune to detect thoughts. The ward prevents speech between those inside and those outside (because it blocks sound), but it does not prevent other communication, such as a sending or message spell, or telepathic communication, such as that between a wizard and her familiar.

The spell does not prevent creatures or objects from moving into and out of the area.

Mage's private sanctum can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

Material component: a thin sheet of lead, a piece of opaque glass, a wad of cotton or cloth, and powdered chrysolite.

MAGE'S SWORD

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one sword

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

This spell brings into being a shimmering, swordlike plane of force. The sword strikes at any opponent within its range, as you desire, starting in the round that you cast the spell. The sword attacks its designated target once each round on your turn. Its attack bonus is equal to your caster level + your int bonus or your cha bonus (for wizards or sorcerers, respectively) with an additional +3 enhancement bonus. As a force effect, it can strike ethereal and incorporeal creatures. It deals 4d6+3 points of force damage, with a threat range of 19-20 and a critical multiplier of x2.

The sword always strikes from your direction. It does not get a bonus for flanking or help a combatant get one. If the sword goes beyond the spell range from you, if it goes out of your sight, or if you are not directing it, the sword returns to you and hovers.

Each round after the first, you can use a standard action to switch the sword to a new target. If you do not, the sword continues to attack the previous round's target.

The sword cannot be attacked or harmed by physical attacks, but dispel magic, disintegrate, a sphere of annihilation, or a rod of cancellation affects it. The sword's AC is 13 (10, +0 size bonus for medium object, +3 deflection bonus).

If an attacked creature has spell resistance, the resistance is checked the first time mage's sword strikes it. If the sword is successfully resisted, the spell is dispelled. If not, the sword has its normal full effect on that creature for the duration of the spell.

Focus: a miniature platinum sword with a grip and pommel of copper and zinc. It costs 250 gp to construct.

MAGIC AURA

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 1, magic 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: one touched object weighing up

To 5 lb./Level

Duration: one day/level (d)

Saving throw: none; see text

Spell resistance: no

You alter an item's aura so that it registers to detect spells (and spells with similar capabilities) as though it were nonmagical, or a magic item of a kind you specify, or the subject of a spell you specify.

If the object bearing magic aura has identify cast on it or is similarly examined, the examiner recognizes that the aura is false and detects the object's actual qualities if he succeeds on a will save. Otherwise, he believes the aura and no amount of testing reveals what the true magic is.

If the targeted item's own aura is exceptionally powerful (if it is an artifact, for instance), magic aura doesn't work.

Note: a magic weapon, shield, or suit of armor must be a masterwork item, so a sword of average make, for example, looks suspicious if it has a magical aura.

Focus: a small square of silk that must be passed over the object that receives the aura.

MAGIC CIRCLE AGAINST CHAOS

Abjuration [lawful]

Level: clr 3, law 3, pal 3, sor/wiz 3

This spell functions like magic circle against evil, except that it is similar to protection from chaos instead of protection from evil, and it can imprison a nonlawful called creature.

MAGIC CIRCLE AGAINST EVIL

Abjuration [good]

Level: clr 3, good 3, pal 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Area: 10-ft.-Radius emanation from touched creature

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: no; see text

All creatures within the area gain the effects of a protection from evil spell, and no nongood summoned creatures can enter the area either. You must overcome a creature's spell resistance in order to keep it at bay (as in the third function of protection from evil), but the deflection and resistance bonuses and the protection from mental control apply regardless of enemies' spell resistance.

This spell has an alternative version that you may choose when casting it. A magic circle against evil can be focused inward rather than outward. When focused inward, the spell binds a nongood called creature (such as those called by the lesser planar binding, planar binding, and greater planar binding spells) for a maximum of 24 hours per caster level, provided that you cast the spell that calls the creature within 1 round of casting the magic circle. The creature cannot cross the circle's boundaries. If a creature too large to fit into the spell's area is the subject of the spell, the spell acts as a normal protection from evil spell for that creature only.

A magic circle leaves much to be desired as a trap. If the circle of powdered silver laid down in the process of spellcasting is broken, the effect immediately ends. The trapped creature can do nothing that disturbs the circle, directly or indirectly, but other creatures can. If the called creature has spell resistance, it can test the trap once a day. If you fail to overcome its spell resistance, the creature breaks free, destroying the circle. A creature capable of any form of dimensional travel (astral projection, blink, dimension door, etherealness, gate, plane shift, shadow walk, teleport, and similar abilities) can simply leave the circle through that means. You can prevent the creature's extradimensional escape by casting a dimensional anchor spell on it, but you must cast the spell before the creature acts. If you are successful, the anchor effect lasts as long as the magic circle does. The creature cannot reach across the magic circle, but its ranged attacks (ranged weapons, spells, magical abilities, and the like) can. The creature can attack any target it can reach with its ranged attacks except for the circle itself.

You can add a special diagram (a two-dimensional bounded figure with no gaps along its circumference, augmented with various magical sigils) to make the magic circle more secure. Drawing the diagram by hand takes 10 minutes and requires a DC 20 spellcraft check. You do not know the result of this check. If the check fails, the diagram is ineffective. You can take 10 when drawing the diagram if you are under no particular time pressure to complete the task. This task also takes 10 full minutes. If time is no factor at all, and you devote 3 hours and 20 minutes to the task, you can take 20.

A successful diagram allows you to cast a dimensional anchor spell on the magic circle during the round before casting any summoning spell. The anchor holds any called creatures in the magic circle for 24 hours per caster level. A creature cannot use its spell resistance against a magic circle prepared with a diagram, and none of its abilities or attacks can cross the diagram. If the creature tries a charisma check to break free of the trap (see the lesser planar binding spell), the DC increases by 5. The creature is immediately released if anything disturbs the diagram—even a straw laid across it. However, the creature itself cannot disturb the diagram either directly or indirectly, as noted above.

This spell is not cumulative with protection from evil and vice versa.

Arcane material component: a little powdered silver with which you trace a 3-foot diameter circle on the floor (or ground) around the creature to be warded.

MAGIC CIRCLE AGAINST GOOD

Abjuration [evil]

Level: clr 3, evil 3, sor/wiz 3

This spell functions like magic circle against evil, except that it is similar to protection from good instead of protection from evil, and it can imprison a nonevil called creature.

MAGIC CIRCLE AGAINST LAW

Abjuration [chaotic]

Level: chaos 3, clr 3, sor/wiz 3

This spell functions like magic circle against evil, except that it is similar to protection from law instead of protection from evil, and it can imprison a nonchaotic called creature.

MAGIC FANG

Transmutation

Level: drd 1, rgr 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

Magic fang gives one natural weapon of the subject a +1 enhancement bonus on attack and damage rolls. The spell can affect a slam attack, fist, bite, or other natural weapon. (The spell does not change an unarmed strike's damage from nonlethal damage to lethal damage.)

Magic fang can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

MAGIC FANG, GREATER

Transmutation

Level: drd 3, rgr 3

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature

Duration: 1 hour/level

This spell functions like magic fang, except that the enhancement bonus on attack and damage rolls is +1 per four caster levels (maximum +5).

Alternatively, you may imbue all of the creature's natural weapons with a +1 enhancement bonus (regardless of your caster level).

Greater magic fang can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

MAGIC JAR

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one creature

Duration: 1 hour/level or until you return to your body

Saving throw: will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

By casting magic jar, you place your soul in a gem or large crystal (known as the magic jar), leaving your body lifeless. Then you can attempt to take control of a nearby body, forcing its soul into the magic jar. You may move back to the jar (thereby returning the trapped soul to its body) and attempt to possess another body. The spell ends when you send your soul back to your own body, leaving the receptacle empty.

To cast the spell, the magic jar must be within spell range and you must know where it is, though you do not need line of sight or line of effect to it. When you transfer your soul upon casting, your body is, as near as anyone can tell, dead.

While in the magic jar, you can sense and attack any life force within 10 feet per caster level (and on the same plane of existence). You do need line of effect from the jar to the creatures. You cannot determine the exact creature types or positions of these creatures. In a group of life forces, you can sense a difference of 4 or more hit dice between one creature and another and can determine whether a life force is powered by positive or negative energy. (Undead creatures are powered by negative energy. Only sentient undead creatures have, or are, souls.)

You could choose to take over either a stronger or a weaker creature, but which particular stronger or weaker creature you attempt to possess is determined randomly.

Attempting to possess a body is a full-round action. It is blocked by protection from evil or a similar ward. You possess the body and force the creature's soul into the magic jar unless the subject succeeds on a will save. Failure to take over the host leaves your life force in the magic jar, and the target automatically succeeds on further saving throws if you attempt to possess its body again.

If you are successful, your life force occupies the host body, and the host's life force is imprisoned in the magic jar. You keep your intelligence, wisdom, charisma, level, class, base attack bonus, base save bonuses, alignment, and mental abilities. The body retains its strength, dexterity, constitution, hit points, natural abilities, and automatic abilities. A body with extra limbs does not allow you to make more attacks (or more advantageous two-weapon attacks) than normal. You can't choose to activate the body's extraordinary or supernatural abilities. The creature's spells and spell-like abilities do not stay with the body.

As a standard action, you can shift freely from a host to the magic jar if within range, sending the trapped soul back to its body. The spell ends when you shift from the jar to your own body.

If the host body is slain, you return to the magic jar, if within range, and the life force of the host departs (it is dead). If the host body is slain beyond the range of the spell, both you and the host die. Any life force with nowhere to go is treated as slain.

If the spell ends while you are in the magic jar, you return to your body (or die if your body is out of range or destroyed). If the spell ends while you are in a host, you return to your body (or die, if it is out of range of your current position), and the soul in the magic jar returns to its body (or dies if it is out of range). Destroying the receptacle ends the spell, and the spell can be dispelled at either the magic jar or at the host's location.

Focus: a gem or crystal worth at least 100 gp.

MAGIC MISSILE

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: up to 5 creatures, no 2 of which can be more than 15 ft. apart

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

A missile of magical energy darts forth from your fingertip and strikes its target, dealing 1d4+1 points of force damage.

The missile strikes unerringly, even if the target is in melee combat or has less than total cover or total concealment. Specific parts of a creature can't be singled out. Inanimate objects are not damaged by the spell.

For every two caster levels beyond 1st, you gain an additional missile—two at 3rd level, three at 5th, four at 7th, and the maximum of five missiles at 9th level or higher. If you shoot multiple missiles, you can have them strike a single creature or several creatures. A single missile can strike only one creature. You must designate targets before you check for spell resistance or roll damage.

MAGIC MOUTH

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature or object

Duration: permanent until discharged

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

This spell imbues the chosen object or creature with an enchanted mouth that suddenly appears and speaks its message the next time a specified event occurs. The message, which must be twenty-five or fewer words long, can be in any language known by you and can be delivered over a period of 10 minutes. The mouth cannot utter verbal components, use command words, or activate magical effects. It does, however, move according to the words articulated; if it were placed upon a statue, the mouth of the statue would move and appear to speak. Of course, magic mouth can be placed upon a tree, rock, or any other object or creature.

The spell functions when specific conditions are fulfilled according to your command as set in the spell. Commands can be as general or as detailed as desired, although only visual and audible triggers can be used. Triggers react to what appears to be the case. Disguises and illusions can fool them. Normal darkness does not defeat a visual trigger, but magical darkness or invisibility does. Silent movement or magical silence defeats audible triggers. Audible triggers can be keyed to general types of noises or to a specific noise or spoken word. Actions can serve as triggers if they are visible or audible. A magic mouth cannot distinguish alignment, level, hit dice, or class except by external garb.

The range limit of a trigger is 15 feet/caster level, so a 6th-level caster can command a magic mouth to respond to triggers as far as 90 feet away. Regardless of range, the mouth can respond only to visible or audible triggers and actions in line of sight or within hearing distance.

Magic mouth can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

Material component: a small bit of honeycomb and jade dust worth 10 gp.

MAGIC STONE

Transmutation

Level: clr 1, drd 1, earth 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Targets: up to three pebbles touched

Duration: 30 minutes or until discharged

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

You transmute as many as three pebbles, which can be no larger than sling bullets, so that they strike with great force when thrown or slung. If hurled, they have a range increment of 20 feet. If slung, treat them as sling bullets (range increment 50 feet). The spell gives them a +1 enhancement bonus on attack and damage rolls. The user of the stones makes a normal ranged attack. Each stone that hits deals 1d6+1 points of damage (including the spell's enhancement bonus), or 2d6+2 points against undead.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

MAGIC VESTMENT

Transmutation

Level: clr 3, strength 3, war 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: armor or shield touched

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

You imbue a suit of armor or a shield with an enhancement bonus of +1 per four caster levels (maximum +5 at 20th level).

An outfit of regular clothing counts as armor that grants no AC bonus for the purpose of this spell.

MAGIC WEAPON

Transmutation

Level: clr 1, pal 1, sor/wiz 1, war 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: weapon touched

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

Magic weapon gives a weapon a +1 enhancement bonus on attack and damage rolls. (An enhancement bonus does not stack with a masterwork weapon's +1 bonus on attack rolls.)

You can't cast this spell on a natural weapon, such as an unarmed strike (instead, see magic fang). A monk's unarmed strike is considered a weapon, and thus it can be enhanced by this spell.

MAGIC WEAPON, GREATER

Transmutation

Level: clr 4, pal 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one weapon or fifty projectiles (all of which must be in contact with each other at the time of casting)

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

This spell functions like magic weapon, except that it gives a weapon an enhancement bonus on attack and damage rolls of +1 per four caster levels (maximum +5).

Alternatively, you can affect as many as fifty arrows, bolts, or bullets. The projectiles must be of the same kind, and they have to be together (in the same quiver or other container). Projectiles, but not thrown weapons, lose their transmutation when used. (Treat shuriken as projectiles, rather than as thrown weapons, for the purpose of this spell.)

Arcane material component: powdered lime and carbon.

MAJOR CREATION

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 5

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Duration: see text

This spell functions like minor creation, except that you can also create an object of mineral nature: stone, crystal, metal, or the like. The duration of the created item varies with its relative hardness and rarity, as indicated on the following table.

Hardness and Rarity Examples	Duration
Vegetable matter	2 hr./level
Stone, crystal, base metals	1 hr./level
Precious metals	20 min./level
Gems	10 min./level
Rare metal ¹	1 round/level
¹ Includes adamantite, alchemical silver, and mithral. You can't use major creation to create a cold iron item.

MAJOR IMAGE

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Duration: concentration + 3 rounds

This spell functions like silent image, except that sound, smell, and thermal illusions are included in the spell effect. While concentrating, you can move the image within the range.

The image disappears when struck by an opponent unless you cause the illusion to react appropriately.

MAKE WHOLE

Transmutation

Level: clr 2

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one object of up to 10 cu. Ft./ Level

This spell functions like mending, except that make whole completely repairs an object made of any substance, even one with multiple breaks, to be as strong as new. The spell does not restore the magical abilities of a broken magic item made whole, and it cannot mend broken magic rods, staffs, or wands. The spell does not repair items that have been warped, burned, disintegrated, ground to powder, melted, or vaporized, nor does it affect creatures (including constructs).

MARK OF JUSTICE

Necromancy

Level: clr 5, pal 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: permanent; see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

You draw an indelible mark on the subject and state some behavior on the part of the subject that will activate the mark. When activated, the mark curses the subject. Typically, you designate some sort of criminal behavior that activates the mark, but you can pick any act you please. The effect of the mark is identical with the effect of bestow curse.

Since this spell takes 10 minutes to cast and involves writing on the target, you can cast it only on a creature that is willing or restrained.

Like the effect of bestow curse, a mark of justice cannot be dispelled, but it can be removed with a break enchantment, limited wish, miracle, remove curse, or wish spell. Remove curse works only if its caster level is equal to or higher than your mark of justice caster level. These restrictions apply regardless of whether the mark has activated.

MASS (SPELL NAME)

Any spell whose name begins with mass is alphabetized in this chapter according to the second word of the spell name. Thus, the description of a mass spell appears near the description of the spell on which it is based. Spell chains that have mass spells in them include those based on the spells bear's endurance, bull's strength, cat's grace, charm monster, cure critical wounds, cure light wounds, cure moderate wounds, cure serious wounds, eagle's splendor, enlarge person, fox's cunning, heal, hold monster, hold person, inflict critical wounds, inflict light wounds, inflict moderate wounds, inflict serious wounds, invisibility, owl's wisdom, reduce person, and suggestion.

MAZE

Conjuration (teleportation)

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature

Duration: see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

You banish the subject into an extradimensional labyrinth of force planes. Each round on its turn, it may attempt a DC 20 intelligence check to escape the labyrinth as a full-round action. If the subject doesn't escape, the maze disappears after 10 minutes, forcing the subject to leave.

On escaping or leaving the maze, the subject reappears where it had been when the maze spell was cast. If this location is filled with a solid object, the subject appears in the nearest open space. Spells and abilities that move a creature within a plane, such as teleport and dimension door, do not help a creature escape a maze spell, although a plane shift spell allows it to exit to whatever plane is designated in that spell. Minotaurs are not affected by this spell.

MELD INTO STONE

Transmutation [earth]

Level: clr 3, drd 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 10 min./Level

Meld into stone enables you to meld your body and possessions into a single block of stone. The stone must be large enough to accommodate your body in all three dimensions. When the casting is complete, you and not more than 100 pounds of nonliving gear merge with the stone. If either condition is violated, the spell fails and is wasted.

While in the stone, you remain in contact, however tenuous, with the face of the stone through which you melded. You remain aware of the passage of time and can cast spells on yourself while hiding in the stone. Nothing that goes on outside the stone can be seen, but you can still hear what happens around you. Minor physical damage to the stone does not harm you, but its partial destruction (to the extent that you no longer fit within it) expels you and deals you 5d6 points of damage. The stone's complete destruction expels you and slays you instantly unless you make a DC 18 fortitude save.

Any time before the duration expires, you can step out of the stone through the surface that you entered. If the spell's duration expires or the effect is dispelled before you voluntarily exit the stone, you are violently expelled and take 5d6 points of damage.

The following spells harm you if cast upon the stone that you are occupying: stone to flesh expels you and deals you 5d6 points of damage. Stone shape deals you 3d6 points of damage but does not expel you. Transmute rock to mud expels you and then slays you instantly unless you make a DC 18 fortitude save, in which case you are merely expelled. Finally, passwall expels you without damage.

MENDING

Transmutation

Level: brd 0, clr 0, drd 0, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 10 ft.

Target: one object of up to 1 lb.

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

Mending repairs small breaks or tears in objects (but not warps, such as might be caused by a warp wood spell). It will weld broken metallic objects such as a ring, a chain link, a medallion, or a slender dagger, providing but one break exists.

Ceramic or wooden objects with multiple breaks can be invisibly rejoined to be as strong as new. A hole in a leather sack or a wine-skin is completely healed over by mending. The spell can repair a magic item, but the item's magical abilities are not restored. The spell cannot mend broken magic rods, staffs, or wands, nor does it affect creatures (including constructs).

MESSAGE

Transmutation [language-dependent]

Level: brd 0, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: one creature/level

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You can whisper messages and receive whispered replies with little chance of being overheard. You point your finger at each creature you want to receive the message. When you whisper, the whispered message is audible to all targeted creatures within range. Magical silence, 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal (or a thin sheet of lead), or 3 feet of wood or dirt blocks the spell. The message does not have to travel in a straight line. It can circumvent a barrier if there is an open path between you and the subject, and the path's entire length lies within the spell's range. The creatures that receive the message can whisper a reply that you hear. The spell transmits sound, not meaning. It doesn't transcend language barriers.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Note: to speak a message, you must mouth the words and whisper, possibly allowing observers the opportunity to read your lips.

Focus: a short piece of copper wire.

METEOR SWARM

Evocation [fire]

Level: sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: four 40-ft.-Radius spreads; see text

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none or reflex half; see text

Spell resistance: yes

Meteor swarm is a very powerful and spectacular spell that is similar to fireball in many aspects. When you cast it, four 2-foot-diameter spheres spring from your outstretched hand and streak in straight lines to the spots you select. The meteor spheres leave a fiery trail of sparks.

If you aim a sphere at a specific creature, you may make a ranged touch attack to strike the target with the meteor. Any creature struck by one of these spheres takes 2d6 points of bludgeoning damage (no save) and receives no saving throw against the sphere's fire damage (see below). If a targeted sphere misses its target, it simply explodes at the nearest corner of the target's space. You may aim more than one meteor at the same target.

Once a sphere reaches its destination, it explodes in a 40-foot-radius spread, dealing 6d6 points of fire damage to each creature in the area. If a creature is within the area of more than one sphere, it must save separately against each. (Fire resistance applies to each sphere's damage individually.)

MIND BLANK

Abjuration

Level: protection 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature

Duration: 24 hours

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject is protected from all devices and spells that detect, influence, or read emotions or thoughts. This spell protects against all mind-affecting spells and effects as well as information gathering by divination spells or effects. Mind blank even foils limited wish, miracle, and wish spells when they are used in such a way as to affect the subject's mind or to gain information about it. In the case of scrying that scans an area the creature is in, such as arcane eye, the spell works but the creature simply isn't detected. Scrying attempts that are targeted specifically at the subject do not work at all.

MIND FOG

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: fog spreads in 20-ft. Radius, 20 ft. High

Duration: 30 minutes and 2d6 rounds; see text

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

Mind fog produces a bank of thin mist that weakens the mental resistance of those caught in it. Creatures in the mind fog take a -10 competence penalty on wisdom checks and will saves. (A creature that successfully saves against the fog is not affected and need not make further saves even if it remains in the fog.) Affected creatures take the penalty as long as they remain in the fog and for 2d6 rounds thereafter. The fog is stationary and lasts for 30 minutes (or until dispersed by wind).

A moderate wind (11+ mph) disperses the fog in four rounds; a strong wind (21+ mph) disperses the fog in 1 round.

The fog is thin and does not significantly hamper vision.

MINOR CREATION

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 minute

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: unattended, nonmagical object of nonliving plant matter, up to 1 cu. Ft./Level

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You create a nonmagical, unattended object of nonliving, vegetable matter. The volume of the item created cannot exceed 1 cubic foot per caster level. You must succeed on an appropriate skill check to make a complex item.

Attempting to use any created object as a material component causes the spell to fail.

Material component: a tiny piece of matter of the same sort of item you plan to create with minor creation.

MINOR IMAGE

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Duration: concentration +2 rounds

This spell functions like silent image, except that minor image includes some minor sounds but not understandable speech.

MIRACLE

Evocation

Level: clr 9, luck 9

Components: V, S, XP; see text

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: see text

Target, effect, or area: see text

Duration: see text

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes

You don't so much cast a miracle as request one. You state what you would like to have happen and request that your deity (or the power you pray to for spells) intercede.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

A miracle can do any of the following things.

- Duplicate any cleric spell of 8th level or lower (including spells to which you have access because of your domains).
- Duplicate any other spell of 7th level or lower.
- Undo the harmful effects of certain spells, such as feeblemind or insanity.
- Have any effect whose power level is in line with the above effects.

If the miracle has any of the above effects, casting it has no experience point cost.

Alternatively, a cleric can make a very powerful request. Casting such a miracle costs the cleric 5,000 XP because of the powerful divine energies involved. Examples of especially powerful miracles of this sort could include the following.

- Swinging the tide of a battle in your favor by raising fallen allies to continue fighting.
- Moving you and your allies, with all your and their gear, from one plane to another through planar barriers to a specific locale with no chance of error.
- Protecting a city from an earthquake, volcanic eruption, flood, or other major natural disaster.

In any event, a request that is out of line with the deity's (or alignment's) nature is refused.

A duplicated spell allows saving throws and spell resistance as normal, but the save DCs are as for a 9th-level spell. When a miracle duplicates a spell that has an XP cost, you must pay that cost. When a miracle spell duplicates a spell with a material component that costs more than 100 gp, you must provide that component.

XP cost: 5,000 XP (for some uses of the miracle spell; see above).

MIRAGE ARCANA

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Area: one 20-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: concentration +1 hour/ level (d)

This spell functions like hallucinatory terrain, except that it enables you to make any area appear to be something other than it is. The illusion includes audible, visual, tactile, and olfactory elements. Unlike hallucinatory terrain, the spell can alter the appearance of structures (or add them where none are present). Still, it can't disguise, conceal, or add creatures (though creatures within the area might hide themselves within the illusion just as they can hide themselves within a real location).

MIRROR IMAGE

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal; see text

Target: you

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Several illusory duplicates of you pop into being, making it difficult for enemies to know which target to attack. The figments stay near you and disappear when struck.

Mirror image creates 1d4 images plus one image per three caster levels (maximum eight images total). These figments separate from you and remain in a cluster, each within 5 feet of at least one other figment or you. You can move into and through a mirror image. When you and the mirror image separate, observers can't use vision or hearing to tell which one is you and which the image. The figments may also move through each other. The figments mimic your actions, pretending to cast spells when you cast a spell, drink potions when you drink a potion, levitate when you levitate, and so on.

Enemies attempting to attack you or cast spells at you must select from among indistinguishable targets. Generally, roll randomly to see whether the selected target is real or a figment. Any successful attack against an image destroys it. An image's AC is 10 + your size modifier + your dex modifier. Figments seem to react normally to area spells (such as looking like they're burned or dead after being hit by a fireball).

While moving, you can merge with and split off from figments so that enemies who have learned which image is real are again confounded.

An attacker must be able to see the images to be fooled. If you are invisible or an attacker shuts his or her eyes, the spell has no effect. (Being unable to see carries the same penalties as being blinded.)

MISDIRECTION

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature or object, up to a 10-ft. Cube in size

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: none or will negates; see text

Spell resistance: no

By means of this spell, you misdirect the information from divination spells that reveal auras (detect evil, detect magic, discern lies, and the like). On casting the spell, you choose another object within range. For the duration of the spell, the subject of misdirection is detected as if it were the other object. (Neither the subject nor the other object gets a saving throw against this effect.) Detection spells provide information based on the second object rather than on the actual target of the detection unless the caster of the detection succeeds on a will save. For instance, you could make yourself detect as a tree if one were within range at casting: not evil, not lying, not magical, neutral in alignment, and so forth. This spell does not affect other types of divination magic (augury, detect thoughts, clairaudience/clairvoyance, and the like).

MISLEAD

Illusion (figment, glamer)

Level: brd 5, luck 6, sor/wiz 6, trickery 6

Components: S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target/effect: you/one illusory double

Duration: 1 round/level (d) & concentration +3 rounds; see text

Saving throw: none or will disbelief (if interacted with); see text

Spell resistance: no

You become invisible (as improved invisibility, a glamer), and at the same time, an illusory double of you (as major image, a figment) appears. You are then free to go elsewhere while your double moves away. The double appears within range but thereafter moves as you direct it (which requires concentration beginning on the first round after the casting). You can make the figment appear superimposed perfectly over your own body so that observers don't notice an image appearing and you turning invisible. You and the figment can then move in different directions. The double moves at your speed and can talk and gesture as if it were real, but it cannot attack or cast spells, though it can pretend to do so.

The illusory double lasts as long as you concentrate upon it, plus 3 additional rounds. After you cease concentration, the illusory double continues to carry out the same activity until the duration expires. The improved invisibility lasts for 1 round per level, regardless of concentration.

MNEMONIC ENHANCER

Transmutation

Level: wiz 4

Components: V, S, M, F

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: instantaneous

Casting this spell allows you to prepare additional spells or retain spells recently cast. Pick one of these two versions when the spell is cast.

Prepare: you prepare up to three additional levels of spells. A cantrip counts as 1/2 level for this purpose. You prepare and cast these spells normally.

Retain: you retain any spell of 3rd level or lower that you had cast up to 1 round before you started casting the mnemonic enhancer. This restores the previously cast spell to your mind.

In either event, the spell or spells prepared or retained fade after 24 hours (if not cast).

Material component: a piece of string, and ink consisting of squid secretion with black dragon's blood.

Focus: an ivory plaque of at least 50 gp value.

MODIFY MEMORY

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 round; see text

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

You reach into the subject's mind and modify as many as 5 minutes of its memories in one of the following ways.

- Eliminate all memory of an event the subject actually experienced. This spell cannot negate charm, geas/quest, suggestion, or similar spells.
- Allow the subject to recall with perfect clarity an event it actually experienced.
- Change the details of an event the subject actually experienced.
- Implant a memory of an event the subject never experienced.

Casting the spell takes 1 round. If the subject fails to save, you proceed with the spell by spending as much as 5 minutes (a period of time equal to the amount of memory time you want to modify) visualizing the memory you wish to modify in the subject. If your concentration is disturbed before the visualization is complete, or if the subject is ever beyond the spell's range during this time, the spell is lost.

A modified memory does not necessarily affect the subject's actions, particularly if it contradicts the creature's natural inclinations. An illogical modified memory is dismissed by the creature as a bad dream or a memory muddled by too much wine.

MOMENT OF PRESCIENCE

Divination

Level: luck 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 hour/level or until discharged

This spell grants you a powerful sixth sense in relation to yourself. Once during the spell's duration, you may choose to use its effect. This spell grants you an insight bonus equal to your caster level (maximum +25) on any single attack roll, opposed ability or skill check, or saving throw. Alternatively, you can apply the insight bonus to your AC against a single attack (even if flatfooted). Activating the effect doesn't take an action; you can even activate it on another character's turn if needed. You must choose to use the moment of prescience before you make the roll it is to modify. Once used, the spell ends.

You can't have more than one moment of prescience active on you at the same time.

MOUNT

Conjuration (summoning)

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one mount

Duration: 2 hours/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You summon a light horse or a pony (your choice) to serve you as a mount. The steed serves willingly and well. The mount comes with a bit and bridle and a riding saddle.

Material component: a bit of horse hair.

MOVE EARTH

Transmutation [earth]

Level: drd 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: see text

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: dirt in an area up to 750 ft. square & up to 10 ft. deep (s)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Move earth moves dirt (clay, loam, sand), possibly collapsing embankments, moving hillocks, shifting dunes, and so forth.

However, in no event can rock formations be collapsed or moved. The area to be affected determines the casting time. For every 150-foot square (up to 10 feet deep), casting takes 10 minutes. The maximum area, 750 feet by 750 feet, takes 4 hours and 10 minutes to move.

This spell does not violently break the surface of the ground. Instead, it creates wavelike crests and troughs, with the earth reacting with glacierlike fluidity until the desired result is achieved.

Trees, structures, rock formations, and such are mostly unaffected except for changes in elevation and relative topography.

The spell cannot be used for tunneling and is generally too slow to trap or bury creatures. Its primary use is for digging or filling moats or for adjusting terrain contours before a battle.

This spell has no effect on earth creatures.

Material component: a mixture of soils (clay, loam, and sand) in a small bag, and an iron blade.

NEUTRALIZE POISON

Conjuration (healing)

Level: brd 4, clr 4, drd 3, pal 4, rgr 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature or object of up to 1 cu. Ft./Level touched

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

You detoxify any sort of venom in the creature or object touched. A poisoned creature suffers no additional effects from the poison, and any temporary effects are ended, but the spell does not reverse instantaneous effects, such as hit point damage, temporary ability damage, or effects that don't go away on their own.

The creature is immune to any poison it is exposed to during the duration of the spell. Unlike with delay poison, such effects aren't postponed until after the duration-the creature need not make any saves against poison effects applied to it during the length of the spell.

This spell can instead neutralize the poison in a poisonous creature or object for the duration of the spell, at the caster's option.

Arcane material component: a bit of charcoal.

NIGHTMARE

Illusion (phantasm) [mind-affecting, evil]

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: unlimited

Target: one living creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

You send a hideous and unsettling phantasmal vision to a specific creature that you name or otherwise specifically designate.

The nightmare prevents restful sleep and causes 1d10 points of damage. The nightmare leaves the subject fatigued and unable to regain arcane spells for the next 24 hours.

The difficulty of the save depends on how well you know the subject and what sort of physical connection (if any) you have to that creature.

Knowledge	Will Save Modifier
None ¹	+10
Secondhand (you have heard of the subject)	+5
Firsthand (you have met the subject)	+0
Familiar (you know the subject well)	-5

1 You must have some sort of connection to a creature you have no knowledge of.

Connection	Will Save Modifier
Likeness or picture	-2
Possession or garment	-4
Body part, lock of hair, bit of nail, etc.	-10

Dispel evil cast on the subject while you are casting the spell dispels the nightmare and causes you to be stunned for 10 minutes per caster level of the dispel evil.

If the recipient is awake when the spell begins, you can choose to cease casting (ending the spell) or to enter a trance until the recipient goes to sleep, whereupon you become alert again and complete the casting. If you are disturbed during the trance, you must succeed on a concentration check as if you were in the midst of casting a spell or the spell ends.

If you choose to enter a trance, you are not aware of your surroundings or the activities around you while in the trance.

You are defenseless, both physically and mentally, while in the trance. (You always fail any saving throw, for example.)

Creatures who don't sleep (such as elves, but not half-elves) or dream are immune to this spell.

NONDETECTION

Abjuration

Level: rgr 4, sor/wiz 3, trickery 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature or object touched

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless, object)

The warded creature or object becomes difficult to detect by divination spells such as clairaudience/clairvoyance, locate object, and detect spells. Nondetection also prevents location by such magic items as crystal balls. If a divination is attempted against the warded creature or item, the caster of the divination must succeed on a caster level check (1d20 + caster level) against a DC of 11 + the caster level of the spellcaster who cast nondetection. If you cast nondetection on yourself or on an item currently in your possession, the DC is 15 + your caster level.

If cast on a creature, nondetection wards the creature's gear as well as the creature itself.

Material component: a pinch of diamond dust worth 50 gp.

If anything resists this activity (such as a bar on a door or a lock on a chest), the spell fails. In addition, the spell can only open and close things weighing 30 pounds or less. Thus, doors, chests, and similar objects sized for enormous creatures may be beyond this spell's ability to affect. Focus: a brass key. ORDER'S WRATH Evocation [lawful] Level: law 4 Components: V, S Casting time: 1 standard action Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level) Area: nonlawful creatures within a burst that fills a 30-ft. Cube Duration: instantaneous (1 round); see text Saving throw: will partial; see text Spell resistance: yes You channel lawful power to smite enemies. The power takes the			form of a three-dimensional grid of energy. Only chaotic and neutral (not lawful) creatures are harmed by the spell. The spell deals 1d8 points of damage per two caster levels (maximum 5d8) to chaotic creatures (or 1d6 points of damage per caster level, maximum 10d6, to chaotic outsiders) and causes them to be dazed for 1 round. When using this spell for long-distance movement, you can hustle without taking nonlethal damage (a forced march still requires constitution checks). This means you can cover 64 miles in an eight-hour period of flight (or 48 miles at a speed of 30 feet). OWL'S WISDOM Transmutation Level: clr 2, drd 2, pal 2, rgr 2, sor/wiz 2 Components: V, S, M/DF Casting time: 1 standard action Range: touch Target: creature touched Duration: 1 min./Level Saving throw: will negates (harmless) Spell resistance: yes The transmuted creature becomes wiser. The spell grants a +4 enhancement bonus to wisdom, adding the usual benefit to wisdom-related skills. Clerics, druids, paladins, and rangers (and other wisdom-based spellcasters) who receive owl's wisdom do not gain any additional bonus spells for the increased wisdom, but the save DCs for their spells increase. Arcane material component: a few feathers, or a pinch of droppings, from an owl. OWL'S WISDOM, MASS Transmutation Level: clr 6, drd 6, sor/wiz 6 Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels) Target: one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. PASSWALL

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 5Components: V, S, MCasting time: 1 standard actionRange: touchEffect: 5 ft. By 8 ft. Opening, 10 ft. Deep plus 5 ft. Deep per three additional levelsDuration: 1 hour/level (d)Saving throw: noneSpell resistance: no

You create a passage through wooden, plaster, or stone walls, but not through metal or other harder materials. The passage is 10 feet deep plus an additional 5 feet deep/3caster levels above 9th (15 feet at 12th, 20 feet at 15th, and a maximum of 25 feet deep at 18th level). If the wall's thickness is more than the depth of the passage created, then a single passwall simply makes a niche or short tunnel. Several passwall spells can then form a continuing passage to breach very thick walls. When passwall ends, creatures within the passage are ejected out the nearest exit. If someone dispels the passwall or you dismiss it, creatures in the passage are ejected out the far exit, if there is one, or out the sole exit if there is only one.

Material component: a pinch of sesame seeds.

PERMANENT IMAGE

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 6

Effect: figment that cannot extend beyond a 20-ft. Cube + one 10-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: permanent (d)

This spell functions like silent image, except that the figment includes visual, auditory, olfactory, and thermal elements, and the spell is permanent. By concentrating, you can move the image within the limits of the range, but it is static while you are not concentrating.

Material component: a bit of fleece plus powdered jade worth 100 gp.

PERSISTENT IMAGE

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

This spell functions like silent image, except that the figment includes visual, auditory, olfactory, and thermal components, and the figment follows a script determined by you. The figment follows that script without your having to concentrate on it. The illusion can include intelligible speech if you wish.

Material component: a bit of fleece and several grains of sand.

PHANTASMAL KILLER

Illusion (phantasm) [fear, mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one living creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with), then fortitude partial; see text

Spell resistance: yes

You create a phantasmal image of the most fearsome creature imaginable to the subject simply by forming the fears of the subject's subconscious mind into something that its conscious mind can visualize: this most horrible beast. Only the spell's subject can see the phantasmal killer. You see only a vague shape. The target first gets a will save to recognize the image as unreal. If that save fails, the phantasm touches the subject, and the subject must succeed on a fortitude save or die from fear. Even if the fortitude save is successful, the subject takes 3d6 points of damage.

If the subject of a phantasmal killer attack succeeds in disbelieving and is wearing a helm of telepathy, the beast can be turned upon you. You must then disbelieve it or become subject to its deadly fear attack.

PHANTOM STEED

Conjuration (creation)

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: one quasi-real, horselike creature

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You conjure a large, quasi-real, horselike creature. The steed can be ridden only by you or by the one person for whom you specifically created the mount. A phantom steed has a black head and body, gray mane and tail, and smoke-colored, insubstantial hooves that make no sound. It has what seems to be a saddle, bit, and bridle. It does not fight, but animals shun it and refuse to attack it.

The mount has an AC of 18 (-1 size, +4 natural armor, +5 dex) and 7 hit points +1 hit point per caster level. If it loses all its hit points, the phantom steed disappears. A phantom steed has a speed of 20 feet per caster level, to a maximum of 240 feet. It can bear its rider's weight plus up to 10 pounds per caster level.

These mounts gain certain powers according to caster level. A mount's abilities include those of mounts of lower caster levels.

8th level: the mount can ride over sandy, muddy, or even swampy ground without difficulty or decrease in speed.

10th level: the mount can use water walk at will (as the spell, no action required to activate this ability).

12th level: the mount can use air walk at will (as the spell, no action required to activate this ability) for up to 1 round at a time, after which it falls to the ground.

14th level: the mount can fly at its speed (average maneuverability).

PHANTOM TRAP

Illusion (glamer)

Level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: object touched

Duration: permanent (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell makes a lock or other small mechanism seem to be trapped to anyone who can detect traps. You place the spell upon any small mechanism or device, such as a lock, hinge, hasp, cork, cap, or ratchet. Any character able to detect traps, or who uses any spell or device enabling trap detection, is 100% certain a real trap exists. Of course, the effect is illusory and nothing happens if the trap is "sprung"; its primary purpose is to frighten away thieves or make them waste precious time.

If another phantom trap is active within 50 feet when the spell is cast, the casting fails.

Material component: a piece of iron pyrite touched to the object to be trapped while the object is sprinkled with a special dust requiring 50 gp to prepare.

PHASE DOOR

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 7, travel 8

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: ethereal 5 ft. By 8 ft. Opening, 10 ft. Deep + 5 ft. Deep per three levels

Duration: one usage per two levels

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell creates an ethereal passage through wooden, plaster, or stone walls, but not other materials. The phase door is invisible and inaccessible to all creatures except you, and only you can use the passage. You disappear when you enter the phase door and appear when you exit. If you desire, you can take one other creature (medium or smaller) through the door. This counts as two uses of the door. The door does not allow light, sound, or spell effects through it, nor can you see through it without using it. Thus, the spell can provide an escape route, though certain creatures, such as phase spiders, can follow with ease. A gem of true seeing or similar magic reveals the presence of a phase door but does not allow its use.

A phase door is subject to dispel magic. If anyone is within the passage when it is dispelled, he is harmlessly ejected just as if he were inside a passwall effect.

You can allow other creatures to use the phase door by setting some triggering condition for the door. Such conditions can be as simple or elaborate as you desire. They can be based on a creature's name, identity, or alignment, but otherwise must be based on observable actions or qualities. Intangibles such as level, class, hit dice, and hit points don't qualify.

Phase door can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

PLANAR ALLY

Conjuration (calling) [see text for lesser planar ally]

Level: clr 6

Effect: 1 or 2 called elementals or outsiders, totaling no more than 12 HD, which cannot be more than 30 ft. apart when they appear

This spell functions like lesser planar ally, except you may call a single creature of 12 HD or less, or two creatures of the same kind whose hit dice total no more than 12. The creatures agree to help you and request your return payment together.

Xp cost: 250 xp.

PLANAR ALLY, GREATER

Conjuration (calling) [see text for lesser planar ally]

Level: clr 8

Effect: up to 3 called elementals or outsiders, totaling no more than 18 HD, no 2 of which can be more than 30 ft. apart when they appear.

This spell functions like lesser planar ally, except that you may call a single creature of 18 HD or less, or up to three creatures of the same kind whose hit dice total no more than 18. The creatures agree to help you and request your return payment together.

Xp cost: 500 xp.

PLANAR ALLY, LESSER

Conjuration (calling) [see text]

Level: clr 4

Components: V, S, DF, XXP

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one called elemental or outsider of 6 HD or less

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

By casting this spell, you request your deity to send you an elemental or outsider (of 6 HD or less) of the deity's choice. If you serve no particular deity, the spell is a general plea answered by a creature sharing your philosophical alignment. If you know an individual creature's name, you may request that individual by speaking the name during the spell (though you might get a different creature anyway).

You may ask the creature to perform one task in exchange for a payment from you. Tasks might range from the simple to the complex. You must be able to communicate with the creature called in order to bargain for its services.

The creature called requires a payment for its services. This payment can take a variety of forms, from donating gold or magic items to an allied temple, to a gift given directly to the creature, to some other action on your part that matches the creature's alignment and goals. Regardless, this payment must be made before the creature agrees to perform any services. The bargaining takes at least 1 round, so any actions by the creature begin in the round after it arrives.

A task taking up to 1 minute per caster level requires a payment of 100 gp per HD of the creature called. For a task taking up to 1 hour per caster level, the creature requires a payment of 500 gp per HD. A long-term task, one requiring up to one day per caster level, requires a payment of 1,000 gp per HD.

A nonhazardous task requires only half the indicated payment, while an especially hazardous task might require a greater gift. Few if any creatures will ACcept a task that seems suicidal (remember, a called creature actually dies when it is killed, unlike a summoned creature). However, if the task is strongly aligned with the creature's ethos, it may halve or even waive the payment.

At the end of its task, or when the duration bargained for expires, the creature returns to its home plane (after reporting back to you, if appropriate and possible).

Note: when you use a calling spell that calls an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

Xp cost: 100 XP.

PLANAR BINDING

Conjuration (calling) [see text for lesser planar binding]

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S

Targets: up to 3 elementals or outsiders, totaling no more than 12 HD, no 2 of which can be more than 30 ft. apart when they appear

This spell functions like lesser planar binding, except that you may call a single creature of 12 HD or less, or up to three creatures of the same kind whose hit dice total no more than 12. Each creature gets a save, makes an independent attempt to escape, and must be individually persuaded to aid you.

PLANAR BINDING, GREATER

Conjuration (calling) [see text for lesser planar binding]

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S

Targets: up to 3 elementals or outsiders, totaling no more than 18 HD, no 2 of which can be more than 30 ft. apart when they appear. This spell functions like lesser planar binding, except that you may call a single creature of 18 HD or less, or up to three creatures of the same kind whose hit dice total no more than 18. Each creature gets a saving throw, makes independent attempts to escape, and must be persuaded to aid you individually.

PLANAR BINDING, LESSER

Conjuration (calling) [see text]

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels); see text

Target: one elemental or outsider with 6 HD or less

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: no and yes; see text

Casting this spell attempts a dangerous act: to lure a creature from another plane to a specifically prepared trap, which must lie within the spell's range. The called creature is held in the trap until it agrees to perform one service in return for its freedom.

To create the trap, you must use a magic circle spell, focused inward. The kind of creature to be bound must be known and stated. If you wish to call a specific individual, you must use that individual's proper name in casting the spell.

The target creature is allowed a will saving throw. If the saving throw succeeds, the creature resists the spell. If the saving throw fails, the creature is immediately drawn to the trap (spell resistance does not keep it from being called). The creature can escape from the trap with by successfully pitting its spell resistance against your caster level check, by dimensional travel, or with a successful charisma check (DC 15 + 1/2 your caster level + your cha modifier). It can try each method once per day. If it breaks loose, it can flee or attack you. A dimensional anchor cast on the creature prevents its escape via dimensional travel. You can also employ a calling diagram (see magic circle against evil) to make the trap more secure.

If the creature does not break free of the trap, you can keep it bound for as long as you dare. You can attempt to compel the creature to perform a service by describing the service and perhaps offering some sort of reward. You make a charisma check opposed by the creature's charisma check. The check is assigned a bonus of +0 to +6 based on the nature of the service and the reward. If the creature wins the opposed check, it refuses service. New offers, bribes, and the like can be made or the old ones reoffered every 24 hours. This process can be repeated until the creature promises to serve, until it breaks free, or until you decide to get rid of it by means of some other spell. Impossible demands or unreasonable commands are never agreed to. If you roll a 1 on the charisma check, the creature breaks free of the binding and can escape or attack you.

Once the requested service is completed, the creature need only so inform you to be instantly sent back whence it came. The creature might later seek revenge. If you assign some open-ended task that the creature cannot complete though its own actions the spell remains in effect for a maximum of one day per caster level, and the creature gains an immediate chance to break free. Note that a clever recipient can subvert some instructions.

When you use a calling spell to call an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

PLANE SHIFT

Conjuration (teleportation)

Level: clr 5, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched, or up to eight willing creatures joining hands

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

You move yourself or some other creature to another plane of existence or alternate dimension. If several willing persons link hands in a circle, as many as eight can be affected by the plane shift at the same time. Precise accuracy as to a particular arrival location on the intended plane is nigh impossible. From the material plane, you can reach any other plane, though you appear 5 to 500 miles (5d%) from your intended destination.

Note: plane shift transports creatures instantaneously and then ends. The creatures need to find other means if they are to travel back.

Focus: a small, forked metal rod. The size and metal type dictates to which plane of existence or alternate dimension the spell sends the affected creatures.

PLANT GROWTH

Transmutation

Level: drd 3, plant 3, rgr 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: see text

Target or area: see text

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Plant growth has different effects depending on the version chosen.

Overgrowth: this effect causes normal vegetation (grasses, briars, bushes, creepers, thistles, trees, vines) within long range (400 feet + 40 feet per caster level) to become thick and overgrown. The plants entwine to form a thicket or jungle that creatures must hack or force a way through. Speed drops to 5 feet, or 10 feet for large or larger creatures. The area must have brush and trees in it for this spell to take effect.

At your option, the area can be a 100-foot-radius circle, a 150-foot-radius semicircle, or a 200-foot-radius quarter circle.

You may designate places within the area that are not affected.

Enrichment: this effect targets plants within a range of one-half mile, raising their potential productivity over the course of the next year to one-third above normal.

Plant growth counters diminish plants.

This spell has no effect on plant creatures.

POISON

Necromancy

Level: clr 4, drd 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: instantaneous; see text

Saving throw: fortitude negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

Calling upon the venomous powers of natural predators, you infect the subject with a horrible poison by making a successful melee touch attack. The poison deals 1d10 points of temporary constitution damage immediately and another 1d10 points of temporary constitution damage 1 minute later. Each instance of damage can be negated by a fortitude save (DC 10 + 1/2 your caster level + your wis modifier).

POLAR RAY

Evocation [cold]

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: ray

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

A blue-white ray of freezing air and ice springs from your hand. You must succeed on a ranged touch attack with the ray to deal damage to a target. The ray deals 1d6 points of cold damage per caster level (maximum 25d6).

Focus: a small, white ceramic cone or prism.

POLYMORPH

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: willing living creature touched

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell functions like alter self, except that you change the willing subject into another form of living creature. The new form may be of the same type as the subject or any of the following types: aberration, animal, dragon, fey, giant, humanoid, magical beast, monstrous humanoid, ooze, plant, or vermin. The assumed form can't have more hit dice than your caster level (or the subject's HD, whichever is lower), to a maximum of 15 HD at 15th level. You can't cause a subject to assume a form smaller than fine, nor can you cause a subject to assume an incorporeal or gaseous form. The subject's creature type and subtype (if any) change to match the new form.

Upon changing, the subject regains lost hit points as if it had rested for a night (though this healing does not restore temporary ability damage and provide other benefits of resting; and changing back does not heal the subject further). If slain, the subject reverts to its original form, though it remains dead.

The subject gains the strength, dexterity, and constitution scores of the new form but retains its own intelligence, wisdom, and charisma scores. It also gains all extraordinary special attacks possessed by the form but does not gain the extraordinary special qualities possessed by the new form or any supernatural or spell-like abilities.

Incorporeal or gaseous creatures are immune to being polymorphed, and a creature with the shapechanger subtype can revert to its natural form as a standard action.

Material component: an empty cocoon.

POLYMORPH ANY OBJECT

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 8, trickery 8

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: 1 creature, or 1 nonmagical object of up to 100 cu. ft./level

Duration: see text

Saving throw: fortitude negates (object); see text

Spell resistance: yes (object)

This spell functions like polymorph, except that it changes one object or creature into another. The duration of the spell depends on how radical a change is made from the original state to its enchanted state. The duration is determined by using the following guidelines.

Changed Subject Is:	Increase to Duration Factor ¹
Same kingdom (animal, vegetable, mineral)	+5
Same class (mammals, fungi, metals, etc.)	+2
Same size	+2
Related (twig is to tree, wolf fur is to wolf, etc.)	+2
Same or lower Intelligence	+2
¹ Add all that apply. Look up the total on the next table.

Duration Factor	Duration	Example
0	20 minutes	Pebble to human
2	1 hour	Marionette to human
4	3 hours	Human to marionette
5	12 hours	Lizard to mantichore
6	2 days	Sheep to wool coat
7	1 week	Shrew to mantichore
9+	Permanent	Mantichore to shrew

Unlike polymorph, polymorph any object does grant the creature the intelligence score of its new form. If the original form didn't have a wisdom or charisma score, it gains those scores as appropriate for the new form.

Damage taken by the new form can result in the injury or death of the polymorphed creature. In general, damage occurs when the new form is changed through physical force.

A nonmagical object cannot be made into a magic item with this spell. Magic items aren't affected by this spell.

This spell cannot create material of great intrinsic value, such as copper, silver, gems, silk, gold, platinum, mithral, or adamantite. It also cannot reproduce the special properties of cold iron in order to overcome the damage reduction of certain creatures.

This spell can also be used to duplicate the effects of polymorph, flesh to stone, stone to flesh, transmute mud to rock, transmute water to dust, or transmute rock to mud.

Arcane material component: mercury, gum arabic, and smoke.

POWER WORD BLIND

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 7, war 7

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature with 200 hp or less

Duration: see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

You utter a single word of power that causes one creature of your choice to become blinded, whether the creature can hear the word or not. The duration of the spell depends on the target's current hit point total. Any creature that currently has 201 or more hit points is unaffected by power word blind.

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

You utter a single word of power that instantly causes one creature of your choice to become stunned, whether the creature can hear the word or not. PRAYER

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: clr 3, pal 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 40 ft.

Area: all allies and foes within a 40-ft.-Radius burst centered on you

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

You bring special favor upon yourself and your allies while bringing disfavor to your enemies. You and your each of your allies gain a +1 luck bonus on attack rolls, weapon damage rolls, saves, and skill checks, while each of your foes takes a -1 penalty on such rolls.

PRESTIDIGITATION

Universal

Level: brd 0, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 10 ft.

Target, effect, or area: see text

Duration: 1 hour

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

Prestidigitations are minor tricks that novice spellcasters use for practice. Once cast, a prestidigitation spell enables you to perform simple magical effects for 1 hour. The effects are minor and have severe limitations. A prestidigitation can slowly lift 1 pound of material. It can color, clean, or soil items in a 1-foot cube each round. It can chill, warm, or flavor 1 pound of nonliving material. It cannot deal damage or affect the concentration of spellcasters. Prestidigitation can create small objects, but they look crude and artificial. The materials created by a prestidigitation spell are extremely fragile, and they cannot be used as tools, weapons, or spell components. Finally, a prestidigitation lacks the power to duplicate any other spell effects. Any actual change to an object (beyond just moving, cleaning, or soiling it) persists only 1 hour.

PRISMATIC SPHERE

Abjuration

Level: protection 9, sor/wiz 9, sun 9

Components: V

Range: 10 ft.

Effect: 10-ft.-Radius sphere centered on you

This spell functions like prismatic wall, except you conjure up an immobile, opaque globe of shimmering, multicolored light that surrounds you and protects you from all forms of attack. The sphere flashes in all colors of the visible spectrum.

The sphere's blindness effect on creatures with less than 8 HD lasts 2d4x10 minutes.

You can pass into and out of the prismatic sphere and remain near it without harm. However, when you're inside it, the sphere blocks any attempt to project something through the sphere (including spells). Other creatures that attempt to attack you or pass through suffer the effects of each color, one at a time.

Typically, only the upper hemisphere of the globe will exist, since you are at the center of the sphere, so the lower half is usually excluded by the floor surface you are standing on.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

The colors of the sphere have the same effects as the colors of a prismatic wall.

Prismatic sphere can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

PRISMATIC SPRAY

Evocation

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: cone-shaped burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes

This spell causes seven shimmering, intertwined, multicolored beams of light to spray from your hand. Each beam has a different power. Creatures in the area of the spell with 8 HD or less are automatically blinded for 2d4 rounds. Every creature in the area is randomly struck by one or more beams, which have additional effects.

1d8	Color of Beam	Effect
1	Red	20 points fire damage (Reflex half)
2	Orange	40 points acid damage (Reflex half)
3	Yellow	80 points electricity damage (Reflex half)
4	Green	Poison (Kills; Fortitude partial, take 1d6 points of Con damage instead)
5	Blue	Turned to stone (Fortitude negates)
6	Indigo	Insane, as insanity spell (Will negates)
7	Violet	Sent to another plane (Will negates)
8	Struck by two rays; roll twice more, ignoring any "8" results.

PRISMATIC WALL

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: wall 4 ft./Level wide, 2 ft./Level high

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: see text

Prismatic wall creates a vertical, opaque wall—a shimmering, multicolored plane of light that protects you from all forms of attack. The wall flashes with seven colors, each of which has a distinct power and purpose. The wall is immobile, and you can pass through and remain near the wall without harm. However, any other creature with less than 8 HD that is within 20 feet of the wall is blinded for 2d4 rounds by the colors if it looks at the wall.

The wall's maximum proportions are 4 feet wide per caster level and 2 feet high per caster level. A prismatic wall spell cast to materialize in a space occupied by a creature is disrupted, and the spell is wasted.

Each color in the wall has a special effect. The accompanying table shows the seven colors of the wall, the order in which they appear, their effects on creatures trying to attack you or pass through the wall, and the magic needed to negate each color.

The wall can be destroyed, color by color, in consecutive order, by various magical effects; however, the first color must be brought down before the second can be affected, and so on. A rod of cancellation or a mage's disjunction spell destroys a prismatic wall, but an antimagic field fails to penetrate it. Dispel magic and greater dispel magic cannot dispel the wall or anything beyond it. Spell resistance is effective against a prismatic wall, but the caster level check must be repeated for each color present.

Prismatic wall can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

Color	Order	Effect of Color	Negated By
Red	1st	Stops nonmagical ranged weapons. Deals 20 points of fire damage (Reflex half).	Cone of cold
Orange	2nd	Stops magical ranged weapons. Deals 40 points of acid damage (Reflex half).	Gust of wind
Yellow	3rd	Stops poisons, gases, and petrification. Deals 80 points of electricity damage (Reflex half).	Disintegrate
Green	4th	Stops breath weapons. Poison (Kills; Fortitude partial for 1d6 points of Con damage instead).	Passwall
Blue	5th	Stops divination and mental attacks. Turned to stone (Fortitude negates).	Magic missile
Indigo	6th	Stops all spells. Will save or become insane (as insanity spell).	Daylight
Violet	7th	Energy field destroys all objects and effects. ¹ Creatures sent to another plane (Will negates).	Dispel magic

PRODUCE FLAME

Evocation [fire]

Level: drd 1, fire 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: flame in your palm

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

Flames as bright as a torch appear in your open hand. The flames harm neither you nor your equipment.

In addition to providing illumination, the flames can be hurled or used to touch enemies. You can strike an opponent with a melee touch attack, dealing fire damage equal to 1d6 +1 point per caster level (maximum +5). Alternatively, you can hurl the flames up to 120 feet as a thrown weapon. When doing so, you attack with a ranged touch attack (with no range penalty) and deal the same damage as with the melee attack. No sooner do you hurl the flames than a new set appears in your hand. Each attack you make reduces the remaining duration by 1 minute. If an attack reduces the remaining duration to 0 minutes or less, the spell ends after the attack resolves.

This spell does not function underwater.

PROGRAMMED IMAGE

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 6

Effect: visual figment that cannot extend beyond a 20-ft. Cube + one 10-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: permanent until triggered, then 1 round/level

This spell functions like silent image, except that this spell's figment activates when a specific condition occurs. The figment includes visual, auditory, olfactory, and thermal elements, including intelligible speech.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

You set the triggering condition (which may be a special word) when casting the spell. The event that triggers the illusion can be as general or as specific and detailed as desired but must be based on an audible, tactile, olfactory, or visual trigger. The trigger cannot be based on some quality not normally obvious to the senses, such as alignment. (See magic mouth for more details about such triggers.)

Material component: a bit of fleece & jade dust worth 25 gp.

PROJECT IMAGE

Illusion (shadow)

Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: one shadow duplicate

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

You tap energy from the plane of shadow to create a quasi-real, illusory version of yourself. The projected image looks, sounds, and smells like you but is intangible. The projected image mimics your actions (including speech) unless you direct it to act differently (which is a move action).

You can see through its eyes and hear through its ears as if you were standing where it is, and during your turn you can switch from using its senses to using your own, or back again, as a free action. While you are using its senses, your body is considered blinded and deafened.

If you desire, any spell you cast whose range is touch or greater can originate from the projected image instead of from you. The projected image can't cast any spells on itself except for illusion spells. The spells affect other targets normally, despite originating from the projected image.

Objects are affected by the projected image as if they had succeeded on their will save.

You must maintain line of effect to the projected image at all times. If your line of effect is obstructed, the spell ends. If you use dimension door, teleport, plane shift, or a similar spell that breaks your line of effect, even momentarily, the spell ends.

Material component: a small replica of you (a doll), which costs 5 gp to create.

PROTECTION FROM ARROWS

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 hour/level or until discharged

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The warded creature gains resistance to ranged weapons. The subject gains damage reduction 10/magic against ranged weapons. (This spell doesn't grant you the ability to damage creatures with similar damage reduction.) Once the spell has prevented a total of 10 points of damage per caster level (maximum 100 points), it is discharged.

Focus: a piece of shell from a tortoise or a turtle.

PROTECTION FROM CHAOS

Abjuration [lawful]

Level: clr 1, law 1, pal 1, sor/wiz 1

This spell functions like protection from evil, except that the deflection and resistance bonuses apply to attacks from chaotic creatures, and chaotic summoned creatures cannot touch the subject.

PROTECTION FROM ENERGY

Abjuration

Level: clr 3, drd 3, luck 3, protection 3, rgr 2, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 10 min./Level or until discharged

Saving throw: fortitude negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

Protection from energy grants temporary immunity to the type of energy you specify when you cast it (acid, cold, electricity, fire, or sonic). When the spell absorbs 12 points per caster level of energy damage (to a maximum of 120 points at 10th level), it is discharged.

Note: protection from energy overlaps (and does not stack with) resist energy. If a character is warded by protection from energy and resist energy, the protection spell absorbs damage until its power is exhausted.

PROTECTION FROM EVIL

Abjuration [good]

Level: clr 1, good 1, pal 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: no; see text

This spell wards a creature from attacks by evil creatures, from mental control, and from summoned creatures. It creates a magical barrier around the subject at a distance of 1 foot. The barrier moves with the subject and has three major effects.

First, the subject gains a +2 deflection bonus to AC and a +2 resistance bonus on saves. Both these bonuses apply against attacks made or effects created by evil creatures.

Second, the barrier blocks any attempt to possess the warded creature (by a magic jar attack, for example) or to exercise mental control over the creature (including enchantment (charm) effects and enchantment (compulsion) effects that grant the caster ongoing control over the subject, such as dominate person). The protection does not prevent such effects from targeting the protected creature, but it suppresses the effect for the duration of the protection from evil effect. If the protection from evil effect ends before the effect granting mental control does, the would-be controller would then be able to mentally command the controlled creature. Likewise, the barrier keeps out a possessing life force but does not expel one if it is in place before the spell is cast. This second effect works regardless of alignment.

Third, the spell prevents bodily contact by summoned creatures. This causes the natural weapon attacks of such creatures to fail and

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

the creatures to recoil if such attacks require touching the warded creature. Good summoned creatures are immune to this effect.
The protection against contact by summoned creatures ends if the warded creature makes an attack against or tries to force the barrier against the blocked creature. Spell resistance can allow a creature to overcome this protection and touch the warded creature.

Arcane material component: a little powdered silver with which you trace a 3-foot-diameter circle on the floor (or ground) around the creature to be warded.

PROTECTION FROM GOOD

Abjuration [evil]

Level: clr 1, evil 1, sor/wiz 1

This spell functions like protection from evil, except that the deflec-tion and resistance bonuses apply to attacks from good creatures, and good summoned creatures cannot touch the subject.

PROTECTION FROM LAW

Abjuration [chaotic]

Level: chaos 1, clr 1, sor/wiz 1

This spell functions like protection from evil, except that the deflec-tion and resistance bonuses apply to attacks from lawful creatures, and lawful summoned creatures cannot touch the subject.

PROTECTION FROM SPELLS

Abjuration

Level: magic 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Targets: up to one creature touched per four levels

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject gains a +8 resistance bonus on saving throws against spells and spell-like abilities (but not against supernatural and extraordinary abilities).

Material component: a diamond of at least 500 gp value, which must be crushed and sprinkled over the targets.

Focus: one 1,000 gp diamond per creature to be granted the protection. Each subject must carry one such gem for the duration of the spell. If a subject loses the gem, the spell ceases to affect him.

PRYING EYES

Divination

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 minute

Range: one mile

Effect: ten or more levitating eyes

Duration: 1 hour/level; see text (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You create a number of semitangible, visible magical orbs (called “eyes”) equal to 1d4 + your caster level. These eyes move out, scout around, and return as you direct them when casting the spell. Each eye can see 120 feet (normal vision only) in all directions.

While the individual eyes are quite fragile, they’re small and difficult to spot. Each eye is a fine construct, about the size of a small apple, that has 1 hit point, AC 18 (+8 bonus for its size), flies at a speed of 30 feet with perfect maneuverability, and has a +16 hide modifier. It has a spot modifier equal to your caster level (maximum +15) and is subject to illusions, darkness, fog, and any other factors that would affect your ability to receive visual information about your surroundings. An eye traveling through darkness must find its way by touch.

When you create the eyes, you specify instructions you want them to follow in a command of no more than twenty-five words.
Any knowledge you possess is known by the eyes as well.

In order to report their findings, the eyes must return to your hand. Each replays in your mind all it has seen during its existence.
It takes an eye 1 round to replay 1 hour of recorded images. After relaying its findings, an eye disappears.

If an eye ever gets more than 1 mile away from you, it instantly ceases to exist. However, your link with the eye is such that you won’t know if the eye was destroyed because it wandered out of range or because of some other event.

The eyes exist for up to 1 hour per caster level or until they return to you. Dispel magic can destroy eyes. Roll separately for each eye caught in an area dispel. Of course, if an eye is sent into darkness, it could hit a wall or similar obstacle and destroy itself.

Material component: a handFul of crystal marbles.

PRYING EYES, GREATER

Divination

Level: sor/wiz 8

This spell functions like prying eyes, except that the eyes can see all things as they actually are, just as if they had true seeing with a range of 120 feet. Thus, they can navigate darkened areas at full normal speed. Also, a greater prying eye’s maximum spot modifier is +25 instead of +15.

PURIFY FOOD AND DRINK

Transmutation

Level: clr 0, drd 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 10 ft.

Target: 1 cu. Ft./Level of contaminated food and water

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

This spell makes spoiled, rotten, poisonous, or otherwise contaminated food and water pure and suitable for eating and drinking.
This spell does not prevent subsequent natural decay or spoilage.
Unholy water and similar food and drink of significance is spoiled by purify food and drink, but the spell has no effect on creatures of any type nor upon magic potions.

Note: water weighs about 8 pounds per gallon. One cubic foot of water contains roughly 8 gallons and weighs about 60 pounds.

PYROTECHNICS

Transmutation

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Target: one fire source, up to a 20-ft. Cube

Duration: 1d4+1 rounds, or 1d4+1 rounds after creatures leave the smoke cloud; see text

Saving throw: will negates or fortitude negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes or no; see text

Pyrotechnics turns a fire into either a burst of blinding fireworks or a thick cloud of choking smoke, depending on the version you choose.

Fireworks: the fireworks are a flashing, fiery, momentary burst of glowing, colored aerial lights. This effect causes creatures within 120 feet of the fire source to become blinded for 1d4+1 rounds (will negates). These creatures must have line of sight to the fire to be affected. Spell resistance can prevent blindness.

Smoke cloud: a writhing stream of smoke billows out from the source, forming a choking cloud. The cloud spreads 20 feet in all directions and lasts for 1 round per caster level. All sight, even darkvision, is ineffective in or through the cloud. All within the cloud take -4 penalties to strength and dexterity (fortitude negates). These effects last for 1d4+1 rounds after the cloud dissipates or after the creature leaves the area of the cloud. Spell resistance does not apply.

Material component: the spell uses one fire source, which is immediately extinguished. A fire so large that it exceeds a 20-foot cube is only partly extinguished. Magical fires are not extinguished, although a fire-based creature used as a source takes 1 point of damage per caster level.

(Q)
Quench

QUENCH

Transmutation

Level: drd 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area or target: one 20-ft. Cube/level (s) or one fire-based magic item

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none or will negates (object)

Spell resistance: no or yes (object)

Quench is often used to put out forest fires and other conflagrations. It extinguishes all nonmagical fires in its area. The spell also dispels any fire spells in its area, though you must succeed on a dispel check (1d20 +1 per caster level, maximum +15) against each spell to dispel it. The DC to dispel such spells is 11 + the caster level of the fire spell.

Each elemental (fire) creature within the area of a quench spell takes 1d6 points of damage per caster level (maximum 15d6, no save allowed).

Alternatively, you can target the spell on a single magic item that creates or controls flame. The item loses all its fire-based magical abilities for 1d4 hours unless it succeeds on a will save. (Artifacts are immune to this effect.)

RAGE

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: one willing living creature per three levels, no two of which may be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: concentration + 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

Each affected creature gains a +2 morale bonus to strength and constitution, a +1 morale bonus on will saves, and a -2 penalty to AC. The effect is otherwise identical with a barbarian's rage except that the subjects aren't fatigued at the end of the rage.

RAINBOW PATTERN

Illusion (pattern) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V (brd only), S, M, F; see text

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: colorful lights with a 20-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: concentration +1 round/ level (d)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

A glowing, rainbow-hued pattern of interweaving colors fascinates those within it. Rainbow pattern fascinates a maximum of 24 hit dice of creatures. Creatures with the fewest HD are affected first. Among creatures with equal HD, those who are closest to the spell's point of origin are affected first. An affected creature that fails its saves is fascinated by the pattern.

With a simple gesture (a free action), you can make the rainbow pattern move up to 30 feet per round (moving its effective point of origin). All fascinated creatures follow the moving rainbow of light, trying to get or remain within the effect. Fascinated creatures who are restrained and removed from the pattern still try to follow it. If the pattern leads its subjects into a dangerous area each fascinated creature gets a second save. If the view of the lights is completely blocked creatures who can't see them are no longer affected.

The spell does not affect sightless creatures.

Verbal component: a wizard or sorcerer need not utter a sound to cast this spell, but a bard must sing, play music, or recite a rhyme as a verbal component.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Material component: a piece of phosphor.

Focus: a crystal prism.

RAISE DEAD

Conjuration (healing)

Level: clr 5

Components: V, S, M, DF

Casting time: 1 minute

Range: touch

Target: dead creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none; see text

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

You restore life to a deceased creature. You can raise a creature that has been dead for no longer than one day per caster level. In addition, the subject's soul must be free and willing to return. If the subject's soul is not willing to return, the spell does not work; therefore, a subject that wants to return receives no saving throw.

Coming back from the dead is an ordeal. The subject of the spell loses one level (or 1 hit die) when it is raised, just as if it had lost a level or a hit die to an energy-draining creature. If the subject is 1st level, it loses 2 points of constitution instead (if this would reduce its con to 0 or less, it can't be raised). This level/HD loss or constitution loss cannot be repaired by any means. A character who died with spells prepared has a 50% chance of losing any given spell upon being raised, in addition to losing spells for losing a level. A spellcasting creature that doesn't prepare spells (such as a sorcerer) has a 50% chance of losing any given unused spell slot as if it had been used to cast a spell, in addition to losing spell slots for losing a level.

A raised creature has a number of hit points equal to its current hit dice. Any ability scores damaged to 0 are raised to 1. Normal poison and normal disease are cured in the process of raising the subject, but magical diseases and curses are not undone. While the spell closes mortal wounds and repairs lethal damage of most kinds, the body of the creature to be raised must be whole. Otherwise, missing parts are still missing when the creature is brought back to life. None of the dead creature's equipment or possessions are affected in any way by this spell.

A creature who has been turned into an undead creature or killed by a death effect can't be raised by this spell. Constructs, elementals, outsiders, and undead creatures can't be raised. The spell cannot bring back a creature that has died of old age.

Material component: diamonds worth a total of least 5,000 gp.

RAY OF ENFEEBLEMENT

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: ray

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

A coruscating ray springs from your hand. You must succeed on a ranged touch attack to strike a target. The subject takes a penalty to strength equal to 1d6+1 per two caster levels (maximum 1d6+5). The subject's strength score cannot drop below 1.

RAY OF EXHAUSTION

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: ray

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: fortitude partial; see text

Spell resistance: yes

A black ray projects from your pointing finger. You must succeed on a ranged touch attack with the ray to strike a target.

The subject is immediately exhausted for the spell's duration. A successful fortitude save means the creature is only fatigued.

A character that is already fatigued instead becomes exhausted.

This spell has no effect on a creature that is already exhausted. Unlike normal exhaustion or fatigue, the effect ends as soon as the spell's duration expires.

Material component: a drop of sweat.

RAY OF FROST

Evocation [cold]

Level: sor/wiz 0

READ MAGIC

Divination

Level: brd 0, clr 0, drd 0, pal 1, rgr 1, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 10 min./Level

By means of read magic, you can decipher magical inscriptions on objects-books, scrolls, weapons, and the like-that would otherwise be unintelligible. This deciphering does not normally invoke the magic contained in the writing, although it may do so in the case of a cursed scroll. Furthermore, once the spell is cast and you have read the magical inscription, you are thereafter able to read that particular writing without recourse to the use of read magic. You can read at the rate of one page (250 words) per minute. The spell allows you to identify a glyph of warding with a DC 13 spellcraft check, a greater glyph of warding with a DC 16 spellcraft check, or any symbol spell with a spellcraft check (DC 10 + spell level).

Read magic can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

REFUGE Conjunction (teleportation) Level: clr 7, sor/wiz 9 Components: V, S, M Casting time: 1 standard action Range: touch Target: object touched Duration: permanent until discharged Saving throw: none Spell resistance: no You create powerful magic in some specially prepared object. This object contains the power to instantly transport its possessor across any distance within the same plane to your abode. Once the item is transmuted, you must give it willingly to a creature and at the same time inform it of a command word to be spoken when the item is used. To make use of the item, the subject speaks the command word at the same time that it rends or breaks the item (a standard action). When this is done, the individual and all objects it is wearing and carrying (to a maximum of the character's heavy load) are instantly transported to your abode. No other creatures are affected (aside from a familiar that is touching the subject). You can alter the spell when casting it so that it transports you to within 10 feet of the possessor of the item when it is broken and the command word spoken. You will have a general idea of the location and situation of the item possessor at the time the refuge spell is discharged, but once you decide to alter the spell in this fashion, you have no choice whether or not to be transported. Material component: the specially prepared object, whose construction requires gems worth 1,500 gp.
REDUCE PERSON Transmutation Level: sor/wiz 1 Components: V, S, M Casting time: 1 round Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels) Target: one humanoid creature Duration: 1 min./Level (d) Saving throw: fortitude negates Spell resistance: yes This spell causes instant diminution of a humanoid creature, halving its height, length, and width and dividing its weight by 8. This decrease changes the creature's size category to the next smaller one. The target gains a +2 size bonus to dexterity, a -2 size penalty to strength (to a minimum of 1), and a +1 bonus on attack rolls and AC due to its reduced size. A small humanoid creature whose size decreases to tiny has a space of 2-1/2 feet and a natural reach of 0 feet (meaning that it must enter an opponent's square to attack). A large humanoid creature whose size decreases to medium has a space of 5 feet and a natural reach of 5 feet. This spell doesn't change the target's speed. All equipment worn or carried by a creature is similarly reduced by the spell. Melee and projectile weapons deal less damage. Other magical properties are not affected by this spell. Any reduced item that leaves the reduced creature's possession (including a projectile or thrown weapon) instantly returns to its normal size. This means that thrown weapons deal their normal damage (projectiles deal damage based on the size of the weapon that fired them). Multiple magical effects that reduce size do not stack. Reduce person counters and dispels enlarge person . Reduce person can be made permanent with a permanency spell. Material component: a pinch of powdered iron.			REGENERATE Conjunction (healing) Level: clr 7, drd 9, healing 7 Components: V, S, DF Casting time: 3 full rounds Range: touch Target: living creature touched Duration: instantaneous Saving throw: fortitude negates (harmless) Spell resistance: yes (harmless) The subject's severed body members (fingers, toes, hands, feet, arms, legs, tails, or even heads of multiheaded creatures), broken bones, and ruined organs grow back. After the spell is cast, the physical regeneration is complete in 1 round if the severed members are present and touching the creature. It takes 2d10 rounds otherwise. Regenerate also cures 4d8 points of damage +1 point per caster level (maximum +35), rids the subject of exhaustion and/or fatigue, and eliminates all nonlethal damage the subject has taken. It has no effect on nonliving creatures (including undead).
REDUCE PERSON, MASS Transmutation Level: sor/wiz 4 Target: one humanoid creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart This spell functions like reduce person , except that it affects multiple creatures.			REINCARNATE Transmutation Level: drd 4 Components: V, S, M, DF Casting time: 10 minutes Range: touch Target: dead creature touched Duration: instantaneous Saving throw: none; see text Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

With this spell, you bring back a dead creature in another body, provided that its death occurred no more than one week before the casting of the spell and the subject's soul is free and willing to return. If the subject's soul is not willing to return, the spell does not work; therefore, a subject that wants to return receives no saving throw.

Since the dead creature is returning in a new body, all physical ills and afflictions are repaired. The condition of the remains is not a factor. So long as some small portion of the creature's body still exists, it can be reincarnated, but the portion receiving the spell must have been part of the creature's body at the time of death. The magic of the spell creates an entirely new young adult body for the soul to inhabit from the natural elements at hand. This process takes 1 hour to complete. When the body is ready, the subject is reincarnated.

A reincarnated creature recalls the majority of its former life and form. It retains any class abilities, feats, or skill ranks it formerly possessed. Its class, base attack bonus, base save bonuses, and hit points are unchanged. Strength, dexterity, and constitution scores depend partly on the new body. First eliminate the subject's racial adjustments (since it is no longer of his previous race) and then apply the adjustments found below to its remaining ability scores. The subject's level (or hit dice) is reduced by 1. If the subject was 1st level, its new constitution score is reduced by 2. (If this reduction would put its con at 0 or lower, it can't be reincarnated). This level/HD loss or constitution loss cannot be repaired by any means.

It's possible for the change in the subject's ability scores to make it difficult for it to pursue its previous character class. If this is the case, the subject is well advised to become a multiclass character.

For a humanoid creature, the new incarnation is determined using the following table. For nonhumanoid creatures, a similar table of creatures of the same type should be created.

A creature that has been turned into an undead creature or killed by a death effect can't be returned to life by this spell. Constructs, elementals, outsiders, and undead creatures can't be reincarnated. The spell cannot bring back a creature who has died of old age.

d%	Incarnation	Str	Dex	Con
01	Bugbear	+4	+2	+2
02–13	Dwarf	+0	+0	+2
14–25	Elf	+0	+2	+2
26	Gnoll	+4	+0	+2
27–38	Gnome	+2	+0	+2
39–42	Goblin	+2	+2	+0
43–52	Half-elf	+0	+0	+0
53–62	Half-orc	+2	+0	+0
63–74	Halfling	+2	+2	+0
75–89	Human	+0	+0	+0
90–93	Kobold	+4	+2	+2
94	Lizardfolk	+2	+0	+2
95–98	Orc	+4	+0	+0
99	Troglodyte	+0	+2	+4
100	Other	?	?	?

The reincarnated creature gains all abilities associated with its new form, including forms of movement and speeds, natural armor, natural attacks, extraordinary abilities, and the like, but it doesn't automatically speak the language of the new form.

A wish or a miracle spell can restore a reincarnated character to his or her original form.

Material component: rare oils and unguents worth a total of least 1,000 gp, spread over the remains.

If cast on three or four creatures, each receives another save with a +2 resistance bonus.

The spell does not restore ability scores reduced by penalties, damage, or drain.

REPEL METAL OR STONE

Abjuration [earth]

Level: drd 8

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: 60-ft. Line from you

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Like repel wood, this spell creates waves of invisible and intangible energy that roll forth from you. All metal or stone objects in the path of the spell are pushed away from you to the limit of the range. Fixed metal or stone objects larger than 3 inches in diameter and loose objects weighing more than 500 pounds are not affected. Anything else, including animated objects, small boulders, and creatures in metal armor, moves back. Fixed objects 3 inches in diameter or smaller bend or break, and the pieces move with the wave of energy. Objects affected by the spell are repelled at the rate of 40 feet per round.

Objects such as metal armor, swords, and the like are pushed back, dragging their bearers with them. Even magic items with metal components are repelled, although an antimagic field blocks the effects.

The waves of energy continue to sweep down the set path for the spell's duration. After you cast the spell, the path is set, and you can then do other things or go elsewhere without affecting the spell's power.

REPEL VERMIN

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 10 ft.

Area: 10-ft.-Radius emanation centered on you

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none or will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

An invisible barrier holds back vermin. A vermin with hit dice of less than one-third your level cannot penetrate the barrier.

A vermin with hit dice of one-third your level or more can penetrate the barrier if it succeeds on a will save. Even so, crossing the barrier deals the vermin 2d6 points of damage, and pressing against the barrier causes pain, which deters most vermin.

REPEL WOOD

Transmutation

Level: drd 6, plant 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: 60-ft. Line-shaped emanation from you

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Waves of energy roll forth from you, moving in the direction that you determine, causing all wooden objects in the path of the spell to be pushed away from you to the limit of the range. Wooden objects larger than 3 inches in diameter that are fixed firmly are not affected, but loose objects are. Objects 3 inches in diameter or smaller that are fixed in place splinter and break, and the pieces move with the wave of energy. Objects affected by the spell are repelled at the rate of 40 feet per round.

Objects such as wooden shields, spears, wooden weapon shafts and hafts, and arrows and bolts are pushed back, dragging those carrying them along. (A creature being dragged by an item it is carrying can let go. A creature being dragged by a shield can loose it as a move action and drop it as a free action.) If a spear is planted (set) to prevent this forced movement, it splinters. Even magic items with wooden sections are repelled, although an antimagic field blocks the effects.

The waves of energy continue to sweep down the set path for the spell's duration. After you cast the spell, the path is set, and you can then do other things or go elsewhere without affecting the spell's power.

entering the field must attempt a save. If it fails, it becomes unable to move toward you for the duration of the spell. Repelled creatures' actions are not otherwise restricted.

They can fight other creatures and can cast spells and attack you with ranged weapons. If you move closer to an affected creature, nothing happens. (The creature is not forced back.) The creature is free to make melee attacks against you if you come within reach. If a repelled creature moves away from you and then tries to turn back toward you, it cannot move any closer if it is still within the spell's area.

Arcane focus: a pair of small iron bars attached to two small canine statuettes, one black and one white, the whole array worth 50 gp.

RESILIENT SPHERE

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: 1-ft.-Diameter/level sphere, centered around a creature

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: reflex negates

Spell resistance: yes

A globe of shimmering force encloses a creature, provided the creature is small enough to fit within the diameter of the sphere. The sphere contains its subject for the spell's duration. The sphere is not subject to damage of any sort except from a rod of cancellation, a rod of negation, a disintegrate spell, or a targeted dispel magic spell. These effects destroy the sphere without harm to the subject. Nothing can pass through the sphere, inside or out, though the subject can breathe normally.

The subject may struggle, but the sphere cannot be physically moved either by people outside it or by the struggles of those within.

Material component: a hemispherical piece of clear crystal and a matching hemispherical piece of gum arabic.

RESISTANCE

Abjuration

Level: brd 0, clr 0, drd 0, pal 1, sor/wiz 0

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 minute

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

You imbue the subject with magical energy that protects it from harm, granting it a +1 resistance bonus on saves.

Resistance can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

Arcane material component: a miniature cloak.

RESIST ENERGY

Abjuration

Level: clr 2, drd 2, fire 3, pal 2, rgr 1, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: fortitude negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

This abjuration grants a creature limited protection from damage of whichever one of five energy types you select: acid, cold, electricity, fire, or sonic. The subject gains energy resistance 10 against the energy type chosen, meaning that each time the creature is subjected to such damage (whether from a natural or magical source), that damage is reduced by 10 points before being applied to the creature's hit points. The value of the energy resistance granted increases to 20 points at 7th level and to a maximum of 30 points at 11th level. The spell protects the recipient's equipment as well.

Resist energy absorbs only damage. The subject could still suffer unfortunate side effects.

Note: resist energy overlaps (and does not stack with) protection from energy. If a character is warded by protection from energy and resist energy, the protection spell absorbs damage until its power is exhausted.

RESTORATION

Conjuration (healing)

Level: clr 4, pal 4

Components: V, S, M

This spell functions like lesser restoration, except that it also dispels negative levels and restores one experience level to a creature who has had a level drained. The drained level is restored only if the time since the creature lost the level is equal to or less than one day per caster level. A character who has a level restored by restoration has exactly the minimum number of experience points necessary to restore him or her to his or her previous level.

Restoration cures all temporary ability damage, and it restores all points permanently drained from a single ability score (your choice if more than one is drained). It also eliminates any fatigue or exhaustion suffered by the target.

Restoration does not restore levels or constitution points lost due to death.

Material component: diamond dust worth 100 gp that is sprinkled over the target.

RESTORATION, GREATER

Conjuration (healing)

Level: clr 7

Components: V, S, XP

Casting time: 10 minutes

This spell functions like lesser restoration, except that it dispels all negative levels afflicting the healed creature. This effect also reverses level drains by a force or creature, restoring the creature to the highest level it had previously attained. The drained levels are restored only if the time since the creature lost the level is no more than one week per caster level.

Greater restoration also dispels all magical effects penalizing the creature's abilities, cures all temporary ability damage, and restores all points permanently drained from all ability scores. It also eliminates fatigue and exhaustion, and removes all forms of insanity, confusion, and similar mental effects. Greater restoration does not restore levels or constitution points lost due to death.

Xp cost: 500 XP.

RESTORATION, LESSER Conjunction (healing) Level: clr 2, drd 2, pal 1 Components: V, S Casting time: 3 rounds Range: touch Target: creature touched Duration: instantaneous Saving throw: will negates (harmless) Spell resistance: yes (harmless) Lesser restoration dispels any magical effects reducing one of the subject's ability scores or cures 1d4 points of temporary ability damage to one of the subject's ability scores. It also eliminates any fatigue suffered by the character, and improves an exhausted condition to fatigued. It does not restore permanent ability drain.			Creatures who can fly or levitate can keep themselves from falling. Arcane material component: a lodestone and iron filings.
RESURRECTION Conjunction (healing) Level: clr 7 Casting time: 10 minutes This spell functions like raise dead , except that you are able to restore life and complete strength to any deceased creature. The condition of the remains is not a factor. So long as some small portion of the creature's body still exists, it can be resurrected, but the portion receiving the spell must have been part of the creature's body at the time of death. (The remains of a creature hit by a disintegrate spell count as a small portion of its body.) The creature can have been dead no longer than 10 years per caster level. Upon completion of the spell, the creature is immediately restored to full hit points, vigor, and health, with no loss of prepared spells. However, the subject loses one level, or 2 points of constitution if the subject was 1st level. (If this reduction would bring its con to 0 or lower, it can't be resurrected). This level loss or constitution loss cannot be repaired by any means. You can resurrect someone killed by a death effect or someone who has been turned into an undead creature and then destroyed. You cannot resurrect someone who has died of old age. Constructs, elementals, outsiders, and undead creatures can't be resurrected. Material component: a sprinkle of holy water and diamonds worth a total of at least 10,000 gp.			RIGHTEOUS MIGHT Transmutation Level: clr 5, strength 5 Components: V, S, DF Casting time: 1 standard action Range: personal Target: you Duration: 1 round/level (d) Your height immediately doubles, and your weight increases by a factor of eight. This increase changes your size category to the next larger one, and you gain a +8 size bonus to strength and a +4 size bonus to constitution. You gain a +4 enhancement bonus to your natural armor. You gain damage reduction 5/evil (if you normally channel positive energy) or damage reduction 5/good (if you normally channel negative energy). At 12th level this damage reduction becomes 10/evil or 10/good, and at 15th level it becomes 15/evil or 15/good (the maximum). Your size modifier for AC and attacks changes as appropriate to your new size category. This spell doesn't change your speed. Determine space and reach as appropriate to your new size. If insufficient room is available for the desired growth, you attain the maximum possible size and may make a strength check (using your increased strength) to burst any enclosures in the process. If you fail, you are constrained without harm by the materials enclosing you—the spell cannot crush you by increasing your size. All equipment you wear or carry is similarly enlarged by the spell. Melee and projectile weapons deal more damage. Other magical properties are not affected by this spell. Any enlarged item that leaves your possession (including a projectile or thrown weapon) instantly returns to its normal size. This means that thrown weapons deal their normal damage (projectiles deal damage based on the size of the weapon that fired them). Multiple magical effects that increase size do not stack.
REVERSE GRAVITY Transmutation Level: drd 8, sor/wiz 7 Components: V, S, M/DF Casting time: 1 standard action Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level) Area: up to one 10-ft. Cube per two levels (s) Duration: 1 round/level (d) Saving throw: none; see text Spell resistance: no This spell reverses gravity in an area, causing all unattached objects and creatures within that area to fall upward and reach the top of the area in 1 round. If some solid object (such as a ceiling) is encountered in this fall, falling objects and creatures strike it in the same manner as they would during a normal downward fall. If an object or creature reaches the top of the area without striking anything, it remains there, oscillating slightly, until the spell ends. At the end of the spell duration, affected objects and creatures fall downward. Provided it has something to hold onto, a creature caught in the area can attempt a reflex save to secure itself when the spell strikes.			ROPE TRICK Transmutation Level: sor/wiz 2 Components: V, S, M Casting time: 1 standard action Range: touch Target: one touched piece of rope from 5 ft. To 30 ft. Long Duration: 1 hour/level (d) Saving throw: none Spell resistance: no When this spell is cast upon a piece of rope from 5 to 30 feet long, one end of the rope rises into the air until the whole rope hangs perpendicular to the ground, as if affixed at the upper end. The upper end is, in fact, fastened to an extradimensional space that is outside the multiverse of extradimensional spaces ("planes"). Creatures in the extradimensional space are hidden, beyond the reach of spells (including divinations), unless those spells work across planes. The space holds as many as eight creatures (of any size). Creatures in the space can pull the rope up into the space, making the rope "disappear." In that case, the rope counts as one of the eight creatures that can fit in the space. The rope can support up to 16,000 pounds. A weight greater than that can pull the rope free. Spells cannot be cast across the extradimensional interface, nor can area effects cross it. Those in the extradimensional space can see out of it as if a 3-foot-by- 5-foot window were centered on the rope. The window is present on the material plane, but it's invisible, and even creatures that can see the window can't see through it. Anything inside the extradimensional space drops out when the spell ends. The rope can be climbed by only one person at a time. The rope trick spell enables climbers to reach a normal place if they do not climb all the way to the extradimensional space.

Note: it is hazardous to create an extradimensional space within an existing extradimensional space or to take an extradimensional space into an existing one.

Material component: powdered corn extract and a twisted loop of parchment.

RUSTING GRASP

Transmutation

Level: drd 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: one nonmagical ferrous object (or the volume of the object within 3 ft. Of the touched point) or one ferrous creature

Duration: see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Any iron or iron alloy item you touch becomes instantaneously rusted, pitted, and worthless, effectively destroyed. If the item is so large that it cannot fit within a 3-foot radius a 3-foot-radius volume of the metal is rusted and destroyed. Magic items made of metal are immune to this spell.

You may employ rusting grasp in combat with a successful melee touch attack. Rusting grasp used in this way instantaneously destroys 1d6 points of armor class gained from metal armor (to the maximum amount of protection the armor offered) through corrosion.

Weapons in use by an opponent targeted by the spell are more difficult to grasp. You must succeed on a melee touch attack against the weapon. A metal weapon that is hit is destroyed.

Note: striking at an opponent's weapon provokes an attack of opportunity. Also, you must touch the weapon and not the other way around.

Against a ferrous creature, rusting grasp instantaneously deals 3d6 points of damage +1 per caster level (maximum +15) per successful attack. The spell lasts for 1 round per level, and you can make one melee touch attack per round.

Abjuration

Level: clr 1, protection 1Components: V, S, DFCasting time: 1 standard actionRange: touchTarget: creature touchedDuration: 1 round/levelSaving throw: will negatesSpell resistance: no

Any opponent attempting to strike or otherwise directly attack the warded creature, even with a targeted spell, must attempt a will save. If the save succeeds, the opponent can attack normally and is unaffected by that casting of the spell. If the save fails, the opponent can't follow through with the attack, that part of its action is lost, and it can't directly attack the warded creature for the duration of the spell. Those not attempting to attack the subject remain unaffected. This spell does not prevent the warded creature from being attacked or affected by area or effect spells. The subject cannot attack without breaking the spell but may use nonattack spells or otherwise act.

SCINTILLATING PATTERN

A twisting pattern of discordant, coruscating colors weaves through the air, affecting creatures within it. The spell affects a total number of hit dice of creatures equal to your caster level (maximum 20). Creatures with the fewest HD are affected first; and, among creatures with equal HD, those who are closest to the spell's point of origin are affected first. Hit dice that are not sufficient to affect a creature are wasted. The spell affects each subject according to its hit dice.

6 or less: unconscious for 1d4 rounds, then stunned for 1d4 rounds, and then confused for 1d4 rounds. (Treat an unconscious result as stunned for nonliving creatures.)

7 to 12: stunned for 1d4 rounds, then confused for 1d4 rounds.

13 or more: confused for 1d4 rounds.

Sightless creatures are not affected by scintillating pattern.

Material component: a small crystal prism.

SCORCHING RAY

Evocation [fire]

Level: sor/wiz 2Components: V, SCasting time: 1 standard actionRange: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)Effect: one or more raysDuration: instantaneousSaving throw: noneSpell resistance: yes

You blast your enemies with fiery rays. You may fire one ray, plus one additional ray for every four levels beyond 3rd (to a maximum of three rays at 11th level). Each ray requires a ranged touch attack to hit and deals 4d6 points of fire damage.

The rays may be fired at the same or different targets, but all bolts must be aimed at targets within 30 feet of each other and fired simultaneously.

SCREEN

Illusion (glamer)

Level: sor/wiz 8, trickery 7Components: V, SCasting time: 10 minutesRange: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)Area: 30-ft. Cube/level (s)Duration: 24 hoursSaving throw: none or will disbelief (if interacted with); see textSpell resistance: no

This spell combines several elements to create a powerful protection from scrying and direct observation. When casting the spell, you dictate what will and will not be observed in the spell's area. The illusion created must be stated in general terms. Once the conditions are set, they cannot be changed.

Attempts to scry the area automatically detect the image stated by you with no save allowed. Sight and sound are appropriate to the illusion created.

Direct observation may allow a save (as per a normal illusion), if there is cause to disbelieve what is seen. Even entering the area does not cancel the illusion or necessarily allow a save, assuming that hidden beings take care to stay out of the way of those affected by the illusion.

SCRYING

Divination (scrying)

Level: brd 3, clr 5, drd 4, sor/wiz 4Components: V, S, M/DF, FCasting time: 1 hourRange: see textEffect: magical sensorDuration: 1 min./LevelSaving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

You can see and hear some creature, which may be at any distance. If the subject succeeds on a will save, the scrying attempt simply fails. The difficulty of the save depends on how well you know the subject and what sort of physical connection (if any) you have to that creature. Furthermore, if the subject is on another plane, it gets a +5 bonus on its will save.

Knowledge	Will Save Modifier
None ¹	+10
Secondhand (you have heard of the subject)	+5
Firsthand (you have met the subject)	+0
Familiar (you know the subject well)	+5
¹ You must have some sort of connection to a creature you have no knowledge of.

Connection	Will Save Modifier
Likeness or picture	-2
Possession or garment	-4
Body part, lock of hair, bit of nail, etc.	-10

If the save fails, you can see (but not hear) the subject and the subject's immediate surroundings (approximately 10 feet in all directions of the subject). If the subject moves, the sensor follows at a speed of up to 150 feet.

As with all divination (scrying) spells, the sensor has your full visual acuity, including any magical effects. In addition, the following spells have a 5% chance per caster level of operating through the sensor: detect chaos, detect evil, detect good, detect law, detect magic, and message.

If the save succeeds, you can't attempt to scry on that subject again for at least 24 hours.

Arcane material component: the eye of a hawk, an eagle, or a roc, plus nitric acid, copper, and zinc.

Wizard, sorcerer, or bard focus: a mirror of finely wrought and highly polished silver costing not less than 1,000 gp. The mirror must be at least 2 feet by 4 feet.

Cleric focus: a holy water font costing not less than 100 gp.

Druid focus: a natural pool of water.

SCRYING, GREATER

Divination (scrying)

Level: brd 6, clr 7, drd 7, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Duration: 1 hour/level

This spell functions like scrying, except as noted above. Additionally, all of the following spells function reliably through the sensor: detect chaos, detect evil, detect good, detect law, detect magic, message, read magic, and tongues.

SCULPT SOUND

Transmutation

Level: brd 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one creature or object/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

You change the sounds that creatures or objects make. You can create sounds where none exist, deaden sounds, or transform sounds into other sounds. All affected creatures or objects must be transmuted in the same way. Once the transmutation is made, you cannot change it.

You can change the qualities of sounds but cannot create words with which you are unfamiliar yourself.

A spellcaster whose voice is changed dramatically is unable to cast spells with verbal components.

SEARING LIGHT

Evocation

Level: clr 3, sun 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: ray

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

Focusing divine power like a ray of the sun, you project a blast of light from your open palm. You must succeed on a ranged touch attack to strike your target. A creature struck by this ray of light takes 1d8 points of damage per two caster levels (maximum 5d8). An undead creature takes 1d6 points of damage per caster level (maximum 10d6), and an undead creature particularly vulnerable to bright light takes 1d8 points of damage per caster level (maximum 10d8). A construct or inanimate object takes only 1d6 points of damage per two caster levels (maximum 5d6).

SECRET CHEST

Conjuration (summoning)

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: see text

Target: one chest and up to 1 cu. Ft. Of goods/caster level

Duration: sixty days or until discharged

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You hide a chest on the ethereal plane for as long as sixty days and can retrieve it at will. The chest can contain up to 1 cubic foot of material per caster level (regardless of the chest's actual size, which is about 3 feet by 2 feet by 2 feet). If any living creatures are in the chest, there is a 75% chance that the spell simply fails. Once the chest is hidden, you can retrieve it by concentrating (a standard action), and it appears next to you.

The chest must be exceptionally well crafted and expensive, constructed for you by master crafters. The cost of such a chest is never less than 5,000 gp. Once it is constructed, you must make a tiny replica (of the same materials and perfect in every detail), so that the miniature of the chest appears to be a perfect copy. (The replica costs 50 gp.) You can have but one pair of these chests at any given time—even a wish spell does not allow more. The chests are nonmagical and can be fitted with locks, wards, and so on, just as any normal chest can be.

To hide the chest, you cast the spell while touching both the chest and the replica. The chest vanishes into the ethereal plane. You need the replica to recall the chest. After sixty days, there is a cumulative chance of 5% per day that the chest is irretrievably lost. If the miniature of the chest is lost or destroyed, there is no way, not even with a wish spell, that the large chest can be summoned back, although an extraplanar expedition might be mounted to find it.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Living things in the chest eat, sleep, and age normally, and they die if they run out of food, air, water, or whatever they need to survive.

Focus: the chest and its replica.

SECRET PAGE

Transmutation

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: touch

Target: page touched, up to 3 sq. Ft. In size

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Secret page alters the contents of a page so that they appear to be something entirely different. The text of a spell can be changed to show even another spell. Explosive runes or sepia snake sigil can be cast upon the secret page.

A comprehend languages spell alone cannot reveal a secret page's contents. You are able to reveal the original contents by speaking a special word. You can then peruse the actual page, and return it to its secret page form at will. You can also remove the spell by double repetition of the special word. A detect magic spell reveals dim magic on the page in question but does not reveal its true contents. True seeing reveals the presence of the hidden material but does not reveal the contents unless cast in combination with comprehend languages. A secret page spell can be dispelled, and the hidden writings can be destroyed by means of an erase spell.

Material component: powdered herring scales and will-o'-wisp essence.

SECURE SHELTER

Conjuration (creation)

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M, F; see text

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: 20-ft.-Square structure

Duration: 2 hours/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You conjure a sturdy cottage or lodge made of material that is common in the area where the spell is cast. The floor is level, clean, and dry. In all respects the lodging resembles a normal cottage, with a sturdy door, two shuttered windows, and a small fireplace.

The shelter has no heating or cooling source (other than natural insulation qualities). Therefore, it must be heated as a normal dwelling, and extreme heat adversely affects it and its occupants. The dwelling does, however, provide considerable security otherwise—it is as strong as a normal stone building, regardless of its material composition. The dwelling resists flames and fire as if it were stone. It is impervious to normal missiles (but not the sort cast by siege engines or giants).

The door, shutters, and even chimney are secure against intrusion, the former two being arcane locked and the latter secured by an iron grate at the top and a narrow flue. In addition, these three areas are protected by an alarm spell. Finally, an unseen servant is conjured to provide service to you for the duration of the shelter.

The secure shelter contains rude furnishings—eight bunks, a trestle table, eight stools, and a writing desk.

Material component: a square chip of stone, crushed lime, a few grains of sand, a sprinkling of water, and several splinters of wood. These must be augmented by the components of the unseen servant spell (string and a bit of wood) if this benefit is to be included.

Focus: the focus of the alarm spell (silver wire and a tiny bell) if this benefit is to be included.

SEE INVISIBILITY

Divination

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

You can see any objects or beings that are invisible within your range of vision, as well as any that are ethereal, as if they were normally visible. Such creatures are visible to you as translucent shapes, allowing you easily to discern the difference between visible, invisible, and ethereal creatures.

The spell does not reveal the method used to obtain invisibility. It does not reveal illusions or enable you to see through opaque objects. It does not reveal creatures who are simply hiding, concealed, or otherwise hard to see.

See invisibility can be made permanent with a permanency spell.

Material component: a pinch of talc and a small sprinkling of powdered silver.

SEEMING

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one creature per two levels, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 12 hours (d)

Saving throw: will negates or will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: yes or no; see text

This spell functions like disguise self, except that you can change the appearance of other people as well. Affected creatures resume their normal appearances if slain.

Unwilling targets can negate the spell's effect on them by making will saves or with spell resistance.

SENDING

Evocation

Level: clr 4, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: see text

Target: one creature

Duration: 1 round; see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You contact a particular creature with which you are familiar and send a short message of 25 words or less to the subject. The subject recognizes you if it knows you. It can answer in like manner immediately. A creature with an intelligence score as low as 1 can understand the sending, though the subject's ability to react is limited as normal by its intelligence score. Even if the sending is received, the subject is not obligated to act upon it in any manner.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

If the creature in question is not on the same plane of existence as you are, there is a 5% chance that the sending does not arrive. (Local conditions on other planes may worsen this chance considerably.)

Arcane material component: a short piece of fine copper wire.

SEPIA SNAKE SIGIL

Conjuration (creation) [force]

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: touch

Target: one touched book or written work

Duration: permanent or until discharged; until released or 1d4 days + one day/level; see text

Saving throw: reflex negates

Spell resistance: no

When you cast sepia snake sigil, a small symbol appears in the text of one written work such as a book, scroll, or map. The text containing the symbol must be at least twenty-five words long. When anyone reads the text containing the symbol, the sepia snake springs into being and strikes the reader, provided there is line of effect between the symbol and the reader.

Simply seeing the enspelled text is not sufficient to trigger the spell; the subject must deliberately read it. The target is entitled to a save to evade the snake's strike. If it succeeds, the sepia snake dissipates in a flash of brown light accompanied by a puff of dun-colored smoke and a loud noise. If the target fails its save, it is engulfed in a shimmering amber field of force and immobilized until released, either at your command or when 1d4 days + one day per caster level have elapsed.

While trapped in the amber field of force, the subject does not age, breathe, grow hungry, sleep, or regain spells. It is preserved in a state of suspended animation, unaware of its surroundings. It can be damaged by outside forces (and perhaps even killed), since the field provides no protection against physical injury. However, a dying subject does not lose hit points or become stable until the spell ends.

The hidden sigil cannot be detected by normal observation, and detect magic reveals only that the entire text is magical.

A dispel magic can remove the sigil. An erase spell destroys the entire page of text.

Sepia snake sigil can be cast in combination with other spells that hide or garble text, such as secret page.

Material component: 500 gp worth of powdered amber, a scale from any snake, and a pinch of mushroom spores.

SEQUESTER

Abjuration

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: one willing creature or object (up to a 2-ft. Cube/level) touched

Duration: one day/level (d)

Saving throw: none or will negates (object)

Spell resistance: no or yes (object)

When cast, this spell not only prevents divination spells from working to detect or locate the creature or object affected by sequester; it also renders the affected creature or object invisible to any form of sight or seeing (as the invisibility spell). The spell does not prevent the subject from being discovered through tactile means or through the use of devices. Creatures affected by sequester become comatose and are effectively in a state of suspended animation until the spell wears off or is dispelled.

Note: the will save prevents an attended or magical object from being sequestered. There is no save to see the sequestered creature or object or to detect it with a divination spell.

Material component: a basilisk eyelash, gum arabic, and a dram of whitewash.

SHADES

Illusion (shadow)

Level: sor/wiz 9

This spell functions like shadow conjuration, except that it mimics sorcerer and wizard conjuration spells of 8th level or lower. The illusory conjurations created deal 4/5 (80%) damage to nonbelievers, and nondamaging effects are 80% likely to work against nonbelievers.

SHADOW CONJURATION

Illusion (shadow)

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: see text

Effect: see text

Duration: see text

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with); varies; see text

Spell resistance: yes; see text

You use material from the plane of shadow to shape quasi-real illusions of one or more creatures, objects, or forces. Shadow conjuration can mimic any sorcerer or wizard conjuration (summoning) or conjuration (creation) spell of 3rd level or lower.

Shadow conjurations are actually 1/5 (20%) as strong as the real things, though creatures who believe the shadow conjurations to be real are affected by them at full strength.

Any creature that interacts with the conjured object, force, or creature can make a will save to recognize its true nature.

Spells that deal damage have normal effects unless the affected creature succeeds on a will save. Each disbelieving creature takes only 1/5 (20%) damage from the attack. If the disbelieved attack has a special effect other than damage, that effect is only 20% likely to occur. Regardless of the result of the save to disbelieve, an affected creature is also allowed any save that the spell being simulated allows, but the save DC is set according to shadow conjuration's level (5th) rather than the spell's normal level. In addition, any effect created by shadow conjuration allows spell resistance, even if the spell it is simulating does not. Shadow objects or substances have normal effects except against those who disbelieve them.

Against disbelievers, they are 20% likely to work.

A shadow creature has 1/5 the hit points of a normal creature of its kind (regardless of whether it's recognized as shadowy). It deals normal damage and has all normal abilities and weaknesses. Against a creature that recognizes it as a shadow creature, however, the shadow creature's damage is 1/5 (20%) normal, and all special abilities that do not deal lethal damage are only 20% likely to work. (Roll for each use and each affected character separately.) Furthermore, the shadow creature's AC bonuses are 1/5 as large.

A creature that succeeds on its save sees the shadow conjurations

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

as transparent images superimposed on vague, shadowy forms.

Objects automatically succeed on their will saves against this spell.

SHADOW CONJURATION, GREATER

Illusion (shadow)

Level: sor/wiz 7

This spell functions like shadow conjuration, except that it can duplicate any sorcerer or wizard conjuration (summoning) or conjuration (creation) spell of 6th level or lower. The illusory conjurations created deal 3/5 (60%) damage to nonbelievers, and nondamaging effects are 60% likely to work against nonbelievers.

SHADOW EVOCATION

Illusion (shadow)

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: see text

Effect: see text

Duration: see text

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: yes

You tap energy from the plane of shadow to cast a quasi-real, illusory version of a sorcerer or wizard evocation spell of 4th level or lower. (For a spell with more than one level, use the best one applicable to you.)

Spells that deal damage have normal effects unless an affected creature succeeds on a will save. Each disbelieving creature takes only 1/5 damage from the attack. If the disbelieved attack has a special effect other than damage, that effect is 1/5 as strong (if applicable) or only 20% likely to occur. If recognized as a shadow evocation, a damaging spell deals only 1/5 (20%) damage. Regardless of the result of the save to disbelieve, an affected creature is also allowed any save (or spell resistance) that the spell being simulated allows, but the save DC is set according to shadow evocation's level (5th) rather than the spell's normal level.

Nondamaging effects have normal effects except against those who disbelieve them. Against disbelievers, they have no effect.

Objects automatically succeed on their will saves against this spell.

SHADOW EVOCATION, GREATER

Illusion (shadow)

Level: sor/wiz 8

This spell functions like shadow evocation, except that it enables you to create partially real, illusory versions of sorcerer or wizard evocation spells of 7th level or lower. If recognized as a greater shadow evocation, a damaging spell deals only three-fifths (60%) damage.

SHADOW WALK

Illusion (shadow)

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Targets: up to one touched creature/ level

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

To use the shadow walk spell, you must be in an area of shadowy illumination. You and any creature you touch are then transported along a coiling path of shadowstuff to the edge of the material plane where it borders the plane of shadow. The effect is largely illusory, but the path is quasi-real. You can take more than one creature along with you (subject to your level limit), but all must be touching each other.

In the region of shadow, you move at a rate of 50 miles per hour, moving normally on the borders of the plane of shadow but much more rapidly relative to the material plane. Thus, you can use this spell to travel rapidly by stepping onto the plane of shadow, moving the desired distance, and then stepping back onto the material plane.

Because of the blurring of reality between the plane of shadow and the material plane, you can't make out details of the terrain or areas you pass over during transit, nor can you predict perfectly where your travel will end. It's impossible to judge distances accurately, making the spell virtually useless for scouting or spying. Furthermore, when the spell effect ends, you are shunted 1d10x100 feet in a random horizontal direction from your desired endpoint. If this would place you within a solid object, you are shunted 1d10x1,000 feet in the same direction. If this would still place you within a solid object, you (and any creatures with you) are shunted to the nearest empty space available, but the strain of this activity renders each creature fatigued (no save).

Shadow walk can also be used to travel to other planes that border on the plane of shadow, but this usage requires the transit of the plane of shadow to arrive at a border with another plane of reality. The transit of the plane of shadow requires 1d4 hours.

Any creatures touched by you when shadow walk is cast also make the transition to the borders of the plane of shadow.

They may opt to follow you, wander off through the plane, or stumble back into the material plane (50% chance for either of the latter results if they are lost or abandoned by you). Creatures unwilling to accompany you into the plane of shadow receive a will saving throw, negating the effect if successful.

SHAMBLER

Conjuration (creation)

Level: drd 9, plant 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: three or more shambling mounds, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart; see text

Duration: seven days or seven months (d); see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

The shambler spell creates 1d4+2 shambling mounds with 11 HD each. The creatures willingly aid you in combat or battle, perform a specific mission, or serve as bodyguards. The creatures remain with you for seven days unless you dismiss them. If the shamblers are created only for guard duty, however, the duration of the spell is seven months. In this case, the shamblers can only be ordered to guard a specific site or location. Shamblers summoned to guard duty cannot move outside the spell's range, which is measured from the point where each first appeared.

The shamblers have resistance to fire as normal shambling mounds do only if the terrain is rainy, marshy, or damp.

SHAPECHANGE

Transmutation

Level: animal 9, drd 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

This spell functions like polymorph, except that it enables you to assume the form of any single nonunique creature (of any type) from fine to colossal size. The assumed form cannot have more than twice your caster level in hit dice (to a maximum of 50 HD). Unlike polymorph, this spell allows incorporeal or gaseous forms to be assumed.

You gain all extraordinary and supernatural abilities (both attacks and qualities) of the assumed form, but you lose your own supernatural abilities. You also gain the type of the new form in place of your own. The new form does not disorient you. Parts of your body or pieces of equipment that are separated from you do not revert to their original forms.

You can become just about anything you are familiar with. You can change form once each round as a free action. The change takes place either immediately before your regular action or immediately after it, but not during the action. If you use this spell to create a disguise, you get a +10 bonus on your disguise check.

Focus: a jade circlet worth no less than 1,500 gp, which you must place on your head when casting the spell. (The focus melds into your new form when you change shape.)

SHATTER

Evocation [sonic]

Level: brd 2, chaos 2, clr 2, destruction 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area or target: 5-ft.-Radius spread; or one solid object or one crystalline creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (object); will negates (object) or fortitude half; see text

Spell resistance: yes (object)

Shatter creates a loud, ringing noise that breaks brittle, nonmagical objects; sunders a single solid, nonmagical object; or damages a crystalline creature.

Used as an area attack, shatter destroys nonmagical objects of crystal, glass, ceramic, or porcelain. All such objects within a 5-foot radius of the point of origin are smashed into dozens of pieces by the spell. Objects weighing more than 1 pound per your level are not affected, but all other objects of the appropriate composition are shattered.

Alternatively, you can target shatter against a single solid object, regardless of composition, weighing up to 10 pounds per caster level. Targeted against a crystalline creature (of any weight), shatter deals 1d6 points of sonic damage per caster level (maximum 10d6), with a fortitude save for half damage.

Arcane material component: a chip of mica.

SHIELD

Abjuration [force]

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Shield creates an invisible, tower shield-sized mobile disk of force that hovers in front of you. It negates magic missile attacks directed at you. The disk also provides a +4 shield bonus to AC. This bonus applies against incorporeal touch attacks, since it is a force effect. The shield has no armor check penalty or arcane spell failure chance. Unlike with a normal tower shield, you can't use the shield spell for cover.

SHIELD OF FAITH

Abjuration

Level: clr 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

This spell creates a shimmering, magical field around the touched creature that averts attacks. The spell grants the subject a +2 deflection bonus to AC, with an additional +1 to the bonus for every six levels you have (maximum +5 deflection bonus at 18th level).

Material component: a small parchment with a bit of holy text written upon it.

SHIELD OF LAW

Abjuration [lawful]

Level: clr 8, law 8

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 20 ft.

Targets: one creature/level in a 20-ft.-Radius burst centered on you

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

A dim, blue glow surrounds the subjects, protecting them from attacks, granting them resistance to spells cast by chaotic creatures, and slowing chaotic creatures when they strike the subjects. This abjuration has four effects.

First, each warded creature gains a +4 deflection bonus to AC and a +4 resistance bonus on saves. Unlike protection from chaos, this benefit applies against all attacks, not just against attacks by chaotic creatures.

Second, a warded creature gains spell resistance 25 against chaotic spells and spells cast by chaotic creatures.

Third, the abjuration blocks possession and mental influence, just as protection from chaos does.

Finally, if a chaotic creature succeeds on a melee attack against a warded creature, the attacker is slowed (will save negates, as the slow spell, but against shield of law's save DC).

Focus: a tiny reliquary containing some sacred relic, such as a scrap of parchment from a lawful text. The reliquary costs at least

SHIELD OTHER

Abjuration

Level: clr 2, pal 2, protection 2

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

This spell wards the subject and creates a mystic connection between you and the subject so that some of its wounds are transferred to you. The subject gains a +1 deflection bonus to AC and a +1 resistance bonus on saves. Additionally, the subject takes only half damage from all wounds and attacks (including that dealt by special abilities) that deal hit point damage. The amount of damage not taken by the warded creature is taken by you. Forms of harm that do not involve hit points, such as charm effects, temporary ability damage, level draining, and death effects, are not affected. If the subject suffers a reduction of hit points from a lowered constitution score, the reduction is not split with you because it is not hit point damage. When the spell ends, subsequent damage is no longer divided between the subject and you, but damage already split is not reassigned to the subject.

If you and the subject of the spell move out of range of each other, the spell ends.

Focus: a pair of platinum rings (worth at least 50 gp each) worn by both you and the warded creature.

SHILLELAGH

Transmutation

Level: drd 1

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: one touched nonmagical oak club or quarterstaff

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

Your own nonmagical club or quarterstaff becomes a weapon with a +1 enhancement bonus on attack and damage rolls. (A quarterstaff gains this enhancement for both ends of the weapon.) It deals damage as if it were two size categories larger (a small club or quarterstaff so transmuted deals 1d8 points of damage, a medium 2d6, and a large 3d6), +1 for its enhancement bonus. These effects only occur when the weapon is wielded by you. If you do not wield it, the weapon behaves as if unaffected by this spell.

SHOCKING GRASP

Evocation [electricity]

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature or object touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

Your successful melee touch attack deals 1d6 points of electricity damage per caster level (maximum 5d6). When delivering the jolt, you gain a +3 bonus on attack rolls if the opponent is wearing metal armor (or made out of metal, carrying a lot of metal, or the like).

SHOUT

Evocation [sonic]

Level: brd 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 30 ft.

Area: cone-shaped burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude partial or reflex negates (object); see text

Spell resistance: yes (object)

You emit an ear-splitting yell that deafens and damages creatures in its path. Any creature within the area is deafened for 2d6 rounds and takes 5d6 points of sonic damage. A successful save negates the deafness and reduces the damage by half. Any exposed brittle or crystalline object or crystalline creature takes 1d6 points of sonic damage per caster level (maximum 15d6). An affected creature is allowed a fortitude save to reduce the damage by half, and a creature holding fragile objects can negate damage to them with a successful reflex save.

A shout spell cannot penetrate a silence spell.

SHOUT, GREATER

Evocation [sonic]

Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, F

Range: 60 ft.

Saving throw: fortitude partial or reflex negates (object); see text

This spell functions like shout, except that the cone deals 10d6 points of sonic damage (or 1d6 points of sonic damage per caster level, maximum 20d6, against exposed brittle or crystalline objects or crystalline creatures). It also causes creatures to be stunned for 1 round and deafened for 4d6 rounds. A creature in the area of the cone can negate the stunning and halve both the damage and the duration of the deafness with a successful fortitude save. A creature holding vulnerable objects can attempt a reflex save to negate the damage to those objects.

Arcane focus: a small metal or ivory horn.

SHRINK ITEM

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: one touched object of up to 2 cu. Ft./Level

Duration: one day/level; see text

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

You are able to shrink one nonmagical item (if it is within the size limit) to 1/16 of its normal size in each dimension (to about 1/4,000 the original volume and mass). This change effectively reduces the object's size by four categories. Optionally, you can also change its now shrunken composition to a clothlike one. Objects changed by a shrink item spell can be returned to normal composition and size merely by tossing them onto any solid surface or by a word of command from the original caster. Even a burning fire and its fuel can be shrunk by this spell. Restoring the shrunken object to its normal size and composition ends the spell.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Shrink item can be made permanent with a permanency spell, in which case the affected object can be shrunk and expanded an indefinite number of times, but only by the original caster.

SILENCE

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 2, clr 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: 20-ft.-Radius emanation centered on a creature, object, or point in space

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: will negates; see text or none (object)

Spell resistance: yes; see text or no (object)

Upon the casting of this spell, complete silence prevails in the affected area. All sound is stopped: conversation is impossible, spells with verbal components cannot be cast, and no noise whatsoever issues from, enters, or passes through the area. The spell can be cast on a point in space, but the effect is stationary unless cast on a mobile object. The spell can be centered on a creature, and the effect then radiates from the creature and moves as it moves. An unwilling creature can attempt a will save to negate the spell and can use spell resistance, if any. Items in a creature's possession or magic items that emit sound receive the benefits of saves and spell resistance, but unattended objects and points in space do not. This spell provides a defense against sonic or language-based attacks.

SILENT IMAGE

Illusion (figment)

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: visual figment that cannot extend beyond four 10-ft.

Cubes + one 10-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: concentration

Saving throw: will disbelief (if interacted with)

Spell resistance: no

This spell creates the visual illusion of an object, creature, or force, as visualized by you. The illusion does not create sound, smell, texture, or temperature. You can move the image within the limits of the size of the effect.

Focus: a bit of fleece.

SIMULACRUM

Illusion (shadow)

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M, XP

Casting time: 12 hours

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: one duplicate creature

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Simulacrum creates an illusory duplicate of any creature. The duplicate creature is partially real and formed from ice or snow. It appears to be the same as the original, but it has only one-half of the real creature's levels or hit dice (and the appropriate hit points, feats, skill ranks, and special abilities for a creature of that level or HD). You can't create a simulacrum of a creature whose hit dice or levels exceed twice your caster level. You must make a disguise check when you cast the spell to determine how good the likeness is. A creature familiar with the original might detect the ruse with a successful spot check (opposed by the caster's disguise check) or a DC 20 sense motive check.

At all times the simulacrum remains under your absolute command. No special telepathic link exists, so command must be exercised in some other manner. A simulacrum has no ability to become more powerful. It cannot increase its level or abilities. If reduced to 0 hit points or otherwise destroyed, it reverts to snow and melts instantly into nothingness. A complex process requiring at least 24 hours, 100 gp per hit point, and a fully equipped magical laboratory can repair damage to a simulacrum.

Material component: the spell is cast over the rough snow or ice form, and some piece of the creature to be duplicated (hair, nail, or the like) must be placed inside the snow or ice. Additionally, the spell requires powdered ruby worth 100 gp per HD of the simulacrum to be created.

XP cost: 100 XP per HD of the simulacrum to be created (minimum 1,000 XP).

SLAY LIVING

Necromancy [death]

Level: clr 5, death 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude partial

Spell resistance: yes

You can slay any one living creature. You must succeed on a melee touch attack to touch the subject, and it can avoid death with a successful fortitude save. If it succeeds, it instead takes 3d6 points of damage +1 point per caster level.

SLEEP

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 round

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: one or more living creatures within a 10-ft.-Radius burst

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

A sleep spell causes a magical slumber to come upon 4 hit dice of creatures. Creatures with the fewest HD are affected first.

Among creatures with equal HD, those who are closest to the spell's point of origin are affected first. Hit dice that are not sufficient to affect a creature are wasted.

Sleeping creatures are helpless. Slapping or wounding awakens an affected creature, but normal noise does not. Awakening a creature is a standard action (an application of the aid another action).

Sleep does not target unconscious creatures, constructs, or undead creatures.

Material component: a pinch of fine sand, rose petals, or a live cricket.

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC

SLEET STORM

Conjuration (creation) [cold]

Level: drd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: cylinder (40-ft. Radius, 20 ft. High)

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

Driving sleet blocks all sight (even darkvision) within it and causes the ground in the area to be icy. A creature can walk within or through the area of sleet at half normal speed with a DC 10 balance check. Failure means it can't move in that round, while failure by 5 or more means it falls (see the balance skill for details).

The sleet extinguishes torches and small fires.

Arcane material component: a pinch of dust and a few drops of water.

SLOW

Transmutation

Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

An affected creature moves and attacks at a drastically slowed rate. A slowed creature can take only a single move action or standard action each turn, but not both (nor may it take full-round actions). Additionally, it takes a -1 penalty on attack rolls, AC, and reflex saves. A slowed creature moves at half its normal speed (round down to the next 5-foot increment), which affects the creature's jumping distance as normal for decreased speed.

Multiple slow effects don't stack. Slow counters and dispels haste.

Material component: a drop of molasses.

SNARE

Transmutation

Level: rgr 2, drd 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 3 rounds

Range: touch

Target: touched nonmagical circle of vine, rope, or thong with a 2 ft. Diameter + 2 ft./Level

Duration: until triggered or broken

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell enables you to make a snare that functions as a magic trap. The snare can be made from any supple vine, a thong, or a rope. When you cast snare upon it, the cordlike object blends with its surroundings (search DC 23 for a character with the trapfinding ability to locate). One end of the snare is tied in a loop that contracts around one or more of the limbs of any creature stepping inside the circle.

If a strong and supple tree is nearby, the snare can be fastened to it. The spell causes the tree to bend and then straighten when the loop is triggered, dealing 1d6 points of damage to the creature trapped and lifting it off the ground by the trapped limb or limbs. If no such tree is available, the cordlike object tightens around the creature, dealing no damage but causing it to be entangled.

The snare is magical. To escape, a trapped creature must make a DC 23 escape artist check or a DC 23 strength check that is a full-round action. The snare has AC 7 and 5 hit points. A successful escape from the snare breaks the loop and ends the spell.

SOFTEN EARTH AND STONE

Transmutation [earth]

Level: drd 2, earth 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: 10-ft. Square/level; see text

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

When this spell is cast, all natural, undressed earth or stone in the spell's area is softened. Wet earth becomes thick mud, dry earth becomes loose sand or dirt, and stone becomes soft clay that is easily molded or chopped. You affect a 10-foot-square area to a depth of 1 to 4 feet, depending on the toughness or resilience of the ground at that spot. Magical, enchanted, dressed, or worked stone cannot be affected. Earth or stone creatures are not affected.

A creature in mud must succeed on a reflex save or be caught for 1d2 rounds and unable to move, attack, or cast spells. A creature that succeeds on its save can move through the mud at half speed, and it can't run or charge.

Loose dirt is not as troublesome as mud, but all creatures in the area can move at only half their normal speed and can't run or charge over the surface.

Stone softened into clay does not hinder movement, but it does allow characters to cut, shape, or excavate areas they may not have been able to affect before.

While soften earth and stone does not affect dressed or worked stone, cavern ceilings or vertical surfaces such as cliff faces can be affected. Usually, this causes a moderate collapse or landslide as the loosened material peels away from the face of the wall or roof and falls.

A moderate amount of structural damage can be dealt to a manufactured structure by softening the ground beneath it, causing it to settle. However, most well-built structures will only be damaged by this spell, not destroyed.

SOLID FOG

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M

Duration: 1 min./Level

Spell resistance: no

This spell functions like fog cloud, but in addition to obscuring sight, the solid fog is so thick that any creature attempting to move through it progresses at a speed of 5 feet, regardless of its normal speed, and it takes a -2 penalty on all melee attack and melee damage rolls. The vapors prevent effective ranged weapon attacks (except for magic rays and the like). A creature or object that falls into solid fog is slowed, so that each 10 feet of vapor that it passes through reduces falling damage by 1d6. A creature can't take a 5-foot step while in solid fog.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

However, unlike normal fog, only a severe wind (31+ mph) disperses these vapors, and it does so in 1 round.

Solid fog can be made permanent with a permanency spell. A permanent solid fog dispersed by wind reforms in 10 minutes.

Material component: a pinch of dried, powdered peas combined with powdered animal hoof.

SONG OF DISCORD

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting, sonic]

Level: brd 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: creatures within a 20-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

This spell causes those within the area to turn on each other rather than attack their foes. Each affected creature has a 50% chance to attack the nearest target each round. (Roll to determine each creature's behavior every round at the beginning of its turn.) A creature that does not attack its nearest neighbor is free to act normally for that round.

Creatures forced by a song of discord to attack their fellows employ all methods at their disposal, choosing their deadliest spells and most advantageous combat tactics. They do not, however, harm targets that have fallen unconscious.

SOUL BIND

Necromancy

Level: clr 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: corpse

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: no

You draw the soul from a newly dead body and imprison it in a black sapphire gem. The subject must have been dead no more than 1 round per caster level. The soul, once trapped in the gem, cannot be returned through clone, raise dead, reincarnation, resurrection, true resurrection, or even a miracle or a wish. Only by destroying the gem or dispelling the spell on the gem can one free the soul (which is then still dead).

Focus: a black sapphire of at least 1,000 gp value for every hit die possessed by the creature whose soul is to be bound. If the gem is not valuable enough, it shatters when the binding is attempted. (While creatures have no concept of level or hit dice as such, the value of the gem needed to trap an individual can be researched. Remember that this value can change over time as creatures gain more hit dice.)

SOUND BURST

Evocation [sonic]

Level: brd 2, clr 2

Components: V, S, F/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: 10-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude partial

Spell resistance: yes

You blast an area with a tremendous cacophony. Every creature in the area takes 1d8 points of sonic damage and must succeed on a fortitude save to avoid being stunned for 1 round.

Creatures that cannot hear are not stunned but are still damaged.

Arcane focus: a musical instrument.

SPEAK WITH ANIMALS

Divination

Level: brd 3, drd 1, rgr 1

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 min./Level

You can comprehend and communicate with animals. You are able to ask questions of and receive answers from animals, although the spell doesn't make them any more friendly or cooperative than normal. Furthermore, wary and cunning animals are likely to be terse and evasive, while the more stupid ones make inane comments. If an animal is friendly toward you, it may do some favor or service for you.

SPEAK WITH DEAD

Necromancy [language-dependent]

Level: clr 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: 10 ft.

Target: one dead creature

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates; see text

Spell resistance: no

You grant the semblance of life and intellect to a corpse, allowing it to answer several questions that you put to it. You may ask one question per two caster levels. Unasked questions are wasted if the duration expires. The corpse's knowledge is limited to what the creature knew during life, including the languages it spoke (if any). Answers are usually brief, cryptic, or repetitive. If the creature's alignment was different from yours, the corpse gets a will save to resist the spell as if it were alive.

If the corpse has been subject to speak with dead within the past week, the new spell fails. You can cast this spell on a corpse that has been deceased for any amount of time, but the body must be mostly intact to be able to respond. A damaged corpse may be able to give partial answers or partially correct answers, but it must at least have a mouth in order to speak at all.

This spell does not let you actually speak to the person (whose soul has departed). It instead draws on the imprinted knowledge stored in the corpse. The partially animated body retains the imprint of the soul that once inhabited it, and thus it can speak with all the knowledge that the creature had while alive. The corpse, however, cannot learn new information.

Indeed, it can't even remember being questioned.

This spell does not affect a corpse that has been turned into an undead creature.

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC

SPEAK WITH PLANTS

Divination

Level: brd 4, drd 3, rgr 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 min./Level

You can comprehend and communicate with plants, including both normal plants and plant creatures. You are able to ask questions of and receive answers from plants. A regular plant's sense of its surroundings is limited, so it won't be able to give (or recognize) detailed descriptions of creatures or answer questions about events outside its immediate vicinity.

The spell doesn't make plant creatures any more friendly or cooperative than normal. Furthermore, wary and cunning plant creatures are likely to be terse and evasive, while the more stupid ones may make inane comments. If a plant creature is friendly toward you, it may do some favor or service for you.

SPECTRAL HAND

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: one spectral hand

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

A ghostly, glowing hand shaped from your life force materializes and moves as you desire, allowing you to deliver low-level, touch range spells at a distance. On casting the spell, you lose 1d4 hit points that return when the spell ends (even if it is dispelled), but not if the hand is destroyed. (The hit points can be healed as normal.) For as long as the spell lasts, any touch range spell of 4th level or lower that you cast can be delivered by the spectral hand. The spell gives you a +2 bonus on your melee touch attack roll, and attacking with the hand counts normally as an attack. The hand always strikes from your direction. The hand cannot flank targets like a creature can. After it delivers a spell, or if the hand goes beyond the spell range, goes out of your sight, the hand returns to you and hovers.

The hand is incorporeal and thus cannot be harmed by normal weapons. It has improved evasion (half damage on a failed reflex save and no damage on a successful save), your save bonuses, and an AC of at least 22. Your intelligence modifier applies to the hand's AC as if it were the hand's dexterity modifier. The hand has 1 to 4 hit points, the same number that you lost in creating it.

SPELL IMMUNITY

Abjuration

Level: clr 4, protection 4, strength 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The warded creature is immune to the effects of one specified spell for every four levels you have. The spells must be of 4th level or lower. The warded creature effectively has unbeatable spell resistance regarding the specified spell or spells. Naturally, that immunity doesn't protect a creature from spells for which spell resistance doesn't apply. Spell immunity protects against spells, spell-like effects of magic items, and innate spell-like abilities of creatures. It does not protect against supernatural or extraordinary abilities, such as breath weapons or gaze attacks.

Only a particular spell can be protected against, not a certain domain or school of spells or a group of spells that are similar in effect.

A creature can have only one spell immunity or greater spell immunity spell in effect on it at a time.

SPELL IMMUNITY, GREATER

Abjuration

Level: clr 8

This spell functions like spell immunity, except the immunity applies to spells of 8th level or lower.

A creature can have only one spell immunity or greater spell immunity spell in effect on it at a time.

SPELL RESISTANCE

Abjuration

Level: clr 5, magic 5, protection 5

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

The creature gains spell resistance equal to 12 + your caster level.

SPELLSTAFF

Transmutation

Level: drd 6

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: touch

Target: wooden quarterstaff touched

Duration: permanent until discharged (d)

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

You store one spell that you can normally cast in a wooden quarterstaff. Only one such spell can be stored in a staff at a given time, and you cannot have more than one spellstaff at any given time. You can cast a spell stored within a staff just as though it were among those you had prepared, but it does not count against your normal allotment for a given day. You use up any applicable material components required to cast the spell when you store it in the spellstaff.

Focus: the staff that stores the spell.

SPELL TURNING

Abjuration

Level: luck 7, magic 7, sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: until expended or 10 min./Level

Spells and spell-like effects targeted on you are turned back upon the original caster. The abjuration turns only spells that have you as a target. Effect and area spells are not affected. Spell turning also fails to stop touch range spells.

From seven to ten (1d4+6) spell levels are affected by the turning. The exact number is rolled secretly.

When you are targeted by a spell of higher level than the amount of spell turning you have left, that spell is partially turned. The subtract the amount of spell turning left from the spell level of the incoming spell, then divide the result by the spell level of the incoming spell to see what fraction of the effect gets through. For damaging spells, you and the caster each take a fraction of the damage. For nondamaging spells, each of you has a proportional chance to be affected.

If you and a spellcasting attacker are both warded by spell turning effects in operation, a resonating field is created.

Roll randomly to determine the result.

d%	Effect
01–70	Spell drains away without effect.
71–80	Spell affects both of you equally at full effect.
81–97	Both turning effects are rendered nonfunctional for 1d4 minutes.
98–100	Both of you go through a rift into another plane.

Arcane material component: a small silver mirror.

SPIDER CLIMB

Transmutation

Level: drd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 10 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The subject can climb and travel on vertical surfaces or even traverse ceilings as well as a spider does. The affected creature must have its hands free to climb in this manner. The subject gains a climb speed of 20 feet; furthermore, it need not make climb checks to traverse a vertical or horizontal surface (even upside down). A spider climbing creature retains its dexterity bonus to armor class (if any) while climbing, and opponents get no special bonus to their attacks against it. It cannot, however, use the run action while climbing.

Material component: a drop of bitumen and a live spider, both of which must be eaten by the subject.

SPIKE GROWTH

Transmutation

Level: drd 3, rgr 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: one 20-ft. Square/level

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: reflex partial

Spell resistance: yes

Any ground-covering vegetation in the spell's area becomes very hard and sharply pointed without changing its appearance.

In areas of bare earth, roots and rootlets act in the same way. Typically, spike growth can be cast in any outdoor setting except open water, ice, heavy snow, sandy desert, or bare stone. Any creature moving on foot into or through the spell's area takes 1d4 points of piercing damage for each 5 feet of movement through the spiked area.

Any creature that takes damage from this spell must also succeed on a reflex save or suffer injuries to its feet and legs that slow its land speed by one-half. This speed penalty lasts for 24 hours or until the injured creature receives a cure spell (which also restores lost hit points). Another character can remove the penalty by taking 10 minutes to dress the injuries and succeeding on a heal check against the spell's save DC.

Spike growth can't be disabled with the disable device skill.

Note: magic traps such as spike growth are hard to detect. A rogue (only) can use the search skill to find a spike growth. The DC is 25 + spell level, or DC 28 for spike growth (or DC 27 for spike growth cast by a ranger).

SPIKE STONES

Transmutation [earth]

Level: drd 4, earth 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: one 20-ft. Square/level

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: reflex partial

Spell resistance: yes

Rocky ground, stone floors, and similar surfaces shape themselves into long, sharp points that blend into the back ground.

Spike stones impede progress through an area and deal damage. Any creature moving on foot into or through the spell's area moves at half speed.

In addition, each creature moving through the area takes 1d8 points of piercing damage for each 5 feet of movement through the spiked area.

Any creature that takes damage from this spell must also succeed on a reflex save to avoid injuries to its feet and legs. A failed save causes the creature's speed to be reduced to half normal for 24 hours or until the injured creature receives a cure spell (which also restores lost hit points). Another character can remove the penalty by taking 10 minutes to dress the injuries and succeeding on a heal check against the spell's save DC.

Spike stones is a magic trap that can't be disabled with the disable device skill.

Note: magic traps such as spike stones are hard to detect. A rogue (only) can use the search skill to find spike stones. The DC is 25 + spell level, or DC 29 for spike stones.

weapon with some spiritual significance or symbolism to you (see below) and has the same threat range and critical multipliers as a real weapon of its form. It strikes the opponent you designate, starting with one attack in the round the spell is cast and continuing each round thereafter on your turn. It uses your base attack bonus (possibly allowing it multiple attacks per round in subsequent rounds) plus your wisdom modifier as its attack bonus. It strikes as a spell, not as a weapon, so, for example, it can damage creatures that have damage reduction. As a force effect, it can strike incorporeal creatures without the normal miss chance associated with incorporeality. The weapon always strikes from your direction. It does not get a flanking bonus or help a combatant get one. Your feats or combat actions do not affect the weapon. If the weapon goes beyond the spell range, if it goes out of your sight, or if you are not directing it, the weapon returns to you and hovers.

Each round after the first, you can use a move action to redirect the weapon to a new target. If you do not, the weapon continues to attack the previous round's target. On any round that the weapon switches targets, it gets one attack. Subsequent rounds of attacking that target allow the weapon to make multiple attacks if your base attack bonus would allow it to. Even if the spiritual weapon is a ranged weapon, use the spell's range, not the weapon's normal range increment, and switching targets still is a move action.

A spiritual weapon cannot be attacked or harmed by physical attacks, but dispel magic, disintegrate, a sphere of annihilation, or a rod of cancellation affects it. A spiritual weapon's AC against touch attacks is 12 (10 + size bonus for tiny object).

If an attacked creature has spell resistance, you make a caster level check (1d20 + caster level) against that spell resistance the first time the spiritual weapon strikes it. If the weapon is successfully resisted, the spell is dispelled. If not, the weapon has its normal full effect on that creature for the duration of the spell.

The weapon that you get is often a force replica of your deity's own personal weapon. A cleric without a deity gets a weapon based on his alignment. A neutral cleric without a deity can create a spiritual weapon of any alignment, provided he is acting at least generally in accord with that alignment at the time. The weapons associated with each alignment are as follows.

Chaos: battleaxe
Evil: light flail
Good: warhammer
Law: longsword

STATUE

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 round

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

A statue spell turns the subject to solid stone, along with any garments and equipment worn or carried. In statue form, the subject gains hardness 8. The subject retains its own hit points.

The subject can see, hear, and smell normally, but it does not need to eat or breathe. Feeling is limited to those sensations that can affect the granite-hard substance of the individual's body. Chipping is equal to a mere scratch, but breaking off one of the statue's arms constitutes serious damage.

The subject of a statue spell can return to its normal state, act, and then return instantly to the statue state (a free action) if it so desires, as long as the spell duration is in effect.

Material component: lime, sand, and a drop of water stirred by an iron bar, such as a nail or spike.

STATUS

Divination

Level: clr 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Targets: one living creature touched per three levels

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

When you need to keep track of comrades who may get separated, status allows you to mentally monitor their relative positions and general condition. You are aware of direction and distance to the creatures and any conditions affecting them: unharmed, wounded, disabled, staggered, unconscious, dying, nauseated, panicked, stunned, poisoned, diseased, confused, or the like. Once the spell has been cast upon the subjects, the distance between them and the caster does not affect the spell as long as they are on the same plane of existence. If a subject leaves the plane, or if it dies, the spell ceases to function for it.

STINKING CLOUD

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: cloud spreads in 20-ft. Radius, 20 ft. High

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: fortitude negates; see text

Spell resistance: no

Stinking cloud creates a bank of fog like that created by fog cloud, except that the vapors are nauseating. Living creatures in the cloud become nauseated. This condition lasts as long as the creature is in the cloud and for 1d4+1 rounds after it leaves. (Roll separately for each nauseated character.) Any creature that succeeds on its save but remains in the cloud must continue to save each round on your turn.

Stinking cloud can be made permanent with a permanency spell. A permanent stinking cloud dispersed by wind reforms in 10 minutes.

Material component: a rotten egg or several skunk cabbage leaves.

STONE SHAPE

Transmutation [earth]

Level: clr 3, drd 3, earth 3, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: stone or stone object touched, up to 10 cu. Ft. + 1 Cu. Ft./Level

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Spell resistance: no

You can form an existing piece of stone into any shape that suits your purpose. While it's possible to make crude coffers, doors, and so forth with stone shape, fine detail isn't possible. There is a 30% chance that any shape including moving parts simply doesn't work.

Arcane material component: soft clay, which must be worked into roughly the desired shape of the stone object and then touched to the stone while the verbal component is uttered.

STONESKIN

Abjuration

Level: drd 5, earth 6, sor/wiz 4, strength 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 10 min./Level or until discharged

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The warded creature gains resistance to blows, cuts, stabs, and slashes. The subject gains damage reduction 10/adamantine. (It ignores the first 10 points of damage each time it takes damage from a weapon, though an adamantite weapon bypasses the reduction.) Once the spell has prevented a total of 10 points of damage per caster level (maximum 150 points), it is discharged.

Material component: granite and 250 gp worth of diamond dust sprinkled on the target's skin.

STONE TELL

Divination

Level: drd 6

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 min./Level

You gain the ability to speak with stones, which relate to you who or what has touched them as well as revealing what is covered or concealed behind or under them. The stones relate complete descriptions if asked. A stone's perspective, perception, and knowledge may prevent the stone from providing the details you are looking for.

You can speak with natural or worked stone.

STONE TO FLESH

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Target: one petrified creature or a cylinder of stone from 1 ft. To 3 ft. In diameter and up to 10 ft. Long

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude negates (object); see text

Spell resistance: yes

This spell restores a petrified creature to its normal state, restoring life and goods. The creature must make a DC 15 fortitude save to survive the process. Any petrified creature, regardless of size, can be restored.

The spell also can convert a mass of stone into a fleshy substance. Such flesh is inert and lacking a vital life force unless a life force or magical energy is available. (For example, this spell would turn a stone golem into a flesh golem, but an ordinary statue would become a corpse.) You can affect an object that fits within a cylinder from 1 foot to 3 feet in diameter and up to 10 feet long or a cylinder of up to those dimensions in a larger mass of stone.

Material component: a pinch of earth and a drop of blood.

STORM OF VENGEANCE

Conjuration (summoning)

Level: drd 9, clr 9

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 round

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: 360-ft.-Radius storm cloud

Duration: concentration (maximum 10 rounds) (d)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes

This spell creates an enormous black storm cloud. Lightning and crashing claps of thunder appear within the storm. Each creature beneath the cloud must succeed on a fortitude save or be deafened for 1d4x10 minutes.

If you do not maintain concentration on the spell after casting it, the spell ends. If you continue to concentrate, the spell generates additional effects in each following round, as noted below. Each effect occurs during your turn.

2nd round: acid rains down in the area, dealing 1d6 points of acid damage (no save).

3rd round: you call six bolts of lightning down from the cloud. You decide where the bolts strike. No two bolts may be directed at the same target. Each bolt deals 10d6 points of electricity damage. A creature struck can attempt a reflex save for half damage.

4th round: hailstones rain down in the area, dealing 5d6 points of bludgeoning damage (no save).

5th through 10th rounds: violent rain and wind gusts reduce visibility. The rain obscures all sight, including darkvision, beyond 5 feet. A creature 5 feet away has concealment (attacks have a 20% miss chance). Creatures farther away have total concealment (50% miss chance, and the attacker cannot use sight to locate the target). Speed is reduced by three-quarters.

Ranged attacks within the area of the storm are impossible. Spells cast within the area are disrupted unless the caster succeeds on a concentration check against a DC equal to the storm of vengeance's save DC + the level of the spell the caster is trying to cast.

SUGGESTION

Enchantment (compulsion) [language-dependent, mind-affecting]

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, m

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one living creature

Duration: 1 hour/level or until completed

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

You influence the actions of the target creature by suggesting a course of activity (limited to a sentence or two). The suggestion must be worded in such a manner as to make the activity sound reasonable. Asking the creature to do some obviously harmful act automatically negates the effect of the spell.

The suggested course of activity can continue for the entire duration. If the suggested activity can be completed in a shorter time, the spell ends when the subject finishes what it was asked to do. You can instead specify conditions that will trigger a special activity during the duration. If the condition is not met before the spell duration expires, the activity is not performed.

A very reasonable suggestion causes the save to be made with a penalty (such as -1 or -2).

Material component: a snake's tongue and either a bit of honeycomb or a drop of sweet oil.

SUGGESTION, MASS

Enchantment (compulsion) [language-dependent, mind-affecting]

Level: brd 5, sor/wiz 6

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Targets: one creature/level, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

This spell functions like suggestion, except that it can affect more creatures. The same suggestion applies to all these creatures.

SUMMON INSTRUMENT

Conjuration (summoning)

Level: brd 0

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 round

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: one summoned handheld musical instrument

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons one handheld musical instrument of your choice. This instrument appears in your hands or at your feet (your choice). The instrument is typical for its type. Only one instrument appears per casting, and it will play only for you. You can't summon an instrument too large to be held in two hands.

SUMMON MONSTER I

Conjuration (summoning) [see text]

Level: brd 1, clr 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, f/DF

Casting time: 1 round

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one summoned creature

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

This spell summons an extraplanar creature (typically an outsider, elemental, or magical beast native to another plane). It appears where you designate and acts immediately, on your turn. It attacks your opponents to the best of its ability. If you can communicate with the creature, you can direct it not to attack, to attack particular enemies, or to perform other actions.

The spell conjures one of the creatures from the 1st-level list on the accompanying summon monster table. You choose which kind of creature to summon, and you can change that choice each time you cast the spell.

A summoned monster cannot summon or otherwise conjure another creature, nor can it use any teleportation or planar travel abilities. Creatures cannot be summoned into an environment that cannot support them.

When you use a summoning spell to summon an air, chaotic, earth, evil, fire, good, lawful, or water creature, it is a spell of that type.

Arcane focus: a tiny bag and a small (not necessarily lit) candle.

Duration: concentration + 2 rounds

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You summon a swarm of bats, rats, or spiders (your choice), which attacks all other creatures within its area. (You may summon the swarm so that it shares the area of other creatures.) If no living creatures are within its area, the swarm attacks or pursues the nearest creature as best it can. The caster has no control over its target or direction of travel.

Arcane material component: a square of red cloth.

1–8	Rats (animals)
9–14	Bats (animals)
15–16	Spiders (vermin, poisonous)
17–18	Centipedes (vermin, poisonous)
19–20	Flying beetles (vermin)

*The creature types (in parentheses) indicate what sorts of spells and effects might aid a subject against the swarm.

SUNBEAM

Evocation [light]

Level: drd 7, sun 7

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: line from your hand

Duration: 1 round/level or until all beams are exhausted

Saving throw: reflex negates and reflex half; see text

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Spell resistance: yes

For the duration of this spell, you can use a standard action to evoke a dazzling beam of intense light each round. You can call forth one beam per three caster levels (maximum six beams at 18th level). The spell ends when its duration runs out or your allotment of beams is exhausted.

Each creature in the beam is blinded and takes 4d6 points of damage. Any creatures to which sunlight is harmful or unnatural take double damage. A successful reflex save negates the blindness and reduces the damage by half.

An undead creature caught within the beam takes 1d6 points of damage per caster level (maximum 20d6), or half damage if a reflex save is successful. In addition, the beam results in the destruction of any undead creature specifically harmed by bright light if it fails its save.

The ultraviolet light generated by the spell deals damage to fungi, mold, oozes, and slimes just as if they were undead creatures.

SUNBURST

Evocation [light]

Level: drd 8, sor/wiz 8, sun 8

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Area: 80-ft.-Radius burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: reflex partial; see text

Spell resistance: yes

Sunburst causes a globe of searing radiance to explode silently from a point you select. All creatures in the globe are blinded and take 6d6 points of damage. A creature to which sunlight is harmful or unnatural takes double damage. A successful reflex save negates the blindness and reduces the damage by half.

An undead creature caught within the globe takes 1d6 points of damage per caster level (maximum 25d6), or half damage if a reflex save is successful. In addition, the burst results in the destruction of any undead creature specifically harmed by bright light if it fails its save.

The ultraviolet light generated by the spell deals damage to fungi, mold, oozes, and slimes just as if they were undead creatures.

Sunburst dispels any darkness spells of lower than 9th level within its area.

Arcane material component: a piece of sunstone and a naked flame.

SYMBOL OF DEATH

Necromancy [death]

Level: clr 8, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: 0 ft.; See text

Effect: one symbol

Duration: see text

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

This spell allows you to scribe a potent rune of power upon a surface. When triggered, a symbol of death slays one or more creatures within 60 feet of the symbol (treat as a burst) whose combined total current hit points do not exceed 150. The symbol of death affects the closest creatures first, skipping creatures with too many hit points to affect. Once triggered, the symbol becomes active and glows, lasting for 10 minutes per caster level or until it has affected 150 hit points' worth of creatures, whichever comes first. Any creature that enters the area while the symbol of death is active is subject to its effect, whether or not that creature was in the area when it was triggered. A creature need save against the symbol only once as long as it remains within the area, though if it leaves the area and returns while the symbol is still active, it must save again.

Until it is triggered, the symbol of death is inactive (though visible and legible at a distance of 60 feet). To be effective, a symbol of death must always be placed in plain sight and in a prominent location. Covering or hiding the rune renders the symbol of death ineffective, unless a creature removes the covering, in which case the symbol of death works normally.

As a default, a symbol of death is triggered whenever a creature does one or more of the following, as you select: looks at the rune; reads the rune; touches the rune; passes over the rune; or passes through a portal bearing the rune. Regardless of the trigger method or methods chosen, a creature more than 60 feet from a symbol of death can't trigger it (even if it meets one or more of the triggering conditions, such as reading the rune). Once the spell is cast, a symbol of death's triggering conditions cannot be changed.

In this case, "reading" the rune means any attempt to study it, identify it, or fathom its meaning. Throwing a cover over a symbol of death to render it inoperative triggers it if the symbol reacts to touch. You can't use a symbol of death offensively; for instance, a touch-triggered symbol of death remains untriggered if an item bearing the symbol of death is used to touch a creature. Likewise, a symbol of death cannot be placed on a weapon and set to activate when the weapon strikes a foe.

You can also set special triggering limitations of your own. These can be as simple or elaborate as you desire. Special conditions for triggering a symbol of death can be based on a creature's name, identity, or alignment, but otherwise must be based on observable actions or qualities. Intangibles such as level, class, hit dice, and hit points don't qualify.

When scribing a symbol of death, you can specify a password or phrase that prevents a creature using it from triggering the effect. Anyone using the password remains immune to that particular rune's effects so long as the creature remains within 60 feet of the rune. If the creature leaves the radius and returns later, it must use the password again.

You also can attune any number of creatures to the symbol of death, but doing this can extend the casting time. Attuning one or two creatures takes negligible time, and attuning a small group (as many as ten creatures) extends the casting time to 1 hour. Attuning a large group (as many as twenty-five creatures) takes 24 hours. Attuning larger groups takes proportionately longer. Any creature attuned to a symbol of death cannot trigger it and is immune to its effects, even if within its radius when triggered. You are automatically considered attuned to your own symbols of death, and thus always ignore the effects and cannot inadvertently trigger them.

Read magic allows you to identify a symbol of death with a DC 19 spellcraft check. Of course, if the symbol of death is set to be triggered by reading it, this will trigger the symbol.

A symbol of death can be removed by a successful dispel magic targeted solely on the rune. An erase spell has no effect on a symbol of death. Destruction of the surface where a symbol of death is inscribed destroys the symbol but also triggers it.

Symbol of death can be made permanent with a permanency spell. A permanent symbol of death that is disabled or that has affected its maximum number of hit points becomes inactive for 10 minutes, then can be triggered again as normal.

Note: magic traps such as symbol of death are hard to detect and disable. A rogue (only) can use the search skill to find a symbol of death and disable device to thwart it. The DC in each case is 25 + spell level, or 33 for symbol of death.

SYMBOL OF FEAR

Necromancy [fear, mind-affecting]

Level: clr 6, sor/wiz 6

Saving throw: will negates

This spell functions like symbol of death, except that all creatures within 60 feet of the symbol of fear instead become panicked for 1 round per caster level.

Note: magic traps such as symbol of fear are hard to detect and disable. A rogue (only) can use the search skill to find a symbol of fear and disable device to thwart it. The DC in each case is 25 + spell level, or 31 for symbol of fear.

SYMBOL OF INSANITY

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: clr 8, sor/wiz 8

Saving throw: will negates

This spell functions like symbol of death, except that all creatures within the radius of the symbol of insanity instead become permanently insane (as the insanity spell).

Unlike symbol of death, symbol of insanity has no hit point limit; once triggered, a symbol of insanity simply remains active for 10 minutes per caster level.

Note: magic traps such as symbol of insanity are hard to detect and disable. A rogue (only) can use the search skill to find a symbol of insanity and disable device to thwart it. The DC in each case is 25 + spell level, or 33 for symbol of insanity.

Material component: mercury and phosphorus, plus powdered diamond and opal with a total value of at least 5,000 gp.

SYMBOL OF PAIN

Necromancy [evil]

Level: clr 5, sor/wiz 5

This spell functions like symbol of death, except that each creature within the radius of a symbol of pain instead suffers wracking pains that impose a -4 penalty on attack rolls, skill checks, and ability checks. These effects last for 1 hour after the creature moves farther than 60 feet from the symbol.

Unlike symbol of death, symbol of pain has no hit point limit; once triggered, a symbol of pain simply remains active for 10 minutes per caster level.

Note: magic traps such as symbol of pain are hard to detect and disable. A rogue (only) can use the search skill to find a symbol of pain and disable device to thwart it. The DC in each case is 25 + spell level, or 30 for symbol of pain.

Material component: mercury and phosphorus, plus powdered diamond and opal with a total value of at least 1,000 gp.

SYMBOL OF PERSUASION

Enchantment (charm) [mind-affecting]

Level: clr 6, sor/wiz 6

Saving throw: will negates

This spell functions like symbol of death, except that all creatures within the radius of a symbol of persuasion instead become charmed by the caster (as the charm monster spell) for 1 hour per caster level.

Unlike symbol of death, symbol of persuasion has no hit point limit; once triggered, a symbol of persuasion simply remains active for 10 minutes per caster level.

Note: magic traps such as symbol of persuasion are hard to detect and disable. A rogue (only) can use the search skill to find a symbol of persuasion and disable device to thwart it. The DC in each case is 25 + spell level, or 31 for symbol of persuasion.

Material component: mercury and phosphorus, plus powdered diamond and opal with a total value of at least 5,000 gp.

SYMBOL OF SLEEP

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: clr 5, sor/wiz 5

Saving throw: will negates

This spell functions like symbol of death, except that all creatures of 10 HD or less within 60 feet of the symbol of sleep instead fall into a catatonic slumber for 3d6x10 minutes. Unlike with the sleep spell, sleeping creatures cannot be awakened by nonmagical means before this time expires.

Unlike symbol of death, symbol of sleep has no hit point limit; once triggered, a symbol of sleep simply remains active for 10 minutes per caster level.

Note: magic traps such as symbol of sleep are hard to detect and disable. A rogue (only) can use the search skill to find a symbol of sleep and disable device to thwart it. The DC in each case is 25 + spell level, or 30 for symbol of sleep.

Material component: mercury and phosphorus, plus powdered diamond and opal with a total value of at least 1,000 gp.

SYMBOL OF STUNNING

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: clr 7, sor/wiz 7

Saving throw: will negates

This spell functions like symbol of death, except that all creatures within 60 feet of a symbol of stunning instead become stunned for 1d6 rounds.

Note: magic traps such as symbol of stunning are hard to detect and disable. A rogue (only) can use the search skill to find a symbol of stunning and disable device to thwart it. The DC in each case is 25 + spell level, or 32 for symbol of stunning.

Material component: mercury and phosphorus, plus powdered diamond and opal with a total value of at least 5,000 gp.

SYMBOL OF WEAKNESS

Necromancy

Level: clr 7, sor/wiz 7

This spell functions like symbol of death, except that every creature within 60 feet of a symbol of weakness instead suffers crippling weakness that deals 3d6 points of strength damage.

Unlike symbol of death, symbol of weakness has no hit point limit; once triggered, a symbol of weakness simply remains active for 10 minutes per caster level.

Note: magic traps such as symbol of weakness are hard to detect and disable. A rogue (only) can use the search skill to find a symbol of weakness and disable device to thwart it. The DC in each case is 25 + spell level, or 32 for symbol of weakness.

Material component: mercury and phosphorus, plus powdered diamond and opal with a total value of at least 5,000 gp.

SYMPATHETIC VIBRATION

Evocation [sonic]

Level: brd 6

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: touch

Target: one freestanding structure

Duration: up to 1 round/level

Saving throw: none; see text

Spell resistance: yes

By attuning yourself to a freestanding structure such you can create a damaging vibration within it. Once it begins, the vibration deals 2d10 points of damage per round to the target structure. (Hardness has no effect on the spell's damage.) You can choose at the time of casting to limit the duration of the spell; otherwise it lasts for 1 round/level. If the spell is cast upon a target that is not freestanding the surrounding stone dissipates the effect and no damage occurs.

Sympathetic vibration cannot affect creatures (including constructs). Since a structure is an unattended object, it gets no saving throw to resist the effect.

Focus: a tuning fork.

SYMPATHY

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: drd 9, sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 hour

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one location (up to a 10-ft. Cube/level) or one object

Duration: 2 hours/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

You cause an object or location to emanate magical vibrations that attract either a specific kind of intelligent creature or creatures of a particular alignment, as defined by you. The particular kind of creature to be affected must be named specifically. A creature subtype is not specific enough. Likewise, the specific alignment must be named.

Creatures of the specified kind or alignment feel elated and pleased to be in the area or desire to touch or to possess the object. The compulsion to stay in the area or touch the object is overpowering. If the save is successful, the creature is released from the enchantment, but a subsequent save must be made 1d6x10 minutes later. If this save fails, the affected creature attempts to return to the area or object.

Sympathy counters and dispels antipathy.

Material component: 1,500 gp worth of crushed pearls and a drop of honey.

TELEKINESIS

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Target or targets: see text

Duration: concentration (up to 1 round/level) or instantaneous; see text

Saving throw: will negates (object) or none; see text

Spell resistance: yes (object); see text

You move objects or creatures by concentrating on them. Depending on the version selected, the spell can provide a gentle, sustained force, perform a variety of combat maneuvers, or exert a single short, violent thrust.

Sustained force: a sustained force moves an object weighing no more than 25 pounds per caster level (maximum 375 pounds at 15th level) up to 20 feet per round. A creature can negate the effect on an object it possesses with a successful will save or with spell resistance.

This version of the spell can last 1 round per caster level, but it ends if you cease concentration. The weight can be moved vertically, horizontally, or in both directions. An object cannot be moved beyond your range. The spell ends if the object is forced beyond the range. If you cease concentration for any reason, the object falls or stops.

An object can be telekinetically manipulated as if with one hand. For example, a lever or rope can be pulled, a key can be turned, an object rotated, and so on, if the force required is within the weight limitation. You might even be able to untie simple knots, though delicate activities such as these require intelligence checks.

Combat maneuver: alternatively, once per round, you can use telekinesis to perform a bull rush, disarm, grapple (including pin), or trip. Resolve these attempts as normal, except that they don't provoke attacks of opportunity, you use your caster level in place of your base attack bonus (for disarm and grapple), you use your intelligence modifier (if a wizard) or charisma modifier (if a sorcerer) in place of your strength or dexterity modifier, and a failed attempt doesn't allow a reactive attempt by the target (such as for disarm or trip). No save is allowed against these attempts, but spell resistance applies normally. This version of the spell can last 1 round per caster level, but it ends if you cease concentration.

Violent thrust: alternatively, the spell energy can be spent in a single round. You can hurl one object or creature per caster level (maximum 15) that are within range and all within 10 feet of each other toward any target within 10 feet per level of all the objects. You can hurl up to a total weight of 25 pounds per caster level (maximum 375 pounds at 15th level).

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

You must succeed on attack rolls (one per creature or object thrown) to hit the target with the items, using your base attack bonus + your intelligence modifier (if a wizard) or charisma modifier (if a sorcerer). Weapons cause standard damage (with no strength bonus; note that arrows or bolts deal damage as daggers of their size when used in this manner). Other objects cause damage ranging from 1 point per 25 pounds (for less dangerous objects) to 1d6 points of damage per 25 pounds (for hard, dense objects).

Creatures who fall within the weight capacity of the spell can be hurled, but they are allowed will saves (and spell resistance) to negate the effect, as are those whose held possessions are targeted by the spell. If a telekinised creature is hurled against a solid surface, it takes damage as if it had fallen 10 feet (1d6 points).

TELEKINETIC SPHERE

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: 1-ft.-Diameter/level sphere, centered around creatures or objects

Duration: 1 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: reflex negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

This spell functions like resilient sphere, with the addition that the creatures or objects inside the globe are nearly weightless. Anything contained within an telekinetic sphere weighs only one-sixteenth of its normal weight. You can telekinetically lift anything in the sphere that normally weighs 5,000 pounds or less. The telekinetic control extends from you out to medium range (100 feet + 10 feet per caster level) after the sphere has succeeded in encapsulating its contents.

You can move objects or creatures in the sphere that weigh a total of 5,000 pounds or less by concentrating on the sphere. You can begin moving a sphere in the round after casting the spell. If you concentrate on doing so (a standard action), you can move the sphere as much as 30 feet in a round. If you cease concentrating, the sphere does not move in that round (if on a level surface) or descends at its falling rate (if aloft) until it reaches a level surface, or the spell's duration expires, or you begin concentrating again. If you cease concentrating (voluntarily or due to failing a concentration check), you can resume concentrating on your next turn or any later turn during the spell's duration.

The sphere falls at a rate of only 60 feet per round, which is not fast enough to cause damage to the contents of the sphere.

You can move the sphere telekinetically even if you are in it.

Material component: a hemispherical piece of clear crystal, a matching hemispherical piece of gum arabic, and a pair of small bar magnets.

TELEPATHIC BOND

Divination

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Targets: you plus one willing creature per three levels, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You forge a telepathic bond among yourself and a number of willing creatures, each of which must have an intelligence score of 3 or higher. Each creature included in the link is linked to all the others. The creatures can communicate telepathically through the bond regardless of language. No special power or influence is established as a result of the bond. Once the bond is formed, it works over any distance (although not from one plane to another).

If desired, you may leave yourself out of the telepathic bond forged. This decision must be made at the time of casting.

Telepathic bond can be made permanent with a permanency spell, though it only bonds two creatures per casting of permanency.

Material component: pieces of eggshell from two different kinds of creatures.

TELEPORT

Conjuration (teleportation)

Level: sor/wiz 5, travel 5

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal and touch

Target: you & touched objects or other touched willing creatures

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none and will negates (object)

Spell resistance: no and yes (object)

This spell instantly transports you to a designated destination, which may be as distant as 100 miles per caster level. Interplanar travel is not possible. You can bring along objects as long as their weight doesn't exceed your maximum load. You may also bring one additional willing medium or smaller creature (carrying gear or objects up to its maximum load) or its equivalent (see below) per three caster levels. A large creature counts as two medium creatures, a huge creature counts as two large creatures, and so forth. All creatures to be transported must be in contact with one another, and at least one of those creatures must be in contact with you. As with all spells where the range is personal and the target is you, you need not make a saving throw, nor is spell resistance applicable to you. Only objects held or in use (attended) by another person receive saving throws and spell resistance.

You must have some clear idea of the location and layout of the destination. The clearer your mental image, the more likely the teleportation works. Areas of strong physical or magical energy may make teleportation more hazardous or even impossible.

To see how well the teleportation works, roll d% and consult the teleport table. Refer to the following information for definitions of the terms on the table.

Familiarity: "very familiar" is a place where you have been very often and where you feel at home. "Studied carefully" is a place you know well, either because you can currently see it, you've been there often, or you have used other means (such as scrying) to study the place for at least one hour. "Seen casually" is a place that you have seen more than once but with which you are not very familiar. "Viewed once" is a place that you have seen once, possibly using magic.

"False destination" is a place that does not truly exist or if you are teleporting to an otherwise familiar location that no longer exists as such or has been so completely altered as to no longer be familiar to you. When traveling to a false destination, roll 1d20+80 to obtain results on the table, rather than rolling d%, since there is no real destination for you to hope to arrive at or even be off target from.

On target: you appear where you want to be.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Off target: you appear safely a random distance away from the destination in a random direction. Distance off target is 1d10x1d10% of the distance that was to be traveled. The direction off target is determined randomly

Similar area: you wind up in an area that's visually or thematically similar to the target area.

Generally, you appear in the closest similar place within range. If no such area exists within the spell's range, the spell simply fails instead.

Mishap: you and anyone else teleporting with you have gotten "scrambled." You each take 1d10 points of damage, and you re-roll on the chart to see where you wind up. For these rerolls, roll 1d20+80. Each time "mishap" comes up, the characters take more damage and must reroll.

TELEPORT OBJECT

Conjuration (teleportation)

Level: sor/wiz 7

Range: touch

Target: one touched object of up to 50 lb./Level and 3 cu. Ft./Level

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

This spell functions like teleport, except that it teleports an object, not you. Creatures and magical forces cannot be teleported.

If desired, the target object can be sent to a distant location on the ethereal plane. In this case, the point from which the object was teleported remains faintly magical until the item is retrieved. A successful targeted dispel magic spell cast on that point brings the vanished item back from the ethereal plane.

TELEPORT, GREATER

Conjuration (teleportation)

Level: sor/wiz 7, travel 7

This spell functions like teleport, except that there is no range limit and there is no chance you arrive off target. In addition, you need not have seen the destination, but in that case you must have at least a reliable description of the place to which you are teleporting. If you attempt to teleport with insufficient information (or with misleading information), you disappear and simply reappear in your original location. Interplanar travel is not possible.

TELEPORTATION CIRCLE

Conjuration (teleportation)

Level: sor/wiz 9

Components: V, M

Casting time: 10 minutes

Range: 0 ft.

Effect: 5-ft.-Radius circle that teleports those who activate it

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

You create a circle on the floor or other horizontal surface that teleports, as greater teleport, any creature who stands on it to a designated spot. Once you designate the destination for the circle, you can't change it. The spell fails if you attempt to set the circle to teleport creatures into a solid object, to a place with which you are not familiar and have no clear description, or to another plane.

The circle itself is subtle and nearly impossible to notice. If you intend to keep creatures from activating it accidentally, you need to mark the circle in some way.

Teleportation circle can be made permanent with a permanency spell. A permanent teleportation circle that is disabled becomes inactive for 10 minutes, then can be triggered again as normal.

Note: magic traps such as teleportation circle are hard to detect and disable. A rogue (only) can use the search skill to find the circle and disable device to thwart it. The DC in each case is 25 + spell level, or 34 in the case of teleportation circle.

Material component: amber dust to cover the area of the circle (cost 1,000 gp).

TEMPORAL STASIS

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

You must succeed on a melee touch attack. You place the subject into a state of suspended animation. For the creature, time ceases to flow and its condition becomes fixed. The creature does not grow older. Its body functions virtually cease, and no force or effect can harm it. This state persists until the magic is removed (such as by a successful dispel magic spell or a freedom spell).

Material component: a powder composed of diamond, emerald, ruby, and sapphire dust with a total value of at least 5,000 gp.

TIME STOP

Transmutation

Level: sor/wiz 9, trickery 9

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1d4+1 rounds (apparent time); see text

This spell seems to make time cease to flow for everyone but you. In fact, you speed up so greatly that all other creatures seem frozen, though they are actually still moving at their normal speeds. You are free to act for 1d4+1 rounds of apparent time. Normal and magical fire, cold, gas, and the like can still harm you. While the time stop is in effect, other creatures are invulnerable to your attacks and spells; you cannot target such creatures with any attack or spell. A spell that affects an area and has a duration longer than the remaining duration of the time stop have their normal effects on other creatures once the time stop ends. Most spellcasters use the additional time to improve their defenses, summon allies, or flee from combat.

You cannot move or harm items held, carried, or worn by a creature stuck in normal time, but you can affect any item that is not in another creature's possession.

You are undetectable while time stop lasts. You cannot enter an area protected by an antimagic field while under the effect of time stop.

TINY HUT Evocation [force] Level: brd 3, sor/wiz 3 Components: V, S, M Casting time: 1 standard action Range: 20 ft. Effect: 20-ft.-Radius sphere centered on your location Duration: 2 hours/level (d) Saving throw: none Spell resistance: no You create an unmoving, opaque sphere of force of any color you desire around yourself. Half the sphere projects above the ground, and the lower hemisphere passes through the ground. As many as nine other medium creatures can fit into the field with you; they can freely pass into and out of the hut without harming it. However, if you remove yourself from the hut, the spell ends. The temperature inside the hut is 70° f if the exterior temperature is between 0° and 100° f. An exterior temperature below 0° or above 100° lowers or raises the interior temperature on a 1-degree-for-1 basis. The hut also provides protection against the elements, such as rain, dust, and sandstorms. The hut withstands any wind of less than hurricane force, but a hurricane (75+ mph wind speed) or greater force destroys it. The interior of the hut is a hemisphere. You can illuminate it dimly upon command or extinguish the light as desired. Although the force field is opaque from the outside, it is transparent from within. Missiles, weapons, and most spell effects can pass through the hut without affecting it, although the occupants cannot be seen from outside the hut (they have total concealment). Material component: a small crystal bead that shatters when the spell duration expires or the hut is dispelled.			Duration: 1 round/level Saving throw: fortitude negates Spell resistance: yes You channel negative energy through your touch, fatiguing the target. You must succeed on a touch attack to strike a target. The subject is immediately fatigued for the spell's duration. This spell has no effect on a creature that is already fatigued. Unlike with normal fatigue, the effect ends as soon as the spell's duration expires. Material component: a drop of sweat.
			TOUCH OF IDIOCY Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting] Level: sor/wiz 2 Components: V, S Casting time: 1 standard action Range: touch Target: living creature touched Duration: 10 min./Level Saving throw: no Spell resistance: yes With a touch, you reduce the target's mental faculties. Your successful melee touch attack applies a 1d6 penalty to the target's intelligence, wisdom, and charisma scores. This penalty can't reduce any of these scores below 1. This spell's effect may make it impossible for the target to cast some or all of its spells, if the requisite ability score drops below the minimum required to cast spells of that level.
TONGUES Divination Level: brd 2, clr 4, sor/wiz 3 Components: V, M/DF Casting time: 1 standard action Range: touch Target: creature touched Duration: 10 min./Level Saving throw: will negates (harmless) Spell resistance: no This spell grants the creature touched the ability to speak and understand the language of any intelligent creature, whether it is a racial tongue or a regional dialect. The subject can speak only one language at a time, although it may be able to understand several languages. Tongues does not enable the subject to speak with creatures who don't speak. The subject can make itself understood as far as its voice carries. This spell does not predispose any creature addressed toward the subject in any way. Tongues can be made permanent with a permanency spell. Arcane material component: a small clay model of a ziggurat, which shatters when the verbal component is pronounced.			TRANSFORMATION Transmutation Level: sor/wiz 6 Components: V, S, M Casting time: 1 standard action Range: personal Target: you Duration: 1 round/level You become a virtual fighting mACHine- stronger, tougher, faster, and more skilled in combat. Your mind-set changes so that you relish combat and you can't cast spells, even from magic items. You gain a +4 enhancement bonus to strength, dexterity, and constitution, a +4 natural armor bonus to AC, a +5 competence bonus on fortitude saves, and proficiency with all simple and martial weapons. Your base attack bonus equals your character level (which may give you multiple attacks). You lose your spellcasting ability, including your ability to use spell activation or spell completion magic items, just as if the spells were no longer on your class list. Material component: a potion of bull's strength , which you drink (and whose effects are subsumed by the spell effects).
TOUCH OF FATIGUE Necromancy Level: sor/wiz 0 Components: V, S, M Casting time: 1 standard action Range: touch Target: creature touched			TRANSMUTE METAL TO WOOD Transmutation Level: drd 7 Components: V, S, DF Casting time: 1 standard action Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level) Area: all metal objects within a 40-ft.-Radius burst Duration: instantaneous Saving throw: none Spell resistance: yes (object; see text)

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

This spell enables you to change all metal objects within its area to wood. Weapons, armor, and other metal objects carried by creatures are affected as well. A magic object made of metal effectively has spell resistance equal to 20+ its caster level against this spell. Artifacts cannot be transmuted. Weapons converted from metal to wood take a -2 penalty on attack and damage rolls. The armor bonus of any armor converted from metal to wood is reduced by 2. Weapons changed by this spell splinter and break on any natural attack roll of 1 or 2, and armor changed by this spell loses an additional point of armor bonus every time it is struck with a natural attack roll of 19 or 20.

Only limited wish, miracle, wish, or similar magic can restore a transmuted object to its metallic state.

TRANSMUTE MUD TO ROCK

Transmutation [earth]

Level: drd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: up to two 10-ft. Cubes/level (s)

Duration: permanent

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

This spell transforms normal mud or quicksand of any depth into soft stone (sandstone or a similar mineral) permanently.

Any creature in the mud is allowed a reflex save to escape before the area is hardened to stone.

Transmute mud to rock counters and dispels transmute rock to mud.

Arcane material component: sand, lime, and water.

TRANSMUTE ROCK TO MUD

Transmutation [earth]

Level: drd 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: up to two 10-ft. Cubes/level (s)

Duration: permanent; see text

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

This spell turns natural, uncut or unworked rock of any sort into an equal volume of mud. Magical stone is not affected by the spell. The depth of the mud created cannot exceed 10 feet. A creature unable to levitate, fly, or otherwise free itself from the mud sinks until hip- or chest-deep, reducing its speed to 5 feet and causing a -2 penalty on attack rolls and AC. Brush thrown atop the mud can support creatures able to climb on top of it. Creatures large enough to walk on the bottom can wade through the area at a speed of 5 feet.

If transmute rock to mud is cast upon the ceiling of a cavern or tunnel, the mud falls to the floor and spreads out in a pool at a depth of 5 feet. The falling mud and the ensuing cave-in deal 8d6 points of bludgeoning damage to anyone caught directly beneath the area, or half damage to those who succeed on reflex saves.

Castles and large stone buildings are generally immune to the effect of the spell, since transmute rock to mud can't affect worked stone and doesn't reach deep enough to undermine such buildings' foundations. However, small buildings or structures often rest upon foundations shallow enough to be damaged or even partially toppled by this spell.

The mud remains until a successful dispel magic or transmute mud to rock spell restores its substance-but not necessarily its form. Evaporation turns the mud to normal dirt over a period of days. The exact time depends on exposure to the sun, wind, and normal drainage.

Arcane material component: clay and water.

TRANSPORT VIA PLANTS

Transmutation

Level: drd 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: unlimited

Target: you and touched objects or other touched willing creatures

Duration: 1 round

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You can enter any normal plant (medium or larger) and pass any distance to a plant of the same kind in a single round, regardless of the distance separating the two. The entry plant must be alive. The destination plant need not be familiar to you, but it also must be alive. If you are uncertain of the location of a particular kind of destination plant, you need merely designate direction and distance and the transport via plants spell moves you as close as possible to the desired location. If a particular destination plant is desired but the plant is not living, the spell fails and you are ejected from the entry plant.

You can bring along objects as long as their weight doesn't exceed your maximum load. You may also bring one additional willing medium or smaller creature (carrying gear or objects up to its maximum load) or its equivalent per three caster levels. Use the following equivalents to determine the maximum number of larger creatures you can bring along: a large creature counts as two medium creatures, a huge creature counts as two large creatures, and so forth. All creatures to be transported must be in contact with one another, and at least one of those creatures must be in contact with you.

You can't use this spell to travel through plant creatures.

The destruction of an occupied plant slays you and any creatures you have brought along, and ejects the bodies and all carried objects from the tree.

TRAP THE SOUL

Conjuration (summoning)

Level: sor/wiz 8

Components: V, S, M, (F); see text

Casting time: 1 standard action or see text

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature

Duration: permanent; see text

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes; see text

Trap the soul forces a creature's life force (and its material body) into a gem. The gem holds the trapped entity indefinitely or until the gem is broken and the life force is released, which allows the material body to reform. If the trapped creature is a powerful creature from another plane it can be required to perform a service immediately upon being freed. Otherwise, the creature can go free once the gem imprisoning it is broken.

Depending on the version selected, the spell can be triggered in one of two ways.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Spell completion: first, the spell can be completed by speaking its final word as a standard action as if you were casting a regular spell at the subject. This allows spell resistance (if any) and a will save to avoid the effect. If the creature's name is spoken as well, any spell resistance is ignored and the save DC increases by 2. If the save or spell resistance is successful, the gem shatters.

Trigger object: the second method is far more insidious, for it tricks the subject into accepting a trigger object inscribed with the final spell word, automatically plACing the creature's soul in the trap. To use this method, both the creature's name and the trigger word must be inscribed on the trigger object when the gem is en-spelled. A sympathy spell can also be placed on the trigger object. As soon as the subject picks up or ACcepts the trigger object, its life force is automatically transferred to the gem without the benefit of spell resistance or a save.

Material component: before the actual casting of trap the soul, you must procure a gem of at least 1,000 gp value for every hit die possessed by the creature to be trapped. If the gem is not valuable enough, it shatters when the entrapment is attempted. (While creatures have no concept of level or hit dice as such, the value of the gem needed to trap an individual can be researched. Remember that this value can change over time as creatures gain more hit dice.)

Focus (trigger object only): if the trigger object method is used, a special trigger object, prepared as described above, is needed.

TREE SHAPE

Transmutation

Level: drd 2, rgr 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

By means of this spell, you are able to assume the form of a large living tree or shrub or a large dead tree trunk with a small number of limbs. The closest inspection cannot reveal that the tree in question is actually a magically concealed creature. To all normal tests you are, in fact, a tree or shrub, although a detect magic spell reveals a faint transmutation on the tree. While in tree form, you can observe all that transpires around you just as if you were in your normal form, and your hit points and save bonuses remain unaffected. You gain a +10 natural armor bonus to AC but have an effective dexterity score of 0 and a speed of 0 feet. You are immune to critical hits while in tree form. All clothing and gear carried or worn changes with you.

You can dismiss tree shape as a free action (instead of as a standard action).

TREE STRIDE

Conjuration (teleportation)

Level: drd 5, rgr 4

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: 1 hour/level or until expended; see text

You gain the ability to enter trees and move from inside one tree to inside another tree. The first tree you enter and all others you enter must be of the same kind, must be living, and must have girth at least equal to yours. By moving into an oak tree (for example), you instantly know the location of all other oak trees within transport range (see below) and may choose whether you want to pass into one or simply step back out of the tree you moved into. You may choose to pass to any tree of the appropriate kind within the transport range as shown on the following table.

Type of Tree	Transport Range
Oak, ash, yew	3,000 feet
Elm, linden	2,000 feet
Other deciduous	1,500 feet
Any coniferous	1,000 feet
All other trees	500 feet

You may move into a tree up to one time per caster level (passing from one tree to another counts only as moving into one tree). The spell lasts until the duration expires or you exit a tree. Each transport is a full-round action.

You can, at your option, remain within a tree without transporting yourself, but you are forced out when the spell ends. If the tree in which you are concealed is chopped down or burned, you are slain if you do not exit before the process is complete.

TRUE RESURRECTION

Conjuration (healing)

Level: clr 9

Casting time: 10 minutes

This spell functions like raise dead, except that you can resurrect a creature that has been dead for as long as 10 years per caster level. This spell can even bring back creatures whose bodies have been destroyed, provided that you unambiguously identify the deceased in some fashion (reciting the deceased's time and place of birth or death is the most common method).

Upon completion of the spell, the creature is immediately restored to full hit points, vigor, and health, with no loss of level (or constitution points) or prepared spells.

You can revive someone killed by a death effect or someone who has been turned into an undead creature and then destroyed. This spell can also resurrect elementals or outsiders, but it can't resurrect constructs or undead creatures.

Even true resurrection can't restore to life a creature who has died of old age.

Material component: a sprinkle of holy water and diamonds worth a total of at least 25,000 gp.

TRUE SEEING

Divination

Level: clr 5, drd 7, knowledge 5, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: creature touched

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

You confer on the subject the ability to see all things as they actually are. The subject sees through normal and magical darkness, notices secret doors hidden by magic, sees the exact locations of creatures or objects under blur or displacement effects, sees invisible creatures or objects normally, sees through illusions, and sees the true form of polymorphed, changed, or transmuted things. Further, the subject can focus its vision to see into the ethereal plane (but not into extradimensional spaces). The range of true seeing conferred is 120 feet.

True seeing, however, does not penetrate solid objects. It in no way confers x-ray vision or its equivalent. It does not negate concealment, including that caused by fog and the like. True seeing does not help the viewer see through mundane disguises, spot creatures who are simply hiding, or notice secret doors hidden by mundane means. In addition, the spell effects cannot be further enhanced with known magic, so one cannot use true seeing through a crystal ball or in conjunction with clairaudience/clairvoyance.

Material component: an ointment for the eyes that costs 250 gp and is made from mushroom powder, saffron, and fat.

TRUE STRIKE

Divination

Level: sor/wiz 1

Components: V, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: personal

Target: you

Duration: see text

You gain temporary, intuitive insight into the immediate future during your next attack. Your next single attack roll (if it is made before the end of the next round) gains a +20 insight bonus. Additionally, you are not affected by the miss chance that applies to attackers trying to strike a concealed target.

Focus: a small wooden replica of an archery target.

UNDEATH TO DEATH

Necromancy

Level: clr 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M/DF

Area: several undead creatures within a 40-ft.-Radius burst

Saving throw: will negates

This spell functions like circle of death, except that it destroys undead creatures as noted above.

Material component: the powder of a crushed diamond worth at least 500 gp.

UNDETECTABLE ALIGNMENT

Abjuration

Level: brd 1, clr 2, pal 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: one creature or object

Duration: 24 hours

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

An undetectable alignment spell conceals the alignment of an object or a creature from all forms of divination.

UNHALLOW

Evocation [evil]

Level: clr 5, drd 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 24 hours

Range: touch

Area: 40-ft. Radius emanating from the touched point

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: see text

Unhallow makes a particular site, building, or structure an unholy site. This has three major effects.

First, the site or structure is guarded by a magic circle against good effect.

Second, all turning checks made to turn undead take a –4 penalty, and turning checks to rebuke undead gain a +4 profane bonus. Spell resistance does not apply to this effect. (This provision does not apply to the druid version of the spell.)

Finally, you may choose to fix a single spell effect to the unhallowed site. The spell effect lasts for one year and functions throughout the entire site, regardless of its normal duration and area or effect. You may designate whether the effect applies to all creatures, creatures that share your faith or alignment, or creatures that adhere to another faith or alignment. At the end of the year, the chosen effect lapses, but it can be renewed or replaced simply by casting unhallow again.

Spell effects that may be tied to an unhallowed site include aid, bane, bless, cause fear, darkness, daylight, death ward, deeper darkness, detect magic, detect good, dimensional anchor, discern lies, dispel magic, endure elements, freedom of movement, invisibility purge, protection from energy, remove fear, resist energy, silence, tongues, and zone of truth.

Saving throws and spell resistance might apply to these spells' effects. (See the individual spell descriptions for details.)

An area can receive only one unhallow spell (and its associated spell effect) at a time.

Unhallow counters but does not dispel hallow.

Material component: herbs, oils, and incense worth at least 1,000 gp, plus 1,000 gp per level of the spell to be tied to the unhallowed area.

UNHOLY AURA

Abjuration [evil]

Level: clr 8, evil 8

Components: V, S, F

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 20 ft.

Targets: one creature/level in a 20-ft.-Radius burst centered on you

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

A malevolent darkness surrounds the subjects, protecting them from attacks, granting them resistance to spells cast by good creatures, and weakening good creatures when they strike the subjects. This abjuration has four effects.

First, each warded creature gains a +4 deflection bonus to AC and a +4 resistance bonus on saves. Unlike the effect of protection from good, this benefit applies against all attacks, not just against attacks by good creatures.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Second, a warded creature gains spell resistance 25 against good spells and spells cast by good creatures.

Third, the abjuration blocks possession and mental influence, just as protection from good does.

Finally, if a good creature succeeds on a melee attack against a warded creature, the offending attacker takes 1d6 points of temporary strength damage (fortitude negates).

Focus: a tiny reliquary containing some sacred relic, such as a piece of parchment from an unholy text. The reliquary costs at least 500 gp.

UNHOLY BLIGHT

Evocation [evil]

Level: evil 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Area: 20-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: instantaneous (1d4 rounds); see text

Saving throw: will partial

Spell resistance: yes

You call up unholy power to smite your enemies. The power takes the form of a cold, cloying miasma of greasy darkness.

Only good and neutral (not evil) creatures are harmed by the spell.

The spell deals 1d8 points of damage per two caster levels (maximum 5d8) to a good creature (or 1d6 per caster level, maximum 10d6, to a good outsider) and causes it to be sickened for 1d4 rounds. A successful will save reduces damage to half and negates the sickened effect. The effects cannot be negated by remove disease or heal, but remove curse is effective.

The spell deals only half damage to creatures who are neither evil nor good, and they are not sickened. Such a creature can reduce the damage in half again (down to one-quarter) with a successful will save.

UNSEEN SERVANT

Conjuration (creation)

Level: brd 1, sor/wiz 1

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: one invisible, mindless, shapeless servant

Duration: 1 hour/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

An unseen servant is an invisible, mindless, shapeless force that performs simple tasks at your command. It can run and fetch things, open unstuck doors, and hold chairs, as well as clean and mend. The servant can perform only one activity at a time, but it repeats the same activity over and over again if told to do so as long as you remain within range. It can open only normal doors, drawers, lids, and the like. It has an effective strength score of 2 (so it can lift 20 pounds or drag 100 pounds). It can trigger traps and such, but it can exert only 20 pounds of force, which is not enough to activate certain pressure plates and other devices. It can't perform any task that requires a skill check with a DC higher than 10 or that requires a check using a skill that can't be used untrained. Its speed is 15 feet.

The servant cannot attack in any way; it is never allowed an attack roll. It cannot be killed, but it dissipates if it takes 6 points of damage from area attacks. (It gets no saves against attacks.) If you attempt to send it beyond the spell's range (measured from your current position), the servant ceases to exist.

Material component: a piece of string and a bit of wood.

VAMPIRIC TOUCH

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: living creature touched

Duration: instantaneous/1 hour; see text

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

You must succeed on a melee touch attack. Your touch deals 1d6 points of damage per two caster levels (maximum 10d6). You gain temporary hit points equal to the damage you deal. However, you can't gain more than the subject's current hit points +10, which is enough to kill the subject. The temporary hit points disappear 1 hour later.

VEIL

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 6, sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Targets: one or more creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

Duration: concentration + 1 hour/level (d)

Saving throw: will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes; see text

You instantly change the appearance of the subjects and then maintain that appearance for the spell's duration. You can make the subjects appear to be anything you wish. The subjects look, feel, and smell just like the creatures the spell makes them resemble. Affected creatures resume their normal appearances if slain. You must succeed on a disguise check to duplicate the appearance of a specific individual. This spell gives you a +10 bonus on the check.

Unwilling targets can negate the spell's effect on them by making will saves or with spell resistance. Those who interact with the subjects can attempt will disbelief saves to see through the glamer, but spell resistance doesn't help.

VENTRILLOQUISM

VISION

Divination

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S, M, xp

Casting time: 1 standard action

This spell functions like legend lore, except that it works more quickly but produces some strain on you. You pose a question about some person, place, or object, then cast the spell. If the person or object is at hand or if you are in the place in question, you receive a vision about it by succeeding on a caster level check (1d20 +1 per caster level; maximum +25) against DC 20. If only detailed information on the person, place, or object is known, the DC is 25, and the information gained is incomplete. If only rumors are known, the DC is 30, and the information gained is vague.

Necromancy [death, sonic]

Level: death 9, sor/wiz 9

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: one living creature/level within a 40-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: fortitude negates

Spell resistance: yes

WALL OF FIRE

Evocation [fire]

Level: drd 5, fire 4, sor/wiz 4

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: opaque sheet of flame up to 20 ft. Long/level or a ring of fire with a radius of up to 5 ft. Per two levels; either form 20 ft.

High

Duration: concentration + 1 round/level

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: yes

An immobile, blazing curtain of shimmering violet fire springs into existence. One side of the wall, selected by you, sends forth waves of heat, dealing 2d4 points of fire damage to creatures within 10 feet and 1d4 points of fire damage to those past 10 feet but within 20 feet. The wall deals this damage when it appears and on your turn each round to all creatures in the area. In addition, the wall deals 2d6 points of fire damage +1 point of fire damage per caster level (maximum +20) to any creature passing through it. The wall deals double damage to undead creatures.

If you evoke the wall so that it appears where creatures are, each creature takes damage as if passing through the wall. If any 5-foot length of wall takes 20 points of cold damage or more in 1 round, that length goes out. (Do not divide cold damage by 4, as normal for objects.)

Wall of fire can be made permanent with a permanency spell. A permanent wall of fire that is extinguished by cold damage becomes inactive for 10 minutes, then reforms at normal strength.

Arcane material component: a small piece of phosphorus.

WALL OF FORCE

Evocation [force]

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Effect: wall whose area is up to one 10-ft. Square/level

Duration: 1 round /level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

A wall of force spell creates an invisible wall of force. The wall cannot move, it is immune to damage of all kinds, and it is unaffected by most spells, including dispel magic. However, disintegrate immediately destroys it, as does a rod of cancellation, a sphere of annihilation, or a mage's disjunction spell. Breath weapons and spells cannot pass through the wall in either direction, although dimension door, teleport, and similar effects can bypass the barrier. It blocks ethereal creatures as well as material ones (though ethereal creatures can usually get around the wall by floating under or over it through material floors and ceilings). Gaze attacks can operate through a wall of force.

The caster can form the wall into a flat, vertical plane whose area is up to one 10- foot square per level. The wall must be continuous and unbroken when formed. If its surface is broken by any object or creature, the spell fails.

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: anchored plane of ice, up to one 10-ft. Square/level, or hemisphere of ice with a radius of up to 3 ft. + 1 Ft./Level

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: reflex negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

This spell creates an anchored plane of ice or a hemisphere of ice, depending on the version selected. A wall of ice cannot form in an area occupied by physical objects or creatures. Its surface must be smooth and unbroken when created. Any creature adjacent to the wall when it is created may attempt a reflex save to disrupt the wall as it is being formed. A successful save indicates that the spell automatically fails. Fire can melt a wall of ice, and it deals full damage to the wall (instead of the normal half damage taken by objects). Suddenly melting a wall of ice creates a great cloud of steamy fog that lasts for 10 minutes.

Ice plane: a sheet of strong, hard ice appears. The wall is 1 inch thick per caster level. It covers up to a 10-foot-square area per caster level (so a 10th-level wizard can create a wall of ice 100 feet long and 10 feet high, a wall 50 feet long and 20 feet high, or some other combination of length and height that does not exceed 1,000 square feet). The plane can be oriented in any fashion as long as it is anchored. A vertical wall need only be anchored on the floor, while a horizontal or slanting wall must be anchored on two opposite sides.

Each 10-foot square of wall has 3 hit points per inch of thickness. Creatures can hit the wall automatically. A section of wall whose hit points drop to 0 is breached. If a creature tries to break through the wall with a single attack, the DC for the strength check is 15 + caster level.

Even when the ice has been broken through, a sheet of frigid air remains. Any creature stepping through it (including the one who broke through the wall) takes 1d6 points of cold damage +1 point per caster level (no save).

Hemisphere: the wall takes the form of a hemisphere whose maximum radius is 3 feet + 1 foot per caster level. The hemisphere is as hard to break through as the ice plane form, but it does not deal damage to those who go through a breach.

Material component: a small piece of quartz or similar rock crystal.

WALL OF IRON

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 6

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: iron wall whose area is up to one 5-ft. Square/level; see text

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

You cause a flat, vertical iron wall to spring into being. The wall inserts itself into any surrounding nonliving material if its area is sufficient to do so. The wall cannot be conjured so that it occupies the same space as a creature or another object. It must always be a flat plane, though you can shape its edges to fit the available space.

A wall of iron is 1 inch thick per four caster levels. You can double the wall's area by halving its thickness. Each 5-foot square of the wall has 30 hit points per inch of thickness and hardness 10. A section of wall whose hit points drop to 0 is breached. If a creature tries to break through the wall with a single attack, the DC for the strength check is 25 + 2 per inch of thickness.

If you desire, the wall can be created vertically resting on a flat surface but not attached to the surface, so that it can be tipped over to fall on and crush creatures beneath it. The wall is 50% likely to tip in either direction if left unpushed. Creatures can push the wall in one direction rather than letting it fall randomly. A creature must make a DC 40 strength check to push the wall over. Creatures with room to flee the falling wall may do so by making successful reflex saves. Any large or smaller creature that fails takes 10d6 points of damage. The wall cannot crush huge and larger creatures.

Like any iron wall, this wall is subject to rust, perforation, and other natural phenomena.

Material component: a small piece of sheet iron plus gold dust worth 50 gp (1 pound of gold dust).

WALL OF STONE

Conjuration (creation) [earth]

Level: clr 5, drd 6, earth 5, sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: stone wall whose area is up to one 5-ft. Square/level (s)

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: no

This spell creates a wall of rock that merges into adjoining rock surfaces. A wall of stone is 1 inch thick per four caster levels and composed of up to one 5-foot square per level. You can double the wall's area by halving its thickness. The wall cannot be conjured so that it occupies the same space as a creature or another object.

Unlike a wall of iron, you can create a wall of stone in almost any shape you desire. The wall created need not be vertical, nor rest upon any firm foundation; however, it must merge with and be solidly supported by existing stone. It can be used to bridge a chasm, for instance, or as a ramp. For this use, if the span is more than 20 feet, the wall must be arched and buttressed. This requirement reduces the spell's area by half. The wall can be crudely shaped to allow crenellations, battlements, and so forth by likewise reducing the area.

Like any other stone wall, this one can be destroyed by a disintegrate spell or by normal means such as breaking and chipping. Each 5-foot square of the wall has 15 hit points per inch of thickness and hardness 8. A section of wall whose hit points drop to 0 is breached. If a creature tries to break through the wall with a single attack, the DC for the strength check is 20 + 2 per inch of thickness.

It is possible, but difficult, to trap mobile opponents within or under a wall of stone, provided the wall is shaped so it can hold the creatures. Creatures can avoid entrapment with successful reflex saves.

Arcane material component: a small block of granite.

WALL OF THORNS

Conjuration (creation)

Level: drd 5, plant 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: wall of thorny brush, up to one 10-ft. Cube/level (s)

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

A wall of thorns spell creates a barrier of very tough, pliable, tangled brush bearing needle-sharp thorns as long as a human's finger. Any creature forced into or attempting to move through a wall of thorns takes slashing damage per round of movement equal to 25 minus the creature's AC. Dexterity and dodge bonuses to AC do not count for this calculation. (Creatures with an armor class of 25 or higher, without considering dexterity and dodge bonuses, take no damage from contact with the wall.)

You can make the wall as thin as 5 feet thick, which allows you to shape the wall as a number of 10-by-10-by-5-foot blocks equal to twice your caster level. This has no effect on the damage dealt by the thorns, but any creature attempting to break through takes that much less time to force its way through the barrier.

Creatures can force their way slowly through the wall by making a strength check as a full-round action. For every 5 points by which the check exceeds 20, a creature moves 5 feet (up to a maximum distance equal to its normal land speed). Of course, moving or attempting to move through the thorns incurs damage as described above. A creature trapped in the thorns can choose to remain motionless in order to avoid taking any more damage.

Any creature within the area of the spell when it is cast takes damage as if it had moved into the wall and is caught inside. In order to escape, it must attempt to push its way free, or it can wait until the spell ends. Creatures with the ability to pass through overgrown areas unhindered can pass through a wall of thorns at normal speed without taking damage.

A wall of thorns can be breached by slow work with edged weapons. Chopping away at the wall creates a safe passage 1 foot deep for every 10 minutes of work. Normal fire cannot harm the barrier, but magical fire burns it away in 10 minutes.

Despite its appearance, a wall of thorns is not actually a living plant, and thus is unaffected by spells that affect plants.

WARP WOOD

Transmutation

Level: drd 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Target: 1 small wooden object/level, all within a 20-ft. Radius

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

You cause wood to bend and warp, permanently destroying its straightness, form, and strength. A warped door springs open (or becomes stuck, requiring a strength check to open, at your option). A boat or ship springs a leak. Warped ranged weapons are useless. A warped melee weapon causes a -4 penalty on attack rolls.

You may warp one small or smaller object or its equivalent per caster level. A medium object counts as two small objects, a large object as four, a huge object as eight, a gargantuan object as sixteen, and a colossal object as thirty-two.

Alternatively, you can unwarped wood (effectively warping it back to normal) with this spell, straightening wood that has been warped by this spell or by other means. Make whole, on the other hand, does no good in repairing a warped item.

You can combine multiple consecutive warp wood spells to warp (or unwarped) an object that is too large for you to warp with a single spell.

Until the object is completely warped, it suffers no ill effects.

WATER BREATHING

Transmutation

Level: clr 3, drd 3, sor/wiz 3, water 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: living creatures touched

Duration: 2 hours/level; see text

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The transmuted creatures can breathe water freely. Divide the duration evenly among all the creatures you touch.

The spell does not make creatures unable to breathe air.

Arcane material component: a short reed or piece of straw.

WATER WALK

Transmutation [water]

Level: clr 3, rgr 3

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Targets: one touched creature/level

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: yes (harmless)

The transmuted creatures can tread on any liquid as if it were firm ground. Mud, oil, snow, quicksand, running water, ice, and even lava can be traversed easily, since the subjects' feet hover an inch or two above the surface. (Creatures crossing molten lava still take damage from the heat because they are near it.) The subjects can walk, run, charge, or otherwise move across the surface as if it were normal ground.

If the spell is cast underwater (or while the subjects are partially or wholly submerged in whatever liquid they are in), the subjects are borne toward the surface at 60 feet per round until they can stand on it.

WAVES OF EXHAUSTION

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 7

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 60 ft.

Area: cone-shaped burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: no

Spell resistance: yes

Waves of negative energy cause all living creatures in the spell's area to become exhausted. This spell has no effect on a creature that is already exhausted.

WAVES OF FATIGUE

Necromancy

Level: sor/wiz 5

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 30 ft.

Area: cone-shaped burst

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: no

Spell resistance: yes

Waves of negative energy render all living creatures in the spell's area fatigued. This spell has no effect on a creature that is already fatigued.

WEB

Conjuration (creation)

Level: sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S, M

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: webs in a 20-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: 10 min./Level (d)

Saving throw: reflex negates; see text

Spell resistance: no

Web creates a many-layered mass of strong, sticky strands. These strands trap those caught in them. The strands are similar to spider webs but far larger and tougher. These masses must be anchored to two or more solid and diametrically opposed points or else the web collapses upon itself and disappears. Creatures caught within a web become entangled among the gluey fibers. Attacking a creature in a web won't cause you to become entangled.

Anyone in the effect's area when the spell is cast must make a reflex save. If this save succeeds, the creature is entangled, but not prevented from moving, though moving is more difficult than normal for being entangled (see below). If the save fails, the creature is entangled and can't move from its space, but can break loose by spending 1 round and making a DC 20 strength check or a DC 25 escape artist check. Once loose (either by making the initial reflex save or a later strength check or escape artist check), a creature remains entangled, but may move through the web very slowly. Each round devoted to moving allows the creature to make a new strength check or escape artist check. The creature moves 5 feet for each full 5 points by which the check result exceeds 10.

If you have at least 5 feet of web between you and an opponent, it provides cover. If you have at least 20 feet of web between you, it provides total cover.

The strands of a web spell are flammable. A magic flaming sword can slash them away as easily as a hand brushes away cobwebs. Any fire can set the webs alight and burn away 5 square feet in 1 round. All creatures within flaming webs take 2d4 points of fire damage from the flames.

Web can be made permanent with a permanency spell. A permanent web that is damaged (but not destroyed) regrows in 10 minutes.

Material component: a bit of spider web.

WEIRD

Illusion (phantasm) [fear, mind-affecting]

Level: sor/wiz 9

Targets: any number of creatures, no two of which can be more than 30 ft. Apart

This spell functions like phantasmal killer, except it can affect more than one creature. Only the affected creatures see the phantasmal creatures attacking them, though you see the attackers as shadowy shapes.

If a subject's fortitude save succeeds, it still takes 3d6 points of damage and is stunned for 1 round. The subject also takes 1d4 points of temporary strength damage.

WHIRLWIND

Evocation [air]

Level: air 8, drd 8

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: long (400 ft. + 40 Ft./Level)

Effect: cyclone 10 ft wide at base, 30 ft wide at top, & 30 ft tall

Duration: 1 round/level (d)

Saving throw: reflex negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

This spell creates a powerful cyclone of raging wind that moves through the air, along the ground, or over water at a speed of 60 feet per round. You can concentrate on controlling the cyclone's every movement or specify a simple program. Directing the cyclone's movement or changing its programmed movement is a standard action for you. The cyclone always moves during your turn. If the cyclone exceeds the spell's range, it moves in a random, uncontrolled fashion for 1d3 rounds and then dissipates. (You can't regain control of the cyclone, even if comes back within range.)

Any large or smaller creature that comes in contact with the spell effect must succeed on a reflex save or take 3d6 points of damage. A medium or smaller creature that fails its first save must succeed on a second one or be picked up bodily by the cyclone and held suspended in its powerful winds, taking 1d8 points of damage each round on your turn with no save allowed. You may direct the cyclone to eject any carried creatures whenever you wish, depositing the hapless souls wherever the cyclone happens to be when they are released.

WHISPERING WIND

Transmutation [air]

Level: brd 2, sor/wiz 2

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 1 mile/level

Area: 10-ft.-Radius spread

Duration: no more than 1 hour/level or until discharged (destination is reached)

Saving throw: none

Spell resistance: no

You send a message or sound on the wind to a designated spot. The whispering wind travels to a specific location within range that is familiar to you, provided that it can find a way to the location. A whispering wind is as gentle and unnoticed as a zephyr until it reaches the location. It then delivers its whisper-quiet message or other sound. Note that the message is delivered regardless of whether anyone is present to hear it. The wind then dissipates.

You can prepare the spell to bear a message of no more than twenty-five words, cause the spell to deliver other sounds for 1 round, or merely have the whispering wind seem to be a faint stirring of the air. You can likewise cause the whispering wind to move as slowly as 1 mile per hour or as quickly as 1 mile per 10 minutes.

When the spell reaches its objective, it swirls and remains in place until the message is delivered. As with magic mouth, whispering wind cannot speak verbal components, use command words, or activate magical effects.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

WIND WALK

Transmutation [air]

Level: clr 6, drd 7

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Targets: you and one touched creature per three levels

Duration: 1 hour/level (d); see text

Saving throw: no and will negates (harmless)

Spell resistance: no and yes (harmless)

You alter the substance of your body to a cloudlike vapor (as the gaseous form spell) and move through the air, possibly at great speed. You can take other creatures with you, each of which acts independently.

Normally, a wind walker flies at a speed of 10 feet with perfect maneuverability. If desired by the subject, a magical wind wafts a wind walker along at up to 600 feet per round (60 mph) with poor maneuverability. Wind walkers are not invisible but rather appear misty and translucent. If fully clothed in white, they are 80% likely to be mistaken for clouds, fog, vapors, or the like.

A wind walker can regain its physical form as desired and later resume the cloud form. Each change to and from vaporous form takes 5 rounds, which counts toward the duration of the spell (as does any time spent in physical form). As noted above, you can dismiss the spell, and you can even dismiss it for individual wind walkers and not others.

For the last minute of the spell's duration, a wind walker in cloud form automatically descends 60 feet per round (for a total of 600 feet), though it may descend faster if it wishes. This descent serves as a warning that the spell is about to end.

WIND WALL

Evocation [air]

Level: air 2, clr 3, drd 3, rgr 2, sor/wiz 3

Components: V, S, M/DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: medium (100 ft. + 10 Ft./Level)

Effect: wall up to 10 ft./Level long and 5 ft./Level high (s)

Duration: 1 round/level

Saving throw: none; see text

Spell resistance: yes

An invisible vertical curtain of wind appears. It is 2 feet thick and of considerable strength. It is a roaring blast sufficient to blow away any bird smaller than an eagle, or tear papers and similar materials from unsuspecting hands. (A reflex save allows a creature to maintain its grasp on an object.) Tiny and small flying creatures cannot pass through the barrier. Loose materials and cloth garments fly upward when caught in a wind wall. Arrows and bolts are deflected upward and miss, while any other normal ranged weapon passing through the wall has a 30% miss chance. (A giant-thrown boulder, a siege engine projectile, and other massive ranged weapons are not affected.) Gases, most gaseous breath weapons, and creatures in gaseous form cannot pass through the wall (although it is no barrier to incorporeal creatures).

While the wall must be vertical, you can shape it in any continuous path along the ground that you like. It is possible to create cylindrical or square wind walls to enclose specific points.

Arcane material component: a tiny fan and a feather of exotic origin.

WISH

Universal

Level: sor/wiz 9

Components: V, XP

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: see text

Target, effect, or area: see text

Duration: see text

Saving throw: see text

Spell resistance: yes

Wish is the mightiest spell a wizard or sorcerer can cast. By simply speaking aloud, you can alter reality to better suit you.

Even wish, however, has its limits.

A wish can produce any one of the following effects.

- Duplicate any wizard or sorcerer spell of 8th level or lower, provided the spell is not of a school prohibited to you.
- Duplicate any other spell of 6th level or lower, provided the spell is not of a school prohibited to you.
- Duplicate any wizard or sorcerer spell of 7th level or lower even if it's of a prohibited school.
- Duplicate any other spell of 5th level or lower even if it's of a prohibited school.
- Undo the harmful effects of many other spells, such as geas/quest or insanity.

- Create a nonmagical item of up to 25,000 gp in value.

- Create a magic item, or add to the powers of an existing magic item.

- Grant a creature a +1 inherent bonus to an ability score. Two to five wish spells cast in immediate succession can grant a creature a +2 to +5 inherent bonus to an ability score (two wishes for a +2 inherent bonus, three for a +3 inherent bonus, and so on). Inherent bonuses are instantaneous, so they cannot be dispelled. Note: an inherent bonus may not exceed +5 for a single ability score, and inherent bonuses to a particular ability score do not stack, so only the best one applies.

- Remove injuries and afflictions. A single wish can aid one creature per caster level, and all subjects are cured of the same kind of affliction. For example, you could heal all the damage you and your companions have taken, or remove all poison effects from everyone in the party, but not do both with the same wish. A wish can never restore the experience point loss from casting a spell or the level or constitution loss from being raised from the dead.

- Revive the dead. A wish can bring a dead creature back to life by duplicating a resurrection spell. A wish can revive a dead creature whose body has been destroyed, but the task takes two wishes, one to recreate the body and another to infuse the body with life again. A wish cannot prevent a character who was brought back to life from losing an experience level.

- Transport travelers. A wish can lift one creature per caster level from anywhere on any plane and place those creatures anywhere else on any plane regardless of local conditions. An unwilling target gets a will save to negate the effect, and spell resistance (if any) applies.

- Undo misfortune. A wish can undo a single recent event. The wish forces a reroll of any roll made within the last round (including your last turn). Reality reshapes itself to accommodate the new result. For example, a wish could undo an opponent's successful save, a foe’s successful critical hit (either the attack roll or the critical roll), a friend’s failed save, and so on. The reroll, however, may be as bad as or worse than the original roll. An unwilling target gets a will save to negate the effect, and spell resistance (if any) applies.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

You may try to use a wish to produce greater effects than these, but doing so is dangerous. (The wish may pervert your intent into a literal but undesirable fulfillment or only a partial fulfillment.)

Duplicated spells allow saves and spell resistance as normal (but save DCs are for 9th-level spells).

Material component: when a wish duplicates a spell with a material component that costs more than 10,000 gp, you must provide that component.

Xp cost: the minimum XP cost for casting wish is 5,000 XP. When a wish duplicates a spell that has an XP cost, you must pay 5,000 XP or that cost, whichever is more. When a wish creates or improves a magic item, you must pay twice the normal XP cost for crafting or improving the item, plus an additional 5,000 XP.

WOOD SHAPE

Transmutation

Level: drd 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: touch

Target: one touched piece of wood no larger than 10 cu. Ft. + 1 Cu. Ft./Level

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: will negates (object)

Spell resistance: yes (object)

Wood shape enables you to form one existing piece of wood into any shape that suits your purpose. While it is possible to make crude coffers, doors, and so forth, fine detail isn’t possible. There is a 30% chance that any shape that includes moving parts simply doesn’t work.

WORD OF CHAOS

Evocation [chaotic, sonic]

Level: chaos 7, clr 7

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: 40 ft.

Area: nonchaotic creatures in a 40-ft.- Radius spread centered on you

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none or will negates; see text

Spell resistance: yes

Any nonchaotic creature within the area who hears the word of chaos suffers the following ill effects.

The effects are cumulative and concurrent. No saving throw is allowed against these effects.

Deafened: the creature is deafened for 1d4 rounds.

Stunned: the creature is stunned for 1 round.

Confused: the creature is confused, as by the confusion spell, for 1d10 minutes. This is a mind-affecting enchantment effect.

Killed: living creatures die. Undead creatures are destroyed.

HD	Effect
Equal to caster level	Deafened
Up to caster level –1	Stunned, deafened
Up to caster level –5	Confused, stunned, deafened
Up to caster level –10	Killed, confused , stunned, deafened

Furthermore, if you are on your home plane when you cast this spell, nonchaotic extraplanar creatures within the area are instantly banished back to their home planes. Creatures so banished cannot return for at least 24 hours. This effect takes place regardless of whether the creatures hear the word of chaos. The banishment effect allows a will save (at a –4 penalty) to negate.

Creatures whose HD exceed your caster level are unaffected by word of chaos.

WORD OF RECALL

Conjuration (teleportation)

Level: clr 6, drd 8

Components: V

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: unlimited

Target: you and touched objects or other willing creatures

Duration: instantaneous

Saving throw: none or will negates (harmless, object)

Spell resistance: no or yes (harmless, object)

Word of recall teleports you instantly back to your sanctuary when the word is uttered. You must designate the sanctuary when you prepare the spell, and it must be a very familiar place. The actual point of arrival is a designated area no larger than 10 feet by 10 feet. You can be transported any distance within a plane but cannot travel between planes. You can transport, in addition to yourself, any objects you carry, as long as their weight doesn’t exceed your maximum load. You may also bring one additional willing medium or smaller creature (carrying gear or objects up to its maximum load) or its equivalent per three caster levels. A large creature counts as two medium creatures, a huge creature counts as two large creatures, and so forth. All creatures to be transported must be in contact with one another, and at least one of those creatures must be in contact with you. Exceeding this limit causes the spell to fail.

An unwilling creature can’t be teleported by word of recall. Likewise, a creature’s will save (or spell resistance) prevents items in its possession from being teleported. Unattended, nonmagical objects receive no saving throw.

ZONE OF SILENCE

Illusion (glamer)

Level: brd 4

Components: V, S

Casting time: 1 round

Range: personal

Area: 5-ft.-Radius emanation centered on you

Duration: 1 hour/level (d)

By casting zone of silence, you manipulate sound waves in your immediate vicinity so that you and those within the spell’s area can converse normally, yet no one outside can hear your voices or any other noises from within, including language-dependent or sonic spell effects. This effect is centered on you and moves with you. Anyone who enters the zone immediately becomes subject to its effects, but those who leave are no longer affected. Note, however, that a successful spot check to read lips can still reveal what’s said inside a zone of silence.

ZONE OF TRUTH

Enchantment (compulsion) [mind-affecting]

Level: clr 2, pal 2

Components: V, S, DF

Casting time: 1 standard action

Range: close (25 ft. + 5 Ft./2 Levels)

Area: 20-ft.-Radius emanation

Duration: 1 min./Level

Saving throw: will negates

Spell resistance: yes

Creatures within the emanation area (or those who enter it) can't speak any deliberate and intentional lies. Each potentially affected creature is allowed a save to avoid the effects when the spell is cast or when the creature first enters the emanation area. Affected creatures are aware of this enchantment. Therefore, they may avoid answering questions to which they would normally respond with a lie, or they may be evasive as long as they remain within the boundaries of the truth. Creatures who leave the area are free to speak as they choose.

MAGIC ITEMS I (BASICS & CREATION)

Magic items are divided into categories: armor, weapons, potions, rings, rods, scrolls, staves, wands, and wondrous items. In addition, some magic items are cursed or intelligent. Finally, a few magic items are of such rarity and power that they are considered to belong to a category of their own: artifacts. Artifacts are classified in turn as minor (extremely rare but not one-of-a-kind items) or major (each one unique and extremely potent).

Armor and Shields: Magic armor (including shields) offers improved, magical protection to the wearer. Some of these items confer abilities beyond a benefit to Armor Class.

Weapons: Magic weapons are created with a variety of combat powers and almost always improve the attack and damage rolls of the wielder as well.

Potions: A potion is an elixir concocted with a spell-like effect that affects only the drinker.

Rings: A ring is a circular metal band worn on the finger (no more than two rings per wearer) that has a spell-like power (often a constant effect that affects the wearer).

Rods: A rod is a scepter-like item with a special power unlike that of any known spell.

Scrolls: A scroll is a spell magically inscribed onto paper or parchment so that it can be used later.

Staves: A staff has a number of different (but often related) spell effects. A newly created staff has 50 charges, and each use of the staff depletes one or more of those charges.

Wands: A wand is a short stick imbued with the power to cast a specific spell. A newly created wand has 50 charges, and each use of the wand depletes one of those charges.

Wondrous Items: These objects include magic jewelry, tools, books, clothing, and much more.

MAGIC ITEMS AND DETECT MAGIC

When detect magic identifies a magic item's school of magic, this information refers to the school of the spell placed within the potion, scroll, or wand, or the prerequisite given for the item. The description of each item provides its aura strength and the school it belongs to.

If more than one spell is given as a prerequisite, use the highest-level spell. If no spells are included in the prerequisites, use the following default guidelines.

Item Nature	School
Armor and protection items	Abjuration
Weapons or offensive items	Evocation

USING ITEMS

To use a magic item, it must be activated, although sometimes activation simply means putting a ring on your finger. Some items, once donned, function constantly. In most cases, using an item requires a standard action that does not provoke attacks of opportunity. By contrast, spell completion items are treated like spells in combat and do provoke attacks of opportunity.

Activating a magic item is a standard action unless the item description indicates otherwise. However, the casting time of a spell is the time required to activate the same power in an item, regardless of the type of magic item, unless the item description specifically states otherwise.

The four ways to activate magic items are described below.

Spell Completion: This is the activation method for scrolls. A scroll is a spell that is mostly finished. The preparation is done for the caster, so no preparation time is needed beforehand as with normal spellcasting. All that's left to do is perform the finishing parts of the spellcasting (the final gestures, words, and so on). To use a spell completion item safely, a character must be of high enough level in the right class to cast the spell already. If he can't already cast the spell, there's a chance he'll make a mistake. Activating a spell completion item is a standard action and provokes attacks of opportunity exactly as casting a spell does.

Spell Trigger: Spell trigger activation is similar to spell completion, but it's even simpler. No gestures or spell finishing is needed, just a special knowledge of spellcasting that an appropriate character would know, and a single word that must be spoken. Anyone with a spell on his or her spell list knows how to use a spell trigger item that stores that spell. (This is the case even for a character who can't actually cast spells, such as a 3rd-level paladin.) The user must still determine what spell is stored in the item before she can activate it. Activating a spell trigger item is a standard action and does not provoke attacks of opportunity.

Command Word: If no activation method is suggested either in the magic item description or by the nature of the item, assume that a command word is needed to activate it. Command word activation means that a character speaks the word and the item activates. No other special knowledge is needed.

A command word can be a real word, but when this is the case, the holder of the item runs the risk of activating the item accidentally by speaking the word in normal conversation. More often, the command word is some seemingly nonsensical word, or a word or phrase from an ancient language no longer in common use. Activating a command word magic item is a standard action and does not provoke attacks of opportunity.

Sometimes the command word to activate an item is written right on the item. Occasionally, it might be hidden within a pattern or design engraved on, carved into, or built into the item, or the item might bear a clue to the command word.

The Knowledge (arcana) and Knowledge (history) skills might be useful in helping to identify command words or deciphering clues regarding them. A successful check against DC 30 is needed to come up with the word itself. If that check is failed, succeeding on a second check (DC 25) might provide some insight into a clue.

The spells identify and analyze dweomer both reveal command words.

Use Activated: This type of item simply has to be used in order to activate it. A character has to drink a potion, swing a sword, interpose a shield to deflect a blow in combat, look through a lens, sprinkle dust, wear a ring, or don a hat. Use activation is generally straightforward and self-explanatory.

Many use-activated items are objects that a character wears. Continually functioning items are practically always items that one wears. A few must simply be in the character's possession (on his person). However, some items made for wearing must still be activated. Although this activation sometimes requires a command word (see above), usually it means mentally willing the activation to happen. The description of an item states whether a command word is needed in such a case.

Unless stated otherwise, activating a use-activated magic item is either a standard action or not an action at all and does not provoke attacks of opportunity, unless the use involves performing an action that provokes an attack of opportunity in itself. If the use of the item takes time before a magical effect occurs, then use activation is a standard action. If the item's activation is subsumed in its use and takes no extra time use activation is not an action at all.

Use activation doesn't mean that if you use an item, you automatically know what it can do. You must know (or at least guess) what the item can do and then use the item in order to activate it, unless the benefit of the item comes automatically, such from drinking a potion or swinging a sword.

SIZE AND MAGIC ITEMS

When an article of magic clothing or jewelry is discovered, most of the time size shouldn't be an issue. Many magic garments are made to be easily adjustable, or they adjust themselves magically to the wearer. Size should not keep characters of various kinds from using magic items.

There may be rare exceptions, especially with racial specific items.

Armor and Weapon Sizes: Armor and weapons that are found at random have a 30% chance of being Small (01-30), a 60% chance of being Medium (31-90), and a 10% chance of being any other size (91-100).

MAGIC ITEMS ON THE BODY

Many magic items need to be donned by a character who wants to employ them or benefit from their abilities. It's possible for a creature with a humanoid-shaped body to wear as many as twelve magic items at the same time. However, each of those items must be worn on (or over) a particular part of the body.

A humanoid-shaped body can be decked out in magic gear consisting of one item from each of the following groups, keyed to which place on the body the item is worn.

- One headband, hat, helmet, or phylactery on the head
- One pair of eye lenses or goggles on or over the eyes
- One amulet, brooch, medallion, necklace, periapt, or scarab around the neck
- One vest, vestment, or shirt on the torso
- One robe or suit of armor on the body (over a vest, vestment, or shirt)
- One belt around the waist (over a robe or suit of armor)
- One cloak, cape, or mantle around the shoulders (over a robe or suit of armor)
- One pair of bracers or bracelets on the arms or wrists
- One glove, pair of gloves, or pair of gauntlets on the hands
- One ring on each hand (or two rings on one hand)
- One pair of boots or shoes on the feet

Of course, a character may carry or possess as many items of the same type as he wishes. However, additional items beyond those listed above have no effect.

Some items can be worn or carried without taking up space on a character's body. The description of an item indicates when an item has this property.

SAVING THROWS AGAINST MAGIC ITEM POWERS

Magic items produce spells or spell-like effects. For a saving throw against a spell or spell-like effect from a magic item, the DC is 10 + the level of the spell or effect + the ability modifier of the minimum ability score needed to cast that level of spell.

Staffs are an exception to the rule. Treat the saving throw as if the wielder cast the spell, including caster level and all modifiers to save DC.

Most item descriptions give saving throw DCs for various effects, particularly when the effect has no exact spell equivalent (making its level otherwise difficult to determine quickly).

DAMAGING MAGIC ITEMS

A magic item doesn't need to make a saving throw unless it is unattended, it is specifically targeted by the effect, or its wielder rolls a natural 1 on his save. Magic items should always get a saving throw against spells that might deal damage to them- even against attacks from which a nonmagical item would normally get no chance to save. Magic items use the same saving throw bonus for all saves, no matter what the type (Fortitude, Reflex, or Will). A magic item's saving throw bonus equals 2 + one-half its caster level (round down). The only exceptions to this are intelligent magic items, which make Will saves based on their own Wisdom scores.

Magic items, unless otherwise noted, take damage as nonmagical items of the same sort. A damaged magic item continues to function, but if it is destroyed, all its magical power is lost.

REPAIRING MAGIC ITEMS

Some magic items take damage over the course of an adventure. It costs no more to repair a magic item with the Craft skill than it does to repair its nonmagical counterpart. The make whole spell also repairs a damaged-but not completely broken-magic item.

INTELLIGENT ITEMS

Some magic items, particularly weapons, have an intelligence all their own. Only permanent magic items (as opposed to those with a single use or those with charges) can be intelligent. (This means that potions, scrolls, and wands, among other items, are never intelligent.)

In general, less than 1% of magic items have intelligence.

CURSED ITEMS

Some items are cursed-incorrectly made, or corrupted by outside forces. Cursed items might be particularly dangerous to the user, or they might be normal items with a minor flaw, an inconvenient requirement, or an unpredictable nature. Randomly generated items are cursed 5% of the time.

CHARGES, DOSES, AND MULTIPLE USES

Many items, particularly wands and staffs, are limited in power by the number of charges they hold. Normally, charged items have 50 charges at most. If such an item is found as a random part of a treasure, roll d% and divide by 2 to determine the number of charges left (round down, minimum 1). If the item has a maximum number of charges other than 50, roll randomly to determine how many charges are left.

Prices listed are always for fully charged items. (When an item is created, it is fully charged.) For an item that's worthless when its charges run out (which is the case for almost all charged items), the value of the partially used item is proportional to the number of charges left. For an item that has usefulness in addition to its charges, only part of the item's value is based on the number of charges left.

MAGIC ITEM DESCRIPTIONS

Each general type of magic item gets an overall description, followed by descriptions of specific items.

General descriptions include notes on activation, random generation, and other material. The AC, hardness, hit points, and break DC are given for typical examples of some magic items. The AC assumes that the item is unattended and includes a -5 penalty for the item's effective Dexterity of 0. If a creature holds the item, use the creature's Dexterity modifier in place of the -5 penalty.

Some individual items, notably those that simply store spells and nothing else, don't get full-blown descriptions. Reference the spell's description for details, modified by the form of the item (potion, scroll, wand, and so on). Assume that the spell is cast at the minimum level required to cast it.

Items with full descriptions have their powers detailed, and each of the following topics is covered in notational form at the end of the description.

Aura: Most of the time, a detect magic spell will reveal the school of magic associated with a magic item and the strength of the aura an item emits. This information (when applicable) is given at the beginning of the item's notational entry. See the detect magic spell description for details.

Caster Level: The next item in a notational entry gives the caster level of the item, indicating its relative power. The caster level determines the item's saving throw bonus, as well as range or other level-dependent aspects of the powers of the item (if variable). It also determines the level that must be contended with should the item come under the effect of a dispel magic spell or similar situation. This information is given in the form "CL x," where "CL" is an abbreviation for caster level and "x" is an ordinal number representing the caster level itself.

For potions, scrolls, and wands, the creator can set the caster level of an item at any number high enough to cast the stored spell and not higher than her own caster level. For other magic items, the caster level is determined by the item itself. In this case, the creator's caster level must be as high as the item's caster level (and prerequisites may effectively put a higher minimum on the creator's level).

Prerequisites: Certain requirements must be met in order for a character to create a magic item. These include feats, spells, and miscellaneous requirements such as level, alignment, and race or kind. The prerequisites for creation of an item are given immediately following the item's caster level.

A spell prerequisite may be provided by a character who has prepared the spell (or who knows the spell, in the case of a sorcerer or bard), or through the use of a spell completion or spell trigger magic item or a spell-like ability that produces the desired spell effect. For each day that passes in the creation process, the creator must expend one spell completion item or one charge from a spell trigger item if either of those objects is used to supply a prerequisite.

It is possible for more than one character to cooperate in the creation of an item, with each participant providing one or more of the prerequisites. In some cases, cooperation may even be necessary.

If two or more characters cooperate to create an item, they must agree among themselves who will be considered the creator for the purpose of determinations where the creator's level must be known. The character designated as the creator pays the XP required to make the item.

Typically, a list of prerequisites includes one feat and one or more spells (or some other requirement in addition to the feat).

When two spells at the end of a list are separated by "or," one of those spells is required in addition to every other spell mentioned prior to the last two.

Market Price: This gold piece value, given following the word "Price," represents the price someone should expect to pay to buy the item. The market price for an item that can be constructed with an item creation feat is usually equal to the base price plus the price for any components (material or XP).

Cost to Create: The next part of a notational entry is the cost in gp and XP to create the item, given following the word

"Cost." This information appears only for items with components (material or XP), which make their market prices higher than their base prices. The cost to create includes the costs derived from the base cost plus the costs of the components.

Items without components do not have a "Cost" entry. For them, the market price and the base price are the same. The cost in gp is 1/2 the market price, and the cost in XP is 1/25 the market price.

Weight: The notational entry for many wondrous items ends with a value for the item's weight. When a weight figure is not given, the item has no weight worth noting (for purposes of determining how much of a load a character can carry).

CREATING MAGIC ITEMS

To create magic items, spellcasters use special feats. They invest time, money, and their own personal energy (in the form of experience points) in an item's creation.

Note that all items have prerequisites in their descriptions. These prerequisites must be met for the item to be created. Most of the time, they take the form of spells that must be known by the item's creator (although access through another magic item or spellcaster is allowed).

While item creation costs are handled in detail below, note that normally the two primary factors are the caster level of the creator and the level of the spell or spells put into the item. A creator can create an item at a lower caster level than her own, but never lower than the minimum level needed to cast the needed spell. Using metamagic feats, a caster can place spells in items at a higher level than normal.

Magic supplies for items are always half of the base price in gp and 1/25 of the base price in XP. For many items, the market price equals the base price.

1 Rods usable as weapons must include the masterwork weapon cost.

2 This cost is only for spells activated by the item that have material or XP components. Having a spell with a costly component as a prerequisite does not automatically incur this cost if the item doesn't actually cast the spell.

3 If purchasing a staff, the buyer pays 5 x the XP value in gold pieces.

4 A character creating an item pays 1/25 the base price in experience points.

5 Some items have additional value from a masterwork item component.

An item's market price is the sum of the item cost, spell component costs, and the base price.

their magically enhanced properties add their item cost to the market price. The item cost does not influence the base price (which determines the cost of magic supplies and the experience point cost), but it does increase the final market price.

In addition, some items cast or replicate spells with costly material components or with XP components. For these items, the market price equals the base price plus an extra price for the spell component costs. Each XP in the component costs adds 5 gp to the market price. The cost to create these items is the magic supplies cost and the base XP cost (both determined by the base price) plus the costs for the components. Descriptions of these items include an entry that gives the total cost of creating the item.

The creator also needs a fairly quiet, comfortable, and well-lit place in which to work. Any place suitable for preparing spells is suitable for making items. Creating an item requires one day per 1,000 gp in the item's base price, with a minimum of at least one day. Potions are an exception to this rule; they always take just one day to brew. The character must spend the gold and XP at the beginning of the construction process.

The caster works for 8 hours each day. He cannot rush the process by working longer each day. But the days need not be consecutive, and the caster can use the rest of his time as he sees fit.

A character can work on only one item at a time. If a character starts work on a new item, all materials used and XP spent on the under-construction item are wasted.

The secrets of creating artifacts are long lost.

MAGIC ITEM GOLD PIECE VALUES

Many factors must be considered when determining the price of new magic items. The easiest way to come up with a price is to match the new item to an item that is already priced that price as a guide. Otherwise, use the guidelines summarized on Table: Estimating Magic Item Gold Piece Values.

Multiple Similar Abilities: For items with multiple similar abilities that don't take up space on a character's body use the following formula: Calculate the price of the single most costly ability, then add 75% of the value of the next most costly ability, plus one-half the value of any other abilities.

Multiple Different Abilities: Abilities such as an attack roll bonus or saving throw bonus and a spell-like function are not similar, and their values are simply added together to determine the cost. For items that do take up a space on a character's body each additional power not only has no discount but instead has a 50% increase in price.

0-Level Spells: When multiplying spell levels to determine value, 0-level spells should be treated as 1/2 level.

Other Considerations: Once you have a final cost figure, reduce that number if either of the following conditions applies:

-Item Requires Skill to Use: Some items require a specific skill to get them to function. This factor should reduce the cost about 10%.

-Item Requires Specific Class or Alignment to Use: Even more restrictive than requiring a skill, this limitation cuts the cost by 30%.

Prices presented in the magic item descriptions (the gold piece value following the item's caster level) are the market value, which is generally twice what it costs the creator to make the item.

Since different classes get access to certain spells at different levels, the prices for two characters to make the same item might actually be different. An item is only worth two times what the caster of lowest possible level can make it for. Calculate the market price based on the lowest possible level caster, no matter who makes the item.

Not all items adhere to these formulas directly. The reasons for this are several. First and foremost, these few formulas aren't enough to truly gauge the exact differences between items. The price of a magic item may be modified based on its actual worth. The formulas only provide a starting point. The pricing of scrolls assumes that, whenever possible, a wizard or cleric created it. Potions and wands follow the formulas exactly. Staffs follow the formulas closely, and other items require at least some judgment calls.

MASTERWORK ITEMS

Masterwork items are extraordinarily well-made items. They are more expensive, but they benefit the user with improved quality. They are not magical in any way. However, only masterwork items may be enhanced to become magic armor and weapons. (Items that are not weapons or armor may or may not be masterwork items.)

CREATING MAGIC ARMOR

To create magic armor, a character needs a heat source and some iron, wood, or leatherworking tools. He also needs a supply of materials, the most obvious being the armor or the pieces of the armor to be assembled. Armor to be made into magic armor must be masterwork armor, and the masterwork cost is added to the base price to determine final market value. Additional magic supplies costs for the materials are subsumed in the cost for creating the magic armor-half the base price of the item.

Creating magic armor has a special prerequisite: The creator's caster level must be at least three times the enhancement bonus of the armor. If an item has both an enhancement bonus and a special ability, the higher of the two caster level requirements must be met.

Magic armor or a magic shield must have at least a +1 enhancement bonus to have any of the abilities listed on Table: Armor Special Abilities and Table: Shield Special Abilities.

If spells are involved in the prerequisites for making the armor, the creator must have prepared the spells to be cast (or must know the spells, in the case of a sorcerer or bard), must provide any material components or focuses the spells require, and must pay any XP costs required for the spells. The act of working on the armor triggers the prepared spells, making them unavailable for casting during each day of the armor's creation. (That is, those spell slots are expended from his currently prepared spells, just as if they had been cast.)

Creating some armor may entail other prerequisites beyond or other than spellcasting. See the individual descriptions for details.

Crafting magic armor requires one day for each 1,000 gp value of the base price.

Item Creation Feat Required: Craft Magic Arms and Armor.

CREATING MAGIC WEAPONS

To create a magic weapon, a character needs a heat source and some iron, wood, or leatherworking tools. She also needs a supply of materials, the most obvious being the weapon or the pieces of the weapon to be assembled. Only a masterwork weapon can become a magic weapon, and the masterwork cost is added to the total cost to determine final market value. Additional magic supplies costs for the materials are subsumed in the cost for creating the magic weapon-half the base price given on Table: Weapons, according to the weapon's total effective bonus.

Creating a magic weapon has a special prerequisite: The creator's caster level must be at least three times the enhancement bonus of the weapon. If an item has both an enhancement bonus and a special ability the higher of the two caster level requirements must be met.

A magic weapon must have at least a +1 enhancement bonus to have any of the abilities listed on Table: Melee Weapon Special Abilities or Table Ranged Weapon Special Abilities.

If spells are involved in the prerequisites for making the weapon, the creator must have prepared the spells to be cast (or must know the spells, in the case of a sorcerer or bard) but need not provide any material components or focuses the spells require, nor are any XP costs inherent in a prerequisite spell incurred in the creation of the item. The act of working on the weapon triggers the prepared spells, making them unavailable for casting during each day of the weapon's creation. (That is, those spell slots are expended from his currently prepared spells, just as if they had been cast.)

At the time of creation, the creator must decide if the weapon glows or not as a side-effect of the magic imbued within it. This decision does not affect the price or the creation time, but once the item is finished, the decision is binding.

Creating magic double-headed weapons is treated as creating two weapons when determining cost, time, XP, and special abilities.

Creating some weapons may entail other prerequisites beyond or other than spellcasting. See the individual descriptions for details.

Crafting a magic weapon requires one day for each 1,000 gp value of the base price.

Item Creation Feat Required: Craft Magic Arms and Armor.

CREATING POTIONS

The creator of a potion needs a level working surface and at least a few containers in which to mix liquids, as well as a source of heat to boil the brew. In addition, he needs ingredients. The costs for materials and ingredients are subsumed in the cost for brewing the potion—25 gp x the level of the spell x the level of the caster.

All ingredients and materials used to brew a potion must be fresh and unused. The character must pay the full cost for brewing each potion. (Economies of scale do not apply.)

The imbiber of the potion is both the caster and the target. Spells with a range of personal cannot be made into potions.

The creator must have prepared the spell to be placed in the potion (or must know the spell, in the case of a sorcerer or bard) and must provide any material component or focus the spell requires.

If casting the spell would reduce the caster's XP total, he pays the XP cost upon beginning the brew in addition to the XP cost for making the potion itself. Material components are consumed when he begins working, but a focus is not. (A focus used in brewing a potion can be reused.) The act of brewing triggers the prepared spell, making it unavailable for casting until the character has rested and regained spells. (That is, that spell slot is expended from his currently prepared spells, just as if it had been cast.) Brewing a potion requires one day.

CREATING RINGS

To create a magic ring, a character needs a heat source. He also needs a supply of materials, the most obvious being a ring or the pieces of the ring to be assembled. The cost for the materials is subsumed in the cost for creating the ring. Ring costs are difficult to formulaize. Refer to Table: Estimating Magic Item Gold Piece Values and use the ring prices in the ring descriptions as a guideline. Creating a ring generally costs half the ring's market price.

Rings that duplicate spells with costly material or XP components add in the value of 50 x the spell's component cost. Having a spell with a costly component as a prerequisite does not automatically incur this cost. The act of working on the ring triggers the prepared spells, making them unavailable for casting during each day of the ring's creation. (That is, those spell slots are expended from his currently prepared spells, just as if they had been cast.)

Creating some rings may entail other prerequisites beyond or other than spellcasting. See the individual descriptions for details.

Forging a ring requires one day for each 1,000 gp of the base price.

Item Creation Feat Required: Forge Ring.

CREATING RODS

To create a magic rod, a character needs a supply of materials, the most obvious being a rod or the pieces of the rod to be assembled. The cost for the materials is subsumed in the cost for creating the rod. Rod costs are difficult to formulaize. Refer to Table: Estimating Magic Item Gold Piece Values and use the rod prices in the rod descriptions as a guideline. Creating a rod costs half the market value listed.

If spells are involved in the prerequisites for making the rod, the creator must have prepared the spells to be cast (or must know the spells, in the case of a sorcerer or bard) but need not provide any material components or focuses the spells require, nor are any XP costs inherent in a prerequisite spell incurred in the creation of the item. The act of working on the rod triggers the prepared spells, making them unavailable for casting during each day of the rod's creation. (That is, those spell slots are expended from his currently prepared spells, just as if they had been cast.)

Creating some rods may entail other prerequisites beyond or other than spellcasting. See the individual descriptions for details.

Crafting a rod requires one day for each 1,000 gp of the base price.

Item Creation Feat Required: Craft Rod.

CREATING SCROLLS

To create a scroll, a character needs a supply of choice writing materials, the cost of which is subsumed in the cost for scribing the scroll—12.5 gp x the level of the spell x the level of the caster.

All writing implements and materials used to scribe a scroll must be fresh and unused. A character must pay the full cost for scribing each spell scroll no matter how many times she previously has scribed the same spell.

The creator must have prepared the spell to be scribed (or must know the spell, in the case of a sorcerer or bard) and must provide any material component or focus the spell requires. If casting the spell would reduce the caster's XP total, she pays the cost upon beginning the scroll in addition to the XP cost for making the scroll itself. Likewise, a material component is consumed when she begins writing, but a focus is not. (A focus used in scribing a scroll can be reused.) The act of writing triggers the prepared spell, making it unavailable for casting until the character has rested and regained spells. (That is, that spell slot is expended from her currently prepared spells, just as if it had been cast.)

Scribing a scroll requires one day per each 1,000 gp of the base price.

Item Creation Feat Required: Scribe Scroll.

CREATING STAFFS

To create a magic staff, a character needs a supply of materials, the most obvious being a staff or the pieces of the staff to be assembled.

The cost for the materials is subsumed in the cost for creating the staff—375 gp x the level of the highest-level spell x the level of the caster, plus 75% of the value of the next most costly ability (281.25 gp x the level of the spell x the level of the caster), plus one-half of the value of any other abilities (187.5 gp x the level of the spell x the level of the caster). Staffs are always fully charged (50 charges) when created.

If desired, a spell can be placed into the staff at only half the normal cost, but then activating that particular spell costs 2 charges from the staff. The caster level of all spells in a staff must be the same, and no staff can have a caster level of less than 8th, even if all the spells in the staff are low-level spells.

The creator must have prepared the spells to be stored (or must know the spell, in the case of a sorcerer or bard) and must provide any focus the spells require as well as material and XP component costs sufficient to activate the spell a maximum number of times (50 divided by the number of charges one use of the spell expends). This is in addition to the XP cost for making the staff itself. Material components are consumed when he begins working, but focuses are not. (A focus used in creating a staff can be reused.) The act of working on the staff triggers the prepared spells, making them unavailable for casting during each day of the staff's creation. (That is, those spell slots are expended from his currently prepared spells, just as if they had been cast.)

Creating a few staffs may entail other prerequisites beyond spell-crafting. See the individual descriptions for details.

Crafting a staff requires one day for each 1,000 gp of the base price.

Item Creation Feat Required: Craft Staff.

CREATING WANDS

To create a magic wand, a character needs a small supply of materials, the most obvious being a baton or the pieces of the wand to be assembled. The cost for the materials is subsumed in the cost for creating the wand—375 gp x the level of the spell x the level of the caster. Wands are always fully charged (50 charges) when created.

The creator must have prepared the spell to be stored (or must know the spell, in the case of a sorcerer or bard) and must provide any focuses the spell requires. Fifty of each needed material component are required, one for each charge. If casting the spell would reduce the caster's XP total, she pays the cost (multiplied by 50) upon beginning the wand in addition to the XP cost for making the wand itself. Likewise, material components are consumed when she begins working, but focuses are not. (A focus used in creating a wand can be reused.) The act of working on the wand triggers the prepared spell, making it unavailable for casting during each day devoted to the wand's creation. (That is, that spell slot is expended from her currently prepared spells, just as if it had been cast.)

Crafting a wand requires one day per each 1,000 gp of the base price.

Item Creation Feat Required: Craft Wand.

CREATING WONDROUS ITEMS

To create a wondrous item, a character usually needs some sort of equipment or tools to work on the item. She also needs a supply of materials, the most obvious being the item itself or the pieces of the item to be assembled. The cost for the materials is subsumed in the cost for creating the item. Wondrous item costs are difficult to formularize. Refer to Table: Estimating Magic Item Gold Piece Values and use the item prices in the item descriptions as a guideline. Creating an item costs half the market value listed.

If spells are involved in the prerequisites for making the item, the creator must have prepared the spells to be cast (or must know the spells, in the case of a sorcerer or bard) but need not provide any material components or focuses the spells require, nor are any XP costs inherent in a prerequisite spell incurred in the creation of the item. The act of working on the item triggers the prepared spells, making them unavailable for casting during each day of the item's creation. (That is, those spell slots are expended from his currently prepared spells, just as if they had been cast.)

Creating some items may entail other prerequisites beyond or other than spellcasting. See the individual descriptions for details.

Crafting a wondrous item requires one day for each 1,000 gp of the base price.

Item Creation Feat Required: Craft Wondrous Item.

INTELLIGENT ITEM CREATION

To create an intelligent item, a character must have a caster level of 15th or higher. Time and creation cost are based on the normal item creation rules, with the market price values on Table: Item Intelligence, Wisdom, Charisma, and Capabilities treated as additions to time, gp cost, and XP cost. The item's alignment is the same as its creator's. Determine other features randomly, following the guidelines in the relevant section.

ADDING NEW ABILITIES

A creator can add new magical abilities to a magic item with no restrictions. The cost to do this is the same as if the item was not magical. Thus, a +1 longsword can be made into a +2 vorpal longsword, with the cost to create it being equal to that of a +2 vorpal sword minus the cost of a +1 sword.

If the item is one that occupies a specific place on a character's body the cost of adding any additional ability to that item increases by 50%. For example, if a character adds the power to confer invisibility to her ring of protection +2, the cost of adding this ability is the same as for creating a ring of invisibility multiplied by 1.5.

BODY SLOT AFFINITIES

Each location on the body, or body slot, has one or more affinities: a word or phrase that describes the general function or nature of magic items designed for that body slot. Body slot affinities are deliberately broad, abstract categorizations, because a hard-and-fast rule can't cover the great variety among wondrous items.

You can use the affinities in the list below to guide your decisions on which magic items should be allowed in which body slots. And when you design your own magic items, the affinities give you some guidance for what form a particular item should take.

Some body slots have different affinities for different specific items.

Body Slot	Affinity
Headband, helmet	Mental improvement, ranged attacks
Hat	Interaction
Phylactery	Morale, alignment
Eye lenses, goggles	Vision
Cloak, cape, mantle	Transformation, protection
Amulet, brooch, medallion, necklace, periapt, scarab	Protection, discernment
Robe	Multiple effects
Shirt	Physical improvement
Vest, vestment	Class ability improvement
Bracers	Combat
Bracelets	Allies
Gloves	Quickness
Gauntlets	Destructive power
Belt	Physical improvement
Boots	Movement

Wondrous items that don't match the affinity for a particular body slot should cost 50% more than wondrous items that match the affinity.

MAGIC ITEMS II (ARMOR & WEAPONS)

ARMOR

In general, magic armor protects the wearer to a greater extent than nonmagical armor. Magic armor bonuses are enhancement bonuses, never rise above +5, and stack with regular armor bonuses (and with shield and magic shield enhancement bonuses). All magic armor is also masterwork armor, reducing armor check penalties by 1.

In addition to an enhancement bonus, armor may have special abilities. Special abilities usually count as additional bonuses for determining the market value of an item, but do not improve AC. A suit of armor cannot have an effective bonus (enhancement plus special ability bonus equivalents) higher than +10. A suit of armor with a special ability must have at least a +1 enhancement bonus.

A suit of armor or a shield may be made of an unusual material. Roll d%: 01-95 indicates that the item is of a standard sort, and 96-100 indicates that it is made of a special material.

Armor is always created so that even if the type of armor comes with boots or gauntlets, these pieces can be switched for other magic boots or gauntlets.

96–100	Shield, tower	+180 gp

1 Add to enhancement bonus on Table: Armor and Shields to determine total market price.

All magic shields are masterwork shields (with an armor check penalty 1 less than normal).

Caster Level for Armor and Shields: The caster level of a magic shield or magic armor with a special ability is given in the item description. For an item with only an enhancement bonus, the caster level is three times the enhancement bonus. If an item has both an enhancement bonus and a special ability, the higher of the two caster level requirements must be met.

Shields: Shield enhancement bonuses stack with armor enhancement bonuses. Shield enhancement bonuses do not act as attack or damage bonuses when the shield is used in a bash. The bashing special ability, however, does grant a +1 bonus on attack and damage rolls (see the special ability description).

A shield could be built that also acted as a magic weapon, but the cost of the enhancement bonus on attack rolls would need to be added into the cost of the shield and its enhancement bonus to AC.

As with armor, special abilities built into the shield add to the market value in the form of additions to the bonus of the shield, although they do not improve AC. A shield cannot have an effective bonus (enhancement plus special ability bonus equivalents) higher than +10. A shield with a special ability must have at least a +1 enhancement bonus.

Shield Hardness and Hit Points: Each +1 of enhancement bonus adds 2 to a shield's hardness and +10 to its hit points.

Activation: Usually a character benefits from magic armor and shields in exactly the way a character benefits from nonmagical armor and shields-by wearing them. If armor or a shield has a special ability that the user needs to activate then the user usually needs to utter the command word (a standard action).

Armor for Unusual Creatures: The cost of armor for nonhumanoid creatures, as well as for creatures who are neither Small nor Medium, varies. The cost of the masterwork quality and any magical enhancement remains the same.

MAGIC ARMOR AND SHIELD SPECIAL ABILITY DESCRIPTIONS

Most magic armor and shields only have enhancement bonuses. Such items can also have one or more of the special abilities detailed below. Armor or a shield with a special ability must have at least a +1 enhancement bonus.

1 Add to enhancement bonus on Table: Armor and Shields to determine total market price.
2 If you roll a special ability twice, only one counts. If you roll two versions of the same special ability, use the better.

Acid Resistance: A suit of armor or a shield with this property normally has a dull gray appearance. The armor absorbs the first 10 points of acid damage per attack that the wearer would normally take (similar to the resist energy spell).

Faint abjuration; CL 3rd; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, resist energy; Price +18,000 gp.

Acid Resistance, Improved: As acid resistance, except it absorbs the first 20 points of acid damage per attack.

Moderate abjuration; CL 7th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, resist energy; Price +42,000 gp.

Acid Resistance, Greater: As acid resistance, except it absorbs the first 30 points of acid damage per attack.

Moderate abjuration; CL 11th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, resist energy; Price +66,000 gp.

Animated: Upon command, an animated shield floats within 2 feet of the wielder, protecting her as if she were using it herself but freeing up both her hands. Only one shield can protect a character at a time. A character with an animated shield still takes any penalties associated with shield use, such as armor check penalty, arcane spell failure chance, and nonproficiency.

Strong transmutation; CL 12th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, animate objects; Price +2 bonus.

Arrow Catching: A shield with this ability attracts ranged weapons to it. It has a deflection bonus of +1 against ranged weapons because projectiles and thrown weapons veer toward it. Additionally, any projectile or thrown weapon aimed at a target within 5 feet of the shield's wearer diverts from its original target and targets the shield's bearer instead. (If the wielder has total cover relative to the attacker, the projectile or thrown weapon is not diverted.) Additionally, those attacking the wearer with ranged weapons ignore any miss chances that would normally apply. Projectiles and thrown weapons that have an enhancement bonus higher than the shield's base AC bonus are not diverted to the wearer (but the shield's increased AC bonus still applies against these weapons). The wielder can activate or deactivate this ability with a command word.

Moderate abjuration; CL 8th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, entropic shield; Price +1 bonus.

Arrow Deflection: This shield protects the wielder as if he had the Deflect Arrows feat. Once per round when he would normally be struck by a ranged weapon, he can make a DC 20 Reflex save. If the ranged weapon has an enhancement bonus, the DC increases by that amount. If he succeeds, the shield deflects the weapon. He must be aware of the attack and not flat-footed. Attempting to deflect a ranged weapon doesn't count as an action. Exceptional ranged weapons, such as boulders hurled by giants or acid arrows, can't be deflected.

Faint abjuration; CL 5th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, shield; Price +2 bonus.

Bashing: A shield with this special ability is designed to perform a shield bash. A bashing shield deals damage as if it were a weapon of two size categories larger (a Medium light shield thus deals 1d6 points of damage and a Medium heavy shield deals 1d8 points of damage). The shield acts as a +1 weapon when used to bash. (Only light and heavy shields can have this ability.)

Moderate transmutation; CL 8th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, bull's strength; Price +1 bonus.

Blinding: A shield with this ability flashes with a brilliant light up to twice per day upon command of the wielder. Anyone within 20 feet except the wielder must make a DC 14 Reflex save or be blinded for 1d4 rounds.

SPECIFIC ARMORS

The following specific suits of armor usually are preconstructed with exactly the qualities described here.

Adamantine Breastplate: This nonmagical breastplate is made of adamantine, giving its wearer damage reduction of 2/–.

No aura (nonmagical); Price 10,200 gp.

Banded Mail of Luck: Ten 100-gp gems adorn this +3 banded mail. Once per week, the armor allows its wearer to require that an attack roll made against him be rerolled. He must take whatever consequences come from the second roll. The wearer's player must decide whether to have the attack roll rerolled before damage is rolled.

Strong enchantment; CL 12th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, bless; Price 18,900 gp; Cost 10,150 gp + 700 XP.

Breastplate of Command: This finely crafted +2 breastplate radiates a powerful aura of magic. When worn, the armor bestows a dignified and commanding aura upon its owner. The wearer gains a +2 competence bonus on all Charisma checks, including turning checks and Charisma-based skill checks. The wearer also gains a +2 competence bonus to his Leadership score. Friendly troops within 360 feet of the user become braver than normal. Since the effect arises in great part from the distinctiveness of the armor, the wearer cannot hide or conceal herself in any way and still have the effect function.

Strong enchantment; CL 15th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, mass charm monster; Price 25,400 gp; Cost 10,975 gp + 850 XP.

Celestial Armor: This bright silver or gold +3 chainmail is so fine and light that it can be worn under normal clothing without betraying its presence. It has a maximum Dexterity bonus of +8, an armor check penalty of –2, and an arcane spell failure chance of 15%. It is considered light armor, weighs 20 pounds, and it allows the wearer to use fly on command (as the spell) once per day.

Faint transmutation [good]; CL 5th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, creator must be good, fly; Price 22,400 gp; Cost 12,550 gp + 1,004 XP.

Demon Armor: This plate armor is fashioned to make the wearer appear to be a demon. The helmet is shaped to look like a horned demon head, and its wearer looks out of the open, tooth-filled mouth. This +4 full plate allows the wearer to make claw attacks that deal 1d10 points of damage, strike as +1 weapons, and afflict the target as if she had been struck by a contagion spell (Fortitude DC 14 negates). Use of contagion requires a normal melee attack with the claws. The “claws” are built into the armor's vambraces and gauntlets.

The armor bestows one negative level on any nonevil creature wearing it. This negative level persists as long as the armor is worn and disappears when the armor is removed. The negative level never results in actual level loss, but it cannot be overcome in any way (including restoration spells) while the armor is worn.

Strong necromancy [evil]; CL 13th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, contagion; Price 52,260 gp; Cost 26,130 gp + 2,090 XP.

Dragonhide Plate: This suit of full plate is made of dragonhide, rather than metal, so druids can wear it. It is otherwise identical to masterwork full plate.

No aura (nonmagical); Price 3,300 gp.

Dwarven Plate: This full plate is made of adamantine, giving its wearer damage reduction of 3/–.

No aura (nonmagical); Price 16,500 gp.

Elven Chain: This extremely light chainmail is made of very fine mithral links. Speed while wearing elven chain is 30 feet for Medium creatures, or 20 feet for Small. The armor has an arcane spell failure chance of 20%, a maximum Dexterity bonus of +4, and an armor check penalty of –2. It is considered light armor and weighs 20 pounds.

No aura (nonmagical); Price 4,150 gp.

Mithral Full Plate of Speed: As a free action, the wearer of this fine set of +1 mithral full plate can activate it, enabling her to act as though affected by a haste spell for up to 10 rounds each day. The duration of the haste effect need not be consecutive rounds.

Speed while wearing a suit of mithral full plate is 20 feet for Medium creatures, or 15 feet for Small. The armor has an arcane spell failure chance of 25%, a maximum Dexterity bonus of +3, and an armor check penalty of -3. It is considered medium armor and weighs 25 pounds.

Faint transmutation; CL 5th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, haste; Price 26,500 gp.

Mithral Shirt: This extremely light chain shirt is made of very fine mithral links. Speed while wearing a mithral shirt is 30 feet for Medium creatures, or 20 feet for Small. The armor has an arcane spell failure chance of 10%, a maximum Dexterity bonus of +6, and no armor check penalty. It is considered light armor and weighs 10 pounds.

No aura (nonmagical); Price 1,100 gp.

Plate Armor of the Deep: This +1 full plate is decorated with a wave and fish motif. The wearer of plate armor of the deep is treated as unarmored for purposes of Swim checks. The wearer can breathe underwater and can converse with any creature with a language that breathes water.

Moderate transmutation; CL 9th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, bull's strength; Price 5,165 gp; Cost 2,665 gp + 200 XP.

Caster's Shield: This +1 light wooden shield has a small leather strip on the back on which a spellcaster can scribe a single spell as on a scroll. A spell so scribed has only half the base raw material cost. Experience point and component costs remain the same. The strip cannot accommodate spells of higher than 3rd level. The strip is reusable.

A random caster's shield has a 50% chance of having a single medium scroll spell on it. The spell is divine (01–80 on d%) or arcane (81–100).

A caster's shield has a 5% arcane spell failure chance.

Moderate abjuration; CL 6th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, Scribe Scroll, creator must be at least 6th level; Price 3,153 gp (plus the value of the scroll spell if one is currently scribed); Cost

1,653 gp + 120 XP.

Darkwood Buckler: This nonmagical light wooden shield is made out of darkwood. It has no enhancement bonus, but its construction material makes it lighter than a normal wooden shield. It weighs 2-1/2 pounds and has no armor check penalty.

No aura (nonmagical); Price 205 gp.

Darkwood Shield: This nonmagical heavy wooden shield is made out of darkwood. It has no enhancement bonus, but its construction material makes it lighter than a normal wooden shield.

This attack is in addition to any actions performed by the wielder.

Moderate evocation; CL 6th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, magic missile; Price 5,580 gp; Cost 2,740 gp + 223 XP.

Winged Shield: This round heavy wooden shield has a +3 enhancement bonus. Small, feathered wings encircle the shield.

WEAPONS

Magic weapons have enhancement bonuses ranging from +1 to +5. They apply these bonuses to both attack and damage rolls when used in combat. All magic weapons are also masterwork weapons, but their masterwork bonus on attack rolls does not stack with their enhancement bonus on attack rolls.

Weapons come in two basic categories: melee and ranged. Some of the weapons listed as melee weapons can also be used as ranged weapons. In this case, their enhancement bonus applies to either type of attack.

In addition to an enhancement bonus, weapons may have special abilities. Special abilities count as additional bonuses for determining the market value of the item, but do not modify attack or damage bonuses (except where specifically noted). A single weapon cannot have a modified bonus (enhancement bonus plus special ability bonus equivalents) higher than +10. A weapon with a special ability must have at least a +1 enhancement bonus.

A weapon or a kind of ammunition may be made of an unusual material. Roll d%: 01-95 indicates that the item is of a standard sort, and 96-100 indicates that it is made of a special material.

Caster Level for Weapons: The caster level of a weapon with a special ability is given in the item description. For an item with only an enhancement bonus and no other abilities, the caster level is three times the enhancement bonus. If an item has both an enhancement bonus and a special ability, the higher of the two caster level requirements must be met.

Additional Damage Dice: Some magic weapons deal additional dice of damage. Unlike other modifiers to damage, additional dice of damage are not multiplied when the attacker scores a critical hit.

Ranged Weapons and Ammunition: The enhancement bonus from a ranged weapon does not stack with the enhancement bonus from ammunition. Only the higher of the two enhancement bonuses applies.

Ammunition fired from a projectile weapon with an enhancement bonus of +1 or higher is treated as a magic weapon for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction. Similarly, ammunition fired from a projectile weapon with an alignment gains the alignment of that projectile weapon (in addition to any alignment it may already have).

Magic Ammunition and Breakage: When a magic arrow, crossbow bolt, or sling bullet misses its target, there is a 50% chance it breaks or otherwise is rendered useless. A magic arrow, bolt, or bullet that hits is destroyed.

Light Generation: Fully 30% of magic weapons shed light equivalent to a light spell (bright light in a 20-foot radius, shadowy light in a 40-foot radius). These glowing weapons are quite obviously magical. Such a weapon can't be concealed when drawn, nor can its light be shut off. Some of the specific weapons detailed below always or never glow, as defined in their descriptions.

Hardness and Hit Points: An attacker cannot damage a magic weapon that has an enhancement bonus unless his own weapon has at least as high an enhancement bonus as the weapon or shield struck. Each +1 of enhancement bonus also adds 1 to the weapon's or shield's hardness and hit points.

Activation: Usually a character benefits from a magic weapon in the same way a character benefits from a mundane weapon-by attacking with it. If a weapon has a special ability that the user needs to activate then the user usually needs to utter a command word (a standard action).

Magic Weapons and Critical Hits: Some weapon qualities and some specific weapons have an extra effect on a critical hit. This special effect functions against creatures not subject to critical hits, such as undead, elementals, and constructs. When fighting against such creatures, roll for critical hits as you would against humanoids or any other creature subject to critical hits. On a successful critical roll, apply the special effect, but do not multiply the weapon's regular damage.

Weapons for Unusually Sized Creatures: The cost of weapons for creatures who are neither Small nor Medium varies. The cost of the masterwork quality and any magical enhancement remains the same.

Special Qualities: Roll d%. If the item is a melee weapon, a 01-30 result indicates that the item sheds light, 31-45 indicates that something (a design, inscription, or the like) provides a clue to the weapon's function, & 46-100 indicates no special qualities.

If the item is a ranged weapon, a 01-15 result indicates that something (a design, inscription, or the like) provides a clue to the weapon's function, & 16-100 indicates no special qualities.

MAGIC WEAPON SPECIAL ABILITY DESCRIPTIONS

In addition to enhancement bonuses, weapons can have one or more of the special abilities detailed below. A weapon with a special ability must have at least a +1 enhancement bonus.

Anarchic: An anarchic weapon is chaotically aligned and infused with the power of chaos. It makes the weapon chaos-aligned and thus bypasses the corresponding damage reduction. It deals an extra 2d6 points of damage against all of lawful alignment. It bestows one negative level on any lawful creature attempting to wield it. The negative level remains as long as the weapon is in hand and disappears when the weapon is no longer wielded. This negative level never results in actual level loss, but it cannot be overcome in any way (including restoration spells) while the weapon is wielded. Bows, crossbows, and slings so crafted bestow the chaotic power upon their ammunition.

Moderate evocation [chaotic]; CL 7th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, chaos hammer; creator must be chaotic; Price +2 bonus.

Axiomatic: An axiomatic weapon is lawfully aligned and infused with the power of law. It makes the weapon law-aligned and thus bypasses the corresponding damage reduction. It deals an extra 2d6 points of damage against all of chaotic alignment. It bestows one negative level on any chaotic creature attempting to wield it. The negative level remains as long as the weapon is in hand and disappears when the weapon is no longer wielded. This negative level never results in actual level loss, but it cannot be overcome in any way (including restoration spells) while the weapon is wielded. Bows, crossbows, and slings so crafted bestow the lawful power upon their ammunition.

Moderate evocation [lawful]; CL 7th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, order's wrath; creator must be lawful; Price +2 bonus.

Bane: A bane weapon excels at attacking one type or subtype of creature. Against its designated foe, its effective enhancement bonus is +2 better than its normal enhancement bonus. It deals an extra 2d6 points of damage against the foe. Bows, crossbows, and slings so crafted bestow the bane quality upon their ammunition. To randomly determine a weapon's designated foe, roll on the following table.

d%	Designated Foe	d%	Designated Foe

Moderate conjuration; CL 8th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, summon monster I; Price +1 bonus.

Brilliant Energy: A brilliant energy weapon has its significant portion transformed into light, although this does not modify the item's weight. It always gives off light as a torch (20-foot radius). A brilliant energy weapon ignores nonliving matter. Armor and shield bonuses to AC (including any enhancement bonuses to that armor) do not count against it because the weapon passes through armor. (Dexterity, deflection, dodge, natural armor, and other such bonuses still apply.) A brilliant energy weapon cannot harm undead, constructs, and objects. This property can only be applied to melee weapons, thrown weapons, and ammunition.

Strong transmutation; CL 16th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, gaseous form, continual flame; Price +4 bonus.

Dancing: As a standard action, a dancing weapon can be loosed to attack on its own. It fights for 4 rounds using the base attack bonus of the one who loosed it and then drops. While dancing, it cannot make attacks of opportunity, and the person who activated it is not considered armed with the weapon. In all other respects, it is considered wielded or attended by the creature for all maneuvers and effects that target items. While dancing, it takes up the same space as the activating character and can attack adjacent foes (weapons with reach can attack opponents up to 10 feet away). The dancing weapon accompanies the person who activated it everywhere, whether she moves by physical or magical means. If the wielder who loosed it has an unoccupied hand, she can grasp it while it is attacking on its own as a free action; when so retrieved the weapon can't dance (attack on its own) again for 4 rounds.

Strong transmutation; CL 15th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, animate objects; Price +4 bonus.

Defending: A defending weapon allows the wielder to transfer some or all of the sword's enhancement bonus to his AC as a bonus that stacks with all others. As a free action, the wielder chooses how to allocate the weapon's enhancement bonus at the start of his turn before using the weapon, and the effect to AC lasts until his next turn.

Moderate abjuration; CL 8th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, shield or shield of faith; Price +1 bonus.

Disruption: A weapon of disruption is the bane of all undead. Any undead creature struck in combat must succeed on a DC 14 Will save or be destroyed. A weapon of disruption must be a bludgeoning weapon. (If you roll this property randomly for a piercing or slashing weapon, reroll.)

Strong conjuration; CL 14th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, heal; Price +2 bonus.

Distance: This property can only be placed on a ranged weapon. A weapon of distance has double the range increment of other weapons of its kind.

Moderate divination; CL 6th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, clairaudience/clairvoyance; Price +1 bonus.

Flaming: Upon command, a flaming weapon is sheathed in fire. The fire does not harm the wielder. The effect remains until another command is given. A flaming weapon deals an extra 1d6 points of fire damage on a successful hit. Bows, crossbows, and slings so crafted bestow the fire energy upon their ammunition.

Moderate evocation; CL 10th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor and flame blade, flame strike, or fireball; Price +1 bonus.

Flaming Burst: A flaming burst weapon functions as a flaming weapon that also explodes with flame upon striking a successful critical hit. The fire does not harm the wielder. In addition to the extra fire damage from the flaming ability (see above), a flaming burst weapon deals an extra 1d10 points of fire damage on a successful critical hit. If the weapon's critical multiplier is x3, add an extra 2d10 points of fire damage instead, and if the multiplier is x4, add an extra 3d10 points of fire damage. Bows, crossbows, and slings so crafted bestow the fire energy upon their ammunition.

Even if the flaming ability is not active, the weapon still deals its extra fire damage on a successful critical hit.

Strong evocation; CL 12th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor and flame blade, flame strike, or fireball; Price +2 bonus.

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
Frost: Upon command, a frost weapon is sheathed in icy cold. The cold does not harm the wielder. The effect remains until another command is given. A frost weapon deals an extra 1d6 points of cold damage on a successful hit. Bows, crossbows, and slings so crafted bestow the cold energy upon their ammunition. Moderate evocation; CL 8th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, chill metal or ice storm; Price +1 bonus.			Merciful: The weapon deals an extra 1d6 points of damage, and all damage it deals is nonlethal damage. On command, the weapon suppresses this ability until commanded to resume it. Bows, crossbows, and slings so crafted bestow the merciful effect upon their ammunition. Faint conjuration; CL 5th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, cure light wounds; Price +1 bonus.
Ghost Touch: A ghost touch weapon deals damage normally against incorporeal creatures, regardless of its bonus. (An incorporeal creature's 50% chance to avoid damage does not apply to attacks with ghost touch weapons.) The weapon can be picked up and moved by an incorporeal creature at any time. A manifesting ghost can wield the weapon against corporeal foes. Essentially, a ghost touch weapon counts as either corporeal or incorporeal at any given time, whichever is more beneficial to the wielder. Moderate conjuration; CL 9th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, plane shift; Price +1 bonus.			Mighty Cleaving: A mighty cleaving weapon allows a wielder with the Cleave feat to make one additional cleave attempt in a round. Moderate evocation; CL 8th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, divine power; Price +1 bonus.
Holy: A holy weapon is imbued with holy power. This power makes the weapon good-aligned and thus bypasses the corresponding damage reduction. It deals an extra 2d6 points of damage against all of evil alignment. It bestows one negative level on any evil creature attempting to wield it. The negative level remains as long as the weapon is in hand and disappears when the weapon is no longer wielded. This negative level never results in actual level loss, but it cannot be overcome in any way (including restoration spells) while the weapon is wielded. Bows, crossbows, and slings so crafted bestow the holy power upon their ammunition. Moderate evocation [good]; CL 7th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, holy smite, creator must be good; Price +2 bonus.			Returning: This special ability can only be placed on a weapon that can be thrown. A returning weapon flies through the air back to the creature that threw it. It returns to the thrower just before the creature's next turn (and is therefore ready to use again in that turn). Catching a returning weapon when it comes back is a free action. If the character can't catch it, or if the character has moved since throwing it, the weapon drops to the ground in the square from which it was thrown. Moderate transmutation; CL 7th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, telekinesis; Price +1 bonus.
Icy Burst: An icy burst weapon functions as a frost weapon that also explodes with frost upon striking a successful critical hit. The frost does not harm the wielder. In addition to the extra damage from the frost ability, an icy burst weapon deals an extra 1d10 points of cold damage on a successful critical hit. If the weapon's critical multiplier is x3, add an extra 2d10 points of cold damage instead, and if the multiplier is x4, add an extra 3d10 points. Bows, crossbows, and slings so crafted bestow the cold energy upon their ammunition. Even if the frost ability is not active, the weapon still deals its extra cold damage on a successful critical hit. Moderate evocation; CL 10th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, chill metal or ice storm; Price +2 bonus.			Seeking: Only ranged weapons can have the seeking ability. The weapon veers toward its target, negating any miss chances that would otherwise apply, such as from concealment. (The wielder still has to aim the weapon at the right square. Arrows mistakenly shot into an empty space, for example, do not veer and hit invisible enemies, even if they are nearby.) Strong divination; CL 12th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, true seeing; Price +1 bonus.
Keen: This ability doubles the threat range of a weapon. Only piercing or slashing weapons can be keen. (If you roll this property randomly for an inappropriate weapon, reroll.) This benefit doesn't stack with any other effect that expands the threat range of a weapon (such as the keen edge spell or the Improved Critical feat). Moderate transmutation; CL 10th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, keen edge; Price +1 bonus.			Shock: Upon command, a shock weapon is sheathed in crackling electricity. The electricity does not harm the wielder. The effect remains until another command is given. A shock weapon deals an extra 1d6 points of electricity damage on a successful hit. Bows, crossbows, and slings so crafted bestow the electricity energy upon their ammunition. Moderate evocation; CL 8th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, call lightning or lightning bolt; Price +1 bonus.
Ki Focus: The magic weapon serves as a channel for the wielder's ki, allowing her to use her special ki attacks through the weapon as if they were unarmed attacks. These attacks include the monk's stunning attack, ki strike, and quivering palm, as well as the Stunning Fist feat. Only melee weapons can have the ki focus ability. Moderate transmutation; CL 8th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, creator must be a monk; Price +1 bonus.			Shocking Burst: A shocking burst weapon functions as a shock weapon that also explodes with electricity upon striking a successful critical hit. The electricity does not harm the wielder. In addition to the extra electricity damage from the shock ability, a shocking burst weapon deals an extra 1d10 points of electricity damage on a successful critical hit. If the weapon's critical multiplier is x3, add an extra 2d10 points of electricity damage instead, and if the multiplier is x4, add an extra 3d10 points. Bows, crossbows, and slings so crafted bestow the electricity energy upon their ammunition. Even if the shock ability is not active, the weapon still deals its extra electricity damage on a successful critical hit. Moderate evocation; CL 10th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, call lightning or lightning bolt; Price +2 bonus.
			Speed: When making a full attack action, the wielder of a speed weapon may make one extra attack with it. The attack uses the wielder's full base attack bonus, plus any modifiers appropriate to the situation. (This benefit is not cumulative with similar effects, such as a haste spell.)

Moderate transmutation; CL 7th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, haste; Price +3 bonus.

Spell Storing: A spell storing weapon allows a spellcaster to store a single targeted spell of up to 3rd level in the weapon. (The spell must have a casting time of 1 standard action.) Any time the weapon strikes a creature and the creature takes damage from it, the weapon can immediately cast the spell on that creature as a free action if the wielder desires. (This special ability is an exception to the general rule that casting a spell from an item takes at least as long as casting that spell normally.) Once the spell has been cast from the weapon, a spellcaster can cast any other targeted spell of up to 3rd level into it. The weapon magically imparts to the wielder the name of the spell currently stored within it. A randomly rolled spell storing weapon has a 50% chance to have a spell stored in it already.

Strong evocation (plus aura of stored spell); CL 12th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, creator must be a caster of at least 12th level; Price +1 bonus.

Thundering: A thundering weapon creates a cacophonous roar like thunder upon striking a successful critical hit. The sonic energy does not harm the wielder. A thundering weapon deals an extra 1d8 points of sonic damage on a successful critical hit. If the weapon's critical multiplier is x3, add an extra 2d8 points of sonic damage instead, and if the multiplier is x4, add an extra 3d8 points of sonic damage. Bows, crossbows, and slings so crafted bestow the sonic energy upon their ammunition. Subjects dealt a critical hit by a thundering weapon must make a DC 14 Fortitude save or be deafened permanently.

Faint necromancy; CL 5th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, blindness/deafness; Price +1 bonus.

Throwing: This ability can only be placed on a melee weapon. A melee weapon crafted with this ability gains a range increment of 10 feet and can be thrown by a wielder proficient in its normal use.

Faint transmutation; CL 5th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, magic stone; Price +1 bonus.

Unholy: An unholy weapon is imbued with unholy power. This power makes the weapon evil-aligned and thus bypasses the corresponding damage reduction. It deals an extra 2d6 points of damage against all of good alignment. It bestows one negative level on any good creature attempting to wield it. The negative level remains as long as the weapon is in hand and disappears when the weapon is no longer wielded. This negative level never results in actual level loss, but it cannot be overcome in any way (including restoration spells) while the weapon is wielded. Bows, crossbows, and slings so crafted bestow the unholy power upon their ammunition.

Moderate evocation [evil]; CL 7th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, unholy blight, creator must be evil; Price +2 bonus.

Vicious: When a vicious weapon strikes an opponent, it creates a flash of disruptive energy that resonates between the opponent and the wielder. This energy deals an extra 2d6 points of damage to the opponent and 1d6 points of damage to the wielder. Only melee weapons can be vicious.

Moderate necromancy; CL 9th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, enervation; Price +1 bonus.

Vorpal: This potent and feared ability allows the weapon to sever the heads of those it strikes. Upon a roll of natural 20 (followed by a successful roll to confirm the critical hit), the weapon severs the opponent's head (if it has one) from its body. Some creatures, such as many aberrations and all oozes, have no heads. Others, such as golems and undead creatures other than vampires, are not affected by the loss of their heads. Most other creatures, however, die when their heads are cut off. A vorpal weapon must be a slashing weapon. (If you roll this property randomly for an inappropriate weapon, reroll.)

Strong necromancy and transmutation; CL 18th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, circle of death, keen edge; Price +5 bonus.

Wounding: A wounding weapon deals 1 point of Constitution damage from blood loss when it hits a creature. A critical hit does not multiply the Constitution damage. Creatures immune to critical hits (such as plants and constructs) are immune to the Constitution damage dealt by this weapon.

Moderate evocation; CL 10th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, mage's sword; Price +2 bonus.

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
No aura (nonmagical); Price 3,002 gp.			Faint evocation; CL 5th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, lightning bolt ; Price 1,500 gp; Cost 750 gp + 30 XP.
Assassin's Dagger: This wicked-looking, curved +2 dagger provides a +1 bonus to the DC of a Fortitude save forced by the death attack of an assassin.			Life-Drinker: This +1 greataxe is favored by undead and constructs, who do not suffer its drawback. A life-drinker bestows two negative levels on its target whenever it deals damage, just as if its target had been struck by an undead creature. One day after being struck, subjects must make a DC 16 Fortitude save for each negative level or lose a character level.
Moderate necromancy; CL 9th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, slay living ; Price 18,302 gp; Cost 9,302 gp + 720 XP.			Each time a life-drinker deals damage to a foe, it also bestows one negative level on the wielder. Any negative level gained by the wielder in this fashion lasts for 1 hour.
Dagger of Venom: This black +1 dagger has a serrated edge. It allows the wielder to use a poison effect (as the spell, save DC 14) upon a creature struck by the blade once per day. The wielder can decide to use the power after he has struck. Doing so is a free action, but the poison effect must be invoked in the same round that the dagger strikes.			Strong necromancy; CL 13th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, enervation ; Price 40,320 gp; Cost 20,320 gp + 1,600 XP.
Faint necromancy; CL 5th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, poison ; Price 8,302 gp; Cost 4,302 gp + 320 XP.			Luck Blade: This +2 short sword gives its possessor a +1 luck bonus on all saving throws. Its possessor also gains the power of good fortune, usable once per day. This extraordinary ability allows its possessor to reroll one roll that she just made. She must take the result of the reroll, even if it's worse than the original roll. In addition, a luck blade may contain up to three wishes (when randomly rolled, a luck blade holds 1d4-1 wishes , minimum 0). When the last wish is used, the sword remains a +2 short sword , still grants the +1 luck bonus, and still grants its reroll power.
Dwarven Thrower: This weapon commonly functions as a +2 warhammer . In the hands of a dwarf, the warhammer gains an additional +1 enhancement bonus (for a total enhancement bonus of +3) and gains the returning special ability. It can be hurled with a 30-foot range increment. When hurled, it deals an extra 2d8 points of damage against giants or an extra 1d8 points of damage against any other target.			Strong evocation; CL 17th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, wish or miracle ; Price 22,060 gp (0 wishes), 62,360 gp (1 wish), 102,660 gp (2 wishes), 142,960 gp (3 wishes); Cost 11,030 gp + 882 XP (0 wishes), 31,180 gp + 2,494 XP (1 wish); 51,330 gp + 4,106 XP (2 wishes), 71,480 gp + 5,718 XP (3 wishes).
Moderate evocation; CL 10th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, creator must be a dwarf of at least 10th level; Price 60,312 gp; Cost 30,312 gp + 2,400 XP.			Mace of Smiting: This +3 adamantine heavy mace has a +5 enhancement bonus against constructs, and any critical hit dealt to a construct completely destroys it (no saving throw). A critical hit dealt to an outsider deals x4 damage rather than x2.
Flame Tongue: This is a +1 flaming burst longsword . Once per day, the sword can blast forth a fiery ray at any target within 30 feet as a ranged touch attack. The ray deals 4d6 points of fire damage on a successful hit.			Moderate transmutation; CL 11th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, disintegrate ; Price 75,312 gp; Cost 39,312 gp + 2,880 XP.
Moderate evocation; CL 12th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, scorching ray , and flame blade , flame strike , or fireball ; Price 20,715 gp; Cost 10,515 gp + 816 XP.			Mace of Terror: On command, this +2 heavy mace causes the wielder's clothes and appearance to transform into an illusion of darkest horror such that living creatures in a 30-foot cone become panicked as if by a fear spell (Will DC 16 partial). They take a -2 morale penalty on saving throws, and they flee from the wielder. The wielder may use this ability up to three times per day.
Frost Brand: This +3 frost greatsword sheds light as a torch when the temperature drops below 0°F. At such times it cannot be concealed when drawn, nor can its light be shut off. Its wielder is protected from fire; the sword absorbs the first 10 points of fire damage each round that the wielder would otherwise take.			Strong necromancy; CL 13th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, fear ; Price 38,552 gp; Cost 19,276 gp + 1,542 XP.
A frost brand extinguishes all nonmagical fires in its area. As a standard action, it can also dispel lasting fire spells, but not instantaneous effects, though you must succeed on a dispel check (1d20 +14) against each spell to dispel it. The DC to dispel such spells is 11 + the caster level of the fire spell.			Masterwork Cold Iron Longsword: This nonmagical longsword is crafted out of cold iron. As a masterwork weapon, it has a +1 enhancement bonus on attack rolls.
Strong evocation; CL 14th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, ice storm , dispel magic , protection from energy ; Price 54,475 gp; Cost 27,375 gp and 5 sp + 2179 XP.			No aura (nonmagical); Price 330 gp.
Holy Avenger: This +2 cold iron longsword becomes a +5 holy cold iron longsword in the hands of a paladin.			Nine Lives Stealer: This longsword always performs as a +2 longsword , but it also has the power to draw the life force from an opponent. It can do this nine times before the ability is lost. At that point, the sword becomes a simple +2 longsword (with a hint of evil about it). A critical hit must be dealt for the sword's death-dealing ability to function, and this weapon has no effect on creatures not subject to critical hits. The victim is entitled to a DC 20 Fortitude save to avoid death. If the save is successful, the sword's death-dealing ability does not function, no use of the ability is expended, and normal critical damage is determined. This sword is evil, and any good character attempting to wield it gains two negative levels. These
It provides spell resistance of 5 + the paladin's level to the wielder and anyone adjacent to her. It also enables the wielder to use greater dispel magic (once per round as a standard action) at the class level of the paladin. (Only the area dispel is possible, not the targeted dispel or counterspell versions of greater dispel magic .)
Strong abjuration; CL 18th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, holy aura , creator must be good; Price 120,630 gp; Cost 60,630 gp + 4,800 XP.
Javelin of Lightning: This javelin becomes a 5d6 lightning bolt when thrown (Reflex DC 14 half). It is consumed in the attack.

negative levels remain as long as the sword is in hand and disappear when the sword is no longer wielded. These negative levels never result in actual level loss, but they cannot be overcome in any way (including restoration spells) while the sword is wielded.

Strong necromancy [evil]; CL 13th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, finger of death; Price 23,057 gp; Cost 11,528 gp 5 sp + 922 XP.

Oathbow: Of elven make, this white +2 composite longbow (+2 Str bonus) whispers “Swift defeat to my enemies” in Elven when nocked and pulled. Once per day, if the firer swears aloud to slay her target (a free action), the bow’s whisper becomes the low shout “Swift death to those who have wronged me.” Against such a sworn enemy, the bow has a +5 enhancement bonus, and arrows launched from it deal an additional 2d6 points of damage (and x4 on a critical hit instead of the normal x3). However, the bow is treated as only a masterwork weapon against all foes other than the sworn enemy, and the wielder takes a -1 penalty on attack rolls with any weapon other than the oathbow. These bonuses and penalties last for seven days or until the sworn enemy is slain or destroyed by the wielder of the oathbow, whichever comes first.

The oathbow may only have one sworn enemy at a time. Once the wielder swears to slay a target, he cannot make a new oath until he has slain that target or seven days have passed. Even if the wielder slays the sworn enemy on the same day that he makes the oath, he cannot activate the oathbow’s special power again until 24 hours have passed from the time he made the oath.

Strong evocation; CL 15th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, creator must be an elf; Price 25,600 gp; Cost 13,100 gp + 1,000 XP.

Rapier of Puncturing: Three times per day, this +2 wounding rapier allows the wielder to make a touch attack with the weapon that deals 1d6 points of Constitution damage by draining blood. Creatures immune to critical hits are immune to the Constitution damage dealt by this weapon.

Strong necromancy; CL 13th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, harm; Price 50,320 gp; Cost 25,320 gp + 2,000 XP.

Screaming Bolt: One of these +2 bolts screams when fired, forcing all enemies of the wielder within 20 feet of the path of the bolt to succeed on a DC 14 Will save or become shaken. This is a mind-affecting fear effect.

Faint enchantment; CL 5th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, doom; Price 267gp; Cost 128 gp and 5 sp + 10 XP.

Shatterspike: Wielders without the Improved Sunder feat use Shatterspike as a +1 longsword only; wielders with the Improved Sunder feat add a +4 bonus (including the sword’s +1 enhancement bonus) to the opposed roll when attempting to strike a foe’s weapon. If successful, Shatterspike deals 1d8+4 points of damage plus the wielder’s Strength modifier to the target weapon (the target weapon’s hardness must still be overcome with each hit). Shatterspike can damage weapons with an enhancement bonus of +4 or lower.

Strong evocation; CL 13th; Str 13, Craft Arms and Armor, Power Attack, Improved Sunder, shatter; Price 4,315 gp; Cost 2,315 gp + 160 XP; Weight 4 lb.

Shifter’s Sorrow: This +1/+1 two-bladed sword has blades of alchemical silver. The weapon deals an extra 2d6 points of damage against any creature with the shapechanger subtype. When a shapechanger or a creature in an alternate form (such as a druid using wild shape) is struck by the weapon, it must make a DC 15 Will save or return to its natural form.

Strong transmutation; CL 15th; Craft Arms and Armor, baneful polymorph; Price 12,780 gp; Cost 6,780 gp + 480 XP; Weight 10 lb.

Silver Dagger, Masterwork: This masterwork alchemical silver dagger is nonmagical. As a masterwork weapon, it has a +1 enhancement bonus on attack rolls.

No aura (nonmagical); Price 322 gp.

Slaying Arrow: This +1 arrow is keyed to a particular type or subtype of creature. If it strikes such a creature, the target must make a DC 20 Fortitude save or die (or, in the case of unliving targets, be destroyed) instantly. Note that even creatures normally exempt from Fortitude saves (undead and constructs) are subject to this attack. When keyed to a living creature, this is a death effect (and thus death ward protects a target). To determine the type or subtype of creature the arrow is keyed to, roll on the table below.

A greater slaying arrow functions just like a normal slaying arrow, but the DC to avoid the death effect is 23.

Strong necromancy; CL 13th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, finger of death (slaying arrow) or heightened finger of death (greater slaying arrow); Price 2,282 gp (slaying arrow) or 4,057 gp (greater slaying arrow); Cost 1,144 gp 5 sp + 91 XP (slaying arrow) or 2,032 gp + 162 XP (greater slaying arrow).

Sleep Arrow: This +1 arrow is painted white and has white fletching. If it strikes a foe so that it would normally deal damage, it instead bursts into magical energy that deals nonlethal damage (in the same amount as would be lethal damage) and forces the target to make a DC 11 Will save or fall asleep.

Faint enchantment; CL 5th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, sleep; Price 132 gp; Cost 69 gp 5 sp + 5 XP.

Sun Blade: This sword is the size of a bastard sword. However, a sun blade is wielded as if it were a short sword with respect to weight and ease of use. (In other words, the weapon appears to all viewers to be a bastard sword, and deals bastard sword damage, but the wielder feels and reacts as if the weapon were a short sword.) Any individual able to use either a bastard sword or a short sword with proficiency is proficient in the use of a sun blade. Likewise, Weapon Focus and Weapon Specialization in short sword and bastard sword apply equally, but the benefits of those feats do not stack.

In normal combat, the glowing golden blade of the weapon is equal to a +2 bastard sword. Against evil creatures, its enhancement bonus is +4. Against Negative Energy Plane creatures or undead creatures, the sword deals double damage (and x3 on a critical hit instead of the usual x2).

The blade also has a special sunlight power. Once per day, the wielder can swing the blade vigorously above her head while speaking a command word. The sunblade then sheds a bright yellow radiance that is like full daylight. The radiance begins shining in a 10-foot radius around the sword wielder and extends outward at 5 feet per round for 10 rounds thereafter, to create a globe of light with a 60-foot radius. When the wielder stops swinging, the radiance fades to a dim glow that persists for another minute before disappearing entirely. All sun blades are of good alignment, and any evil creature attempting to wield one gains one negative level. The negative level remains as long as the sword is in hand and disappears when the sword is no longer wielded. This negative level never results in actual level loss, but it cannot be overcome in any way (including restoration spells) while the sword is wielded.

Moderate evocation; CL 10th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, daylight, creator must be good; Price 50,335 gp; Cost 25,335 gp + 2,000 XP.

Sword of Life Stealing: This black iron +2 longsword bestows a negative level when it deals a critical hit. The sword wielder gains 1d6 temporary hit points each time a negative level is bestowed on another. These temporary hit points last for 24 hours. One day after being struck, subjects must make a DC 16 Fortitude save for each negative level or lose a character level.

Strong necromancy; CL 17th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, ervation; Price 25,715 gp; Cost 12,857 gp and 5 sp + 1,029 XP.

Sword of the Planes: This longsword has an enhancement bonus of +1 on the Material Plane, but on any Elemental Plane its enhancement bonus increases to +2. (The +2 enhancement bonus also applies on the Material Plane when the weapon is used against elementals.) It operates as a +3 longsword on the Astral Plane or the Ethereal Plane or when used against opponents native to either of those planes. On any other plane, or against any outsider, it functions as a +4 longsword.

Strong evocation; CL 15th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, plane shift; Price 22,315 gp; Cost 11,157 gp and 5 sp + 893 XP.

Sword of Subtlety: A +1 short sword with a thin, dull gray blade, this weapon provides a +4 bonus on its wielder's attack and damage rolls when he is making a sneak attack with it.

Moderate illusion; CL 7th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, blur; Price 22,310 gp; Cost 11,155 gp + 892 XP.

Sylvan Scimitar: This +3 scimitar, when used outdoors in a temperate climate, grants its wielder the use of the Cleave feat and deals an extra 1d6 points of damage.

Moderate evocation; CL 11th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, divine power or creator must be a 7th-level druid; Price 47,315gp; Cost 23,657 gp and 5 sp + 1,893 XP.

Trident of Fish Command: The magical properties of this +1 trident with a 6-foot-long haft enable its wielder to charm up to 14 HD of aquatic animals (Will DC 16 negates, animals get a +5 bonus if currently under attack by the wielder or his allies), no two of which can be more than 30 feet apart. The wielder can use this effect up to three times per day. The wielder can communicate with the animals as if using a speak with animals spell. Animals making their saving throw are free of control, but they will not approach within 10 feet of the trident. The trident can be used up to three times per day.

Moderate enchantment; CL 7th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, speak with animals; Price 18,650 gp; Cost 9,325 gp + 746 XP.

Trident of Warning: A weapon of this type enables its wielder to determine the location, depth, kind, and number of aquatic predators within 680 feet. A trident of warning must be grasped and pointed in order for the character using it to gain such information, and it requires 1 round to scan a hemisphere with a radius of 680 feet. The weapon is otherwise a +2 trident.

Moderate divination; CL 7th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, locate creature; Price 10,115 gp; Cost 5,057 gp and 5 sp + 405 XP.

MAGIC ITEMS III (POTIONS, RINGS, & RODS)

POTIONS AND OILS

A potion is a magic liquid that produces its effect when imbibed. Magic oils are similar to potions, except that oils are applied externally rather than imbibed. A potion or oil can be used only once. It can duplicate the effect of a spell of up to 3rd level that has a casting time of less than 1 minute.

Potions are like spells cast upon the imbiber. The character taking the potion doesn't get to make any decisions about the effect—the caster who brewed the potion has already done so. The drinker of a potion is both the effective target and the caster of the effect (though the potion indicates the caster level, the drinker still controls the effect).

The person applying an oil is the effective caster, but the object is the target.

Physical Description: A typical potion or oil consists of 1 ounce of liquid held in a ceramic or glass vial fitted with a tight stopper. The stoppered container is usually no more than 1 inch wide and 2 inches high. The vial has AC 13, 1 hit point, hardness 1, and a break DC of 12. Vials hold 1 ounce of liquid.

Identifying Potions: In addition to the standard methods of identification, PCs can sample from each container they find to attempt to determine the nature of the liquid inside. An experienced character learns to identify potions by memory—for example, the last time she tasted a liquid that reminded her of almonds, it turned out to be a potion of cure moderate wounds.

Activation: Drinking a potion or applying an oil requires no special skill. The user merely removes the stopper and swallows the potion or smears on the oil. The following rules govern potion and oil use.

Drinking a potion or using an oil on an item of gear is a standard action. The potion or oil takes effect immediately. Using a potion or oil provokes attacks of opportunity. A successful attack (including grappling attacks) against the character forces a Concentration check (as for casting a spell). If the character fails this check, she cannot drink the potion. An enemy may direct an attack of opportunity against the potion or oil container rather than against the character. A successful attack of this sort can destroy the container.

A creature must be able to swallow a potion or smear on an oil. Because of this, incorporeal creatures cannot use potions or oils.

Any corporeal creature can imbibe a potion. The potion must be swallowed. Any corporeal creature can use an oil.

A character can carefully administer a potion to an unconscious creature as a full-round action, trickling the liquid down the creature's throat. Likewise, it takes a full-round action to apply an oil to an unconscious creature.

POTION DESCRIPTIONS

The caster level for a standard potion is the minimum caster level needed to cast the spell (unless otherwise specified).

RINGS

Rings bestow magical powers upon their wearers. Only a rare few have charges. Anyone can use a ring.

A character can only effectively wear two magic rings. A third magic ring doesn't work if the wearer is already wearing two magic rings.

Physical Description: Rings have no appreciable weight. Although exceptions exist that are crafted from glass or bone, the vast majority of rings are forged from metal—usually precious metals such as gold, silver, and platinum. A ring has AC 13, 2 hit points, hardness 10, and a break DC of 25.

Activation: Usually, a ring's ability is activated by a command word (a standard action that does not provoke attacks of opportunity) or it works continually. Some rings have exceptional activation methods, according to their descriptions.

Special Qualities: Roll d%. A result of 01 indicates the ring is intelligent, 02–31 indicates that something (a design, inscription, or the like) provides a clue to its function, and 32–100 indicates no special qualities. Intelligent items have extra abilities and sometimes extraordinary powers and special purposes. Rings with charges can never be intelligent.

Table: Rings

Minor	Medium	Major	Ring	Market Price
01–18	—	—	Protection +1	2,000 gp
19–28	—	—	Feather falling	2,200 gp

RING DESCRIPTIONS

Standard rings are described below.

Animal Friendship: On command, this ring affects an animal as if the wearer had cast charm animal.

Faint enchantment; CL 3rd; Forge Ring, charm animal; Price 10,800 gp.

Blinking: On command, this ring makes the wearer blink, as with the blink spell.

Moderate transmutation; CL 7th; Forge Ring, blink; Price 27,000 gp.

Chameleon Power: As a free action, the wearer of this ring can gain the ability to magically blend in with the surroundings. This provides a +10 competence bonus on her Hide checks. As a standard action, she can also command the ring to utilize the spell disguise self as often as she wants.

Faint illusion; CL 3rd; Forge Ring, disguise self, invisibility; Price 12,700 gp.

Climbing: This ring is actually a magic leather cord that ties around a finger. It continually grants the wearer a +5 competence bonus on Climb checks.

Faint transmutation; CL 5th; Forge Ring, creator must have 5 ranks in the Climb skill; Price 2,500 gp.

Climbing, Improved: As climbing, except it grants a +10 competence bonus on its wearer’s Climb checks.

Faint transmutation; CL 5th; Forge Ring, creator must have 10 ranks in the Climb skill; Price 10,000 gp.

Counterspells: This ring might seem to be a ring of spell storing upon first examination. However, while it allows a single spell of 1st through 6th level to be cast into it, that spell cannot be cast out of the ring again. Instead, should that spell ever be cast upon the wearer, the spell is immediately countered, as a counterspell action, requiring no action (or even knowledge) on the wearer’s part. Once so used, the spell cast within the ring is gone. A new spell (or the same one as before) may be placed in it again.

Moderate evocation; CL 11th; Forge Ring, imbue with spell abil- ity; Price 4,000 gp.

Djinni Calling: One of the many rings of fable, this “genie” ring is most useful indeed. It serves as a special gate by means of which a specific djinni can be called from the Elemental Plane of Air. When the ring is rubbed (a standard action), the call goes out, and the djinni appears on the next round. The djinni faithfully obeys and serves the wearer of the ring, but never for more than 1 hour per day. If the djinni of the ring is ever killed, the ring becomes nonmagical and worthless.

Strong conjuration; CL 17th; Forge Ring, gate; Price 125,000 gp.

Elemental Command: All four kinds of elemental command rings are very powerful. Each appears to be nothing more than a lesser magic ring until fully activated (by meeting a special condition, such as single-handedly slaying an elemental of the appropriate type or exposure to a sacred material of the appropriate element), but each has certain other powers as well as the following common properties.

Elementals of the plane to which the ring is attuned can’t attack the wearer, or even approach within 5 feet of him. If the wearer desires, he may forego this protection and instead attempt to charm the elemental (as charm monster; Will DC 17 negates). If the charm attempt fails, however, absolute protection is lost and no further attempt at charming can be made.

Creatures from the plane to which the ring is attuned who attack the wearer take a –1 penalty on their attack rolls. The ring wearer makes applicable saving throws from the extraplanar creature’s attacks with a +2 resistance bonus. He gains a +4 morale bonus on all attack rolls against such creatures. Any weapon he uses bypasses the damage reduction of such creatures, regardless of any qualities the weapon may or may not have.

The wearer of the ring is able to converse with creatures from the plane to which his ring is attuned. These creatures recognize that he wears the ring. They show a healthy respect for the wearer if alignments are similar. If alignments are opposed, creatures fear the wearer if he is strong. If he is weak, they hate and desire to slay him.

The possessor of a ring of elemental command takes a saving throw penalty as follows:

Element	Saving Throw Penalty
Air	+2 against earth-based effects
Earth	+2 against air- or electricity-based effects
Fire	+2 against water- or cold-based effects
Water	+2 against fire-based effects

In addition to the powers described above, each specific ring gives its wearer the following abilities according to its kind.

Ring of Elemental Command (Air)

- Feather fall (unlimited use, wearer only)
- Resist energy (electricity) (unlimited use, wearer only)
- Gust of wind (twice per day)
- Wind wall (unlimited use)
- Air walk (once per day, wearer only)
- Chain lightning (once per week)

The ring appears to be a ring of feather falling until a certain condition is met to activate its full potential. It must be reactivated each time a new wearer acquires it.

Ring of Elemental Command (Earth)

- Meld into stone (unlimited use, wearer only)
- Soften earth or stone (unlimited use)

This effect has no range limitation. Moderate abjuration; CL 10th; Forge Ring, shield other; Price 50,000 gp (for a pair). Invisibility: By activating this simple silver ring, the wearer can benefit from invisibility, as the spell. Faint illusion; CL 3rd; Forge Ring, invisibility; Price 20,000 gp. Jumping: This ring continually allows the wearer to leap about, providing a +5 competence bonus on all his Jump checks. Faint transmutation; CL 2nd; Forge Ring, creator must have 5 ranks in the Jump skill; Price 2,500 gp. Jumping, Improved: As jumping, except it grants a +10 competence bonus on its wearer’s Jump check. Moderate transmutation; CL 7th; Forge Ring, creator must have 10 ranks in the Jump skill; Price 10,000 gp. Mind Shielding: This ring is usually of fine workmanship and wrought from heavy gold. It has the head of a ram as its device. The wearer can command the ring to give forth a ramlike force, manifested by a vaguely discernible shape that resembles the head of a ram or a goat. This force strikes a single target, dealing 1d6 points of damage if 1 charge is expended, 2d6 points if 2 charges are used, or 3d6 points if 3 charges (the maximum) are used. Treat this as a ranged attack with a 50-foot maximum range and no penalties for distance. The force of the blow is considerable, and those struck by the ring are subject to a bull rush if within 30 feet of the ring-wearer. (The ram has Strength 25 and is Large.) The ram gains a +1 bonus on the bull rush attempt if 2 charges are expended, or +2 if 3 charges are expended. In addition to its attack mode, the ring of the ram also has the power to open doors as if it were a character with Strength 25. If 2 charges are expended, the effect is equivalent to a character with Strength 27. When all the charges are expended, the ring becomes a nonmagical item. Moderate transmutation; CL 9th; Forge Ring, bull’s strength, telekinesis; Price 8,600 gp.

Regeneration: This white gold ring continually allows a living wearer to heal 1 point of damage per level every hour rather than every day. (This ability cannot be aided by the Heal skill.) Nonlethal damage heals at a rate of 1 point of damage per level every 5 minutes. If the wearer loses a limb, an organ, or any other body part while wearing this ring, the ring regenerates it as the spell. In either case, only damage taken while wearing the ring is regenerated.

Strong conjuration; CL 15th; Forge Ring, regenerate; Price 90,000 gp.

Shooting Stars: This ring has two modes of operation, one for being in shadowy darkness or outdoors at night and a second one when the wearer is underground or indoors at night.

During the night under the open sky or in areas of shadow or darkness, the ring of shooting stars can perform the following functions on command.

- Dancing lights (once per hour)
- Light (twice per night)
- Ball lightning (special, once per night)
- Shooting stars (special, three per week)

The first special function, ball lightning, releases one to four balls of lightning (ring wearer's choice). These glowing globes resemble dancing lights, and the ring wearer controls them in the same fashion (see the dancing lights spell description). The spheres have a 120-foot range and a duration of 4 rounds. They can be moved at 120 feet per round. Each sphere is about 3 feet in diameter, and any creature who comes within 5 feet of one causes its charge to dissipate, taking electricity damage in the process according to the number of balls created.

Number of Balls	Damage per Ball
4 lightning balls	1d6 points of damage each
3 lightning balls	2d6 points of damage each
2 lightning balls	3d6 points of damage each
1 lightning ball	4d6 points of damage

Once the ball lightning function is activated, the balls can be released at any time before the sun rises. (Multiple balls can be released in the same round.)

The second special function produces three shooting stars that can be released from the ring each week, simultaneously or one at a time. They impact for 12 points of damage and spread (as a fireball) in a 5-foot-radius sphere for 24 points of fire damage.

Any creature struck by a shooting star takes full damage from impact plus full fire damage from the spread unless it makes a DC 13 Reflex save. Creatures not struck but within the spread ignore the impact damage and take only half damage from the fire spread on a successful DC 13 Reflex save. Range is 70 feet, at the end of which the shooting star explodes, unless it strikes a creature or object before that. A shooting star always follows a straight line, and any creature in its path must make a save or be hit by the projectile.

Indoors at night, or underground, the ring of shooting stars has the following properties.

- Faerie fire (twice per day)
- Spark shower (special, once per day)

The spark shower is a flying cloud of sizzling purple sparks that fan out from the ring for a distance of 20 feet in an arc 10 feet wide. Creatures within this area take 2d8 points of damage each if not wearing metal armor or carrying a metal weapon. Those wearing metal armor and/or carrying a metal weapon take 4d8 points of damage.

Strong evocation; CL 12th; Forge Ring, light, faerie fire, fireball, lightning bolt; Price 50,000 gp.

Spell Storing, Minor: A minor ring of spell storing contains up to three levels of spells that the wearer can cast. Each spell has a caster level equal to the minimum level needed to cast that spell. The user need not provide any material components or focus, or pay an XP cost to cast the spell, and there is no arcane spell failure chance for wearing armor (because the ring wearer need not gesture). The activation time for the ring is same as the casting time for the relevant spell, with a minimum of 1 standard action.

For a randomly generated ring, treat it as a scroll to determine what spells are stored in it. If you roll a spell that would put the ring over the three-level limit, ignore that roll; the ring has no more spells in it. (Not every newly discovered ring need be fully charged.)

A spellcaster can cast any spells into the ring, so long as the total spell levels do not add up to more than three. Metamagic versions of spells take up storage space equal to their spell level modified by the metamagic feat. A spellcaster can use a scroll to put a spell into the minor ring of spell storing.

The ring magically imparts to the wearer the names of all spells currently stored within it.

Faint evocation; CL 5th; Forge Ring, imbue with spell ability; Price 18,000 gp.

Spell Storing: As the minor ring of spell storing, except it holds up to five levels of spells.

Moderate evocation; CL 9th; Forge Ring, imbue with spell ability; Price 50,000 gp.

Spell Storing, Major: As the minor ring of spell storing, except it holds up to ten levels of spells.

Strong evocation; CL 17th; Forge Ring, imbue with spell ability; Price 200,000 gp.

Spell Turning: Up to three times per day on command, this simple platinum band automatically reflects the next nine levels of spells cast at the wearer, exactly as if spell turning had been cast upon the wearer.

Strong abjuration; CL 13th; Forge Ring, spell turning; Price 98,280 gp.

Sustenance: This ring continually provides its wearer with life-sustaining nourishment. The ring also refreshes the body and mind, so that its wearer needs only sleep 2 hours per day to gain the benefit of 8 hours of sleep. The ring must be worn for a full week before it begins to work. If it is removed, the owner must wear it for another week to reattune it to himself.

Faint conjuration; CL 5th; Forge Ring, create food and water; Price 2,500 gp.

Swimming: This silver ring has a wave pattern etched into the band. It continually grants the wearer a +5 competence bonus on Swim checks.

Faint transmutation; CL 2nd; Forge Ring, creator must have 5 ranks in the Swim skill; Price 2,500 gp.

Swimming, Improved: As swimming, except it grants a +10 competence bonus on its wearer's Swim checks.

Moderate transmutation; CL 7th; Forge Ring, creator must have 10 ranks in the Swim skill; Price 10,000 gp.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Telekinesis: This ring allows the caster to use the spell telekinesis on command.

Moderate transmutation; CL 9th; Forge Ring, telekinesis; Price 75,000 gp.

Three Wishes: This ring is set with three rubies. Each ruby stores a wish spell, activated by the ring. When a wish is used, that ruby disappears. For a randomly generated ring, roll 1d3 to determine the remaining number of rubies. When all the wishes are used, the ring becomes a nonmagical item.

Strong evocation (if miracle is used); CL 20th; Forge Ring, wish or miracle; Price 97,950 gp; Cost 11,475 gp + 15,918 XP.

Water Walking: This ring, set with an opal, allows the wearer to continually utilize the effects of the spell water walk.

Moderate transmutation; CL 9th; Forge Ring, water walk; Price 15,000 gp.

Wizardry: This special ring comes in four kinds (ring of wizardry I, ring of wizardry II, ring of wizardry III, and ring of wizardry IV), all of them useful only to arcane spellcasters. The wearer's arcane spells per day are doubled for one specific spell level. A ring of wizardry I doubles 1st-level spells, a ring of wizardry II doubles 2nd-level spells, a ring of wizardry III doubles 3rd-level spells, and a ring of wizardry IV doubles 4th-level spells. Bonus spells from high ability scores or school specialization are not doubled.

Moderate (wizardry I) or strong (wizardry II–IV) (no school); CL 11th (I), 14th (II), 17th (III), 20th (IV); Forge Ring, limited wish; Price 20,000 gp (I), 40,000 gp (II), 70,000 gp (III), 100,000 gp (IV).

X-Ray Vision: On command, this ring gives its possessor the ability to see into and through solid matter. Vision range is 20 feet, with the viewer seeing as if he were looking at something in normal light even if there is no illumination. X-ray vision can penetrate 1 foot of stone, 1 inch of common metal, or up to 3 feet of wood or dirt. Thicker substances or a thin sheet of lead blocks the vision.

Using the ring is physically exhausting, causing the wearer 1 point of Constitution damage per minute after the first 10 minutes of use in a single day.

Moderate divination; CL 6th; Forge Ring, true seeing; Price 25,000 gp.

RODS

Rods are scepterlike devices that have unique magical powers and do not usually have charges. Anyone can use a rod.

Physical Description: Rods weigh approximately 5 pounds.

They range from 2 feet to 3 feet long and are usually made of iron or some other metal. (Many, as noted in their descriptions, can function as light maces or clubs due to their sturdy construction.)

These sturdy items have AC 9, 10 hit points, hardness 10, and a break DC of 27.

Activation: Details relating to rod use vary from item to item. See the individual descriptions for specifics.

Special Qualities: Roll d%. A 01 result indicates the rod is intelligent, 02–31 indicates that something (a design, inscription, or the like) provides a clue to its function, and 32–100 indicates no special qualities. Intelligent items have extra abilities and sometimes extraordinary powers and special purposes.

Rods with charges can never be intelligent.

ROD DESCRIPTIONS

Although all rods are generally scepterlike, their configurations and abilities run the magical gamut. Standard rods are described below.

Absorption: This rod acts as a magnet, drawing spells or spell-like abilities into itself. The magic absorbed must be a single-target spell or a ray directed at either the character possessing the rod or her gear. The rod then nullifies the spell's effect and stores its potential until the wielder releases this energy in the form of spells of her own. She can instantly detect a spell's level as the rod absorbs that spell's energy. Absorption requires no action on the part of the user if the rod is in hand at the time.

A running total of absorbed (and used) spell levels should be kept. The wielder of the rod can use captured spell energy to cast any spell she has prepared, without expending the preparation itself. The only restrictions are that the levels of spell energy stored in the rod must be equal to or greater than the level of the spell the wielder wants to cast, that any material components required for the spell be present, and that the rod be in hand when casting. For casters such as bards or sorcerers who do not prepare spells, the rod's energy can be used to cast any spell of the appropriate level or levels that they know.

A rod of absorption absorbs a maximum of fifty spell levels and can thereafter only discharge any remaining potential it might have. The rod cannot be recharged. The wielder knows the rod's remaining absorbing potential and current amount of stored energy.

To determine the absorption potential remaining in a newly found rod, roll d% and divide the result by 2. Then roll d% again: On a result of 71–100, half the levels already absorbed by the rod are still stored within.

Strong abjuration; CL 15th; Craft Rod, spell turning; Price 50,000 gp.

Alertness: This rod is indistinguishable from a +1 light mace. It has eight flanges on its macelike head. The rod bestows a +1 insight bonus on initiative checks. If grasped firmly, the rod enables the holder to use detect evil, detect good, detect chaos, detect law, detect magic, discern lies, light, or see invisibility. Each different use is a standard action.

If the head of a rod of alertness is planted in the ground, and the possessor wills it to alertness (a standard action), the rod senses any creature within 120 feet who intends to harm the possessor. At the same time, the rod creates the effect of a prayer spell upon all creatures friendly to the possessor in a 20-foot radius. Immediately thereafter, the rod sends forth a mental alert to these friendly creatures, warning them of possible danger from the unfriendly creature or creatures within the 120-foot radius. These effects last for 10 minutes, and the rod can perform this function once per day. Last, the rod can be used to simulate the casting of an animate objects spell, utilizing any eleven (or fewer) Small objects located roughly around the perimeter of a 5-foot-radius circle centered on the rod when planted in the ground. Objects remain animated for 11 rounds. The rod can perform this function once per day.

Moderate abjuration, divination, enchantment, and evocation; CL 11th; Craft Rod, alarm, detect chaos, detect evil, detect good, detect law, detect magic, discern lies, light, see invisibility, prayer, animate objects; Price 85,000 gp.

Cancellation: This dreaded rod is a bane to magic items, for its touch drains an item of all magical properties. The item touched must make a DC 23 Will save to prevent the rod from draining it. If a creature is holding it at the time, then the item can use the holder's Will save bonus in place of its own if the holder's is better. In such cases, contact is made by making a melee touch attack roll. Upon draining an item, the rod itself becomes brittle and cannot be used again. Drained items are only restorable by wish or miracle. (If a sphere of annihilation and a rod of cancellation negate each other, nothing can restore either of them.)

Strong abjuration; CL 17th; Craft Rod, mage's disjunction; Price 11,000 gp.

Enemy Detection: This device pulses in the wielder's hand and points in the direction of any creature or creatures hostile to the bearer of the device (nearest ones first). These creatures can be invisible, ethereal, hidden, disguised, or in plain sight. Detection range is 60 feet. If the bearer of the rod concentrates for a full round, the rod pinpoints the location of the nearest enemy and indicates how many enemies are within range. The rod can be used three times each day, each use lasting up to 10 minutes. Activating the rod is a standard action.

Moderate divination; CL 10th; Craft Rod, true seeing; Price 23,500 gp.

Flailing: Upon the command of its possessor, the rod activates, changing from a normal-seeming rod to a +3 dire flail. The dire flail is a double weapon, which means that each of the weapon's heads can be used to attack. The wielder can gain an extra attack (with the second head) at the cost of making all attacks at a -2 penalty (as if she had the Two-Weapon Fighting feat).

Once per day the wielder can use a free action to cause the rod to grant her a +4 deflection bonus to Armor Class and a +4 resistance bonus on saving throws for 10 minutes. The rod need not be in weapon form to grant this benefit.

Transforming it into a weapon or back into a rod is a move action.

Moderate enchantment; CL 9th; Craft Rod, Craft Magic Arms and Armor, bless; Price 50,000 gp.

Flame Extinguishing: This rod can extinguish Medium or smaller nonmagical fires with simply a touch (a standard action). For the rod to be effective against other sorts of fires, the wielder must expend 1 or more of the rod's charges.

Extinguishing a Large or larger nonmagical fire, or a magic fire of Medium or smaller (such as that of a flaming weapon or a burning hands spell), expends 1 charge. Continual magic flames, such as those of a weapon or a fire creature, are suppressed for 6 rounds and flare up again after that time. To extinguish an instantaneous fire spell, the rod must be within the area of the effect and the wielder must have used a ready action, effectively countering the entire spell.

When applied to Large or larger magic fires, such as those caused by fireball, flame strike, or wall of fire, extinguishing the flames expends 2 charges from the rod.

If the device is used upon a fire creature (a melee touch attack), it deals 6d6 points of damage to the creature. This use requires 3 charges.

A rod of flame extinguishing has 10 charges when found. Spent charges are renewed every day, so that a wielder can expend up to 10 charges in any 24-hour period.

Strong transmutation; CL 12th; Craft Rod, pyrotechnics; Price 15,000 gp.

Immovable Rod: This rod is a flat iron bar with a small button on one end. When the button is pushed (a move action), the rod does not move from where it is, even if staying in place defies gravity. Thus, the owner can lift or place the rod wherever he wishes, push the button, and let go. Several immovable rods can even make a ladder when used together (although only two are needed). An immovable rod can support up to 8,000 pounds before falling to the ground. If a creature pushes against an immovable rod, it must make a DC 30 Strength check to move the rod up to 10 feet in a single round.

Moderate transmutation; CL 10th; Craft Rod, levitate; Price 5,000 gp.

Lordly Might: This rod has functions that are spell-like, and it can also be used as a magic weapon of various sorts. It also has several more mundane uses. The rod of lordly might is metal, thicker than other rods, with a flanged ball at one end and six studlike buttons along its length. (Pushing any of the rod's buttons is equivalent to drawing a weapon.) It weighs 10 pounds.

The following spell-like functions of the rod can each be used once per day.

- Hold person upon touch, if the wielder so commands (Will DC 14 negates). The wielder must choose to use this power and then succeed on a melee touch attack to activate the power. If the attack fails, the effect is lost.

- Fear upon all enemies viewing it, if the wielder so desires (10-foot maximum range, Will DC 16 partial). Invoking this power is a standard action.

- Deal 2d4 hit points of damage to an opponent on a successful touch attack (Will DC 17 half) and cure the wielder of a like amount of damage. The wielder must choose to use this power before attacking, as with hold person.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

The following weapon functions of the rod have no limit on the number of times they can be employed.

- In its normal form, the rod can be used as a +2 light mace.
- When button 1 is pushed, the rod becomes a +1 flaming longsword. A blade springs from the ball, with the ball itself becoming the sword's hilt. The weapon lengthens to an overall length of 4 feet.
- When button 2 is pushed, the rod becomes a +4 battleaxe. A wide blade springs forth at the ball, and the whole lengthens to 4 feet.
- When button 3 is pushed, the rod becomes a +3 shortspear or +3 longspear. The spear blade springs forth, and the handle can be lengthened up to 12 feet (wielder's choice), for an overall length of from 6 feet to 15 feet. At its 15-foot length, the rod is suitable for use as a lance.

The following other functions of the rod also have no limit on the number of times they can be employed.

- Climbing pole/ladder. When button 4 is pushed, a spike that can anchor in granite is extruded from the ball, while the other end sprouts three sharp hooks. The rod lengthens to anywhere between 5 and 50 feet in a single round, stopping when button 4 is pushed again. Horizontal bars three inches long fold out from the sides, 1 foot apart, in staggered progression. The rod is firmly held by the spike and hooks and can bear up to 4,000 pounds. The wielder can retract the pole by pushing button 5.
- The ladder function can be used to force open doors. The wielder plants the rod's base 30 feet or less from the portal to be forced and in line with it, then pushes button 4. The force exerted has a Strength modifier of +12.
- When button 6 is pushed, the rod indicates magnetic north and gives the wielder a knowledge of his approximate depth beneath the surface or height above it.

Strong enchantment, evocation, necromancy, and transmutation; CL 19th; Craft Rod, Craft Magic Arms and Armor, inflict light wounds, bull's strength, flame blade, hold person, fear; Price 70,000 gp.

Metal and Mineral Detection: This rod pulses in the wielder's hand and points to the largest mass of metal within 30 feet. However, the wielder can concentrate on a specific metal or mineral. If the specific mineral is within 30 feet, the rod points to any places it is located, and the rod wielder knows the approximate quantity as well. If more than one deposit of the specified metal or mineral is within range, the rod points to the largest cache first. Each operation requires a full-round action.

Moderate divination; CL 9th; Craft Rod, locate object; Price 10,500 gp.

Metamagic Rods: Metamagic rods hold the essence of a metamagic feat but do not change the spell slot of the altered spell. All the rods described here are use-activated (but casting spells in a threatened area still draws an attack of opportunity). A caster may only use one metamagic rod on any given spell, but it is permissible to combine a rod with metamagic feats possessed by the rod's wielder. In this case, only the feats possessed by the wielder adjust the spell slot of the spell being cast.

Possession of a metamagic rod does not confer the associated feat on the owner, only the ability to use the given feat a specified number of times per day. A sorcerer still must take a full-round action when using a metamagic rod, just as if using a metamagic feat he possesses.

Lesser and Greater Metamagic Rods: Normal metamagic rods can be used with spells of 6th level or lower. Lesser rods can be used with spells of 3rd level or lower, while greater rods can be used with spells of 9th level or lower.

Metamagic, Empower: The wielder can cast up to three spells per day that are empowered as though using the Empower Spell feat.

Strong (no school); CL 17th; Craft Rod, Empower Spell; Price 9,000 gp (lesser), 32,500 gp (normal), 73,000 gp (greater).

Metamagic, Enlarge: The wielder can cast up to three spells per day that are enlarged as though using the Enlarge Spell feat.

Strong (no school); CL 17th; Craft Rod, Enlarge Spell; Price 3,000 gp (lesser), 11,000 gp (normal), 24,500 gp (greater).

Metamagic, Extend: The wielder can cast up to three spells per day that are extended as though using the Extend Spell feat.

Strong (no school); CL 17th; Craft Rod, Extend Spell; Price 3,000 gp (lesser), 11,000 gp (normal), 24,500 gp (greater).

Metamagic, Maximize: The wielder can cast up to three spells per day that are maximized as though using the Maximize Spell feat.

Strong (no school); CL 17th; Craft Rod, Maximize Spell feat; Price 14,000 gp (lesser), 54,000 gp (normal), 121,500 gp (greater).

Metamagic, Quicken: The wielder can cast up to three spells per day that are quickened as though using the Quicken Spell feat.

Strong (no school); CL 17th; Craft Rod, Quicken Spell; Price 35,000 gp (lesser), 75,500 gp (normal), 170,000 gp (greater).

Metamagic, Silent: The wielder can cast up to three spells per day without verbal components as though using the Silent Spell feat.

Strong (no school); CL 17th; Craft Rod, Silent Spell; Price 3,000 gp (lesser), 11,000 gp (normal), 24,500 gp (greater).

Negation: This device negates the spell or spell-like function or functions of magic items. The wielder points the rod at the magic item, and a pale gray beam shoots forth to touch the target device, attacking as a ray (a ranged touch attack). The ray functions as a greater dispel magic spell, except it only affects magic items. To negate instantaneous effects from an item, the rod wielder needs to have used a ready action. The dispel check uses the rod's caster level (15th). The target item gets no saving throw, although the rod can't negate artifacts (even minor artifacts). The rod can function three times per day.

Strong varied; CL 15th; Craft Rod, dispel magic, and limited wish or miracle; Price 37,000 gp.

Python: This rod is longer than normal rods. It is about 4 feet long and weighs 10 pounds. It strikes as a +1/+1 quarterstaff. If the user throws the rod to the ground (a standard action), it grows to become a giant constrictor snake by the end of the round. The python obeys all commands of the owner. (In animal form, it retains the +1 enhancement bonus on attacks and damage possessed by the rod form.) The serpent returns to rod form (a full-round action) whenever the wielder desires, or whenever it moves farther than 100 feet from the owner. If the snake form is slain, it returns to rod form and cannot be activated again for three days. A python rod only functions if the possessor is good.

Moderate transmutation; CL 10th; Craft Rod, Craft Magic Arms and Armor, baleful polymorph, creator must be good; Price 13,000 gp.

Rulership: This rod looks like a royal scepter worth at least 5,000 gp in materials and workmanship alone. The wielder can command the obedience and fealty of creatures within 120 feet when she activates the device (a standard action). Creatures totaling 300 Hit Dice can be ruled, but creatures with Intelligence scores of 12 or higher are entitled to a DC 16 Will save to negate the effect. Ruled creatures obey the wielder as if she were their absolute sovereign. Still, if the wielder gives a command that is contrary to the nature of the creatures commanded, the magic is broken. The rod can be used for 500 total minutes before crumbling to dust. This duration need not be continuous.

Strong enchantment; CL 20th; Craft Rod, mass charm monster; Price 60,000 gp; Cost 27,500 gp + 2,200 XP.

Security: This item creates a nondimensional space, a pocket paradise. There the rod's possessor and as many as 199 other creatures can stay in complete safety for a period of time, up to 200 days divided by the number of creatures affected. All fractions are rounded down.

In this pocket paradise, creatures don't age, and natural healing take place at twice the normal rate. Fresh water and food (fruits and vegetables only) are in abundance. The climate is comfortable for all creatures involved.

Activating the rod (a standard action) causes the wielder and all creatures touching the rod to be transported instantaneously to the paradise. Members of large groups can hold hands or otherwise maintain physical contact, allowing all connected creatures in a circle or a chain to be affected by the rod. Unwilling creatures get a DC 17 Will save to negate the effect. If such a creature succeeds on its save, other creatures beyond that point in a chain can still be affected by the rod.

When the rod's effect expires or is dispelled, all the affected creatures instantly reappear in the location they occupied when the rod was activated. If something else occupies the space that a traveler would be returning to, then his body is displaced a sufficient distance to provide the space required for reentry. The rod's possessor can dismiss the effect whenever he wishes before the maximum time period expires, but the rod can only be activated once per week.

Strong conjuration; CL 20th; Craft Rod, gate; Price 61,000 gp.

Splendor: The possessor of this rod gains a +4 enhancement bonus to her Charisma score for as long as she holds or carries the item. Once per day, the rod creates and garbs her in clothing of the finest fabrics, plus adornments of furs and jewels.

Apparel created by the magic of the rod remains in existence for 12 hours. However, if the possessor attempts to sell or give away any part of it, to use it for a spell component, or the like, all the apparel immediately disappears. The same applies if any of it is forcibly taken from her.

The value of noble garb created by the rod ranges from 7,000 to 10,000 gp (1d4+6 x 1,000 gp)—1,000 gp for the fabric alone, 5,000 gp for the furs, and the rest for the jewel trim (maximum of twenty gems, maximum value 200 gp each).

In addition, the rod has a second special power, usable once per week. Upon command, it creates a palatial tent—a huge pavilion of silk 60 feet across. Inside the tent are temporary furnishings and food suitable to the splendor of the pavilion and sufficient to entertain as many as one hundred persons. The tent and its trappings last for one day. At the end of that time, the tent and all objects associated with it (including any items that were taken out of the tent) disappear.

Strong conjuration and transmutation; CL 12th; Craft Rod, eagle's splendor, fabricate, major creation; Price 25,000 gp.

Thunder and Lightning: Constructed of iron set with silver rivets, this rod has the properties of a +2 light mace. Its other magical powers are as follows.

- Thunder: Once per day, the rod can strike as a +3 light mace, and the opponent struck is stunned from the noise of the rod's impact (Fortitude DC 16 negates). Activating this power counts as a free action, and it works if the wielder strikes an opponent within 1 round.

- Lightning: Once per day, when the wielder desires, a short spark of electricity can leap forth when the rod strikes an opponent to deal the normal damage for a +2 light mace (1d6+2) and an extra 2d6 points of electricity damage. Even when the rod might not score a normal hit in combat, if the roll was good enough to count as a successful melee touch attack hit, then the 2d6 points of electricity damage still applies. The wielder activates this power as a free action, and it works if he strikes an opponent within 1 round.

- Thunderclap: Once per day as a standard action, the wielder can cause the rod to give out a deafening noise, just as a shout spell (Fortitude DC 16 partial, 2d6 points of sonic damage, target deafened for 2d6 rounds).

- Lightning Stroke: Once per day as a standard action, the wielder can cause the rod to shoot out a 5-foot-wide lightning bolt (9d6 points of electricity damage, Reflex DC 16 half) to a range of 200 feet.

- Thunder and Lightning: Once per week as a standard action, the wielder of the rod can combine the thunderclap described above with a lightning bolt, as in the lightning stroke. The thunderclap affects all within 10 feet of the bolt. The lightning stroke deals 9d6 points of electricity damage (count rolls of 1 or 2 as rolls of 3, for a range of 27 to 54 points), and the thunderclap deals 2d6 points of sonic damage. A single DC 16 Reflex save applies for both effects.

Moderate evocation; CL 9th; Craft Rod, Craft Magic Arms and Armor, lightning bolt, shout; Price 33,000 gp.

Viper: This rod strikes as a +2 heavy mace. Once per day, upon command, the head of the rod becomes that of an actual serpent for 10 minutes. During this period, any successful strike with the rod deals its usual damage and also poisons the creature hit. The poison deals 1d10 points of Constitution damage immediately (Fortitude DC 14 negates) and another 1d10 points of Constitution damage 1 minute later (Fortitude DC 14 negates). The rod only functions if its possessor is evil.

Moderate necromancy; CL 10th; Craft Rod, Craft Magic Arms and Armor, poison, creator must be evil; Price 19,000 gp.

Withering: A rod of withering acts as a +1 light mace that deals no hit point damage. Instead, the wielder deals 1d4 points of Strength damage and 1d4 points of Constitution damage to any creature she touches with the rod (by making a melee touch attack). If she scores a critical hit, the damage from that hit is permanent ability drain. In either case, the defender negates the effect with a DC 17 Fortitude save.

Strong necromancy; CL 13th; Craft Rod, Craft Magic Arms and Armor, contagion; Price 25,000 gp.

Wonder: A rod of wonder is a strange and unpredictable device that randomly generates any number of weird effects each time it is used. (Activating the rod is a standard action.) Typical powers of the rod include the following.

d%	Wondrous Effect
01–05	Slow creature pointed at for 10 rounds (Will DC 15 negates).
06–10	Faerie fire surrounds the target.
11–15	Deludes wielder for 1 round into believing the rod functions as indicated by a second die roll (no save).
16–20	Gust of wind , but at windstorm force (Fortitude DC 14 negates).
21–25	Wielder learns target's surface thoughts (as with detect thoughts) for 1d4 rounds (no save).
26–30	Stinking cloud at 30-ft. range (Fortitude DC 15 negates).
31–33	Heavy rain falls for 1 round in 60-ft. radius centered on rod wielder.
34–36	Summon an animal—a rhino (01–25 on d%), elephant (26–50), or mouse (51–100).
37–46	Lightning bolt (70 ft. long, 5 ft. wide), 6d6 damage (Reflex DC 15 half).
47–49	Stream of 600 large butterflies pours forth and flutters around for 2 rounds, blinding everyone (including wielder) within 25 ft. (Reflex DC 14 negates).
50–53	Enlarge person if within 60 ft. of rod (Fortitude DC 13 negates).
54–58	Darkness , 30-ft.-diameter hemisphere, centered 30 ft. away from rod.
59–62	Grass grows in 160-sq.-ft. area before the rod, or grass existing there grows to ten times normal size.
63–65	Turn ethereal any nonliving object of up to 1,000 lb. mass and up to 30 cu. ft. in size.
66–69	Reduce wielder to 1/12 height (no save).
70–79	Fireball at target or 100 ft. straight ahead, 6d6 damage (Reflex DC 15 half).
80–84	Invisibility covers rod wielder.
85–87	Leaves grow from target if within 60 ft. of rod. These last 24 hours.
88–90	10–40 gems, value 1 gp each, shoot forth in a 30-ft.-long stream. Each gem deals 1 point of damage to any creature in its path. Roll 5d4 for the number of hits and divide them among the available targets.
91–95	Shimmering colors dance and play over a 40-ft.-by-30-ft. area in front of rod. Creatures therein are blinded for 1d6 rounds (Fortitude DC 15 negates).
96–97	Wielder (50% chance) or target (50% chance) turns permanently blue, green, or purple (no save).
98–100	Flesh to stone (or stone to flesh if target is stone already) if target is within 60 ft. (Fortitude DC 18 negates).

Moderate enchantment; CL 10th; Craft Rod, confusion, creator must be chaotic; Price 12,000 gp.

MAGIC ITEMS IV (SCROLLS, STAFFS, & WANDS)

SCROLLS

A scroll is a spell (or collection of spells) that has been stored in written form. A spell on a scroll can be used only once. The writing vanishes from the scroll when the spell is activated. Using a scroll is basically like casting a spell.

Physical Description: A scroll is a heavy sheet of fine vellum or high-quality paper. An area about 8 1/2 inches wide and 11 inches long is sufficient to hold one spell. The sheet is reinforced at the top and bottom with strips of leather slightly longer than the sheet is wide. A scroll holding more than one spell has the same width (about 8 1/2 inches) but is an extra foot or so long for each extra spell. Scrolls that hold three or more spells are usually fitted with reinforcing rods at each end rather than simple strips of leather. A scroll has AC 9, 1 hit point, hardness 0, and a break DC of 8.

To protect it from wrinkling or tearing, a scroll is rolled up from both ends to form a double cylinder. (This also helps the user unroll the scroll quickly.) The scroll is placed in a tube of ivory, jade, leather, metal, or wood. Most scroll cases are inscribed with magic symbols which often identify the owner or the spells stored on the scrolls inside. The symbols often hide magic traps.

Activation: To activate a scroll, a spellcaster must read the spell written on it. Doing so involves several steps and conditions.

Decipher the Writing: The writing on a scroll must be deciphered before a character can use it or know exactly what spell it contains. This requires a read magic spell or a successful Spellcraft check (DC 20 + spell level).

Deciphering a scroll to determine its contents does not activate its magic unless it is a specially prepared cursed scroll. A character can decipher the writing on a scroll in advance so that he or she can proceed directly to the next step when the time comes to use the scroll.

Activate the Spell: Activating a scroll requires reading the spell from the scroll. The character must be able to see and read the writing on the scroll. Activating a scroll spell requires no material components or focus. (The creator of the scroll provided these when scribing the scroll.) Note that some spells are effective only when cast on an item or items. In such a case, the scroll user must provide the item when activating the spell. Activating a scroll spell is subject to disruption just as casting a normally prepared spell would be. Using a scroll is like casting a spell for purposes of arcane spell failure chance.

To have any chance of activating a scroll spell, the scroll user must meet the following requirements.

- The spell must be of the correct type (arcane or divine). Arcane spellcasters (wizards, sorcerers, and bards) can only use scrolls containing arcane spells, and divine spellcasters (clerics, druids, paladins, and rangers) can only use scrolls containing divine spells. (The type of scroll a character creates is also determined by his or her class.)

- The user must have the spell on his or her class list.
- The user must have the requisite ability score.

If the user meets all the requirements noted above, and her caster level is at least equal to the spell's caster level, she can automatically activate the spell without a check. If she meets all three requirements but her own caster level is lower than the scroll spell's caster level, then she has to make a caster level check (DC = scroll's caster level + 1) to cast the spell successfully. If she fails, she must make a DC 5 Wisdom check to avoid a mishap (see Scroll Mishaps, below). A natural roll of 1 always fails, whatever the modifiers.

Determine Effect: A spell successfully activated from a scroll works exactly like a spell prepared and cast the normal way. Assume the scroll spell's caster level is always the minimum level required to cast the spell for the character who scribed the scroll (usually twice the spell's level, minus 1), unless the caster specifically desires otherwise.

The writing for an activated spell disappears from the scroll.

Scroll Mishaps: When a mishap occurs, the spell on the scroll has a reversed or harmful effect. Possible mishaps are given below.

- A surge of uncontrolled magical energy deals 1d6 points of damage per spell level to the scroll user.
- Spell strikes the scroll user or an ally instead of the intended target, or a random target nearby if the scroll user was the intended recipient.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

- Spell takes effect at some random location within spell range.
- Spell's effect on the target is contrary to the spell's normal effect.
- The scroll user suffers some minor but bizarre effect related to the spell in some way. Most such effects should last only as long as the original spell's duration, or 2d10 minutes for instantaneous spells.
- Some innocuous item or items appear in the spell's area.
- Spell has delayed effect. Sometime within the next 1d12 hours, the spell activates. If the scroll user was the intended recipient, the spell takes effect normally. If the user was not the intended recipient, the spell goes off in the general direction of the original recipient or target, up to the spell's maximum range, if the target has moved away.

Several arcane spells are different in level for sorcerers and wizards than they are for bards. Such spells appear on the table at the level appropriate to a sorcerer or wizard (considered the default because bards typically don't involve themselves in scribing scrolls).

Likewise, some divine spells are different in level for clerics and druids than they are for paladins and rangers. Such spells appear at the level appropriate to a cleric or druid (considered the default because paladins and rangers typically don't involve themselves in scribing scrolls).

If a divine spell is cast at different levels by clerics and druids, it appears at the level appropriate to a cleric (considered the default choice between clerics and druids).

Many spells are either arcane or divine, depending on the class of the caster. Such spells appear on both lists at the level appropriate to the class of the arcane or divine caster.

STAFFS

A staff is a long shaft of wood that stores several spells. Unlike wands, which can contain a wide variety of spells, each staff is of a certain kind and holds specific spells. A staff has 50 charges when created.

Physical Description: A typical staff is 4 feet to 7 feet long and 2 inches to 3 inches thick, weighing about 5 pounds. Most staffs are wood, but a rare few are bone, metal, or even glass. (These are extremely exotic.) Staffs often have a gem or some device at their tip or are shod in metal at one or both ends. Staffs are often decorated with carvings or runes. A typical staff is like a walking stick, quarterstaff, or cudgel. It has AC 7, 10 hit points, hardness 5, and a break DC of 24.

Activation: Staffs use the spell trigger activation method, so casting a spell from a staff is usually a standard action that doesn't provoke attacks of opportunity. (If the spell being cast, however, has a longer casting time than 1 standard action, it takes that long to cast the spell from a staff.) To activate a staff, a character must hold it forth in at least one hand (or whatever passes for a hand, for nonhumanoid creatures).

Special Qualities: Roll d%. A 01-30 result indicates that something (a design, inscription, or the like) provides some clue to the staff's function, and 31-100 indicates no special qualities.

STAFF DESCRIPTIONS

Staffs use the wielder's ability score and relevant feats to set the DC for saves against their spells. Unlike with other sorts of magic items, the wielder can use his caster level when activating the power of a staff if it's higher than the caster level of the staff.

This means that staffs are far more potent in the hands of a powerful spellcaster. Because they use the wielder's ability score to set the save DC for the spell, spells from a staff are often harder to resist than ones from other magic items, which use the minimum ability score required to cast the spell. Not only are aspects of the spell dependant on caster level (range, duration, and so on) potentially higher, but spells from a staff are harder to dispel and have a better chance of overcoming a target's spell resistance.

Furthermore, a staff can hold a spell of any level, unlike a wand, which is limited to spells of 4th level or lower. The minimum caster level of a staff is 8th. Standard staffs are described below.

Abjuration: Usually carved from the heartwood of an ancient oak or other large tree, this staff allows use of the following spells:

- Shield (1 charge)
- Resist energy (1 charge)

WANDS

A wand is a thin baton that contains a single spell of 4th level or lower. Each wand has 50 charges when created, and each charge expended allows the user to use the wand's spell one time. A wand that runs out of charges is just a stick.

Physical Description: A typical wand is 6 inches to 12 inches long and about 1/4 inch thick, and often weighs no more than 1 ounce. Most wands are wood, but some are bone. A rare few are metal, glass, or even ceramic, but these are quite exotic. Occasionally, a wand has a gem or some device at its tip, and most are decorated with carvings or runes. A typical wand has AC 7, 5 hit points, hardness 5, and a break DC of 16.

Activation: Wands use the spell trigger activation method, so casting a spell from a wand is usually a standard action that doesn't provoke attacks of opportunity. (If the spell being cast, however, has a longer casting time than 1 action, it takes that long to cast the spell from a wand.) To activate a wand, a character must hold it in hand (or whatever passes for a hand, for nonhumanoid creatures) and point it in the general direction of the target or area. A wand may be used while grappling or while swallowed whole.

Special Qualities: Roll d%. A 01-30 result indicates that something (a design, inscription, or the like) provides some clue to the wand's function, and 31-100 indicates no special qualities.

MAGIC ITEMS V (WONDROUS ITEMS)

WONDROUS ITEMS

This is a catch-all category for anything that doesn't fall into the other groups. Anyone can use a wondrous item (unless specified otherwise in the description).

Physical Description: Varies.

Activation: Usually use activated or command word, but details vary from item to item.

Special Qualities: Roll d%. An 01 result indicates the wondrous item is intelligent, 02-31 indicates that something (a design, inscription, or the like) provides a clue to its function, and 32-100 indicates no special qualities. Intelligent items have extra abilities and sometimes extraordinary powers and special purposes.

WONDROUS ITEM DESCRIPTIONS

Standard wondrous items are described below.

Amulet of Health: This amulet is a golden disk on a chain. It usually bears the image of a lion or other powerful animal. The amulet grants the wearer an enhancement bonus to Constitution of +2, +4, or +6.

Moderate transmutation; CL 8th; Craft Wondrous Item, bear's endurance; Price 4,000 gp (+2), 16,000 gp (+4), 36,000 gp (+6).

Amulet of Mighty Fists: This amulet grants an enhancement bonus of +1 to +5 on attack and damage rolls with unarmed attacks and natural weapons.

Faint evocation; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, greater magic fang, creator's caster level must be at least three times the amulet's bonus; Price 6,000 gp (+1), 24,000 gp (+2), 54,000 gp (+3), 96,000 gp (+4), 150,000 gp (+5).

Amulet of Natural Armor: This amulet, usually crafted from bone or beast scales, toughens the wearer's body and flesh, giving him an enhancement bonus to his natural armor bonus of from +1 to +5, depending on the kind of amulet.

Faint transmutation; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, barkskin, creator's caster level must be at least three times the amulet's bonus; Price 2,000 gp (+1), 8,000 gp (+2), 18,000 gp (+3), 32,000 gp (+4), or 50,000 gp (+5).

Amulet of the Planes: This device usually appears to be a black circular amulet, although any character looking closely at it sees a dark, moving swirl of color. The amulet allows its wearer to utilize plane shift. However, this is a difficult item to master. The user must make a DC 15 Intelligence check in order to get the amulet to take her to the plane (and the specific location on that plane) that she wants. If she fails, the amulet transports her and all those traveling with her to a random location on that plane (01-60 on d%) or to a random plane (61-100).

Strong conjuration; CL 15th; Craft Wondrous Item, plane shift; Price 120,000 gp.

Amulet of Proof against Detection and Location: This silver amulet protects the wearer from scrying and magical location just as a nondetection spell does. If a divination spell is attempted against the wearer, the caster of the divination must succeed on a caster level check (1d20 + caster level) against a DC of 19 (as if the caster had cast nondetection on herself).

Moderate abjuration; CL 8th; Craft Wondrous Item, nondetection; Price 35,000 gp.

Apparatus of the Crab: This item appears to be a large, sealed iron barrel, but it has a secret catch (Search DC 20 to locate) that opens a hatch in one end. Anyone who crawls inside finds ten (unlabeled) levers: The device has the following characteristics: hp 200; hardness 15; Spd 20 ft., swim 20 ft.; AC 20 (–1 size, +11 natural); Atk +12 melee (2d8, 2 pincers).

Lever (1d10)	Lever Function
1	Extend/retract legs and tail
2	Uncover/cover forward porthole
3	Uncover/cover side portholes
4	Extend/retract pincers and feelers
5	Snap pincers
6	Move forward/backward
7	Turn left/right
8	Open "eyes" with continual flame inside/close "eyes"
9	Rise/sink in water

10	Open/close hatch
----	------------------

Operating a lever is a full-round action, and no lever may be operated more than once per round. However, since two Medium characters can fit inside, the apparatus can move and attack in the same round. The device can function in water up to 900 feet deep. It holds enough air for a crew of two to survive 1d4+1 hours (twice as long for a single occupant). When activated, the apparatus looks something like a giant lobster.

Strong evocation and transmutation; CL 19th; Craft Wondrous Item, animate objects, continual flame, creator must have 8 ranks in the Knowledge (architecture and engineering) skill; Price 90,000 gp; Weight 500 lb.

Bag of Holding: This appears to be a common cloth sack about 2 feet by 4 feet in size. The bag of holding opens into a nondimensional space: Its inside is larger than its outside dimensions. Regardless of what is put into the bag, it weighs a fixed amount. This weight, and the limits in weight and volume of the bag's contents, depend on the bag's type, as shown on the table below.

Bag	Bag Weight	Contents Weight Limit	Contents Volume Limit	Market Price
Type I	15 lb.	250 lb.	30 cu. ft.	2,500 gp
Type II	25 lb.	500 lb.	70 cu. ft.	5,000 gp
Type III	35 lb.	1,000 lb.	150 cu. ft.	7,400 gp
Type IV	60 lb.	1,500 lb.	250 cu. ft.	10,000 gp

If the bag is overloaded, or if sharp objects pierce it (from inside or outside), the bag ruptures and is ruined. All contents are lost forever. If a bag of holding is turned inside out, its contents spill out, unharmed, but the bag must be put right before it can be used again. If living creatures are placed within the bag, they can survive for up to 10 minutes, after which time they suffocate. Retrieving a specific item from a bag of holding is a move action—unless the bag contains more than an ordinary backpack would hold, in which case retrieving a specific item is a full-round action.

If a bag of holding is placed within a portable hole a rift to the Astral Plane is torn in the space: Bag and hole alike are sucked into the void and forever lost. If a portable hole is placed within a bag of holding, it opens a gate to the Astral Plane: The hole, the bag, and any creatures within a 10-foot radius are drawn there, destroying the portable hole and bag of holding in the process.

Moderate conjuration; CL 9th; Craft Wondrous Item, secret chest.

Bag of Tricks: This small sack appears normal and empty. However, anyone reaching into the bag feels a small, fuzzy ball. If the ball is removed and tossed up to 20 feet away, it turns into an animal. The animal serves the character who drew it from the bag for 10 minutes (or until slain or ordered back into the bag), at which point it disappears. It can follow any of the commands described in the Handle Animal skill. Each of the three kinds of a bag of tricks produces a different set of animals. Use the following tables to determine what animals can be drawn out of each.

The heavy warhorse appears with harness and tack and accepts the character who drew it from the bag as a rider.

Animals produced are always random, and only one may exist at a time. Up to ten animals can be drawn from the bag each week.

Faint or moderate conjuration; CL 3rd (gray), 5th (rust), 9th (tan); Craft Wondrous Item, summon nature's ally II (gray), summon nature's ally III (rust), or summon nature's ally V (tan); Price 900 gp (gray); 3,000 gp (rust); 6,300 gp (tan).

Bead of Force: This small black sphere appears to be a lusterless pearl. You can throw it up to 60 feet with no range penalties. Upon sharp impact, the bead explodes, sending forth a burst that deals 5d6 points of force damage to all creatures within a 10-foot radius.

It functions like a resilient sphere spell (Reflex DC 16 negates) with a radius of 10 feet and a duration of 10 minutes. A globe of shimmering force encloses a creature, provided the latter is small enough to fit within the diameter of the sphere. The sphere contains its subject for the spell's duration. The sphere is not subject to damage of any sort except from a rod of cancellation, a rod of negation, disintegrate, or a targeted dispel magic spell. These effects destroy the sphere without harm to the subject. Nothing can pass through the sphere, inside or out, though the subject can breathe normally. The subject may struggle, but the globe cannot be physically moved either by people outside it or by the struggles of those within.

The explosion completely consumes the bead, making this a one-use item.

Moderate evocation; CL 10th; Craft Wondrous Item, resilient sphere; Price 3,000 gp.

Belt, Monk's: This simple rope belt, when wrapped around a character's waist, confers great ability in unarmed combat. The wearer's AC and unarmed damage is treated as a monk of five levels higher. If donned by a character with the Stunning Fist feat, the belt lets her make one additional stunning attack per day. If the character is not a monk, she gains the AC and unarmed damage of a 5th-level monk. This AC bonus functions just like the monk's AC bonus.

Moderate transmutation; CL 10th; Craft Wondrous Item, righteous might or transformation; Price 13,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Belt of Dwarvenkind: This belt gives the wearer a +4 competence bonus on Charisma checks and Charisma-based skill checks as they relate to dealing with dwarves, a +2 competence bonus on similar checks when dealing with gnomes and halflings, and a –2 competence penalty on similar checks when dealing with anyone else. The wearer can understand, speak, and read Dwarven. If the wearer is not a dwarf, he gains 60-foot darkvision, dwarven stonecunning, a +2 enhancement bonus to Constitution, and a +2 resistance bonus on saves against poison, spells, or spell-like effects.

Moderate divination; CL 12th; Craft Wondrous Item, tongues, creator must be a dwarf; Price 14,900 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Belt of Giant Strength: This wide belt is made of thick leather and studded with iron. The belt adds to the wearer's Strength score in the form of an enhancement bonus of +4 or +6.

Moderate transmutation; CL 10th; Craft Wondrous Item, bull's strength; Price 16,000 gp (+4), 36,000 gp (+6); Weight 1 lb.

Blessed Book: This well-made tome is always of small size, typically no more than 12 inches tall, 8 inches wide, and 1 inch thick. All such books are durable, waterproof, bound with iron overlaid with silver, and locked.

A wizard can fill the 1,000 pages of a blessed book with spells without paying the 100 gp per page material cost. This book is never found as randomly generated treasure with spells already inscribed in it.

Moderate transmutation; CL 7th; Craft Wondrous Item, secret page; Price 12,500 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Boat, Folding: A folding boat looks like a small wooden box—about 12 inches long, 6 inches wide, and 6 inches deep. It can be used to store items like any other box. If a command word is given, however, the box unfolds itself to form a boat 10 feet long, 4 feet wide, and 2 feet in depth. A second command word causes it to unfold to a ship 24 feet long, 8 feet wide, and 6 feet deep. Any objects formerly stored in the box now rest inside the boat or ship.

In its smaller form, the boat has one pair of oars, an anchor, a mast, and a lateen sail. In its larger form, the boat has a deck, single rowing seats, five sets of oars, a steering oar, an anchor, a deck cabin, and a mast with a square sail. The boat can hold four people comfortably, while the ship carries fifteen with ease.

A third word of command causes the boat or ship to fold itself into a box once again.

Faint transmutation; CL 6th; Craft Wondrous Item, fabricate, creator must have 2 ranks in the Craft (shipmaking) skill; Price 7,200 gp; Weight 4 lb.

Boots of Elvenkind: These soft boots enable the wearer to move quietly in virtually any surroundings, granting a +5 competence bonus on Move Silently checks.

Faint transmutation; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, creator must be an elf; Price 2,500 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Boots of Levitation: On command, these leather boots allow the wearer to levitate as if she had cast levitate on herself.

Faint transmutation; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, levitate; Price 7,500 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Boots of Speed: As a free action, the wearer can click her boot heels together, enabling her to act as though affected by a haste spell for up to 10 rounds each day. The duration of the haste effect need not be consecutive rounds.

Moderate transmutation; CL 10th; Craft Wondrous Item, haste; Price 12,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Boots of Striding and Springing: These boots increase the wearer's base land speed by 10 feet. In addition to this striding ability (considered an enhancement bonus), these boots allow the wearer to make great leaps. She can jump with a +5 competence bonus on Jump checks.

Faint transmutation; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, longstrider, creator must have 5 ranks in the Jump skill; Price 5,500 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Boots of Teleportation: Any character wearing this footwear may teleport three times per day, exactly as if he had cast the spell of the same name.

Moderate conjuration; CL 9th; Craft Wondrous Item, teleport; Price 49,000 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Boots of the Winterlands: This footgear bestows many powers upon the wearer. First, he is able to travel across snow at his normal speed, leaving no tracks. The boots also enable him to travel at normal speed across the most slippery ice (horizontal surfaces only, not vertical or sharply slanted ones) without falling or slipping. Finally, boots of the winterlands warm the wearer, as if he were affected by an endure elements spell.

Faint abjuration and transmutation; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, cat's grace, endure elements, pass without trace; Price 2,500 gp;

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Weight 1 lb.

Boots, Winged: These boots appear to be ordinary footwear. On command, the boots sprout wings at the heel and let the wearer fly, without having to maintain concentration, as if affected by a fly spell. He can fly three times day for up to 5 minutes per flight.

Faint transmutation; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, fly; Price 16,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Bottle of Air: This item appears to be a normal glass bottle with a cork. When taken to any airless environment it retains air within it at all times, continually renewing its contents. This means that a character can draw air out of the bottle to breathe. The bottle can even be shared by multiple characters who pass it around. Breathing out of the bottle is a standard action, but a character so doing can then act for as long as she can hold her breath.

Moderate transmutation; CL 7th; Craft Wondrous Item, water breathing; Price 7,250 gp; Weight 2 lb.

Bowl of Commanding Water Elementals: This large container is usually fashioned from blue or green semiprecious stone. It is about 1 foot in diameter, half that deep, and relatively fragile. When the bowl is filled with fresh water, and certain words are spoken, a Large water elemental appears. The summoning words require 1 full round to speak. In all ways the bowl functions as the summon monster VI spell. Only one elemental can be called at a time. A new elemental requires the bowl to be filled with new water, which cannot happen until after the first elemental disappears (is dispelled, dismissed, or slain).

If salt water is used, the elemental is Huge rather than Large (as if summon monster VII had been cast).

Strong conjuration; CL 13th; Craft Wondrous Item, summon monster VI, summon monster VII; Price 100,000 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Bracelet of Friends: This silver charm bracelet has four charms upon it when created. The owner may designate one person known to him to be keyed to one charm. (This designation takes a standard action, but once done it lasts forever or until changed.) When a charm is grasped and the name of the keyed individual is spoken, that person is called to the spot (a standard action) along with his or her gear, as long as the owner and the called person are on the same plane. The keyed individual knows who is calling, and the bracelet of friends only functions on willing travelers. Once a charm is activated, it disappears. Charms separated from the bracelet are worthless. A bracelet found with fewer than four charms is worth 25% less for each missing charm.

Strong conjuration; CL 15th; Craft Wondrous Item, refuge; Price 19,000 gp.

Bracers of Archery, Greater: These wristbands look like normal protective wear. The bracers empower the wearer to use any bow (not including crossbows) as if she were proficient in its use. If she already has proficiency with any type of bow, she gains a +2 competence bonus on attack rolls and a +1 competence bonus on damage rolls whenever using that type of bow. Both bracers must be worn for the magic to be effective.

Moderate transmutation; CL 8th; Craft Wondrous Item, Craft Magic Arms and Armor; Price 25,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Bracers of Archery, Lesser: These wristbands function as greater bracers of archery, except that they grant a +1 competence bonus on attack rolls and no bonus on damage rolls.

Faint transmutation; CL 4th; Craft Wondrous Item, Craft Magic Arms and Armor; Price 5,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Bracers of Armor: These items appear to be wrist or arm guards. They surround the wearer with an invisible but tangible field of force, granting him an armor bonus of +1 to +8, just as though he were wearing armor. Both bracers must be worn for the magic to be effective.

Moderate conjuration; CL 7th; Craft Wondrous Item, mage armor, creator's caster level must be at least two times that of the bonus placed in the bracers; Price 1,000 gp (+1), 4,000 gp (+2), 9,000 gp (+3), 16,000 gp (+4), 25,000 gp (+5), 36,000 gp (+6), 49,000 gp (+7), 64,000 gp (+8); Weight 1 lb.

Brazier of Commanding Fire Elementals: This device appears to be a normal container for holding burning coals. When a fire is lit in the brazier and the proper summoning words are spoken, a Large fire elemental appears. The summoning words require 1 full round to speak. In all ways the brazier functions as the summon monster VI spell. If brimstone is added, the elemental is Huge instead of Large, and the brazier works as a summon monster VII spell. Only one elemental can be summoned at a time. A new elemental requires a new fire, which cannot be lit until after the first elemental disappears (is dispelled, dismissed, or slain).

Strong conjuration; CL 13th; Craft Wondrous Item, summon monster VI, summon monster VII; Price 100,000 gp; Weight 5 lb.

Brooch of Shielding: This appears to be a piece of silver or gold jewelry used to fasten a cloak or cape. In addition to this mundane task, it can absorb magic missiles of the sort generated by spell or spell-like ability. A brooch can absorb up to 101 points of damage from magic missiles before it melts and becomes useless.

Faint abjuration; CL 1st; Craft Wondrous Item, shield; Price 1,500 gp.

Broom of Flying: This broom is able to fly through the air as if affected by an overland flight spell (average maneuverability) for up to 9 hours per day (split up as its owner desires). The broom can carry 200 pounds and fly at a speed of 40 feet, or up to 400 pounds at a speed at 30 feet. In addition, the broom can travel alone to any destination named by the owner as long as she has a good idea of the location and layout of that destination. It comes to its owner from as far away as 300 yards when she speaks the command word. The broom of flying has a speed of 40 feet when it has no rider.

Moderate transmutation; CL 9th; Craft Wondrous Item, overland flight, permanency; Price 17,000 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Candle of Invocation: Each of these special tapers is dedicated to one of the nine alignments. Simply burning the candle generates a favorable aura for the individual so doing if the candle's alignment matches that of the character. Characters of the same alignment as the burning candle add a +2 morale bonus on attack rolls, saving throws, and skill checks while within 30 feet of the flame.

A cleric whose alignment matches the candle's operates as if two levels higher for purposes of determining spells per day if he burns the candle during or just prior to his spell preparation time. He can even cast spells normally unavailable to him, as if he were of that higher level, but only so long as the candle continues to burn. Except in special cases (see below), a candle burns for 4 hours.

In addition, burning a candle also allows the owner to cast a gate spell, the respondent being of the same alignment as the candle, but the taper is immediately consumed in the process. It is possible to extinguish the candle simply by blowing it out, so users often place it in a lantern to protect it from drafts and the like. Doing this doesn't interfere with its magical properties.

Strong conjuration; CL 17th; Craft Wondrous Item, gate, creator must be same alignment as candle created; Price 8,400 gp; Weight 1/2 lb.

Candle of Truth: This white tallow candle, when burned, calls into place a zone of truth spell (Will DC 13 negates) in a 5-foot radius centered on the candle. The zone lasts for 1 hour, as the candle burns. If the candle is snuffed before that time, the effect is canceled and the candle ruined.

Faint enchantment; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, zone of truth; Price 2,500 gp; Weight 1/2 lb.

Cape of the Mountebank: On command, this bright red and gold cape allows the wearer to use the magic of the dimension door spell once per day. When he disappears, he leaves behind a cloud of smoke, appearing in a similar fashion at his destination.

Moderate conjuration; CL 9th; Craft Wondrous Item, dimension door; Price 10,080 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Carpet of Flying: This rug is able to fly through the air as if affected by an overland flight spell of unlimited duration. The size, carrying capacity, and speed of the different carpets of flying are shown on the table below. Beautifully and intricately made, each carpet has its own command word to activate it—if the device is within voice range, the command word activates it, whether the speaker is on the rug or not. The carpet is then controlled by spoken directions.

Size	Capacity	Speed	Weight	Market Price
5 ft. by 5 ft.	200 lb.	40 ft.	8 lb.	20,000 gp
5 ft. by 10 ft.	400 lb.	40 ft.	15 lb.	35,000 gp
10 ft. by 10 ft.	800 lb.	40 ft.	10 lb.	60,000 gp

A carpet of flying can carry up to double its capacity, but doing so reduces its speed to 30 feet. It has average maneuverability, but a carpet of flying can still hover.

Moderate transmutation; CL 10th; Craft Wondrous Item, overland flight, permanency.

Censer of Controlling Air Elementals: This 6-inch-wide, 1-inch-high perforated golden vessel resembles a thurible found in a place of worship. If it is filled with incense and lit, summoning words spoken over it summon forth a Large air elemental. The summoning words require 1 full round to speak. In all ways the censer functions as the summon monster VI spell. If incense of meditation is burned within the censer, the air elemental is an elder air elemental instead (as if summon monster IX had just been cast). Only one elemental can be summoned at a time. A new elemental requires a new piece of incense, which cannot be lit until after the first elemental disappears (is dispelled, dismissed, or slain).

Strong conjuration; CL 17th; Craft Wondrous Item, summon monster VI, summon monster IX; Price 100,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Chaos Diamond: This lustrous gemstone is uncut and about the size of a human fist. The gem grants its possessor the following powers:

- Confusion, lesser
- Magic circle against law
- Word of chaos
- Cloak of chaos

Each power is usable 1d4 times per day. This is rolled for each power individually and the character does not

A nonchaotic character who possesses a chaos diamond gains one negative level. Although this level never results in actual level loss, it remains as long as the diamond is in the character's possession and cannot be overcome in any way (including restoration spells).

Strong varied; CL 19th; Craft Wondrous Item, cloak of chaos, magic circle against law, random action, word of chaos, creator must be chaotic; Price 160,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Chime of Interruption: This instrument can be struck once every 10 minutes, and its resonant tone lasts for 3 full minutes.

While the chime is resonating, no spell requiring a verbal component can be cast within a 30-foot radius of it unless the caster can make a Concentration check (DC 15 + the spell's level).

Moderate evocation; CL 7th; Craft Wondrous Item, shout; Price 16,800 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Chime of Opening: A chime of opening is a hollow mithral tube about 1 foot long. When struck, it sends forth magical vibrations that cause locks, lids, doors, valves, and portals to open. The device functions against normal bars, shackles, chains, bolts, and so on. A chime of opening also automatically dispels a hold portal spell or even an arcane lock cast by a wizard of lower than 15th level.

The chime must be pointed at the item or gate to be loosed or opened (which must be visible and known to the user). The chime is then struck, a clear tone rings forth, and in 1 round the target lock is unlocked, the shackle is loosed, the secret door is opened, or the lid of the chest is lifted. Each sounding only opens one form of locking, so if a chest is chained, padlocked, locked, and arcane locked, it takes four uses of a chime of opening to get it open. A silence spell negates the power of the device. A brand-new chime can be used a total of ten times before it cracks and becomes useless.

Moderate transmutation; CL 11th; Craft Wondrous Item, knock; Price 3,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Circlet of Blasting, Minor: On command, this simple golden headband projects a blast of searing light (3d8 points of damage) once per day.

Faint evocation; CL 6th; Craft Wondrous Item, searing light; Price 6,480 gp.

Circlet of Blasting, Major: On command, this elaborate golden headband projects a blast of searing light (5d8 maximized for 40 points of damage) once per day.

Strong evocation; CL 17th; Craft Wondrous Item, Maximize Spell, searing light; Price 23,760 gp.

Circlet of Persuasion: This silver headband grants a +3 competence bonus on the wearer's Charisma-based checks.

Faint transmutation; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, eagle's splendor; Price 4,500 gp.

Cloak of Arachnida: This black garment, embroidered with a weblike pattern in silk, gives the wearer the ability to climb as if a spider climb spell had been placed upon her. In addition, the cloak grants her immunity to entrapment by web spells or webs of any sort—she can actually move in webs at half her normal speed. Once per day, the wearer of this cloak can cast web. She also gains a +2 luck bonus on all Fortitude saves against poison from spiders.

Faint conjuration and transmutation; CL 6th; Craft Wondrous Item, spider climb, web; Price 14,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Cloak of the Bat: Fashioned of dark brown or black cloth, this cloak bestows a +5 competence bonus on Hide checks. The wearer is also able to hang upside down from the ceiling, like a bat.

By holding the edges of the garment, the wearer is able to fly as per the spell. If he desires, the wearer can actually polymorph himself into an ordinary bat and fly accordingly. (All possessions worn or carried are part of the transformation.) Flying, either with the cloak or in bat form, can be accomplished only in darkness (either under the night sky or in a lightless or near-lightless environment underground). Either of the flying powers is usable for up to 7 minutes at a time, but after a flight of any duration the cloak cannot bestow any flying power for a like period of time.

Moderate transmutation; CL 7th; Craft Wondrous Item, fly, polymorph; Price 26,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Cloak of Charisma: This lightweight and fashionable cloak has a highly decorative silver trim. When in a character's possession, it adds a +2, +4, or +6 enhancement bonus to her Charisma score.

Moderate transmutation; CL 8th; Craft Wondrous Item, eagle's splendor; Price 4,000 gp (+2), 16,000 gp (+4), 36,000 gp (+6); Weight 2 lb.

Cloak of Displacement, Minor: This item appears to be a normal cloak, but when worn by a character its magical properties distort and warp light waves. This displacement works similar to the displacement spell except that it only grants a 20% miss chance on attacks against the wearer. It functions continually.

Faint illusion; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, displacement; Price 24,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Cloak of Displacement, Major: This item appears to be a normal cloak, but on command its magical properties distort and warp light waves. This displacement works just like the displacement spell and lasts for a total of 15 rounds per day, which the wearer can divide up as she sees fit.

Moderate illusion; CL 7th; Craft Wondrous Item, Extend Spell, displacement; Price 50,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Cloak of Elvenkind: This cloak of neutral gray cloth is indistinguishable from an ordinary cloak of the same color. However, when worn with the hood drawn up around the head, it gives the wearer a +5 competence bonus on Hide checks.

Faint illusion; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, invisibility, creator must be an elf; Price 2,500 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Cloak of Etherealness: This silvery-gray cloak seems to absorb light rather than be illuminated by it. On command, the cloak makes its wearer ethereal (as the ethereal jaunt spell). The effect is dismissible. The cloak works for a total of up to 10 minutes per day. This duration need not be continuous.

Strong transmutation; CL 15th; Craft Wondrous Item, ethereal jaunt; Price 55,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Cloak of the Manta Ray: This cloak appears to be made of leather until the wearer enters salt water. At that time the cloak of the manta ray adheres to the individual, and he appears nearly identical to a manta ray (as the polymorph spell, except that it allows only manta ray form). He gains a +3 natural armor bonus, the ability to breathe underwater, and a swim speed of 60 feet, like a real manta ray.

Although the cloak does not enable the wearer to bite opponents as a manta ray does, it does have a tail spine that can be used to strike at opponents behind the wearer, dealing 1d6 points of damage. This attack can be used in addition to any other attack the character has, using his highest melee attack bonus. The wearer can release his arms from the cloak without sacrificing underwater movement if so desired.

Moderate transmutation; CL 9th; Craft Wondrous Item, polymorph, water breathing; Price 7,200 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Cloak of Resistance: These garments offer magic protection in the form of a +1 to +5 resistance bonus on all saving throws (Fortitude, Reflex, and Will).

Faint abjuration; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, resistance, creator's caster level must be at least three times the cloak's bonus; Price 1,000 gp (+1), 4,000 gp (+2), 9,000 gp (+3), 16,000 gp (+4), 25,000 gp (+5); Weight 1 lb.

Crystal Ball: This is the most common form of scrying device, a crystal sphere about 6 inches in diameter. A character can use the device to see over virtually any distance or into other planes of existence, as with the spell scrying (Will DC 16 negates).

Certain crystal balls have additional powers that can be used through the crystal ball on the target viewed.

Crystal Ball Type	Market Price
Crystal ball	42,000 gp
Crystal ball with see invisibility	50,000 gp
Crystal ball with detect thoughts (Will DC 13 negates)	51,000 gp
Crystal ball with telepathy*	70,000 gp
Crystal ball with true seeing	80,000 gp

* The viewer is able to send and receive silent mental messages with the person appearing in the crystal ball. Once per day the character may attempt to implant a suggestion (as the spell, Will DC 14 negates) as well.

Moderate divination; CL 10th; Craft Wondrous Item, scrying (plus any additional spells put into item); Weight 7 lb.

Cube of Force: This device is about 3/4 inch across and can be made of ivory, bone, or any hard mineral. It enables its possessor to put up a special wall of force 10 feet on a side around her person. This cubic screen moves with the character and is impervious to the attack forms mentioned on the table below. The cube has 36 charges, which are renewed each day. The possessor presses one face of the cube to activate a particular type of screen or to deactivate the device. Each effect costs a certain number of charges to maintain for every minute (or portion of a minute) it is in operation. Also, when an effect is active, the possessor's speed is limited to the maximum value given on the table.

When the cube of force is active, attacks dealing more than 30 points of damage drain 1 charge for every 10 points of damage beyond 30 that they deal. Spells that affect the integrity of the screen also drain extra charges. These spells (given in the list below) cannot be cast into or out of the cube:

Cube Face	Charge Cost per Minute	Maximum Speed	Effect
1	1	30 ft.	Keeps out gases, wind, etc.
2	2	20 ft.	Keeps out nonliving matter
3	3	15 ft.	Keeps out living matter
4	4	10 ft.	Keeps out magic
5	6	10 ft.	Keeps out all things
6	0	As normal	Deactivates

Attack Form	Extra Charges
Horn of blasting	6
Wall of fire	2
Passwall	3
Disintegrate	6
Phase door	5
Prismatic spray	7

Moderate evocation; CL 10th; Craft Wondrous Item, wall of force; Price 62,000 gp.

Cube of Frost Resistance: This cube is activated or deactivated by pressing one side. When activated, it creates a cube-shaped area 10 feet on a side centered on the possessor (or on the cube itself, if the item is later placed on a surface). The temperature within this area is always at least 65°F. The field absorbs all cold-based attacks. However, if the field is subjected to more than 50 points of cold damage in 1 round (from one or multiple attacks), it collapses into its portable form and cannot be reactivated for 1 hour. If the field absorbs more than 100 points of cold damage in a 10-round period, the cube is destroyed.

Faint abjuration; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, protection from energy; Price 27,000 gp.

Cubic Gate: This item is fashioned from carnelian. Each of the six sides of the cube is keyed to a plane, one of which is the Material Plane. The character creating the item should choose the planes to which the other five sides are keyed.

If a side of the cubic gate is pressed once, it opens a gate to a random point on the plane keyed to that side. There is a 10% chance per minute that an outsider from that plane (determine randomly) comes through it looking for food, fun, or trouble. Pressing the side a second time closes the gate. It is impossible to open more than one gate at a time.

If a side is pressed twice in quick succession, the character so doing is transported to a random point on the other plane, along with all creatures in adjacent squares. (The other creatures may avoid this fate by succeeding on DC 23 Will saves).

Strong conjuration; CL 13th; Craft Wondrous Item, plane shift; Price 164,000 gp.

Darkskull: This skull, carved from ebony, is wholly evil. Wherever the skull goes, the area around it is treated as though an unhallow spell had been cast with the skull as the touched point of origin (except that no additional spell effect is tied or fixed to the darkskull).

Moderate evocation [evil]; CL 9th; Craft Wondrous Item, unhallow; creator must be evil; Price 60,000 gp; Weight 5 lb.

Decanter of Endless Water: If the stopper is removed from this ordinary-looking flask and a command word spoken, an amount of fresh or salt water pours out. Separate command words determine the type as well as the volume and velocity.

- “Stream” pours out 1 gallon per round.
- “Fountain” produces a 5-foot-long stream at 5 gallons per round.
- “Geyser” produces a 20-foot-long, 1-foot-wide stream at 30 gallons per round.

The geyser effect causes considerable back pressure, requiring the holder to make a DC 12 Strength check to avoid being knocked down. The force of the geyser deals 1d4 points of damage but can only affect one target per round. The command word must be spoken to stop it.

Moderate transmutation; CL 9th; Craft Wondrous Item, control water; Price 9,000 gp; Weight 2 lb.

Deck of Illusions: This set of parchment cards is usually found in an ivory, leather, or wooden box. A full deck consists of thirty-four cards. When a card is drawn at random and thrown to the ground, a major image of a creature is formed. The figment lasts until dispelled. The illusory creature cannot move more than 30 feet away from where the card landed, but otherwise moves and acts as if it were real. At all times it obeys the desires of the character who drew the card. When the illusion is dispelled, the card becomes blank and cannot be used again. If the card is picked up, the illusion is automatically and instantly dispelled. The cards in a deck and the illusions they bring forth are summarized on the following table. (Use one of the first two columns to simulate the contents of a full deck using either ordinary playing cards or tarot cards.)

A randomly generated deck is usually complete (11–100 on d%), but may be discovered (01–10) with 1d20 of its cards missing. If cards are missing, reduce the price by a corresponding amount.

Faint illusion; CL 6th; Craft Wondrous Item, major image; Price 8,100 gp; Weight 1/2 lb.

Dimensional Shackles: These shackles have golden runes traced across their cold iron surface. Any creature bound within them is affected as if a dimensional anchor spell were cast upon her (no save). They fit any Small to Large creature. The DC to break or slip out of the shackles is 30.

Moderate abjuration; CL 11th; Craft Wondrous Item, dimensional anchor; Price 28,000 gp; Weight 5 lb.

Drums of Panic: These drums are kettle drums (hemispheres about 1-1/2 feet in diameter on stands). They come in pairs and are unremarkable in appearance. If both of the pair are sounded, all creatures within 120 feet (with the exception of those within a 20-foot-radius safe zone around the drums) are affected as by a fear spell (Will DC 16 partial). Drums of panic can be used once per day.

BASICS	MAGIC & SPELLS	MAGIC ITEMS	MONSTERS	PSIONICS	EPIC
Moderate necromancy; CL 7th; Craft Wondrous Item, fear; Price 30,000 gp; Weight 10 lb. for the pair. Dust of Appearance: This fine powder appears to be a very fine, very light metallic dust. A single handful of this substance flung into the air coats objects within a 10-foot radius, making them visible even if they are invisible. It likewise negates the effects of blur and displacement. (In this, it works just like the faerie fire spell). The dust also reveals figments, mirror images, and projected images for what they are. A creature coated with the dust takes a -30 penalty on its Hide checks. The dust's effect lasts for 5 minutes. Dust of appearance is typically stored in small silk packets or hollow bone tubes. Faint conjuration; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, glitterdust; Price 1,800 gp. Dust of Disappearance: This dust looks just like dust of appearance and is typically stored in the same manner. A creature or object touched by it becomes invisible (as greater invisibility). Normal vision can't see dusted creatures or objects, nor can they be detected by magical means, including see invisibility or invisibility purge. Dust of appearance, however, does reveal people and objects made invisible by dust of disappearance. Other factors, such as sound and smell, also allow possible detection. The greater invisibility bestowed by the dust lasts for 2d6 rounds. The invisible creature doesn't know when the duration will end. Moderate illusion; CL 7th; Craft Wondrous Item, greater invisibility; Price 3,500 gp. Dust of Dryness: This special dust has many uses. If it is thrown into water, a volume of as much as 100 gallons is instantly transformed to nothingness, and the dust becomes a marble-sized pellet, floating or resting where it was thrown. If this pellet is hurled down, it breaks and releases the same volume of water. The dust affects only water (fresh, salt, alkaline), not other liquids. If the dust is employed against an elemental with the water subtype, the creature must make a DC 18 Fortitude save or be destroyed. The dust deals 5d6 points of damage to the creature even if its saving throw succeeds. Moderate transmutation; CL 11th; Craft Wondrous Item, control water; Price 850 gp. Dust of Illusion: This unremarkable powder resembles chalk dust or powdered graphite. Stare at it, however, and the dust changes color and form. Put dust of illusion on a creature, and that creature is affected as if by a disguise self glamor, with the individual who sprinkles the dust envisioning the illusion desired. An unwilling target is allowed a DC 11 Reflex save to avoid the dust. The glamor lasts for 2 hours. Faint illusion; CL 6th; Craft Wondrous Item, disguise self; Price 1,200 gp. Dust of Tracelessness: This normal-seeming dust is actually a magic powder that can conceal the passage of its possessor and his companions. Tossing a handful of this dust into the air causes a chamber of up to 100 square feet of floor space to become as dusty, dirty, and cobweb-laden as if it had been abandoned and disused for a decade. A handful of dust sprinkled along a trail causes evidence of the passage of as many as a dozen men and horses to be obliterated for 250 feet back into the distance. The results of the dust are instantaneous, and no magical aura lingers afterward from this use of the dust. Survival checks made to track a quarry across an area affected			by this dust have a DC 20 higher than normal. Faint transmutation; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, pass without trace; Price 250 gp. Efficient Quiver: This appears to be a typical arrow container capable of holding about twenty arrows. It has three distinct portions, each with a nondimensional space allowing it to store far more than would normally be possible. The first and smallest one can contain up to sixty objects of the same general size and shape as an arrow. The second slightly longer compartment holds up to eighteen objects of the same general size and shape as a javelin. The third and longest portion of the case contains as many as six objects of the same general size and shape as a bow (spears, staffs, or the like). Once the owner has filled it, the quiver can produce any item she wishes, as if from a regular quiver or scabbard. The efficient quiver weighs the same no matter what's placed inside it. Moderate conjuration; CL 9th; Craft Wondrous Item, secret chest; Price 1,800 gp; Weight 2 lb. Efreeti Bottle: This item is typically fashioned of brass or bronze, with a lead stopper bearing special seals. A thin stream of smoke is often seen issuing from it. The bottle can be opened once per day. When opened, the efreeti imprisoned within issues from the bottle instantly. There is a 10% chance (01-10 on d%) that the efreeti is insane and attacks immediately upon being released. There is also a 10% chance (91-100) that the efreeti of the bottle grants three wishes. In either case, the efreeti afterward disappears forever. The other 80% of the time (11-90), the inhabitant of the bottle loyally serves the character for up to 10 minutes per day (or until the efreeti's death), doing as she commands. drinking it to become charmed with the first creature she sees after consuming the draft (as charm person—the drinker must be a humanoid of Medium or smaller size, Will DC 14 negates). The charm effects wear off in 1d3 hours.

Faint transmutation; CL 4th; Craft Wondrous Item, charm person; Price 150 gp.

Elixir of Sneaking: This draught of liquid grants the drinker the ability to walk softly and dampens sound around her slightly, granting a +10 competence bonus on Move Silently checks for 1 hour.

Faint illusion; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, silence; Price 250 gp.

Elixir of Swimming: This elixir bestows swimming ability. An almost imperceptible magic sheath surrounds the drinker, allowing him to glide through the water easily (+10 competence bonus on Swim checks for 1 hour).

Faint illusion; CL 2nd; Craft Wondrous Item, creator must have 5 ranks in the Swim skill; Price 250 gp.

Elixir of Truth: This elixir forces the individual drinking it to say nothing but the truth for 10 minutes (Will DC 13 negates).

She is compelled to answer any questions put to her in that time, but with each question she is free to make a separate DC 13 Will save. If one of these secondary saves is successful, she doesn't break free of the truth-compelling enchantment but also doesn't have to answer that particular question. No more than one question can be asked each round. This is a mind-affecting compulsion enchantment.

Faint enchantment; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, zone of truth; Price 500 gp.

Elixir of Vision: Drinking this elixir grants the imbiber the ability to notice acute details with great accuracy (+10 competence bonus on Search checks for 1 hour).

Faint divination; CL 2nd; Craft Wondrous Item, true seeing; Price 250 gp.

Eversmoking Bottle: This metal urn is identical in appearance to an efreeti bottle, except that it does nothing but smoke. The amount of smoke is great if the stopper is pulled out, pouring from the bottle and totally obscuring vision across a 50-foot spread in 1 round. If the bottle is left unstoppered, the smoke billows out another 10 feet per round until it has covered a 100-foot radius. This area remains smoke-filled until the eversmoking bottle is stoppered.

The bottle must be resealed by a command word, after which the smoke dissipates normally. A moderate wind (11+ mph) disperses the smoke in 4 rounds; a strong wind (21+ mph) disperses the smoke in 1 round.

Faint transmutation; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, pyrotechnics; Price 5,400 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Eyes of Charming: These two crystal lenses fit over the user's eyes. The wearer is able to use charm person (one target per round) merely by meeting a target's gaze. Those failing a DC 16 Will save are charmed as per the spell. If the wearer has only one lens, the DC of the saving throw is reduced to 10.

Moderate enchantment; CL 7th; Craft Wondrous Item, Heighten Spell, charm person; Price 56,000 gp for a pair.

Eyes of Doom: These crystal lenses fit over the user's eyes, enabling him to cast doom upon those around him (one target per round) as a gaze attack, except that the wearer must take a standard action, and those merely looking at the wearer are not affected. Those failing a DC 11 Will save are affected as by the doom spell. If the wearer has only one lens, the DC of the saving throw is reduced to 10. However, if the wearer has both lenses, he gains the additional power of a continual deathwatch effect and can use fear (Will DC 16 partial) as a normal gaze attack once per week.

Moderate necromancy; CL 11th; Craft Wondrous Item, doom, deathwatch, fear; Price 25,000 gp.

Eyes of the Eagle: These items are made of special crystal and fit over the eyes of the wearer. These lenses grant a +5 competence bonus on Spot checks. Wearing only one of the pair causes a character to become dizzy and, in effect, stunned for 1 round. Thereafter, the wearer can use the single lens without being stunned so long as she covers her other eye. Of course, she can remove the single lens and see normally at any time, or wear both lenses to end or avoid the dizziness.

Faint divination; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, clairaudience/clairvoyance; Price 2,500 gp.

Eyes of Petrification: These items are made of special crystal and fit over the eyes of the wearer. They allow her to use a petrification gaze attack (Fortitude DC 19 negates) for 10 rounds per day. Both lenses must be worn for the magic to be effective.

Moderate transmutation; CL 11th; Craft Wondrous Item, flesh to stone; Price 98,000 gp.

Figurines of Wondrous Power: Each of the several kinds of figurines of wondrous power appears to be a miniature statuette of a creature an inch or so high (with one exception). When the figurine is tossed down and the correct command word spoken, it becomes a living creature of normal size (except when noted otherwise below). The creature obeys and serves its owner. Unless stated otherwise, the creature understands Common but does not speak.

If a figurine of wondrous power is broken or destroyed in its statuette form, it is forever ruined. All magic is lost, its power departed. If slain in animal form, the figurine simply reverts to a statuette that can be used again at a later time.

Bronze Griffon: When animated, a bronze griffon acts in all ways like a normal griffon under the command of its possessor. The item can be used twice per week for up to 6 hours per use. When 6 hours have passed or when the command word is spoken, the bronze griffon once again becomes a tiny statuette.

Moderate transmutation; CL 11th; Craft Wondrous Item, animate objects; Price 10,000 gp.

Ebony Fly: When animated, an ebony fly is the size of a pony and has all the statistics of a hippogriff but can make no attacks. The item can be used three times per week for up to 12 hours per use. When 12 hours have passed or when the command word is spoken, the ebony fly again becomes a tiny statuette.

Moderate transmutation; CL 11th; Craft Wondrous Item, animate objects; Price 10,000 gp.

Golden Lions: These figurines come in pairs. They become normal adult male lions. If slain in combat, the lions cannot be brought back from statuette form for one full week. Otherwise, they can be used once per day for up to 1 hour. They enlarge and shrink upon speaking the command word.

Moderate transmutation; CL 11th; Craft Wondrous Item, animate objects; Price 16,500 gp.

Ivory Goats: These figurines come in threes. Each goat of this trio looks slightly different from the others, and each has a different

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

function:

The Goat of Traveling: This statuette provides a speedy and enduring mount equal to that of a heavy horse in every way except appearance. The goat can travel for a maximum of one day each week—continuously or in any combination of periods totaling 24 hours. At this point, or when the command word is uttered, it returns to its statuette form for not less than one day before it can again be used.

The Goat of Travail: This statuette becomes an enormous creature, larger than a bull, with the statistics of a nightmare except for the addition of a pair of wicked horns of exceptional size (damage 1d8+4 for each horn). If it is charging to attack, it may only use its horns (but add 6 points of damage to each successful attack in that round). It can be called to life just once per month for up to 12 hours at a time.

The Goat of Terror: When called upon with the proper command word, this statuette becomes a destrier-like mount, with the statistics of a light warhorse. However, its rider can employ the goat's horns as weapons (one horn as a +3 heavy lance, the other as a +5 longsword). When ridden in an attack against an opponent, the goat of terror radiates fear as the spell in a 30-foot radius (Will DC 16 partial). It can be used once every two weeks for up to 3 hours per use.

Moderate transmutation; CL 11th; Craft Wondrous Item, animate objects; Price 21,000 gp.

Marble Elephant: This is the largest of the figurines, the statuette being about the size of a human hand. Upon utterance of the command word, a marble elephant grows to the size and specifications of a true elephant. The animal created from the statuette is fully obedient to the figurine's owner, serving as a beast of burden, a mount, or a combatant. The statuette can be used four times per month for up to 24 hours at a time.

Moderate transmutation; CL 11th; Craft Wondrous Item, animate objects; Price 17,000 gp.

Obsidian Steed: This figurine appears to be a small, shapeless lump of black stone. Only careful inspection reveals that it vaguely resembles some form of quadruped. On command, the near-formless piece of obsidian becomes a fantastic mount. Treat it as a heavy warhorse with the following additional powers usable once per round at will: overland flight, plane shift, and ethereal jaunt. The steed allows itself to be ridden, but if the rider is of good alignment, the steed is 10% likely per use to carry him to the lower planes and then return to its statuette form. The statuette can be used once per week for one continuous period of up to 24 hours. Note that when an obsidian steed becomes ethereal or plane shifts, its rider and his gear follow suit.

Thus, the user can travel to other planes via this means.

Strong conjuration and transmutation; CL 15th; Craft Wondrous Item, animate objects, etherealness, fly, plane shift; Price 28,500 gp.

Onyx Dog: When commanded, this statuette changes into a creature with the same properties as a riding dog except that it is endowed with an Intelligence of 8, can communicate in Common, and has exceptional olfactory and visual abilities. (It has the scent ability and adds +4 to its Spot and Search checks.) It has 60-foot darkvision, and it can see invisibility. An onyx dog can be used once per week for up to 6 hours. It obeys only its owner.

Moderate transmutation; CL 11th; Craft Wondrous Item, animate objects; Price 15,500 gp.

Serpentine Owl: This figurine becomes either a normal-sized horned owl or a giant owl according to the command word used. The transformation can take place once per day, with a maximum duration of 8 continuous hours. However, after three transformations into giant owl form, the statuette loses all its magical properties. The owl communicates with its owner by telepathic means, informing her of all it sees and hears. (Remember the limitations of its Intelligence.)

Moderate transmutation; CL 11th; Craft Wondrous Item, animate objects; Price 9,100 gp.

Silver Raven: This silver figurine turns into a raven on command (but it retains its metallic consistency, which gives it hardness 10). Another command sends it off into the air, bearing a message just like a creature affected by an animal messenger spell. If not commanded to carry a message, the raven obeys the commands of its owner, although it has no special powers or telepathic abilities. It can maintain its nonfigurine status for only 24 hours per week, but the duration need not be continuous.

Faint enchantment and transmutation; CL 6th; Craft Wondrous Item, animal messenger, animate objects; Price 3,800 gp.

Feather Token: Each of these items is a small feather that has a power to suit a special need. The kinds of tokens are described below. Each token is usable once.

Anchor: A token useful to moor a craft in water so as to render it immobile for up to one day.

Bird: A token that can be used to deliver a small written message unerringly to a designated target as would a carrier pigeon. The token lasts as long as it takes to carry the message.

Fan: A token that forms a huge flapping fan, causing a breeze of sufficient strength to propel one ship (about 25 mph). This wind is not cumulative with existing wind speed. The token can, however, be used to lessen existing winds, creating an area of relative calm or lighter winds (but wave size in a storm is not affected). The fan can be used for up to 8 hours. It does not function on land.

Swan Boat: A token that forms a swanlike boat capable of moving on water at a speed of 60 feet. It can carry eight horses and gear or thirty-two Medium characters or any equivalent combination. The boat lasts for one day.

Tree: A token that causes a great oak to spring into being (5-foot diameter trunk, 60-foot height, 40-foot top diameter). This is an instantaneous effect.

Whip: A token that forms into a huge leather whip and wields itself against any opponent desired just like a dancing weapon. The weapon has a +10 base attack bonus, does 1d6+1 points of damage, has a +1 enhancement bonus on attack and damage rolls, and makes a free grapple attack (with a +15 attack bonus) if it hits. The whip lasts no longer than 1 hour.

Moderate conjuration; CL 12th; Craft Wondrous Item, major creation; Price 50 gp (anchor), 300 gp (bird), 200 gp (fan), 450 gp (swan boat), 400 gp (tree), 500 gp (whip).

Gauntlets of Ogre Power: These gauntlets are made of tough leather with iron studs running across the back of the hands and fingers. They grant the wearer great strength, adding a +2 enhancement bonus to his Strength score. Both gauntlets must be worn for the magic to be effective.

Faint transmutation; CL 6th; Craft Wondrous Item, bull's strength; Price 4,000 gp; Weight 4 lb.

Gauntlet of Rust: This single metal gauntlet looks rusted and pitted but is actually quite powerful. Once per day, it can affect an object as with the rusting grasp spell. It also completely protects the wearer and her gear from rust (magical or otherwise), including the attack of a rust monster.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Moderate transmutation; CL 7th; Craft Wondrous Item, rusting grasp; Price 11,500 gp; Weight 2 lb.

Gem of Brightness: This crystal appears to be a long, rough prism. Upon utterance of a command word, the crystal emits bright light of one of three sorts.

- One command word causes the gem to shed light as a hooded lantern. This use of the gem does not expend any charges.

- Another command word causes the gem of brightness to send out a bright ray 1 foot in diameter and 50 feet long. This strikes as a ranged touch attack, and any creature struck by this beam is blinded for 1d4 rounds unless it makes a DC 14 Fortitude save. This use of the gem expends 1 charge.

- The third command word causes the gem to flare in a blinding flash of light that fills a 30-foot cone. Although this glare lasts but a moment, any creature within the cone must make a DC 14 Fortitude save or be blinded for 1d4 rounds. This use expends 5 charges.

A newly created gem of brightness has 50 charges. When all its charges are expended, the gem becomes nonmagical.

Faint evocation; CL 6th; Craft Wondrous Item, daylight; Price 13,000 gp.

Gem of Seeing: This finely cut and polished stone is indistinguishable from an ordinary jewel in appearance. When it is gazed through, a gem of seeing enables the user to see as though she were affected by the true seeing spell. A gem of seeing can be used for as much as 30 minutes a day, divided up into periods of minutes or rounds as the user sees fit.

Moderate divination; CL 10th; Craft Wondrous Item, true seeing; Price 75,000 gp.

Gloves of Arrow Snaring: Once snugly worn, these gloves seem to meld with the hands, becoming almost invisible. Twice per day, the wearer can act as if he had the Snatch Arrows feat, even if he does not meet the prerequisites for it. Both gloves must be worn for the magic to be effective. At least one hand must be free to take advantage of the magic.

Faint abjuration; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, shield; Price 4,000 gp.

Gloves of Dexterity: These thin leather gloves are very flexible and allow for delicate manipulation. They add to the wearer's Dexterity score in the form of an enhancement bonus of +2, +4, or +6. Both gloves must be worn for the magic to be effective.

Moderate transmutation; CL 8th; Craft Wondrous Item, cat's grace; Price 4,000 gp (+2), 16,000 gp (+4), 36,000 gp (+6).

Glove of Storing: This device is a simple leather glove. On command, one item held in the hand wearing the glove disappears. The item can weigh no more than 20 pounds and must be able to be held in one hand. While stored, the item has negligible weight. With a snap of the fingers wearing the glove, the item reappears. A glove can only store one item at a time. Storing or retrieving the item is a free action. The item is held in stasis and shrunk down so small within the palm of the glove that it cannot be seen. Spell durations are not suppressed, but continue to expire. If an effect is suppressed or dispelled, the stored item appears instantly.

Faint transmutation; CL 6th; Craft Wondrous Item, shrink item; Price 10,000 gp (one glove).

Gloves of Swimming and Climbing: These apparently normal lightweight gloves grant a +5 competence bonus on Swim checks and Climb checks. Both gloves must be worn for the magic to be effective.

Faint transmutation; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, bull's strength, cat's grace; Price 6,250 gp.

Goggles of Minute Seeing: The lenses of this item are made of special crystal. When placed over the eyes of the wearer, the lenses enable her to see much better than normal at distances of 1 foot or less, granting her a +5 competence bonus on Search checks to find secret doors, traps, and similar concealed objects. Both lenses must be worn for the magic to be effective.

Faint divination; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, true seeing; Price 1,250 gp.

Goggles of Night: The lenses of this item are made of dark crystal. Even though the lenses are opaque, when placed over the eyes of the wearer they enable him to see normally and also grant him 60-foot darkvision. Both lenses must be worn for the magic to be effective.

Faint transmutation; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, darkvision; Price 12,000 gp.

Golem Manual: A golem manual contains information, incantations and magical power that help a character to craft a golem. The instructions therein grant a +5 competence bonus on skill checks made to craft the golem's body. Each manual also holds the prerequisite spells needed for a specific golem, effectively grants the builder use of the Craft Construct feat during the construction of the golem, and grants the character an increase to her caster level for the purpose of crafting a golem. Any golem built using a golem manual does not cost the creator any XP, since the requisite XP are "contained" in the book and "expended" by the book during the creation process.

The spells included in a golem manual require a spell trigger activation and can be activated only to assist in the construction of a golem. The cost of the book does not include the cost of constructing the golem's body. Once the golem is finished, the writing in the manual fades and the book is consumed in flames. When the book's ashes are sprinkled upon the golem, it becomes fully animated.

Clay Golem Manual: The book contains animate objects, bless, commune, prayer, and resurrection. The reader may treat her caster level as two levels higher than normal for the purpose of crafting a clay golem. The book supplies 1,540 XP for the creation of a clay golem.

Moderate conjuration, divination, enchantment, and transmutation; CL 11th; Craft Construct, creator must be caster level 11th, animate objects, commune, prayer, resurrection; Price 12,000 gp; Cost 2,150 gp + 1,712 XP; Weight 5 lb.

Flesh Golem Manual: The book contains animate dead, bull's strength, geas/quest, and limited wish. The reader may treat her caster level as one level higher than normal for the purpose of crafting a flesh golem. The book supplies 780 XP for the creation of a flesh golem.

Moderate enchantment, necromancy [evil], and transmutation; CL 8th; Craft Construct, creator must be caster level 8th, animate dead, bull's strength, geas/quest, limited wish; Price 8,000 gp; Cost 2,050 gp + 944 XP; Weight 5 lb.

Iron Golem Manual: The book contains cloudkill, geas/quest, limited wish, and polymorph any object. The reader may treat her caster level as four levels higher than normal for the purpose of crafting a iron golem. The book supplies 5,600 XP for the creation of a iron golem.

Strong conjuration, enchantment and transmutation; CL 16th; Craft Construct, creator must be caster level 16th, cloudkill, geas/quest, limited wish, polymorph any object; Price 35,000 gp; Cost 3,500 gp + 5,880 XP; Weight 5 lb.

Stone Golem Manual: The book contains geas/quest, limited wish, polymorph any object, and slow. The reader may treat her caster level as three levels higher than normal for the purpose of crafting a stone golem. The book supplies 3,400 XP for the creation of a stone golem.

Strong abjuration and enchantment; CL 14th; Craft Construct, creator must be caster level 14th, antimagic field, geas/quest, symbol of stunning; Price 22,000 gp; Cost 2,500 gp + 3,600 XP; Weight 5 lb.

Stone Golem Manual, Greater: The book contains geas/quest, limited wish, polymorph any object, and slow. The reader may treat her caster level as three levels higher than normal for the purpose of crafting a stone golem. The book supplies 7,640 XP for the creation of a greater stone golem.

Strong abjuration and enchantment; CL 16th; Craft Construct, creator must be caster level 16th, antimagic field, geas/quest, symbol of stunning; Price 44,000 gp; Cost 2,900 gp + 7,872 XP; Weight 5 lb.

Hand of Glory: This mummified human hand hangs by a leather cord around a character's neck (taking up space as a magic necklace would). If a magic ring is placed on one of the fingers of the hand, the wearer benefits from the ring as if wearing it herself, and it does not count against her two-ring limit. The hand can wear only one ring at a time. Even without a ring, the hand itself allows its wearer to use daylight and see invisibility each once per day.

Faint varied; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, animate dead, daylight, detect invisibility; Price 8,000 gp; Weight 2 lb.

Hand of the Mage: This mummified elf hand hangs by a golden chain around a character's neck (taking up space as a magic necklace would). It allows the wearer to utilize the spell mage hand at will.

Faint transmutation; CL 2nd; Craft Wondrous Item, mage hand; Price 900 gp; Weight 2 lb.

Handy Haversack: A backpack of this sort appears to be well made, well used, and quite ordinary. It is constructed of finely tanned leather, and the straps have brass hardware and buckles. It has two side pouches, each of which appears large enough to hold about a quart of material. In fact, each is like a bag of holding and can actually hold material of as much as 2 cubic feet in volume or 20 pounds in weight. The large central portion of the pack can contain up to 8 cubic feet or 80 pounds of material. Even when so filled, the backpack always weighs only 5 pounds.

While such storage is useful enough, the pack has an even greater power in addition. When the wearer reaches into it for a specific item, that item is always on top. Thus, no digging around and fumbling is ever necessary to find what a haversack contains. Retrieving any specific item from a haversack is a move action, but it does not provoke the attacks of opportunity that retrieving a stored item usually does.

Moderate conjuration; CL 9th; Craft Wondrous Item, secret chest; Price 2,000 gp; Weight 5 lb.

Harp of Charming: This instrument is a golden, intricately carved harp. When played, it enables the performer to work one suggestion (as the spell, Will DC 14 negates) into the music for each 10 minutes of playing if he can succeed on a DC 14 Perform (string instruments) check. If the check fails, the audience cannot be affected by any further performances from the harpist for 24 hours.

Faint enchantment; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, suggestion; Price 7,500 gp; Weight 5 lb.

Hat of Disguise: This apparently normal hat allows its wearer to alter her appearance as with a disguise self spell. As part of the disguise, the hat can be changed to appear as a comb, ribbon, headband, cap, coif, hood, helmet, and so on.

Faint illusion; CL 1st; Craft Wondrous Item, disguise self; Price 1,800 gp.

Headband of Intellect: This device is a light cord with a small gem set so that it rests upon the forehead of the wearer. The headband adds to the wearer's Intelligence score in the form of an enhancement bonus of +2, +4, or +6. This enhancement bonus does not earn the wearer extra skill points when a new level is attained; use the unenhanced Intelligence bonus to determine skill points.

Moderate transmutation; CL 8th; Craft Wondrous Item, fox's cunning; Price 4,000 gp (+2), 16,000 gp (+4), 36,000 gp (+6).

Helm of Brilliance: This normal-looking helm takes its true form and manifests its powers when the user dons it and speaks the command word. Made of brilliant silver and polished steel, a newly created helm is set with large magic gems: ten diamonds, twenty rubies, thirty fire opals, and forty opals. When struck by bright light, the helm scintillates and sends forth reflective rays in all directions from its crownlike, gem-tipped spikes. The jewels' functions are as follows:

- Diamond: Prismatic spray (save DC 20)
- Ruby: Wall of fire
- Fire opal: Fireball (10d6, Reflex DC 20 half)
- Opal: Daylight

The helm may be used once per round, but each gem can perform its spell-like power just once. Until all its jewels are depleted, a helm of brilliance also has the following magical properties when activated.

- It emanates a bluish light when undead are within 30 feet. This light causes 1d6 points of damage per round to all such creatures within that range.
- The wearer may command any weapon he wields to become a flaming weapon. This is in addition to whatever abilities the weapon may already have (unless the weapon already is a flaming weapon). The command takes 1 round to take effect.
- The helm provides resistance to fire 30. This protection does not stack with similar protection from other sources.

Once all its jewels have lost their magic, the helm loses its powers and the gems turn to worthless powder. Removing a jewel destroys it.

If a creature wearing the helm is damaged by magical fire (after the fire protection is taken into account) and fails an additional DC 15 Will save, the remaining gems on the helm overload and detonate. Remaining diamonds become prismatic sprays that each randomly target a creature within range (possibly the wearer), rubies become straight-line walls of fire extending outward in a random direction from the helm wearer, and fire opals become fireballs centered on the helm wearer. The opals and the helm itself are destroyed.

Strong varied; CL 13th; Craft Wondrous Item, detect undead, fireball, flame blade, light, prismatic spray, protection from energy, wall of fire; Price 125,000 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Helm of Comprehend Languages and Read Magic: Appearing as a normal helmet, a helm of comprehend languages and read magic grants its wearer the ability to understand the spoken words of any creature and to read text in any language and any magical writing. The wearer gains a +5 competence bonus on Decipher Script checks to understand messages written in incomplete, archaic, or exotic forms. Note that understanding a magical text does not necessarily imply spell use.

Faint divination; CL 4th; Craft Wondrous Item, comprehend languages, read magic; Price 5,200 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Helm of Telepathy: The wearer can use detect thoughts at will. Furthermore, he can send a telepathic message to anyone whose surface thoughts he is reading (allowing two-way communication). Once per day, the wearer of the helm can implant a suggestion (as the spell, Will DC 14 negates) along with his telepathic message.

Faint divination and enchantment; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, detect thoughts, suggestion; Price 27,000 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Helm of Teleportation: A character wearing this device may teleport three times per day, exactly as if he had cast the spell of the same name.

Moderate conjuration; CL 9th; Craft Wondrous Item, teleport; Price 73,500 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Helm of Underwater Action: The wearer of this helmet can see underwater. Drawing the small lenses in compartments on either side into position before the wearer's eyes activates the visual properties of the helm, allowing her to see five times farther than water and light conditions would allow for normal human vision. (Weeds, obstructions, and the like block vision in the usual manner.) If the command word is spoken, the helm of underwater action creates a globe of air around the wearer's head and maintains it until the command word is spoken again, enabling her to breathe freely.

Faint transmutation; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, water breathing; Price 57,000 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Horn of Blasting: This horn appears to be a normal trumpet. It can be sounded as a normal horn, but if the command word is spoken and the instrument is then played, it deals 5d6 points of sonic damage to creatures within a 40-foot cone and causes them to be deafened for 2d6 rounds (a DC 16 Fortitude save reduces the damage by half and negates the deafening). Crystalline objects and creatures take 7d6 points of sonic damage, with no save unless they're held, worn, or carried by creatures (Will DC 16 negates).

If a horn of blasting is used magically more than once in a given day, there is a 20% cumulative chance with each extra use that it explodes and deals 10d6 points of damage to the person sounding it.

Moderate evocation; CL 7th; Craft Wondrous Item, shout; Price 20,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Horn of Blasting, Greater: This horn functions as a horn of blasting, except that it deals 10d6 points of sonic damage, stuns creatures for 1 round, and deafens them for 4d6 rounds (a DC 19 Fortitude reduces the damage by half and negates the stunning and deafening). Crystalline objects take 16d6 points of sonic damage as described for the horn of blasting. A greater horn of blasting also has a 20% cumulative chance of exploding.

Strong evocation; CL 16th; Craft Wondrous Item, greater shout; Price 70,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Horn of Fog: This small bugle allows its possessor to blow forth a thick cloud of heavy fog similar to that of an obscuring mist spell. The fog covers a 10-foot square next to the horn blower each round that the user continues to blow the horn; fog clouds travel 10 feet each round in a straight line from the emanation point unless blocked by something substantial such as a wall. The device makes a deep, foghorn-like noise, with the note dropping abruptly to a lower register at the end of each blast. The fog dissipates after 3 minutes. A moderate wind (11+ mph) disperses the fog in 4 rounds; a strong wind (21+ mph) disperses the fog in 1 round.

Faint conjuration; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, obscuring mist; Price 2,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Horn of Goodness/Evil: This trumpet adapts itself to its owner, so it produces either a good or an evil effect depending on the owner's alignment. If the owner is neither good nor evil, the horn has no power whatsoever. If he is good, then blowing the horn has the effect of a magic circle against evil. If he is evil, then blowing the horn has the effect of a magic circle against good. In either case, this ward lasts for 1 hour. The horn can be blown once per day.

Faint abjuration; CL 6th; Craft Wondrous Item, magic circle against good, magic circle against evil; Price 6,500 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Horn of the Tritons: This device is a conch shell that can be blown once per day except by a triton which can sound it three times per day. A horn of the tritons can perform any one of the following functions when blown.

- Calm rough waters in a 1-mile radius. This effect dispels a summoned water elemental if it fails a DC 16 Will save.
- Attract 5d4 Large sharks (01-30 on d%), 5d6 Medium sharks (31-80), or 1d10 sea lions (81-100) if the character is in a body of water in which such creatures dwell. The creatures are friendly and obey, to the best of their ability, the one who sounded the horn.
- Causes aquatic creatures with Intelligence scores of 1 or 2 within 500 feet to become panicked as if they had been targeted by a fear spell (Will DC 16 partial). Those who successfully save are shaken for 3d6 rounds.

Any sounding of a horn of the tritons can be heard by all tritons within a 3-mile radius.

Moderate conjuration and transmutation; CL 8th; Craft Wondrous Item, fear, summon monster V, control water, creator must be a triton or get construction aid from a triton; Price 15,100 gp; Weight 2 lb.

Horn of Valhalla: This magic instrument comes in four varieties. Each appears to be normal until someone speaks its command word and blows the horn. Then the horn summons a number of human barbarians to fight for the character who summoned them. Each horn can be blown just once every seven days. Roll d% and refer to the table below to see what type of horn is found. The horn's type determines what barbarians are summoned and what prerequisite is needed to use the horn. Any character who uses a horn of Valhalla but doesn't have the prerequisite is attacked by the barbarians she herself summoned.

d%	Type of Horn	Barbarians Summoned	Prerequisite
01-40	Silver	2d4+2, 2nd level	None
41-75	Brass	2d4+1, 3rd level	Spellcaster level 1st

--------	--	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

76–90	Bronze	2d4, 4th level	Proficiency with all martial weapons or bardic music ability
91–100	Iron	1d4+1, 5th level	Proficiency with all martial weapons or bardic music ability

Summoned barbarians are constructs, not actual people (though they seem to be); they arrive with the starting equipment for barbarians. They attack anyone the possessor of the horn commands them to fight until they or their opponents are slain or until 1 hour has elapsed, whichever comes first.

Strong conjuration; CL 13th; Craft Wondrous Item, summon monster VI; Price 50,000 gp; Weight 2 lb.

Horseshoes of Speed: These iron shoes come in sets of four like ordinary horseshoes. When affixed to an animal's hooves, they increase the animal's base land speed by 30 feet; this counts as an enhancement bonus. As with other effects that increase speed, jumping distances increase proportionally. All four shoes must be worn by the same animal for the magic to be effective.

Faint transmutation; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, haste; Price 3,000 gp; Weight 12 lb. (for four).

Horseshoes of a Zephyr: These four iron shoes are affixed like normal horseshoes. They allow a horse to travel without actually touching the ground. The horse must still run above (always around 4 inches above) a roughly horizontal surface. This means that non-solid or unstable surfaces can be crossed, and that movement is possible without leaving tracks on any sort of ground. The horse moves at its normal base land speed. All four shoes must be worn by the same animal for the magic to be effective.

Faint transmutation; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, levitate; Price 6,000 gp; Weight 4 lb. (for four).

Incense of Meditation: This small rectangular block of sweet smelling incense is visually indistinguishable from nonmagical incense until lit. When it is burning, the special fragrance and pearly-hued smoke of this special incense are recognizable by anyone making a DC 15 Spellcraft check.

When a divine spellcaster lights a block of incense of meditation and then spends 8 hours praying and meditating nearby, the incense enables him to prepare all his spells as though affected by the Maximize Spell feat. However, all the spells prepared in this way are at their normal level, not at three levels higher (as with the regular metamagic feat).

Each block of incense burns for 8 hours, and the effects persist for 24 hours.

Moderate enchantment; CL 7th; Craft Wondrous Item, Maximize Spell, bless; Price 4,900 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Instant Fortress: This metal cube is small, but when activated by speaking a command word it grows to form a tower 20 feet square and 30 feet high, with arrow slits on all sides and a crenellated battlement atop it. The metal walls extend 10 feet into the ground, rooting it to the spot and preventing it from being tipped over. The fortress has a small door that opens only at the command of the owner of the fortress—even knock spells can't open the door.

The adamantine walls of instant fortress have 100 hit points and hardness 20. The fortress cannot be repaired except by a wish or a miracle, which restores 50 points of damage taken.

The fortress springs up in just 1 round, with the door facing the device's owner. The door opens and closes instantly at his command. People and creatures nearby (except the owner) must be careful not to be caught by the fortress's sudden growth. Anyone so caught takes 10d10 points of damage (Reflex DC 19 half).

The fortress is deactivated by speaking a command word (different from the one used to activate it). It cannot be deactivated unless it is empty.

Strong conjuration; CL 13th; Craft Wondrous Item, mage's magnificent mansion; Price 55,000 gp.

Ioun Stones: These crystalline stones always float in the air and must be within 3 feet of their owner to be of any use. When a character first acquires a stone, she must hold it and then release it, whereupon it takes up a circling orbit 1d3 feet from her head. Thereafter, a stone must be grasped or netted to separate it from its owner. The owner may voluntarily seize and stow a stone (to keep it safe while she is sleeping, for example), but she loses the benefits of the stone during that time. Ioun stones have AC 24, 10 hit points, and hardness 5.

¹ After absorbing twenty spell levels, the stone burns out and turns to dull gray, forever useless.

² After absorbing fifty spell levels, the stone burns out and turns dull gray, forever useless.

Regeneration from the pearly white ioun stone works like a ring of regeneration. (It only cures damage taken while the character is using the stone.) The pale lavender and lavender and green stones work like a rod of absorption, but absorbing a spell requires a readied action, and these stones cannot be used to empower spells. Stored spells in the vibrant purple stone must be placed by a spellcaster but can be used by anyone (see ring of minor spell storing).

Moderate varied; CL 12th; Craft Wondrous Item, creator must be 12th level.

Iron Bands of Binding: When initially discovered, this very potent item appears to be a 3-inch-diameter rusty iron sphere with bandings on the globe.

When the proper command word is spoken and the spherical iron device is hurled at an opponent, the bands expand and then contract to bind the target creature on a successful ranged touch attack. A single Large or smaller creature can be captured thus and held immobile until the command word is spoken to bring the bands into spherical form again. The creature can break (and ruin) the bands with a DC 30 Strength check or escape them with a DC 30 Escape Artist check. Iron bands of binding are usable once per day.

Strong evocation; CL 13th; Craft Wondrous Item, grasping hand; Price 26,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Iron Flask: These special containers are typically inlaid with runes of silver and stoppered by a brass plug bearing a seal engraved with sigils, glyphs, and special symbols. When the user speaks the command word, he can force any creature from another plane into the container, provided that creature fails a DC 19 Will save. The range of this effect is 60 feet. Only one creature at a time can be so contained. Loosing the stopper frees the captured creature.

The command word can be given only once per day.

If the individual freeing the captured creature speaks the command word, the creature can be forced to serve for 1 hour. If freed without the command word, the creature acts according to its natural inclinations. (It usually attacks the user, unless it perceives a good reason not to.) Any attempt to force the same creature into the flask a second time provides it a +2 bonus on its saving throw and makes it hostile. A newly discovered bottle might contain any of the following:

Strong conjuration; CL 20th; Craft Wondrous Item, trap the soul; Price 170,000 gp (empty); Weight 1 lb.

Lantern of Revealing: This lantern operates as a normal hooded lantern. While it is lit, it also reveals all invisible creatures and objects within 25 feet of it, just like the spell invisibility purge.

Faint evocation; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, invisibility purge; Price 30,000 gp; Weight 2 lb.

Lens of Detection: This circular prism enables its user to detect minute details, granting a +5 bonus on Search checks.

It also aids in following tracks, adding a +5 bonus on Survival checks when tracking. The lens is about 6 inches in diameter and set in a frame with a handle.

Moderate divination; CL 9th; Craft Wondrous Item, true seeing; Price 3,500 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Lyre of Building: If the proper chords are struck, a single use of this lyre negates any attacks made against all inanimate construction (walls, roof, floor, and so on) within 300 feet. This includes the effects of a horn of blasting, a disintegrate spell, or an attack from a ram or similar siege weapon. The lyre can be used in this way once per day, with the protection lasting for 30 minutes.

The lyre is also useful with respect to building. Once a week its strings can be strummed so as to produce chords that magically construct buildings, mines, tunnels, ditches, or whatever. The effect produced in but 30 minutes of playing is equal to the work of 100 humans laboring for three days. Each hour after the first, a character playing the lyre must make a DC 18 Perform (string instruments) check. If it fails, she must stop and cannot play the lyre again for this purpose until a week has passed.

Faint transmutation; CL 6th; Craft Wondrous Item, fabricate; Price 13,000 gp; Weight 5 lb.

Strong abjuration [good]; CL 20th; Craft Wondrous Item, stone-skin; Price 76,000 gp.

Mantle of Spell Resistance: This garment, worn over normal clothing or armor, grants the wearer spell resistance 21.

Moderate abjuration; CL 9th; Craft Wondrous Item, spell resistance; Price 90,000 gp.

Manual of Bodily Health: This thick tome contains tips on health and fitness, but entwined within the words is a powerful magical effect. If anyone reads this book, which takes a total of 48 hours over a minimum of six days, he gains an inherent bonus of from +1 to +5 (depending on the type of manual) to his Constitution score. Once the book is read, the magic disappears from the pages and it becomes a normal book.

Once the book is read, the magic disappears from the pages and it becomes a normal book.

Marvelous Pigments: These magic emulsions enable their possessor to create actual, permanent objects simply by depicting their form in two dimensions. The pigments are applied by a stick tipped with bristles, hair, or fur. The emulsion flows from the application to form the desired object as the artist concentrates on the desired image. One pot of marvelous pigments is sufficient to create a 1,000-cubic-foot object by depicting it two-dimensionally over a 100-square-foot surface.

Only normal, inanimate objects can be created. Creatures can't be created. The pigments must be applied to a surface. It takes 10 minutes and a DC 15 Craft (painting) check to depict an object with the pigments. Marvelous pigments cannot create magic items. Objects of value depicted by the pigments—precious metals, gems, jewelry, ivory, and so on—appear to be valuable but are really made of tin, lead, paste, brass, bone, and other such inexpensive materials. The user can create normal weapons, armor, and any other mundane item (including foodstuffs) whose value does not exceed 2,000 gp.

Items created are not magical; the effect is instantaneous.

Strong conjuration; CL 15th; Craft Wondrous Item, major creation; Price 4,000 gp.

Mask of the Skull: This ivory mask has been fashioned into the likeness of a human skull. Once per day, after it has been worn for at least 1 hour, the mask can be loosed to fly from the wearer's face. It travels up to 50 feet away from the wearer and attacks a target assigned to it. The grinning skull mask makes a touch attack against the target based on the wearer's base attack bonus. If the attack succeeds, the target must make a DC 20 Fortitude save or be struck dead, as if affected by a finger of death spell. If the target succeeds on his saving throw, he nevertheless takes 3d6+13 points of damage. After attacking (whether successful or not), the mask flies back to its user. The mask has AC 16, 10 hit points, and hardness 6.

Strong necromancy and transmutation; CL 13th; Craft Wondrous Item, animate objects, finger of death, fly; Price 22,000 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Mattock of the Titans: This digging tool is 10 feet long. Any creature of at least Huge size can use it to loosen or tumble earth or earthen ramparts (a 10-foot cube every 10 minutes). It also smashes rock (a 10-foot cube per hour). If used as a weapon, it is the equivalent of a Gargantuan +3 adamantine warhammer, dealing 4d6 points of base damage.

Strong transmutation; CL 16th; Craft Wondrous Item, Craft Magic Arms and Armor, move earth; Price 23,348 gp; Cost 13,348 gp + 800 XP; Weight 120 lb.

Maul of the Titans: This mallet is 8 feet long. If used as a weapon, it is the equivalent of a +3 greatclub and deals triple damage against inanimate objects. However, the wielder must have a Strength of at least 18 to wield it properly. Otherwise, she takes a -4 penalty on attack rolls.

Strong evocation; CL 15th; Craft Wondrous Item, Craft Magic Arms and Armor, clenched fist; Price 25,305 gp; Cost 12,305 gp + 480 XP; Weight 160 lb.

Medallion of Thoughts: This appears to be a normal pendant disk hung from a neck chain. Usually fashioned from bronze, copper, or nickel-silver, the medallion allows the wearer to read the thoughts of others, as with the spell detect thoughts.

Faint divination; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, detect thoughts; Price 12,000 gp.

Mirror of Life Trapping: This crystal device is usually about 4 feet square and framed in metal or wood. It can be hung or placed on a surface and then activated by giving a command word. The same command word deactivates the mirror. A mirror of life trapping has fifteen nonspatial extradimensional compartments within it. Any creature coming within 30 feet of the device and looking at its own reflection must make a DC 23 Will save or be trapped within the mirror in one of the cells. A creature not aware of the nature of the device always sees its own reflection. The probability of a creature seeing its reflection, and thus needing to make the saving throw, drops to 50% if the creature is aware that the mirror traps life and seeks to avoid looking at it (treat as a gaze attack).

When a creature is trapped, it is taken bodily into the mirror. Size is not a factor, but constructs and undead are not trapped, nor are inanimate objects and other nonliving matter. A victim's equipment (including clothing and anything being carried) remains behind. If the mirror's owner knows the right command word, he can call the reflection of any creature trapped within to its surface and engage his powerless prisoner in conversation. Another command word frees the trapped creature. Each pair of command words is specific to each prisoner.

If the mirror's capacity is exceeded, one victim (determined randomly) is set free in order to accommodate the latest one. If the mirror is broken, all victims currently trapped in it are freed.

Strong abjuration; CL 17th; Craft Wondrous Item, imprisonment; Price 200,000 gp; Weight 50 lb.

Mirror of Mental Prowess: This mirror resembles an ordinary looking glass 5 feet tall by 2 feet wide. The possessor who knows the proper commands can cause it to perform as follows.

- Read the thoughts of any creature reflected therein, as long as the owner is within 25 feet of the mirror, even if those thoughts are in an unknown language.

- View other places as if with clairvoyance, but vision extends even onto other planes if the viewer is sufficiently familiar with them.

- Use it as a portal to visit other places. The user first views the place with the clairvoyance function, then steps through the mirror to the place pictured. Others can follow her through the mirror if they like. An invisible portal remains on the other side where she arrives, and she can return through that portal. Once she returns, the portal closes. The portal closes on its own after 24 hours (trapping the user if she's still in the other place), and the user can also close it with a command word. Creatures with Intelligence of 12 or higher might notice the portal just as they might notice a magical sensor from a scrying spell. Any creature who steps through the portal appears in front of the mirror.

- Once per week the mirror accurately answers one short question regarding a creature whose image is shown on its surface (giving answers similar to those from the legend lore spell).

Strong conjuration and divination; CL 17th; Craft Wondrous Item, detect thoughts, clairaudience/clairvoyance, gate, legend lore; Price 175,000 gp; Weight 40 lb.

Mirror of Opposition: This item resembles a normal mirror about 4 feet long and 3 feet wide. It can be hung or placed on a surface and then activated by speaking a command word. The same command word deactivates the mirror. If a creature sees its reflection in the mirror's surface, an exact duplicate of that creature comes into being. This opposite immediately attacks the original. The duplicate has all the possessions and powers of its original (including magic). Upon the defeat or destruction of either the duplicate or the original, the duplicate and her items disappear completely. The mirror functions up to four times per day.

Strong necromancy; CL 15th; Craft Wondrous Item, clone; Price 92,000 gp; Weight 45 lb.

Necklace of Adaptation: This necklace is a heavy chain with a platinum medallion. The magic of the necklace wraps the wearer in a shell of fresh air, making him immune to all harmful vapors and gases (such as cloudkill and stinking cloud effects, as well as inhaled poisons) and allowing him to breathe, even underwater or in a vacuum.

Moderate transmutation; CL 7th; Craft Wondrous Item, alter self; Price 9,000 gp.

Necklace of Fireballs: This device appears to be nothing but beads on a string, sometimes with the ends tied together to form a necklace. (It does not count as an item worn around the neck for the purpose of determining which of a character's worn magic items is effective.) If a character holds it, however, all can see the strand as it really is—a golden chain from which hang a number of golden spheres. The spheres are detachable by the wearer (and only by the wearer), who can easily hurl one of them up to 70 feet. When a sphere arrives at the end of its trajectory, it detonates as a fireball spell (Reflex DC 14 half).

Spheres come in different strengths, ranging from those that deal 2d6 points of fire damage to those that deal 10d6. The market price of a sphere is 150 gp for each die of damage it deals.

Each necklace of fireballs contains a combination of spheres of various strengths. Some traditional combinations, designated types I through VII, are detailed below.

Necklace	10 d6	9 d6	8 d6	7 d6	6 d6	5 d6	4 d6	3 d6	2 d6	Market Price
Type I	—	—	—	—	—	1	—	2	—	1,650 gp
Type II	—	—	—	—	1	—	2	—	2	2,700 gp
Type III	—	—	—	1	—	2	—	4	—	4,350 gp
Type IV	—	—	1	—	2	—	2	—	4	5,400 gp
Type V	—	1	—	2	—	2	—	2	—	5,850 gp
Type VI	1	—	2	—	2	—	4	—	—	8,100 gp
Type VII	1	2	—	2	—	2	—	2	—	8,700 gp

If the necklace is being worn or carried by a character who fails her saving throw against a magical fire attack, the item must make a saving throw as well (with a save bonus of +7). If the necklace fails to save, all its remaining spheres detonate simultaneously, often with regrettable consequences for the wearer.

Moderate evocation; CL 10th; Craft Wondrous Item, fireball.

Orb of Storms: This glass sphere is 8 inches in diameter. The possessor can call forth all manner of weather, even supernaturally destructive storms. Once per day she can call upon the orb to use a control weather spell. Once per month, she can conjure a storm of vengeance. The possessor of the orb is continually protected by an endure elements effect.

Strong varied; CL 18th; Craft Wondrous Item, control weather, endure elements, storm of vengeance; Price 48,000 gp; Weight 6 lb.

Pearl of Power: This seemingly normal pearl of average size and luster is a potent aid to all spellcasters who prepare spells (clerics, druids, rangers, paladins, and wizards). Once per day on command, a pearl of power enables the possessor to recall any one spell that she had prepared and then cast. The spell is then prepared again, just as if it had not been cast. The spell must be of a particular level, depending on the pearl. Different pearls exist for recalling one spell per day of each level from 1st through 9th and for the recall of two spells per day (each of a different level, 6th or lower).

Strong transmutation; CL 17th; Craft Wondrous Item, creator must be able to cast spells of the spell level to be recalled; Price 1,000 gp (1st), 4,000 gp (2nd), 9,000 gp (3rd), 16,000 gp (4th), 25,000 gp (5th), 36,000 gp (6th), 49,000 gp (7th), 64,000 gp (8th), 81,000 gp (9th), or 70,000 gp (two spells).

Pearl of the Sirines: This normal-seeming pearl is beautiful and worth at least 1,000 gp on that basis alone. If it is clasped firmly in hand or held to the breast while the possessor attempts actions related to the pearl's powers, she understands and is able to employ the item.

The pearl enables its possessor to breathe in water as if she were in clean, fresh air. Her swim speed is 60 feet, and she can cast spells and act underwater without hindrance.

Moderate abjuration and transmutation; CL 8th; Craft Wondrous Item, freedom of movement, water breathing; Price 15,300 gp.

Periapt of Health: The wearer of this blue gem on a silver chain is immune to disease, including supernatural diseases.

Faint conjuration; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, remove disease; Price 7,500 gp.

Periapt of Proof against Poison: This item is a brilliant-cut black gem on a delicate silver chain. The wearer is immune to poison, although poisons still active when the periapt is first donned still run their course.

Faint conjuration; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, neutralize poison; Price 27,000 gp.

Periapt of Wisdom: Although it appears to be a normal pearl on a light chain, a periapt of wisdom actually increases the possessor's Wisdom score in the form of an enhancement bonus of +2, +4, or +6 (depending on the individual item).

Moderate transmutation; CL 8th; Craft Wondrous Item, owl's wisdom; Price 4,000 gp (+2), 16,000 gp (+4), 36,000 gp (+6).

Periapt of Wound Closure: This stone is bright red and dangles on a gold chain. The wearer of this periapt automatically becomes stable if his hit points drop to between -1 and -9 inclusive. The periapt doubles the wearer's normal rate of healing or allows normal healing of wounds that would not do so normally. Hit point damage that involves bleeding is negated for the wearer of the periapt, but he is still susceptible to damage from bleeding that causes Constitution loss, such as that dealt by a wounding weapon.

Moderate conjuration; CL 10th; Craft Wondrous Item, heal; Price 15,000 gp.

Phylactery of Faithfulness: This item is a small box containing religious scripture affixed to a leather cord and tied around the forehead. There is no mundane way to determine what function this religious item performs until it is worn. The wearer of a phylactery of faithfulness is aware of any action or item that could adversely affect his alignment and his standing with his deity, including magical effects. He acquires this information prior to performing such an action or becoming associated with such an item if he takes a moment to contemplate the act.

Faint divination; CL 1st; Craft Wondrous Item, detect chaos, de- tect evil, detect good, detect law; Price 1,000 gp.

Phylactery of Undead Turning: This item is a boon to any character able to turn undead, allowing him to do so as if his class level were four levels higher than it actually is.

Moderate necromancy [good]; CL 10th; Craft Wondrous Item, 10th-level cleric; Price 11,000 gp.

Pipes of Haunting: This magic item appears to be a small set of pan pipes. When played by a person who succeeds on a DC 15 Perform (wind instruments) check, the pipes create an eerie, spell-binding tune. Those within 30 feet who hear the tune must succeed on a DC 13 Will save or become frightened for 4 rounds. Creatures with 6 or more Hit Dice are unaffected. Pipes of haunting can be sounded twice a day.

Faint necromancy; CL 4th; Craft Wondrous Item, scare; Price 6,000 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Pipes of Pain: These appear to be like any other standard set of pipes with nothing to reveal their true nature. When played by someone who succeeds on a DC 15 Perform (wind instruments) check, the pipes create a wondrous melody. All within 30 feet must make a DC 14 Will save or be fascinated by the sound. (This is a mind-affecting sonic compulsion.)

As soon as the piping stops, all those affected are stricken by intense pain at even the slightest noise. Unless a character is in a totally silent area, she takes 1d4 points of damage per round for 2d4 rounds. During this time, damage from sonic attacks is doubled. Thereafter, the least noise causes an affected character to become shaken (except when she is in a totally silent area). This hypersensitivity is a curse and therefore hard to remove (see the bestow curse spell).

Faint enchantment and evocation; CL 6th; Craft Wondrous Item, creator must have the bardic music class feature, sound burst; Price 12,000 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Pipes of the Sewers: These wooden pipes appear ordinary, but if the possessor learns the proper tune, he can attract 1d3 rat swarms if rats are within 400 feet. For each 50-foot distance the rats have to travel, there is a 1-round delay. The piper must continue playing until the rats appear, and when they do so, the piper must make a DC 10 Perform (wind instruments) check. Success means that they obey the piper's telepathic commands so long as he continues to play. Failure indicates that they turn on the piper. If for any reason the piper ceases playing, the rats leave immediately. If they are called again within a day, the Perform check DC is 15.

If the rats are under the control of another creature, add the HD of the controller to the Perform check DC. Once control is assumed, another check is required each round to maintain it if the other creature is actively seeking to reassert its control.

Faint conjuration; CL 2nd; Craft Wondrous Item, charm animal, summon nature's ally I, wild empathy ability; Price 1,150 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Pipes of Sounding: When played by a character who has the Perform (wind instruments) skill, these pipes create a variety of sounds. The figment sounds are the equivalent of ghost sound (caster level 2nd).

Faint illusion; CL 2nd; Craft Wondrous Item, ghost sound; Price 1,800 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Portable Hole: A portable hole is a circle of cloth spun from the webs of a phase spider interwoven with strands of ether and beams of starlight. When opened fully, a portable hole is 6 feet in diameter, but it can be folded up to be as small as a pocket handkerchief. When spread upon any surface, it causes an extradimensional space 10 feet deep to come into being. This hole can be picked up from inside or out by simply taking hold of the edges of the cloth and folding it up. Either way, the entrance disappears, but anything inside the hole remains.

The only air in the hole is that which enters when the hole is opened. It contains enough air to supply one Medium creature or two Small creatures for 10 minutes. The cloth does not accumulate weight even if its hole is filled. Each portable hole opens on its own particular nondimensional space. If a bag of holding is placed within a portable hole, a rift to the Astral Plane is torn in that place. Both the bag and the cloth are sucked into the void and forever lost. If a portable hole is placed within a bag of holding, it opens a gate to the Astral Plane. The hole, the bag, and any creatures within a 10-foot radius are drawn there, the portable hole and bag of holding being destroyed in the process.

Moderate conjuration; CL 12th; Craft Wondrous Item, plane shift; Price 20,000 gp.

Restorative Ointment: A jar of this unguent is 3 inches in diameter and 1 inch deep and contains five applications. Placed upon a poisoned wound or swallowed, the ointment detoxifies any poison (as neutralize poison). Applied to a diseased area, it removes disease (as remove disease). Rubbed on a wound, the ointment cures 1d8+5 points of damage (as cure light wounds).

Faint conjuration; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, cure light wounds, neutralize poison, remove disease; Price 4,000 gp; Weight 1/2 lb.

Ring Gates: These always come in pairs—two iron rings, each about 18 inches in diameter. The rings must be on the same plane of existence and within 100 miles of each other to function. Whatever is put through one ring comes out the other, and up to 100 pounds of material can be transferred each day. (Objects only partially pushed through and then retracted do not count.) This useful device allows for instantaneous transport of items or messages, and even attacks. A character can reach through to grab things near the other ring, or even stab a weapon through if so desired. Alternatively, a character could stick his head through to look around. A spellcaster could even cast a spell through a ring gate. A Small character can make a DC 13 Escape Artist check to slip through. Creatures of Tiny, Diminutive, or Fine size can pass through easily. Each ring has a “entry side” and an “exit side,” both marked with appropriate symbols.

Strong conjuration; CL 17th; Craft Wondrous Item, gate; Price 40,000 gp; Weight 1 lb. each.

Robe of the Archmagi: This normal-appearing garment can be white (01-45 on d%, good alignment), gray (46-75, neither good nor evil alignment), or black (76-100, evil alignment). Its wearer, if an arcane spellcaster, gains the following powers.

- +5 armor bonus to AC.
- Spell resistance 18.
- +4 resistance bonus on all saving throws.
- +2 enhancement bonus on caster level checks made to overcome spell resistance.

If a white robe is donned by an evil character, she immediately gains three negative levels. The reverse is true with respect to a black robe donned by a good character. An evil or good character who puts on a gray robe, or a neutral character who dons either a white or black robe, gains two negative levels. While these negative levels never result in lost levels, they remain as long as the garment is worn and cannot be overcome in any way (including restoration spells).

Strong varied; CL 14th; Craft Wondrous Item, antimagic field, mage armor or shield of faith, creator must be of same alignment as robe; Price 75,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Robe of Blending: When this robe is put on, the wearer intuitively knows that the garment has very special properties. A robe of blending enables its wearer to appear to be part of his surroundings. This allows him a +10 competence bonus on Hide checks. The wearer can adopt the appearance of another creature, as with the disguise self spell, at will. All creatures acquainted with and friendly to the wearer see him normally.

Moderate illusion; CL 10th; Craft Wondrous Item, disguise self; Price 30,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Robe of Bones: This handy item functions much like a robe of useful items for the serious necromancer. It appears to be an unremarkable robe, but a character who dons it notes that it is adorned with small embroidered figures representing undead creatures. Only the wearer of the robe can see the embroidery and recognize them for the creatures they become, and detach them. One figure can be detached each round. Detaching a figure causes it to become an actual undead creature (see the list below). The skeleton or zombie is not under the control of the wearer of the robe, but may be subsequently commanded, rebuked, turned, or destroyed. A newly created robe of bones always has two embroidered figures of each of the following undead:

- Small goblin skeleton
- Medium human commoner skeleton
- Medium wolf skeleton
- Small goblin zombie
- Medium human commoner zombie
- Medium wolf zombie

Moderate necromancy [evil]; CL 6th; Craft Wondrous Item, animate dead; Price 2,400 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Robe of Eyes: This valuable garment appears to be a normal robe until it is put on. Its wearer is able to see in all directions at the same moment due to scores of visible, magical eyelike patterns that adorn the robe. She also gains 120-foot darkvision.

The robe of eyes sees all forms of invisible or ethereal things within 120 feet.

The wearer of a robe of eyes gains a +10 competence bonus on Search checks and Spot checks. She retains her Dexterity bonus to AC even when flat-footed, and she can't be flanked. However, she is not able to avert her eyes or close her eyes when confronted by a creature with a gaze attack.

A light or continual flame spell cast directly on a robe of eyes causes it to be blinded for 1d3 minutes. A daylight spell blinds it for 2d4 minutes.

Moderate divination; CL 11th; Craft Wondrous Item, true seeing; Price 120,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Robe of Scintillating Colors: The wearer of this robe can cause the garment to display a shifting pattern of incredible hues, color after color cascading from the upper part of the robe to the hem in sparkling rainbows of dazzling light. The colors daze those near the wearer, conceal the wearer, and illuminate the surroundings. It takes 1 full round after the wearer speaks the command word for the colors to start flowing on the robe. The colors create the equivalent of a gaze attack with a 30-foot range. Those who look at the wearer are dazed for 1d4+1 rounds (Will DC 16 negates). This is a mind-affecting pattern effect.

Every round of continuous scintillation of the robe gives the wearer better concealment. The miss chance on attacks against the wearer starts at 10% and increases by 10% each round until it reaches 50% (total concealment).

The robe illuminates a 30-foot radius continuously.

The effect can be used no more than a total of 10 rounds per day.

Moderate illusion; CL 11th; Craft Wondrous Item, blur, rainbow pattern; Price 27,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Robe of Stars: This garment is typically black or dark blue and embroidered with small white or silver stars. The robe has three magical powers.

- It enables its wearer to travel physically to the Astral Plane, along with all that she is wearing or carrying.
- It gives its wearer a +1 luck bonus on all saving throws.
- Its wearer can use up to six of the embroidered stars on the chest portion of the robe as +5 shuriken. The robe grants its wearer proficiency with such weapons. Each shuriken disappears after it is used.

Strong varied; CL 15th; Craft Wondrous Item, magic missile, astral projection or plane shift; Price 58,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Robe of Useful Items: This appears to be an unremarkable robe, but a character who dons it notes that it is adorned with small cloth patches of various shapes. Only the wearer of the robe can see these patches, recognize them for what items they become, and detach them. One patch can be detached each round. Detaching a patch causes it to become an actual item, as indicated below. A newly created robe of useful items always has two each of the following patches:

- Dagger
- Bullseye lantern (filled and lit)
- Mirror (a highly polished 2-foot-by-4-foot steel mirror)
- Pole (10-foot length)
- Hempen rope (50-foot coil)
- Sack

In addition, the robe has several other patches. Roll 4d4 for the number of other patches and then roll for each patch on the table below to determine its nature.

d%	Result
01–08	Bag of 100 gold pieces
09–15	Coffer, silver (6 in. by 6 in. by 1 ft.), 500 gp value
16–22	Door, iron (up to 10 ft. wide and 10 ft. high and barred on one side—must be placed upright, attaches and hinges itself)
23–30	Gems, 10 (100 gp value each)
31–44	Ladder, wooden (24 ft. long)
45–51	Mule (with saddle bags)
52–59	Pit, open (10 ft. by 10 ft. by 10 ft.)
60–68	Potion of cure serious wounds
69–75	Rowboat (12 ft. long)
76–83	Minor scroll of one randomly determined spell
84–90	War dogs, pair (treat as riding dogs)
91–96	Window (2 ft. by 4 ft., up to 2 ft. deep)
97–100	Portable ram

Multiple items of the same kind are permissible. Once removed, a patch cannot be replaced.

Moderate transmutation; CL 9th; Craft Wondrous Item, fabricate; Price 7,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Rope of Climbing: A 60-foot-long rope of climbing is no thicker than a wand, but it is strong enough to support 3,000 pounds. Upon command, the rope snakes forward, upward, downward, or in any other direction at 10 feet per round, attaching itself securely wherever its owner desires. It can unfasten itself and return in the same manner.

A rope of climbing can be commanded to knot or unknot itself. This causes large knots to appear at 1-foot intervals along the rope. Knotting shortens the rope to a 50-foot length until the knots are untied but lowers the DC of Climb checks while using it by 10. A creature must hold one end of the rope when its magic is invoked.

Faint transmutation; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, animate rope; Price 3,000 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Rope of Entanglement: A rope of entanglement looks just like any other hempen rope about 30 feet long. Upon command, the rope lashes forward 20 feet or upward 10 feet to entangle a victim. An entangled creature can break free with a DC 20 Strength check or a DC 20 Escape Artist check.

The rope has AC 22, 12 hit points, and hardness 10, and it has damage reduction 5/slashing as well. The rope repairs damage to itself at a rate of 1 point per 5 minutes, but if a rope of entanglement is severed (all 12 hit points lost to damage), it is destroyed.

Moderate transmutation; CL 12th; Craft Wondrous Item, animate objects, animate rope, entangle; Price 21,000 gp; Weight 5 lb.

Salve of Slipperiness: This substance provides a +20 competence bonus on all Escape Artist checks, meaning that it is almost impossible to grapple such a character or to tie or chain him up. In addition, such obstructions as webs (magical or otherwise) do not affect an anointed individual. Magic ropes and the like do not avail against this salve. If it is smeared on a floor or on steps, the area should be treated as a long-lasting grease spell. The salve requires 8 hours to wear off normally, or it can be wiped off with an alcohol solution (even wine).

Salve of slipperiness is needed to coat the inside of a container that is meant to hold sovereign glue (see below).

Faint conjuration; CL 6th; Craft Wondrous Item, grease; Price 1,000 gp.

Scabbard of Keen Edges: This scabbard is fashioned from cured leather and fine silver. It can shrink or enlarge to accommodate any knife, dagger, sword, or similar weapon up to and including a greatsword. Up to three times per day on command, the scabbard casts keen edge on any blade placed within it.

Faint transmutation; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, keen edge; Price 16,000 gp; Weight 1 lb.

Scarab of Protection: This device appears to be a silver medalion in the shape of a beetle. If it is held for 1 round, an inscription appears on its surface letting the holder know that it is a protective device.

The scarab's possessor gains spell resistance 20. The scarab can also absorb energy-draining attacks, death effects, and negative energy effects. Upon absorbing twelve such attacks, the scarab turns to powder and is destroyed.

Strong abjuration and necromancy; CL 18th; Craft Wondrous Item, death ward, spell resistance; Price 38,000 gp.

Scarab, Golembane: This beetle-shaped pin enables its wearer to detect any golem within 60 feet, although he must concentrate (a standard action) in order for the detection to take place. A scarab enables its possessor to combat golems with weapons, unarmed attacks, or natural weapons as if those golems had no damage reduction.

Moderate divination; CL 8th; Craft Wondrous Item, detect magic, creator must be at least 10th level; Price 2,500 gp.

Shrouds of Disintegration: These burial wrappings look to be made of fine, embroidered materials. When a body is placed inside, a command word will turn it to dust. The magic of the shrouds is usable only once, after which the wrappings become ordinary, fine cloth.

Strong transmutation; CL 15th; Craft Wondrous Item, disintegrate; Price 6,600 gp; Weight 10 lb.

Silversheen: This substance can be applied to a weapon as a standard action. It will give the weapon the properties of alchemical silver for 1 hour, replacing the properties of any other special material it might have. One vial will coat a single melee weapon or 20 units of ammunition.

Faint transmutation; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item; Price 250 gp.

Slippers of Spider Climbing: When worn, a pair of these slippers enable movement on vertical surfaces or even upside down along ceilings, leaving the wearer's hands free. Her speed is 20 feet. Severely slippery surfaces-icy, oiled, or greased surfaces- make these slippers useless. The slippers can be used for 10 minutes per day, split up as the wearer chooses.

Faint transmutation; CL 4th; Craft Wondrous Item, spider climb; Price 4,800 gp; Weight 1/2 lb.

Sovereign Glue: This pale amber substance is thick and viscous. Because of its particular powers, it can be contained only in a flask whose inside has been coated with 1 ounce of salve of slipperiness, and each time any of the bonding agent is poured from the flask, a new application of the salve of slipperiness must be put in the flask within 1 round to prevent the remaining glue from adhering to the side of the container. A flask of sovereign glue, when found, holds anywhere from 1 to 7 ounces of the stuff (1d8-1, minimum 1), with the other ounce of the flask's capacity taken up by the salve of slipperiness. One ounce of this adhesive covers 1 square foot of surface, bonding virtually any two substances together in a permanent union. The glue takes 1 round to set. If the objects are pulled apart (a move action) before that time has elapsed, that application of the glue loses its stickiness and is worthless. If the glue is allowed to set, then attempting to separate the two bonded objects has no effect, except when universal solvent is applied to the bond. (Sovereign glue is dissolved by universal solvent.)

Strong transmutation; CL 20th; Craft Wondrous Item, make whole; Price 2,400 gp (per ounce).

Stone of Alarm: This stone cube, when given the command word, affixes itself to any object. If that object is touched thereafter by anyone who does not first speak that same command word, the stone emits a piercing screech for 1 hour that can be heard up to a quarter-mile away (assuming no intervening barriers).

Faint abjuration; CL 3rd; Craft Wondrous Item, alarm; Price 2,700 gp; Weight 2 lb.

Stone of Controlling Earth Elementals: A stone of this nature is typically an oddly shaped bit of roughly polished rock.

The possessor of such a stone need but utter a few words of summoning, and a Huge earth elemental comes to the summoner. The summoning words require 1 full round to speak, and in all ways the stone functions as the summon monster VII spell. (If sand or rough, unhewn stone is the summoning medium, the elemental that comes is Large instead, and the stone functions as the summon monster VI spell.) The elemental appears in 1d4 rounds. Only one elemental can be summoned at a time. A new elemental requires a new patch of earth or stone, which cannot be accessed until after the first elemental disappears (is dispelled, dismissed, or slain).

Strong conjuration; CL 13th; Craft Wondrous Item, summon monster VI, summon monster VII; Price 100,000 gp;Weight 5 lb.

Stone of Good Luck (Luckstone): This stone is typically a bit of rough polished agate or some similar mineral. Its possessor gains a +1 luck bonus on saving throws, ability checks, and skill checks.

Faint evocation; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, divine favor; Price 20,000 gp.

Stone Horse: Each item of this nature appears to be a fullsized, roughly hewn statue of a horse, carved from some type of hard stone. A command word brings the steed to life, enabling it to carry a burden and even to attack as if it were a real horse of the appropriate kind.

A stone horse can carry 1,000 pounds tirelessly and never needs to rest or feed. Damage dealt to it can be repaired by first using a stone to flesh spell, thus causing the stone horse to become a normal horse that can be healed normally. When fully healed, it automatically reverts to its stone form. While in its stone form, it can be fed gems, healing 1 point of damage for each 50 gp worth of mineral it is given.

There are two sorts of stone horses.

Courser: This item has the statistics of a heavy horse as well as having hardness 10.

Destrier: This item has the statistics of a heavy warhorse as well as having hardness 10.

Strong transmutation; CL 14th; Craft Wondrous Item, flesh to stone, animate objects; Price 10,000 gp (courser) or 14,800 gp (destrier);Weight 6,000 lb.

Stone Salve: This ointment has two uses. If an ounce of it is applied to the flesh of a petrified creature, it returns the creature to flesh as the stone to flesh spell. If an ounce of it is applied to the flesh of a nonpetrified creature, it protects the creature as a stoneskin spell.

Strong abjuration and transmutation; CL 13th; Craft Wondrous Item, flesh to stone, stoneskin; Price 4,000 gp per ounce.

Strand of Prayer Beads: This item appears to be a normal string of prayer beads until the owner casts a divine spell. Once that occurs, the owner instantly knows the powers of the prayer beads and how to activate them. Each strand includes two or more special beads, each with a different magic power.

Special Bead Type	Special Bead Ability
Bead of blessing	Wearer can cast bless .
Bead of healing	Wearer can cast his choice of cure serious wounds , remove blindness/deafness , or remove disease .
Bead of karma	Wearer casts his spells at +4 caster level. Effect lasts 10 minutes.
Bead of smiting	Wearer can cast chaos hammer , holy smite , order's wrath , or unholy blight (Will DC 17 partial).

Bead of summons	Summons a powerful creature of appropriate alignment from the Outer Planes (an angel, devil, etc.) to aid the wearer for one day. (If the wearer uses the bead of summons to summon a deity's emissary frivolously, the deity takes that character's items and places a geas upon him as punishment in the very least.)
Bead of wind walking	Wearer can cast wind walk .

A lesser strand of prayer beads has a bead of blessing and a bead of healing. A strand of prayer beads has a bead of healing, a bead of karma, and a bead of smiting. A greater strand of prayer beads has a bead of healing, a bead of karma, a bead of summons, and a bead of wind walking.

Each special bead can be used once per day, except for the bead of summons, which works only once and then becomes nonmagical. The beads of blessing, smiting, and wind walking function as spell trigger items; the beads of karma and summons can be activated by any character capable of casting divine spells. The owner need not hold or wear the strand of prayer beads in any specific location, as long as he carries it somewhere on his person.

The power of a special bead is lost if it is removed from the strand. Reduce the price of a strand of prayer beads that is missing one or more beads by the following amounts: bead of blessing -600 gp, bead of healing -9,000 gp, bead of karma -20,000 gp, bead of smiting -16,800 gp, bead of summons -20,000 gp, bead of wind walking -46,800 gp.

Faint, moderate or strong (many schools); CL 1st (blessing), 5th (healing), 7th (smiting), 9th (karma), 11th (wind walking), 17th (summons); Craft Wondrous Items and one of the following spells per bead, as appropriate: bless (blessing); cure serious wounds, remove blindness/ deafness, or remove disease (healing); righteous might (karma); gate (summons); chaos hammer, holy smite, order's wrath, or unholy blight (smiting), wind walk (wind walking); Price 9,600 gp (lesser), 25,800 gp (standard), 95,800 gp (greater).

Sustaining Spoon: This unremarkable eating utensil is typically fashioned from horn. If the spoon is placed in an empty container the vessel fills with a thick, pasty gruel. Although this substance has a flavor similar to that of warm, wet cardboard, it is highly nourishing and contains everything necessary to sustain any herbivorous, omnivorous, or carnivorous creature. The spoon can produce sufficient gruel each day to feed up to four humans.

Faint conjuration; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, create food and water; Price 5,400 gp.

Tome of Clear Thought: This heavy book contains instruction on improving memory and logic, but entwined within the words is a powerful magical effect. If anyone reads this book, which takes a total of 48 hours over a minimum of six days, she gains an inherent bonus of from +1 to +5 (depending on the type of tome) to her Intelligence score. Once the book is read, the magic disappears from the pages and it becomes a normal book. Because the tome of clear thought provides an inherent bonus, the reader will earn extra skill points when she attains a new level.

Strong evocation (if miracle is used); CL 17th; Craft Wondrous Item, miracle or wish; Price 27,500 gp (+1), 55,000 gp (+2), 82,500 gp (+3), 110,000 gp (+4), 137,500 gp (+5); Cost 1,250 gp + 5,100 XP (+1), 2,500 gp + 10,200 XP (+2), 3,750 gp + 15,300 XP (+3), 5,000 gp + 20,400 XP (+4), 6,250 gp + 25,500 XP (+5); Weight 5 lb.

Tome of Leadership and Influence: This ponderous book details suggestions for persuading and inspiring others, but entwined within the words is a powerful magical effect. If anyone reads this book, which takes a total of 48 hours over a minimum of six days, he gains an inherent bonus of from +1 to +5 (depending on the type of tome) to his Charisma score. Once the book is read, the magic disappears from the pages and it becomes a normal book.

Strong evocation (if miracle is used); CL 17th; Craft Wondrous Item, miracle or wish; Price 27,500 gp (+1), 55,000 gp (+2), 82,500 gp (+3), 110,000 gp (+4), 137,500 gp (+5); Cost 1,250 gp + 5,100 XP (+1), 2,500 gp + 10,200 XP (+2), 3,750 gp + 15,300 XP (+3), 5,000 gp + 20,400 XP (+4), 6,250 gp + 25,500 XP (+5); Weight 5 lb.

Tome of Understanding: This thick book contains tips for improving instinct and perception, but entwined within the words is a powerful magical effect. If anyone reads this book, which takes a total of 48 hours over a minimum of six days, she gains an inherent bonus of from +1 to +5 (depending on the type of tome) to her Wisdom score. Once the book is read, the magic disappears from the pages and it becomes a normal book.

Strong evocation (if miracle is used); CL 17th; Craft Wondrous Item, miracle or wish; Price 27,500 gp (+1), 55,000 gp (+2), 82,500 gp (+3), 110,000 gp (+4), 137,500 gp (+5); Cost 1,250 gp + 5,100 XP (+1), 2,500 gp + 10,200 XP (+2), 3,750 gp + 15,300 XP (+3), 5,000 gp + 20,400 XP (+4), 6,250 gp + 25,500 XP (+5); Weight 5 lb.

Unguent of Timelessness: When applied to any matter that was once alive this ointment allows that substance to resist the passage of time. Each year of actual time affects the substance as if only a day had passed. The coated object gains a +1 resistance bonus on all saving throws. The unguent never wears off, although it can be magically removed (by dispelling the effect, for instance). One flask contains enough material to coat eight Medium or smaller objects. A Large object counts as two Medium objects, and a Huge object counts as two Large objects.

Faint transmutation; CL 3rd; Prerequisite: Craft Wondrous Item; Price 150 gp.

Universal Solvent: This substance has the unique property of being able to dissolve sovereign glue and tanglefoot bags. Applying the solvent is a standard action.

Strong transmutation; CL 20th; Craft Wondrous Item, disintegrate; Price 50 gp.

Vest of Escape: Hidden within secret pockets of this simple silk vest are lockpicks that provide a +4 competence bonus on Open Lock checks. The vest also grants its wearer a +6 competence bonus on Escape Artist checks.

Faint conjuration and transmutation; CL 4th; Craft Wondrous Item, knock, grease; Price 5,200 gp.

Vestment, Druid's: This light garment is worn over normal clothing or armor. Most such vestments are green, embroidered with plant or animal motifs. When this item is worn by a character with the wild shape ability, the character can use that ability one additional time each day.

Moderate transmutation; CL 10th; Craft Wondrous Item, polymorph or wild shape ability; Price 10,000 gp.

Well of Many Worlds: This strange, interdimensional device looks just like a portable hole. Anything placed within it is immediately cast to another world—a parallel world, another planet, or a different plane (chosen randomly). If the well is moved, the random factor again comes into play. It can be picked up, folded, or rolled, just as a portable hole can be. Objects from the world the well touches can come through the opening just as easily as from the initiating place. (It is a two-way portal.)

Strong conjuration; CL 17th; Craft Wondrous Item, gate; Price 82,000 gp.

Wind Fan: A wind fan appears to be nothing more than a wood and papyrus or cloth instrument with which to create a cooling breeze. By uttering the command word, its possessor causes the fan to generate air movement duplicating a gust of wind spell. The fan can be used once per day with no risk. If it is used more frequently, there is a 20% cumulative chance per usage during that day that the device tears into useless, nonmagical tatters.

Faint evocation; CL 5th; Craft Wondrous Item, gust of wind; Price 5,500 gp.

Wings of Flying: A pair of these wings might appear to be nothing more than a plain cloak of old, black cloth, or they could be as elegant as a long cape of blue feathers. When the wearer speaks the command word, the cloak turns into a pair of bat or bird wings that empower her to fly with a speed of 60 feet (good maneuverability).

Moderate transmutation; CL 10th; Craft Wondrous Item, fly; Price 54,000 gp; Weight 2 lb.

MAGIC ITEMS VI (INTELLIGENT, CURSED, & ARTIFACTS)

INTELLIGENT ITEMS

Magic items sometimes have intelligence of their own. Magically imbued with sentience, these items think and feel the same way characters do and should be treated as NPCs. Intelligent items have extra abilities and sometimes extraordinary powers and special purposes. Only permanent magic items (as opposed to single-use items or those with charges) can be intelligent. (This means that potions, scrolls, and wands, among other items, are never intelligent.) In general, less than 1% of magic items have intelligence.

Intelligent items can actually be considered creatures because they have Intelligence, Wisdom, and Charisma scores. Treat them as constructs. Intelligent items often have the ability to illuminate their surroundings at will (as magic weapons do); many cannot see otherwise.

Unlike most magic items, intelligent items can activate their own powers without waiting for a command word from their owner. Intelligent items act during their owner's turn in the initiative order.

INTELLIGENT ITEM ALIGNMENT

Any item with intelligence has an alignment. Note that intelligent weapons already have alignments, either stated or by implication. If you're generating a random intelligent weapon, that weapon's alignment must fit with any alignment-oriented special abilities it has.

Any character whose alignment does not correspond to that of the item (except as noted by the asterisks on the table) gains one negative level if he or she so much as picks up the item. Although this negative level never results in actual level loss, it remains as long as the item is in hand and cannot be overcome in any way (including restoration spells). This negative level is cumulative with any other penalties the item might already place on inappropriate wielders. Items with Ego scores (see below) of 20 to 29 bestow two negative levels. Items with Ego scores of 30 or higher bestow three negative levels.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Intelligent Item Alignment
d%	Alignment of Item
01–05	Chaotic good
06–15	Chaotic neutral*
16–20	Chaotic evil
21–25	Neutral evil*
26–30	Lawful evil
31–55	Lawful good
56–60	Lawful neutral*
61–80	Neutral good*
81–100	Neutral

* The item can also be used by any character whose alignment corresponds to the nonneutral portion of the item's alignment.

LANGUAGES SPOKEN BY ITEM

Like a character, an intelligent item speaks Common plus one additional language per point of Intelligence bonus. Choose appropriate languages, taking into account the item's origin and purposes.

Table: Item Intelligence, Wisdom, Charisma, and Capabilities

d%	Mental Ability Scores	Communication	Capabilities	Senses	Base Price Modifier
01–34	Two at 12, one at 10	Empathy ¹	One lesser power	30 ft. vision and hearing	+1,000 gp

1 The possessor feels urges and sometimes emotions from the item that encourage or discourage certain courses of action.

2 Like a character, an intelligent item speaks Common plus one language per point of Intelligence bonus. It can communicate telepathically with the wielder.

3 The item can also read any languages it can speak.

4 The item can use either communication mode at will, with language use as any speaking item. It can communicate telepathically with the wielder.

5 The item can read all languages as well as use read magic.

6 The intelligent item can have a special purpose (and corresponding dedicated power) rather than a greater power, if appropriate.

SPECIAL PURPOSE ITEMS

Intelligent Item Purpose
d%	Purpose
01–20	Defeat/slay diametrically opposed alignment*
21–30	Defeat/slay arcane spellcasters (including spellcasting monsters and those that use spell-like abilities)
31–40	Defeat/slay divine spellcasters (including divine entities and servitors)

56–60	Defeat/slay a particular race or kind of creature
61–70	Defend a particular race or kind of creature
71–80	Defeat/slay the servants of a specific deity
81–90	Defend the servants and interests of a specific deity
91–95	Defeat/slay all (other than the item and the wielder)
96–100	Choose one
* The purpose of the neutral (N) version of this item is to preserve the balance by defeating/slaying powerful beings of the extreme alignments (LG, LE, CG, CE).

PURPOSE

An item’s purpose must suit the type and alignment of the item and should always be treated reasonably. A purpose of “defeat/slay arcane spellcasters” doesn’t mean that the sword forces the wielder to kill every wizard she sees. Nor does it mean that the sword believes it is possible to kill every wizard, sorcerer, and bard in the world. It does mean that the item hates arcane spellcasters and wants to bring the local wizard’s cabal to ruin, as well as end the rule of a sorceress-queen in a nearby land. Likewise, a purpose of “defend elves” doesn’t mean that if the wielder is an elf, he only wants to help himself. It means that the item wants to be used in furthering the cause of elves, stamping out their enemies and aiding their leaders. A purpose of “defeat/slay all” isn’t just a matter of self-preservation. It means that the item won’t rest (or let its wielder rest) until it places itself above all others.

DEDICATED POWER

A dedicated power operates only when an intelligent item is in pursuit of its special purpose. This determination is always made by the item. It should always be easy and straightforward to see how the ends justify the means. Unlike its other powers, an intelligent item can refuse to use its dedicated power even if the owner is dominant (see Items against Characters, below).

Special Purpose Item Dedicated Powers
d%	Dedicated Power	Base Price Modifier
01–06	Item can use ice storm	+50,000 gp
07–12	Item can use confusion	+50,000 gp
13–17	Item can use phantasmal killer	+50,000 gp
18–24	Item can use crushing despair	+50,000 gp
25–31	Item can use dimension door on itself and wielder	+50,000 gp

99–100	Item can use true resurrection on wielder, once per month	+200,000 gp

ITEM EGO

Ego is a measure of the total power and force of personality that an item possesses. Only after all aspects of an item have been generated can its Ego score be calculated. An item’s Ego score helps determine whether the item or the character is dominant in their relationship, as detailed below.

Item Ego
Attribute of Item	Ego Points
Each +1 of item’s enhancement bonus	1
Each +1 of bonus for special abilities	1
Each lesser power	1
Each greater power	2
Special purpose (and dedicated power)	4
Telepathic ability	1
Read languages ability	1
Read magic ability	1
Each +1 of Intelligence bonus	1
Each +1 of Wisdom bonus	1
Each +1 of Charisma bonus	1

ITEMS AGAINST CHARACTERS

When an item has an Ego of its own, it has a will of its own. The item is, of course, absolutely true to its alignment. If the character who possesses the item is not true to that alignment’s goals or the item’s special purpose, personality conflict-item against character-results. Similarly, any item with an Ego score of 20 or higher always considers itself superior to any character, and a personality conflict results if the possessor does not always agree with the item.

When a personality conflict occurs, the possessor must make a Will saving throw (DC = item’s Ego). If the possessor succeeds, she is dominant. If she fails, the item is dominant. Dominance lasts for one day or until a critical situation occurs (such as a major battle, a serious threat to either the item or the character, and so on). Should an item gain dominance, it resists the character’s desires and demands concessions such as any of the following.

- Removal of associates or items whose alignment or personality is distasteful to the item.
- The character divesting herself of all other magic items or items of a certain type.
- Obedience from the character so the item can direct where they go for its own purposes.
- Immediate seeking out and slaying of creatures hateful to the item.
- Magical protections and devices to protect the item from molestation when it is not in use.
- That the character carry the item with her on all occasions.
- That the character relinquish the item in favor of a more suitable possessor due to alignment differences or conduct.

In extreme circumstances, the item can resort to even harsher measures, such as the following acts:

- Force its possessor into combat.
- Refuse to strike opponents.
- Strike at its wielder or her associates.
- Force its possessor to surrender to an opponent.
- Cause itself to drop from the character’s grasp.

Naturally, such actions are unlikely when harmony reigns between the character’s and item’s alignments or when their purposes and personalities are well matched. Even so, an item might wish to have a lesser character possess it in order to easily establish and maintain dominance over him, or a higher-level possessor so as to better accomplish its goals.

All magic items with personalities desire to play an important role in whatever activity is under way, particularly combat. Such items are rivals of each other, even if they are of the same alignment. No intelligent item wants to share its wielder with others. An intelligent item is aware of the presence of any other intelligent item within 60 feet, and most intelligent items try their best to mislead or distract their host so that she ignores or destroys the rival. Of course, alignment might change this sort of behavior.

Items with personalities are never totally controlled or silenced by the characters who possess them, even though they may never successfully control their possessors. They may be powerless to force their demands but remain undaunted and continue to air their wishes and demands.

CURSED ITEMS

Cursed items are magic items with some sort of potentially negative impact. Sometimes they're directly bad for the user; sometimes they're just inconvenient. Occasionally they mix bad with good, forcing characters to make difficult choices.

Cursed Item Common Curses
d%	Curse
01–15	Delusion
16–35	Opposite effect or target
36–45	Intermittent functioning
46–60	Requirement
61–75	Drawback
76–90	Completely different effect
91–100	Substitute specific cursed item

Delusion: The user believes the item is what it appears to be, yet it actually has no magical power other than to deceive. The user is mentally fooled into thinking the item is functioning and cannot be convinced otherwise without the help of a remove curse spell.

Opposite Effect or Target: These cursed items malfunction, so that either they do the opposite of what the creator intended, or they target the user instead of someone else. The interesting point to keep in mind here is that these items aren't always bad to have. Opposite-effect items include weapons that impose penalties on attack and damage rolls rather than bonuses. Just as a character shouldn't necessarily immediately know what the enhancement bonus of a noncursed magic item is, she shouldn't immediately know that a weapon is cursed. Once she knows, however, the item can be discarded unless some sort of compulsion is placed upon it that compels the wielder to keep and use it. In such cases, a remove curse spell is generally needed to get rid of the item.

Intermittent Functioning: The three varieties of intermittent functioning items all function perfectly as described—at least some of the time. The three varieties are unreliable, dependent, and uncontrolled items.

Unreliable: Each time the item is activated, there is a 5% chance (01–05 on d%) that it does not function.

Dependent: The item only functions in certain situations. To determine what the situation is, either select a situation or roll on the following table.

d%	Situation
01–03	Temperature below freezing
04–05	Temperature above freezing
06–10	During the day
11–15	During the night
16–20	In direct sunlight
21–25	Out of direct sunlight
26–34	Underwater
35–37	Out of water
38–45	Underground
46–55	Aboveground
56–60	Within 10 feet of a random creature type
61–64	Within 10 feet of a random race or kind of creature
65–72	Within 10 feet of an arcane spellcaster
73–80	Within 10 feet of a divine spellcaster
81–85	In the hands of a nonspellcaster
86–90	In the hands of a spellcaster

91–95	In the hands of a creature of a particular alignment
96	In the hands of a creature of particular gender
97–99	On nonholy days or during particular astrological events
100	More than 100 miles from a particular site

Uncontrolled: An uncontrolled item occasionally activates at random times. Roll d% every day. On a result of 01–05 the item activates at some random point during that day.

Requirement: In a sense, a command word is a requirement. Nevertheless, some items have much more stringent requirements that must be met for them to be usable. To keep an item with this kind of curse functioning, one or more of the following conditions must be met.

- Character must eat twice as much as normal.
- Character must sleep twice as much as normal.
- Character must undergo a specific quest (one time only, and then item functions normally thereafter).
- Character must sacrifice (destroy) 100 gp worth of valuables per day.
- Character must sacrifice (destroy) 2,000 gp worth of magic items each week.
- Character must swear fealty to a particular noble or his family.
- Character must discard all other magic items.
- Character must worship a particular deity.
- Character must change her name to a specific name. (The item only works for characters of that name.)
- Character must add a specific class at the next opportunity if not of that class already.
- Character must have a minimum number of ranks in a particular skill.
- Character must sacrifice some part of her life energy (2 points of Constitution) one time. If the character gets the Constitution points back (such as from a restoration spell), the item ceases functioning. (The item does not cease functioning if the character receives a Constitution increase caused by level gain, a wish, or the use of a magic item.)
- Item must be cleansed with holy water each day.
- Item must be used to kill a living creature each day.
- Item must be bathed in volcanic lava once per month.
- Item must be used at least once a day, or it won't function again for its current possessor.
- Item must draw blood when wielded (weapons only). It can't be put away or exchanged for another weapon until it has scored a hit.
- Item must have a particular spell cast upon it each day (such as bless, atonement, or animate objects).

Requirements are so dependent upon suitability to the item that they should never be determined randomly. An item with a requirement that is also intelligent often imposes its requirement through its personality. If the requirement is not met, the item ceases to function. If it is met, usually the item functions for one day before the requirement must be met again (although some requirements are one time only, others monthly, and still others continuous).

Drawback: Items with drawbacks are usually still beneficial to the possessor but they also carry some negative aspect. Although sometimes drawbacks occur only when the item is used (or held, in the case of some items such as weapons), usually the drawback remains with the character for as long as she has the item.

Roll on the table below to generate a drawback that (unless otherwise indicated) remains in effect as long as the item is in the character's possession.

d%	Drawback
01–04	Character's hair grows 1 inch longer. Only happens once.
05–09	Character either shrinks 1/2 inch (01–50 on d%) or grows that much taller (51–100). Only happens once.
10–13	Temperature around item is 10°F cooler than normal.
14–17	Temperature around item is 10°F warmer than normal.
18–21	Character's hair color changes.
22–25	Character's skin color changes.
26–29	Character now bears some identifying mark (tattoo, weird glow, or the like).
30–32	Character's gender changes.
33–34	Character's race or kind changes.
35	Character is afflicted with a random disease that cannot be cured.
36–39	Item continually emits a disturbing sound (moaning, weeping, screaming, cursing, insults).
40	Item looks ridiculous (garishly colored, silly shape, glows bright pink, . . .).
41–45	Character becomes selfishly possessive about the item.
46–49	Character becomes paranoid about losing the item and afraid of damage occurring to it.
50–51	Character's alignment changes.
52–54	Character must attack nearest creature (5% chance [01–05 on d%] each day).
55–57	Character is stunned for 1d4 rounds once item function is finished (or randomly, 1/day).

65	Character gains two negative levels.

98	Character cannot cast divine spells.
99	Character cannot cast any spells.
100	Either pick one of the above that's appropriate or create a drawback specifically for that item.

SPECIFIC CURSED ITEMS

Specific Cursed Items are provided as examples of cursed items. They are given creation prerequisites, should someone want to intentionally create them (although that does not need to be the origin of the item). Note, however, two exceptions: The crystal hypnosis ball and the bag of devouring cannot be created by any known means.

A simple detect magic spell yields a misleading aura and strength, often indicating that the item is a noncursed item of similar sort. An identify spell only has a 1% chance per caster level to reveal a cursed item's true properties, including the cursed aspect. Analyze dweomer reveals the true nature of a cursed item.

Amulet of Inescapable Location: This device is typically worn on a chain or as a brooch. It appears, to magical analysis, to prevent location, scrying or detection or influence by detect thoughts or telepathy. It seems to be an amulet of proof against detection and location. Actually, the amulet gives the wearer a –10 penalty on all saves against divination spells.

Moderate abjuration; CL 10th; Create Wondrous Item, bestow curse; Price 1,000 gp.

Armor of Arrow Attraction: Magical analysis indicates that this armor is a normal suit of +3 full plate. However, the armor is cursed. It works normally with regard to melee attacks but actually serves to attract ranged weapons. The wearer takes a –15 penalty to AC against any attack by a ranged weapon. The true nature of the armor does not reveal itself until the character is fired upon in earnest.

Strong abjuration; CL 16th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, bestow curse; Price 9,000 gp.

Armor of Rage: This armor is similar in appearance to armor of command and functions as a suit of +1 full plate. However, when it is worn, the armor causes the character to take a –4 penalty to Charisma. All unfriendly characters within 300 feet have a +1 morale bonus on attack rolls against her. The effect is not noticeable to the wearer or those affected. (In other words, the wearer does not immediately notice that donning the armor is the cause of her problems, nor do foes understand the reason for the depth of their enmity.)

Strong necromancy; CL 16th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, bestow curse; Price 1,600 gp.

Bag of Devouring: This bag appears to be an ordinary sack. Detection for magical properties makes it seem as if it were a bag of holding. The sack is, however, a lure used by an extradimensional creature-in fact, one of its feeding orifices.

Any substance of animal or vegetable nature is subject to “swallowing” if thrust within the bag. The bag of devouring is 90% likely to ignore any initial intrusion, but any time thereafter that it senses living flesh within (such as if someone reaches into the bag to pull something out), it is 60% likely to close around the offending member and attempt to draw the whole victim in. The bag has a +8 bonus on grapple checks made to pull someone in.

The bag can hold up to 30 cubic feet of matter. It acts as a bag of holding type I, but each hour it has a 5% cumulative chance of swallowing the contents and then spitting the stuff out in some nonspace or on some other plane. Creatures drawn within are consumed in 1 round. The bag destroys the victim's body and prevents any form of raising or resurrection that requires part of the corpse. There is a 50% chance that a wish, miracle, or true resurrection spell can restore a devoured victim to life. Check once for each destroyed creature. If the check fails, the creature cannot be brought back to life by mortal magic.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Moderate conjuration; CL 17th; In effect, this is a creature and cannot be created; Price n/a.

Boots of Dancing: These boots initially appear and function as one of the other kinds of magic boots. But when the wearer is in (or fleeing from) melee combat, boots of dancing impede movement, making him behave as if irresistible dance had been cast upon him. Only a remove curse spell enables the wearer to be rid of the boots once their true nature is revealed.

Strong enchantment; CL 16th; Create Wondrous Item, irresistible dance; Price 30,000 gp.

Bracers of Defenselessness: These appear to be bracers of armor +5 and actually serve as such until the wearer is attacked in anger by an enemy with a Challenge Rating equal to or greater than her level. At that moment and thereafter, the bracers cause a -5 penalty to AC. Once their curse is activated, bracers of defenselessness can be removed only by means of a remove curse spell.

Moderate conjuration; CL 16th; Create Wondrous Item, mage armor, bestow curse; Price 1,200 gp.

Broom of Animated Attack: This item is indistinguishable in appearance from a normal broom. It is identical to a broom of flying by all tests short of attempted use.

If a command is spoken, the broom does a loop-the-loop with its hopeful rider, dumping him on his head from 1d4+5 feet off the ground (no falling damage, since the fall is less than 10 feet). The broom then attacks the victim, swatting the face with the straw or twig end and beating him with the handle end.

The broom gets two attacks per round with each end (two swats with the straw and two with the handle, for a total of four attacks per round). It attacks with a +5 bonus on each attack roll. The straw end causes a victim to be blinded for 1 round when it hits. The handle deals 1d6 points of damage when it hits. The broom has AC 13, 18 hit points, and hardness 4.

Moderate transmutation; CL 10th; Create Wondrous Item, fly, animate objects; Price 5,200 gp.

Cloak of Poisonousness: This cloak is usually made of a woolen material, although it can be made of leather. A detect poison spell can reveal the presence of poison impregnated in the cloak's fabric. The garment can be handled without harm, but as soon as it is actually donned the wearer is killed instantly unless she succeeds on a DC 28 Fortitude save.

Once donned, a cloak of poisonousness can be removed only with a remove curse spell; doing this destroys the magical property of the cloak. If a neutralize poison spell is then used, it is possible to revive the victim with a raise dead or resurrection spell, but not before.

Strong abjuration; CL 15th; Create Wondrous Item, poison, and limited wish or miracle; Price 62,000 gp.

Crystal Hypnosis Ball: This cursed item is indistinguishable from a normal crystal ball. However, anyone attempting to use the scry-ing device becomes fascinated for 1d6 minutes, and a telepathic suggestion is implanted in his mind (Will DC 19 negates).

The user of the device believes that the desired creature or scene was viewed, but actually he came under the influence of a powerful wizard, lich, or even some power or being from another plane. Each further use brings the crystal hypnosis ball gazer deeper under the influence of the controller, either as a servant or a tool. Note that throughout this time, the user remains unaware of his subjugation.

Moderate divination; CL 17th; In effect, this is a minor artifact and cannot be created; Price n/a.

Dust of Sneezing and Choking: This fine dust appears to be dust of appearance. If cast into the air, it causes those within a 20-foot spread to fall into fits of sneezing and coughing. Those failing a DC 15 Fortitude save take 2d6 points of Constitution damage immediately. In addition, those failing a second DC 15 Fortitude save 1 minute later are dealt 1d6 points of Constitution damage. Those who succeed on either saving throw are nonetheless disabled by choking (treat as stunned) for 5d4 rounds.

Faint conjuration; CL 7th; Create Wondrous Item, poison; Price 2,400 gp.

Flask of Curses: This item looks like an ordinary beaker, bottle, container, decanter, flask, or jug. It may contain a liquid, or it may emit smoke. When the flask is first unstopped, all within 30 feet must make a DC 17 Will save or be cursed, taking a -2 penalty on attack rolls, saving throws, and skill checks until a remove curse spell is cast upon them.

Moderate conjuration; CL 7th; Create Wondrous Item, bestow curse; Price 2,100 gp.

Gauntlets of Fumbling: These gauntlets may be of supple leather or heavy protective material suitable for use with armor. In the former instance, they appear to be gloves of Dexterity. In the latter case, they appear to be gauntlets of ogre power. The gauntlets perform according to every test as if they were gloves of Dexterity or gauntlets of ogre power until the wearer finds herself under attack or in a life-and-death situation. At that time, the curse is activated. The wearer becomes fumble-fingered, with a 50% chance each round of dropping anything held in either hand. The gauntlets also lower Dexterity by 2 points. Once the curse is activated, the gloves can be removed only by means of a remove curse spell, a wish, or a miracle.

Moderate transmutation; CL 7th; Create Wondrous Item, bestow curse; Price 1,300 gp.

Helm of Opposite Alignment: This metal hat looks like a typical helmet. When placed upon the head, however, its curse immediately takes effect (Will DC 15 negates). On a failed save, the alignment of the wearer is radically altered to an alignment as different as possible from the former alignment—good to evil, chaotic to lawful, neutral to some extreme commitment (LE, LG, CE, or CG). Alteration in alignment is mental as well as moral, and the individual changed by the magic thoroughly enjoys his new outlook. A character who succeeds on his save can continue to wear the helmet without suffering the effect of the curse, but if he takes it off and later puts it on again, another save is required. The curse only works once; that is, a character whose alignment has been changed cannot change it again by donning the helmet a second time.

Only a wish or a miracle can restore former alignment, and the affected individual does not make any attempt to return to the former alignment. (In fact, he views the prospect with horror and avoids it in any way possible.) If a character of a class with an alignment requirement is affected, an atonement spell is needed as well if the curse is to be obliterated. When a helm of opposite alignment has functioned once, it loses its magical properties.

Strong transmutation; CL 12th; Create Wondrous Item, creator must be 12th level; Price 4,000 gp; Weight 3 lb.

Incense of Obsession: These blocks of incense appear to be incense of meditation. If meditation and prayer are conducted while incense of obsession is burning nearby, its odor and smoke cause the user to become totally confident that her spell ability is superior, due to the magic incense. The user is determined to use her spells at every opportunity, even when not needed or when useless. The user remains obsessed with her abilities and spells until all have been used or cast, or until 24 hours have elapsed.

Moderate enchantment; CL 6th; Create Wondrous Item, bestow curse; Price 200 gp.

Mace of Blood: This +3 heavy mace must be coated in blood every day, or its bonus fades away (until the mace is coated again). The character using this mace must make a DC 13 Will save every day it is within his possession or become chaotic evil.

Moderate abjuration; CL 8th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, creator must be at least 9th level and chaotic evil; Price 16,000 gp.

Medallion of Thought Projection: This device seems like a medallion of thoughts, even down to the range at which it functions, except that the thoughts overheard are muffled and distorted, requiring a DC 15 Will save to sort out. However, while the user thinks she is picking up the thoughts of others, all she is really hearing are figments created by the medallion itself. These illusory thoughts always seem plausible and thus can seriously mislead any who rely upon them. What's worse, unknown to her, the cursed medallion actually broadcasts her thoughts to creatures in the path of the beam, thus alerting them to her presence.

Faint divination; CL 7th; Create Wondrous Item, detect thoughts, ghost sound; Price 1,800 gp.

Necklace of Strangulation: A necklace of strangulation appears to be a rare and wondrous piece of valuable jewelry and, short of the use of something as powerful as a miracle or a wish, can only be identified as a cursed item when placed around a character's neck. The necklace immediately constricts, dealing 6 points of damage per round. It cannot be removed by any means short of a limited wish, wish, or miracle and remains clasped around the victim's throat even after his death. Only when he has decayed to a dry skeleton (after approximately one month) does the necklace loosen, ready for another victim.

Strong conjuration; CL 18th; Create Wondrous Item, slay living; Price 60,000 gp.

Net of Snaring: This net provides a +3 bonus on attack rolls but can only be used underwater, thus making it a somewhat useful item rather than what most would really call a cursed item. Underwater, it can be commanded to shoot forth up to 30 feet to trap a creature.

Moderate evocation; CL 8th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, freedom of movement; Price 10,000 gp.

Periapt of Foul Rotting: This engraved gem appears to be of little value. If any character keeps the periapt in her possession for more than 24 hours, she contracts a terrible rotting affliction that permanently drains 1 point of Dexterity, Constitution, and Charisma every week. The periapt (and the affliction) can be removed only by application of a remove curse spell followed by a cure disease and then a heal, miracle, limited wish, or wish spell. The rotting can also be countered by crushing a periapt of health and sprinkling its dust upon the afflicted character (a full-round action), whereupon the periapt of foul rotting likewise crumbles to dust.

Faint abjuration; CL 10th; Create Wondrous Item, contagion; Price 17,000 gp.

Potion of Poison: This potion has lost its once beneficial magical abilities and has become a potent poison. The imbiber must make a DC 16 Fortitude save or take 1d10 points of Constitution damage. A minute later he must save again (DC 16) or take 1d10 points of Constitution damage.

Moderate conjuration; CL 12th; Craft Wondrous Item, poison; Price 5,000 gp.

Robe of Powerlessness: A robe of powerlessness appears to be a magic robe of another sort. As soon as a character dons this garment, she takes a -10 penalty to Strength and Intelligence, forgetting spells and magic knowledge accordingly. The robe can be removed easily, but in order to restore mind and body, the character must receive a remove curse spell followed by heal.

Moderate transmutation; CL 13th; Create Wondrous Item, bestow curse, permanency; Price 5,500 gp.

Robe of Vermin: The wearer notices nothing unusual when the robe is donned, other than that it offers great magical defense (as a cloak of protection +4). However, as soon as he is in a situation requiring concentration and action against hostile opponents, the true nature of the garment is revealed: The wearer immediately suffers a multitude of bites from the insects that magically infest the garment. He must cease all other activities in order to scratch, shift the robe, and generally show signs of the extreme discomfort caused by the bites and movement of these pests.

The wearer takes a -5 penalty on initiative checks and a -2 penalty on all attack rolls, saves, and skill checks. If he tries to cast a spell, he must make a Concentration check (DC 20 + spell level) or lose the spell.

Moderate abjuration; CL 13th; Create Wondrous Item, summon swarm, creator must be at least 13th level; Price 16,500 gp.

Ring of Clumsiness: This ring operates exactly like a ring of feather falling. However, it also makes the wearer clumsy. She takes a -4 penalty to Dexterity and has a 20% chance of spell failure when trying to cast any arcane spell that has a somatic component. (This chance of spell failure stacks with other arcane spell failure chances.)

Strong transmutation; CL 15th; Forge Ring, feather fall, bestow curse; Price 500 gp.

Scarab of Death: This small pin appears to be any one of the various beneficial amulets, brooches, or scarabs. However, if it is held for more than 1 round or carried by a living creature for 1 minute, it changes into a horrible burrowing beetlelike creature. The thing tears through any leather or cloth, burrows into flesh, and reaches the victim's heart in 1 round, causing death. A DC 25 Reflex save allows the wearer to tear the scarab away before it burrows out of sight, but he still takes 3d6 points of damage. The beetle then returns to its scarab form. Placing the scarab in a container of wood, ceramic, bone, ivory, or metal prevents the monster from coming to life and allows for long-term storage of the item.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Strong abjuration; CL 19th; Create Wondrous Item, slay living; Price 80,000 gp.

Spear, Cursed Backbiter: This is a +2 shortspear, but each time it is used in melee against a foe and the attack roll is a natural 1, it damages its wielder instead of her intended target. When the curse takes effect, the spear curls around to strike its wielder in the back, automatically dealing the damage to the wielder. The curse even functions when the spear is hurled, and in such a case the damage to the hurler is doubled.

Moderate evocation; CL 10th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, bestow curse; Price 7,500 gp.

Stone of Weight (Loadstone): This stone appears to be a dark, smoothly polished stone. It reduces the possessor's base land speed to one-half of normal. Once picked up, the stone cannot be disposed of by any nonmagical means-if it is thrown away or smashed, it reappears somewhere on his person. If a remove curse spell is cast upon a loadstone, the item may be discarded normally and no longer haunts the individual.

Faint transmutation; CL 5th; Create Wondrous Item, slow; Price 1,000 gp.

-2 Sword, Cursed: This longsword performs well against targets in practice, but when used against an opponent in combat, it causes its wielder to take a -2 penalty on attack rolls.

All damage dealt is also reduced by 2 points, but never below a minimum of 1 point of damage on any successful hit. After one week in a character's possession, the sword always forces that character to employ it rather than another weapon. The sword's owner automatically draws it and fights with it even when she meant to draw or ready some other weapon. The sword can be gotten rid of only by means of limited wish, wish, or miracle.

Strong evocation; CL 15th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, bestow curse, and limited wish or miracle; Price 1,500 gp.

Sword, Berserking: This item appears to have the characteristics of a +2 greatsword. However, whenever the sword is used in battle, its wielder goes berserk (gaining all the benefits and drawbacks of the barbarian's rage ability). He attacks the nearest creature and continues to fight until unconscious or dead or until no living thing remains within 30 feet. Although many see this sword as a cursed object, others see it as a boon.

Moderate evocation; CL 8th; Craft Magic Arms and Armor, rage, bestow curse; Price 17,500 gp.

Vacuous Grimoire: A book of this sort looks like a normal one on some mildly interesting topic. Any character who opens the work and reads so much as a single word therein must make two DC 15 Will saves. The first is to determine if the reader takes 1 point of permanent Intelligence drain. The second is to find out if the reader takes 2 points of permanent Wisdom drain. To destroy the book, a character must burn it while casting remove curse. If the grimoire is placed with other books, its appearance instantly alters to conform to the look of those other works.

Strong enchantment; CL 20th; Create Wondrous Item, feeble-mind; Price 6,000 gp.

ARTIFACTS

Artifacts are extremely powerful. Rather than merely another form of magic equipment, they are the sorts of legendary relics that whole campaigns can be based on. Each could be the center of a whole set of adventures-a quest to recover it, a fight against an opponent wielding it, a mission to cause its destruction, and so on.

No table has been included to randomly generate specific artifacts, since these items should only enter a campaign through deliberate choice on your part.

MINOR ARTIFACTS

Minor artifacts are not necessarily unique items. Even so, they are magic items that no longer can be created, at least by common mortal means.

MINOR ARTIFACT DESCRIPTIONS

Described below is a selection of the most well-known (not necessarily the most numerous) minor artifacts.

Book of Infinite Spells: This work bestows upon any character of any class the ability to use the spells within its pages. However, any character not already able to use spells gains one negative level for as long as the book is in her possession or while she uses its power. A book of infinite spells contains 1d8+22 pages. The nature of each page is determined by a dice roll: 01-50, arcane spell; 51-100, divine spell.

Determine the exact spell by using the tables for determining major scroll spells.

Once a page is turned, it can never be flipped back-paging through a book of infinite spells is a one-way trip. If the book is closed, it always opens again to the page it was on before the book was closed. When the last page is turned, the book vanishes.

Once per day the owner of the book can cast the spell to which the book is opened. If that spell happens to be one that is on the character's class spell list, she can cast it up to four times per day. The pages cannot be ripped out without destroying the book. Similarly, the spells cannot be cast as scroll spells, nor can they be copied into a spellbook-their magic is bound up permanently within the book itself.

The owner of the book need not have the book on her person in order to use its power. The book can be stored in a place of safety while the owner is adventuring and still allow its owner to cast spells by means of its power.

Each time a spell is cast, there is a chance that the energy connected with its use causes the page to magically turn despite all precautions. The owner knows this and may even benefit from the turning by gaining access to a new spell. The chance of a page turning depends on the spell the page contains and what sort of spellcaster the owner is.

Condition	Chance of Page Turning
Caster employing a spell usable by own class and level	10%
Caster employing a spell not usable by own class and level	20%
Nonspellcaster employing divine spell	25%
Nonspellcaster employing arcane spell	30%

Treat each spell use as if a scroll were being employed, for purposes of determining casting time, spell failure, and so on.

Strong (all schools); CL 18th; Weight 3 lb.

Deck of Many Things: A deck of many things (both beneficial and baneful) is usually found in a box or leather pouch. Each deck contains a number of cards or plaques made of ivory or vellum. Each is engraved with glyphs, characters, and sigils. As soon as one of these cards is drawn from the pack, its magic is bestowed upon the person who drew it, for better or worse.

The character with a deck of many things who wishes to draw a card must announce how many cards she will draw before she begins. Cards must be drawn within 1 hour of each other, and a character can never again draw from this deck any more cards than she has announced. If the character does not willingly draw her allotted number (or if she is somehow prevented from doing so), the cards flip out of the deck on their own. Exception: If the jester is drawn, the possessor of the deck may elect to draw two additional cards.

Each time a card is taken from the deck, it is replaced (making it possible to draw the same card twice) unless the draw is the jester or the fool, in which case the card is discarded from the pack. A deck of many things contains 22 cards. To simulate the magic cards, you may want to use tarot cards, as indicated in the second column of the accompanying table. If no tarot deck is available, substitute ordinary playing cards instead, as indicated in the third column. The effects of each card, summarized on the table, are fully described below.

Balance: The character must change to a radically different alignment. If the character fails to act according to the new alignment, she gains a negative level.

Comet: The character must single-handedly defeat the next hostile monster or monsters encountered, or the benefit is lost. If successful, the character gains enough XP to attain the next experience level.

Donjon: This card signifies imprisonment-either by the imprisonment spell or by some powerful being. All gear and spells are stripped from the victim in any case. Draw no more cards.

Euryale: The medusalike visage of this card brings a curse that only the fates card or a deity can remove. The -1 penalty on all saving throws is otherwise permanent.

Fates: This card enables the character to avoid even an instantaneous occurrence if so desired, for the fabric of reality is unraveled and respun. Note that it does not enable something to happen. It can only stop something from happening or reverse a past occurrence. The reversal is only for the character who drew the card; other party members may have to endure the situation.

Flames: Hot anger, jealousy, and envy are but a few of the possible motivational forces for the enmity. The enmity of the outsider can't be ended until one of the parties has been slain. Determine the outsider randomly, and assume that it attacks the character (or plagues her life in some way) within 1d20 days.

Fool: The payment of XP and the redraw are mandatory. This card is always discarded when drawn, unlike all others except the jester.

Gem: This card indicates wealth. The jewelry is all gold set with gems, each piece worth 2,000 gp, the gems 1,000 gp value each.

Idiot: This card causes the drain of 1d4+1 points of Intelligence immediately. The additional draw is optional.

Jester: This card is always discarded when drawn, unlike all others except the fool. The redraws are optional.

Key: The magic weapon granted must be one usable by the character. It suddenly appears out of nowhere in the character's hand.

Knight: The fighter appears out of nowhere and serves loyally until death. He or she is of the same race (or kind) and gender as the character.

Moon: This card sometimes bears the image of a moonstone gem with the appropriate number of wishes shown as gleams therein; sometimes it depicts a moon with its phase indicating the number of wishes (full = four; gibbous = three; half = two; quarter = one). These wishes are the same as those granted by the 9th-level wizard spell and must be used within a number of minutes equal to the number received.

Rogue: When this card is drawn, one of the character's NPC friends (preferably a cohort) is totally alienated and forever after hostile. If the character has no cohorts, the enmity of some powerful personage (or community, or religious order) can be substituted. The hatred is secret until the time is ripe for it to be revealed with devastating effect.

Ruin: As implied by its name, when this card is drawn, all non-magical possessions of the drawer are lost.

Skull: A dread wraith appears. Treat this creature as an unturnable undead. The character must fight it alone-if others help, they get dread wraiths to fight as well. If the character is slain, she is slain forever and cannot be revived, even with a wish or a miracle.

Star: The 2 points are added to any ability the character chooses. They cannot be divided among two abilities.

Sun: Roll for a medium wondrous item until a useful item is indicated.

Talons: When this card is drawn, every magic item owned or possessed by the character is instantly and irrevocably gone.

Throne: The character becomes a true leader in people's eyes. The castle gained appears in any open area she wishes (but the decision where to place it must be made within 1 hour).

Vizier: This card empowers the character drawing it with the one-time ability to call upon a source of wisdom to solve any single problem or answer fully any question upon her request. The query or request must be made within one year. Whether the information gained can be successfully acted upon is another question entirely.

The Void: This black card spells instant disaster. The character's body continues to function, as though comatose, but her psyche is trapped in a prison somewhere-in an object on a far plane or planet, possibly in the possession of an outsider. A wish or a miracle does not bring the character back, instead merely revealing the plane of entrapment. Draw no more cards.

Strong (all schools); CL 20th.

Hammer of Thunderbolts: This +3 Large returning warhammer deals 4d6 points of damage on any hit. Further, if the wielder wears a belt of giant Strength and gauntlets of ogre power and he knows that the hammer is a hammer of thunderbolts (not just a +3 warhammer), the weapon can be used to full effect: It gains a total +5 enhancement bonus, allows all belt and gauntlet bonuses to stack (only when using this weapon), and strikes dead any giant upon whom it scores a hit (Fortitude DC 20 negates the death effect but not the damage).

When hurled, on a successful attack the hammer emits a great noise, like a clap of thunder, causing all creatures within 90 feet to be stunned for 1 round (Fortitude DC 15 negates). The hammer's range increment is 30 feet.

Strong evocation, necromancy, and transmutation; CL 20th; Weight 15 lb.

Philosopher's Stone: This rare substance appears to be an ordinary, sooty piece of blackish rock. If the stone is broken open (break DC 20), a cavity is revealed at the stone's heart. This cavity is lined with a magical type of quicksilver that enables any arcane spellcaster to transmute base metals (iron and lead) into silver and gold. A single philosopher's stone can turn from up to 5,000 pounds of iron into silver, or up to 1,000 pounds of lead into gold. However, the quicksilver becomes unstable once the stone is opened and loses its potency within 24 hours, so all transmutations must take place within that period.

The quicksilver found in the center of the stone may also be put to another use. If mixed with any cure potion while the substance is still potent, it creates a special oil of life that acts as a true resurrection spell for any dead body it is sprinkled upon.

Strong transmutation; CL 20th; Weight 3 lb.

Sphere of Annihilation: A sphere of annihilation is a globe of absolute blackness, a ball of nothingness 2 feet in diameter. The object is actually a hole in the continuity of the multiverse. Any matter that comes in contact with a sphere is instantly sucked into the void, gone, and utterly destroyed. Only the direct intervention of a deity can restore an annihilated character.

A sphere of annihilation is static, resting in some spot as if it were a normal hole. It can be caused to move, however, by mental effort (think of this as a mundane form of telekinesis, too weak to move actual objects but a force to which the sphere, being weightless, is sensitive). A character's ability to gain control of a sphere of annihilation (or to keep controlling one) is based on the result of a control check against DC 30 (a move action). A control check is 1d20 + character level + character Int modifier. If the check succeeds, the character can move the sphere (perhaps to bring it into contact with an enemy) as a free action.

Control of a sphere can be established from as far away as 40 feet (the character need not approach too closely). Once control is established, it must be maintained by continuing to make control checks (all DC 30) each round. For as long as a character maintains control (does not fail a check) in subsequent rounds, he can control the sphere from a distance of 40 feet + 10 feet per character level. The sphere's speed in a round is 10 feet + 5 feet for every 5 points by which the character's control check result in that round exceeded 30.

If a control check fails, the sphere slides 10 feet in the direction of the character attempting to move it.

If two or more creatures vie for control of a sphere of annihilation, the rolls are opposed. If none are successful, the sphere slips toward the one who rolled lowest.

Should a gate spell be cast upon a sphere of annihilation, there is a 50% chance (01-50 on d%) that the spell destroys it, a 35% chance (51-85) that the spell does nothing, and a 15% chance (86-100) that a gap is torn in the spatial fabric, catapulting everything within a 180-foot radius into another plane. If a rod of cancellation touches a sphere of annihilation, they negate each other in a tremendous explosion. Everything within a 60-foot radius takes 2d6x10 points of damage. Dispel magic and mage's disjunction have no effect on a sphere. See also talisman of the sphere (below).

Strong transmutation; CL 20th.

Staff of the Magi: A long wooden staff, shod in iron and inscribed with sigils and runes of all types, this potent artifact contains many spell powers and other functions. Some of its powers use charges, while others don't. The following powers do not use charges:

- Detect magic
- Enlarge person (Fortitude DC 15 negates)
- Hold portal
- Light
- Mage armor
- Mage hand

The following powers drain 1 charge per usage:

- Dispel magic
- Fireball (10d6 damage, Reflex DC 17 half)
- Ice storm
- Invisibility
- Knock
- Lightning bolt (10d6 damage, Reflex DC 17 half)
- Passwall
- Pyrotechnics (Will or Fortitude DC 16 negates)
- Wall of fire
- Web

These powers drain 2 charges per usage:

- Monster summoning IX
- Plane shift (Will DC 21 negates)
- Telekinesis (400 lb. maximum weight; Will DC 19 negates)

A staff of the magi gives the wielder spell resistance 23. If this is willingly lowered, however, the staff can also be used to absorb arcane spell energy directed at its wielder, as a rod of absorption does. Unlike the rod, this staff converts spell levels into charges rather than retaining them as spell energy usable by a spellcaster. If the staff absorbs enough spell levels to exceed its limit of 50 charges, it explodes as if a retributive strike had been performed (see below). The wielder has no idea how many spell levels are cast at her, for the staff does not communicate this knowledge as a rod of absorption does. (Thus, absorbing spells can be risky.)

Retributive Strike: A staff of the magi can be broken for a retributive strike. Such an act must be purposeful and declared by the wielder. All charges in the staff are released in a 30-foot spread. All within 10 feet of the broken staff take hit points of damage equal to 8 times the number of charges in the staff, those between 11 feet and 20 feet away take points equal to 6 times the number of charges, and those 21 feet to 30 feet distant take 4 times the number of charges. A DC 17 Reflex save reduces damage by half.

The character breaking the staff has a 50% chance (01-50 on d%) of traveling to another plane of existence, but if she does not (51-100), the explosive release of spell energy destroys her. Only specific items, including the staff of the magi and the staff of power are capable of a retributive strike.

Strong (all schools); CL 20th; Weight 5 lb.

Talisman of Pure Good: A good (LG, NG, CG) divine spellcaster who possesses this item can cause a flaming crack to open at the feet of an evil (LE, NE, CE) divine spellcaster who is up to 100 feet away. The intended victim is swallowed up forever and sent hurtling to the center of the earth. The wielder of the talisman must be good, and if he is not exceptionally pure in thought and deed the evil character gains a DC 19 Reflex saving throw to leap away from the crack. Obviously, the target must be standing on solid ground for this item to function.

A talisman of pure good has 6 charges. If a neutral (LN, N, CN) divine spellcaster touches one of these stones, he takes 6d6 points of damage. If an evil divine spellcaster touches one, he takes 8d6 points of damage. All other characters are unaffected by the device.

Strong evocation [good]; CL 18th.

Talisman of the Sphere: This small adamantine loop and handle are useless to those unable to cast arcane spells. Characters who cannot cast arcane spells take 5d6 points of damage merely from picking up and holding a talisman of this sort. However, when held by an arcane spellcaster who is concentrating on control of a sphere of annihilation, a talisman of the sphere doubles the character's modifier on his control check (doubling both his Intelligence bonus and his character level for this purpose).

If the wielder of a talisman establishes control, he need check for maintaining control only every other round thereafter. If control is not established, the sphere moves toward him. Note that while many spells and effects of cancellation have no effect upon a sphere of annihilation, the talisman's power of control can be suppressed or canceled.

Strong transmutation; CL 16th; Weight 1 lb.

Talisman of Reluctant Wishes: A talisman of this sort appears the same as a stone of controlling earth elementals. Its powers are quite different, however, and dependent on the Charisma of the individual holding the talisman. Whenever a character touches a talisman of reluctant wishes, he must make a DC 15 Charisma check.

If he fails, the device acts as a stone of weight. Discarding or destroying it results in 5d6 points of damage to the character and the disappearance of the talisman.

If he succeeds, the talisman remains with the character for 5d6 hours, or until a wish is made with it, whichever comes first. It then disappears.

If he rolls a natural 20, the character finds it impossible to be rid of the talisman for as many months as he has points of Charisma. In addition, the artifact grants him one wish for every 6 points of the character's Charisma. It also grows warm and throbs whenever its possessor comes within 20 feet of a mechanical or magic trap. (If the talisman is not held, its warning heat and pulses are of no avail.)

Regardless of which reaction results, a talisman of reluctant wishes disappears when its time period expires, leaving behind a 10,000 gp diamond in its stead.

Strong conjuration; CL 20th; Weight 1 lb.

Talisman of Ultimate Evil: An evil (LE, NE, CE) divine spellcaster who possesses this item can cause a flaming crack to open at the feet of a good (LG, NG, CG) divine spellcaster who is up to 100 feet away. The intended victim is swallowed up forever and sent hurtling to the center of the earth. The wielder of the talisman must be evil, and if she is not exceptionally foul and perverse in the sights of her evil deity the good character gains a DC 19 Reflex save to leap away from the crack. Obviously, the target must be standing on solid ground for this item to function.

A talisman of ultimate evil has 6 charges. If a neutral (LN, N, CN) divine spellcaster touches one of these stones, she takes 6d6 points of damage. If a good divine spellcaster touches one, she takes 8d6 points of damage. All other characters are unaffected by the device.

Strong evocation [evil]; CL 18th.

MAJOR ARTIFACTS

Major artifacts are unique items—only one of each such item exists. These are the most potent of magic items, capable of altering the balance of a campaign.

Unlike all other magic items, major artifacts are not easily destroyed. Each should have only a single, specific means of destruction.

MAJOR ARTIFACT DESCRIPTIONS

The Moaning Diamond: The Moaning Diamond appears to be an uncut diamond the size of a human fist. At all times, it gives forth a baleful moaning sound, as if in pain. Despite the noise, the Moaning Diamond is not evil. The wielder of the stone can, three times per day, call upon it to reshape earth and stone as if by the spell stone shape, affecting 5,000 cubic feet of material. The Moaning Diamond can summon an elder earth elemental with maximum hit points that serves the caster until it is slain. Only one such elemental can be summoned at a time; if it is slain, a new creature cannot be summoned for 24 hours.

The Orbs of Dragonkind: Each of these fabled orbs contains the essence and personality of an ancient dragon of a different variety (one for each of the major ten different chromatic and metallic dragons). The bearer of an Orb can dominate dragons of its particular variety within 500 feet (as dominate monster), the dragon being forced to make a DC 25 Will save to resist. (Spell resistance is not useful against this effect.) Each Orb of Dragonkind bestows upon the wielder the AC and saving throw bonuses of the dragon within. These values replace whatever values the character would otherwise have, whether they are better or worse. These values cannot be modified by any means short of ridding the character of the Orb. A character possessing an Orb of Dragonkind is immune to the breath weapon-but only the breath weapon-of the dragon variety keyed to the Orb. Finally, a character possessing an Orb can herself use the breath weapon of the dragon in the Orb three times per day.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

All Orbs of Dragonkind can be used to communicate verbally and visually with the possessors of the other Orbs. The owner of an Orb knows whether there are dragons within 10 miles at all times. For dragons of the Orb's particular variety, the range is 100 miles. If within 1 mile of a dragon of the Orb's variety, the wielder can determine the exact location and age of the creature. The bearer of one of these Orbs earns the enmity forever of all dragonkind for profiting by the enslavement of one of their kin, even if she later loses the item.

Each Orb also has an individual power that can be invoked once per round at 10th caster level.

- Black Dragon Orb: Fly (Will DC 17 negates).
- Blue Dragon Orb: Haste (Fortitude DC 17 negates).
- Brass Dragon Orb: Teleport (Will DC 19 negates).
- Bronze Dragon Orb: Scrying (Will DC 18 negates).
- Copper Dragon Orb: Suggestion (Will DC 17 negates).
- Gold Dragon Orb: The owner of the gold Orb can call upon any power possessed by one of the other Orbs-including the dominate and breath weapon abilities but not AC, save bonuses, or breath weapon immunity-but can only use an individual power once/day. She can use dominate on any other possessor of an Orb within 1 mile (Will DC 23 negates).
- Green Dragon Orb: Spectral hand.
- Red Dragon Orb: Wall of fire.
- Silver Dragon Orb: Cure critical wounds (Will DC 18 half).
- White Dragon Orb: Protection from energy (cold) (Fortitude DC 17 negates).

The Saint's Mace: This relic appears to be a simple, well-used cudgel, but its simple appearance hides great power. The saint's mace has a +5 enhancement bonus and functions as a heavy mace with the holy, lawful, and disruption special abilities. The wielder can project searing light from the mace at will, at caster level 20th.

The Shadowstaff: This artifact was crafted centuries ago, weaving together the wispy strands of shadow itself into a twisted black staff. The Shadowstaff makes the wielder slightly shadowy and incorporeal, granting him a +4 bonus to AC and Reflex saves (which stacks with any other bonuses). However, in bright light (such as that of the sun, but not a torch) or in absolute darkness, the wielder takes a -2 penalty on all attack rolls, saves, and checks.

The Shadowstaff also has these powers.

- Summon Shadows: Three times per day the staff may summon 2d4 shadows. Immune to turning, they serve the wielder as if called by a summon monster V spell cast at 20th level.
- Summon Nightshade: Once per month, the staff can summon a nightcrawler nightshade that serves the wielder as if called by a summon monster IX spell cast at 20th level.
- Shadow Form: Three times per day the wielder can become a living shadow, with all the movement powers granted by the gaseous form spell.
- Shadow Bolt: Three times per day the staff can project a ray attack that deals 10d6 points of cold damage to a single target. The shadow bolt has a range of 100 feet.

The Shield of the Sun: This +5 large shield, emblazoned with the symbol of the sun, allows the wielder to cast spells as if she were a 20th-level paladin with a Wisdom score of 20. The spells gained are cumulative with any existing spells per day that the character might have, even if she's already a paladin. The Shield of the Sun also grants spell resistance 15 to its wielder. It absorbs the first 10 points of damage from any energy attack (fire, cold, acid, electricity, or sonic). In return for all this, once per year the shield's owner must undertake a quest (no saving throw to avoid) at the behest of a lawful good deity.

A character who is evil or chaotic (LE, NE, CE, CN, CG) gains four negative levels if she attempts to use this artifact. Although these negative levels never results in actual level loss, they remain as long as the shield is in hand and cannot be overcome in any way (including restoration spells). The negative levels disappear when the shield is stowed or leaves the wearer's possession.

MONSTERS

READING THE ENTRIES

Each monster description is organized in the same general format, as outlined below.

STATISTICS BLOCK

This portion of a monster description contains basic game information on the creature.

Name

This is the name by which the creature is generally known. The descriptive text may provide other names.

Size and Type

This line describes the creature's size. A size modifier applies to the creature's Armor Class (AC) and attack bonus, as well as to certain skills. A creature's size also determines how far it can reach to make a melee attack and how much space it occupies in a fight (see Space/Reach, below).

The size and type line continues with the creature's type. Type determines how magic affects a creature. Type determines certain features, such as Hit Dice size, base attack bonus, base saving throw bonuses, and skill points.

Hit Dice

This line gives the creature's number and type of Hit Dice, and lists any bonus hit points. A parenthetical note gives the average hit points for a creature of the indicated number of Hit Dice. A creature's Hit Dice total is also treated as its level for determining how spells affect the creature, its rate of natural healing, and its maximum ranks in a skill.

Initiative

This line gives the creature's modifier on initiative checks.

Speed

This line gives the creature's tactical speed on land (the amount of distance it can cover in one move action). If the creature wears armor that reduces its speed, the creature's base land speed follows.

If the creature has other modes of movement, these are given after (or in place of) the land speed. Unless noted otherwise, modes of movement are natural (not magical).

Armor Class

The Armor Class line gives the creature's AC for normal combat and includes a parenthetical mention of the modifiers contributing to it (usually size, Dexterity, and natural armor). The creature's touch and flat-footed ACs follow the combat-ready AC.

A creature's armor proficiencies (if it has any) depend on its type, but in general a creature is automatically proficient with any kind of armor it is described as wearing (light, medium, or heavy), and with all lighter kinds of armor.

Base Attack/Grapple

The number before the slash on this line is the creature's base attack bonus (before any modifiers are applied). This number won't often be used, but it can be handy sometimes, especially if the creature has the Power Attack or Combat Expertise feats.

The number after the slash is the creature's grapple bonus, which is used when the creature makes a grapple attack or when someone tries to grapple the creature. The grapple bonus includes all modifiers that apply to the creature's grapple checks (base attack bonus, Strength modifier, special size modifier, and any other applicable modifier, such as a racial bonus on grapple checks).

Attack

This line shows the single attack the creature makes with an attack action. In most cases, this is also the attack the creature uses when making an attack of opportunity as well. The attack line provides the weapon used (natural or manufactured), attack bonus, and form of attack (melee or ranged). The attack bonus given includes modifications for size and Strength (for melee attacks) or Dexterity (for ranged attacks). A creature with the Weapon Finesse feat can use its Dexterity modifier on melee attacks. If the creature uses natural attacks, the natural weapon given here is the creature's primary natural weapon. If the creature has several different weapons at its disposal, the alternatives are shown, with each different attack separated by the word "or." A creature can use one of its secondary natural weapons when making an attack action, but if it does it takes an attack penalty, as noted in the Full Attack section below. The damage that each attack deals is noted parenthetically. Damage from an attack is always at least 1 point, even if a subtraction from a die roll reduces the result to 0 or lower.

Full Attack

This line shows all the physical attacks the creature makes when it uses a full-round action to make a full attack. It gives the number of attacks along with the weapon, attack bonus, and form of attack (melee or ranged). The first entry is for the creature's primary weapon, with an attack bonus including modifications for size and Strength (for melee attacks) or Dexterity (for ranged attacks). A creature with the Weapon Finesse feat can use its Dexterity modifier on melee attacks. The remaining weapons are secondary, and attacks with them are made with a -5 penalty to the attack roll, no matter how many there are. Creatures with the Multiattack feat take only a -2 penalty on secondary attacks. The damage that each attack deals is noted parenthetically. Damage from an attack is always at least 1 point, even if a subtraction from a die roll reduces the result to 0 or lower.

A creature's primary attack damage includes its full Strength modifier (1-1/2 times its Strength bonus if the attack is with the creature's sole natural weapon) and is given first. Secondary attacks add only 1/2 the creature's Strength bonus and are given second in the parentheses.

If any attacks also have some special effect other than damage, that information is given here.

Unless noted otherwise, creatures using natural weapons deal double damage on critical hits.

Manufactured Weapons: Creatures that use swords, bows, spears, and the like follow the same rules as characters do. The bonus for attacks with two-handed weapons is 1-1/2 times the creature's Strength modifier (if it is a bonus), and is given first. Offhand weapons add only 1/2 the Strength bonus and are given second in the parentheses.

Space/Reach

This line describes how much space the creature takes up on the battle grid and thereby needs to fight effectively, as well as how close it has to be to threaten an opponent. The number before the slash is the creature's space, or how many feet one side of the creature occupies. The number after the slash is the creature's natural reach.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

If the creature has exceptional reach due to a weapon, tentacle, or the like, the extended reach and its source are noted in parentheses at the end of the line.

Special Attacks and Special Qualities

Many creatures have unusual abilities. A monster entry breaks these abilities into special attacks and special qualities. The latter category includes defenses, vulnerabilities, and other special abilities that are not modes of attack. A special ability is either extraordinary (Ex), spell-like (Sp), or supernatural (Su). Additional information (when needed) is provided in the creature's descriptive text.

When a special ability allows a saving throw, the kind of save and the save DC is noted in the descriptive text. Most saving throws against special abilities have DCs calculated as follows: 10 + 1/2 the attacker's racial Hit Dice + the relevant ability modifier.

The save DC is given in the creature's description along with the ability on which the DC is based.

Saves

This line gives the creature's Fortitude, Reflex, and Will save modifiers.

Abilities

This line lists the creature's ability scores, in the customary order: Str, Dex, Con, Int, Wis, Cha. Except where noted otherwise, each creature is assumed to have the standard array of ability scores before racial adjustments (all 11s and 10s). To determine any creature's racial ability adjustments, subtract 10 from any even-numbered ability score and subtract 11 from any odd-numbered score. (Exceptions are noted in the Combat section of a creature's descriptive text.)

Strength: Quadrupeds can carry heavier loads than bipeds can. Any creature with four or more motive limbs can carry a load as a quadruped, even if it does not necessarily use all the limbs at once.

Intelligence: A creature can speak all the languages mentioned in its description, plus one additional language per point of Intelligence bonus. Any creature with an Intelligence score of 3 or higher understands at least one language (Common, unless noted otherwise).

NonAbilities: Some creatures lack certain ability scores. These creatures do not have an ability score of 0—they lack the ability altogether. The modifier for a nonability is +0.

Skills

This line gives the creature's skills, along with each skill's modifier (including adjustments for ability scores, armor check penalties, and any bonuses from feats or racial traits). All listed skills are class skills, unless the creature has a character class (noted in the entry). A creature's type and Intelligence score determine the number of skill points it has.

The Skills section of the creature's description recaps racial bonuses and other adjustments to skill modifiers for the sake of clarity; these bonuses should not be added to the listed skill modifiers.

An asterisk (*) beside the relevant score and in the Skills section of the descriptive text indicates a conditional adjustment, one that applies only in certain situations.

Natural Tendencies: Some creatures simply aren't made for certain types of physical activity. If it seems clear that a particular creature simply is not made for a particular physical activity, that creature takes a –8 penalty on skill checks that defy its natural tendencies.

In extreme circumstances the creature fails the check automatically.

Feats

The line gives the creature's feats. A monster gains feats just as a character does. Sometimes a creature has one or more bonus feats, marked with a superscript B (^B). Creatures often do not have the prerequisites for a bonus feat. If this is so, the creature can still use the feat. If you wish to customize the creature with new feats, you can reassign its other feats, but not its bonus feats. A creature cannot have a feat that is not a bonus feat unless it has the feat's prerequisites.

Environment

This line gives a type of climate and terrain where the creature is typically found. This describes a tendency, but is not exclusionary.

Organization

This line describes the kinds of groups the creature might form. A range of numbers in parentheses indicates how many combat-ready adults are in each type of group. Many groups also have a number of noncombatants, expressed as a percentage of the fighting population. Noncombatants can include young, the infirm, slaves, or other individuals who are not inclined to fight. If the organization line contains the term "domesticated," the creature is generally found only in the company of other creatures, whom it serves in some capacity.

Challenge Rating

This shows the average level of a party of adventurers for which one creature would make an encounter of moderate difficulty.

Treasure

This line reflects how much wealth the creature owns. In most cases, a creature keeps valuables in its home or lair and has no treasure with it when it travels. Intelligent creatures that own useful, portable treasure (such as magic items) tend to carry and use these, leaving bulky items at home.

Alignment

This line gives the alignment that the creature is most likely to have. Every entry includes a qualifier that indicates how broadly that alignment applies to the species as a whole.

Advancement

The monster entry usually describes only the most commonly encountered version of a creature. The advancement line shows how tough a creature can get, in terms of extra Hit Dice. (This is not an absolute limit, but exceptions are extremely rare.) Often, intelligent creatures advance by gaining a level in a character class instead of just gaining a new Hit Die.

Level Adjustment

This line is included in the entries of creatures suitable for use as player characters or as cohorts (usually creatures with Intelligence scores of at least 3 and possessing opposable thumbs). Add this number to the creature's total Hit Dice, including class levels, to get the creature's effective character level (ECL). A character's ECL affects the experience the character earns, the amount of experience the character must have before gaining a new level, and the character's starting equipment.

The aboleth is a revolting fishlike amphibian found primarily in subterranean lakes and rivers. An aboleth has a pink belly. Four pulsating blueblack orifices line the bottom of its body and secrete gray slime that smells like rancid grease. It uses its tail for propulsion in the water and drags itself along with its tentacles on land. An aboleth weighs about 6,500 pounds.

Aboleths speak their own language, as well as Undercommon and Aquan.

COMBAT

An aboleth attacks by flailing with its long, slimy tentacles, though it prefers to fight from a distance using its illusion powers.

Enslave (Su): Three times per day, an aboleth can attempt to enslave any one living creature within 30 feet. The target must succeed on a DC 17 Will save or be affected as though by a dominate person spell (caster level 16th). An enslaved creature obeys the aboleth's telepathic commands until freed by remove curse, and can attempt a new Will save every 24 hours to break free. The control is also broken if the aboleth dies or travels more than 1 mile from its slave. The save DC is Charisma-based.

Psionics (Sp): At will—hypnotic pattern (DC 15), illusory wall (DC 17), mirage arcana (DC 18), persistent image (DC 18), programmed image (DC 19), project image (DC 20), veil (DC 19). Effective caster level 16th. The save DCs are Charisma-based.

Slime (Ex): A blow from an aboleth's tentacle can cause a terrible affliction. A creature hit by a tentacle must succeed on a DC 19 Fortitude save or begin to transform over the next 1d4+1 minutes, the skin gradually becoming a clear, slimy membrane. An afflicted creature must remain moistened with cool, fresh water or take 1d12 points of damage every 10 minutes. The slime reduces the creature's natural armor bonus by 1 (but never to less than 0). The save DC is Constitution-based.

A remove disease spell cast before the transformation is complete will restore an afflicted creature to normal. Afterward, however, only a heal or mass heal spell can reverse the affliction.

Mucus Cloud (Ex): An aboleth underwater surrounds itself with a viscous cloud of mucus roughly 1 foot thick. Any creature coming into contact with and inhaling this substance must succeed on a DC 19 Fortitude save or lose the ability to breathe air for the next 3 hours. An affected creature suffocates in 2d6 minutes if removed from the water. Renewed contact with the mucus cloud and failing another Fortitude save continues the effect for another 3 hours. The save DC is Constitution-based.

Skills: An aboleth has a +8 racial bonus on any Swim check to perform some special action or avoid a hazard. It can always choose to take 10 on a Swim check, even if distracted or endangered. It can use the run action while swimming, provided it swims in a straight line.

Achaierais are massive, 15-foot-tall flightless birds that inhabit lawful planes of battle and are only occasionally encountered elsewhere.

Achaierais speak Infernal. They weigh about 750 pounds.

COMBAT

In close combat, an achaierai lashes out with two of its four legs and snaps with its powerful beak. It makes frequent use of its Spring Attack feat to strike quickly and then retreat out of range before an enemy can counterattack.

An achaierai's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as evil-aligned and lawfulaligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Black Cloud (Ex): Up to three times per day an achaierai can release a choking, toxic black cloud.

Those other than achaierai within 10 feet instantly take 2d6 points of damage. They must also succeed on a DC 15 Fortitude save or be affected for 3 hours as though by an insanity spell (caster level 16th). The save DC is Constitution-based.

An allip is the spectral remains of someone driven to suicide by a madness that afflicted it in life. It craves only revenge and unrelentingly pursues those who tormented it in life and pushed it over the brink.

An allip cannot speak intelligibly.

COMBAT

An allip is unable to cause physical harm, although it doesn't appear to know that. It keeps flailing away at enemies, yet it inflicts no wounds.

Babble (Su): An allip constantly mutters and whines to itself, creating a hypnotic effect. All sane creatures within 60 feet of the allip must succeed on a DC 16 Will save or be affected as though by a hypnotism spell for 2d4 rounds. This is a sonic mind-affecting compulsion effect.

Creatures that successfully save cannot be affected by the same allip's babble for 24 hours. The save DC is Charisma-based.

Madness (Su): Anyone targeting an allip with a thought detection, mind control, or telepathic ability makes direct contact with its tortured mind and takes 1d4 points of Wisdom damage.

Wisdom Drain (Su): An allip causes 1d4 points of Wisdom drain each time it hits with its incorporeal touch attack. On each such successful attack, it gains 5 temporary hit points.

ANGEL

Angels are a race of celestials, beings who live on the good-aligned Outer Planes.

Angels can be of any good alignment. Regardless of their alignment, angels never lie, cheat, or steal. They are impeccably honorable in all their dealings and often prove the most trustworthy and diplomatic of all the celestials.

All angels are blessed with comely looks, though their actual appearances vary widely.

Angels speak Celestial, Infernal, and Draconic, though they can speak with almost any creature because of their tongues ability.

COMBAT

In combat, most angels make full use of their mobility and their ability to attack at a distance.

Angel Traits: An angel possesses the following traits (unless otherwise noted in a creature's entry).

–Darkvision out to 60 feet and low-light vision.

–Immunity to acid, cold, and petrification.

–Resistance to electricity 10 and fire 10.

– +4 racial bonus on saves against poison.

–Protective Aura (Su): Against attacks made or effects created by evil creatures, this ability provides a +4 deflection bonus to AC and a +4 resistance bonus on saving throws to anyone within 20 feet of the angel. Otherwise, it functions as a magic circle against evil effect and a lesser globe of invulnerability, both with a radius of 20 feet (caster level equals angel's HD). This aura can be dispelled, but the angel can create it again as a free action on its next turn. (The defensive benefits from the circle are not included in an angel's statistics block.)

-Tongues (Su): All angels can speak with any creature that has a language, as though using a tongues spell (caster level equal to angel's Hit Dice). This ability is always active.

Animated objects come in all sizes, shapes, and colors. They owe their existence as creatures to spells such as animate objects or similar supernatural abilities.

COMBAT

Animated objects fight only as directed by the animator. They follow orders without question and to the best of their abilities. Since they do not need to breathe and never tire, they can be extremely capable minions.

An animated object can have one or more of the following special abilities, depending on its form.

Blind (Ex): A sheetlike animated object such as a carpet or tapestry can grapple an opponent up to three sizes larger than itself. The object makes a normal grapple check. If it wins, it wraps itself around the opponent's head, causing that creature to be blinded until removed.

Constrict (Ex): A flexible animated object such as a rope, vine, or rug deals damage equal to its slam damage value plus 1- 1/2 times its Strength bonus with a successful grapple check against a creature up to one size larger than itself.

An object of at least Large size can make constriction attacks against multiple creatures at once, if they all are at least two sizes smaller than the object and can fit under it.

Hardness (Ex): An animated object has the same hardness it had before it was animated.

Improved Speed (Ex): The base land speed given in the statistics block assume that an animated object lurches, rocks, or slithers along.

Objects with two legs (statues, ladders) or a similar shape that allows faster movement have a +10 foot bonus to speed. Objects with multiple legs (tables, chairs) have a +20 foot bonus to speed. Wheeled objects have a +40 foot bonus to speed.

Objects might have additional modes of movement. A wooden object can float and has a swim speed equal to half its land speed. A rope or similar sinuous object has a climb speed equal to half its land speed. A sheetlike object can fly (clumsy maneuverability) at half its normal speed.

Trample (Ex): An animated object of at least Large size and with a hardness of at least 10 can trample creatures two or more sizes smaller than itself, dealing damage equal to the object's slam damage + 1-1/2 times its Strength bonus. Opponents who do not make attacks of opportunity against the object can attempt Reflex saves (DC 10 + 1/2 object's HD + object's Str modifier) to halve the damage.

The ankheg is a burrowing monster with a taste for fresh meat. An ankheg has six legs, and some specimens are yellow rather than brown. It is about 10 feet long and weighs about 800 pounds.

An ankheg burrows with legs and mandibles. A burrowing ankheg usually does not make a usable tunnel, but can construct a tunnel; it burrows at half speed when it does so. It often digs a winding tunnel up to 40 feet below the surface in the rich soil of forests or farmlands. The tunnel is 5 feet tall and wide, and from 60 to 150 feet long ([1d10 + 5] x10).

COMBAT

An ankheg usually lies 5 to 10 feet below the surface until its antennae detect the approach of prey. It then burrows up to attack. (Treat this as a charge, even though the ankheg does not need to move 10 feet before attacking.)

Clusters of ankhegs share the same territory but do not cooperate.

Improved Grab (Ex): To use this ability, an ankheg must hit with its bite attack. It can then attempt to start a grapple as a free action without provoking an attack of opportunity. If the ankheg is damaged after grabbing its prey, it retreats backward down its tunnel at its land speed (not its burrow speed), dragging the victim with it.

Spit Acid (Ex): 30-ft. line, once every 6 hours; damage 4d4 acid, Reflex DC 14 half. One such attack depletes the ankheg's acid supply for 6 hours. It cannot spit acid or deal acid damage during this time. The save DC is Constitution-based.

An ankheg does not use this ability unless it is desperate or frustrated. It most often spits acid when reduced to fewer than half its full normal hit points or when it has not successfully grabbed an opponent.

An aranea is an intelligent, shapechanging spider with sorcerous powers. In its natural form, an aranea resembles a big spider, with a humpbacked body a little bigger than a human torso. It has fanged mandibles like a normal spider. Two small arms, each about 2 feet long, lie below the mandibles. Each arm has a hand with four many-jointed fingers and a double-jointed thumb.

An aranea weighs about 150 pounds. The hump on its back houses its brain.

--------	----------------	-------------	----------	----------	------

Araneas speak Common and Sylvan.

COMBAT

An aranea avoids physical combat and uses its webs and spells when it can. In a battle, it tries to immobilize or distract the most aggressive opponents first. Araneas often subdue opponents for ransom.

Poison (Ex): Injury, Fortitude DC 13, initial damage 1d6 Str, secondary damage 2d6 Str. The save DC is Constitution-based.

Spells: An aranea casts spells as a 3rd-level sorcerer. It prefers illusions and enchantments and avoids fire spells.

Typical Sorcerer Spells Known (6/6; save DC 12 + spell level): 0-daze, detect magic, ghost sound, light, resistance; 1st-mage armor, silent image, sleep.

Web (Ex): In spider or hybrid form (see below), an aranea can throw a web up to six times per day. This is similar to an attack with a net but has a maximum range of 50 feet, with a range increment of 10 feet, and is effective against targets of up to Large size. The web anchors the target in place, allowing no movement.

An entangled creature can escape with a DC 13 Escape Artist check or burst the web with a DC 17 Strength check. The check DCs are Constitution-based, and the Strength check DC includes a +4 racial bonus. The web has 6 hit points, hardness 0, and takes double damage from fire.

Change Shape (Su): An aranea's natural form is that of a Medium monstrous spider. It can assume two other forms. The first is a unique Small or Medium humanoid; an aranea in its humanoid form always assumes the same appearance and traits, much as a lycanthrope would. In humanoid form, an aranea cannot use its bite attack, webs, or poison.

The second form is a Medium spider-humanoid hybrid. In hybrid form, an aranea looks like a Medium humanoid at first glance, but a DC 18 Spot check reveals the creature's fangs and spinnerets. The aranea retains its bite attack, webs, and poison in this form, and can also wield weapons or wear armor. When in hybrid form, an aranea's speed is 30 feet (6 squares).

An aranea remains in one form until it chooses to assume a new one. A change in form cannot be dispelled, nor does an aranea revert to its natural form when killed. A true seeing spell, however, reveals its natural form if it is in humanoid or hybrid form.

Skills Araneas have a +2 racial bonus on Jump, Listen, and Spot checks. They have a +8 racial bonus on Climb checks and can always choose to take 10 on Climb checks even if rushed or threatened.

ARCHON

Archons are celestials from a lawful good-aligned plane.

Archons speak Celestial, Infernal, and Draconic, but can speak with almost any creature because of their tongues ability.

COMBAT

Archons generally prefer to meet a foe head-on if it is prudent to do so, but if outmatched, they do what they can to even the odds (usually by employing hit-and-run tactics or standing off and engaging a foe with magic before moving into melee).

Archon Traits: An archon possesses the following traits (unless otherwise noted in a creature's entry).

-Darkvision out to 60 feet and low-light vision.

-Aura of Menace (Su): A righteous aura surrounds archons that fight or get angry. Any hostile creature within a 20-foot radius of an archon must succeed on a Will save to resist its effects. The save DC varies with the type of archon, is Charisma-based, and includes a +2 racial bonus. Those who fail take a -2 penalty on attacks, AC, and saves for 24 hours or until they successfully hit the archon that generated the aura. A creature that has resisted or broken the effect cannot be affected again by the same archon's aura for 24 hours.

-Immunity to electricity and petrification.

- +4 racial bonus on saves against poison.

-Magic Circle against Evil (Su): A magic circle against evil effect always surrounds an archon (caster level equals the archon's Hit Dice). (The defensive benefits from the circle are not included in an archon's statistics block.)

-Teleport (Su): Archons can use greater teleport at will, as the spell (caster level 14th), except that the creature can transport only itself and up to 50 pounds of objects.

-Tongues (Su): All archons can speak with any creature that has a language, as though using a tongues spell (caster level 14th). This ability is always active.

Lantern archons appear as floating balls of light that glow about as brightly as a torch. Only their destruction can extinguish the glow, though they can try to hide it.

COMBAT

A lantern archon has little reason to get within melee range. It usually hovers just close enough to bring the enemy within its aura of menace, then blasts away with its light rays. Lantern archons prefer to concentrate on a single opponent, seeking to reduce enemy numbers quickly.

Aura of Menace (Su): Will DC 12 negates.

Light Ray (Ex): A lantern archon's light rays have a range of 30 feet. This attack overcomes damage reduction of any type.

Spell-Like Abilities At will-aid, detect evil, continual flame. Caster level 3rd.

Hound archons look like well-muscled humans with canine heads.

COMBAT

Hound archons prefer to attack with their natural weapons but occasionally use greatswords.

A hound archon's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as good-aligned and lawful-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Spell-Like Abilities At will-aid, continual flame, detect evil, message. Caster level 6th.

Change Shape (Su): A hound archon can assume any canine form of Small to Large size. While in canine form, the hound archon loses its bite, slam, and greatsword attacks, but gains the bite attack of the form it chooses. For the purposes of this ability, canines include any doglike or wolflike animal of the animal type.

Skills *While in canine form, a hound archon gains a +4 circumstance bonus on Hide and Survival checks.

Each Trumpet Archon carries a gleaming silver trumpet about 6 feet long.

COMBAT

A trumpet archon usually disdains physical combat, preferring to obliterate foes with spells quickly and return to its duties. If forced into an extended battle, it sounds its trumpet and attacks with a vengeance.

A trumpet archon's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as good-aligned and lawful-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Spell-Like Abilities At will-detect evil, continual flame, message. Caster level 12th.

Spells: Trumpet archons can cast divine spells as 14th-level clerics. A trumpet archon has access to two of the following domains: Air, Destruction, Good, Law, or War (plus any others from its deity). The save DCs are Wisdom-based.

Typical Cleric Spells Prepared (6/7/7/6/5/4/4/3; DC 13 + spell level): 0-detect magic, light, purify food and drink, read magic, resistance (2); 1st- bless (2), divine favor (2), *protection from chaos, sanctuary, shield of faith; 2nd-*aid, bull's strength (2), consecrate, lesser restoration, owl's wisdom (2); 3rd-daylight, invisibility purge, *magic circle against chaos, magic vestment, protection from energy (2); 4th-dismissal, divine power, *holy smite, neutralize poison, spell immunity; 5th-*dispel evil, mass cure light wounds, plane shift, raise dead; 6th-*blade barrier, banishment, heal, undeath to death; 7th-*dictum, holy word, mass cure serious wounds.

*Domain spell. Domains: Good and Law.

Trumpet (Su): An archon's trumpet produces music of utter clarity, piercing beauty, and, if the trumpet archon wills it, paralyzing awe. All creatures except archons within 100 feet of the blast must succeed on a DC 19 Fortitude save or be paralyzed for 1d4 rounds. The save DC is Charisma-based. The archon can also command its trumpet to become a +4 greatsword as a free action.

If a trumpet is ever stolen, it becomes a chunk of useless metal until the owner can recover it. Woe betide any thief caught with one.

An arrowhawk is a predator and scavenger from the Elemental Plane of Air. By twisting its body and varying the cadence of its wingbeats, an arrowhawk can fly at top speed in any direction. A juvenile arrowhawk (1 to 10 years old) is about 5 feet long from beak to tail, with the body accounting for about one-third of that length. Its wingspan is about 7 feet, and it weighs about 20 pounds. An adult (11 to 40 years old) is about 10 feet long from beak to tail, with a wingspan of about 15 feet and a weight of about 100 pounds. An elder arrowhawk (41 to 75 years old) is about 20 feet long with a wingspan of 30 feet and a weight of about 800 pounds.

Arrowhawks speak Auran, but they are not usually talkative creatures.

COMBAT

Arrowhawks are extremely territorial and always hungry. They attack almost any other creature they meet, seeking a meal or trying to drive away a rival. The primary mode of attack is an electricity ray, fired from the tail. The creature also bites, but it prefers to stay out of reach.

Electricity Ray (Su): An arrowhawk can fire this ray once per round, with a range of 50 feet.

The assassin vine is a semi-mobile plant that collects its own grisly fertilizer by grabbing and crushing animals and depositing the carcasses near its roots.

A mature plant consists of a main vine, about 20 feet long. Smaller vines up to 5 feet long branch off from the main vine about every 6 inches. These small vines bear clusters of leaves, and in late summer they produce bunches of small fruits that resemble wild grapes. The fruit is tough and has a hearty but bitter flavor. Assassin vine berries make a heady wine.

An assassin vine can move about, albeit very slowly, but usually stays put unless it needs to seek prey in a new vicinity.

A subterranean version of the assassin vine grows near hot springs, volcanic vents, and other sources of thermal energy. These plants have thin, wiry stems and gray leaves shot through with silver, brown, and white veins so that they resemble mineral deposits. An assassin vine growing underground usually generates enough offal to support a thriving colony of mushrooms and other fungi, which spring up around the plant and help conceal it.

COMBAT

An assassin vine uses simple tactics:

It lies still until prey comes within reach, then attacks. It uses its entangle ability both to catch prey and to deter counterattacks.

Constrict (Ex): An assassin vine deals 1d6+7 points of damage with a successful grapple check.

Entangle (Su): An assassin vine can animate plants within 30 feet of itself as a free action (Ref DC 13 partial).

The effect lasts until the vine dies or decides to end it (also a free action). The save DC is Wisdom-based. The ability is otherwise similar to entangle (caster level 4th).

Improved Grab (Ex): To use this ability, an assassin vine must hit with its slam attack.

It can then attempt to start a grapple as a free action without provoking an attack of opportunity.

If it wins the grapple check, it establishes a hold and can constrict.

Blindsight (Ex): Assassin vines have no visual organs but can ascertain all foes within 30 feet using sound, scent, and vibration.

Camouflage (Ex): Since an assassin vine looks like a normal plant when at rest, it takes a DC 20 Spot check to notice it before it attacks.

Anyone with ranks in Survival or Knowledge (nature) can use one of those skills instead of Spot to notice the plant. Dwarves can use stonecunning to notice the subterranean version.

Space/Reach	15 ft./15 ft.
Special Attacks	Poison

The athach is a hulking, misshapen biped. An adult stands some 18 feet tall and weighs about 4,500 pounds. Athachs speak a crude dialect of Giant.

COMBAT

Athachs charge into melee combat unless their opponents are out of reach, in which case they throw rocks. They sometimes try to overrun armored opponents to reach unarmored opponents in back ranks. With its first few melee attacks, an athach tends to flail about indiscriminately. After a few rounds, it concentrates on foes that have been hitting it most often and uses its bite on whoever has dealt it the most damage.

Poison (Ex): Injury, Fortitude DC 22, initial damage 1d6 Str, secondary damage 2d6 Str. The save DC is Constitution-based.

An avoral's bones are strong but hollow, so even the largest specimens weigh no more than 120 pounds. An avoral is about 7 feet tall. Each of an avoral's wings has a small hand at the midpoint. When the wings are folded, these appendages are about where human hands would be and can do nearly anything hands can do.

An avoral's visual acuity is virtually unmatched: It can see detail on objects up to 10 miles away and is said to be able to discern the color of a creature's eyes at 200 paces.

Avorals speak Celestial, Infernal, and Draconic, but can speak with almost any creature, thanks to their tongues ability.

COMBAT

On the ground, an avoral can lash out with its wings to deliver punishing blows. However, it prefers to meet its foes in the air, where it can employ its talons and make full use of its aerial speed and agility. It can't make wing attacks while flying, however.

An avoral's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as good-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Spell-Like Abilities At will-aid, blur (self only), command (DC 14), detect magic, dimension door, dispel magic, gust of wind (DC 15), hold person (DC 16), light, magic circle against evil (self only), magic missile, see invisibility; 3/day-lightning bolt (DC 16). Caster level 8th. The save DCs are Charisma-based.

Fear Aura (Su): Once per day an avoral can create an aura of fear in a 20-foot radius. It is otherwise identical with fear from an 8th-level caster (save DC 17). The save DC is Charisma-based.

Lay on Hands (Su): As the paladin class feature, except that each day, an avoral can heal an amount of damage equal to its full normal hit points.

Speak with Animals (Su): This ability works like speak with animals (caster level 8th) but is a free action and does not require sound.

True Seeing (Su): This ability is identical with true seeing (caster level 14th), except that it has personal range and the avoral must concentrate for 1 full round before it takes effect. Thereafter the ability remains in effect as long as the avoral concentrates on it.

Skills: An avoral's sharp eyes give it a +8 racial bonus on Spot checks.

Azers are dwarflike beings native to the Elemental Plane of Fire. They wear kilts of brass, bronze, or copper, and speak Ignan and Common.

COMBAT

Azers use broad-headed spears or well-crafted hammers in combat. When unarmed, they attempt to grapple foes.

Although unfriendly and taciturn, azers rarely provoke a fight except to relieve a foe of gems, which they love. If threatened, they fight to the death, but they see the value of taking prisoners themselves.

Heat (Ex): An azer's body is intensely hot, so its unarmed attacks deal extra fire damage. Its metallic weapons also conduct this heat.

AZERS AS CHARACTERS

Azer characters possess the following racial traits.

- +2 Strength, +2 Dexterity, +2 Constitution, +2 Intelligence, +2 Wisdom, -2 Charisma.

-Medium size.

-An azer's base land speed is 30 feet.

-Darkvision: Azers can see in the dark up to 60 feet.

Adjustment

A barghest is a lupine fiend that can take the shape of a wolf or a goblin. In its natural form, it resembles a goblin–wolf hybrid with terrible jaws and sharp claws. As whelps, barghests are nearly indistinguishable from wolves, except for their size and claws. As they grow larger and stronger, their skin darkens to bluishred and eventually becomes blue altogether.

A full-grown barghest is about 6 feet long and weighs 180 pounds. A barghest’s eyes glow orange when the creature becomes excited.

Barghests speak Goblin, Worg, and Infernal.

COMBAT

Barghests can claw and bite, no matter what their form, and usually disdain weapons. Though they love killing, they have little stomach for direct combat and attack from ambush whenever possible. Barghests start a combat by using crushing despair and charm monster to keep opponents off balance. They try to stay away from the enemy’s main strength.

A barghest’s natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as evil-aligned and lawful-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction. Its natural weapons are treated as magic weapons for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Spell-Like Abilities At will–blink, levitate, misdirection (DC

14), rage (DC 15); 1/day–charm monster (DC 16), crushing despair (DC 16), dimension door: Caster level equals the barghest’s HD.

The save DCs are Charisma-based.

Feed (Su): When a barghest slays a humanoid opponent, it can feed on the corpse, devouring both flesh and life force, as a full-round action. Feeding destroys the victim’s body and prevents any form of raising or resurrection that requires part of the corpse. There is a 50% chance that a wish, miracle, or true resurrection spell can restore a devoured victim to life. Check once for each destroyed creature. If the check fails, the creature cannot be brought back to life by mortal magic.

A barghest advances in Hit Dice by consuming corpses in this fashion. For every three suitable corpses a barghest devours, it gains 1 Hit Die, and its Strength, Constitution, and natural armor increase by +1. Its attack bonus and saves improve as normal for an outsider of its Hit Dice, and it gains skill points, feats, and ability score improvements normally.

The barghest only advances by consuming the corpses of creatures whose Hit Dice or levels are equal to or greater than its own current total. A barghest that reaches 9 Hit Dice through feeding immediately becomes a greater barghest upon completion of the act.

Change Shape (Su): A barghest can assume the shape of a goblin or a wolf as a standard action. In goblin form, a barghest cannot use its natural weapons but can wield weapons and wear armor. In wolf form, a barghest loses its claw attacks but retains its bite attack.

Pass Without Trace (Ex): A barghest in wolf form can use pass without trace (as the spell) as a free action.

Skills: *A barghest in wolf form gains a +4 circumstance bonus on Hide checks.

GREATER BARGHEST

A barghest that reaches 9 Hit Dice through feeding becomes a greater barghest. These creatures can change shape into a goblin-like creature of Large size (about 8 feet tall and 400 pounds) or a dire wolf. In goblin form, a greater barghest cannot use its natural weapons but can wield weapons and wear armor. In dire wolf form, a greater barghest loses its claw attacks but retains its bite attack.

A greater barghest can reach a maximum of 18 Hit Dice through feeding.

Spell-Like Abilities In addition to the spelllike abilities all barghests possess, a greater barghest gains the following abilities. At will–invisibility sphere; 1/day–mass bull’s strength, mass enlarge. Caster level equals the greater barghest’s HD.

COMBAT

Occasionally, a greater barghest uses a magic two-handed weapon in combat instead of its claws, giving it multiple attacks (attack bonus +13/+8). It can also make one bite attack (attack bonus +8) each round. The save DC against a greater barghest’s spell-like abilities is 14 + spell level.

A basilisk is a reptilian monster that petrifies living creatures with a mere gaze. A basilisk usually has a dull brown body with a yellowish underbelly. Some specimens sport a short, curved horn atop the nose. An adult basilisk's body grows to about 6 feet long, not including its tail, which can reach an additional length of 5 to 7 feet. The creature weighs about 300 pounds.

COMBAT

A basilisk relies on its gaze attack, biting only when opponents come within reach. Though it has eight legs, its slow metabolism renders it relatively sluggish, so it does not expend energy unnecessarily. Intruders who flee a basilisk rather than fight can expect, at best, a halfhearted pursuit. These creatures tend to spend most of their time lying in wait for prey, which includes small mammals, birds, reptiles, and similar creatures.

Petrifying Gaze (Su): Turn to stone permanently, range 30 feet;

Fortitude DC 13 negates. The save DC is Charisma-based.

Skills: *The basilisk's dull coloration and its ability to remain motionless for long periods of time grant it a +4 racial bonus on Hide checks in natural settings.

ABYSSAL GREATER BASILISK

COMBAT

The save DC for the abyssal greater basilisk's petrifying gaze (DC 21) is adjusted for its greater Hit Dice and higher Charisma score.

An abyssal greater basilisk's natural weapons are treated as magic weapons for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Smite Good (Su): Once per day an abyssal greater basilisk can make a normal melee attack to deal an extra 18 points of damage against a good foe.

The behir is a serpentine monster that can slither like a snake or use its dozen legs to move with considerable speed. A behir is about 40 feet long and weighs about 4,000 pounds. It can fold its limbs close to its long, narrow body and slither in snake fashion if it desires. The coloration of behirs ranges from ultramarine to deep blue with bands of gray-brown. The belly is pale blue. The two large horns curving back over the head look dangerous but are actually used for preening the creature's scales, not for fighting.

Behirs speak Common.

COMBAT

A behir usually bites and grabs its prey first, then either swallows or constricts the opponent. It can employ its claws only against foes caught in its coils. If beset by a large number of foes, it uses its breath weapon.

Breath Weapon (Su): 20-foot line, once every 10 rounds, damage 7d6 electricity, Reflex DC 19 half. The save DC is Constitution-based.

Constrict (Ex): A behir deals 2d8+8 points of damage with a successful grapple check. It can make six rake attacks against a grappled foe as well.

Improved Grab (Ex): To use this ability, a behir must hit a creature of any size with its bite attack. It can then attempt to start a grapple as a free action without provoking an attack of opportunity.

If it wins the grapple check, it establishes a hold and can attempt to constrict the opponent or swallow the opponent in the following round.

Rake (Ex): Six claws, attack bonus +15 melee, damage 1d4+4.

Swallow Whole (Ex): A behir can try to swallow a grabbed Medium or smaller opponent by making a successful grapple check.

A behir that swallows an opponent can use its Cleave feat to bite and grab another opponent.

A swallowed creature takes 2d8+8 points of bludgeoning damage and 8 points of acid damage per round from the behir's gizzard. A swallowed creature can cut its way out by using a light slashing or piercing weapon to deal 25 points of damage to the gizzard (AC 15). Once the creature exits, muscular action closes the hole; another swallowed opponent must cut its own way out.

A behir's gizzard can hold 2 Medium, 8 Small, 32 Tiny, or 128 Diminutive or smaller opponents.

Skills: Behirs have a +8 racial bonus on Climb checks and can always choose to take 10 on Climb checks, even if rushed or threatened.

Belkers are creatures from the Plane of Air. They are composed primarily of smoke. Although undeniably evil, they are very reclusive and usually have no interest in the affairs of others. A belker's winged shape makes it look distinctly demonic. It is about 7 feet long and weighs about 8 pounds.

Belkers speak Auran.

COMBAT

In most cases, a belker fights with its nasty claws and painful bite.

Smoke Claws (Ex): A belker in smoke form (see below) can engulf opponents by moving on top of them. It fills the air around one Medium or smaller opponent without provoking an attack of opportunity. The target must succeed on a DC 14 Fortitude save or inhale part of the creature. The save DC is Constitution-based. Smoke inside the victim solidifies into a claw and begins to rip at the surrounding organs, dealing 3d4 points of damage per round. An affected creature can attempt another Fortitude save each subsequent round to cough out the semivaporous menace.

Smoke Form (Su): Most of the time a belker is more or less solid, but at will it can assume smoke form. It can switch forms once per round as a free action and can spend up to 20 rounds per day in smoke form. A belker in smoke form can fly at a speed of 50 feet (perfect). The ability is otherwise similar to a gaseous form spell (caster level 7th).

Skills: Belkers have a +4 racial bonus on Move Silently checks.

The blink dog is an intelligent canine that has a limited teleportation ability.

Blink dogs have their own language, a mixture of barks, yaps, whines, and growls that can transmit complex information.

COMBAT

Blink dogs hunt in packs, teleporting in a seemingly random fashion until they surround their prey, allowing some of them to take advantage of flanking.

Blink (Su): A blink dog can use blink as the spell (caster level 8th), and can evoke or end the effect as a free action.

Dimension Door (Su): A blink dog can teleport, as dimension door (caster level 8th), once per round as a free action. The ability affects only the blink dog, which never appears within a solid object and can act immediately after teleporting.

A bodak retains fleeting memories of its past life and can speak Common (or some other humanoid language).

COMBAT

Vulnerability to Sunlight (Ex): Bodaks loathe sunlight, for its merest touch burns their impure flesh. Each round of exposure to the direct rays of the sun deals 1 point of damage to the creature.

In addition to their natural form, bralanis can assume the shape of a whirlwind or zephyr of dust, snow, or sand.

Bralanis speak Celestial, Infernal, and Draconic, but can communicate with almost any creature, thanks to their tongues ability.

COMBAT

Bralanis prefer the scimitar and bow, the weapons of the desert nomads they most closely resemble.

A bralani's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as chaotic-aligned and good-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Spell-Like Abilities At will-blur, charm person (DC 13), gust of wind (DC 14), mirror image, wind wall; 2/day-lightning bolt (DC 15), cure serious wounds (DC 15). Caster level 6th. The save DCs are Charisma-based.

Whirlwind Blast (Su): When in whirlwind form, a bralani can attack with a scouring blast of wind, dealing 3d6 points of damage in a 20-foot line (Reflex DC 16 half). The save DC is Constitution-based.

Alternate Form (Su): A bralani can shift between its humanoid and whirlwind forms as a standard action. In humanoid form, it cannot fly or use its whirlwind blast, but it can use its spell-like abilities and its weapons. In whirlwind form, it can fly, make slam attacks and whirlwind blast attacks, and use spell-like abilities.

A bralani remains in one form until it chooses to assume a new one. A change in form cannot be dispelled, nor does the bralani revert to any particular form when killed. A true seeing spell, however, reveals both forms simultaneously.

Tongues (Su): Bralanis can speak with any creature that has a language, as though using a tongues spell (caster level 14th). This ability is always active.

Also known as the landshark, the bulette is a terrifying predator that lives only to eat.

COMBAT

A bulette attacks anything it regards as edible, choosing the easiest or closest prey first. The only creatures it refuses to eat are elves (and it dislikes the taste of dwarves). When burrowing underground, a landshark relies on its tremorsense ability to detect prey.

When it senses something edible (that is, senses movement), it breaks to the surface, crest first, and begins its attack.

Leap (Ex): A bulette can jump into the air during combat. This allows it to make four claw attacks instead of two, each with a +15 attack bonus, but it cannot bite.

CELESTIAL CREATURE

Celestial creatures dwell on the upper planes, the realms of good, although they resemble beings found on the Material Plane. They are more regal and more beautiful than their earthly counterparts.

Celestial creatures often come in metallic colors (usually silver, gold, or platinum). They can be mistaken for half-celestials, more powerful creatures that are created when a celestial mates with a non-celestial creature.

CREATING A CELESTIAL CREATURE

“Celestial” is an inherited template that can be added to any corporeal animal, aberration, animal, dragon, fey, giant, humanoid, magical beast, monstrous humanoid, plant, or vermin of good or neutral alignment (referred to hereafter as the base creature).

A celestial creature uses all the base creature's statistics and abilities except as noted here. Do not recalculate the creature's Hit Dice, base attack bonus, saves, or skill points if its type changes.

Size and Type: Animals or vermin with this template become magical beasts, but otherwise the creature type is unchanged. Size is unchanged. Celestial creatures encountered on the Material Plane have the extraplanar subtype.

Special Attacks A celestial creature retains all the special attacks of the base creature and also gains the following attack.

Smite Evil (Su): Once per day a celestial creature can make a normal melee attack to deal extra damage equal to its HD (maximum of +20) against an evil foe.

Special Qualities A celestial creature retains all the special qualities of the base creature and also gains the following qualities.

-Darkvision out to 60 feet.

-Damage reduction (see the table below).

-Resistance to acid, cold, and electricity (see the table below).

-Spell resistance equal to HD + 5 (maximum 25).

Hit Dice	Resistance to Acid, Cold, Electricity	Damage Reduction
1–3	5	—
4–7	5	5/magic
8–11	10	5/magic
12 or more	10	10/magic

If the base creature already has one or more of these special qualities, use the better value.

If a celestial creature gains damage reduction, its natural weapons are treated as magic weapons for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Abilities Same as the base creature, but Intelligence is at least 3.

Environment Any good-aligned plane.

Challenge Rating HD 3 or less, as base creature; HD 4 to 7, as base creature +1; HD 8 or more, as base creature +2.

Alignment Always good (any).

Level Adjustment Same as the base creature +2.

Environment	Ever-Changing Chaos of Limbo

The horrific creatures known as chaos beasts have mutable, ever-changing forms. A chaos beast's dimensions vary, but it always weighs about 200 pounds.

Chaos beasts do not speak.

COMBAT

For all its fearsome appearances, whether it has claws, fangs, pincers, tentacles, or spines, a chaos beast does little physical harm. Regardless of form, the creature seems unable to manage more than two attacks per round. Its continual transmutations prevent the coordination needed to do more.

A chaos beast's claw attacks, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as chaotic-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Corporeal Instability (Su): A blow from a chaos beast against a living creature can cause a terrible transformation. The creature must succeed on a DC 15 Fortitude save or become a spongy, amorphous mass. Unless the victim manages to control the effect (see below), its shape melts, flows, writhes, and boils. The save DC is Constitution-based.

An affected creature is unable to hold or use any item. Clothing, armor, rings, and helmets become useless. Large items worn or carried—armor, backpacks, even shirts—hamper more than help, reducing the victim's Dexterity score by 4. Soft or misshapen feet and legs reduce speed to 10 feet or one-quarter normal, whichever is less. Searing pain courses along the nerves, so strong that the victim cannot act coherently. The victim cannot cast spells or use magic items, and it attacks blindly, unable to distinguish friend from foe (-4 penalty on attack rolls and a 50% miss chance, regardless of the attack roll).

Each round the victim spends in an amorphous state causes 1 point of Wisdom drain from mental shock. If the victim's Wisdom score falls to 0, it becomes a chaos beast.

A victim can regain its own shape by taking a standard action to attempt a DC 15 Charisma check (this check DC does not vary for a chaos beast with different Hit Dice or ability scores). A success reestablishes the creature's normal form for 1 minute. On a failure, the victim can still repeat this check each round until successful.

Corporeal instability is not a disease or a curse and so is hard to remove. A shapechange or stoneskin spell does not cure an afflicted creature but fixes its form for the duration of the spell. A restoration, heal, or greater restoration spell removes the affliction (a separate restoration is necessary to restore any drained points of Wisdom).

Immunity to Transformation (Ex): No mortal magic can permanently affect or fix a chaos beast's form. Effects such as polymorphing or petrification force the creature into a new shape, but at the start of its next turn it immediately returns to its mutable form as a free action.

A chimera is about 5 feet tall at the shoulder, nearly 10 feet long, and weighs about 4,000 pounds. A chimera's dragon head might be black, blue, green, red, or white.

Chimeras can speak Draconic but seldom bother to do so, except when toadying to more powerful creatures.

COMBAT

The chimera prefers to surprise prey. It often swoops down from the sky or lies concealed until it charges. The dragon head can loose a breath weapon instead of biting. Several chimeras attack in concert.

Breath Weapon (Su): A chimera's breath weapon depends on the color of its dragon head, as summarized on the table below. Regardless of its type, a chimera's breath weapon is usable once every 1d4 rounds, deals 3d8 points of damage, and allows a DC 17 Reflex save for half damage. The save DC is Constitution-based.

To determine a chimera's head color and breath weapon randomly, roll 1d10 and consult the table below.

1d10	Head Color	Breath Weapon
1–2	Black	40-foot line of acid
3–4	Blue	40-foot line of lightning
5–6	Green	20-foot cone of gas (acid)
7–8	Red	20-foot cone of fire
9–10	White	20-foot cone of cold

Skills: A chimera's three heads give it a +2 racial bonus on Spot and Listen checks.

*In areas of scrubland or brush, a chimera gains a +4 racial bonus on Hide checks.

Carrying Capacity: A light load for a chimera is up to 348 pounds; a medium load, 349-699 pounds, and a heavy load, 700-1,050 pounds.

These vicious little predators lurk underground, grabbing whatever prey happens by. Its hands and feet have spiny pads that help the choker grip almost any surface. The creature weighs about 35 pounds.

Chokers speak Undercommon.

COMBAT

A choker likes to perch near the ceiling, often at intersections, archways, wells, or staircases, and reach down to attack its prey. A choker attacks creatures of almost any size, but prefers lone prey of its size or larger. If one is very hungry, it may attack a group, but it waits to grab the last creature in line.

Constrict (Ex): A choker deals 1d3+3 points of damage with a successful grapple check against a Large or smaller creature. Because it seizes its victim by the neck, a creature in the choker's grasp cannot speak or cast spells with verbal components.

Improved Grab (Ex): To use this ability, a choker must hit a Large or smaller opponent with a tentacle attack. It can then attempt to start a grapple as a free action without provoking an attack of opportunity. If it wins the grapple check, it establishes a hold and can constrict. Chokers receive a +4 racial bonus on grapple checks, which is already included in the statistics block.

Quickness (Su): Although not particularly dexterous, a choker is supernaturally quick. It can take an extra standard action or move action during its turn each round.

Skills: A chokers has a +8 racial bonus on Climb checks and can always choose to take 10 on Climb checks, even if rushed or threatened.

A horrible mix of crustacean, insect, and serpent, the chuul is an abomination that lurks submerged or partially submerged, awaiting intelligent prey to devour. Although amphibious, chuuls are not good swimmers and actually prefer to be on land or in very shallow water when they attack. A chuul is about 8 feet long and weighs 650 pounds.

Chuuls speak Common (or Undercommon, for the underground variety).

COMBAT

A chuul prefers to wait by the shore, submerged in murky water, until it hears nearby prey (in or out of the water) that it can attack with surprise. A chuul grabs with its claws and constricts its foe, then passes the opponent to its paralytic tentacles. It tries to always have one claw free, so if it faces a large number of opponents, it drops a paralyzed or dead victim and continues attempting to grab, constrict, and paralyze the rest.

Constrict (Ex): On a successful grapple check, a chuul deals 3d6+5 points of damage.

Improved Grab (Ex): To use this ability, a chuul must hit with a claw attack. It can then attempt to start a grapple as a free action without provoking an attack of opportunity. If it wins the grapple check, it establishes a hold and can constrict or on its next turn transfer a grabbed opponent to its tentacles.

Paralytic Tentacles (Ex): A chuul can transfer grabbed victims from a claw to its tentacles as a move action. The tentacles grapple with the same strength as the claw but deal no damage. However, they exude a paralytic secretion. Anyone held in the tentacles must succeed on a DC 19 Fortitude save each round on the chuul's turn or be paralyzed for 6 rounds. The save DC is Constitution-based. While held in the tentacles, paralyzed or not, a victim automatically takes 1d8+2 points of damage each round from the creature's mandibles.

Amphibious (Ex): Although chuuls are aquatic, they can survive indefinitely on land.

Skills: A chuul has a +8 racial bonus on any Swim check to perform some special action or avoid a hazard. It can always choose to take 10 on a Swim check, even if distracted or endangered. It can use the run action while swimming, provided it swims in a straight line.

CLOAKER

	Large Aberration
Hit Dice	6d8+18 (45 hp)
Initiative	+7
Speed	10 ft. (2 squares), fly 40 ft. (average)
Armor Class	19 (–1 size, +3 Dex, +7 natural), touch 12, flat-footed 16
Base Attack/Grapple	+4/+13
Attack	Tail slap +8 melee (1d6+5)
Full Attack	Tail slap +8 melee (1d6+5) and bite +3 melee (1d4+2)

When resting or lying in wait, these creatures are almost impossible to distinguish from common black cloaks (the cloaker's ivory claws look very much like bone clasps). Only when it unfurls does the horrific nature of the creature become apparent.

A cloaker has a wingspan of about 8 feet. It weighs about 100 pounds.

Cloakers speak Undercommon.

COMBAT

Cloakers usually lie still, watching and listening for prey. If facing a single opponent, a cloaker uses its engulf attack. Against multiple foes, it lashes with its tail in concert with its moan and shadow shift abilities to reduce the opposition's numbers, then engulfs a survivor. Multiple cloakers usually split up, leaving one or two behind to use special abilities while the rest make melee attacks.

Moan (Ex): A cloaker can emit a dangerous subsonic moan as a standard action. By changing the frequency, the cloaker can cause one of four effects. Cloakers are immune to these sonic, mind-affecting attacks. Unless otherwise specified, a creature that successfully saves against one of these effects cannot be affected by the same moan effect from the same cloaker for 24 hours. All save DCs for moan effects are Charisma-based.

Unnerve: Anyone within a 60-foot spread automatically takes a –2 penalty on attack and damage rolls. Those forced to hear the moan for more than 6 consecutive rounds must succeed on a DC 15 Will save or enter a trance, unable to attack or defend themselves until the moaning stops.

Fear: Anyone within a 30-foot spread must succeed on a DC 15 Will save or become panicked for 2 rounds.

Nausea: Anyone in a 30-foot cone must succeed on a DC 15 Fortitude save or be overcome by nausea and weakness.

Affected characters fall prone and become nauseated for 1d4+1 rounds.

Stupor: A single creature within 30 feet of the cloaker must succeed on a DC 15 Fortitude save or be affected as though by a hold monster spell for 5 rounds. Even after a successful save, the creature must repeat the save if the cloaker uses this effect again.

Engulf (Ex): A cloaker can try to wrap a Medium or smaller creature in its body as a standard action. The cloaker attempts a grapple that does not provoke an attack of opportunity. If it wins the grapple check, it establishes a hold and bites the engulfed victim with a +4 bonus on its attack roll. It can still use its whiplike tail to strike at other targets.

Attacks that hit an engulfing cloaker deal half their damage to the monster and half to the trapped victim.

Shadow Shift (Su): A cloaker can manipulate shadows. This ability is effective only in shadowy areas and has three possible effects.

Obscure Vision: The cloaker gains concealment (20% miss chance) for 1d4 rounds.

Dancing Images: This effect duplicates a mirror image spell (caster level 6th).

Silent Image: This effect duplicates a silent image spell (DC 15, caster level 6th). The save DC is Charisma-based.

A male cockatrice has wattles and a comb, just like a rooster. Females, much rarer than males, differ only in that they have no wattles or comb. A cockatrice weighs about 25 pounds.

COMBAT

A cockatrice fiercely attacks anything that it deems a threat to itself or its lair. Flocks of cockatrices do their utmost to overwhelm and confuse their foes, and sometimes fly directly into their opponents' faces.

Petrification (Su): Creatures hit by a cockatrice's bite attack must succeed on a DC 12 Fortitude save or instantly turn to stone. The save DC is Constitution-based. Cockatrices have immunity to the petrification ability of other cockatrices, but other petrification attacks affect them normally.

A couatl is about 12 feet long, with a wingspan of about 15 feet. It weighs about 1,800 pounds.

Couatls speak Celestial, Common, and Draconic, and also have the power of telepathy (see below).

COMBAT

A couatl uses its detect thoughts ability on any creature that arouses its suspicions. Since it is highly intelligent, a couatl usually casts spells from a distance before closing. If more than one couatl is involved, they discuss their strategy before a battle.

Constrict (Ex): A couatl deals 2d8+6 points of damage with a successful grapple check.

Improved Grab (Ex): To use this ability, a couatl must hit a creature of up to two size categories larger with its bite attack. It can then attempt to start a grapple as a free action without provoking an attack of opportunity. If it wins the grapple check, it establishes a hold and can constrict.

Poison (Ex): Injury, Fortitude DC 16, initial damage 2d4 Str, secondary damage 4d4 Str.

The save DC is Constitution-based.

Psionics (Sp): At will—detect chaos, detect evil, detect good, detect law, detect thoughts (DC 15), invisibility, plane shift (DC 20), polymorph (self only). Effective caster level 9th. The save DCs are Charisma-based.

Spells: A couatl casts spells as a 9th-level sorcerer.

It can choose its spells known from the sorcerer list, the cleric list, and from the lists for the Air, Good, and Law domains. The cleric spells and domain spells are considered arcane spells for a couatl, meaning that the creature does not need a divine focus to cast them.

Typical Spells Known (6/7/7/7/4; save DC 13 + spell level): 0—cure minor wounds, daze, disrupt undead, light, obscuring mist, ray of frost, read magic, resistance; 1st—endure elements, mage armor, protection from chaos, true strike, wind wall; 2nd—cure moderate wounds, eagle's splendor, scorching ray, silence; 3rd—gaseous form, magic circle against evil, summon monster III; 4th—charm monster, freedom of movement.

Ethereal Jaunt (Su): This ability works like the ethereal jaunt spell (caster level 16th).

Telepathy (Su): A couatl can communicate telepathically with any creature within 90 feet that has an Intelligence score. The creature can respond to the couatl if it wishes—no common language is needed.

The darkmantle hangs from a ceiling by a muscular “foot” at the top of its body. It can look like a stalactite, by holding its tentacles stiffly under itself, or like a lump of rock, spreading its tentacles so the membrane between them covers its body. Its shell and skin usually resemble limestone, but a darkmantle can change its color to match almost any type of stony background.

A darkmantle is about 4 feet long from the tips of its tentacles to the top of its head. It weighs about 30 pounds.

COMBAT

A darkmantle attacks by dropping onto its prey and wrapping its tentacles around the opponent’s head. Once attached, it squeezes and tries to suffocate the foe. A darkmantle that misses its initial attack often flies up and tries to drop on the opponent again.

Darkness (Su): Once per day a darkmantle can cause darkness as the darkness spell (caster level 5th). It most often uses this ability just before attacking.

Improved Grab (Ex): To use this ability, a darkmantle must hit a Large or smaller creature with its slam attack. It can then attempt to start a grapple as a free action without provoking an attack of opportunity.

If it wins the grapple check, it attaches to the opponent’s head and can constrict.

Constrict (Ex): A darkmantle deals 1d4+4 points of damage with a successful grapple check.

Blindsight (Ex): A darkmantle can “see” by emitting high-frequency sounds, inaudible to most other creatures, that allows it to ascertain objects and creatures within 90 feet. A silence spell negates this ability and effectively blinds the darkmantle.

Skills: A darkmantle has a +4 racial bonus on Listen and Spot checks.

These bonuses are lost if its blindsight is negated. The creature’s variable coloration gives it a +4 racial bonus on Hide checks.

A delver is about 15 feet long and 10 feet wide. It weighs about 6,000 pounds.

Delvers speak Terran and Undercommon.

COMBAT

A delver prefers to fight from its tunnel, which it uses to protect its flanks while lashing out with its flippers.

A delver expecting trouble may honeycomb an area with tunnels, leaving most closed with layers of stone 1 or 2 inches thick.

The delver can quickly dissolve the stone cover and pop up to attack unexpectedly.

Corrosive Slime (Ex): A delver produces a mucuslike slime that contains a highly corrosive substance. The slime is particularly effective against stone. A delver’s mere touch deals 2d6 points of acid damage to organic creatures or objects. Against metallic creatures or objects, a delver’s slime deals 4d8 points of damage, and against stony creatures (including earth elementals) or objects it deals 8d10 points of damage. A slam attack by a delver leaves a patch of slime that deals 2d6 points of damage on contact and another 2d6 points of damage in each of the next 2 rounds. A large quantity (at least a quart) of water or weak acid, such as vinegar, washes off the slime. An opponent’s armor and clothing dissolve and become useless immediately unless the wearer succeeds on a DC 22 Reflex save. Weapons that strike a delver also dissolve immediately unless the wielder succeeds on a DC 22 Reflex save. A creature attacking a delver with natural weapons takes damage from its slime each time an attack hits unless the creature succeeds on a DC 22 Reflex save. These save DCs are Constitution-based.

Stone Shape (Ex): A delver can alter its slime to temporarily soften stone instead of dissolving it. Once every 10 minutes, a delver can soften and shape up to 25 cubic feet of stone, as a stone shape spell (caster level 15th).

DEMON

Demons are a race of creatures native to chaotic evil-aligned planes. They are ferocity personified and will attack any creature just for the sheer fun of it—even other demons.

Demon Traits: Most demons possess the following traits (unless otherwise noted in a creature’s entry).

–Immunity to electricity and poison.

–Resistance to acid 10, cold 10, and fire 10.

–Summon (Sp): Many demons share the ability to summon others of their kind (the success chance and type of demon summoned are noted in each monster description). Demons are often reluctant to use this power until in obvious peril or extreme circumstances.

–Telepathy.

Except where otherwise noted, demons speak Abyssal, Celestial, and Draconic.

A babau is about 6 feet tall and weighs about 140 pounds.

COMBAT

Babaus are sneaky and sly. They attack the most powerful foe first, hoping to eliminate the true threats quickly and then toy with the rest. When ambushing their opponents, they make excellent use of the combination of multiple attacks and sneak attacks.

A babau's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as chaotic-aligned and evil-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Sneak Attack (Ex): A babau can make a sneak attack like a rogue, dealing an extra 2d6 points of damage whenever a foe is denied his or her Dexterity bonus, or when the babau is flanking.

Spell-Like Abilities At will-darkness, dispel magic, see invisibility, greater teleport (self plus 50 pounds of objects only). Caster level 7th.

Protective Slime (Su): A slimy red jelly coats the babau's skin. Any weapon that touches it takes 1d8 points of acid damage from the corrosive goo, and the weapon's hardness does not reduce this damage. A magic weapon may attempt a DC 18 Reflex save to avoid taking this damage. A creature who strikes the babau with an unarmed attack, unarmed strike, touch spell, or natural weapon takes this damage as well but can negate the damage with a DC 18 Reflex save. The save DCs are Constitution-based.

Summon Demon (Sp): Once per day a babau can attempt to summon 1 babau with a 40% chance of success. This ability is the equivalent of a 3rd-level spell.

Skills: Babaus have a +8 racial bonus on Hide, Listen, Move Silently, and Search checks.

A balor stands about 12 feet tall. Its skin is usually dark red. It weighs about 4,500 pounds.

COMBAT

Balors love to join battle armed with their swords and whips. If they face stiff resistance, they may teleport away to loose a few spell-like effects at the foe.

A balor's +1 flaming whip is a long, flexible weapon with many tails tipped with hooks, spikes, and balls. The weapon deals bludgeoning and slashing damage, in addition to fire damage.

A balor's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as chaotic-aligned and evil-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Death Throes (Ex): When killed, a balor explodes in a blinding flash of light that deals 100 points of damage to anything within 100 feet (Reflex DC 30 half). This explosion automatically destroys any weapons the balor is holding. The save DC is Constitution-based.

Entangle (Ex): A balor's +1 flaming whip entangles foes much like an attack with a net. The whip has 20 hit points. The whip needs no folding. If it hits, the target and the balor immediately make opposed Strength checks; if the balor wins, it drags the target against its flaming body (see below). The target remains anchored against the balor's body until it escapes the whip.

Vorpal Sword (Su): Every balor carries a +1 vorpal longsword that looks like a flame or a bolt of lightning.

Summon Demon (Sp): Once per day a balor can automatically summon 4d10 dretches, 1d4 hezrous, or one nalfeshnee, glabrezu, marilith, or balor. This ability is the equivalent of a 9th-level spell.

Flaming Body (Su): The body of a balor is wreathed in flame. Anyone grappling a balor takes 6d6 points of fire damage each round.

True Seeing (Su): Balors have a continuous true seeing ability, as the spell (caster level 20th).

Skills: Balors have a +8 racial bonus on Listen and Spot checks.

Tactics Round-by-Round

The balor is most effective as a ranged combatant, using its spell-like abilities to attack from a distance.

Prior to combat: Unholy aura.

Round 1: Fire storm or implosion and quickened telekinesis, or summon additional demons. If the balor does not deem itself seriously threatened, it conserves abilities usable only once per day and uses blasphemy instead.

Round 2: Insanity or power word stun.

Round 3: Full melee attack with weapons, including entangle with whip.

Round 4: Teleport or fly away with entangled foe to reestablish range; repeat round 1 and continue.

A balor who wants to drive off or neutralize a party without slaying its foes avoids lethal attacks.

Prior to combat: Unholy aura.

Round 1: Dominate monster.

Round 2: Power word stun.

Round 3: Insanity or telekinesis to incapacitate or repel a dangerous opponent.

Round 4: Teleport or fly away to reestablish range; repeat round 1 and continue.

Bebiliths are enormous, predatory, arachnid demons that hunt other demons. A bebilith has a body the size of a plow horse, with legs spanning more than 14 feet. It weighs more than two tons.

Bebiliths understand but do not speak Abyssal. Their telepathy allows them to communicate silently with one another.

COMBAT

A bebilith attacks any creature it sees. It usually picks one target and concentrates its attacks on that opponent, using its webs to isolate the target from its comrades. Should the bebilith become overwhelmed by tougher opponents, it often attempts to bite one or more of its victims and retreats, allowing its poison to do its work.

A bebilith's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as chaotic-aligned and evil-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Poison (Ex): Injury, Fortitude DC 24, initial damage 1d6 Con, secondary damage 2d6 Con. Bebilith venom is highly perishable, losing its potency and becoming inert, foul-smelling goo almost as soon as it comes into contact with air. The save DC is Constitution-based.

Rend Armor (Ex): If a bebilith hits with both claw attacks, it pulls apart any armor worn by its foe. This attack deals 4d6+18 points of damage to the opponent's armor. Creatures not wearing armor are unaffected by this special attack. Armor reduced to 0 hit points is destroyed. Damaged armor may be repaired with a successful Craft (armorsmithing) check.

Web (Ex): A bebilith can throw a web up to four times per day. This is similar to an attack with a net but has a maximum range of 30 feet, with a range increment of 10 feet. This attack is effective against targets of up to Gargantuan size. The web anchors the target in place, allowing no movement.

An entangled creature can escape with a DC 24 Escape Artist check or burst the web with a DC 24 Strength check. The check DCs are Constitution-based. The web has 14 hit points and hardness 0. There is a 75% chance that the webbing will not burn if any sort of fire is applied to it (check each round).

Plane Shift (Su): This ability affects only the bebilith. It is otherwise similar to the spell (caster level 12th).

Skills: A bebilith has mottled coloration that gives it a +8 racial bonus on Hide checks.

A dretch is about 4 feet tall and weighs about 60 pounds.

Dretches cannot speak but can communicate telepathically.

COMBAT

Dretches are slow, stupid, and not very effective combatants. In one-on-one combat, they rely on their damage reduction to keep them alive. In groups, they depend on sheer numbers to overcome foes and immediately summon other dretches to improve the odds in battle. They flee at the first sign of adversity unless more powerful demons are present to intimidate them into fighting. Dretches' fear of their greater kin is stronger than even their fear of death.

A dretch's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as chaotic-aligned and evil-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Spell-Like Abilities 1/day-scare (DC 12), stinking cloud (DC 13). Caster level 2nd. The save DCs are Charisma-based.

Summon Demon (Sp): Once per day a dretch can attempt to summon another dretch with a 35% chance of success. This ability is the equivalent of a 1st-level spell.

Like succubi, glabrezu tempt victims into ruin, but they lure their prey with power or wealth rather than passion.

Glabrezu have penetrating violet eyes, and their skin color ranges from deep russet to pitch black. A glabrezu stands about 15 feet tall and weighs about 5,500 pounds.

COMBAT

Glabrezu prefer subterfuge to combat. However, if their attempts to entice or deceive fail, these enormous demons attack with a vengeance. They follow a confusion attack with melee attacks, hoping to finish off wounded foes with chaos hammer or unholy blight.

A glabrezu's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as chaotic-aligned and evil-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Improved Grab (Ex): To use this ability, a glabrezu must hit a Medium or smaller opponent with a pincer attack. It can then attempt to start a grapple as a free action without provoking an attack of opportunity.

Spell-Like Abilities At will-chaos hammer (DC 19), confusion (DC 19), dispel magic, mirror image, reverse gravity (DC 22), greater teleport (self plus 50 pounds of objects only), unholy blight (DC 19); 1/day-power word stun. Caster level 14th. The save DCs are Charisma-based.

Once per month, a glabrezu can fulfill a wish for a mortal humanoid. The demon can use this ability to offer a mortal whatever he or she desires-but unless the wish is used to create pain and suffering in the world, the glabrezu demands either terrible evil acts or great sacrifice as compensation.

Summon Demon (Sp): Once per day a glabrezu can attempt to summon 4d10 dretches or 1d2 vrock with a 50% chance of success, or another glabrezu with a 20% chance of success. This ability is the equivalent of a 4th-level spell.

True Seeing (Su): Glabrezu continuously use true seeing as the spell (caster level 14th).

A hezrou can walk both upright and on all fours, but it always fights standing up

A hezrou is about 8 feet tall and weighs about 750 pounds.

COMBAT

Hezrous enjoy melee combat even more than vrocks do. They eagerly press an attack deep into the heart of enemy forces, so their stench can take effect as quickly as possible. They enter most battles by using blasphemy, and follow it with an occasional chaos hammer or unholy blight, depending on the alignment of their opponents.

A hezrou's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as chaotic-aligned and evil-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Improved Grab (Ex): To use this ability, a hezrou must hit with both claw attacks. It can then attempt to start a grapple as a free action without provoking an attack of opportunity.

Spell-Like Abilities At will-chaos hammer (DC 18), greater teleport (self plus 50 pounds of objects only), unholy blight (DC 18); 3/day-blasphemy (DC 21), gaseous form. Caster level 13th. The save DCs are Charisma-based.

Stench (Ex): A hezrou's skin produces a foul-smelling, toxic liquid whenever it fights. Any living creature (except other demons) within 10 feet must succeed on a DC 24 Fortitude save or be nauseated for as long as it remains within the affected area and for 1d4 rounds afterward. Creatures that successfully save are sickened for as long as they remain in the area. A creature that successfully saves cannot be affected again by the same hezrou's stench for 24 hours. A delay poison or neutralize poison spell removes either condition from one creature. Creatures that have immunity to poison are unaffected, and creatures resistant to poison receive their normal bonus on their saving throws.. The save DC is Constitution-based.

Summon Demon (Sp): Once per day a hezrou can attempt to summon 4d10 dretches or another hezrou with a 35% chance of success. This ability is the equivalent of a 4th-level spell.

A marilith usually holds a longsword in each of its six hands and wears many bangles and jewels.

A marilith stands about 9 feet tall and measures about 20 feet from head to tip of tail. It weighs about 4,000 pounds.

COMBAT

Though mariliths thrive on grand strategy and army-level tactics, they love physical combat and never pass up an opportunity to fight. Each of a marilith's six arms can wield a weapon, and the creature gets an additional three weapon attacks with its primary arm. Mariliths seldom rush headlong into battle, however, preferring to hang back and size up the situation first. They always seek to gain the best possible advantage from the local terrain, obstacles, and any vulnerability or weakness in their opponents.

A marilith's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as chaotic-aligned and evil-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Constrict (Ex): A marilith deals 4d6+13 points of damage with a successful grapple check. The constricted creature must succeed on a DC 27 Fortitude save or lose consciousness for as long as it remains in the coils and for 2d4 rounds thereafter. The save DC is Strength-based.

Improved Grab (Ex): To use this ability, a marilith must hit with its tail slap attack. It can then attempt to start a grapple as a free action without provoking an attack of opportunity. If it succeeds on the grapple check, it can constrict.

Spell-Like Abilities At will-align weapon, blade barrier (DC 23), magic weapon, project image (DC 23), polymorph, see invisibility, telekinesis (DC 22), greater teleport (self plus 50 pounds of objects only), unholy aura (DC 25). Feats: In combination with its natural abilities, a marilith's Multiweapon Fighting feat allows it to attack with all its arms at no penalty.

A nalfeshnee can fly despite its small wings.

A nalfeshnee is more than 20 feet tall and weighs 8,000 pounds.

COMBAT

When fulfilling their duties in the underworld, nalfeshnees usually disdain combat as being beneath them. Given the opportunity, they succumb to blood lust and do battle. They disable opponents with their smite ability and slaughter them while they can't fight back.

A nalfeshnee's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as chaotic-aligned and evil-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Smite (Su): Three times per day a nalfeshnee can create a nimbus of unholy light. When the demon triggers the ability, rainbow-colored beams play around its body. One round later they burst in a 60-foot radius. Any creature within this area must succeed on a DC 22 Will save or be dazed for 1d10 rounds as visions of its worst fears hound it. The creature receives its full Dexterity and shield bonuses to AC if attacked but can take no actions. Other demons are immune to this effect. The save DC is Charisma-based.

Spell-Like Abilities At will—call lightning (DC 18), feeblemind (DC 20), greater dispel magic, slow (DC 18), greater teleport (self plus 50 pounds of objects only), unholy aura (DC 23). Caster level 12th. The save DCs are Charisma-based.

Summon Demon (Sp): Twice/day a nalfeshnee can attempt to summon 1d4 vrock, 1d4 hezrou, or one glabrezu with a 50% chance of success, or another nalfeshnee with a 20% chance of success. This ability is the equivalent of a 5th-level spell.

True Seeing (Su): Nalfeshnees continuously use true seeing, as the spell (caster level 14th).

Skills: Nalfeshnees have a +8 racial bonus on Listen and Spot checks.

In its natural form, a quasit stands about 1-1/2 feet tall and weighs about 8 pounds.

Quasits speak Common and Abyssal.

COMBAT

Although quasits thirst for victory and power as other demons do, they are cowards at heart. They typically attack from ambush, using their alternate form ability and invisibility to get within reach, then try to scuttle away. When retreating, they use their cause fear ability to deter pursuit.

A quasit's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as chaotic-aligned and evil-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Poison (Ex): Injury, Fortitude DC 13, initial damage 1d4 Dex, secondary damage 2d4 Dex. The save DC is Constitution-based and includes a +2 racial bonus.

Spell-Like Abilities At will—detect good, detect magic, and invisibility (self only); 1/day—cause fear (as the spell, except that its area is a 30-foot radius from the quasit, save DC 11). Caster level 6th.

The save DCs are Charisma-based.

Once per week a quasit can use commune to ask six questions. The ability otherwise works as the spell (caster level 12th).

Alternate Form (Su): A quasit can assume other forms at will as a standard action. This ability functions as a polymorph spell cast on itself (caster level 12th), except that a quasit does not regain hit points for changing form, and any individual quasit can assume only one or two forms no larger than Medium. Common forms include bat, monstrous centipede, toad, and wolf. A quasit in alternate form loses its poison attack.

A retriever specializes in recovering lost or desired objects, runaway slaves, and enemies and bringing them back to its master. A retriever has a body the size of an ox, with legs spanning more than 14 feet. It weighs about 6,500 pounds.

COMBAT

Retrievers attack with four claws, but their eye rays are far more deadly.

Eye Rays (Su): A retriever's eyes can produce four different magical rays with a range of 100 feet. Each round, it can fire one ray as a free action. A particular ray is usable only once every 4 rounds. A retriever can fire an eye ray in the same round that it makes physical attacks. The save DC for all rays is 18. The save DC is Dexterity-based.

The four eye effects are:

Fire: Deals 12d6 points of fire damage to the target (Reflex half).

Cold: Deals 12d6 points of cold damage to the target (Reflex half).

Electricity: Deals 12d6 points of electricity damage to the target (Reflex half).

Petrification: The target must succeed on a Fortitude save or turn to stone permanently.

Find Target (Sp): When ordered to find an item or a creature, a retriever does so unerringly, as though guided by discern location.

The being giving the order must have seen (or must have an item belonging to) the creature to be found, or must have touched the object to be located. This ability is the equivalent of an 8th-level spell.

Improved Grab (Ex): To use this ability, a retriever must hit with its bite attack. It can then attempt to start a grapple as a free action without provoking an attack of opportunity. If it wins the grapple check, it establishes a hold and grips the opponent fast in its mouth. This is the method by which it usually “retrieves” things.

A succubus is 6 feet tall in its natural form and weighs about 125 pounds.

COMBAT

Succubi are not warriors. They flee combat whenever they can. If forced to fight, they can attack with their claws, but they prefer to turn foes against one another. Succubi use their polymorph ability to assume humanoid guise, and can maintain this deception indefinitely. Their preferred tactic when dealing with heroes is to feign friendship and create an opportunity to be alone with one of them, whereupon the succubus applies her life-draining kiss. Succubi are not above taking on the role of a damsel in distress when encountered within a dungeon.

A succubus's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as chaotic-aligned and evil-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Energy Drain (Su): A succubus drains energy from a mortal it lures into some act of passion, or by simply planting a kiss on the victim. If the target is not willing to be kissed, the succubus must start a grapple, which provokes an attack of opportunity. The succubus's kiss or embrace bestows one negative level. The kiss also has the effect of a suggestion spell, asking the victim to accept another kiss from the succubus. The victim must succeed on a DC 21 Will save to negate the effect of the suggestion. The DC is 21 for the Fortitude save to remove a negative level. These save DCs are Charisma-based.

Spell-Like Abilities At will—charm monster (DC 22), detect good, detect thoughts (DC 20), ethereal jaunt (self + 50 lbs of objects only), polymorph (humanoid form only, no limit on duration), suggestion (DC 21), greater teleport (self + 50 lbs of objects only). Caster level 12th. The save DCs are Charisma-based.

Summon Demon (Sp): Once per day a succubus can attempt to summon 1 vrock with a 30% chance of success. This ability is the equivalent of a 3rd-level spell.

Tongues (Su): A succubus has a permanent tongues ability (as the spell, caster level 12th). Succubi usually use verbal communication with mortals.

Skills: Succubi have a +8 racial bonus on Listen and Spot checks.

*While using her polymorph ability, a succubus gains a +10 circumstance bonus on Disguise checks.

A vrock is about 8 feet tall and weighs about 500 pounds.

COMBAT

Vrocks are vicious fighters who like to fly down into the enemy and cause as much damage as possible. They prance about in battle, taking briefly to the air and bringing their clawed feet into play. Despite their advantage in mobility, the vrock's deep love of battle frequently leads them into melee combats against heavy odds.

A vrock's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as chaotic-aligned and evil-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Dance of Ruin (Su): To use this ability, a group of at least three vrock must join hands in a circle, dancing wildly and chanting.

At the end of 3 rounds of dancing, a wave of crackling energy flashes outward in a 100-foot radius. All creatures except for demons within the radius take 20d6 points of damage (Reflex DC 18 half). Stunning, paralyzing, or slaying one of the vrock stops the dance. The save DC is Charisma-based.

Spell-Like Abilities At will—mirror image, telekinesis (DC 18), greater teleport (self plus 50 pounds of objects only); 1/day—heroism. Caster level 12th. The save DCs are Charisma-based.

Spores (Ex): A vrock can release masses of spores from its body once every 3 rounds as a free action. The spores automatically deal 1d8 points of damage to all creatures adjacent to the vrock. They then penetrate the skin and grow, dealing an additional 1d4 points of damage each round for 10 rounds. At the end of this time, the victim is covered with a tangle of viny growths. (The vines are harmless and wither away in 1d4 days.) A delay poison spell stops the spores' growth for its duration. Bless, neutralize poison, or remove disease kills the spores, as does sprinkling the victim with a vial of holy water.

Stunning Screech (Su): Once per hour a vrock can emit a piercing screech. All creatures except for demons within a 30-foot radius must succeed on a DC 22 Fortitude save or be stunned for 1 round. The save DC is Constitution-based.

Summon Demon (Sp): Once per day a vrock can attempt to summon 2d10 dretches or another vrock with a 35% chance of success. This ability is the equivalent of a 3rd-level spell.

Skills: Vrocks have a +8 racial bonus on Listen and Spot checks.

Derro are afflicted by a form of racial madness, which most often manifests as delusions of grandeur coupled with an overpowering urge to inflict torment on other creatures. Derro are capable of holding their murderous impulses in check for short periods of time in order to cooperate with creatures of other races, but such arrangements rarely last more than a few weeks. Of course, no derro is capable of recognizing that he is out of his mind.

COMBAT

Derro are stealthy and bloodthirsty. They like to carefully arrange cruel traps and deadly ambushes, and strike savagely from hiding. They delight in taking captives who can be tortured to death later, and favor traps and poisons that disable without killing.

Madness (Ex): Derro use their Charisma modifier on Will saves instead of their Wisdom modifier, and have immunity to confusion and insanity effects. A derro cannot be restored to sanity by any means short of a miracle or wish spell.

*The racial madness of the derro provides a +6 bonus to their Charisma scores and a –6 penalty to their Wisdom scores. A derro restored to sanity gains 6 points of Wisdom and loses 6 points of Charisma.

Poison Use (Ex): Derro typically carry 2d4 doses of greenblood oil or Medium monstrous spider venom, applying it to their crossbow bolts. Derro are not at risk of poisoning themselves when handling poison.

Sneak Attack (Ex): Any time a derro's opponent is denied his Dexterity bonus to AC, or if a derro flanks his opponent, he deals an extra 1d6 points of damage. This ability is just like the rogue's sneak attack and subject to the same limitations.

Spell-Like Abilities At will—darkness, ghost sound; 1/day—daze (DC 13), sound burst (DC 15). Caster level 3rd. The save DCs are Charisma-based.

Vulnerability to Sunlight (Ex): A derro takes 1 point of Constitution damage for every hour it is exposed to sunlight, and it dies if its Constitution score reaches 0. Lost Constitution points are recovered at the rate of 1 per every 24-hour period spent underground or otherwise sheltered from the sun.

Skills: Derro have a +4 racial bonus on Hide and Move Silently checks.

The dungeon-dwelling destrachan looks like some bizarre, nonintelligent beast, but it's an incredibly evil and crafty sadist. A destrachan has a pair of complex, three-part ears that it can adjust to be more or less sensitive to various sounds. It is blind, yet hunts with a sense of hearing more precise than most creatures' sight.

From its tubular mouth a destrachan emits carefully focused harmonics, producing sonic energy so powerful it can shatter a stone wall. So skilled is a destrachan at controlling the sounds it emits that it can choose what type of material to affect with its attack.

A destrachan is about 10 feet long from its mouth to the tip of the tail and weighs about 4,000 pounds.

A destrachan speaks no language but understands Common. If a destrachan must communicate, it does so through action.

COMBAT

A destrachan uses its claws only as a last resort or to finish off foes weakened by its sonic attacks. It often enters battle with surprise if possible. It first focuses on destroying metal armor and weapons and then changes to harmonics that disrupt flesh.

Destructive Harmonics (Su): A destrachan can blast sonic energy in a cone up to 80 feet long. It can also use this attack to affect any creatures or objects within a 30-foot radius. It can tune the harmonics of this destructive power to affect different types of targets. All save DCs are Charisma-based.

Flesh: Disrupting tissue & rending bone, this attack deals 4d6 points of damage to all within the area (Reflex DC 15 half).

Nerves: A destrachan can focus its harmonics to knock out foes rather than slay them. This attack deals 6d6 points of nonlethal damage to all within the area (Reflex DC 15 half).

Material: When using this form of harmonics, a destrachan chooses wood, stone, metal, or glass. All objects made of that material within the area must succeed on a DC 15 Fortitude save or shatter. Objects (or portions of objects) that have up to 30 hit points are potentially affected by this attack.

Blindsight (Ex): A destrachan can use hearing to ascertain all foes within 100 feet as a sighted creature would.

Immunities: Destrachans have immunity to gaze attacks, visual effects, illusions, and other attack forms that rely on sight.

Protection from Sonics (Ex): While they can be affected by loud noises and sonic spells (such as ghost sound or silence), destrachans are less vulnerable to sonic attacks (+4 circumstance bonus on all saves) because they can protect their ears. A destrachan whose sense of hearing is impaired is effectively blinded, and all targets are treated as having total concealment.

Skills: A destrachan has a +10 racial bonus on Listen checks.

DEVIL

Devils are fiends from lawful evil-aligned planes.

Many devils are surrounded by a fear aura, which they use to break up powerful groups and defeat opponents piecemeal. Devils with spell-like abilities use their illusion abilities to delude and confuse foes as much as possible. A favorite trick is to create illusory reinforcements; enemies can never be entirely sure if a threat is only a figment or real summoned devils joining the fray.

Devil Traits: Most devils possess the following traits (unless otherwise noted in a creature's entry).

–Immunity to fire and poison.

–Resistance to acid 10 and cold 10.

–See in Darkness (Su): Some devils can see perfectly in darkness of any kind, even that created by a deeper darkness spell.

–Summon (Sp): Some devils share the ability to summon others of their kind (the success chance and type of devils summoned are noted in each monster description).

–Telepathy.

Except when otherwise noted, devils speak Infernal, Celestial, and Draconic.

A barbed devil is about 7 feet tall and weighs about 300 pounds.

COMBAT

Barbed devils eagerly fight with their claws, trying to impale their opponents. They use hold person to immobilize those who avoid their hug attacks.

A barbed devil's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as evil-aligned and lawful-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Fear (Su): A creature hit by a barbed devil must succeed on a DC 20 Will save or be affected as though by fear (caster level 9th).

Whether or not the save is successful, that creature cannot be affected by that same barbed devil's fear ability for 24 hours. The save DC is Charisma-based.

Impale (Ex): A barbed devil deals 3d8+9 points of piercing damage to a grabbed opponent with a successful grapple check.

Improved Grab (Ex): To use this ability, a barbed devil must hit with a claw attack. It can then attempt to start a grapple as a free action without provoking an attack of opportunity. If it wins the grapple check, it establishes a hold and can impale the opponent on its barbed body.

Summon Devil (Sp): Once per day a barbed devil can attempt to summon 1d6 bearded devils or another barbed devil with a 35% chance of success. This ability is the equivalent of a 4th-level spell.

Barbed Defense (Su): Any creature striking a barbed devil with handheld weapons or natural weapons takes 1d8+6 points of piercing and slashing damage from the devil's barbs. Note that weapons with exceptional reach, such as longswords, do not endanger their users in this way.

Spell-Like Abilities At will—greater teleport (self plus 50 pounds of objects only), hold person (DC 16), major image (DC 17), scorching ray (2 rays only), 1/day—order's wrath (DC 18), unholy blight (DC 18). Caster level 12th. The save DCs are Charisma-based.

BEARDED DEVIL (BARBAZU)

	Medium Outsider (Evil, Extraplanar, Lawful)
Hit Dice	6d8+18 (45 hp)
Initiative	+6
Speed	40 ft. (8 squares)
Armor Class	19 (+2 Dex, +7 natural) touch 12, flat-footed 17
Base Attack/Grapple	+6/+8
Attack	Glaive +9 melee (1d10+3 plus infernal wound) or claw +8 melee (1d6+2)

Every bearded devil carries a sawtoothed glaive.

A bearded devil stands 6 feet tall and weighs about 225 pounds.

COMBAT

Bearded devils are aggressive and love to fight. They revel in their battle frenzy, spreading mayhem among their foes.

A bearded devil's natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as evil-aligned and lawful-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Spell-Like Abilities At will—greater teleport (self plus 50 pounds of objects only). Caster level 12th.

Infernal Wound (Su): The damage a bearded devil deals with its glaive causes a persistent wound. An injured creature loses 2 additional hit points each round. The wound does not heal naturally and resists healing spells. The continuing hit point loss can be stopped by a DC 16 Heal check, a cure spell, or a heal spell. However, a character attempting to cast a cure spell or a heal spell on a creature damaged by a bearded devil's glaive must succeed on a DC 16 caster level check, or the spell has no effect on the injured character.

A successful Heal check automatically stops the continuing hit point loss as well as restoring hit points. The infernal wound is a supernatural ability of the bearded devil, not of the weapon. The check DC is Constitution-based.

Beard (Ex): If a bearded devil hits a single opponent with both claw attacks, it automatically hits with its beard. The affected creature takes 1d8+2 points of damage and must succeed on a DC 16 Fortitude save or be infected with a vile disease known as devil chills (incubation period 1d4 days, damage 1d4 Str). Damage is dealt each day until the afflicted creature succeeds on three consecutive Fortitude saves, the disease is cured magically, or the creature dies. The save DC is Constitution-based.

Battle Frenzy (Ex): Twice per day, a bearded devil can work itself into a battle frenzy similar to the barbarian's rage (+4 Strength, +4 Constitution, +2 morale bonus on Will saves, -2 AC penalty). The frenzy lasts for 6 rounds, and the bearded devil suffers no ill effects afterward.

Summon Devil (Sp): Once per day a bearded devil can attempt to summon 2d10 lemures with a 50% chance of success, or another bearded devil with a 35% chance of success. This ability is the equivalent of a 3rd-level spell.

Kytons are humanlike devils, wrapped in chains instead of clothing. A chain devil is 6 feet tall and weighs about 300 pounds, chains included.

Chain devils speak Infernal and Common.

COMBAT

A chain devil attacks by flailing away with the spiked chains that serve as its clothing, armor, and weapons.

A chain devil’s natural weapons, as well as any weapons it wields, are treated as evil-aligned and lawful-aligned for the purpose of overcoming damage reduction.

Dancing Chains (Su): A chain devil’s most awesome attack is its ability to control up to four chains within 20 feet as a standard action, making the chains dance or move as it wishes. In addition, a chain devil can increase these chains’ length by up to 15 feet and cause them to sprout razor-edged barbs. These chains attack as effectively as the devil itself. If a chain is in another creature’s possession, the creature can attempt a DC 15 Will save to break the chain devil’s power over that chain. If the save is successful, the kyton cannot attempt to control that particular chain again for 24 hours or until the chain leaves the creature’s possession. The save DC is Charisma-based.

A chain devil can climb chains it controls at its normal speed without making Climb checks.

Unnerving Gaze (Su): Range 30 ft., Will DC 15 negates. A chain devil can make its face resemble one of an opponent’s departed loved ones or bitter enemies. Those who fail their saves take a –2 penalty on attack rolls for 1d3 rounds. The save DC is Charisma-based.

Regeneration (Ex): Chain devils take normal damage from silvered weapons, good-aligned weapons, and spells or effects with the good descriptor. A chain devil that loses a piece of its body regrows it in 2d6x10 minutes. Holding the severed member against the stump enables it to reattach instantly.

Skills: Chain devils have a +8 racial bonus on Craft checks involving metalwork.

An erinyes can hurl its rope 30 feet with no range penalty. Typically, an erinyes entangles a foe, lifts it into the air, and drops it from a great height.
